THREE RUSSIAN ARMY CORPS ANNIHILATED IN BATTLE AT ALLENSTEIN, SAYS BERLIN

70,000 MADE CAPTIVES BY THE GERMANS

Two Commanding Generals Among Those Captured on the Field.

Russians Report "Crushing Defeat" of Austrians in Galicia.

Twenty Thousand Are Said to Have Been Killed By Czar's Troops.

Washington, Sept. 1.—A German victory at Allenstein in which three Russian army corps were defeated and 70,000 prisoners, including two Russian commanding generals, were taken, was reported today to the German embassy from Berlin by wireless via Sayville, L. I. The dispatch says:

"Official report of the victory at Allenstein shows that it was even greater than known before. Three Russian army corps were annihilated. Seventy thousand prisoners were taken, including two commanding generals, 300 officers and the complete artillery of the Russian army.

TWO AUSTRIAN DEFEATS.

London, Sept. 1, 1:46 a. m.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Rome declares that news has been received there from Bucharest, Roumania, setting forth that the Russians have inflicted a crushing defeat on the Austrians in Galicia. The Russians inflicted a loss of 20,000 on the enemy, who sought to cross the Vistula.

Montenegrins Win Fight.

London, Sept. 1, 8:10 a. m.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Cettinje states that the Austrians, supported by the Cattaro batteries and their fleet, on Sunday reattacked Mount Lovchen and Budua. The Montenegrin positions were being seriously damaged when the English and French fleet appeared, silenced the batteries and forced the Austrian ships to retreat.

The Montenegrins, under Prince Peter, immediately began a counter attack on the Austrian forces and repulsed them. They killed 460 men and took many prisoners.

HOLD PRIMARY IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 1.—A statewide primary election is being held in Wisconsin today for the selection of party nominees for United States senator, state and county officers and congressmen. The polls in Milwaukee opened at 6 o'clock and will close at 8 o'clock tonight.

The spirited contests are between the Republicans and Democrats for the nominations for United States senator and the heads of state tickets. The weather in Milwaukee, early, was cloudy and warm. The early vote was light.

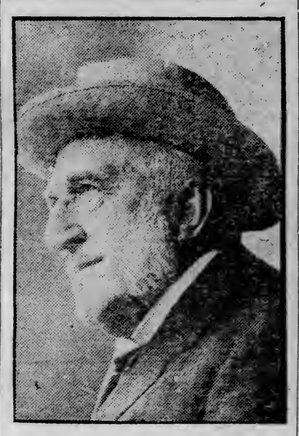

Some Close Races.

A general canvass of the state seems to indicate that Governor McGovern, Levi H. Bancroft and Thomas Morris will run a close race for United States senator, though three others—Timothy Burke, Charles E. Estabrook and John Strange—are seeking the nomination. The last three have not made as active canvasses as the former.

For the gubernatorial nomination, the names of A. H. Dahl, La Follette candidate, W. H. Hatton, also a La

GERMANS ARE REAL FRIENDS

Declaration Is Made By Mrs. Benjamin Harrison and Others.

New York, Sept. 1.—The friendship of the German people for Americans is deep-seated, and took concrete form in many acts of kindness during the early days of the great European conflict, according to Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of the former president, who reached New York on the steamer Ryndam from Rotterdam.

Mrs. Harrison and twenty-four other American refugees who were in Germany at the outbreak of hostilities drew up a statement embodying their views before the Ryndam reached port. Among the signers were Prof. Harry H. Love of Cornell university and Prof. Carl D. Fehr of Lafayette college.

"As Americans returning from Germany," the statement read, "we feel it our duty as citizens of a friendly country to set forth the truth concerning our treatment in Germany, and to contradict any false impressions that may now be current."

ENGLAND TAKES BIG WIRELESS STATIONS

New York, Sept. 1.—The British government has commandeered the three high-powered wireless telegraph stations at Poldhu, Towym and Carnarvon, Wales, and has made an emergency war ruling that no merchant vessels may send wireless messages while within three miles of the English coast, according to information received here by E. J. Nally, vice president and general manager of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company.

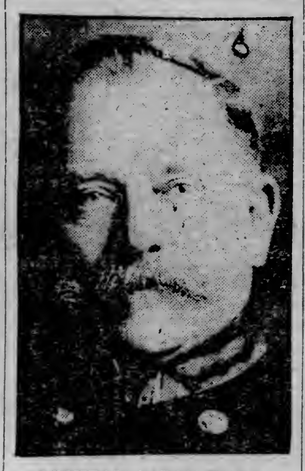

These stations, completed only a short time ago, were to have been opened to the public today, the American stations in the circuit being at Belmar and New Brunswick, N. J.

Send Orders 3,000 Miles.

The control of these wireless plants in Wales, Mr. Nally said, would enable the British admiralty to keep in constant communication with its navy vessels anywhere within a radius of 3,000 miles. He said he had been informed also that the British government had demanded the exclusive service of 150 Marconi wireless operators employed at Welsh stations, for assignment at government-controlled plants and aboard British battleships.

It was assumed here that the order forbidding merchant vessels from sending wireless messages while close to the English coast was issued to avoid the possibility of confusion with official messages in transmission.

IS TO BE HEAD OF U. S. RED CROSS IN THE WAR

ADMIRAL AARON WARD, U. S. N. (RETIRED).

Washington, Sept. 1.—The Red Cross here has accepted an offer from Admiral Aaron Ward, retired, saying that he will take charge of the work of the American Red Cross in the European war. The American Red Cross made ambitious plans for relief work and called for funds for the purpose.

BEGIN VOTING ON NEW POPE

Rome, Sept. 1.—The doors of the conclave hall behind which the college of cardinals gathered last night to elect a successor to the late Pope Pius X, still were closed this morning. Not until a new pope has been chosen will they be opened, or any news of the result of the proceedings be given out.

Behind the portals the cardinals last night prayed for inspiration to enable them to choose a pope who would fulfill the requirements of his high office, both from the standpoint of the church and that of humanity.

Streets Are Patrolled.

Owing to a persistent rain there were few people this morning in the square outside St. Peter's. The streets in this vicinity are patrolled by police, and detachments of troops are kept in readiness for any demonstration.

At 7:30 o'clock last evening, Cardinal Della Volpe, the papal chamberlain, closed the inside door to the conclave hall. Outside stood the governor and marshal of the conclave. All the telephone wires leading into the edifice

THREE PARTIES VOTE IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

Concord, N. H., Sept. 1.—A moderately heavy Democratic and Republican vote was expected at the state-wide primaries today. The Progressive candidates for the highest offices were unopposed.

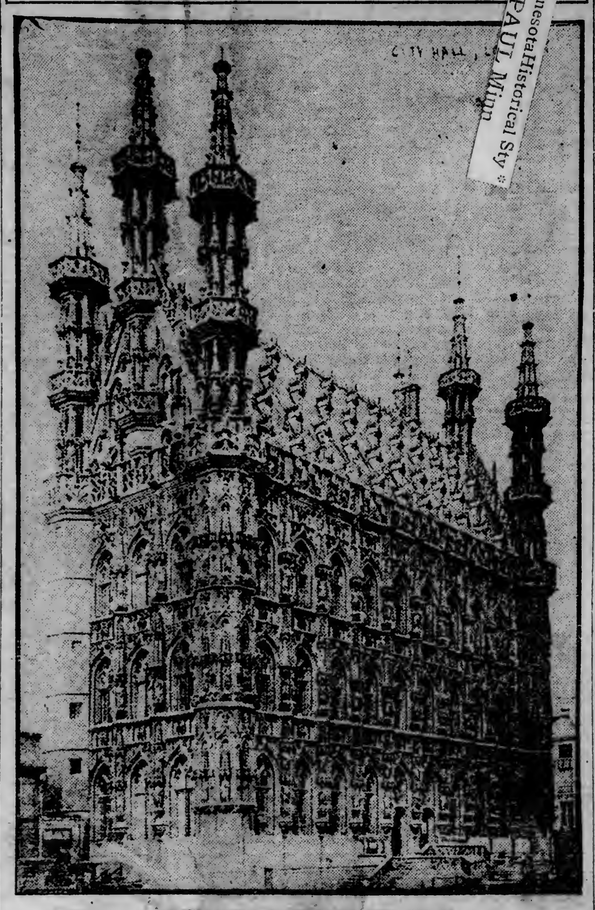

This is the first time the voters of New Hampshire have nominated candidates for United States senator by direct vote. Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, Republican, was unopposed for renomination. For the Democratic nomination there was a three cornered contest by Congressman Raymond B. Steevers of Landaff, Mayor William H. Barry of Nashua, and Calvin Page of Portsmouth.

Rosecrans W. Pillsbury of Londonderry seeks the Republican nomination for governor, being opposed by Roland H. Spaulding of Rochester.

The Democratic candidates are State Senator John C. Hutchins of Stratford, and Councillor Albert W. Noon of Peterboro.

ONE OF THE STRUCTURES DESTROYED BY GERMANS

CITY HALL, LOUVAIN, BELGIUM.

London, Sept. 1.—The quaint old city hall of Louvain has been destroyed by the Germans. Because of what they claim was a "perfidious" attack on them by civilians of the city, the Germans bombarded and destroyed it.

NEWS OF THE WAR AS PASSED BY THE CENSORSHIP BOARDS

The absence of news concerning the progress of the European war is today most marked. Not since the early days of August, when military operations first took serious form, has there been such a dearth of intelligence, official or otherwise. It is evident that there is a concerted effort on the part of both the English and the French authorities to keep the world at large in absolute ignorance of what is happening in Northern France.

No official statements have been issued in London, Paris or Berlin, and such news as has come to hand is decidedly fragmentary, unsubstantiated, of minor importance and without real significance.

This veil of secrecy may be taken as an indication that events of importance are transpiring in Northern France.

The latest official report on the situation north of Paris was issued last night. It said that the French left, owing to the progress of the German right wing, had been forced to "mark a new retirement." Explaining this announcement, the French embassy in London today said:

"The Anglo-French army corps have had to give ground, but nowhere have they had been broken through."

Today is the anniversary of the Battle of Sedan, which was fought with disastrous results to the French in 1870. This coincidence draws particular attention to the outcome of the present operations.

Reports of activities along the Russian line continue conflicting. Both St. Petersburg and Berlin claim important victories.

The fighting today, in which the allies are believed to be opposing the German advance, is thought to be centered around Lafere, a strongly fortified French position on the River Oise, seventy-five miles northeast of Paris. The fate of the French capital may hang on the outcome of these operations.

It is not definitely known whether the British troops in France have been engaged again or not.

silles, and probably is still in progress. No details are given, nor has this report been received from any other source. Croisilles is ten miles southeast of Arras, in the department of Pas de Calais, and is about fifteen miles from Cambrai.

Persons reaching Paris from the north describe the preparations of the allies for a defensive fight. A Frenchman who reached the capital today says there are no Germans in Lille, Roubaix or Tourcoing, a group of towns near the Belgian frontier which were occupied by the Germans last week.

Rome has received a report from Roumania that the Russians have inflicted a crushing defeat on Austrians in Galicia, the troops of Emperor Francis Joseph suffering losses declared to amount to 20,000. A news dispatch from St. Petersburg makes a similar claim, saying the Austrians in Poland have lost tens of thousands of men.

By imperial order, the city of St. Petersburg will henceforth be Petrograd, the change eliminating the Teuton construction in the name of the chief city of Russia.

An official communication given out at Antwerp says the situation throughout Belgium is satisfactory. The Germans are declared to have evacuated Aerschot, and railroad communication has been restored in the Campine country.

Refugees from Brussels say food there is getting scarce, and declare the German garrison today numbers not more than 10,000 men. German sentinels are posted at all the public buildings.

A news dispatch from The Hague says the four richest men of Belgium have guaranteed the payment to Germany of the war tax of $40,000,000 levied against the Belgian capital.

News dispatches published in London say that the people of Berlin, alarmed at the Russian advance, are beginning to leave the capital for neutral countries.

FRANCE CALLS OUT ALL REMAINING RESERVISTS

Paris, Sept. 1, 4:25 p. m.—Official announcement was made this afternoon to the effect that the minister of war has decided to call out immediately all the reservists in the country who have not been previously summoned to the colors.

BELGIANS RECEIVED BY ENGLISH RULER

London, Sept. 1, 11:15 a. m.—The members of the Belgian commission which is on its way to the United States to protest against alleged German atrocities in the war zone were received by King George in Buckingham palace today. The members of the commission were accompanied by Count de Lalaing, the Belgian minister to Great Britain.

The commissioners arrived in London last night from Antwerp. They expect to leave for Washington in a few days.

HAMMOND WILL BE IN STATE SEPT. 28

Predicts Adjournment of Congress on Oct. 1; Plans Busy Campaign.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Congressman W. S. Hammond, Democratic nominee for governor, will return to Minnesota Sept. 28 to open his campaign. He will spend the time between then and the election in the state.

These announcements were made by the state committee today after the receipt of a telegram from the congressman, who predicts congress will adjourn Oct. 1. He says he feels justified in staying on the job because of the many congratulatory letters he has received from citizens on this subject.

ENGLISH INFANTRY MADE PRISONERS BY GERMANS

France Claims Positive Successes in the Vosges Mountains and in Lorraine---Germans "in Retreat."

Both Sides Claim Victories in Galicia---Emperor William's Reported Journey to Eastern Frontier Not Confirmed.

Washington, Sept. 1.—A wireless from Berlin to the German embassy here via Sayville, L. I., says:

"Gen. von Buelow completely defeated a superior French force near St. Quentin after having captured the English infantry. A battalion under Gen. von Hausen forced back the French upon the River Rethel.

"The duke of Wurtemburg crossed the Meuse river also advancing upon Aisne. The crown prince advanced beyond the Meuse after capturing the entire garrison of Montmedy, which tried a sortie. The fortress also was captured.

"The crown prince of Bavaria and Gen. von Heeringen have been in continuous battle in French Lorraine.

"Today, Sedan day, was celebrated here with jubilation because of the victorious news which arrived from the east and west last night.

The Brazilian millitary attache at Berlin writes that the German victory did not come as a surprise to those who witnessed their maneuvers in peace and declares that the effect of the Krupp heavy artillery is astonishing.

"The Times correspondent at Amiens reports that the 'Germans came over us like a flood raised by a storm.' During the first month of the war more than 2,000,000 German volunteers came forward. The chief of the German sanitary department officially declared there are many proofs that the English and French are using dum-dum cartridges.

TREMENDOUS LOSSES BY THE GERMANS ARE ALLEGED

London, Sept. 1, 1:37 p. m.—Today on the eve of the anniversary of the capitulation of Sedan, 3,000,000 troops are battling on the French frontier—the Germans in a headlong effort to celebrate the day with a dramatic success; the French, backed by their British allies, to avenge their defeat of forty-four years ago.

That the Germans have gained ground in their encircling movement on the French left wing is admitted by the French foreign office, but it is asserted also that after three days' battle in this region the Anglo-French line, although pushed back, still remains unbroken.

This is described as the "wearing down" policy on the part of the allied armies, and it is claimed that the losses of the attacking forces have been enormously greater than have those of the defenders.

NO FRENCH REPORTS.

French reports are not available thus far, and nothing is reaching the public in London to enable even admitted experts to form an opinion of their real value.

The heaviest fighting appears to be taking place along a line from Peronne, in the department of Somme, to Vervins, in the department of Aisne. There the flower of Emperor William's army is trying to pierce the British defense.

Farther to the east the forces of the German crown prince still are attacking the French in the region about Mezieres, the capital of the department of Ardennes.

The only points where the French claim to have gained positive successes are in the Vosges mountains and in Lorraine, where the Germans are said to be in retreat.

Kaiser's Move Unconfirmed.

The statement that Emperor William has gone to the Russian frontier cannot as yet be confirmed.

Independent views of the fierce fighting now going on in East Prussia and in Galicia are entirely lacking, so it is a case of one taking his choice between the German, Austrian and Russian versions of the battles.

Anxiety of friends of Millicent, duchess of Sutherland, was allayed this afternoon by the receipt of a dispatch from James W. Gerard, the American ambassador at Berlin, who telegraphed that he had definitely ascertained that the duchess and her whole ambulance staff were all well and working at Namur.

Censorship Tightened.

"London—Censorship was suddenly tightened at noon, without warning. Numerous dispatches relating to operations in France and Belgium were held up by the government's orders."

"Foregoing dispatch is highly significant.

LIVES OF 300 ENDANGERED BY FIRE ON LAKE MICHIGAN

Excursion Steamer City of Chicago Is Rushed to Shore.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—The lives of 300 passengers of the excursion boat City of Chicago, which caught fire about twelve miles out from this harbor in Lake Michigan at 5 o'clock this morning, were saved by the resourcefulness of Capt. Oscar Bjork.

His wireless failed to work. Capt. Bjork ordered the engines set full speed ahead, and forty-five minutes later the big boat, with a carrying capacity of 2,600 passengers, sunk her bow into the government pier and was wedged fast.

All through the ordeal the officers and crew stuck to their posts, although the stokers and enginemen were choking with smoke and the flames were bursting from the upper works.

Let Passengers Sleep.

To avoid panic, the passengers, nearly all of whom were asleep in their cabins, were not notified to come on deck until the pier was dimly visible through the morning mist.

"Women and children first," ordered Capt. Bjork, and the men passengers,

HAS COPY OF THE OFFICIAL PLANS OF GERMAN ATTACK

R. H. Jefferson of Bingham Lake, Minn., and a former well known pioneer resident of Duluth, has in his possession plans prepared by Germany years ago for the invasion of France should war break out between the two countries, according to a letter received from him yesterday by Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, a close personal friend.

Mr. Jefferson writes that the plans were left with him for safe keeping by a professed German deserter who later died in Alaska. The writer's version of the German's story is that the plans were copied by a cousin who was employed by the chief of staff of the German army, the intention being to sell them for a big price in the event of war.

Commissioner Merritt states that he has known Mr. Jefferson since they were boys together in Duluth in the days before the Civil war. Both served in the Federal army and have continued their friendship. The commissioner says that he places implicit confidence in his friend and that he hasn't the slightest doubt but what Mr. Jefferson has the plans as set forth by him. Mr. Jefferson lived here for many years and will be remembered by many of the older residents of the city. Since leaving here he has served in the state legislature.

Mr. Jefferson's Story.

The story as told by Mr. Jefferson is as follows:

"About ten years ago a German came to Bingham Lake, with whom I became very well acquainted. He professed to be a deserter from the German army and said he had a cousin who was a clerk at the headquarters of the German army, and as he wrote a beautiful hand, had been employed in copying a plan which had been drawn up by the chief of the staff. This was a complete outline of the disposition of the troops in case of an attack on France. These plans he had given to his cousin with the understanding that he should immediately desert and, escape to America with them. This arrangement had been duly carried out.

"When this German went to Alaska a little later, he left these papers with me for safe-keeping, saying that if war broke out between Germany and France, he would be able to sell the plan to France for a large sum of money. I heard from my friend occasionally, but at last had word that he had contracted smallpox and died in the Far North.

"Later I looked over the papers and I found that they are what the German had claimed. It appears that the government had a complete knowledge of the country in Belgium and France. They knew every depression, every river and creek; they knew where to build bridges and, in fact, had an exact topographical map.

"The general plan was for an army of invasion consisting of over 1,000,000 men, divided into seven divisions, and their route was mapped out through Belgium and France. Each division was to consist of 150,000 soldiers, with artillery, cavalry and infantry to make a complete army in itself.

German "Traps."

"It was contemplated that there should be 100,000 men in front with a reserve of 50,000 men, in each army, with an interval of ten miles between these divisions. These intervals were to be occupied by cavalry, light artillery and some infantry, and in case the enemy penetrated these intervals, these forces were to fall back and when the proper time came, the enemy's lines were to be attacked by the reserve of the division on the right and of the division on the left, which would consist of a force of 100,000 men.

"They trusted that these intervals would act as traps and after they should have made several successful attacks upon the troops attempting to enter these traps they believed the enemy would be very cautious about doing so, and thus the Germans could safely widen the distance between the divisions as they advanced into the enemy's country.

"Their idea was that if they met with any fortified places they would invest them and make a pretense of attacking, but really pass by, leaving sufficient force intrenched so they could hold the garrisons of such fortified places defending them. They would leave about the same number of men on watch, thoroughly entrenching their position. If the enemy chose to attack, well and good, but they themselves had no intention of assaulting entrenched works.

"These were the tactics to be used, although they were an army of invasion, yet when they came upon the enemy they were to allow the latter to do the attacking and act on the defense themselves, simply throwing their forces to the right or left of the opposing army, causing them to fall back by threatening their lines of communication.

"It was not considered possible that Belgium would make as much resistance as she has, to the crossing of her territory, but nevertheless they had a course thoroughly marked out for such a contingency.

"If these are to be the tactics used by the Germans in this struggle that is approaching, it is absurd to talk about decisive battles. It will be simply a matter of flanking and entrenching, and that army which is able to extend its lines furthest and successfully defend its own entrenched lines will win this combat. The garrisons of these fortified places which are invested and passed by would become prisoners of war.

"The defense is exactly like the attack."

R. N. Williams Takes Tennis Championship From California Crack.

Newport, Sept. 1.—R. Norris Williams, 2nd, of Philadelphia and Harvard, won the national lawn tennis championship in singles from Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco, the title holder, in straight sets today. The score was 6-3, 8-6, 10-8.

In overcoming the champion Williams reached his highest form of tennis. Although the match was fought through three long sets, the Philadelphian commanded the situation at all times. His service was superior to McLoughlin's, his returns marvelously sure, and the usual slump which developed in his former matches did not appear during today's play. On the other hand McLoughlin seemed to have gone stale and except for a rally in the last set did not display his usual dash. His errors were frequent and although he pulled off his service aces occasionally his drives were handled in fine shape by Williams.

The overturn was totally unexpected as McLoughlin had been an almost prohibitive favorite for the match and the retention of the title.

In the opening set the first four games alternated on the service. Then Williams broke through and captured McLoughlin's service on errors by the champion and soon ran out the set, the score being 6-3.

Williams had the second set 3 games to love, when McLoughlin dashed in and evened the score. The games were quickly played, very few going to deuce and after McLoughlin had made it six all, Williams won the set.

The third and last set was fiercely contested. Williams obtained a commanding lead, but McLoughlin squared the set in the twelfth game. In the fourteenth Williams was within one point of the match but could not pull it off. In the sixteenth game McLoughlin was also within a couple of points of landing the set when errors gave Williams the game and again the set was even. The Philadelphian then jumped in and took the next two games and set.

from the leading modistes of Paris—Georgette, Varon, Lewis, Madeleine and many others—together with adaptations by our own artists, are now ready.

Particularly notable is the diversity of choice—ranging from one extreme in the broad flat style to another in the snug chic turban with tall, erect trimmings.

Each bears its feature of new style, such as a gold or silver rose, a bit of monkey fur, a soft tailored crown, a big brim wider to one side than the other, a tri-con shape, an extr tall mount, a Gainsborough tilt or one of the other hundr odd distinguishing touches.

For the First Days of School and College, our showing of Smart Wear for Young Misses, is better than ever. Smartly tailored Suits—Dresses for classroom wear—dainty Dance Frocks—Youthful Hats and Blouses to complete the many kinds of costumes for diverse occasions.

STEEL PLANT SUBURBS

OPEN BIDS ON SCHOOL

Jacobson Brothers Will Probably Build Structure for $52,500.

Bids for the construction of the Harriet Beecher Stowe school, which will supply the needs of New Duluth and Gary, were opened yesterday by the building committee of the board of education. The lowest bid received was that of Jacobson Bros., who offered to do the general contract work for $52,500.

The contract will probably be recommended to be let to this firm at the regular meeting of the school board on Friday evening. The construction work will begin immediately following the letting of the contract.

The new school will be erected facing One Hundred and First avenue west between Grand avenue and Fillmore street. It will be two stories high with a full basement. The construction will be of brick and brownstone trimmings, with reinforced concrete floors, and in every way fireproof.

The basement will be fitted up for a manual training room, domestic science, pantry and dining room and a gymnasium, in addition to the boiler room. The gymnasium will be 36 feet wide by 70 feet long, and equipped with lockers for the children as well as shower baths.

A branch of the Duluth public library will also be located in the building. One of the rooms will also be devoted to social center activities in the suburb. On the first floor will be located four large classrooms, the office and a large assembly hall with a seating capacity for 600 people. The second floor will have five classrooms.

The plans allow for an extension to be built to the school when conditions warrant enlarging the institution. The building when completed will provide for 450 students. It is to be completed in January.

Rains Delay Paving Work.

Recent rains have been delaying work on the paving work on Zimmerly and Commonwealth avenues. While large crews have been put to work on the job the men have been compelled to lay off much of the time owing to the wet weather.

The material for the laying of the concrete road is being rapidly hauled to the place and it is expected that with a few weeks of fair weather this fall that the work will be completed in record time. A large concrete mixer will be used on the job.

Contractor Dies.

Joseph Nindorf, aged 39 years, a contractor at the Oliver townsite died at 10 o'clock last night at the Duluth hospital as a result of an attack of appendicitis. He was taken ill three days ago and was removed to the institution yesterday.

Mr. Nindorf has had charge of the construction of a number of dwellings at Oliver. He leaves a widow and three children. The body will be taken this evening over the South Shore railroad to Princeton, Wis., for burial.

COMMENTS ON DULUTH PAVING

Concrete Roads, a monthly magazine published by the Universal Portland Cement company, contains an illustrated article in its August edition on "Concrete Pavement and Curb at Duluth." Among other things, the article says:

"Lake avenue, Duluth, recently paved with concrete carries a single car line, lengthwise of a spit of land called Minnesota Point, which is composed entirely of coarse beach gravel. The choice of a two course pavement was most logical. The beach gravel was sufficiently good for the base course, while the local trap rock was exceptionally hard and durable—ideal for the wearing course. Sand was hauled an average distance of one-half mile on barges unloaded on the point.

"Although the traffic is not very heavy, City Engineer John Wilson believed that a permanent pavement was desired and investigation showed that concrete could be laid at very low cost aproximating that of macadam. The work was done by the city.

"The cost has been considerably under the city engineer's estimate and this fact, together with the excellent appearance and good surface, will influence the wide use of concrete in Duluth."

DESERTION THE CHARGE IN TWO DIVORCE SUITS.

Declaring himself to be in need of a home to take care of two children by a former marriage, Charles Fremling, in a divorce suit filed in district court against Matilda Fremling yesterday afternoon, asks the court to decree him at least two-thirds of their common property. The divorce is asked for on the grounds of desertion.

The Fremlings were married March 14, 1907 and lived together until January, 1913, when Mrs. Fremling, it is alleged, deserted his hearth and home. He alleges that she went to St. Paul to live and that she took with her household goods worth $500.

On similar grounds, Carmelia Coraggio is seeking a divorce from Pasquale Coraggio to whom she was married in this city on Oct. 25, 1907. Coraggio deserted her, she says, Dec. 23, 1909. She asks the court to restore her maiden name, that of Carmelia Fiskett. There are no children.

Riprap in Entry.

Stone riprap has been placed along the north and south revetments of the Superior entry. On the south side the riprap leaves a depth of sixteen feet near the revetment, sloping to eighteen feet at a distance of ten feet from the base. On the north side the depth next the revetment is eighteen feet. The entrance to Grand Marais harbor is being dredged out and there is now a channel 120 feet wide in the bar in the lake.

MASON, WIS., MAN IS AUTO VICTIM.

Ashland, Wis., Sept. 1.—Theodore Brekke, a farmer living at Mason, was killed Sunday when the automobile in which he and four others were coming here for a ball game, became unmanageable, leaped through a fence and down a fifteen-foot embankment, turned turtle, and pinned Brekke beneath it, in the water, near here. Brekke was probably drowned. As his companions got from under the machine and walked ashore, they could not find him. Then they returned and pulled his body from beneath the car, but he was dead. He leaves a widow.

CANADIAN TUG AND OLD CLIPPER LOST.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 1.—The Canadian tug Lorene, the most powerful vessel of her kind on the Pacific coast, and the barge America, formerly a famous China clipper, went on the rocks one mile west of Kanaka bay, San Juan island, Sunday night in a dense fog, and are reported a total loss. The America was laden with coal and was being towed from Seattle to Vancouver.

The America was built at Quincy, Mass., in 1879 and was of 1,908 net tons. For many years she plied between Boston and New York and the Orient, taking out general merchandise and bringing back tea. She was converted into a barge several years ago.

HARD LUCK FOR GALLANTS

Candy Prices Will Go Sky-Rocketing, Say Duluth Dealers.

Perfumes and Toilet Goods Are Also Hit By War.

War-time prices struck Duluth confectioners with a vengeance today, and all kinds of candies and other sweets are expected to soar from now on. Stopping of imports in nuts, chocolate, cocoa and high sugar prices have already been sorely felt, and orders delivered after Sept. 1 to local dealers will come at much higher figures.

"Materials from which candies are made are mighty hard to get except at almost prohibitive prices," said a local confectioner today. "Nuts and chocolate are imported from England very largely and glace fruits come from France and Italy. Sugar has been high for some time, and the curtailment of shipments of glace fruits and nuts make candy making an expensive proposition.

"Nuts have gone up 50 per cent since the war, and I received notice from jobbers today that chocolate prices would go up Sept. 1. Just how much the advance would be was not stated, but it is expected to be considerable.

"So far candy prices have not changed much, but they will necessarily go up if the materials continue to get scarcer and higher."

Druggists are finding the same thing true in many lines, especially in toilet goods, and they are beginning to figuratively "tear their hair" trying to figure out how to get toilet articles for the holiday season.

"Many toilet articles are already off the market," said a Duluth druggist today. "Nearly all the toilet articles containing perfumes are away up in price if they can be secured at all. Most of the perfumes are obtained from France and Germany, and conditions there are in such shape that perfumes are becoming next to impossible to get. The worst of it is that most toilet articles made in the United States contain foreign perfumes, and these are now nearly all off the market. Our list will soon be cut in half if conditions in Europe continue as they are."

HAVING MEET ON STEAMER

Lake Superior Mining Institute Meeting on Way Down Lakes.

Session Began in Ishpeming Monday and Ends in Detroit Thursday.

Marquette, Mich., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake Superior Mining Institute, made up of mining men of Michigan, Minnesota and other Northwestern states, is holding its annual session on a steamer en route down the lakes to Detroit.

The institute opened at Ishpeming yesterday morning and will end in Detroit Thursday. After the opening exercises the members adjourned to Union park, where the first aid contests were held between twelve teams of six men each from mines of the Menominee, Marquette, Gogebic and other Michigan mining ranges and from the Mesaba range in Minnesota.

Teams in Contest.

The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company was represented by four teams from the Maas, Lake, Gwinn districts and the Negaunee mine.

Other teams were from the Newport mine, on the Gogebic range, the Republic Iron & Steel company's properties on the Mesaba, Pickands-Mather & Co.'s mines on the Mesaba, Oliver company's mines on both the Marquette and Gogebic ranges, the Breitung mines on the Marquette range, the Republic Iron & Steel company's properties on the Marquette range, and the Pickands-Mather & Co.'s mines on the Menominee range.

Following the contests there was a ball game, after which the visitors looked over the Negaunee and Atkins mines and then came to this city and visited the Pioneer furnace. Then they went to the Lake Shore Engine works, where a whitefish dinner was served.

Last night there was an entertainment at the Marquette opera house, including moving pictures of mining scenes taken by Edward Higgins of the Bureau of Mines car.

The institute members left this morning for St. Ignace by special train. At St. Ignace they were joined by the state geologists, who have been inspecting mining in the Upper Peninsula, and the whole party left this afternoon for Detroit on a large steamer.

Papers Read.

The sessions of the institute are being held on the boat the following papers being read and discussed:

"Use of Electricity at the Penn and Republic Mines," William Kelly and F. H. Armstrong, Vulcan, Mich.

"The Sinking of a Vertical Shaft at the Newport Mining Company at Bessemer, Mich.," Frank Blackwell, Ironwood, Mich.

"Mining Methods on the Marquette Range," report by committee.

"Steel Stocking Trestle at No. 3 Shaft, Negaunee Mine," R. S. Elliott, Negaunee, Mich.

"Ventilation in the Iron Mines of the Lake Superior District," Edwin Higgins, Pittsburg, Pa.

"Following Up System and Method of Recording Injuries in Compliance With the Workmen's Compensation Law," Herburt J. Fisher, Iron River, Mich.

"Biographical Notices," by committee.

"Brief History of Marquette Ore Docks," D. H. Merritt.

Program in Detroit.

When the institute members arrive in Detroit they will be met by a committee from the Chamber of Commerce, which has mapped out an itinerary, including visits to the plants of the Ford Automobile company, Burroughs Adding Machine company, Detroit Copper & Steel works, the Solvay Process company and other concerns. The boat is scheduled to reach Detroit at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. The members will have an opportunity while in the city to take in the annual meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic, and they expect to reach there in time to see the Grand Army parade at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Returning from Detroit, a special train will bring the members from St. Ignace to Ishpeming, arriving here Saturday.

Stray Bullet Hits Woman.

Kenmare, N. D., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was some excitement here when it was reported that Mrs. Amiott had been shot and killed. Later it was discovered she had been shot, and while her injuries were painful, they were not serious. She was struck by a stray bullet fired by some boys who were practicing at a target with a 22-caliber rifle. She fainted from fright and pain, and this led to the report that she was killed.

ARE AFTER MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Kenwood Park Residents Want Roads, School and Car Line.

A meeting of the Kenwood club was held Sunday afternoon at the schoolhouse at Kenwood park. J. P. Mollitor, president, being out of the city, Thomas Holder, Jr., was appointed temporary chairman.

The committee on the improvement of the Howard and Gresen road from Kenwood park to the Howard meadows reported that they had called upon T. H. Little, county commissioner for the Second district, and Mr. Little promised them that as soon as he had funds available for that purpose he would go ahead with the work, and put the road in good condition.

Mr. Olsen of the school committee stated that he called on Mr. Cobb of the school board and took up with him the question of a new and modern school building at Kenwood park. After going over the matter thoroughly together, Mr. Olsen stated to the members of the club that Mr. Cobb was of the opinion that Kenwood park was entitled to a new and modern school building. Thomas Holder, Sr., of the same committee stated that he had talked with Supt. Denfeld and that Mr. Denfeld said that he would be pleased to have the committee attend the regular meeting of the school board Friday evening, Sept. 4, at 7:45 p. m. and state this case to the members of the board. Last year the enrollment of pupils totaled twenty-five. There are now about sixty-five children from 6 to 17 years of age. It was resolved that a petition be circulated among the residents of Kenwood park, asking the school board to erect the new building, and that said petition be presented to the board at their meeting Friday, Sept. 4, and that the present committee, consisting of Messrs. Olsen, Krurler, Holder, Sr., and Holder, Jr., attend the meeting of the school board and place this petition before them.

A motion was made by Frank Pierling, seconded by Thomas Holder, Sr., to have a committee of three call upon Commissioner Murchison regarding the work now being done on the Kenwood road.

A motion was carried that a committee of three be appointed to call on Commissioner Merritt regarding the Kenwood road lights.

The following petition to the city commissioners was introduced and read to the club by Frank Jordan:

"To the City Commissioners: Whereas, The district at and in the vicinity of Kenwood lies closer to the center of the city than any other suburb and on account of its nearness, the beauty of its landscape, and the fertility of its soil is rapidly settling up and the only thing necessary to make it the most populous suburb is street car facility, and

"Whereas, There has been provided by nature a route for the belt line which would connect the Woodland street car line from either Victoria or St. Marie streets with the Ninth street car line at Seventh avenue east, all of which route has been improved and is ready for the laying of the tracks except about seven blocks and that seven blocks through a district which offers no obstacles in the way of excessive grade or rock obstruction, and

"Whereas, The construction of such a line of street railway would make available a large district to those who have to make use of a street car line.

"Therefore it is resolved, That the city council is hereby requested to make a survey and determine the most feasible route for the aforesaid connecting roadway from Kenwood to either Victoria, St. Marie or some other intervening street in order that we may secure the dedication of the right-of-way for such street from the owners of property traversed by such proposed street. Respectfully submitted,

"THE KENWOOD CLUB,

"Per F. E. Culver, secretary."

This resolution was adopted and the secretary was instructed to present it to the city commissioners.

Mr. Jordan reported that the promised work on the Motor Line road would be started at an early date.

Max Shapiro addressed the club in a few well chosen remarks. A number of the other members also gave short talks to the club.

The Homecroft Corner

Conducted By C. E. Roe.

Questions sent to Mr. Roe or to The Herald will be answered.

Gardeners' Calendar.

Peonies, iris and other hardy perennials should be transplanted this month.

Insure a continuous supply of cucumbers by constant picking.

Peonies, iris and other hardy perennials should be moved during September. Planting at this time insures their thorough establishment before the ground freezes and will insure better results next summer than can be obtained through spring planting.

Deciduous trees and shrubs should never be moved until dormant, and they do not become so until October. Last week, we called the attention of our readers to the possibilities in our native trees and shrubs for home decoration. Our object in presenting this subject early in the season was to enable everyone to see and realize the beauty of these things in their native habitat while in full leaf and fruit. Unfortunately a few of our readers have concluded that planting should be done at once, but it is not yet time to move them. Pick out your trees and shrubs now, prepare the ground, plant your garden, but don't move the trees and shrubs until they are dormant.

Dahlias, cosmos, and hardy phlox will yield a bountiful supply of bloom until frost if all flowers are removed as soon as they begin to fade. The formation and ripening of seed is a heavy drain on the vitality of plants, and it invariably means a cessation of flowers for the future. For the same reason the maturing fruits of the cucumber should be picked two or three times each week to insure a constant supply throughout the season.

Where apple trees are heavily loaded with fruit, better specimens will result by removing all inferior apples now. This thinning should be carefully done by hand. The fruit thus removed may be used for cooking or for jelly.

Sweet corn will yield larger and fuller ears if the suckers are cut or broken off. These latteral stalks do not add to the productive power of the plant, but they do draw upon the vitality needed to mature the fruit already set on the main stalk.

At this season of the year all weeds should be removed from the garden and the ground should be carefully spaded around fruit trees, shrubs and hardy perennials. New raspberry canes should be topped back so that the wood will ripen thoroughly before it freezes up.

Where new plants are needed in the strawberry row, the runners should be carefully covered in well-loosened soil to insure firm rooting. After enough plants are secured, go over the bed every week and cut out the new runners.

WAR STOPS ISMAY FROM MAKING LOAN

Central Figure in Titanic Horror Interested in North Dakota Scheme.

Jamestown, N. D., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bruce Ismay of Titanic wreck fame, of London, Eng., was prepared to handle a $2,000,000 loan for the extension of the Midland Continental railroad, from Wimbledon, N. D., to Grand Forks, N. D., when the European war broke out and spoiled his plans.

Four days separated the time set for making the loan and the English declaration of war, which halted any possibility of making the loan.

James Maxwell, appearing as the Midland Continental railroad's representative before the state board of equalization, made such explanation of the company's decision to abandon the proposed extension this season.

ADVISES HUSBAND TO REMARRY SOON

Chicago Woman Kills Herself Because of Ill Health.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—After writing a note advising her husband to marry again so as to insure a home for their children, Mrs. Frances Balun, aged 33, last night sent her two boys out to play, and taking her 4-year-old daughter to her room, killed the child and herself.

"I will take darling little Mary with me," wrote Mrs. Balun, "and if I succeed in this, I want you to take care of the other children. I want you to marry soon again and be as good to your second wife as you were to me. I thank you for everything you have done for me."

Mrs. Balun was suffering from ill-health.

JUDGE MORRIS IS UPHELD

His Ruling on Clapp Amendment to Indian Laws Correct.

Must Have Known Quantity of Mixed Blood to Sell Lands.

Judge Page Morris is upheld and the circuit court of appeals reversed in an order handed down yesterday by the supreme court of the United States in his decision of two years ago on the construction of the Clapp amendment to the Indian laws.

At that time Judge Morris ruled that only Indians having a known quantity of mixed blood could sell their land allotments, while those having a doubtful mixture could not sell without the approval of the secretary of interior. Full-blooded Indians, the court decided, were not allowed to sell their land.

Followed Lengthy Hearing.

The decision of Judge Morris on June 28, 1912, followed a lengthy hearing in actions brought by the government against the First National bank of Detroit, the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company, and the Minneapolis Trust company. The three defendant organizations had purchased land from Indians and the claim of the Federal authorities was made that the Indians had no right to dispose of the patents on their land, under the Clapp amendment.

Judge Morris ruled against the First National bank and the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company, declaring in his order that the defendants purchased the land from Indians having an unknown quantity of Indian blood. In placing his construction of the Clapp amendment, which was passed in June 1906, the court said that only Indians having a known quantity of mixed blood could sell their allotments, while the full-blooded red men, could sell their land only with the approval of the secretary of the interior, who was to decide on their competency. The court dismissed the case against the Minneapolis Trust company.

Case Was Appealed.

Last year the Federal authorities appealed the decision in favor of the Trust company, while the First National bank and the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company also brought suit to have the decisions reversed. In November the circuit court of appeals decided in favor of the appellant bank company and against the trust company, thus reversing the decision of Judge Morris. It affirmed, however, the local court's decision against the lumber company.

Last winter the cases were again appealed, this time to the highest court of the nation, and the order was received here yesterday by Deputy Clerk Pressnell. It reverses the circuit court in its decision favoring the bank and upholds Judge Morris. In the case against the lumber company the supreme court affirms the court of appeals, which in turn had affirmed Judge Morris' decision. The supreme court also affirms the circuit court in its reversal of the dismissal entered by Judge Morris in the case against the trust company. This last decision means that the government is now at liberty to again bring its suit against the trust company.

TELLS OF DEALS WITH CAN OFFICERS

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Operations of the financiers who organized the American Can company were told here by witnesses in the dissolution suit brought by the government against the so-called can trust.

J. L. Board of Chicago, at one time a millionaire, said yesterday he was sole owner of Crosby & Co., when in 1898 he gave an option to the American Can company, which was then being organized, for $300,000.

Three years later he agreed to accept $1,100,000 of common and preferred stock in the company for his business. He told of a visit to New York when he received a check at a meeting of the directors of the new company. After luncheon the directors asked him to return the check, he said, and after three years' delay he received $850,000 in the stock of the company. The reason given for the deduction of $250,000, he said, was because of a contract he had with salmon fisheries.

"After they bought the business they kept right on supplying the salmon fisheries," said Mr. Board.

LORIMER'S SON IS CALLED AS WITNESS.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Leonard Lorimer, son of William Lorimer, who was ousted from the United States senate, and W. J. Moxley, wealthy oleomargarine manufacturer, have been subpoenaed to appear before the special Federal grand jury which is investigating the afairs of the defunct La Salle Street Trust & Savings bank, formerly a national institution.

Mr. Moxley is a director of the bank, which William Lorimer heads, and Leonard Lorimer is an employe. The witnesses have been summoned to tell what they know of loans alleged to have been made to Lorimer enterprises in the state, and particularly to the Lorimer-Gallagher Construction company.

AMERICANS GREET QUEEN OF HOLLAND.

London, Sept. 1, 12:20 a. m.—A dispatch to the Reuter agency from Amsterdam says all Americans now in Holland yesterday sent congratulations to Queen Wilhelmina on the occasion of her thirty-fourth birthday. EUROPEAN WAR NOT RACIAL Commerce and Territory Are Real Issues, Says Van Cleef.

United States Will Dominate —Russia May Supplant Her.

Europe's conflict is a long-planned struggle for commercial supremacy and not a racial war, in the opinion of Eugene Van Cleef, instructor in geography at the Duluth normal school, who delivered an address on "The European War" at the Y. M. C. A. assembly hall last evening, in which he predicted that the immediate consequence of the Old World fight would be that the United States would lead all other nations along commercial lines.

Mr. Van Cleef's talk was illustrated with maps, drawings, sketches and pictures. He explained at some length the causes of the war, the relative positions of the nations involved and the routes to be followed in the proposed advances of the opposing forces. Mr. Van Cleef only recently returned from a trip to Leipsic, Germany, where he spent the last winter and spring.

Although the United States will gain immediate commercial supremacy as a result of the conflict of the Old World powers, she will eventually yield either to Russia or China, in the opinion of Mr. Van Cleef. Russia, he said, has vast resources which are yet undeveloped and unless the awakening in China will mean an unprecedented development of the resources of the celestial republic, Russia will eventually supplant the United States and dominate the world as a commercial power.

Brewing for Years.

"The European war has been brewing for years," said Mr. Van Cleef. "The violations of pacts and agreements, and other causes given for the war are not really the underlying causes, but merely excuses. Germany's rapid advance as a commercial power in the world has been the cause of great envy upon the part of England, France and Russia.

"These countries are desperately trying to prevent her becoming the absolute dominant commercial power in the world. The geography of the country and the division of the property among the nations, if allowed to remain as it was before the war started, and as shown on the maps of Europe of the present day, would prevent this.

"Germany has the best country in the very heart of Europe, but she needs more. She wants splendid territory that now belongs to France. France wants the coal and iron ore deposits of Alsace-Loraine, that she was forced to let Germany have some years ago. Russia wants a seaport, England wants to head off Germany from getting this French territory, to protect her own commerce.

"Japan's part in the war is not difficult to understand. Japan is in great need of additional territory for her people. She jumped at the excuse to declare war on Germany, in order that she might have an excuse to seize the island possessions belonging to Germany, in the Pacific ocean south of Japan.

"The war is not a racial war. While there is antagonism and lack of sympathy among the various races of Europe, and that adds to the desire for conflict among the peoples of the various countries, the war is undeniably political and commercial.

Boundaries Unsatisfactory.

"The boundaries of Germany, Russia and France are unsatisfactory to all of those countries, generally. While the mountain and sea boundaries are satisfactory, the artificial boundaries agreed upon by a few men, are entirely unstisfactory. Each of these countries believes that the others have more than their share of territory.

"The Germans attacked Liege and made their way through Belgium, in order to reach the weakest point on the French border. The boundary between Belgium and France is open, rolling prairie country, for the most part, while the country to the east is protected by mountains.

"Germany recognizes that Paris is the most strongly fortified city in the world, but she feels that Paris must be captured, and is sending her armies toward the French capital as fast as possible."

Preceding Mr. Van Cleef's address, Don E. Giffin, telegraph editor at The Herald, outlined the manner in which war news is handled by the press of the world. He explained the method of censorship and declared that at the present time the system is the most complete ever known.

MRS. WILLIAMS' LONG SICKNESS

Yields To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elkhart, Ind.:—"I suffered for fourteen years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.

"If these lines will be of any benefit you have my permission to publish them."—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

DROPS "BOMB" IN "Y" LOBBY

Crowd Frightened By Gum Case Thrown From Upstairs.

Someone at the Y. M. C. A. has a perverted sense of humor that came near ending disastrously late last evening.

While all the members were in the assembly hall listening to the war lecture by Prof. Eugene Van Cleef, some person stole the candy and gum case from the desk counter and carried it upstairs. Just after the crowds had left the assembly hall and were passing out of the building, a crash was heard that suggested an earthquake or a volcanic eruption.

An investigation disclosed the remains of the candy case. It had been thrown from the second or third floor and was smashed into thousands of pieces, the glass scattering all over the large lobby floor. Luckily, no one was near the stairway at the time.

Officials at the Y. M. C. A. are looking into the matter, with an effort to learn who stole the case.

REPUBLICAN PAPER OUT FOR HAMMOND

Calls Lee "Political Renegade" and Will Not Support Him.

Lanesboro, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lanesboro Leader, one of the leading Republican papers of Southern Minnesota, has declared in favor of Mr. Hammond for governor. The Leader says:

"When the Minnesota legislature, without really intending to, enacted the non-partisan election law, that body built better than it knew. It was a move in accordance with the spirit of the times, so it seems. That time belongs to the hoary past, when a voter cast his ballot for a candidate just because such candidate was labeled Republican or Democrat. Now-a-days the voter's first question is, whether the candidate is really a man—able, conscientious, fearless and faithful to the common people's interest. To such a man the voters always rally, in spite of the fact that he may belong to another party than they. This has been demonstrated in Fillmore county. Didn't the late Governor John A. Johnson carry the county in spite of the fact that Fillmore is overwhelmingly Republican in sentimen?

"This paper is a Republican paper. It has always been loyal to Republican principles. But we are in the same position as was Mr. Lee, the present Republican candidate for governor, two years ago; it depends on what kind of a man leads the party. It seems to us that it comes with decidedly bad grace for Mr. Lee to prate about party regularity now when he is a candidate himself, when his attitude was exactly the opposite two years ago. We differ from him in this, that we try at least to be consistent.

"We do not intend that our loyalty to the party shall be tested by supporting any man whose Republicanism is open to question. We desire to paddle our own canoe, and after long and careful consideration the Leader has come to the conclusion that the destinies of the great state of Minnesota can be more safely entrusted for the next two years to Winfield Scott Hammond as governor than to a political renegade like Mr. Lee."

Washington, Sept. 1.—The Federal reserve board has sent national banks which are to become members of the new Federal bank a request for a complete statement of excess of liability on Aug. 31, to be used in the opening of the new system. The board asked also from what cities balances would be drawn to pay first installments of subscription to a reserve bank; what amount each bank expected to pay in gold or gold certificates out of funds in its own vault; what amounts will be withdrawn from reserve agents; how much each bank expects to transfer in cash to its Federal reserve bank under the new reserve requirements, and what amount each bank desires to rediscount with its Federal reserve bank in order to pay part of its reserve in eligible paper.

PROCLAMATION OF SEED CORN WEEK

Governor Eberhart Appoints the Week of Sept. 14 to 19 Inclusive.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart today issued the following proclamation appointing the week of Sept. 14 to 19 as seed corn week:

"Minnesota is now producing nearly 2,500,000 acres of corn annually. Last year its corn product was worth nearly $51,000,000. The yield of corn secured by Minnesota farmers last year was surpassed by that of only one other state. It went ahead of all the old 'Corn Belt' states.

"This distinction was won in part through the influence of seed corn week observed for the last four years.

"Good seed corn is important in every state, but according to the College of Agriculture, it is especially important in Minnesota, because varieties of corn must be planted that will mature in from 100 to 120 days. Minnesota cannot successfully depend upon importing seed corn. The best seed corn for Minnesota farmers is carefully selected seed corn that has been produced on their own farms. In the five years from 1904 to 1908 the average yield of corn in Minnesota was 29.8 bushels. In the succeeding five years it was 35.1 bushels. Good seed corn in Minnesota may easily mean another five bushels added to the average yield. This will be worth to the state at least $10,000,000 annually, or more than $50 to the farm.

"I therefore heartily endorse the campaign for the careful selection of seed corn being made by the Minnesota College of Agriculture, and hereby appoint the week of Sept. 14-19, 1914, inclusive, as seed corn week.

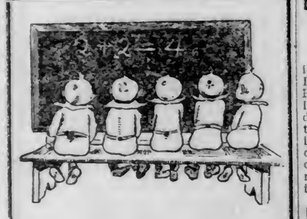

"I earnestly join the college in urging that every corn grower in Minnesota shall on at least one day of the week designated, make it his especial duty to go through his corn field and select for seed the best ears from his sturdiest stalks, selecting and storing them after the plan outlined in Extension Bulletin No. 9, which may be had by writing the Agricultural Extension division, University farm, St. Paul.

"Given under my hand and the great seal of the state of Minnesota this first day of September, 1914.

"A. O. EBERHART.
"Governor."

ATTENDED REUNION OF OLD COMPANY

Capt. J. R. Randall of 1717 Piedmont avenue, president of the Eighteenth Michigan Infantry society, traveled farther than any member of that organization to attend the annual reunion held at Adrian, Mich., last Thursday. He traveled 700 miles to meet again with his comrades and was given a rousing welcome, when he walked out on the speakers' stand Thursday afternoon.

Capt. Randall called the meeting to order and also presented a carved cane to G. E. Carter, who cooked for the Eighteenth infantry during the Civil war. Mr. Carter responded with a few words. Adrian was chosen for the meeting place next year.

From Adrian, Capt. Randall and several of his comrades journeyed to Detroit, where the national G. A. R. is holding its annual encampment this week. He will return to Duluth early next week.

MARQUETTE COUNTY FAIR BEING HELD

Special Excursion Rates Expected to Bring Large Crowds.

Marquette, Mich., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual Marquette county fair opened here today and will continue until Friday afternoon. The amount and character of the exhibits surpass expectations and the fair promises to be unusually successful. Special excursion rates offered on the various railroads are expected to bring large crowds daily. Among the amusements are the A. B. Miller carnival shows.

Stores to Close Thursday.

The grocery stores of the city have decided to close on Thursday afternoon instead of Friday afternoon, as they have usually done at Marquette day at the fair. On account of Labor day falling on next Monday, they believe that the old plan would give them too much work for Saturday.

The carnival company will give free attractions on the several days, as well as display of fireworks.

EDITOR O'BRIEN WINS NOMINATION.

Iron River, Mich., Sept. 1.—The nomination of Editor Patrick O'Brien of the Iron River-Stambaugh Reporter as the Republican candidate for representative in the state legislature from the Iron district, composed of Keweenaw, Ontonagon, Baraga and Iron counties, is indicated by the latest returns. With only one small precinct in Ontonagon county, which has about twenty votes missing, O'Brien's majority over Wilcox is 184.

Pukwana, S. D., Sept. 1.—The heroism of a girl of 9 years saved the lives of three smaller brothers and sisters from fire on the Robert Thompson farm near here.

May Be N. P. Terminal.

Northrup, N. D., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northern Pacific railway will probably make this point its present terminal in Dunn county and the base of operations for the extension from here to Sidney, Mont., next year. Recently it was reported that the new town of Killdeer would be the end of the line, but on account of the fine water here, the desirable location for a reservoir and dam, it was decided to extend the line here.

HALL WILL NOT BE SOLD

City's West Duluth Property Will Be Held and Repaired.

That the West Duluth fire hall property will not be sold but will be reduced one story and repaired was the conclusion which was tentatively agreed upon by Commissioner William A. Hicken and Mayor Prince after a conference yesterday afternoon with a committee from the West Duluth Commercial club, consisting of Thomas Olafson, W. B. Getchell and L. A. Barnes.

The West Duluth Commercial club recently passed resolutions strongly protesting against the fire hall being traded for two lots across the street, owned by the Canadian Northern, without an additional consideration, or without first endeavoring to ascertain what price could be obtained for the property.

Commissioner Hicken was contemplating the construction of a new fire hall next year but it is likely that this plan will be abandoned. If the top story and the tower are removed it is believed that the building can be improved and strengthened so that it will be serviceable for some years to come. When the horses are removed the stalls could be torn out and provision made for the new motor truck which will replace the present horse-drawn hook and ladder truck.

The permanent improvement fund, from which the cost of the new building would come, is constantly strained and the erection of the hall would call for about $20,000. The repairs could be made for a much less sum, enabling the city to make a saving of $10,000 or $15,000. No estimate of the cost of the repairs has been made, so that no reliable figures are available. This will probably be done in a short time.

Before the specifications are prepared the city will consult with the state board of control to learn what changes will have to be made in the jail. The quarters do not meet with the approval of the board, which has threatened to condemn them. It is believed that this feature can be satisfactorily arranged.

At the same time it is likely that provision will be made for the housing of the West Duluth branch of the police court. The business of the court is light and neither large nor elaborate quarters would be needed.

SANITARIUM FOR ORDER OF MOOSE

Local Lodges May Seek to Have It Built Here.

A committee whose business it will be to determine whether the Head of the Lakes is the most desirable place in the United States for the location of a sanitarium was appointed last night at a meeting of a joint committee representing the West Duluth, Duluth, Superior and Proctor lodges of the Loyal Order of Moose held at the Moose clubrooms, 210 North Central avenue. The members of the committee which will conduct this investigation are Dr. C. L. Haney, James Downing, Matt Ettinger, A. L. Brewer and L. A. Barnes.

The representatives present from the various lodges were: J. E. Foubister, L. A. Barnes, A. L. Brewer, James Geherty of West Duluth; Dr. C. L. Haney, Matt Ettinger and James Downey of Duluth; M. J. Skafte and R. E. Cheek of Proctor, Dr. L. A. Hoffmeier, Dr. J. H. Orchard and Samuel Schwartz of Superior.

If the committee, which will make its report in two weeks, decides that this locality is the ideal place for the location of the $500,000 sanitarium to be built by the head lodge of the order, then it is decided to make every effort to have the institution built at the Head of the Lakes.

Mr. Foubister was appointed chairman and Mr. Downing secretary of the general committee. It will hold its next meeting at the office of Dr. Haney in the West end on Sept. 14.

REV. J. C. REINERTSON.

Rev. J. C. Reinertson, pastor of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street, has resigned and will leave Duluth next week. He will preach his farewell sermon to the local congregation next Sunday.

The pastor intends going to Virginia, Minn., where he has accepted the charge of the First Norwegian Lutheran church of the range metropolis. He said this morning that he was making the change on account of his health, which he stated had not been the best since coming to Duluth. He has been suffering lately with a throat affliction.

As yet the congregation has not extended a call to a pastor to fill his place. It is expected to hold a meeting of the congregation early next week at which this call will be extended. No intimation as to whom the call will be given has so far been given out.

Rev. Mr. Reinertson has been pastor of the church for three years. He accepted the call to the local church following the resignation of Rev. J. A. Bjerks, who took a post in North Dakota.

NEIGHBORS CHAT; THIEF MAKES HAUL

Home of Mrs. John Hill Entered; $22 Taken From Purse.

While Mrs. John Hill, 22 South Sixtieth avenue west, stepped out of the house for about fifteen minutes yesterday afternoon to talk with a neighbor, some one entered the house and stole $22 from a silver mesh bag hanging in the dining room. The money was a $20-gold piece and $2 in silver. The money was tied up in a handkerchief in the mesh bag. A small purse in the bag containing $1.75 was not touched.

The police believe the theft was committed by one familiar with the house, and who had been watching Mrs. Hill. They also believed boys of the neighborhood may have done the work.

Superior

HEAVY VOTE BEING CAST AT PRIMARY.

An unusually large number of candidates for county ticket nominations on both Republican and Democratic tickets is bringing out a big vote in Superior today. Favorable weather also aided in augmenting the early vote and it is expected that the total for the day will be the heaviest on record. The local contests all are spirited and in addition organizations formed for many of the state ticket candidates of both parties have been conducting vigorous campaigns. Because of the exceptional interest it is expected that a large use of the second choice will be made.

Caught Entering Sheds.

Wilbur O'Malley, 38 years old, was arrested yesterday afternoon as he was attempting to get through a window into the Omaha freight sheds at Itasca. In police court he was bound over to the superior court. He frankly told the police that the open window afforded an easy entrance and that he had believed some stuff in the place would benefit him. He was caught in the act by special officers of the road.

Face Federal Charge.

A number of Indians will face trial on charges of illicit sale of liquor to Indians when the Federal court opens in Superior on Sept. 8. Among those who will have to stand trial are Frank Gresette, Charles Kekek, Mary Sailor, Henry Condacon and Ed Na-gu-nub. Several more arrests will be made, according to Deputy U. S. Marshal W. T. Pugh.

CANADIAN CRUISER IN ACTIVE SERVICE

Niobe Sails From Halifax on Short Trial Voyage.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—The Canadian cruiser Niobe goes into active service today, sailing from Halifax on a short trial voyage to test her machinery, which has been overhauled after three years of idleness. The cruiser soon will join the squadron of British cruisers patrolling the Atlantic coast.

The duke of Connaught, governor-general of Canada, went to Halifax Saturday to see the Niobe put into commission and witness the departure of the Royal Canadian regiment which is being taken to Bermuda to relieve British troops which are being taken back to England for active service.

The Canadian regulars at Halifax will be replaced by a garrison from the militia for a time. There will be an adequate convoy for the troops from Halifax to Bermuda, and for those who are going back to England.

It is possible that the Niobe will be sent to Quebec to act as a convoy to the Princess Patricia light infantry, and will accompany their troop ship to a point in the Atlantic where they will join the ship and convoy from Bermuda and proceed to England.

When the Canadian army division of 21,000 men leaves Valcartier in about three weeks, the Niobe will be one of the vessels assigned to the flotilla of troop ships, which will number ten.

CONDITIONS ARE NORMAL IN DENMARK.

Copenhagen, via London, Sept. 1.—The American legation and consulate here have received hundreds of telegrams inquiring regarding the safety of friends and relatives. The consul general, Edward B. Winslow, said:

"Conditions are now normal in Denmark, and Americans having letters of credit and checks have no difficulty in getting money from the Danish banks. Ships are sailing on schedule for the United States, and the channel between Denmark and Germany is open.

"Americans with passports have no trouble in traveling back and forth."

FRANCE AND ENGLAND DEFEATED, HE SAYS

Von Bernstorff Declares the Germans Cannot Be Beaten.

New York, Sept. 1.—Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, received from Berlin two more messages which he made public here last night. One of them told of the capture of about 30,000 Russian soldiers and many high officers, as previously announced by the German embassy at Washington. The other message read:

"Rotterdam newspaper correspondent was eye witness of perfidious attack of population at Louvain on German troops. France tireurs shot with mitrailleuses. Officers of general staff found with throats cut. In Longwy machines for the fabrication of dumdum cartridges were found——"

Here the text of the message became unintelligible. The words "evacuated," "French garrison" and "50,000" appeared.

Discussing the conflict, the ambassador said it was the "war of the German nation, man for man."

France and Great Britain are defeated on land, the ambassador declared, and have only recruits or volunteers to send against the Germans.

"We cannot be beaten," he said "That is why we have taken about 40,000 men from the western border to the eastern border to precipitate against the Russians."

BIG CARGO OF FOOD FOR GREAT BRITAIN.

Building to Watford.

Watford, N. D., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern officials heard the plea of Watford and unexpectedly rushed the work on the extension to this point. As a result the track will reach here tomorrow instead of later in the month. Some time ago it was announced the road would not be completed before Sept. 15 at the earliest. The farmers are busy threshing and so much grain was unprotected and the need of materials for building the new town were so imperative that the officials were urged to rush the work.

A student board of health has been organized in Columbia university to improve eating houses and restaurants near the university.

Carrot Recipes.

Carrots are often ignored by housewives who forget their medicinal and seasoning values. A Creole cook book says: "Carrots are the most important of the vegetables used in seasoning. They enter largely into the making of soups, daubes and stews, giving to all a delightful flavor which no other vegetable can. Eaten 'au jus' or in their natural state they may be stewed, fried or smothered."

Carrot Fritters.—Beat two or three boiled carrots to a pulp with a spoon; add to them six eggs and a handful of flour; moisten them with either cream, milk or white wine, and sweeten them. Beat altogether well and fry in boiling lard. When of a good color take them off and squeeze on them the juice of an orange, strew over fine sugar.—Milwaukee Free Press.

Mashed Carrots.—Wash but do not scrape carrots, steam done and peel, mash and season with about one ounce of butter to three large carrots and add other seasoning to taste. A very tiny bit of onion salt will add uniqueness to the dish.

Mashed Carrot With Egg.—Mix with a cup or two of mashed and seasoned carrots one or two eggs, put the whole into a buttered earthen dish, patting it down. Bake for ten minutes, then pour out to serve or serve from dish. Sprinkle with chopped parsley if you choose or serve with a sauce, which is not, however, necessary. This addition of egg masks the flavor of the carrot somewhat, and is not quite as fine as the plain mashed, but has greater food value.

To Peel Boiled or Steamed Carrots.—Scrape the skin off gently with the back of a silver or plated knife. The skin, which is thin and paper-like, comes off readily. If the carrots are too hot to hold in the hand use a silver fork while peeling them, as a steel one discolors them.

There are various methods of cooking carrots with vinegar which are not to be recommended. Sugar, meat stock, butter, milk and cream can always be used, but flour, vinegar, any meat, and much salt should be avoided. They flavor vegetable hashes delightfully.—Chicago Tribune.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "The Littlest Rebel."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville and motion pictures.
GRAND—Vaudeville and motion pictures.

Amusement Notes.

"The Littlest Rebel" is the most successful undertaking on a large scale yet produced by the Baldwin Players at the Lyceum theater. The principal role is played in a wonderful manner by little Muriel Cole, a child actress brought here especially for this production.

The story is of Virgie, daughter of a confederate scout who lives near Richmond. A Yankee colonel comes with his cavalry in search of the scout, the home is burned, the child is left alone and hungry in a cabin, where she is visited occasionally with food by the hunted father. The Federals surround the place and the father, armed with a pass for the child through the rebel lines to Richmond, is found hiding in the loft. The child, with arch baby talk and adorable courage, tries in vain to keep the secret from the acute Yankee. But she wins his heart, nevertheless, and he gives the two another pass through the Federal lines. Later in the day battle breaks forth and the scout saves the colonel's life. Both are taken to headquarters and sentenced to death, Cary as a spy, the colonel as a traitor. But the littlest rebel comes before the general (Joseph DeStefani) who becomes interested, questions the child and establishes the truth that saves the lives of her father and benefactor.

The picture of the general—of course, it is Grant, though his name is not spoken—kindly and sympathetically questioning the little girl and getting the truth from her almost unawares, with the two men looking on at the decision of their fate, is one long to be remembered in the annals of the stage.

There will be a matinee Wednesday and Saturday and reservations should be made at once.

Next week "Thelma" will be given an elaborate production by the Baldwin Players.

Twice has Claude Golden visited Duluth, mystifying and perplexing local audiences through his wizardry with the cards, and last night an interviewer watched the act from the wings at the Orpheum and having discovered nothing, waylaid the young man as he emerged after finishing the act. In his hat he carried his scenic equipment—a scattered deck of cards. "Oh, there's no trickery about it," he said and it was to be observed that the stutter had vanished. "It's a matter of higher mathematics, what is known as psychometry. You've heard," he inquired confidently, "of the fourth dimension?" The interviewer admitted vaguely he had heard of it some time or other and then Mr. Golden explained that the "fourth dimension" is what turns the trick in his act.

"I had been in America about eight years, working out in California as a mining engineer, when one day I fell a victim to scarletina, and was taken to the hospital. Scarletina, you know, is on the order of scarlet fever, though not nearly so serious. However, it is extremely contagious, and the quarantine endures for a much longer period than in the case with the more serious disease. In my case it lasted six weeks. I wasn't ill enough to lie quietly, and I wasn't well enough to get out of bed. I needed something to occupy my waking hours and a kind nurse brought me a deck of cards. I played solitaire until I nearly went mad, and then, vaguely the scheme of my present act generated in my mind. You see mathematics had a large and important place in the work of a mining engineer, and I have a natural talent in that direction. For days I laid there with the pasteboards spread out on the counter-pane figuring out 'tricks' with which to mystify my friends when I returned to them. Then, like an inspiration came the idea of a vaudeville sketch. I couldn't get out of that hospital quickly enough. Finally I found myself 'at large,' boarding a train for New York. Once there I found a manager on the Keith circuit, and the trick was turned. I told him I was fresh from Australia—although I had really been in California for eight years—and he billed me as the Australian Card King."

Mr. Golden is said to be booked further ahead than any other act in this country, holding consecutive contracts from November, 1912 to February, 1916.

Mr. Golden is spending the week at the Holland with his bride, who, before her marriage to Mr. Golden was a well-known cornet soloist.

* * *

The program of polite vaudeville offered to the patrons of the New Grand theater the first half of this week is a wholesome entertainment that extends from an old time afterpiece to sensational Russian dancers. It will be a task for Manager Ed R. Salter to keep up the stride he has started on, but if he continues to do so, the New Grand is likely to prove a bonanza for its owners. The present program starts off with the Sisters Banvard in a daring aerial performance. Miss Margaret is a robust young woman, fair to look upon, and possessed of a high, sweet-sounding soprano voice. Her sister accompanies her at the piano, and numerous changes of costume occur. Stanefield, Hall and Lorraine have a tabloid called "Madame Dippy." It is built for laughing purposes and succeeds immensely in its mission. The Royal Balalkai troupe of Russian dancers, singers and instrumentalists makes the hit of the show, and their performance is an oddity, even in vaudeville where there is such an extensive field of novelties. Four reels of photoplays exhibited by the Grandoscope close a most pleasing program.

The feature at the New Grand the last three days of the week will be the Three Stewart Sisters and their escorts.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Well to Look Forward and Plan for Better Things.

"You mustn't aspire so high, Hattie. What is the use of talking, you will never have it in the world."

The speaker was a handsomely gowned woman, carefully preserved, and very self opinionated. Hattie was small and thin and worn, the mother of three, and yet she had time for dreaming and hoping that great and good things would come true.

In spite of the heavy, worn lines in Hattie's face there is a youthfulness about her that she will never lose as long as she keeps her face to the future. She has the right recipe for happiness and success within her grasp, if only she knows enough to combine it with industry and cultivate both to the limit.

A comparison of these two women showed that Hattie had the advantage in years, but she also had something infinitely more precious, confidence in the future, which gave her ten years of usefulness to every one her friend possessed. The other is the type of woman who leaves such things behind with her teens and her wedding day, and who takes no joy in anything until she has it in her grasp, and then only for the briefest time.

Hattie is the sort who, having little, could enjoy much and, setting her face always towards the future, secured more from life than as though she had the means to gratify every desire as it occurred to her.

I have come to believe that one of the telling signs of age is the inability of a man or woman to look forward and hope and plan for better things. When the mind or the heart loses this faculty, old age of the worst kind, the hopeless kind, is right at one's elbow.

Hattie's friend could learn a valuable lesson in youthfulness from Hattie if she only knew it. She who was striving to retain the contour of face and form, should revive old hopes and plans and start new ones. Without hope springing anew every day in the heart, the body, too, soon loses its elasticity.

SWISS SEND MONEY TO AID FATHERLAND.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Two contributions to the Swiss relief fund have reached the legation here from Swiss soldiers in Tegucigalpa, Honduras. As they were not called on for service on account of the time it would take to get from Central America to Switzerland, they said they would send money to help at home. A considerable amount of money already has been received at the legation and also at the consulate in New York from Swiss in this country.

Word reached here that Otto Steiner chancellor of the legation, who had been held at Cardiff, Eng., as a spy, had been released through the efforts of the Swiss legation in London.

CANADIANS SHOW THEIR PATRIOTISM

War Being Brought Home to Citizens of Western Canada.

J. H. Allison of Winnipeg, stopping here for the day en route to the East, declares that the western half of the Dominion is aflame with zeal to assist in the war that the mother country is waging.

"When one's acquaintances bid him goodbye and leave for the European war, the seriousness of the situation is brought home to you," said Mr. Allison. "One of the companies up there is made up almost entirely of the members of the Winnipeg Rowing club. No doubt many of the young men of Duluth are personal friends of some of the lads who have already left for the various mobilizing points.

"War talk is the chief topic of conversation. We have parades and martial music and speeches. Before the newspaper offices the crowd is often so dense that traffic in the street is almost stopped. All of the papers are catering to the immense, the feverish interest, one should better say, by getting out a large number of extras, and you may know that the Canadian newspapers are not so given over to the extra habit as the papers of this country.

"I have witnessed several personal encounters in the crowds. One German sympathizer was evidently looking for trouble and started something. The police pulled the belligerents apart. But ordinarily, should Germans mind their own affairs, I don't think anything would be said to them.

"Measure the interest of all Canadians in the European conflict by your interest, then treble the interest by our closer ties and by the fact that our relatives and friends will soon be actually engaged in the fighting, and you can gain some realization of the fact that the war has for the time being set every other consideration aside. Business and almost every sport and pastime has been deeply affected by the war. There is no doubt in the mind of the average Canadian but that the Dominion will respond heartily and gladly to the aid of the mother country."

The Flue construction of this heater is a radical departure from others. The down and up flues are divided, making four large flues in the back. By this method of flue construction every particle of heat is utilized in the Detroit Jewel Heater.

If you use a JEWEL Base Burner or Stove (this much) coal will give you as much heat as (this much) if you use any other kind

AN OREGON PROJECT THAT MINNESOTA SHOULD WATCH.

One of the measures to be voted upon by the people of Oregon this fall will be a project to authorize the state to go in debt for the improvement of cut-over timber lands; or, as they call them out there, "logged-off" lands.

Oregon, with its millions of acres of timber lands, is like Minnesota in that after the timber is taken it has many acres of fertile lands that are barred to settlement by a cheval-de-frise of stumps.

Oregon, like Minnesota, wants these lands settled, but has discovered that they can be settled much more quickly with the stumps removed—or partially removed so that the settler can raise crops from the start.

So in Oregon they propose to have the state undertake this work, and to authorize it to go in debt to carry it on.

Why not in Minnesota, too?

There is an important difference between the two states, which is also a reason why Minnesota should act that does not apply to Oregon: the state of Minnesota owns much of this cut-over land, while in Oregon it is privately owned.

Imagine a Minnesota acre owned by the state, submerged by swamp, stump-covered and without roads. There are many such acres in Minnesota.

The soil, though, is as fertile as any on earth.

But the land is worthless, except speculatively, as it stands.

Suppose it builds a road to it, at the cost of two dollars.

The process of reclamation would cost, thus, twenty-eight dollars. The original selling price was, say, five dollars. The acre stands at thirty-three dollars; it is worth and can be sold for at least fifty dollars.

This is a profit of sixty per cent; but that is the smallest factor. The largest factor is that the acre is settled.

Now it is on the tax rolls, yielding wealth to the nation and state, supporting, with its neighbor acres, a family.

The profit in that is vastly greater than the profit in the business transaction of reclaiming that acre, though there are no capitalists who would refuse an opportunity to make a profit of sixty per cent.

Oregon is taking the initiative in a project that Minnesota should have taken up long ago.

These days the business of everybody in Paris is looking up.

ONE RICH FRUIT OF THE WAR.

The war in Europe having stopped importations as completely as though a mountain-high prohibitive tariff wall had been erected, it develops that this country has been and is dependent upon Europe for a number of commodities of great necessity.

As a minor instance, wall paper manufacturers say that the aniline dyes used for coloring wall paper cannot be procured outside of Germany, and that if the conflict is prolonged American wall paper mills will have to close after they have exhausted the stocks in hand.

This is but one example, and there are many.

And it happens to be an excellent example of the incidental benefits that this country should reap from the war in Europe.

Cannot American chemists make dyes for wall papers, as well as German chemists? Of course they can.

Germany has led the world in the application of science to industry; and this appears to be an instance of its prowess.

But at least this country could copy German methods, and set its chemists at work at the making of aniline dyes. Then we can color our wall paper with our own products, and the mills can keep on going whether Europe quits work for war or not.

Wherever the stoppage of importations develops the fact that this country is dependent on other countries for products that it might as well be making for itself, American ingenuity should be set at the task of developing new American industries.

In that way a very real and tangible and permanent good will come to us out of the turmoil of war.

And where is the wise prophet who delighted in declaring that the world had seen its last big war?

IN THE SECOND MAINE DISTRICT.

Maine holds its election September 14, and the eyes of the political soothsayers are glued upon the campaign now in progress there, despite the distractions of war.

Since Vermont stopped voting in September, it is Maine, with its mid-September election, that the forecasters watch.

And in the Second congressional district of Maine there seems to be a situation that rather makes it worth while to watch the outcome; though the persistent interposition of local and personal issues deprives such tests of much of the virtue they might have.

The Second Maine district is now represented in congress by Daniel J. McGillicuddy, Democrat. The three other districts, as usual, are represented by Republicans; and the Republicans figure that if they can capture the Second also, it will be encouraging to their hope of regaining the house in the November election.

Judging from the results in the 1912 election, it is a fairly close district politically. McGillicuddy had 18,077 votes to 16,796 for Skelton, his Republican opponent; a plurality of only 1,281. There was no Bull Moose candidate in that district in 1912.

This year there is a Bull Moose candidate, and at this juncture popular support of the president is strong and loyal. If the Republicans carry the Second Maine it will make the Democrats think. If the Democrats retain it, the result will indicate no great vitality in the movement to regain the house for the Republican Old Guard.

THE WAR FROM DAY TO DAY.

Definite news from the several seats of war has been scarcer during the past twenty-four hours than at almost any time since the conflict began.

The most illuminating intelligence comes from the indirect effect of the situation on the French frontier in the preparations of Paris for a state of siege that was a possibility a few days ago but has been becoming more and more a probability—if not a certainty—every day. Paris is laying in supplies, manning her forts, shipping out noncombatants and thinking seriously of removing the national capital temporarily to Bordeaux, safely away more than four hundred miles from the embattled frontier.

The attempt of the German armies to turn the left flank of the allies seems steadily gaining, though early this morning there was a report that General Pau had gained a brilliant victory over fifty thousand Germans at Peronne, in the direct line of the most menacing German advance. French troops checked the German army which broke through from Luxemburg at Longwy; but a French defeat just north of there forced the whole French line back upon the Meuse. Operations in the South, where the original French offensive movement into Alsace-Lorraine was long ago checked, seem not to be important. Both armies doubtless have moved their strength north for the more critical contests there.

Little news comes from the eastern field. There are reports from Russian sources that the offensive movement of the Austrians in Russian Poland has been checked, and that the Russians there have changed to the offensive. The report that the Russians had entered Koenigsberg in East Prussia is still unconfirmed, and therefore is to be doubted. Nothing has been heard for days from the main Russian army that was supposed to be advancing upon Posen.

There have been rumors, from German sources, that the fight in the northeast of France is an attempt by the Germans to surround and capture the French left, which would include the British force, and that the allies are fighting not only to protect Paris, but to prevent themselves from capture. The news has brought no definite information to support this theory.

This idea of taxing railroad, theater and baseball tickets probably will meet with no serious objection from anybody but the deadheads.

Ye Fairy Admitted It.

Philadelphia Telegraph: The conversation at a recent social affair turned to frank admissions when Judge Joseph H. Gaskill of Mt. Holly was reminded of an incident that happened in Camden.

A short time ago, the judge said, a pretty young woman from Wenonah was visiting friends in the aforesaid Camden burg when she was prevailed upon to assist at a bazar. The duty assigned her was to juggle sweets in the candy booth. Eventually two young men rambled in that direction.

"One dollar," was the prompt response of the Wenonah girl. "If you don't care for that we have some for 99 cents."

"Say, aren't you a little dear?" asked the young man.

What They Expected.

"Why, pa——"

"And hide the phonograph and those $7 records."

"For goodness sakes——"

"And while you're at it you'd better put away your fancy dishes and get out those old blue things you hate so."

"What's getting into you, pa?"

"We've got a few summer boarders coming here from the city and we've got to give 'em the sort of country life they expect."

The Poor Little Guy

While the legions are locked on the dead line,
While the dreadnaughts are glooming the seas,
While horrors of rumor and headline
Give a tang to an evening of ease,
Let us kneel in the dust of all faction,
Let us pray to the Peace from on high
For a small, unspectacular fraction—
The poor little guy!

In the fangs of the tangling wire
He slips in the slime of the dead;
He blinks at the spume of the fire
And the scream of the stream of the lead;

And yet—he knew nought of the plotting,
And nought can he profit thereby;
But his is the dying—and rotting—
The poor little guy!

Let us pray for his kine in the stable,
For his ox and his ass and his swine,
For his chair and his plate on the table,
For his cornfield and orchard and vine,
For the tilth where the women are plying,
For the bed where he never shall lie,
For the ache that is worse than the dying—
The poor little guy!

A pitiful pawn of Vienna,
Of Kaiser, of King or of Czar,
He is pushed to the pit of Gehenna,
To the slide of the Great Abattoir.
He goes as the wailing denial,
As the infinite, traveling cry
Of the Peace to be born from his trial—
The poor little guy!

The Peace of the pure consummation
Foretold in the ages before
When nation shall strive not with nation,
Nor shall they learn war any more.
But Jesus!—the carrion faces
That glare at the pestilent sky
And the stench at the foot of the glacis—
The poor little guy!

—William Samuel Johnson in the New York Sun.

Interviewing Langley

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent feat of a well known aeronaut in riding through space on an air craft of the Langley design, in vindication of the late Prof. Langley's theories, recalls what used to be considered one of the best practical jokes in Washington.

Prof. Langley, as is now generally admitted, lived a few years ahead of his time. His ideas about aerial navigation were sound, but he was unable to have them taken seriously in Washington, where he lived, or by the incredulous general public.

He had been twitted and paragraphed about his attempts to fly, until the whole airship proposition had got under his cuticle in a way that gave him a savage disposition. And he was particularly intolerant of newspaper writers, whom he regarded as an unthinking class of people who had consecrated their lives to working sport of those who were trying to accomplish something worth while.

Interviewing Langley about his work, therefore, came to be regarded as a perilous undertaking.

* * *

Whenever a new reporter came to town his associates usually initiated him by sending him to see Langley—in much the same jocular spirit that they sent a new man to interview Wu Ting Fang. Minister Wu was harmless enough except that he reserved the right to do all the talking and to ask more questions per minute than a 7-year-old boy.

Langley, however, was likely to act ferocious the moment he found himself face to face with a newspaper man, because he assumed that the man had come to look him over and then make fun of him.

The facts were that everybody, aside from a few scientists, were cocksure in those days that flying without a gas bag would ever remain among the impossible things, and any man who undertook to defly gravitation was looked upon as legitimate prey not only for the paragraphers, but for all amateur parlor comedians. Langley, on the other hand, KNEW that he was right. He had satisfied himself that if he could get the proper sort of a motor and work out a few minor details his aeroplane theory would make good. Having the thing firmly established in his own mind it was little wonder that he got sick and tired of the gibes and mirth that his efforts produced.

* * *

The Wright boys would have been laughed at during the experimental stage of their work just as heartily as Langley was, except that Langley being located in a big news center like Washington was unable to keep his plans and movements so well to himself. At that, the hereof writer, who used to live near the Wrights' experiment field, can recall the tolerant amusement and derision that they excited throughout that part of the country. It is interesting to recall, too, that on the very day the Wrights first contrived to fly, there was in type in a big Southern Ohio newspaper office a long editorial explaining in a learned way just why flying with a heavier-than-air machine was a scientific impossibility. When it was reported that the Wrights had really flown, that editorial was "held over," pending an investigation of the report. It was kept in type for a week or two. But it was never printed.

All this, however, is clear away from our main subject, which happens to be a joke the boys played on Frederick W. Steckman when he struck Washington.

Steckman, now a well known Washington newspaper writer, came to the capital from Missouri to take a job on a paper. On the second day after his arrival, his associates got their heads together and said:

"Well, I guess we'd better send the cub down to interview Langley."

It was agreed that that should be done and one of the group motioned for Steckman and called him to one side.

"The office has just had a tip," this man explained, "that an odd-looking aerial craft was seen flying over the Potomac about daylight this morning. It may have been some huge bird, but it occurs to me that the most plausible theory is that Langley has at last succeeded in flying his airship. Now if you were to run and see him and get a statement that he did fly over the Potomac you can see what a feather it will be in your cap. I wish I had my work up so that I could go myself. Still, you're new on the paper and I'd like to see you have your chance."

Steckman was young and ambitious and full of enthusiasm and did not wait to hear any more. He dashed out into the street and inquired the way to Langley's office over at the Smithsonian institution.

* * *

Now imagine the situation. Langley was about ready to kill any newspaper man who dared so much as even mention the word "flying machine," and here was a chap who had the sublime affrontery to walk boldly in and ask him casually if he had been flying about a bit that morning.

If you have ever been butted all over the back lot with a pet goat and then had some waggish neighbor drop over to inquire how you're getting along with the goat, you may frame up some idea of how Langley felt right at that moment. It never occurred to him that Steckman had come for the purpose except to make sport of his failure to fly.

In a rage Langley began to roar and erupt a stream of depreciating epithets. Steckman was so frightened and startled that he never even thought to run. All he could think of was what an attractive world and what a lot of good friends he would leave behind him.

Finally he managed to utter a remark that he was new in town and had come in the utmost good faith. When the storm had subsided somewhat he endeavored to convince Langley that he was not a professional joker.

* * *

"Well, I'll take a chance on you," said Langley. "I'll dictate a statement showing just what it is I'm working on."

He called in a stenographer and dictated a long explanation of his scientific work in the weighing of air currents and the difficulties of getting a motor that could overcome the variations in the different strata of air encountered—the same problem that has been one of the chief puzzles of aerial navigators down to the present day.

"Use it or garble it or mutilate what I say in whatever you're of a mind to," enjoined Langley as Steckman started away, "but I'm going to take a chance on you just because you have a rather intelligent face."

* * *

To the great astonishment of those who were holding in their laughter until Steckman should return, he reentered the newspaper office neither crippled or empty-handed.

Instead he quietly sat down and revamped the first statement ever given to the public by Langley about the problem of air currents that confronted those who would fly.

Steckman fixed up the statement for the Sunday issue of the paper and then worked it over for one or two of the leading scientific journals of the country.

From the Home Garden

Indianapolis News: Homegrown tomatoes, homegrown green beans, homegrown sweet corn, homegrown onions, homegrown potatoes, homegrown radishes? All these, and more, fall to the lot of the man that likes to delve into the earth in the spring and summer while his neighbor seeks the golf grounds. And the home gardener is getting his revenge now, for what can compare with tomatoes fresh from one's own back yard garden? There is a flavor, a "whip" to them that comes like a benison to the city dweller who for weeks has been eating the insipid offerings from the southland. It is fine business to be able to say nonchalantly to the broker next door when he dilates on the fine tomatoes that he purchased at the market:

"Yes, the market gives one a choice of some mighty fine vegetables, but I (and secretly you may be justified in puffing up at the pronoun) raise enough in my back yard to make me independent of the tomatoes and other vegetables of the market."

Talk about "plucking bright honor from the palefaced moon!" whatever that means; 'tis far better to pluck a big, fat tomato basking in the sun and begging you to pull it. One might almost paraphrase an old saying and remark that he that raiseth his own tomatoes is greater than he that taketh a city. There is considerable satisfaction, too, in knowing that you can make a tiny tomato plant do your bidding to the extent of furnishing a favorite summer food. A garden is both an education and a health giver.

Under the influence of the sun and water, whether from the skies or via the water company, one can almost see it grow. And 'tis little ye amateur gardener cares about the high cost of living. With his beans, and corn and potatoes and all the et ceteras, he may almost become a stranger to the grocer. And as an appetite whetter for the garden product, just get out into the garden with a hoe these fine summer mornings before the dew has fled before the sun.

The Call to the Colors.

O world's women, sisters of every seeming,
Wake, for there's heavy work this day for us to do!
The word goes forth, it must not find us dreaming:
The woman's call to colors sounds the whole world through!
Gardens are trampled down, fields devastated;
None is too weak, too strong, that she may stand apart,
With breasting babes orphaned, wife and maid unmated,
Our men aiming bullets at every woman's heart!

O world's woman, mothers of every trial,
Not for war's blasphemy your travail pains are borne,
Or sons reared to manhood by love and self-denial,
Your holy aureole to turn to crown of thorn!
Is not this the right for which ye are striving,
Passing man's power to endow you or deny;
Men-children reared in ways of honest thriving,
Slaughtered and slaughterer, ye shall not let them die?

O world's women, lovers of every nation,
Now, where the thunderbolts of war are being hurled,
March on to victory—of peace throughout the world!

—Marguerite Merington in New York Times.

British Religious Opinion.

Methodist Times of London: What is the enemy? We answer without hesitation, there is only one Caesarism, and we have only one objective—to destroy it. Only thus can we enable the nations of the world to live together in peace and good will.

This is not a war of peoples and not the result of mad outburst of man passion anywhere. No democracy wanted it; no international hatreds have been at work; there is no material greed or ambition among the impelling motives which cause us to accept the dread arbitrament of war. The conscience of Great Britain, France and heroic Belgium is an absolutely clear one, and the only foe is the military despotism of the German peoples with the kaiser as their war lord.

German military caste has misunderstood every human factor with which it has to deal, and has counted on the unreadiness of Russia, the supposed worthlessness of France, and the spiritlessness and political divisions of Great Britain.

Hope.

Peoria Journal: A lone star peeped through a cloudy sky. There had been an angry storm, jet black in darkness, and it seemed as if the whole of the firmament had been shrouded forever.

But first the lone star blinked its little message of hope to an oppressed world; then, by and by, another, and another—till, lo! the sky was clear, its great dome studded with millions of cheering lights.

Of course, the stars had been there all the time, shining serenely through unnumbered centuries, as they will shine through aeons to come.

It was only a wisp of fog and mist—a very little one, comparatively—which blotted them out from view; and it soon faded away.

It is always so.

Look at the stars and take courage.

A Protectionist Heaven.

New York World: These ought to be happy days for our high protection friends. War has built a higher tariff wall around the country than legislation ever dared attempt.

We are no longer compelled to compete with the pauper products of Europe. Foreign manufacturers are all excluded from our markets. To be sure, we are largely excluded from their markets, too; but the home market is the thing. We have protection in the most complete form that it has been kpown since the Napoleonic wars and even Uncle Joe Cannon ought to be happy until the Illinois farmers begin to ask questions.

A Novel Feature of the War.

Ohio State Journal: One novel feature of the situation is that Japan, being a heathen nation, does not lay all the blame on God, the way the others piously do.

Why He Was Suspected.

Philadelphia Ledger: "If there wasn't any evidence against him, why did you arrest him?"

"There wasn't any evidence against anybody else."

Governorship Talk

What the State Press Thinks

May Be Too Late.

Anoka Union: The Lee crowds have come off from their high horse and are willing to placate the Eberhart following. Doubt if they meet with success.

No, Just Beginning.

Pine River Sentinel-Blaze: There is considerable anxiety on the part of the Lee machine on account of the Republican rush to the Hammond ranks. From all over the state come reports that Hammond clubs are being formed out of Eberhart supporters. And the end is not yet.

Must Write New Speeches.

Wabasha Herald: W. E. Lee and his followers are banking heavily on their ability this fall to put Congressman Hammond in bad with the farmers because of his tariff record, but they are due to be disappointed. Word comes that the state is about to harvest the biggest crop of cereals in its history, and, what is better, that prices will be fully in keeping with previous years. It is said that speeches with the tariff as the chief argument have been prepared for those Republican spellbinders who will tour the state in Mr. Lee's behalf. That they will be revised before the campaign is over is pretty certain.

But How About the Election?

Preston Times: Oregon is said to have no less than fifty candidates for governor. Some one among them should come to Minnesota and find out how Lee worked the elimination process. The ordinary voters might thus be saved the trouble of making a choice.

The Only Way Out.

McIntosh Times: If you voted for A. O. Eberhart at the last primary election you are "a corruptionist and morally depraved," according to the statement of William E. Lee, the Long Prairie candidate for governor. What can Lee expect to gain by thus insulting the thousands of Minnesota citizens who cast their votes for the present governor? Surely nothing but defeat. Contrast the two candidates, the muckraking Lee and W. S. Hammond, whose life conduct in and out of politics is above reproach. If you were an Eberhart supporter and wish to keep out of the ranks of the corruptionists and morally depraved, cast your vote for W. S. Hammond.

Teaching Disloyalty.

Le Sueur News: We would not wonder if some of Mr. Lee's chickens came home to roost. He has been teaching disloyalty to the Republican nominees and there is a noise in the air that sounds like danger to him. If he and Mr. Rines want to contest the nomination of Mr. Preus, why did they not go after the issue as it is instead of a pet judge to preside? If it is the people's fight they are making, strike the issue. Or is the whole another Lee determination to rule? There is an election in November, and the people vote.

Followed Hammond's Lead.

St. Cloud Times: Like the humble bug, William E. Lee, Republican candidate for governor, is a little slow, but he gets there after a while. He has now announced that he will support the plan proposed by Governor Eberhart and indorsed by W. S. Hammond for the reorganization of the state government proposed by the efficiency and economy commission.

Invisible Logic.

Life: The railroad company will put you on an elaborate train, duly fitted with an expensive locomotive burning expensive coal, and ride you all night from New York to Pittsburg for the sum of $9. The telephone company, however, will charge you $2.50 for riding your voice the same distance during the space of three minutes.

It costs less to send a human body of, say 150 pounds, plus a trunk of 150 pounds, between these two points and between other points than it does to send four voices. A layman must assume that a situation such as this is based upon infallible logic, but even a layman may be pardoned for hinting that the logic is invisible.

A Parable.

Kansas City Times: A young artist once persuaded Whistler to come and view his latest effort. The two stood before the canvas for some moments in silence. Finally the young man asked, timidly: "Don't you think, sir, that this painting of mine is—well—er—tolerable?"

Whistler's eyes twinkled dangerously.

"What is your opinion of a tolerable egg?" he asked.

Whom the Gods Would Destroy

The Independent: Ancient history closed at midnight of July 31, 1914. The monstrous war with which modern history begins will end, as the big and little wars of the old days did. This is hard to realize now, but the sooner those men upon whom will fall the duty of shaping a new order of things begin to think about their problem, the better it will be for all concerned.

There will be some accounts to be settled after peace is declared, and the biggest one will be that which Enlightenment has against Medievalism.

Whatever causes of strife may have been lurking in the minds of the peoples of Europe, they would not have massed and exploded in this demonaic war without the agency of the Head Devils. Race differences there are. Conflicting national interests there are. The growth of populations already dense, and looking for new opportunities for enterprise and livelihood, has been disturbing economic equilibrium. Religious antagonisms have fostered hatred. But none of these things by itself, nor all of them in combination, would have made war if the consuming vanity, the monstrous egotism, and the medieval-mindedness of the absolute monarchs had not been thrown into the scale.

Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad. Mad with the lust of power, drunk with their own egotism, the Head Devils have signed their own doom.

Provided for Now.

Ladies' Home Journal: Bobby had been taught to remember all his relatives when he said his prayers. One night, as he knelt at his mother's knee, he did not mention the name of a favorite aunt.

"Why, Bobby," said the mother, "you didn't say 'God bless Aunt Beatrice and make her happy'."

"Well, mother," replied the little boy, "I don't have to say that any more. Aunt Beatrice's engaged."

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest; but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

During the last few days The Herald has received many communications regarding the war, that were worded in such a way as to stir up racial feeling. The Herald will bar from its Open Court columns such letters, as they serve no good purpose, and can only create bitter and fruitless discussion. Dispassionate communications regarding the war will be received and published, but The Herald reserves the right to censor any letters on the war which are so partisan as to arouse racial prejudice.

The United States is out of this war and The Herald wants to do its little share in keeping it out.—The Editor.

TOO SILLY TO ANSWER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

There is considerable talk around the various offices relative to the treatment of the war news by the various newspapers throughout the country, and especially by the two Duluth papers.

I have heard it charged again and again that the press was subsidized, especially The Herald, by the German interests.

Previous to this it was generally charged by German residents that the press was favorable to the allies.

My personal opinion is that no man in this country has a right to express his opinion in argument as to the actual causes of the present war, or to the merits of the claims made by the various nations, for the simple reason that there are very few people in America today who do actually know the real causes underlying surface causes, and who really can form an unbiased opinion as to the merits or demerits of the various nations involved.

In my humble opinion it would be a calamity for either side to win. Germany would be drunk with power and would doubtless consolidate with Austria, and together annex a goodly portion of France, Russia, several of the Balkan states and Belgium, as well as demand an enormous war indemnity as she did in 1870, while if the allies win, France will be looking for revenge, Russia will want German Poland, Servia her share, Belgium her indemnity, and England half if not all of the German colonies, and then Russia on one side and France and England on the other would dream the old dream of world control. Therefore, I say it would be a calamity for either to win. The best result would be for both sides to get such a licking that would make them both glad to quit, and in the meantime there should be no reason why this country should not profit greatly in a commercial way.

All Germans, English, French, Canadians or Austrians in this country, born here or naturalized, should remember that they are American citizens and nothing else, and refrain from becoming too argumentative over the merits of the fatherland.

Any American citizen who goes back to the old country to fight should no longer be allowed the protection of the flag. No man can serve two masters. If he is an American, the ties of the past are broken; if not, then he is not a true citizen and should be treated as an alien.

As to the talk of local papers being subsidized, I leave that charge to you to answer. Yours truly,

C. E. L.

NOT A CATHOLIC CHURCH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In order to prevent any possible misunderstanding I deem it but fair to inform the local papers and the public at large that St. Josaphat's church, corner of Third avenue east and Fifth street, and members belonging to it, have no connection whatever with the Catholic body.

They call themselves the "Polish National" or "Independent church," and are not and do not want to be considered a part of the Catholic church.

It is true that they are entered in the city directory as "St. Josaphat's Polish National Catholic church," but that is manifestly due to a misapprehension of terms. "Polish National Catholic church" has about as much sense in church denomination as a "white blackbird" would have in ornithology.

Even the term "Polish National church" is hardly applicable to them. The most conservative estimate makes the Polish people full 22,000,000 strong, and, surely, 15,500,000 of them are Catholics. The so-called "Kosciol Polski Narodowy" or "Polish National church" originated in this county twenty-five or so years ago and has now some 15,000 members.

Bickering is not my aim. I merely desire to correct the impression that Catholic Poles danced for the benefit of some Catholic church at the Auditorium last Saturday.

ENGLAND AND GERMANY

By SAVOYARD

Washington, Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—If asked for opinion of the most wonderful speech either house of the American congress ever heard, and mindful of Webster and Hayne, the time, without hesitation my answer would be that of John Randolph of Roanoke deprecating war between Great Britain and our country. It is a verity of heredity that this John Randolph, Thomas Jefferson, John Marshall and Robert E. Lee were all sprung from a common ancestress—a Randolph—of the early eighteenth century. Randolph parted company with Jefferson on the question and aligned himself with Washington and Hamilton when the issue was war with England.

In that wonderful oration Randolph described a war between England and the United States as a conflict between a tiger and a shark. I am satisfied that he drew the figure from some ancient classic, but I have never yet been able to trace it. After he had conquered France and made Germany the master of Continental Europe, Otto von Bismarck speculated that a war between England and Germany would be a fight between a whale and an elephant. It is manifest that Bismarck was a close student, not only of the political polity, but of the political literature of our republic, and therefore it is with confidence that it may be asserted that he got his figure from Randolph of Roanoke.

• • •

Greatest German that he was, Bismarck never saw in future a war between Germany and England. All tradition was against it. England, basically Teuton, was the hereditary enemy of France, that is Latin. Once there was a conflict between England and France that is known to history as the "Hundred Years' war." Edward III, a great soldier and a great statesman, king of England, proposed to nullify "the Salic law," and be king of France. He invaded his adversary and took Calais. His heroic son, the Black Prince—with red hair and beard—approved himself the very spoiled child of victory, the darlingest child of the Plantagenet dynasty:

"Poictiers and Crecy tell thy victory."

And so that war began and English arms were victorious. Later another, heir to the English crown, Shakespeare's Prince Hal, defeated rebellion at home and subsequently as king of England invaded France and won Agincourt. He overran the kingdom and was crowned king of France, taking for Queen Kate, the daughter of the conquered dominion, and the English held it, aided as they were by the internecine strife of Armagne, Burgundian and 10,000 rough riders who made France a hell on earth.

And so it was till the maid of Orleans came and expelled the foreign tyrant. I see that the story is getting too long. England held Calais till the greatest captain of his age, Guise, took it when Henry II was king of France at the beginning of the Religious wars.

• • •

Between Edward III and Cromwell, several centuries, England and France were enemies, but they joined against Spain and licked her. When Charles II was restored, the ablest, and possibly the most worthless of the Stuarts, he allowed England to be the stipendiary of France of which his cousin, Louis IV, was king, but he never fought the Germans, though he waged war rather unsuccessfully against the Dutch. That we may say was about 1670.

The Stuart was deposed. Dutch William came on deck and there was bloody war between England and France. France licked the English in several battles and the treaty of Ryswick resulted, an account of which you will read in Macaulay that will make your mouth water.

• • •

Not long after that old James II, last of the Stuarts, died at St. Germaines and his cousin, old Louis XIV, was fool enough to acknowledge his son as king of England. William of Orange died about that time and Anne became queen. The war of the Spanish Succession began and lasted about a dozen years. Marlborough and Eugene were the heroes of that great struggle and at the end France was prostrate.

A preacher in England of the established church, an obscure priest, delivered himself of a sermon that caused the greatest row you ever heard of, and the disgrace of Marlborough followed, peace came, and for a time Bolingbroke and Harley were supreme. All in all the war of the Spanish Succession was the most glorious for England of all the struggles between the two countries since Agincourt.

• • •

Later came the Seven Years' war, from which England emerged victor, ally of the German, as she had been for more than a century. When licked at Fontenoy, England was in alliance with the German. There are going to be more battles like that of which the Irish poet sang of the charge of the Irish brigade:

"Steady they step adown the slope,
Steady they mount the hill;
Steady they lead, steady they fire,
Moving right onward still."

Everybody knows about the Napoleonic wars, when England and Germany fought the Corsican and mastered him.

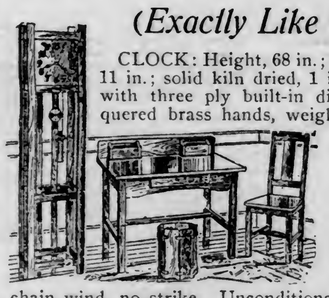

What I started to say is this—so far as my recollection of history goes this is the first time Germany and England have been on opposing sides in any war.

FORMATION OF VARIOUS ARMIES

Troops of Warring Nations Are Organized Upon Similar Plan to That of the United States Army.

The bloody conflict, in which the powers of the Old World are now engaged has made the study of the organization of the leading armies of the world an interesting one and almost necessary in order to intelligently understand reports which reach this country from the war zone. A few comparisons of army organizations compiled from an authoritative source follow:

United States Army.

A company of soldiers in the American army, recruited to full war strength, consists of 150 men. This includes machine gun men and those of the quartermaster's staff and headquarters detachment who enlist as members of the infantry company. Taking a company as a unit, the organization is carried out along the following lines:

A company consisting of 150 men.

An infantry regiment consisting of three battalions.

A brigade consisting of two (in some instances three) regiments.

An army corps consisting of two or three divisions.

A division not only consists of three infantry brigades comprising 14,220 men, but it also includes the following: One regiment cavalry, 1,269 men; two regiments artillery, 2,395 men; one battalion engineers, 528 men; quartermaster's corps, 53 men; one battalion signal troops, 217 men; four ambulance companies and cemetery troops, 602 men; ammunition train, 190 men; supply train, 221 men; pack train, 14 men. Total, 19,752 men. An army corps consists either of twice or three times that number.

The German Army.

The organization of the German army is somewhat similar in character. A company of German soldiers, recruited to full war strength, consists of 250 men. Four or more companies constituted a battalion.

Six battalions form an infantry regiment.

Two regiments form a brigade.

Two or more brigades form a division.

Two divisions form an army corps.

A 3-brigade division at war strength numbers about 21,000 men after taking into consideration the necessary auxiliary troops. An army corps, to which are attached four batteries of howitzers and a battalion of rifles, comprises about 43,000 men.

The cavalry division is composed of three brigades of two regiments each in addition to two or three batteries of horse artillery, a total of twenty-four squadrons and eight to twelve guns.

The Germany army, according to the latest authorities, consists of twenty-five corps, whose war strength is (1) active army, 1,700,000; (2) Landwehr, 1,300,000 and (3) Landsturm, 1,000,000; total, 4,000,000 men.

The French Army.

Two infantry regiments, comprising six to eight battalions, form a brigade.

Two brigades form a division.

Two divisions an army corps.

To each division is attached a field artillery regiment of nine batteries of four guns each.

Each corps on a war footing has 144 guns. Its strength on a war footing is 33,000 men.

A cavalry division recruited to full war strength has 4,700 men.

The French field army is composed of twenty army corps, a brigade of 14 battalions and 10 divisions of cavalry.

The full war strength of the active army is 1,009,000; reserves, 1,600,000; territorial army, 818,000; territorial reserve, 451,000; total, 3,878,000.

The Russian Army.

The organization of a Russian army force, of which there are three, the army of European Russia, the army of the Caucasus and the Asiatic army, is as follows:

One battalion is composed of 1,000 men.

Two regiments constitute a brigade.

Two brigades constitute a division.

The standard army corps, recruited to war strength, is composed of two divisions of infantry, a howitzer division, one battalion of sappers, or in all about 32,000 men.

The peace strength of the Russian army is 1,284,000. The war strength is 5,962,306.

Austria-Hungary's Army.

Each army corps is composed of two divisions and numbers about 34,000 men.

Each division is composed of two brigades of eight battalions each, in addition to one artillery brigade of ten batteries and six guns, a regiment of cavalry and other auxiliary detachments.

There are six cavalry divisions, consisting of two brigades, three batteries of horse artillery and a machine gun detachment, numbering in all about 4,000 men.

The peace establishment of Austria-Hungary is 472,716 and the strength of her regular army is 1,360,000.

EFFORT TO WRECK TROOP TRAIN FAILS.

Valcartier, Que., Sept. 1.—An unsuccessful attempt to wreck a troop train on the Canadian Northern railway about ninety miles east of Montreal by placing an iron rail across the tracks was made, according to an announcement made here by Lieut.-Col. Creelman, commander of the Twenty-first battery of Montreal. Running more than forty miles an hour, the train brushed aside the obstruction into the ditch and slowed down to a standstill a little further on.

VERY UNSIGHTLY PIMPLES ON FACE

Red and Festered. Also Had Dandruff. Could Be Seen Plainly. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Free from Pimples and Dandruff.

New Sharon, Iowa.—"Two or three years ago pimples began to come on my face and I had dandruff. The pimples made a very unsightly appearance. They were red and numerous, some came to a head and festered and the itching caused me to scratch them. The dandruff on my head could be plainly seen.

"I tried several remedies but they only temporarily relieved me. I had been bothered with the trouble two or three years when I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. So I sent for a free sample and I noticed relief from them, and I bought more. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and am now free from pimples and dandruff." REVENUE CUTTER FAILS AT RESCUE

Bear Is Returning Without Refugees From Wrangell Island.

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 1.—The revenue cutter Bear, which left Nome July 24 for Wrangell island, via Point Barrow, to rescue the eighteen white men, three Eskimo men and one Eskimo woman, who found shelter on the island after Stefansson's exploring ship Karluk had been wrecked last June, is returning to Nome without the castaways.

The Bear sent word ahead that she ran short of coal, and after coaling at Nome she will again set out for Wrangell island.

It is not known how near the Bear approached to Wrangell island. It is believed that the Bear does not know a Russian steamer is seeking the refugees. The Laimir the Russian steamer, is well adapted to the work.

HOME RULE ROUSES YELLS IN COMMONS

Asquith Says Question Will Be Raised on Sept. 9.

London, Sept. 1.—For a moment yesterday afternoon the house of commons, turning from its country's danger, reverted to the old controversy over Ireland. Premier Asquith had announced that on reassembling Sept. 9 the government would proceed with the home rule and Welsh re-establishment bills, and John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists in the house of commons, expressed hope that if the government's proposals did not meet with the approval of the whole public the government would not change its intention in regard to home rule.

Former Premier A. J. Balfour immediately rose and said that if the government again introduced home rule its course would arouse apprehension. This pronouncement brought an angry roar from the Ministerialists, during which Mr. Balfour stood unmoved. When quiet was resumed he said that to introduce the bill while many members were serving at the front could only arouse a most heated controversy.

Again the Ministerialists roared "Shame," which cry was met with angry counter cheers from the opposition. There was another angry shout from the Nationalists and Ministerialists when the house proceeded with other business.

TAX ALL DRINKS AND AMUSEMENT TICKETS

Congress May Levy Also on Patent Medicines and Railway Fares.

Washington, Sept. 1.—A stamp tax on soft drinks as well as beer and patent medicines is contemplated by members of the house ways and means committee which is preparing an emergency internal revenue bill to offset treasury losses due to curtailment of imports. It is urged that soft drinks are as much luxuries as wines or beer, and that an equitable distribution of the tax burden among all consumers would be accomplished by this plan.

Another suggestion is a stamp tax of 5 or 10 per cent on railroad tickets and admission to theaters, baseball parks and other licensed amusements. It is estimated that from $50,000,000 to $80,000,000 could be raised in this way.

The committee has not determined upon a complete taxation plan as yet, but purposes to hasten its deliberations so a bill may be introduced soon after President Wilson addresses congress on the subject, which probably will be immediately upon his return from New Hampshire. Administration leaders are impressed with the necessity of quick action, in order to disturb business conditions as little as possible. Democrats of the senate will discuss the emergency in a party caucus to be called later this week.

A doubling of the present tax on beer, it is estimated by treasury experts, would produce $65,000,000. Some committee members, however, feel that taxation of commodities other than beer and patent medicines would cause less popular friction.

Among the committee Democrats there has been some opposition to any war tax at all at this session, the contention being that there is plenty of available money for present needs.

MORATORIUM IN ENGLAND EXTENDED.

London, Sept. 1.—David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, announced in the house of commons last night that the moratorium would be extended for a month. It would be too risky, he said, to bring it to an end at once.

REED'S AMENDMENT TO TRUST BILL LOST.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Senator Reed's amendment to the Clayton anti-trust bill to prohibit absolutely one interstate corporation from owning stock in another interstate corporation engaged in the same line of business was defeated in the senate. That left the bill prohibiting such ownership "where the effect of such acquisition is to eliminate or substantially lessen competition."

The seamen's bill revising regulations of service on American ships has been sidetracked in the senate, for fear that additional restrictions on shipping would have a harmful effect during the European crisis when other measures are being enacted to encourage a merchant marine.

SEEK TO HURRY WORK OF THE PRIZE COURT

Washington, Sept. 1.—British embassy officials are in constant communication with the state department with a view to expediting the organization of English prize courts and simplifying the machinery for their operation. Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador, called at the department yesterday in this connection, it is understood.

The government is anxious to have the courts begin sittings, that neutral commerce that may be part of the cargo of prizes may be restored promptly to its legal owners, and the American government shares in the British desire for simplicity and expedition.

In cases of capture at sea, according to international law, it becomes the first duty of the captor to convey the prize to a port of its own nation or one of its allies for adjudication by special tribunals, which may sit in the ports or territory of a belligerent, or in those of an ally, but not in neutral ports.

The function of these courts is solely to determine whether the capture was legally made, and in arriving at decisions, the stipulations of treaties are obligatory upon the nations which have agreed to them, and prize courts are bound to respect these treaties in settling controversies between the subjects of citizens of signatory powers.

A GREAT SPORT!

Billiards and bowling are among the finest of sports. They are developing and exhilerating and are health giving, providing the surroundings are right. One of the most important elements to a proper enjoyment of the game is plenty of fresh air. Too often this has been overlooked and the comfort and health of the players menaced by bad ventilation. A properly ventilated billiard hall or bowling alley is a joy forever. The Jackson Billiard Hall and Bowling Alley in Superior is such a one. It is a sample of the work we do. Examine it!

Giroux, Mr. and Mrs. William Bordeleau, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph La Vergne, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Duford, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Olsen, Mr. and Mrs. D. Tifer, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brassard, Misses E. A. PLAYGROUNDS WILL BE POPULAR Boys of Various Schools Plan Active Football Season.

Playgrounds of the West end will be freely used this fall, according to plans being made by youngsters of this end of the city. Although the baseball season is fast coming to an end the boys do not intend to let the grounds lie idle and have already started plans for fast football teams which will represent the various districts.

The Bryant school boys will have a fast team in the field and go after the graded school city championship. These boys have already planned to use the Harrison grounds at Thirtieth avenue and Third street for their practice. Boys of the Monroe school are makking plans for using the playground recently fixed up by the Duluth Street Railway company at Twenty-seventh avenue and Superior street and the lads of the Lincoln school intend to have their practice games at Lincoln park above Eighth street.

The Adams school will also have a fast team in the field this year. This school has for several years been one of the contenders for championship honors. The pupils will practice on grounds opposite the school on Superior street, and on Saturdays will use one of the other playgrounds or else the grounds at Thirty-second avenue.

STRONG DEMAND AT PUBLIC MARKET.

Market day attracted a large crowd of residents at the West end market place this morning. Six farmers who brought produce to the place found a ready demand for their garden truck. At the West Duluth market the demand for the vegetables was just as strong, all of the farmers being able to leave the place for their farms by 10 o'clock.

RAPID WORK ON NEW PAVEMENT.

The paving of Michigan and Superior streets between Twelfth and Fifteenth avenues west is being pushed rapidly. It is expected to have the brick all laid on the upper side of the street before Saturday evening.

The crew has already started tearing up the old surfacing on the lower side of the street. The part of the thoroughfare between Thirteenth and Fifteenth avenues has been closed to traffic and this is being swung down on Michigan street.

The thirteenth annual session of the state normal school at Duluth will open Tuesday, Sept. 8, which is registration day, both for students of the normal department and pupils of the training school.

The additions being made to the main building will add greatly to the efficiency of the work and provide additional space that has been needed to take care of the increasing attendance. Several new class rooms are provided and unusually fine quarters for the department of home economics. The second floor of the new east wing will be devoted to the uses of the library while the extension at the rear will provide a very attractive new auditorium and an excellent gymnasium. The improvements will be completed within a short time and ready for use.

Miss Ghering is a graduate of a teachers college and comes to Duluth from the state normal school at Normal, Ill.

Miss Jacobi comes from the state normal school at Whitewater, Wis.

The prospects for an increased attendance are very encouraging. The applications for rooms at the halls have been much more numerous than ever before and make it evident that additional space is needed.

DESTRUCTION MADE BY WAR APPALLING

Liege, Vise and Herstal Present Deplorable Aspect.

London, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Reuter agency from Ostend says that a small party which has just returned there from a visit to Liege describes the destruction wrought by the war as appalling.

"All along the road to Vise," said one of the party, "there was nothing to be seen but walls blackened by smoke, the remains of burned factories, mounds of earth freshly dug, the sepulchres of the first Germans to fall.

"And then comes Vise. What a painful sight for those who knew the proud city, so typical of Walloon gaiety and now nothing but a mass of ruins, while many of the inhabitants lie all over the place, their carcasses riddled with bullets. I was told here that the natives were put to work building roads for the invaders from Vise to Aix La Chappelle.

"On the way to Argenteau we met a procession of able-bodied men, marching four abreast and commanded by a non-commissioned officer, all carrying implements for road or trench building. These men have to submit to discipline draconic in severity.

"Herstal, usually filled with the busy hum of activity in factories, coal mines and workshops, we found plunged into deathlike stillness.

"At last we entered Liege. The inhabitants stood at the threshhold of their homes, silent and anxious, but afraid to speak. The streets in the middle of the town were a deplorable aspect. Many houses had been abandoned.

"The doors and windows were shuttered and their contents had been removed. Nobody but soldiers was to be seen. The Place d'Universite, the Rue Des Pitteurs and the Qual Des Pecherus, had been burned."

WITNESS TELLS OF SINKING OF ARIADNE

Describes Some Details of Naval Fight Off Helgoland.

Berlin, via Copenhagen to London, Sept. 1.—An eye-witness of the loss of the German cruiser Ariadne and the German torpedo boat destroyer V-157 in the fighting between British and German warships off Helgoland Friday, relates the following story of the fight:

"The destroyer was surprised in a fog by a large number of British destroyers and submarines. When the speed of the German destroyer became affected by the shells, it turned and confronted the enemy with the intention of fighting to the end. Her engines, however, soon completely failed her, and she was blown up to prevent capture. Her crew continued firing until the boat disappeared beneath the waves."

Praises British Efforts.

The narrator acknowledges the efforts of the British seamen to save the German sailors, saying that despite the danger involved, they launched their boats for this purpose.

"While this was in progress," he continues, "German ships approached the British forces, and their boats and the German ships picked up survivors.

"The cruiser Ariadne arrived and followed the enemy, which retired westward, and found another German ship fighting two British battleship cruisers of the Lion class, which were greatly superior to the German.

Fought With Ship Ablaze.

"The quarterdeck of the Ariadne took fire, but those of her guns that were still capable of being worked continued to fire. The enemy turned westward.

"The forecastle of the Ariadne was soon ablaze. Her magazine was flooded, but the gallant vessel was doomed. Her crew was mustered and gave three cheers for the emperor and sang the hymn, 'Germany Above All.'

"The enemy vanished and two German ships came up and rescued the survivors, among whom were a great number of wounded.

"Three officers and some seventy men were killed."

EAST PRUSSIANS FLEE IN TERROR.

Geneva, Switzerland, via Paris, Sept. 1.—News received here from Berlin and Frankfort, where refugees continue to arrive from East Prussia, is to the effect that the terror of the refugees is spreading to the towns along the railroad line, and that a great exodus from them is expected shortly.

Refugees arriving here from Danzig, East Prussia, say the advance guard of the Russian Cossacks has been seen in that neighborhood.

The destruction of Louvain, Belgium, has created much indignation among Americans in Switzerland, many of whom knew the city well. It is reported here that there were several Americans as well as English and Swiss victims in Louvain.

BRITISH STEAMER SUNK BY GERMANS.

New York, Sept. 1.—The British steamship Holmwood has been sunk by a German cruiser off the coast of South America, according to a cablegram received here by the owners of the Katherin Park, which has the crew of the ship aboard. The cablegram, which was from Rio Janeiro, did not state the time or place of the sinking, nor did it give the name of the German cruiser.

The Holmwood, which was a vessel of 4,223 tons gross register, was on her way from Newport, Eng., to Bahia Blanco, having left the latter port on July 29. The ship was 375 feet long, built in 1912 and was owned by F. S. Holland of London.

WOUNDED SOON CAN REJOIN REGIMENTS.

Paris, Sept. 1.—Seven hundred wounded soldiers arrived yesterday at Vichy from Lorraine. Some of them say the fighting in Lorraine was most violent.

A new convoy of wounded also arrived at Clermont-Ferrand. The surgeons there state that 80 per cent of the wounded will be able to rejoin their regiments before October. Already sixty-five of the wounded have left Clermont-Ferrant for the front. An ovation was accorded them before they departed.

A dispatch to the Havas agency says a group of German prisoners, among them fifteen Alsatians, arrived at Castress, department of Tarn, yesterday, and that a patriotic demonstration occurred when the Alsatians, passing through the crowded streets, shouted "Long live France."

The Truth About The Baking Powder Controversy

Do you know why the Baking Powder Trust is protesting so strongly against the introduction of Calumet Baking Powder in your vicinity? Because the Trust knows that wherever Calumet is introduced it Becomes the popular and leading seller. The Trust knows it is used in millions of homes, that the price, 25c per pound, makes it popular.

The best baking powder in the world can be and is made to retail at 25c per pound.

The Trust asks 45c to 50c per pound for theirs.

The Trust knows it must do something to stem the tide of popularity of Calumet, must do something desperate.

The Trust has resorted to a silly attack upon the purity and wholesomeness of Calumet Baking Powder.

Calumet's wonderful growth and popularity is due to its wholesomeness and economy.

All we ask is that you give Calumet one trial at our expense., We will be satisfied with your verdict. If not satisfactory, return your first can to your grocer and he will refund your money.

The Twenty Million Dollar Baking Powder Trust fears that if Calumet is once tried, it will always be used. Therefore the Trust is carrying misleading statements from door to door, or resorting to misleading advertisements. But this misrepresentation will finally reflect to the honor and gain of Calumet, as it has heretofore.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

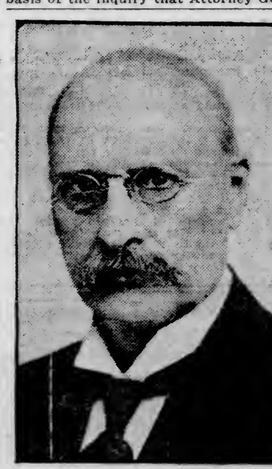

WORST SAYS PLOT EXISTS

North Dakota Farm College Head Lays Charges Before Governor.

Scents Scheme to Remove Him and Others of Faculty.

Bismarck, N. D., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—President J. H. Worst of the North Dakota Agricultural college in submitting to Governor L. B. Hanna a letter citing conditions created by the board of trustees of the institution which, he believes, constitutes grounds for the removal of such trustees, charges the existence of a plot to remove him from the college presidency.

President Worst's letter, forming the basis of the inquiry that Attorney General Andy Miller is making into the question of alleged illegal actions by the college board of trustees, is the sensational feature of the contest that has been waged for some time at the agricultural college and in which friction between Thomas Cooper, director of the experiment station, and President J. H. Worst has simmered to the surface.

PRESIDENT J. H. WORST.

President Worst asks Governor Hanna if the college trustees have the right to make any faculty member on a basis equal to the president and wants to know how far he is responsible for such faculty members as may so be designated by the board of trustees.

Scents Removal Plot.

The president also claims that there is a plot under way to remove Prof. E. F. Ladd and Prof. H. L. Bolley of the college.

A majority of the members of the board of trustees, who are attacked, will retire at the end of the present year by virtue of the expiration of their terms. C. E. Nugent of Fargo, George H. Hollister of Fargo, Clark W. Kelly of Devils Lake and Peter Elliott of Fargo are the trustees whose terms have only four months to run.

An assistant in the office of the attorney general is investigating the questions raised by President Worst and a report will be forthcoming soon.

Last spring he was arrested here on a charge of grand larceny, but escaped from the city jail. He secured a horse and two guns and was chased by the officials through the bad lands, but made his getaway in the darkness, after being compelled to abandon the horse and the guns. It was afterwards learned he went to Illinois. Recently he was located near Wibeaux, Mont., where his arrest was affected.

RED RIVER VALLEY CORN CROPS FINE

Ten Counties on Minnesota Side Will Have Best Corn Crops.

Crookston, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The ten Minnesota valley counties will husk the greatest corn crop ever raised in this section," according to Secretary N. S. Davies of the Red River Valley Development association. "The big feature is that every variety of corn raised has ripened, or at least beyond all danger of frost.

"On such reliable authority as H. O'Niel and J. N. Stephens and many other successful corn raisers whose farms I have visited, can be stated that there will be more seed corn raised in the counties from Clay and Becker north to Kittson and Roseau than in any history of this section. On the Henry O'Niel farm I visited six different fields of corn and secured samples of Minnesota 13, Minnesota 23, Silvery King, Northwestern Dent and Smoky Dent, the latter was brought from Illinois last year, and all of them are well dented and practically ripe, far beyond any possible danger from frost.

All Especially Fine.

"The Minnesota 13, the Northwestern Dent, Minnesota 23, and Silvery King were especially fine. The ears are filled clear to the very tips and the corn crop this year will be the greatest eye opener that visitors from Southern Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana ever ran across.

"At the farm crops show which we held a year ago the corn exhibit was a big feature, attracting attention of corn specialists and others throughout the country. This year it will be ten times as great, the prizes at the farm crops show will be larger and include many more classes and the corn exhibit alone will be the biggest feature of its kind ever witnessed in the state."

NAVAL DESERTER IS CAPTURED AGAIN.

Bowman, N. D., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Barrett took James Lucas east and turned him over to the Federal officials. Lucas deserted from the navy and after his capture he escaped from the naval prison at Port Royal, S. C., in May a year ago and fled west. He was arrested by Sheriff Barrett.

OMAHA TRAIN HITS AND KILLS LIVESTOCK.

Couderay, Wis., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A freight train on the Omaha railroad ran into a herd of cattle near here and killed five cows. The cattle were in a cut in a curve on the track and the engineer was unable to stop until five head had been killed.

HAIL KILLS JACKRABBITS.

Hardy Prairie Animals Cannot Stand North Dakota Sky Pellets.

Bowman, N. D., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—In addition to the destruction of the crops in the region through which it passed, the hail storm in some townships in the southern part of the county killed nearly all the jackrabbits, the prairie chickens, sage hens and other bird life, and many of the unprotected poultry on the homesteads. Some of the cows and calves were so lacerated and bruised by the large hail stones that the owners had to kill the animals to end their torture. The storm extended over into South Dakota, where great damage was done.

KILLED IN RUNAWAY.

North Dakota Homesteader Suffers a Frightful Death.

Marmarth, N. D., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sander Larson, a homesteader eleven miles northwest of this place, was killed in a runaway. He was hauling refuse away from his barn. The lines became entangled and in endeavoring to loosen them, the team became frightened and ran away. Larson fell from the wagon and one foot went through the wheel. He was whirled around several times and then dragged some distance before the horses broke away. One leg was fractured into bits and terribly lacerated and his skull was crushed by his being thrown against the ground in the revolutions around the wheel. He died soon after his rescue.

SANDSTONE'S BIG DAY.

Annual Market Day Will Be Held on Monday, Sept. 14.

A large list of prizes will be offered on grains, fruits, vegetables, dairy products, home baking and home-grown canned goods, bundle exhibits and also on horses. An amusement program will also be arranged for the benefit of those in attendance. The usual large turn-out is expected on that day.

The volunteer fire department has made arrangements for a dance to be held under their supervision at the town hall on Labor day.

The Rush City and Sandstone ball teams met here Sunday on the new ball grounds near the stone cutting sheds in a one-sided game, as the visitors won by a score that requires the use of an adding machine to count correctly.

Hunger evidently forced one or more of the Weary Willies, who pass through here daily, to enter several houses Saturday night in search of a meal, forcing their entrance through the basements of the McNeil, Pegg and Dean homes. No valuables have been reported missing.

CHILD'S NECK BROKEN.

Tenstrike Little One's Death Is Still Further Probed.

Tenstrike, Minn., Sept. 1.—Although a coroner's jury that looked into the death of the 7-year-old son of Richard Petit of this place, alleged to have been killed by William Fellows' automobile, June 15 last, held he died of kidney trouble, a second examination made by Dr. Shellet of Kelliher and a jury called by the parents disclosed that the child's neck was broken. This puts an entirely different phase on the case and it is expected a criminal or civil action will result.

Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

DARBY O'BRIEN Day comes at a most opportune time. The date of the occasion when the fans of Duluth will be given an opportunity to show their appreciation of the work of Darby and the members of the team, is Saturday, Sept. 5. This is the first game of the last series of the season, and under ordinary conditions there should be one of the largest crowds of the season on hand; for ovation day the crowd should be one of the largest in the history of local baseball.

In addition to the game between Duluth and Virginia there will be field day sports between the members of the two teams. One of the city officials, or some prominent business or professional man will be asked to lend eclat to the festivities, and it is not improbable that there will be some suitable presentation made to the Irish Orator.

The friends of the little Irishman are legion. Darby has been among us now for some eight years and he has labored with zeal and indomitable spirit for the success of the various White Sox teams. For the splendid work accomplished this season by Darby and the members of the team, the fans owe a debt of gratitude—for the work of seasons past the fans should not be forgetful of the energetic and able efforts of one of the shrewdest managers in minor league baseball.

Tags are for the occasion and the fans wishing to assist in making this occasion one of the most successful special event days of the season should get in the game early and start the ball a-rolling.

Back to the Farm.

JOE JACKSON of the Naps has a multitude of cherished ambitions wrapped under the mantle of a rather unsophisticated exterior. Joseph wants to save sufficient money to purchase a farm, wants to quit baseball and desires devoutly to lead Ty Cobb in the swat averages of the American league.

The shoeless wonder of the luckless Cleveland team has a good lead on Tyrus, and should the price of land decrease and the old bank account increase, Joe will be back in the alfalfa league one of these milky mornings and communing with Dame Nature with an occasional nibble of Peerless to give the material touch to the sylvan picture.

• • •

The Moleskin Period.

AS THE frost gives the pumpkin the proper tone and general flavor, and sets the $15 a week individual figuring upon the amount of coal that the old furnace will consume during the approaching winter, football will slide into the budding fall season on the dimming recession of the baseball year.

This year promises to be quite a lively one in the bright annals of the sport. Michigan has set herself to the Herculean task of cleaning Harvard and Notre Dame has also a titanic task in the attempted subjugation of Yale, a college with a proud and haughty football record. Here in the West, under the drab and somewhat puerile sway of the Western conference, we will be entertaind as in the years that have yored, with the games between the Badgers, Maroons and Gophers.

Someone has stated that there is nothing new under the sun. To confirm this rather pessimistic statement, one should look into the football situation in the conference.

• • •

The Key to the Situation.

THE authorities of the University of Minnesota have issued a little booklet as a guide to the timid freshman. Some one should issue a little book to guide the faltering scholastic steps of the faltering athlete, whose football path is sorely beset with the protruding thorns of class conditions. Somehow the freshman will find his way, but there seems no way out of the grave dilemma for the gridiron warrior.

The Northern League.

JOHN BURMEISTER not so very long ago journeyed down to the precincts of J. H. Farrell, Auburn, N. Y. The Northern league executive journeyed thither to learn regarding the future standing of the Northern league in the matter of classification. J. H. informed the league official that the population of the league was not large enough as yet to shunt the class C baseball proposition into the contemplated class B classification.

The fly in the ointment in the present case is that J. H. Farrell is basing his sad assertions upon the census of 1910.

Under the present census standing of the cities of the Northern league there are plenty of souls thriving in the eight cities to bring the Northern safely into the population class necessary for the higher rating. However, the question whether Secretary Farrell will consent to make the population basis upon the rightful population of the Northern league cities, is doubted in some quarters. Owner Blume is one of the magnates of the league who is heartily and unequivocally in favor of making the league a class B organization, as this would be in answer to the demand of the fans in these parts. Duluth has shouted with bursting lungs for higher baseball and in his own way Owner Blume is endeavoring to heed this request.

This Is Scandalous.

A CURIOUS fact comes worming its way into the beaming light of public knowledge. It is said that the members of the Carlisle football team have in the past been in the habit of dividing the gate receipts at the close of each glorious season. Let us all arise in righteous wrath and cry in rah rah rhythm, Shame! Shame! Shame!

Glen Warner coaches the team on a percentage basis, so some of the scandalmongers declare. After deducting a large and healthy share of the budget at the close of the season, it is stated that Glen has been in the habit of calling some of the braves into the office and shelling out.

Disregarding the ethics of the thing just for the moment, we arise at this time and declare that if the players are paid for efficiency and the high plane of gridiron accomplishment, they are earning all of the filthy lucre that Glen so handsomely hands out.

His Chance to Show.

JACK MUNRO is a private in the Princess Patricia Canadian regiment. These men have sailed for the troublous side of the sea. Jack Munro is the geek who tried to fight Jeffries. His press agents could not be found after the fight. This war, terrible in every way, will give poor and misguided Munro the golden opportunity to show whether he can fight with more complicated weapons than the five-ounce glove. When the fighting is thickest, perhaps Jack will be heard muttering, "I wish I had Jeffries here." The memories of some men are long and resentful.

BALL PLAYER WINS VICTORY IN COURT.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—George H. Johnson, the Indian pitcher who jumped from the Cincinnati Nationals to the Kansas City Federals, won another court victory yesterday when Judge Dever issued a temporary injunction restraining the former club from the further prosecution of an injunction suit now pending against Johnson in the court of common pleas of Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, pending the settlement of a cross-bill filed here by the ball player.

PEGGERS WIN DOUBLE BILL

Fort William Loses Twice, 4 to 0 and 6 to 4.

Fort William, Ont., Sept. 1.—Winnipeg celebrated its final appearance of the season here yesterday by winning both games of the double header with the Fort William aggregation, the first by the score of 4 to 0 and the final game by the score of 6 to 4. The result of the afternoon's play pulled the persevering Peggers up to within half a game of first place and makes the pennant race all the more exciting.

Shirley was on the mound in both games for the visitors and he was invincible in the initial contest, though Hawkins gave him a hard battle in the second game. The errors of the locals figured in the run-getting of the first game, while in the second game both pitchers were accorded faultless support.

Boston Wins One.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 1.—Boston won the first game of yesterday's doubleheader with St. Louis, 4 to 1, and tied the second, 3 to 3, in the eleventh when Egan called the game because of darkness. Joe Wood, who pitched the second game for Boston, struck out fourteen men and allowed eight safe hits. After Boston had tied the score in the sixth both sides went scoreless until the eleventh, when Scott's error on Shotten, Pratt's double and a single gave the visitors two counts. New York, Sept. 1.—Detroit and New York divided their double-header yesterday, the visitors winning the first game in thirteen innings, 9 to 6, while New York took a seven-inning game, 3 to 2. The second game was called on account of darkness. Detroit won the first game by overcoming a six-run lead. In the eleventh inning, Pieh purposely passed Cobb, filling the bases, and then retired Crawford and Veach on pop flies. He was not so fortunate in the thirteenth, when he again purposely walked Cobb, for Crawford drove a home run into the right-field standing, sending Bush and Cobb ahead of him.

New York won the second game with two out in the seventh when Maisel singled, stole second and came home on Hartsell's single. Scores:

FIRST ROUND BEING PLAYED

Out-of-Town Stars Increase Interest in the Outcome.

Despite inclement weather, play in the Head of the Lakes tennis tournament is making satisfactory progress. While the start was delayed by the rain of early yesterday, a number of games were completed in the afternoon round.

There are several racquet stars from the Twin Cities here and it looks as if the tournament will be about the best that has been staged for the championship of the large district embraced within the territory contiguous to the Head of the Great Lakes.

Work has placed the Oatka courts in excellent condition. If the weather continues fair from now on to the end of the tournament, the courts will afford all the finest natural facilities for play.

Gardner defeated Robinson in the morning play, 6-2, 6-4; Walter Kennedy defeated H. Boak, 6-0, 6-0; Ray Smith defeated George Stillman, 6-1, 6-4; Burr of Minneapolis, one of the cracks of the tourney, defeated Turle, a youngster, 6-1, 6-2; and Norski defeated MacGregor, 9-7, 6-8, 6-4; Horak defeated Johnson, 6-1, 6-0; and Marshall won by default from Arthur Barnes. J. F. Thompson defeated Heimbaugh, 7-5, 6-3.

The Draw for Today.

As the tourney increases, interest in the play is expected to increase. There are some excellent matches scheduled for today. David Chatfield, the former holder of the Head of the Lakes title, is scheduled for his first game of the tournament today, and his form will be closely watched.

Following is the draw for today: At 9:30, W. Fraker vs. Fuller, Marshall vs. Thompson, R. R. Smith vs. Savage, Roland Hawkes vs. C. Fraker, Salyards vs. Towne. At 11, Cowie vs. Chatfield, Erlanson vs. T. Hawkes, Chapin vs. Rosencrantz, Hegardt vs. Lyman, R. Graves vs. Ferry, McManus vs. Craig. At 2 p. m., Knight vs. Middlebrook, Frey vs. Davis, Dewitt vs. winner Graves-Ferry match. At 3:30 p. m., Thorpe vs. Turnbull, Lesure vs. winner Knight-Middlebrook match. Other players who will be scheduled for the afternoon play are: W. Kennedy, L. Kennedy, Ray Smith and R. Burr, who will play the winners of the Thompson-Marshall match.

THE DOOKS AND PEGGERS ARE NEARING THE WIRE

Dooks Open With Fort William and Peggers With Virginia---Fargo to Oppose Winnipeg in Final Series of the Season, While Virginia May Decide the White Sox Fate.

Gen. Sheridan was some twenty miles away and he made it on the run. This murky morning comes into sulky being with the information that the fighting Dooks are but one-half game ahead of Winnipeg in the mad race for the silken ganfalon of the Northern league.

Today both of the contending teams are entering on the last eighth of the race. Winnipeg is at our shoulders and each mount is making the last great effort under whip and spur. The salient question, one that protrudes its fair head above all other immediate local questions of the hour, is whether we can retain this slender, this extremely exigious lead of the minute.

Duluth has four games scheduled at Fort William and one rain game that may be played off during the present series. While our gallant Dooks are in the midst of the fight with Fort William, Winnipeg and Virginia are fighting it out on the large and open field at Winnipeg.

Superior refused to play the final game of the inter-city series. Owner Blume insisted upon the playing of the game, but the management of the Red Sox refused stubbornly to order the contest played, pleading the excuse of wet grounds.

Old Sol came out in brilliant array about 3 o'clock and there was no just reason in the world why the game could not have been played.

The management of the team situated upon the other side of the bay has been renigging all the way through the series, and perhaps the refusal to play the final game was only a fragmentary part of this general peeve against Duluth.

Success often breeds snarls and petty peeves in the minds of the unsuccessful, and it is certain that the Superior baseball team has been thoroughly and most artistically unsuccessful this season.

As for us—the fighting Dooks—the part of modesty is to remain silent and permit the scrutinizing world to judge.

The Flaming Finish.

On Saturday, as all of the fans of this berg should know, the team comes home for the windup of the season. Virginia is the opponent of the Dooks on the home grounds and four games of exceedingly exciting worth should be the result.

It may just happen that the winning of the pennant will hinge on the playing of the final game of the season. If such should happen to be the case, it is likely that all records in this part of the country would be broken by the eager desire of the fans to take in the deciding game.

On what the Sox do at Fort William seems to hang the balance of the pennant race. Fargo finishes the season with the Peggers, and in the present emaciated condition of the Unglaubs, and with Col. Bob's mind and heart tripping in rhythmic tune to the progressing tramp of the marching footsteps of the kaiser's troops, it is beyond the penultimate of the most optimistic hoper to believe that the Fargo outfit can make any really serious stand against the Peggers.

Our hope is in the strength of our team and not vested in any false belief as to the weakness of the enemy. It seems the bounds of the ridiculous to believe that the Dooks will win all the remaining games of the season and retain the lead of one scant half game; and yet baseball is peculiarly a game of strange chances, and the fans are holding their breath and breathing hard.

Let us repeat—she is some race!

FALL CARDS ARRANGED

Temple and Robideau and Cross and Tillman Matched.

BY BRUCE.

Ray Temple and Sam Robideau will hook up before the Superior Athletic club on Labor day. This looks like the best card that has been scheduled for that organization for some time. As a matter of fact the bouts staged in the past by the Superior Athletic club have generally lacked class. In Robideau and Temple the promoters of the other side of the bay have evidently made a real attempt to get a card of merit.

Some years ago Ray Temple was heir apparent to the lightweight championship of the world. Temple could have been another Freddy Welsh, had he possessed the brains of the little Welshman. Temple in glorious nights and sodden days traded his ring birthright for a mess of pottage and lost the great pugilistic goal.

Now Temple is headed toward a new world of boxing achievement. After the years of dissipation it must be said in fairness to Temple that he still remains one of the cleverest boxers of the ring today. Never again will he be the Temple who slew Phil Harrison or the clever boxing flash who outpointed Joe Mandot—but Heine Temple has a boxing noddle set firmly on his shoulders and he knows more of the fine points of the game than half of the boys boxing today.

Unless Robideau is awfully good and possesses superlative cleverness, he will be outpointed in the ten-round trot with Temple. Ray can go that distance and he can keep the ordinary lad guessing at every faltering step of the journey.

Temple made Joe Sherman look like a bum in a former bout at the Superior Athletic club and if the Philadelphia sailor boy is not exceptionally clever, the same thing is likely to happen to him.

One of the incentives held out for Temple is a meeting with Johnny Tillman. Backers of Temple profess to believe that Ray can outpoint Johnny. Should Temple win he may be given the opportunity for his first big fight since Charley Griffiths of Akron, Ohio,

THE GOOD JUDGE GETS A TIP FROM THE COUNTRY DOCTOR

Leaves a clean after-taste in the mouth—not the thick, foggy taste that the ordinary chew forces on a man.

That's one of the reasons why men are so eager to tell their friends about "Right-Cut."

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

Leach Cross and Tillman.

Many of the fans of the Head of the Lakes will be in the Twin Cities to take in the state fair and will therefore avail themselves of the opportunity to witness the Hudson meeting between Leach Cross and Johnny Tillman.

Either one of two things is true—Pal Brown is going back or he was away off color in his two starts with Tillman. The Wolgast-Tillman encounter was the biggest boxing joke of the year. Therefore the meeting with the Gotham dentist will yank into view the first real opportunity for the fans to get a real line on the ability of Tillman.

There can be no doubt of the cleverness of Tillman; whether the boy can hit and whether he is a real fighter, remains veiled in dark pugilistic secrecy.

Frank Tyrrell, one of the co-partners in the management of Tillman, told the writer that Tillman could really hit, that he had been holding the boy under wraps, and that he was going to send him after Cross with instructions to land the kayo.

Should Tillman accomplish the seeming impossible, his pugilistic reputation would be made and Tyrrell would not have to cool his heels in the offices of Pacific coast boxing promoters while they yawned and mildly speculated as to whether his boy had ever been heard of in big league boxing circles.

Wolgast Coming Back.

Ad Wolgast is going to meet Joe Mandot in Milwaukee. Later the Dutchman will probably be sent against Charley White. Being German, Adolph is the flaming box office magnet in Milwaukee, and just so long as he is seriously considered, it is probable that he can battle in the burg of flowing amber.

The popularity of Wolgast is conclusively shown by the statement that Wolgast and Ritchie drew nearly $40,000 before Tommy Andrews' club, while Ritchie and White drew around $14,000.

Gentlemen, is it any surprising fact that Wolgast is sought by the various promoters of the Cream City?

Booming through the caverns of the night, the answer comes bright and ringing—"No!"

Baltimore Loses Out.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 1.—The claim of the Baltimore International league club to the services of player John Blair was denied yesterday by the national baseball commission. The Baltimore club claimed that it had entered into an agreement with Blair and that he had accepted terms but admitted that the agreement was not put in writing. Section 2 of Article 8 of the national agreement holds that an agreement must be evidenced by a written acceptance and the commission ruled accordingly. Blair has since signed with the New York American league club.

TENNIS PLAYERS DOWN TO FINALS

Championship in Singles Rests Between Two Stars.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 1.—History repeated itself on the Casino courts yesterday with Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco and R. Norris Williams II of Philadelphia won their places in the finals of the all-comers tournament for the national singles lawn tennis championship. The betting was 4 to 1 that McLoughlin would capture the title today for the third time. The odds were somewhat shorter on Williams' ability to take a set from the champion as he did in the finals last year.

McLoughlin won his place in the finals by defeating Former Champion William J. Clothier of Philadelphia in straight sets 6-4, 6-4, 6-3. Williams came through with a similar victory over Ella Fottrell of San Francisco, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. Of the two winners, the playing of Williams was the more impressive. He handled fearlessly Fottrell's terrific service, the cost severe seen on the Casino courts this year, not excepting that of McLoughlin.

In the afternoon Miss Carey of Newport, and R. Lindley Murray of San Francisco won the invitation mixed doubles, defeating Miss Fenno of Boston and G. L. Wrenn, Jr., of New York, 6-1, 6-4.

Women Open Tourney.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 1.—Tennis, ranging from mediocre to spectacular, was played in the opening rounds of the Missouri valley tennis championships in women's singles and mixed doubles here yesterday. Much interest was manifest in the match in which Miss Alice M. Prendergast, St. Louis, defeated Miss Mary Leavel, Kansas City. The galleries were surprised when Miss Marjorie Hires, Kansas City, and Central West champion, lost her match to Miss Mary Morley, Kansas City, 6-4, 6-4. Miss Mary Riveley, Kansas City, defeated Miss Leslie La Baume, St. Louis, by default and Miss Ellen Peters, Kansas City, defeated Miss Lottie Fuller, Leavenworth, Kan., by default.

In the mixed doubles, A. A. Potest, Kansas City, and Miss Prendergast had little difficulty in winning from E. D. Fredericks and Miss Faith Burton, both of Kansas City, 6-2, 6-1.

GOLFER MAKES A NEW RECORD

Fownes Returns Card of 70 in Amateur Medal Play.

Manchester, Vt., Sept. 1.—Leading a field of 104 golfers, aspirants for national amateur championship honors, W. C. Fownes of the Oakmont Golf club, Pittsburg, set a new record for medal amateur championship play yesterday. His card of 70, returned at the end of the first round of 18 holes qualification play over the links of the Ekwanok Country club, was the lowest ever returned for medal play at an amateur championship meeting in this country.

Fownes, who was national champion in 1910, had an advantage of two strokes over the second best card of a crack field, R. R. Gorton of Braeburn returning a well balanced 72.

Francis Ouimet of Woodland, amateur champion of France and national champion last year, scored the best performance of the trio of ranking players in which Jerome Travers, present amateur title holder, and Charles Evans, Jr., of Edgewater also are grouped. Ouimet's 73 brought him into a tie for third place. Evans returned a 74 for seventh place and Travers was tied for tenth with a card of 76.

The highest score of the sixty-four to qualify was 85. Of the 104 starters, ninety-six returned cards.

ELECTRIC PATCH WINS.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 1.—Electric Patch, son of the famous Dan Patch, and a good image of his sire, furnished the feature event of the Great Western circuit races yesterday by winning the 3-year-old and under trot in 2:17¾.

For the 3-year-old and under trot the purse was $1,000. Electric Patch first; Mabel Trask, second; Baroness Parmelia, third. Best time, 2:17¾. 2:25 trot; purse, $1,000; Stella Advice, first; Oravidmir, second; Sylvia Maurine, third. Best time, 2:12½. 2:12 pace; purse, $600; Don Mac, first; Symbol Heath, second; Fred Taylor, third. Best time, 2:10¾.

TWO NEW MARKS SET BY PACER

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Directum II, the chestnut stallion owned by James Butler, New York city, and driven by Robert Snedeker, furnished the sensation of the opening day's program at the grand circuit races here yesterday by establishing two new world's records and equalling the pacing race record of two minutes established by Williams at Grand Rapids earlier this season.

In winning the free-for-all pace valued at $5,000, Directum II stepped the last two of three heats in two minutes flat, beating Frank Bogash in each. Frank Bogash won the first heat in 2:02½. By pacing in two minutes in the third heat, Directum II broke the record of 2:00½ established by Star Pointer at Springfield, Ill., in 1897. The average time of the winner gives him the world's record of more than one heat.

The meeting was not without other features. Star Winter, the sensational trotter driven by Lon McDonald, lost his first heat of the season. He also lost the race, the 2:10 trot, Marta Bellini nosing him out in the stretch of three sensational heats.

An amateur race for 2-year-old colts valued at $2,000 brought on a good contest, Early I. White winning with Eudora Spier, by Directum Spier. Lee Axworthy had things his own way in the 3-year-old stake. Leil Horan won the free-for-all race, the 2:13 pace, after five heats. No horse won more than two heats, but because of the Syracuse conditions, the race was terminated at the end of five heats.

"BLIND-PIG" AMENDMENT LAID ASIDE BY COUNCIL

Will Be Held as "Club" Over Wholesalers, Says Commissioner.

St. Louis Hotel Case Deferred; Other Matters Disposed of.

Commissioner Hicken's amendment to the blindpig ordinance, designed to compel wholesalers of intoxicants to stop selling in quantities of less than five gallons or pay $1,000 for a city license, was tabled at the council meeting yesterday afternoon.

The ordinance had two readings some time ago, but was not passed, being continued from week to week. The tabling of the measure leaves it so that it can be called up for third reading and passage at any time.

To Check Wholesalers.

It was introduced by the safety commissioner when he received reports that certain wholesale liquor dealers were not fulfilling their agreement to confine themselves to a wholesale business, but were selling to any one in small quantities. It also affected the breweries and could be used against them if they continued to furnish blindpigs. The ordinance provided that the possession of a government license to retail would be prima facie evidence that the holder was engaged in the retail liquor business. Both the wholesale liquor dealers and the breweries were considerably agitated when the intent of the ordinance became known and it attracted much attention at that time.

Ordinance Not Dead.

Commissioner Hicken said yesterday that the ordinance is not dead, but will be immediately called from the table if it appears that either the wholesalers or the brewers are violating the law.

Pursuant to the restraining order issued by Judge Dancer the council took no action at yesterday's meeting on the proposed revocation of the saloon license of J. W. Irwin of the St. Louis hotel, further than to formally postpone action until the disposition of the case in the courts. Irwin had been cited to appear before the commission at 3 o'clock yesterday to show cause why his license should not be revoked. But the order of the court prevented any vote on the revocation. The order is returnable next Friday.

Lowest Bidder Rejected.

Although J. A. Johnson was the lowest bidder on the paving of First alley between Fifth and Sixth avenues west, a resolution awarding the contract to Olson & Johnson, the second bidders, was given its first reading. The property owners who appeared before the council yesterday stated that they wished a brick paving, for which Johnson's bid was $2,593.20 and that of Olson & Johnson $2,672.15, a difference of but $78.95. The delegation stated that they wanted the work done with the least possible delay, and one of them objected to Johnson. City Attorney Harvey Clapp stated that if Johnson already had two contracts which would be likely to keep him busy until late this fall, as stated by Commissioner Murchison, he was of the opinion that the work could be given to Olson & Johnson. He explained that the charter provides that contracts shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, but that the bidder might be responsible up to a certain point. He said that if Johnson has as much as he can reasonably handle this season, his responsibility would cease at that point. The resolution will come up for passage at the meeting of the council next week.

Would Fence In Reservoir.

D. A. Reed, manager of the water and light department, informed the council that the main reservoir of the local system, from which most of the city gets its water supply, is liable to contamination by "children, dogs and other animals." He recommended the construction of a 7-foot iron fence about it to insure the cleanliness of the water. An ordinance appropriating $3,000, the estimated cost, was given its first reading.

Manager Reed sent in another communication stating that the gas consumption in the downtown and eastern end of the city is increasing rapidly. He recommended that an 8-inch main in Michigan street between Fifth avenue west and First avenue east, now in disuse, be connected with the high-pressure main intersecting those avenues and put in service as a low-pressure distributing main. He stated that this would improve the service in both the central and eastern parts of the city. The estimated cost of the work is $1,000, and an ordinance appropriating that amount was given its first reading.

Pool Room License Revoked.

The pool room license of Dan Skorich at 5516 Raleigh street was revoked upon recommendation of Safety Commissioner Hicken. Skorich was recently convicted in the West Duluth branch of the police court of having sold liquor in his place.

The ordinance providing for the issuance of $16,000 of bonds to pay for the site of the new armory at Thirteenth avenue east and London road was given its third reading and passed. The city plans to care for the bonds from one of the funds having a big balance and retiring them at the end of a year from the sinking fund.

The contract for improving Norton street and Waverly avenue in Motor Line division was awarded to J. A. Johnson on his bid of $2,997.75. The resolution awarding W. H. Kilton the contract for paving Fifty-fifth alley between Ramsey street and the N. P. right-of-way with concrete was given its first reading.

Paving Ordered.

The paving of Fifth alley, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues east, was ordered. The estimated cost for concrete is $1,314.28. The construction of a sewer from the intersection of Vernon street and Atlantic avenue to the west line of Bryant's addition was ordered. The estimated cost is $453.75. A petition was received for a sanitary sewer in Sixteenth alley west, between Raleigh and Sherburne streets.

The petition of the Kenwood Improvement club asking that the city make a survey for a right-of-way for a street car line to the suburb was received. The Kenwood residents assert that they are entitled to the service and ask that the survey be made in order that they may proceed to secure the dedication of the right-of-way from the property owners.

Want Walks Next to Curb.

The residents of Twentieth avenue east, between Superior and Jefferson streets, which is now being paved, asked the council that the sidewalks be ordered laid next to the curb in order to improve the appearance of the avenue. The petition was referred to the works division.

Ordinance appropriating $150 to defray the expense of Fire Chief Randall to the national fire chiefs' convention at New Orleans next month and $150 for the purchase of envelopes for the water and light department, were given their first reading.

HEALTH TALKS

By William Brady, M.D.

Frankness in the Consulting Room

At the first interview between patient and doctor it is nip and tuck who shall tell the more half-truths. The patient, coming on suspicion, as it were, seems determined to make the doctor accept his or her own conception of the case, and hence is apt to stretch a point here or suppress a relevant fact there in order to aid the doctor in reaching the desired conclusion. This necessitates a pretty close cross-examination on the part of the doctor if he would avoid serious errors.

The doctor, on the other hand, putting leading questions and throwing out feelers in a roundabout way, gains just enough information, let us say, to compromise on a diagnosis of "nervous breakdown," "bilious attack," "anaemia," or "a run-down condition"—either of which will satisfy the patient, but is nevertheless meaningless.

These meaningless terms, along with "rheumatic trouble," "liver complaint," "uric acid diathesis" and "dyspepsia" are now employed chiefly by nostrum manufacturers, and rarely or never by physicians with reputations to maintain. Bernard Shaw declared the family doctor dare not tell his patients the truth for fear the patients will change doctors. Whoever told Shaw the truth must have made his pile and retired on an annuity!

One Instance Is Enough.

A well-known business man, having attended a banquet where strange and sundry liquid refreshments were served, got wet in a sudden shower on the way home and next day, naturally enough, came down with a chill and a heavy "cold"—having sat right next to a fellow with a sore throat at the dinner.

The gentleman's physician acquiesced at first in the ready-made diagnosis, but after a few days—presto!—"symptoms of typhoid" appeared. The doctor intimated that he would try to "break up" the "symptoms of typhoid," and being a man of that type he neglected to make a very thorough chest examination, though he occasionally pretended to do so; that is, he placed his ear on the man's shirt bosom and, from what he saw while in the act of doing so, assumed the man was still breathing.

The symptoms failed to break up, however. Instead they persisted with remarkable obstinacy, and in due time the patient realized that he was indeed suffering with tuberculosis of the lungs.

The first diagnosis—"a heavy cold"—was no diagnosis at all, but a mere subterfuge.

The final, and correct, diagnosis was a very good one which the patient himself was the first to make.

Questions and Answers.

A Reader says: "I have been much interested and instructed by your Health Talks. I consider them exceptionally valuable. However, I disapprove of one of your recent statements—that there is no hope for tuberculosis patients in the cavity stage. I fear you belong to the order of physicians who look upon life, disease and death merely as scientific phenomena, and who do not appreciate the powerful influence of the mental state upon body function. Why, without purpose, add to the despair of a class of unfortunate invalids who above all others depend upon cheerfulness and hope to help them in the uphill fight?

REPLY.

Your pardon, Madam. We said no climate could save a patient in the cavity stage, and that is all we intended to say. We did not mean that the patient had no chance at home.

Mrs. J. McC. asks: What is the cause of tuberculosis of the kidney? Can the diseased kidney be removed with safety?

REPLY.

The tubercle bacillus, which happens to reach the kidney instead of the lungs or the bones or some other gland. The diseased kidney may be removed surgically and the patient may live a long life with only one kidney.

F. L. M. inquires: 1. Does going without corsets till 3 in the afternoon tend to make one large about the waist line?

2. Does cocoa butter, when used in massage, cause the growth of hair or blackheads?

3. What causes irritated skin on the chest when one is in perfect health?

4. When one's eyes are strong in daylight but become misty and ache at night, is that a sign of eye trouble?

REPLY.

1. Make it all day long and we'll guarantee you a smaller waist line. Corsets cause stout figures. 2. No. 3. Corsets may. 4. It is a sign you should have your eyes examined by a medical eye specialist.

HIGH FOOD PRICES UNWARRANTED

Bemidji Man Back From London Discusses War Conditions.

"Increase in the price of foodstuffs in this country is unwarranted," said Dr. Rowland Gilmour of Bemidji at the St. Louis hotel last evening. Dr. Gilmour returned yesterday from London and will leave for home with his family today.

"England handled the situation with an efficiency which could well be followed by the United States government," declared Mr. Gilmour. "Foodstuffs in London today are not high. Only fictitious conditions could raise the price of wheat to the present level. The United States at the present time has a smaller market than before the war started. The consumption is not greater now than before and the waste is nominal.

"Resentment against the military party in Germany is strong in England. It is common belief there that this party started the war because it wanted to show the necessity of militarism. Taxes in Germany have been high for years and this has caused a strong Socialistic movement. The purpose of the military party is to unite all under the cause of patriotism."

TAKE MEN OFF U. S. VESSELS

British at Hongkong Remove Germans and Austrians.

Action Is Permissible in Port, Says Washington.

Honolulu, Sept. 1.—The American liners Manchuria and China of the Pacific Mail Steamship company's Oriental fleet, were halted by British warships off Hongkong and forced to surrender to the British authorities sixty German and Austrian reservists bound for the European war from the Philippines, where they had been living.

This was the news brought by Capt. Thompson and Purser Landers of the China, which arrived here yesterday bound for San Francisco.

After first inquiring of Washington if they were safe in an American registered vessel, according to officials of the China, and having received assurances that they could not be molested, the Germans and Austrians took passage for San Francisco, via Hongkong, Shanghai, Nagasaki and Honolulu. This roundabout route was necessary because they knew they could not reach home via the Suez canal, and neither the China nor the Manchuria was scheduled to call at Manila on the return trip.

Passengers Inspected.

On arriving at Hongkong, the vessels were halted by ships of the British fleet, the passengers were summoned for inspection and required to give their nationality at the call of the purser's roll.

Those who appeared to be Germans or Austrians and could not prove otherwise were taken in a navy tender to Stonecutters Island for detention.

Two Germans aboard the China claimed Swiss citizenship and were not held. All German residents of Hongkong, Capt. Thompson reports, have been held.

In Territorial Waters.

Washington, Aug. 31.—State department officials did not regard as unusual the reported removal of German and Austrian reservists from American ships off Hongkong, provided the incident occurred within the three-mile limit of the British port. Inasmuch as Hongkong is under British jurisdiction, her warships could arrest the nationals of any belligerent within territorial waters.

What might be the opinion of the American government if the reservists were taken from American vessels on the high seas, is undetermined. State department officials said no complaint of that character had been placed before them. The right of search for contraband cargoes on the high seas is accorded by all neutrals to belligerent ships, but the right to take a passenger from a neutral ship on the high seas has long been in dispute, and no official of the department was willing to express an opinion.

French Crops Good.

Paris, Sept. 1.—The commission charged by the government to supervise the agricultural interests in France, report that the harvest has been effected everywhere under favorable conditions. The wheat crop is estimated at about the average and the other crops promise well.

Watch for Smoke.

It is customary for great crowds to gather in the square outside St. Peter's with every eye focused upon the chimney of the Sistine chapel. If smoke should arise from it, it indicates that no pope has been elected. The smoke comes from the burning ballots, with which are mixed a little straw.

Should a pontiff be elected, workmen immediately break in the doors and the cardinals repair to the balcony of St. Peter's and proclaim him. Shortly afterward the pope himself, if custom is followed, will appear in the gallery of St. Peter's and bestow the papal blessing.

A majority of the cardinals, before they entered the conclave hall, sought to learn the latest news from the war zones. Several of them have close relatives in the armies.

All Others Excluded.

The Italian cardinals Martinelli and Prisco, were not in attendance at the conclave. The other cardinals, wearing violet capes, assembled in the Sala Regia late in the afternoon and thence proceeded to the Sistine chapel, headed by the choristers of the chapel, directed by the musician priest, Monsignor Perosi. After the chant "Veni Creator" the cardinals took their places on the throne. Cardinal Della Volpe, the Camerlingo, then pronounced the exclusion of all others than cardinals from the conclave hall. Cardinal Agliardi read the constitution of the conclave and then admitted Mgr. Misciatelli, the governor, and Prince Chigi, the marshal of the conclave.

sonal experiences in getting out of the war zone.

Dr. Daniel Longaker of Philadelphia confirmed the cabled story that Chauncey Depew of New York rode in a cattle car in France. Dr. Longaker was a passenger in the same car, he said. Mr. Depew sat on a keg part of the time, and also sat in an open doorway with his feet hanging out in a pouring rain.

Touraine for Refugees.

Washington, Sept. 1.—The reservation for Americans of the entire carrying capacity of the French liner Touraine is reported by Ambassador Herrick in Paris to the state department. Railroad delays from Switzerland kept a number of Americans from reaching Havre in time to catch the Rochambeau, it was stated, but these will come by the Touraine, sailing Sept. 3.

Twelve hundred Americans are at Vienna, where they will find transportation, for which arrangements have been made.

Dispatches from the various legations and embassies state that complaints of indignities, when investigated, have usually resulted in disclosure of intolerance and impatience on the part of tourists.

Follette adherent, and Emanuel L. Philipp, "conservative" candidate, are most mentioned, although Merlin Hull, S. E. Roethe and W. B. Utman have been active and feel confident in the outcome.

Democratic Contests.

John A. Aylward and John C. Karel, candidates for governor, and Thomas M. Kearney and Paul O. Husting for United States senator, are parties to keen contests on the Democratic ticket.

The liveliest contest of the few for congressional nominations is that in the Sixth district, where three Republicans seek preference.

Davidson Would Come Back.

Oshkosh, Wis., Sept. 1.—J. H. Davidson of this city, member of congress for sixteen years and retired in the Democratic landslide of two years ago, is making battle for the Republican nomination at today's primary and has good show for success. He is confronted by J. H. Lehner of Green Lake and J. N. Tittmore, former Chicago railroad man, of Omro.

There is also a spirited contest for the state senate. Former Assemblyman W. M. Bray of this city and Assemblyman W. E. Hurlbut of Omro being leaders.

Oshkosh votes on a $165,000 high school bond issue. Wet weather and bad roads may lessen the county vote.

as well as the crew, stood back. Most of them were thrown from their feet by the impact when the boat struck the pier.

The plight of the ship had been seen from shore and seven tugs, two fire tugs and two excursion steamers were on the scene almost as soon as the City of Chicago struck the pier.

The passengers landed safely on the pier.

Can Be Raised.

The flames were subdued after a three hours' fight by the fire tugs, assisted by streams from the excursion boats. The steamer settled by the stern a few feet. It will be possible to raise and use her.

The City of Chicago left Benton Harbor, Mich., shortly before midnight. The fire started in an air shaft leading into the cook's galley, amidships. The boat carried a full cargo of fruit in baskets. These baskets, made of flimsy wood, caught fire and spread the flames with rapidity.

Wireless Would Not Work.

Arthur H. Hedlund, wireless operator, was in his berth when smoke aroused him. He jumped to the deck and sprang to his instrument to sound the "S. O. S." but could not raise a spark. He was still trying to make his wireless heard when the pier was reached.

Arthur Hendrix, assistant chief engineer, was in charge of the engine room when the fire was discovered. He and the men under him, reinforced by W. M. Johnson, the chief engineer, worked in smoke that almost choked them until the steamer struck the pier.

The passengers lost most of their baggage. They were unanimous in praising the self-control of officers and crew.

The first of the passengers to reach shore expressed the belief that some of the occupants of the berths had been drowned.

Awakened By Smoke.

One man, who was taken from the water, said the passengers had not been awakened until within a few minutes before the boat sank. He had been asleep in his berth, he said, and woke up when the smoke became overpowering.

The City of Chicago belonged to the Graham & Morton Transportation company and had been in use since 1890 as an excursion boat. She left Benton Harbor late last night bound for Chicago.

Passengers Tossed About.

The passengers, all of whom had been ordered aft by Capt. Bjork, were tossed about, many of them being thrown into the water by the force of the collision.

Capt. Charles Carland of the life saving service took charge of the rescue work. He and Capt. Bjork said the passengers had acted with remarkable coolness, and declared their bravery had served to prevent many deaths. Women and children were given the first opportunity to reach the pier. Stationing himself at the side of the boat, Capt. Bjork shouted that not a man was to leave the ship until the women and children were safe.

"There was very little excitement," Capt. Bjork said. "Everybody behaved splendidly. The men waited, and when the women were safe, followed them off to the pier.

No Effort to Save Property.

Most of the passengers rushed to the upper decks when they learned of the fire, and nearly all of them were clad only in their night garments when they left the boat. No effort was made to save any personal effects.

The fire was discovered by C. Peters of Berrien Springs, Mich., one of the passengers. He notified the captain and aided in rousing the sleeping passengers.

The City of Chicago was one of the oldest excursion boats in this port. She had plied since 1890 between here and the various Michigan summer resorts. She was a side wheeler, 254 feet long, with a gross tonnage of 1,439 tons.

Awakened by Crash.

M. M. Fletcher of Chicago was talking with the engineer shortly before the alarm. He fell asleep and was awakened only when the boat crashed into the pier. He crawled out through a porthole and gained the pier.

Bessie Pflum, Loise Thodes and Elsie Lindahl, who were aroused in their state room by the crash, said that passengers and crew acted in an orderly manner. There was no confusion, they added.

"All the men insisted that the women leave the boat first," explained Miss Pflum.

M. E. Wells of Ann Arbor, Mich., came on deck only half clad, after being awakened by members of the crew.

Lost His False Teeth.

"All I lost was my false teeth," he said.

Mrs. J. Rorik of Colomo, Mich., and her mother, Mrs. Inola Pierce of De Kalb, Ill., were assisted from their stateroom by deckhands. They praised the work of the crew and of the life savers.

Among the Passengers.

Among the passengers rescued were Mr. and Mrs. H. Crary, Benton Harbor, Mich.; Mrs. J. Rorick, Coloma, Mich.; Mrs. Inola Pierce, De Kalb, Ill.; Mrs. Robert Dallas and 10-year-old daughter, Helena, Danville, Ill.; George Cole and sister, Dorothy, Waverly, Iowa; Anthony Broad, New York city; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Forbes, Watervliet, Mich.; Mrs. C. F. Knapp, two sons and daughter, Bangor, Mich.; Edward Corrette, Harford, Mich.

Forbes and his wife became separated and the former for a time thought his wife had been drowned, but later they were reunited.

The wireless of the City of Chicago failed to work. Her bow was sustained by the pier but the stern settled in the comparatively shallow water. Fire tugs and other crafts extinguished the flames in her cabins.

NERVOUS MEN

Men That Suffer From Nervousness Restored to Normal Health and Strength.

Every normal and healthy man has a natural and abundant endowment of potential Energy, and electro-magnetic Nerve Power. Units of Nerve Energy are drawn from the blood and stored in the celular substance of the Brain and the different Nerve Ganglia, for use in the performance of the involuntary function and voluntary actions of the Nerves.

In health these reservoirs of Vital Power are so abundant that the whole physical and mental being is filled and thrilled with the triumphant consciousness of power, of vitality. Such men possess personal magnetism, and unconsciously inspire those who come into social or business relations with them.

It's different with the man that suffers from ailments caused by weak, impoverished Nerves, the man that is "up in the air" from the least disturbance. Such men have little masstery or self-control, they "feel weak" and "run down," are "nervous" and have "lost ambition." If you suffer from frequent Headaches, loss of sleep and have spells of despondency, it probably means that your Nerves are starving for lack of energy, such as you derive from correct treatment with Organo-Therapy and Electro-Therapy. In the opinion and experience of the Progressive Medical Doctors there is nothing else that will equally restore suffering men so quickly to Health and Happiness.

We have made diseases of men our life study, and we have been eminently successful. The effect of the treatment is to cure those diseases and to restore men to the full enjoyment of nature's best gifts to the normal physical and mental conditions that characterize health.

Our offices are open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., at No. 1 West Superior street. All consultations are free.

Jusserand Gets Word.

Washington, Sept. 1.—The French ambassador, J. J. Jusserand, today received this official dispatch from Paris:

"In the Vosges and in Lorraine our troops began an advance again yesterday. At Sassey on the Meuse a regiment of German infantry nearly annihilated. On our left wing German progress made. Russian offensive advance progressing."

An Official Statement.

Paris, Sept. 1.—The following official statement was issued by the war office last evening:

"The situation in general is actually as follows:

"First—In Vosges and in Lorraine, it must be remembered our forces which had taken the offensive at the beginning of the operations and driven the enemy outside of our frontiers, afterward underwent serious checks. Before Sarreburg and in the region of Morhange, where they encountered very solid defensive works, our forces were obliged to fall back and reform near Couronne De Nancy and on the French Vosges.

"The Germans had assumed the offensive, but our troops, after having thrown them back upon their positions, assumed the offensive two days ago. This attack continues to make progress, although slowly. It is a veritable war of sieges, as each position occupied is immediately fortified.

"This explains the slowness of our advance which is nevertheless characterized each day by fresh local successes.

"Second—The region of Nancy and Southern Wavre, since the beginning of the campaign in this section between Metz on the German side and Toul and Verdun on the French side, has not been the theater of important operations.

Crown Prince Checked.

"Third—In the direction of Meuse between Verdum and Mezieres, it will be remembered the French forces took the offensive in the beginning toward Longwy, Neufchatel and Paliseul. The troops operating in the region of Spincourt and Longuyon have been able to check the enemy's army under the command of the German crown prince.

"In the regions of Neufchatel and Paliseul, on the other hand, certain of our troops have received partial checks which obliged them to retire upon the Meuse without having their organization broken up. This retiring movement has compelled the forces in the neighborhood of Spincourt to withdraw also toward the Meuse.

Germany Repelled.

"During the last few days the enemy has endeavored to spread out from the Meuse with considerable forces, but by a vigorous counter offensive they were repelled with very great losses. In the meantime from forces of Germans advanced to the district of Rocroy (in Ardennes), marching in the direction of Rothel. Now a general action is taking place between the Meuse and Rothel and it is still impossible to see definitely the issue of this.

"Regarding the operations in the north:

"The British and French originally took up positions in the Dinant and Charleroi country and at Mons. They endured several repulses and the forcening of the Meuse by the Germans near Gavet upon our flank compelled our troops to retire.

Prolonged Retiring Movement.

"The Germans seek continually to move toward the west. It was under these conditions that our English allies, attacked by the enemy in greatly superior numbers in the region of Le Cateau and Cambrai, have withdrawn toward the south the moment that our forces were operating in the district of Avesnes and Chimay. The retiring movement was prolonged during several days.

"In the meantime a general battle took place in the region of St. Quentin and Verviers and at the same time in the Hamperonnes district. This battle was marked by an important success by our right, where we have thrown back the Prussian guard and the Tenth army corps into the Oise.

"Owing to the progress of the German right wing, where our adversaries have united their best corps, we have had to mark a new retirement."

War Increases Horse Values.

Antigo, Wis., Sept. 1.—That the war will tend to increase the price of horses through the demands for horses suitable for cavalry and artillery service by European countries is the opinion of Sam Ullman of J. Ullman & Co., horse dealers. Buyers report that farmers are holding their surplus horses in anticipation of a rise in prices.

JAPAN ON THE LID IN INDIA

Will Send Troops to Keep Hindus From Rising in Revolt.

No Japanese Soldiers Will Be Sent to Europe.

New York, Sept. 1.—Japan cannot send troops to Europe to assist the allies in the fighting there, although she stands ready to help them in the Far East, according to the Japanese consul-general here, Tagashi Nakamura. This statement was made in reply to questions as to whether Japan would send soldiers to Europe to help the allies, or organize an expedition to help keep Turkey at bay.

"Our agreement with Great Britain," said the consul-general, "is such that she need have no fear of removing her troops from India to the war zone. That agreement binds us to protect the interests of Great Britain in just such an emergency, and the agreement includes India and China.

Troops to India.

"In the event of Turkey getting into this war, which is not so promising as it may seem, Japan would send to India a sufficient force to keep down any uprising of the natives that might be fomented by Turkish or German interests. Such a movement of Japanese troops is covered in the agreement.

"On the other hand, we cannot send troops to the war in Europe, no matter what the fortunes of the allies may be. In the first place, our agreement does not call for aid in that direction; in the second place, it would be almost impossible to get enough troops into the war zone to be of any service at the last desperate cry for help."

Turk Predicts Neutrality.

The Turkish consul-general, Djelal Bey, laughed when he was asked about the probability of his country going to war.

"Turkey has just passed through two wars," he said. "Wars have long ago ceased to be interesting even as a commercial proposition. Turkey is not looking for a fight, either with the possible winner or the probable loser in this war. I believe that my country is taking the strict path of neutrality."

CHARGE GERMANS BURNED AERSCHOT.

London, Sept. 1, 2:55 a. m.—A dispatch to the Reuter agency from Ostend reports that refugees from Aerschot, twenty-three miles northeast of Brussels, accuse the German troops, before they evacuated that place, of having pillaged and burned the town.

PARISIANS "DO NOT FEAR GERMAN BOMBS"

Explosion of One Is Mistaken for Explosion of Gas.

London, Sept. 1, 7:02 a. m.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegraph company from Paris states that when the bomb fell yesterday in the Porte St. Martin quarter from a German aeroplane the people in the vicinity, believing it due to an explosion of gas, rushed from all sides. The fire brigade arrived, as did the mayor, the commissary of police and representatives of the French aviation service.

As a matter of fact Parisians show no disposition to be unduly disturbed by these bomb incidents, which are generally regarded as a rather harmless effort on the part of German aviators to create a panic.

"Silent Stoicism."

Paris, Sept. 1.—Another German aeroplane flew over Paris yesterday afternoon but did no damage. The Temps says on the subject of aeroplane raids over Paris:

"Paris will know how to reply by silent stoicism and calm resolution to the effort at intimidation by which the Germans are attempting to stir the capital that they know is impressionable, but of whose unfailing resources of patience and will they do not know."

TURKS PREPARING TO JOIN THE WAR

Mobilization of Army Likely to Be Followed By Declaration.

Rome, Sept. 1, via Paris, 1:20 p. m.—A telegram received in Rome from Berlin announces the mobilization of the Turkish army.

Following the advice of Field Marshal Baron Von Der Goltz, it is stated, the Turkish government will form an army of the first line composed of 200,000 men, all Mohammedans.

Seventy-two superior German officers, forming the German military mission at Constantinople, have been incorporated in the Turkish army and will participate in the war. The presence of the German officers in the army is interpreted to mean that Turkey will fight on the side of Germany.

Bey Doubts Reports.

Washington, Sept. 1.—The Turkish ambassador, A. Rustem Bey, expressed doubt today that the Turkish army was mobilizing and about to fight on the side of Germany. He said the Turkish army was mobilized three weeks ago.

The British embassy has been informed by a cable from London that German officers had gone to Constantinople to take charge of the Turkish army and that a declaration of war from Turkey was expected. Plans are already under way to ask the American ambassador at Constantinople to take charge of the British interests there.

WOUNDED FETED BY BIARRITZ CROWD.

Paris, Sept. 1, 1:30 a. m.—A Havas dispatch from Biarritz says that the arrival of a convoy of 133 wounded soldiers and twelve officers today gave rise to a general manifestation of sympathy on the part of the foreign colony, in which the English and Spanish took a conspicuous part.

"They loaded the soldiers with flowers, cigarettes, cigars an other presents of all kinds. Automobiles were placed at their disposal and refreshments were served in the saloons of the Casino, where hospital wards, with all possible comforts, were arranged. The soldiers displayed great emotion at their reception."

JAPANESE OCCUPY TWO MORE ISLANDS.

Pekin, Sept. 1.—The Japanese, according to reports received here, have occupied two other islands within the German sphere at Kiao Chow. They are Taliekao and Tekung Tao. These islands had not been occupied by the Germans. Information received yesterday was to the effect that the Japanese had occupied Te Chien, a small island outside of Kiao Chow bay.

FRENCH IMPRESSED BY DEFENSE PLANS

Demonstration Breaks Out When German Prisoners Are Seen.

London, Sept. 1, 7:01 a. m.—Several persons who reached Paris today from northern towns, says a Paris dispatch to the Reuter Telegraph company, declared that they were much impressed by what they saw on the way. No Germana were seen but the preparations of the allies for a defensive fight filled them with confidence.

The presence of German officers interned at Aurillas, to the south of Paris, caused disorderly demonstrations among the populace during the night. The commandant threatened rigorous measures in the event of a recurrence of the disturbance.

"GERMANS LOSE SCORE TO THE ALLIES' ONE"

Paris, Sept. 1.—An officer wounded in the engagements in the north of France said the German casualties as compared with those of the allies bear a ratio of 20 to 1. This was due to the charges of massed infantry in an endeavor to break through the lines. The three-inch guns did execution heretofore unimaginable in the ranks that succeeded each other, until the field was covered with dead and wounded.

WILL FORGIVE EVEN MAYHEM

Wife Unwilling to Prosecute Husband for Biting Off Nose.

Love's fire which burned so fervently in the bosom of Jensie Talerico, an attractive dark-eyed Italian girl, that she forsook both husband and friends and sought the companionship of a forbidden sweetheart of her childhood days, might have had cold water dashed on it when recently her gallant, in a fit of passion and anger, bit off a piece of her nose, but it was not quenched.

John Morobito, second husband of the once pretty Sicilian girl, now reposes behind prison bars charged with the crime of mayhem. He is accused of having disfigured his wife's face by biting her nose off in a family quarrel at their home in Mountain Iron on July 18 last. He was indicted for the offease by a range grand jury last week and is now awaiting trial.

Although her face has probably been disfigured for life and her beauty marred as a consequence of the incident, the woman's love for her impulsive husband remains undaunted. She has notified the county attorney's office at Virginia that she is no longer willing to prosecute, that she is willing to forgive and forget. Morobito, however, will be held.

The romance which brought the attractive little Italian miss and her lover together after he had shot and almost fatally wounded her stepfather, Mike Talerico, who attempted to break the match and escaped only to turn up again after she had become betrothed to another whom she married and then deserted, started five years ago when Jensie was a child of 15.

Stepfather Interferes.

It was during the month of brides back in 1909 when John Morobito declared his love to the pretty Jensie of West Duluth. He wooed and won her. They would have been married had not an irate stepfather asserted himself, and refused to allow Morobito to pay his respects to the girl.

At a christening party the men met and quarreled over the affair. Morobito slipped out of the house first and laid in wait for Talerico. When the girl's stepfather passed, a struggle followed in which Talerico was shot twice through the abdomen and one of Morobito's ears was partly bitten off.

Morobito escaped and was never caught or arrested for the offense. Talerico was rushed to a hospital where he hovered between life and death for several days, finally recovering. Later Talerico learned that Morobito was at Mountain Iron, but he requested the authorities not to prosecute.

After her stepfather's recovery, Jensie was betrothed to Tony Talerico, a relative of Mike's. The wedding was solemnized. Jensie tired of the choice her stepfather had made for her and left Tony three months after the wedding, and went to Mountain Iron, where she and her lover, Morobito, were subsequently married.

Tony Talerico, the first husband, is eight years older than Jensie. Morobito is eleven years her senior. Tony secured a divorce from her a year ago last May.

NURSE TELLS OF TRIP OVER BLOODY SOIL

New York, Sept. 1.—The battle field Liege as seen through the eyes of an American girl, was described today by Miss Anna Laing, a graduate nurse of the Bridgeport, Conn., hospital, a passenger on the steamer Ryndam from Rotterdam.

"I was in Liege when the fight first started," said Miss Laing. "Several Belgian officers who were friends of mine took me to a house where I was practically out of the range of the shells that were being hurled at the city by the Germans. During the evening the Germans withdrew for some reason, and during the lull in the fighting two of the Belgian officers invited me to go out over the field where the heaviest fighting had taken place.

Ground Soaked With Blood.

"The ground was literally soaked with blood and the bodies of horses and men lay everywhere. There was many a place where blood had flowed down the sides of little hills and earthworks; its course was plainly marked. Some bushes were spattered with red as high up as eight feet above the ground.

"I saw trenches filled to the top with dead German soldiers. These trenches, the Belgian officers explained to me, had been dug by the Belgians and occupied by them until the great army of advancing Germans forced them to retreat.

Bodies Upon Bodies.

"As the German infantry mounted the breastworks in front of the trenches the retreating Belgians poured a murderous fire into their ranks, and their bodies fell into the trenches. Then, the Belgian officers said, their men mowed down more Germans with a deadly cross fire, which not only filled up the trenches with bodies, but left many piled on top of one another on the breastworks and the ground nearby."

When Miss Laing returned to the city she helped dress the wounds of many Belgian soldiers. She left the city before it was captured by the Germans, however, and managed to make her way to Rotterdam, where she boarded the ship that brought her to New York today.

WIDENS SCOPE OF SOCIAL CENTER

Miss Culkin Will Add Several Schools to Her List.

Social center work in Duluth will be started shortly after the opening of the public schools next week and will be extended over a wider field than last year, according to Miss Margaret Culkin, director of social centers.

Miss Culkin said this morning that several schools will be added to those in which social centers were started last fall and that new activities will be started and developed. The first addition will likely be the new Denfeld high school at West Duluth and the school at New Duluth will be added as soon as it is opened. Considerable attention will be devoted to concerts, lecture courses and domestic science classes, as well as to gymnastics and amusements. The aim will be to make the social centers instructive as well as entertaining.

Social centers were started in Duluth only last year under the direction of Mayor Prince. The mayor stated that he was highly gratified by the results which were secured, and that he looks forwarde to the steady development of social centers in Duluth.

NOT DRUNK WHEN HE BOUGHT LAUNCH

When C. B. Metcroft purchased a launch from the Patterson Boat & Launch company for $300 a few months ago he was not drunk, but in full possession of his faculties, according to the answer which the launch company has interposed as a defense to a suit brought by Metcroft to recover the price of the boat. Mr. Metcroft alleged that when the deal was made for the launch he was intoxicated. This is denied in the company's answer.

The answer alleges that the sale was openly, honestly and fairly conducted and that Mr. Metcroft was perfectly capable of transacting business at the time. The deal, it is claimed, was free from any taint of fraud or misrepresentation.

PENSION FOR OLD EMPLOYES

All Advocates Asked to Meet With Utility Men.

All employes of the city who are interested in old age pensions are invited by President George L. Gross of the Merritt Utilities association, composed of employes of the water and light department, to attend the meeting of the organization in the council chambers of the city hall this evening.

The association has been taking the initiative in starting a campaign to extend the old age pension system from the police and fire departments to other city departments. The members submitted a proposition to the council for such a system for the water and light department but expressed their willingness to co-operate with other departments to make it general.

When the proposal was submitted to the council the commissioners did not look with full favor upon old age pensions for a single department. The opinion expressed was that any such system should include all employes and it is to that end that the association is now working. A tentative plan has been outlined and will be submitted to the meeting this evening by President Gross, a full expression of opinion being desired before it is laid before the commission, as the better it can be made the better its chances of meeting the approval of the city fathers. The principal features are the age limit, the number of years of service before becoming eligible and the proportion of wages to be paid into the pension fund.

UPPER PENINSULA MEN LEAVE FOR WAR

Calumet Turk and Greek, Once Friends, Now Bitter Enemies.

Calumet, Mich., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Calumet has men fighting in half a dozen armies of the warring nations of the old world or on their way to their former homes to enlist for service. Five young Calumet, Mohawk and Lake Linden men left Calumet a week ago for Cornwall to take their places in the ranks of the British naval reserves. They are young men who served only a portion of their time in the volunteer naval forces of the empire, similar to service in the American naval reserves, and expect to get into some of the big naval actions with their ships and their crews.

Friends No More.

Two Turks, John Mustahof and John Hudja, and Steven Masjicek, a Greek, who have been working as trammers in the South Kearsarge mine and have been inseparable friends during their nine months' residence here, left Sunday night for New York city, from where they will sail for the Mediterranean. The Turks will re-enlist in the armies of the Sultan and Kasjicek will enlist in the army of King George. Although friends in Calumet, there sprang up an enmity between the Turks and the Greek in the railway station at Calumet, the Turks promising to kill the Greek as soon as they reach European territory. Kasjicek was minded to have the two arrested and detained in Calumet until he could leave the country, but was informed that he would have to be held also, to appear against them in police court, should he prefer any charge on which they might be held.

FIVE HURT WHEN TRAIN ROLLS OVER.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 1.—Five persons were injured early today when several cars of the Northland Limited, a resort train on the Grand Rapids & Indiana railroad, went into a ditch near Kalamazoo. It was said by officials of the railroad that none of the five was fatally hurt.

Among the slightly injured were W. R. Nunelly, J. H. Arengler and Mrs. W. T. Drummond, all of Louisville, Ky.

The accident was caused by a washout. Eight steel Pullmans rolled down a ten-foot embankment.

U. S. EMBASSY WILL REMAIN IN PARIS

Paris, Sept. 1, 1 a. m.—In reply to a question whether the United States embassy would leave Paris in case of the investment of the city by the Germans, Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador, said:

"The embassy will remain here. My government offered me the choice of returning to the United States or remaining here. I chose to remain because many Americans will be here who will need not only my support but my protection."

When reminded of the difficulty which attached and the dangers involved in distinguishing Americans from English, Mr. Herrick said:

"Perhaps there will be danger, but after all we have only one life to give, and how better can a life be given than in the faithful discharge of one's duty."

HOUSEWIVES BUY UP EVERYTHING OFFERED

New York Municipal Markets See Rush of Purchasers.

New York, Sept. 1.—Housewives armed with market baskets stormed the four municipal markets, opened today by the mayor's citizen committee in an effort to stem the rising cost of food, in such numbers that many farmers and dealers had sold out within an hour.

Farmers from the surrounding country, push cart merchants and commission men invited by the committee to occupy the new markets rent free, were on hand in force. They sold their goods under supervision of the committee's inspectors, who were fortified with the latest retail and wholesale quotations.

Prices tumbled. Bread sold as low as 4 cents a loaf and other staples were correspondingly cheap. Thousands of pounds of sugar, at 7 cents a pound, were sold during the first hour of trading. Potatoes were cut more than one-third. Fruits were cut from 20 to 35 per cent.

BUTTE MINES CLOSE; MAY BE NO MILITIA

Butte, Mont., Sept. 1.—The Original and Gagnon mines, employing about 700 men, were closed today after they had been visited by a committee of the new mine workers' union.

There was no disorder at the mines and it was announced by the committee of the mine workers that there would be no more deportations. The town was quiet last night. It is understood the militia will not be brought here unless further disorders are threatened.

The machine gun platoons accompany the troops. Maj. D. J. Donohue of Glendive is in command.

MAY BE VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

Fearing that her son, Harold Fleming, has been killed or murdered near Duluth, Mrs. G. H. Fleming of Bennington, Vt., has written Chief Troyer for information as to his whereabouts. He has failed to write home since last May, she stated in her letter, and for this reason fears that he has met with foul play.

"My son always wrote home," continues Mrs. Fleming, "and I am positive something serious has happened to him. Last May his letters stopped coming and we have no explanation for his actions. I understand he worked at one time at Big Fork, Minn., and later came to Duluth. Please help me find him."

The police are making every effort to locate young Fleming, who is described by his mother as being of light complexion, and about five feet, six inches tall.

ALL STORES WILL CLOSE MONDAY

All stores in Duluth will be closed next Monday, Labor day, and there will be no deliveries of mail.

Practically all business activity will cease during the whole day so that working folk can attend the Labor day picnic.

No deliveries of mail on this day is something unusual, but Postmaster McEwen has called up the large stores regarding the matter, and the general sentiment favors giving Uncle Sam's boys a whole day's rest. The general delivery window, however, will be open one hour during the morning.

POSITION OF ALLIES GOOD

Paris, Sept. 1.—The position of the allied armies according to the opinion of French military experts, is good. The Germans, it is pointed out, are attempting a movement which if it fails will leave them in a dangerous situation with their troops exhausted.

The British army, fresh and rested, the experts say, is about to engage the extreme German right and to support the French who have been retiring slowly for several days.

RUBENS PAINTING IS DESTROYED BY SHOTS

London, Sept. 1, 12:20 p. m.—In a dispatch from Amsterdam, a correspondent of the Central News says that during the German bombardment of Malines, the painting by Rubens, representing the Miraculous Draught of Fishes, was destroyed. It hung in the Church of Notre Dame. The correspondent declares that the German general, Prince von Buelow, who was wounded in the Battle of Haelen, has since died.

Various places in Belgium now occupied by the Germans, according to this same authority, have been posted with placards announcing that the Germans now consider Belgium a province.

GERMAN CRUISER IS OFF HONOLULU

Honolulu, T. H., Sept. 1.—The German cruiser Nurnberg, whose whereabouts have been a mystery since she left here early last month, appeared off this port early today. JOHN LASSON FEARED LIFE

Tells Jury That He Killed Jarvinen to Save His Own Life.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—"I was in mortal terror of the man, I feared for my life and had to kill him," was the substance of the admission John Lasson, nicknamed "Pickerel John," the old man who is on trial in district court here, made today on the stand as he told the jury how he had to kill Alex Jarvinen at the Lasson cabin, near the Canadian Northern railway, between Cuzson and Orr last July.

The aged defendant told a pretty straightforward story of the affair and seemed to convince the jury and spectators that he only shed human blood when he recognized his life was in danger from the furious Jarvinen who, maddened by liberal potions of hot whisky, had threatened to kill him. He denied placing Jarvinen's body on the track, where it was found, but claimed he and two other men carried it near the tracks so it could easily be reached when the authorities arrived from Virginia. Lasson had not finished his testimony when court adjourned at noon. As rapid progress is being made in the case it is expected the last of the evidence will be offered this afternoon and the case may be submitted tonight.

A jury was chosen about 4 p. m. yesterday after a number of prospective jurors had been examined. The bulk of the jury lives here, in Eveleth and other range points, none being from Duluth.

Tells of Shooting.

Matt Niemen gave the first testimony of the killing. He said he, Lasson, Jarvinen and a fourth man described as "a little old man," has since disappeared, were drinking hot whiskey in the Lasson cabin and Jarvinen became very abusive. He claimed that Jarvinen once threw Lasson down and threatened to kill him. In the midst of the scuffle there was a shot and Jarvinen fell mortally wounded. After he died the three others carried the body out beside the tracks, so as to hack it badly when the officers arrived. He denied that the body was placed on the tracks where it was found and could not tell how it got there. Other witnesses gave testimony before Lasson was called to the stand this morning. The accused who is about 60, has lived in Minnesota about twenty years or more, following the occupation of a woodsman and trapper, an as he took the stand he appeared to feel keenly the awful turn events had taken against him.

BOYS FORMED INTO LIFE SAVING CORPS

The camp, which Mr. and Mrs. Green established here several years ago, continues to be a splendid success and this year it was more of a success than ever.

Forty-two boys were in the party this year. It is the aim of Mr. and Mrs. Green to have only a limited number of boys in their charge and have them be boys of the best possible character and from the best families, making the camp a very select outing place. Aside from the boys, many parents of boys in the camp were entertained for short periods during the summer.

Form Life-Saving Corps.

An interesting feature of the camp this year was the establishment of a station under the United States Volunteer Life-Saving corps. A branch of the corps was established at the camp the first part of this month. A crew of ten boys was recruited in the subscribed tests required of the vounteers and all successfully passed the examination, being given certificates for one year of service. The tests included bringing up heavy objects from the bottom of the lake, swimming fifty yards in clothes, resuscitating drowning persons by various methods, demonstrating breaks and releases in cases where drowning persons clutch and strangle in death grips, demonstrating methods of resuscitation, tying a number of standard knots, demonstrating the use of life buoy and row boat and swim a long distance. An examination in first aid to the injured is also required. The purpose of the station is to protect life upon the water, resuscitate the drowning and to patrol the lake in case of danger or accident.

Crew Is Recruited.

L. R. Sarrett, athletic director of the camp, secured the station and was commissioned to recruit it. The crew was instructed under the direction of Mr. Sarrett. The members of the crew are: Mr. Sarrett, captain; Hiram Belding, Herbert Lewis, Junior Spiegel, William Vail, Dunlap Castle, Donald Brock, Francis Everett, George Carey, Ira Keller, Raymond Wallace.

The benefit of the camp is obvious in a place where there is danger of water accidents such as there is near a lake and the benefit to the boys participating in the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Sarrett and a number of the boys are still at the camp.

ITASCA PLANNING ON FINE DISPLAY

Grand Rapids, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald).—Secretary A. M. Sisler of the Itasca county fair is mailing the premium lists for the county fair. He is also working hard gathering the exhibits for the state fair. The best of the exhibits for the state fair will also be shown here.

All Communities Invited.

The county fair management invites every community to enter the township exhibit this year. All the townships of the county are eligible, and every township exhibit scoring 400 out of a possible 650 points will be awarded $40, and the township receiving the higest score will receive $10 extra, while the township having the best design and arrangement will receive $10 additional.

The products must be grown on at least ten different farms in the county, and must include displays of grains, grasses, stock roots, forage crops, potatoes, vegetables and fruits, the exhibits being judged on a basis of 100 points on each display except fruit upon which only fifty points are allowed, making 650 points in all. The absence of any of the displays specified does not bar an exhibit from competing. Prizes of $20, $15, $10 and $5 each for first, second, third and fourth are offered for individual farm exhibits, and competition is open to any farmer in Itasca county.

NOW INSTALLING FAIR EXHIBITS

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Exhibits for the county fair to be held here Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, are arriving and being installed, and Secretary Giffin is a very busy man. The agricultural display promises to beat anything before shown in St. Louis county and the fair officials are gratified over the showing to be made. If the weather is favorable it is expected there will be a banner attendance.

Special Fair Trains.

Arrangements are being made for special trains on all of the four days of the fair. A special from Tower is to be run on Thursday. On Saturday there will be a special from Duluth, and on Sunday a special from Winton. Other specials are being arranged by the two roads running into Hibbing. In addition to the railroad service, there will be extra cars provided on the Mesaba Electric road, and it is certain that Hibbing will be crowded on all four days with guests from the range towns.

Copies of the contract for the flights of Lloyd Thompson during the fair have been received by Secretary R. L. Giffin. The papers provide that there will be two flights each day and that during one of the flights the aviator will loop the loop and show his famous spiral descent. The flights are to be made rain or shine and without regard to the wind or weather. This feature of the already excellent fair program insures the guests during the four days of celebration, the most sensational aerial performances.

EVELETH COUNCIL TO PASS BUDGET

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council will meet tonight and several matters of importance will be taken up. Amended petitions asking the recall of Mayor J. J. Gleason and Commissioner J. J. Brince will be presented with the report of City Clerk A. P. Romer as to their legality.

Budget of $750,000.

The budget for next year will also be acted on. Money is to be levied for the paving of Jones, Jackson, Pierce and Monroe streets but it is understood that the budget will not be over half of the sum which it has been rumored was to be raised. Report fixed $750,000 as the amount to be levied.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

To Be Decided Between Brainerd and Hibbing Saturday and Monday.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The championship of the state will be the prize to be contested for next Saturday, Sunday and Monday when the fast Brainerd baseball team meets Hibbing. The Brainerd aggregation claims to have the fastest nonsalaried team in Minnesota and as Hibbing is working on a percentage basis they are privileged to dispute the claim. The games on Saturday and Sunday will be called early so as not to interfere with the program at the county fair. The Brainerd team has a brother of Leslie Bush and a brother of Chief Bender playing.

CHICKEN THIEVES PAY.

Settle With Owner of Eveleth Birds and Escape Prosecution.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The thieves who made off with twenty chickens from the coop of Max Shapiro, have been apprehended. They settled for the poultry and were not prosecuted. Chief of Police Thomas Finnegan found two live birds and the heads of the others three miles from town after several days' work and fixed the robbery on five men, of whom two are prominent in Eveleth.

Gilbert, Minn., Sept. 1.—The residents of the Genoa location gave a banquet to the Oliver fire department members who took the majority of prizes at the recent Buhl tournament. Chief H. E. Brown was toastmaster. The following firemen were present: Assistant Chief W. J. Brown, Capt. John Shean, H. Hill, Timothy Shean, Clinton Bent, D. R. Carmichael, Thomas O'Connor, John Nolan, Harold Murray, Clarence Martin, Floyd Murray, Harry Sullivan, M. B. Elson and F. Sullivan.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local schools opened yesterday with the banner enrollment of their history, about 2,700, or over 100 in excess of those on hand the opening day last year. There are now 225 pupils in the high school, against 180 at this time last year.

HIBBING MAN HAS VERY TOUGH TIME

His Ship Held Up, Preventing His Going Home.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—To have been held up after having been on his journey three days and virtually kept a prisoner in the city of Rotterdam, Holland, from which place he was unable to leave because of the European war, was the experience of James Adamczwski, for six years employed in the Oliver Iron Mining company blacksmithing shop here. Mr. Adamczwski, who was accompanied by his father, Peter Adamczwski, also employed as a blacksmith for the Oliver company, was able to engage passage on the Noordam, which left Rotterdam Aug. 15 and arrived in New York last Monday. Adamczwski, Sr., remained in Rotterdam because of insufficient money to engage passage for two.

"The Ryindam left New York July 25 bound for Denmark," said Mr. Adamczwski. "On July 28 we received a wireless to the effect that war had been declared between Russia and Germany as a result of the Austrian and Servian differences. That same evening the Ryindam was placed under arrest by an English cruiser and taken under guard to Rotterdam, Holland.

Halt Poles and Russians.

All Germans and people of other nationalities other than Russian were sent to their countries but the Russians and Poles, there being 160 of the latter, were kept in Rotterdam and furnished with board and room.

"Aug. 15 four Poles and myself engaged passage on the ship Noordam and arrived here on Monday of last week. My brother is just of age and will be drafted as a recruit in a few months. Although my father and I were on our way to visit my mother, five sisters and brother, we could not even get word to them. I tried to get a telegram to them, but although it cost $10, I doubt if the message reached them."

Mr. Adamczwski said that business in Holland is at a standstill, paper money being legal tender and used exclusively as a medium of exchange.

HIBBING MAN WAS IN LIEGE BATTLE

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word has been received from the Austrians who left Hibbing with the intention of going to the old country to fight, that they have been unsuccessful thus far in securing passage on any ship but that they are awaiting the first opportunity which it is believed will be presented in a week, when Germany will send a ship to carry them to the seat of war.

Many more local Austrians will join the army according to one of the prominent members of that nationality who said that if they do not go they will never be allowed to enter the country again. To many of them ostracism would mean the loss of all they hold dear as they have families there. Many of them have land holdings which in event of their refusal to return and bear arms for the country would be confiscated by the government.

Hibbing has the distinction of having had a former resident in the battle of Liege. A detailed report of his version of the battle in which he was wounded will be made public soon.

SHIRAS MINE WILL BEGIN SHIPPING

Buhl Property Placed in Shape to Start Ore to Docks.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ore shipments from the Shiras mine in the Buhl district, which has been under process of development by the Oliver Iron Mining company for the past six months will begin at once. Ore loading started Friday of last week. The Shiras was formerly known as the Wanless No. 2.

It is underground property. The facilities for raising the ore were completed several weeks ago and the first ore in drifting to the ore body was encountered last Thursday. It is estimated that the Shiras will ship about 5,000 tons of ore before the close of the present season.

TAKEN TO SAGINAW.

Body of Hibbing Pioneer Sent to Wolverine State.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Albert D. Smith, the pioneer citizen who died Sunday aged 47, has been taken to Saginaw, Mich., for interment.

Mr. Smith opened the first restaurant here on the site now occupied by the Princess theater. His first business venture was a steam laundry in the building where the Globe hotel now stands. After selling his restaurant business he opened the first Shamrock saloon. Mr. Smith also ran the Lipton hotel and the saloon now owned by Fred Whymant.

Mr. Smith is survived by a wife, who was at his deathbed and two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Bloeser of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. R. J. Walker of Saginaw, Mich., and by an aged father, who has been residing with his daughter in Detroit. Mrs. John Smith and daughter of Chisholm, wife of his brother who

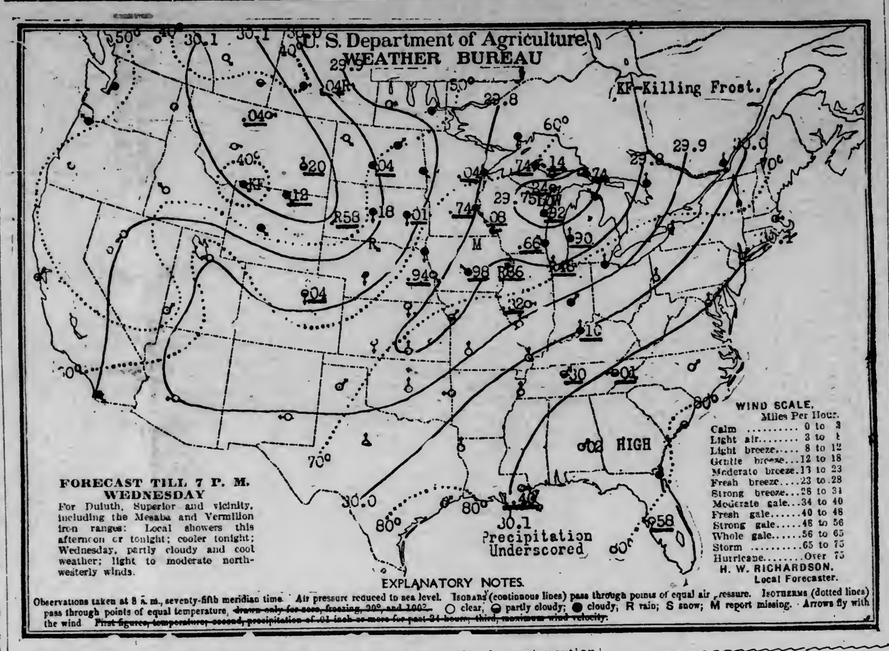

Lessons in Scientific Complexion Renewing

Everyone has a beautiful skin underneath the one exposed to view. Bear that in mind and it will be easier to understand the correct principle in acquiring a lovely complexion. Nature is constantly shedding the top skin in flaky particles like dandruff, only much smaller in size. In abnormal conditions, or in advancing age, these particles are not shed as rapidly as in robust youth. The longer they remain the more soiled or faded they become—that's the immediate cause of a "bad complexion."

It has been discovered that ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, will absorb these worn-out particles. The absorption, while hastening Nature's work, goes on gradually enough to cause no inconvenience. In a week or two the transformation is complete. The fresh, healthy-hued, youthful underskin is then wholly in evidence. You who are not satisfied with your complexions should get an ounce of mercolized wax and try this treatment. Use the wax nightly, like cold cream, washing it off morning.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

A New Discovery.

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh, new red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and Boyce Drug store and all other druggists in Duluth and vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.

TWO HARBORS HAS EARLY HOUR BLAZE

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire, which broke out in the back room of Coursolles' candy store, completely destroyed two buildings about 2 o'clock this morning.

The buildings were owned by Mrs. Anna Johnson, and one of the buildings destroyed was her home. The other was a two-story frame building, the ground floor of which was occupied by a candy store, and the upper floor for a meeting place. The loss was approximately $6,000 and was covered by about $2,000 insurance.

The fire originated in the back room of the candy store, and before the alarm was given much damage had already been done. The buildings were quite old and dry and burned very rapidly. Considerable was saved out of both the store and the dwelling by the many hundreds of people who were aroused from their slumbers by the fire whistle. The calm condition of the weather was very favorable for a fire in that district, for had there been a strong wind where the city is so thickly populated with dwellings, much property would have been destroyed.

SEWER WORK IS NOT TO BE MADE

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A communication was read before the city council last night from some of the property owners on Eighth avenue, in which they requested that the city withdraw the demand made some time ago that all vacant lots must have sewer connections made this year. This avenue is being improved and it was the desire of the city officials to have the connections made before the improvements were too far advanced. The improvements on this avenue were started last year, when it was brought to grade and cement sidewalks were laid. There has been nothing done with it this year as the city had its hands full with the work on Seventh avenue and other improvements, and it is quite possible that work on Eighth avenue will not be continued until some time next year. The council granted the request made by the vacant lot property owners.

Complaints to the aldermen have been frequent that the road running west from Seventh avenue to the cemetery corner and then north toward Waldo in the city limits is in very bad condition and that during wet weather is almost impassable in places. This has always been one of the best pieces of road in the county up to a year or so ago, and the city officials are anxious to have it put into good shape again. As it is the main or only entrance or exit to the city for farmers from the west and as they are largely responsible for the cut-up condition of the road the city officials are of the opinion that the county should aid in the repairing of it. A committee of councilmen will meet with the commissioners at their regular monthly meeting and endeavor to get aid.

Another Scarlet Fever Case.

Another case of scarlet fever was reported to the council, a 10-year-old daughter of Adolph Strom. City officials do not relish the idea of another epidemic and steps will undoubtedly be taken at once to prevent the spread of the disease as much as possible. It was suggested that lime be spread in the low alleys and other places where conditions demanded it.

A resolution was passed authorizing the paving of the alley between Cedar and Poplar streets, and the business section of the city and the Iron Range property. A hearing was set for Sept. 21. It is estimated that the alley will cost approximately $1,200. The property owners abutting this alley presented a petition to the council some three months ago requesting that this alley be improved. At that time the city did not feel that it could do the work and the matter was dropped and revived again during the past few days. The city officials are of the opinion that the alley should be paved with concrete, although there has been some talk of tar macadam. The property owners did not specify as to the kind of material to be used, so it is quite possible that it will be paved with concrete.

To Duluth and Hibbing.

Negaunee, Mich., Sept. 1.—Ray Calligan has left for Duluth, where he will visit with his brother, Charles and family. He will spend some time at Hibbing, Minn., as the guest of his brothers, James and John.

Attended Chisholm Picnic.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many local people attended the retail merchants' picnic in Chisholm Sunday on the east shore of Longyear lake. The Buhl City band was hired for the occasion and many people from Buhl attended the picnic. Sport contests usually pulled off in connection with similar celebrations, including swimming contests, tug-of-war and races. The Panter orchestra from this city played for the dance which was held during the afternoon and evening.

Was Never So Sick.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though he had made the trip over the ocean five times, John Carney, an Austrian, from Chisholm, arraigned in court here charged with having been drunk Sunday night, declared that he had never been so sick as he felt then. Carney, after having been placed in jail, broke up a water pail and showed considerable fight, but declared before the court that he had no desire to go back and help his countrymen.

ON THE IRON RANGES

JOHN LASSON FEARED LIFE

Tells Jury That He Killed Jarvinen to Save His Own Life.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—"I was in mortal terror of the man, I feared for my life and had to kill him," was the substance of the admission John Lasson, nicknamed "Pickerel John," the old man who is on trial in district court here, made today on the stand as he told the jury how he had to kill Alex Jarvinen at the Lasson cabin, near the Canadian Northern railway, between Cusson and Orr last July.

The aged defendant told a pretty straightforward story of the affair and seemed to convince the jury and spectators that he only shed human blood when he recognized his life was in danger from the furious Jarvinen who, maddened by liberal potions of hot whisky, had threatened to kill him. He denied placing Jarvinen's body on the track, where it was found, but claimed he and two other men carried it near the tracks so it could easily be read when the authorities arrived from Virginia. Lasson had not finished his testimony when court adjourned at noon. As rapid progress is being made in the case it is expected the last of the evidence will be offered this afternoon and the case may be submitted tonight.

A jury was chosen about 4 p. m. yesterday after a number of prospective jurors had been examined. The bulk of the jury lives here, in Eveleth and other range points, none being from Duluth.

Tells of Shooting.

Matt Niemen gave the first testimony of the killing. He said he, Lasser, Jarvinen and a fourth man described as "a little old man," has since disappeared, were drinking hot whisky in the Lasson cabin and Jarvinen became very abusive. He claimed that Jarvinen once threw Lasson down and threatened to kill him. In the midst of the scuffle there was a shot and Jarvinen fell mortally wounded. After he died the three others carried the body out beside the tracks, so as to have it handy when the officers arrived. He denied that the body was placed on the tracks where it was found and could not tell how it got there. Other witnesses gave testimony before Lasson was called to the stand this morning. The accused who is about 60, has lived in Minnesota about twenty years or more, following the occupation of a woodsman and trapper, and as he took the stand he appeared to feel keenly the awful turn events had taken against him.

BOYS FORMED INTO LIFE SAVING CORPS

The camp, which Mr. and Mrs. Green established here several years ago, continues to be a splendid success and the year it was more of a success than ever.

Forty-two boys were in the party this year. It is the aim of Mr. and Mrs. Green to have only a limited number of boys in their charge and have them be boys of the best possible character and from the best families, making the camp a very select outing place. Aside from the boys, many persons of those in the camp were entertained for short periods during the summer.

Form Life-Saving Corps.

An interesting feature of the camp this year was the establishment of a station under the United States Volunteer Life-Saving corps. A branch of the corps was established at the camp the first part of this month. A crew of ten boys was permitted in the subscribed tests required of the counteers and all successfully passed the examination, being given certificates for one year of service. The tests included bringing up heavy objects from the bottom of the lake, swimming fifty yards in clothes, resuscitating drowning persons by various methods, demonstrating breaks and releases in cases where drowning persons clutch and strangle in death grips, demonstrating methods of resuscitation, tying a number of standard knots, demonstrating the use of life buoy and row boat and swim a long distance. An examination in first aid to the injured is also required. The purpose of the station is to protect life upon the water, resuscitate the drowning and to patrol the lake in case of danger or accident.

Crew Is Recruited.

L. R. Sarrett, athletic director of the camp, secured the station and was commissioned to recruit it. The crew was instructed under the direction of Mr. Sarrett. The members of the crew are: Mr. Sarrett, captain; Hiram Belding, Herbert Lewis, Junior Spiegel, William Vail, Dunlap Castle, Donald Brock, Francis Everett, George Carey, Ira Keller, Raymond Wallace.

The benefit of the camp is obvious in a place where there is danger of water accidents such as there is near a lake and the benefit to the boys participating in the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Sarrett and a number of the boys are still at the camp.

ITASCA PLANNING ON FINE DISPLAY

Grand Rapids, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald).—Secretary A. M. Sisler of the Itasca county fair is mailing the premium lists for the county fair. He is also working hard gathering the exhibits for the state fair. The best of the exhibits for the state fair will also be shown here.

All Communities Invited.

The county fair management invites every community to enter the township exhibit this year. All the townships of the county are eligible, and every township exhibit scoring 400 out of a possible 650 points will be awarded $40, and the township receiving the higest score will receive $10 extra, while the township having the best design and arrangement will receive $10 additional.

The products must be grown on at least ten different farms in the county, and must include displays of grains, grasses, stock roots, forage crops, potatoes, vegetables and fruits, the exhibits being judged on a basis of 100 points on each display except fruit upon which only fifty points are allowed, making 650 points in all. The absence of any of the displays specified does not bar an exhibit from competing. Prizes of $20, $15, $10 and $5 each for first, second, third and fourth are offered for individual farm exhibits, and competition is open to any farmer in Itasca county.

NOW INSTALLING FAIR EXHIBITS

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Exhibits for the county fair to be held here Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, are arriving and being installed, and Secretary Giffin is a very busy man. The agricultural display promises to beat anything before shown in St. Louis county and the fair officials are gratified over the showing to be made. If the weather is favorable it is expected there will be a banner attendance.

Special Fair Trains.

Arrangements are being made for special trains on all of the four days of the fair. A special from Tower is to be run on Thursday. On Saturday there will be a special from Duluth, and on Sunday a special from Winton. Other specials are being arranged by the two roads running into Hibbing. In addition to the railroad service, there will be extra cars provided on the Mesaba Electric road, and it is certain that Hibbing will be crowded on all four days with guests from the range towns.

Copies of the contract for the flights of Lloyd Thompson during the fair have been received by Secretary R. L. Giffin. The papers provide that there will be two flights each day and that during one of the flights the aviator will loop the loop and show his famous spiral descent. The flights are to be made rain or shine and without regard to the wind or weather. This feature of the already excellent fair program insures the guests during the four days of celebration, the most sensational aerial performances.

To Be Decided Between Brainerd and Hibbing Saturday and Monday.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The championship of the state will be the prize to be contested for next Saturday, Sunday and Monday when the fast Brainerd baseball team meets Hibbing. The Brainerd aggregation claims to have the fastest nonsalaried team in Minnesota and as Hibbing is working on a percentage basis they are privileged to dispute the claim. The games on Saturday and Sunday will be called early so as not to interfere with the program at the county fair. The Brainerd team has a brother of Leslie Bush and a brother of Chief Bender playing.

HIBBING MAN HAS VERY TOUGH TIME

His Ship Held Up, Preventing His Going Home.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—To have been held up after having been on his journey three days and virtually kept a prisoner in the city of Rotterdam, Holland, from which place he was unable to leave because of the European war, was the experience of James Adamczwski, for six years employed in the Oliver Iron Mining company blacksmithing shop here. Mr. Adamczwski, who was accompanied by his father, Peter Adamczwski, also employed as a blacksmith for the Oliver company, was able to engage passage on the Noordam, which left Rotterdam Aug. 15 and arrived in New York last Monday. Adamczwski, Sr., remained in Rotterdam because of insufficient money to engage passage for two.

"The Ryindam left New York July 25 bound for Denmark," said Mr. Adamczwski. "On July 28 we received a wireless to the effect that war had been declared between Russia and Germany as a result of the Austrian and Servian differences. That same evening the Ryindam was placed under arrest by an English cruiser and taken under guard to Rotterdam, Holland.

Hait Poles and Russians.

All Germans and people of other nationalities other than Russian were sent to their countries but the Russians and Poles, there being 160 of the latter, were kept in Rotterdam and furnished with board and room.

"Aug. 15 four Poles and myself engaged passage on the ship Noordam and arrived here on Monday of last week. My brother is just of age and will be drafted as a recruit in a few months. Although my father and I were on our way to visit my mother, five sisters and brother, we could not even get word to them. I tried to get a telegram to them, but although it cost $10, I doubt if the message reached them."

Mr. Adamczwski said that business in Holland is at a standstill, paper money being legal tender and used exclusively as a medium of exchange.

HIBBING MAN WAS IN LIEGE BATTLE

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word has been received from the Austrians who left Hibbing with the intention of going to the old country to fight, that they have been unsuccessful thus far in securing passage on any ship but that they are awaiting the first opportunity which it is believed will be presented in a week, when Germany will send a ship to carry them to the sent of war.

Many more local Austrians will join the army according to one of the prominent members of that nationality who said that if they do not go they will never be allowed to enter the country again. To many of them ostracism would mean the loss of all they hold dear as they have families there. Many of them have land holdings which in event of their refusal to return and bear arms for the country would be confiscated by the government.

Hibbing has the distinction of having had a former resident in the battle of Liege. A detailed report of his version of the battle in which he was wounded will be made public soon.

SHIRAS MINE WILL BEGIN SHIPPING

Buhl Property Placed in Shape to Start Ore to Docks.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ore shipments from the Shiras mine in the Buhl district, which has been under process of development by the Oliver Iron Mining company for the past six months will begin at once. Ore loading started Friday of last week. The Shiras was formerly known as the Wanless No. 2.

It is underground property. The facilities for raising the ore were completed several weeks ago and the first ore in drifting to the ore body was encountered last Thursday. It is estimated that the Shiras will ship about 5,000 tons of ore before the close of the present season.

TAKEN TO SAGINAW.

Body of Hibbing Pioneer Sent to Wolverine State.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Albert D. Smith, the pioneer citizen who died Sunday aged 47, has been taken to Saginaw, Mich., for interment.

Mr. Smith opened the first restaurant here on the site now occupied by the Princess theater. His first business venture was a steam laundry in the building where the Globe hotel now stands. After selling his restaurant business he opened the first Shamrock saloon. Mr. Smith also ran the Lipton hotel and the saloon now owned by Fred Whymant.

Mr. Smith is survived by a wife, who was at his deathbed and two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Bloeser of Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. R. J. Walker of Saginaw, Mich., and by an aged father, who has been residing with his daughter in Detroit, Mrs. John Smith and daughter of Chisholm, wife of his brother who

Everyone has a beautiful skin underneath the one exposed to view. Bear that in mind and it will be easier to understand the correct principle in acquiring a lovely complexion. Nature is constantly shedding the top skin in flaky particles like dandruff, only much smaller in size. In abnormal conditions, or in advancing age, these particles are not shed as rapidly as in robust youth. The longer they remain the more soiled or faded they become—that's the immediate cause of a "bad complexion."

It has been discovered that ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, will absorb these worn-out particles. The absorption, while hastening Nature's work, goes on gradually enough to cause no inconvenience. In a week or two the transformation is complete. The fresh, healthy-hued, youthful underskin is then wholly in evidence. You who are not satisfied with your complexions should get an ounce of mercolized wax and try this treatment. Use the wax nightly, like cold cream, washing it off morn-ings. —Advertisement.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

A New Discovery.

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream rub-ons. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol charges your weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood in easily assimilated form. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best flesh-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and Boyce Drug store and all other druggists in Duluth and vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back.

TWO HARBORS HAS EARLY HOUR BLAZE

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire, which broke out in the back room of Coursolles' candy store, completely destroyed two buildings about 2 o'clock this morning.

The buildings were owned by Mrs. Anna Johnson, and one of the buildings destroyed was her home. The other was a two-story frame building, the ground floor of which was occupied by a candy store, and the upper floor for a meeting place. The loss was approximately $6,000 and was covered by about $2,000 insurance.

The fire originated in the back room of the candy store, and before the alarm was given much damage had already been done. The buildings were quite old and dry and burned very rapidly. Considerable was saved out of both the store and the dwelling by the many hundreds of people who were aroused from their slumbers by the fire whistle. The calm condition of the weather was very favorable for a fire in that district, for had there been a strong wind where the city is so thickly populated with dwellings, much property would have been destroyed.

SEWER WORK IS NOT TO BE MADE

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—A communication was read before the city council last night from some of the property owners on Eighth avenue, in which they requested that the city withdraw the demand made some time ago that all vacant lots must have sewer connections made this year. This avenue is being improved and it was the desire of the city officials to have the connections made before the improvements were too far advanced. The improvements on this avenue were started last year, when it was brought to grade and cement sidewalks were laid. There has been nothing done with it this year as the city had its hands full with the work on Seventh avenue and other improvements, and it is quite possible that work on Eighth avenue will not be continued until some time next year. The council granted the request made by the vacant lot property owners.

Complaints to the aldermen have been frequent that the road running west from Seventh avenue to the cemetery corner and then north toward Waldo in the city limits is in very bad condition and that during wet weather is almost impassable in places. This has always been one of the best pieces of road in the county up to a year or so ago, and the city officials are anxious to have it put into good shape again. As it is the main or only entrance or exit to the city for farmers from the west and as they are largely responsible for the cut-up condition of the road the city officials are of the opinion that the county should aid in the repairing of it. A committee of councilmen will meet with the commissioners at their regular monthly meeting and endeavor to get aid.

Another Scarlet Fever Case.

Another case of scarlet fever was reported to the council, a 10-year-old daughter of Adolph Strom. City officials do not relish the idea of another epidemic and steps will undoubtedly be taken at once to prevent the spread of the disease as much as possible. It was suggested that lime be spread in the low alleys and other places where conditions demanded it.

A resolution was passed authorizing the paving of the alley between Cedar and Poplar streets, and the business section of the city and the Iron Range property. A hearing was set for Sept. 21. It is estimated that the alley will cost approximately $1,200. The property owners abutting this alley presented a petition to the council some three months ago requesting that this alley be improved. At that time the city did not feel that it could do the work and the matter was dropped and revived again during the past few days. The city officials are of the opinion that the alley should be paved with concrete, although there has been some talk of tar macadam. The property owners did not specify as to the kind of material to be used, so it is quite possible that it will be paved with concrete.

To Duluth and Hibbing.

Negaunee, Mich., Sept. 1.—Ray Calligan has left for Duluth, where he will visit with his brother, Charles and family. He will spend some time at Hibbing, Minn., as the guest of his brothers, James and John.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many local people attended the retail merchants' picnic in Chisholm Sunday on the east shore of Longyear lake. The Buhl City band was hired for the occasion and many people from Buhl attended the picnic. Sport contests usually pulled off in connection with similar celebrations, including swimming contests, tug-of-war and races. The Panter orchestra from this city played for the dance which was held during the afternoon and evening.

Was Never So Sick.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though he had made the trip over the ocean five times, John Carney, an Austrian, from Chisholm, arraigned in court here charged with having been drunk Sunday night, declared that he had never been so sick as he felt then. Carney, after having been placed in jail, broke up a water pail and showed considerable fight, but declared before the court that he had no desire to go back and help his countrymen.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

MOVING DAY AN ACTIVE ONE

Big Influx of Strangers Makes Many New Neighbors.

Rental Agents Unable to Secure Enough Houses and Flats.

Have you a new neighbor today?

Today was "moving day," and the number of transfers of families and others today was the greatest known in years.

Sept. 1, which with May 1 is usually designated as the logical time for families and others to make their change of residence, if a change is necessary, ushered in unusual activity for the van and storage men today. Flats and other residence property have been in great demand for some time, and the incoming of students, teachers, as well as commercial and business men has been steadily on the increase for several days. One of the largest rental agencies in the city announced today that no more flats or houses were available although calls kept steadily pouring in.

Household Goods on Move.

Trunks, furniture and satchels were a common sight as the van and storage rigs hustled them from the station to the up-town district, and flat and residence owners with rooms to rent were in a cheerful mood. It was impossible to get any estimate as to the number of persons or families that have moved to Duluth today or during the last few days, but all persons interested, say that the influx has broken all previous records.

"Duluth is sadly in need of a number of flats and residences that would rent at moderate prices," said a rental agent. "A great number of calls have come from persons wanting to pay $25 or $30 a month for a flat or house, but very few are available. Our office has already rented everything we had to offer. Men drawing moderate salaries cannot afford to pay more than $25 or $30 a month."

Hustle and Bustle General.

The hustle and bustle was general throughout the city all day. There were not only household goods on the move but telephones had to be installed, together with gas meters, electric lights, and other household equipment. Students and teachers had trunks and boxes of books, and the transfer men declared that some of the boxes must be filled with flatirons, so heavy they were.

HOOSIER CITY OFFICIALS HERE

Five Men From Gary Pass Day in Zenith City.

Five city officials from Gary, Ind., arrived on the steamer South American this morning and are spending the day in Duluth. They will leave this evening for Ashland and thence to Spider Lake, where they will camp for the next two weeks.

Included in the party are Mayor R. O. Johnson; Alfred Hess, comptroller of public works; William Fulton, city engineer; George H. Manlove, city comptroller, and Pontus Heintz, chief of police. Capt. H. S. Norton, a prominent realty man of Gary, is also with the city officials.

Chief Heintz is the proud possessor of a solid gold star that was given to him by his friends at Gary last January, when he assumed the duties as head of the police department. It is beautifully engraved, bearing also a Masonic emblem, Chief Heintz being a member of that fraternity.

DULUTH ORDERLY DURING AUGUST

Duluth was more orderly during August than it was last year or the year before. Fewer men and more women were taken into custody this year than in 1913, according to the monthly report prepared by Fred Johnson, assistant secretary to Chief Troyer.

This year 479 arrests were made, there having been 449 men and 30 women taken into custody. In August, 1913, but 15 women were arrested, while 521 men were booked up in the 31 days. The large number of women this year is accounted for by the fact that two raids were made the last month. On the night of Aug. 1 the police arrested 15 colored women in the old "red light" district, while during the month three raids on alleged disorderly houses brought eight women to police headquarters.

At the central station 396 men and 28 women were arrested during August, while reports from the other stations are as follows: West end, 26 men and 1 woman; West Duluth, 25 men and one woman, and New Duluth, 8 men.

Assault, second degree, 4; assault, third degree, 16; attempted robbery, 2; burglary, 4; drunk, 232; forgery, 1; fast driving, 1; fugitives from justice, 9; furnishing liquor to minors, 2; grand larceny, 4; petit larceny, 8; perjury, 2; reckless driving, 1; selling liquor on Sunday, 1; selling liquor without a license, 4; shoplifting, 1; trespassing, 11; vagrancy, 14; visiting house of ill-fame, 7; violating wheelage tax ordinance, 13, and violating state factory laws, 2.

During the month 8 children were found by officers. The ambulance was called out 26 times, while the pulmotor was used twice.

SMOKE NUISANCE BEING ABATED

Only Eight Stacks Found Violating Ordinance in August.

Only eight of the eighty stacks checked during August violated the smoke ordinance, according to the monthly report submitted to Mayor Prince this morning by Smoke Inspector J. W. Schneider.

The reports of the inspector show that the smoke conditions in Duluth are constantly improving. The number of violations of both buildings and locomotives has been constantly decreasing. During August he watched the stacks of fifty-two buildings and found but six which emitted dense smoke for more than six minutes, the maximum allowed by the ordinance. Twenty-eight locomotives were watched and only two of these violated the regulations.

In each instance that a violation is noted the owner or agent of the building is promptly notified and warned. Thus far no arrests have been necessary as a general disposition to co-operate with the city authorities to eliminate the smoke nuisance has been apparent. Those who have been keeping a tab on their fuel bills have informed the inspector that proper firing not only eliminates the black smoke but cuts down the coal bill.

WOMAN ATTACKED BY THREE DOGS

Mrs. F. G. German Has Narrow Escape From Airedales.

Mrs. F. G. Germain of 5819 Oneida street, Lakeside, was attacked by three Airedale terriers while out walking near her home about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She was badly bitten by the animals, which are owned by B. H. Ober of 5935 Oneida street.

Mrs. German was walking near her home and had just reached the corner of Sixtieth avenue east and Oneida street when the dogs jumped upon her. Afraid that the animals would bite her face or throat she dived into a hedge and remained there until Mrs. Ober, who was attracted by her screams, drove the animals off with a whip. A fourth dog had just reached the scene when Mrs. German was rescued.

Mrs. German is reported improved today. The dogs bit her on her hips and legs. She also suffered a nervous shock.

GEORGIA DEMOCRATS HOLD CONVENTION

Nomination There Is Equivalent to Election to Office.

Macon, Ga., Sept. 1.—Georgia Democrats met in convention here today to nominate candidates for United States senator, congress and various state offices. The convention, in addition to ratifying the action of the recent state-wide primary, was to decide contests in which the leading candidates failed to receive majorities.

Interest centered in the fight for nomination to the United States senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Bacon. Contestants were Governor John M. Slaton, Congressman T. W. Hardwick, Thomas S. Felder, G. R. Hutchens and John R. Cooper.

Kills Wife and Self.

Williston, N. D., Sept. 1.—Frank Puffinberger, a homesteader, twenty miles east of Schafer, shot his wife and killed himself Friday night. Both died instantly. Puffinberger was about 32. Charges of infidelity are said to have led to the shooting.

STATE CAN TAX STOCKS

Attorney General Smith Rules That It Has Claim for Taxes.

Holds That Only the Home Counties Will Benefit.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney General Smith today ruled that the state has an ad valorem claim on stocks and bonds owned by railroads operating from Minnesota, and that if the state tax commission can locate the same, it has a remedy in the way of collections through the state laws covering such property.

The ruling was made in answer to a request for an opinion whether the commission could tax the railroads on their stocks and bonds.

Should the commission find considerable of the property named, Hennepin and Ramsey counties will be the principal beneficiaries. Known property of this kind owned by such roads as the Great Northern, Minneapolis & St. Louis and the Soo Line run into the millions, and if the courts should hold that such property was taxable, both counties would realize handsomely.

Stocks of Other Roads.

According to the opinion given by the state legal department, stocks of other roads held by railroads operating in Minnesota are taxable on an ad valorem basis when the same are not necessary to the operation of the road in question. The same applies to bonds and other securities held by such transportation companies.

The feature of the whole thing, and where Hennepin and Ramsey counties would realize, is in the case of roads holdings stocks and bonds of other concerns for investment purposes.

As an example: The Great Northern has in its strong box, it is claimed, Burlington stocks and bonds amounting to over $175,000,000. Whether the same is necessary in an operating way or was acquired by the Great Northern for investment purposes the courts will have to decide. Should the courts hold that such stocks and bonds were taxable, Ramsey county would be the beneficiary.

Taxes Go to County.

In the case of Hennepin county, holdings of a like nature by the Minneapolis & St. Louis and the Soo line would accrue to that district. Any taxes collected from such sources would go to the county in which the principal offices of the company involved were located.

Attorney General Smith, in giving his opinion covering this particular matter, goes into the question at length. He admits that there are many disputed points, but advises the state tax commission that if it can find railroad property subject to an ad valorem tax, there is a quick remedy in the matter of collections, in the laws now in the statute books. He says the commission has ample authority to proceed.

Only Home Counties Gain.

The request of the commission for an opinion covering the right of the state to tax bonds and stocks of other lines held by railroad concerns was the result of a resolution passed by the last legislature. Those behind the resolution were then of the opinion that if a tax on such was held to be lawful, the state treasury and the state at large would realize. Attorney General Smith instead says that only those counties in which the main offices of the companies affected are located will be the beneficiaries. All the state will receive it its proportion which comes from the imposition of every tax.

BIG GROWTH IN BUILDING

Duluth Has More Than Half Million Gain in Eight Months.

The estimated cost of buildings erected in Duluth the first eight months of this year is $561,152 greater than during the same period last year, according to figures prepared this morning by Deputy Building Inspector Adolph Anderson.

To Sept. 1 Building Inspector Kielly issued 1,174 permits for improvements estimated at $2,112,284. Last year 1,015 permits were issued for improvements estimated at $3,051,132, but this includes a permit of $1,500,000 for the new ore dock, which is eliminated in making the comparisons.

August of this year showed a substantial increase over August last year. Last month 160 permits were issued for repairs estimated at $238,023, as compared with 181 permits for improvements estimated at $156,960 during August, 1913.

The building inspector states that building operations of all kinds have been general throughout the city but that probably the most gratifying feature is the large number of modest homes which are being erected or repaired.

MALICIOUS BOYS BREAK ARC LIGHTS

Some Neighborhoods May Be Dark Unless Residents Play Sleuth.

Some of these have been maliciously smashed several times this summer. Commissioner Merritt states that it is next to impossible for the police department to detect the culprits as men cannot be detailed to watch the various lights. He believes that the property owners who want the lights should help the city to put a stop to the practice. If they wish the lights he states that they should learn the identity of the boys who break them and report them to his department or to the police. He thinks that if examples were made of a few cases it would have a very salutary effect.

In the future where lights are broken several times he proposes to discontinue the lamps. Should the residents register complaints he will lay the situation before them and impress upon them the fact that if the lights are to be started again they will be obliged to do their share to keep them burning. If those who are guilty are not apprehended the neighborhood will go without light, as it is useless for the city to pay light bills where the lights are repeatedly put out of commission.

FIREARMS NOT TO BE USED IN PARKS

Chief Troyer this morning instructed all officers to watch for boys shooting firearms in the vicinity of parks.

Several reports have been made to the police lately that small boys are shooting rifles within the city limits. This morning the police were told that a number of shots were heard in Hunter's Park.

Boys caught shooting guns in the city limits will be arrested and given the limit in the courts, the police say.

WHEAT TURNS WEAK AGAIN

Flax Slumps Sharply on Liquidation and No Crushers' Support.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 1.—The market was weak up to the close. September wheat closed 1¾c off and December 1½c off. September durum closed 1¼c off; October 1¾c off; November ½c off and December 1c off.

Oats closed ⅝c off at 46½@47c for on the track. Rye closed 1c up at 90@92c. Barley closed 2c off at 61@73c.

Puts on Minneapolis December wheat closed at $1.13 and calls at $1.20.

After a strong opening weakness developed in the wheat market today. That condition was attributed to realizing and selling pressure after yesterday's sharp advance, and to the liberal offerings of new wheat. An easier position in the cash stuff and a widening in the spread between the September and December options to 1c or ⅞c better than yesterday thus came about. While some export business was reported at the seaboard, there was very light demand today from shippers so that as the session went on sales were only to be made at concessions.

Inspections of wheat at Duluth covering the two days were 443 cars compared with 559 last year. That the grain is running in poorer quality was shown in the fact that just 65 cars grade No. 1 northern, compared with 295 last year, while there were 36 cars of no grade against 16. While the grain is of good color, much of it is badly shriveled. A larger proportion of Montana wheat is being marketed here than a year ago, there being 65 cars inspected today against 15 last year.

The congestion at the seaboard is being rapidly relieved as evidenced in further notices coming to hand of embargoes being lifted by the railroads. The Illinois Central, for example, advised that it is now prepared to receive shipments from New Orleans.

The heavy export demand for oats continued a feature of the trade. Baltimore exporters reported that boat space had been taken there for 1,000,000 bu of oats, mainly for shipment to France.

September wheat opened ¼c at $1.17⅛, and after selling up to $1.18 it weakened 2⅜c up to the final hour. December opened ⅛c up at $1.18¼ and declined 1⅝c more.

There was only a limited inquiry for durum and it sold off steadily. September durum opened ½c up at $1.09 and weakened 1½c. October opened ¼c off at $1.10½ and declined 1c more. November opened ¼c off at $1.10 and weakened ½c. The December option opened unchanged at $1.11½ and broke 1¼c.

Big Slump in Flax.

Flaxseed was weak throughout today's session on liberal offerings with only light inquiry from crushers. The latter are not showing any disposition to follow the market in picking up supplies. The market closed weak with final prices showing declines of 6@6c.

September flax opened unchanged at $1.63½, and closed 5c off at $1.58½ asked. October opened ½c off at $1.66, and closed 6c off at $1.60½ bid. November opened unchanged at $1.68, and closed 6c off at $1.62 asked. December opened unchanged at $1.69, and closed 5½c off at $1.63½.

At Winnipeg, October flax closed 5c off at $1.38 asked. November closed at $1.40 asked, and December at $1.42 asked.

Iowa weekly weather and crop report said that weather conditions were much more favorable during the past week than during the preceding five weeks. Temperatures were below normal, with the highs cool, which, together with a few showers, checked the growth of corn. The average temperature was about 4 degs. below normal. The rainfall was light over the central and northwestern counties, but copious to heavy over the southern counties, where considerably over an inch fell in many localities. Practically all the corn in the southern districts is dry and beyond further injury by drouth or frost.

Renewed weakness came about as a result of profit-taking and because of buying force having waned. Indiana and Ohio millers sent word that farmers were selling wheat freely. The close was unsettled, ⅞@1¼c net lower.

Corn swayed with wheat. There was not much business. After a start that was ⅛c to ½c down, prices went somewhat higher than the previous close.

Subsequently liberal receipts and the improved crop outlook formed a weight on the market. The close was nervous, ⅛@½c under last night.

Continuance of export demand put strength into oats. Big deliveries in the September option counted against the bulls at first, but the effect was not of a lasting sort.

Provisions sagged, notwithstanding an advance in the hog market. September deliveries were heavy and tended to stave off buyers.

CALUMET & HECLA PASSES DIVIDEND

For First Time in Year Company Stops Payments to Stockholders.

Business in Duluth curb mining stocks today was in fair volume and some outside investment interest was reported.

Calumet & Corbin sold at 10@12c and Keating at $1.56. There was no special mining news out in the day other than that the market in zinc and spelter is strong, and that considerable tonnages of the latter are being booked.

For the first time in a long term of years, the Calumet & Hecla Mining company passed its regular quarterly dividend. The directors announced that such action was taken on account of the disturbed state of the copper market. In addition to passing the dividend the directors decided to reduce wages and curtail production, operating the mines and mills three-quarters of regular time rather than to discharge a large number of men.

• • •

Boston, Mass., Sept. 1.—The passing of the regular quarterly dividend of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company was announced today. In a circular to stockholders, the directors said:

"In view of the unsettled condition of the copper market in this country, and the interruption of the company's business with its foreign customers, the directors have decided not to declare a dividend at the present time. The production of the mine will be curtailed and salaries of all employes and officers will be reduced."

The company had not passed a dividend since 1884.

The following wire from Bernard Noon, manager of the Calumet Corbin's property at Idaho Springs, was received this morning: "Started mill machinery yesterday on the first trial run; everything works like a clock. We are adjusting the parts properly today, and will start tomorrow on the regular run, three shifts. There will be no delays, as it is the best mill in the country. Can give you exact milling results in a few days after adjustments are made. Will be a better success than I promised."

Exports of copper for the month of August amounted to 19,676 tons against 34,722 tons in the same period a year ago.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following from New York today: "Important progress will be made toward the reopening of the New York stock exchange as a result of the bankers' meeting to be held in Washington Friday. It is said very important questions will be taken up looking to the improvement of the foreign exchange situation in connection with cotton shipments.

MINING, BUSINESS AND FINANCIAL NEWS

TRADE WITH NEIGHBORS

Government Bulletin Shows Possibilities of American Business.

Field in South America Held to Be Especially Promising.

Possibilities of developing trade with Canada, the West Indies, Mexico and the South American republics are touched upon in a budget of statistics, just issued by the department of commerce at Washington. It is shown that the trade of the United States with the other American countries aggregated $1,303,000,000 during the year ended June 30 last and it constituted 30 per cent of the entire commerce handled by American ports. Of this large commerce, $956,000,000 was with North America and $347,000,000 with South America.

Imports From North America.

American imports from the North American countries during the fiscal year, amounting to $427,000,000, were from Canada, Cuba, Mexico and the Central American states. Of this country's exports to North American countries, footing up to $529,000,000, Canada took $345,000,000; Cuba, $69,000,000 and Central America and Mexico each about $39,000,000. It is pointed out that the United States, supplies a larger proportion of the needs of the leading countries of North America than any other nation, and in the case of Canada, Cuba and Central America, more than all the other parts of the world combined.

Nearly one-half of the $223,000,000 imports from South America came from Brazil, about 20 per cent from Argentina and the remainder from Chile, Columbia, Venezuela and Peru. Nearly one-fourth of the total American exports of $12,000,000 value went to Brazil, and over one-third to Argentina. Attention is directed to the sharp contrast between American exports to the North American countries and those going to South America. In the case of such important countries as Argentina, Brazil and Chile, only about 1 per cent of their imports were from this country. South America as a whole imported over $96,000,000 worth of goods in 1912, of which the United States share was only about 14 per cent.

Canal to Open Channels.

It is considered that the opening of the Panama canal and the outbreak of the European war will afford this country an opportunity of developing trade with South America that should not be neglected. Already the stoppage of imports from Germany has led to the transferring of some large contracts for electrical equipment and machinery to American countries, and inquiries involving large tonnages of iron and steel products have thus far been received by Eastern steel concerns.

In a publication entitled "South America as an Export Field," special agents' series No. 81, issued by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, Otto Wilson, commercial agent, outlines the conditions necessary for the successful sale of goods, the lines of manufactures required in South America, and the standing of the leading nations as contributers to those requirements. It is pointed out, for example, that Argentina imports large quantities of manufactures of the class produced in the United States, but that the United Kingdom and Germany supply more of them, as a whole, than this country; while France sells there five times as many automobiles, Germany twenty times as many iron beams, three times as many paper goods, and England twenty-five times as much coal and twice as much machinery in that market as the United States. This disparity in favor of European countries extends to many other articles and practically all countries of South America, each of which is interestingly discussed in the monograph named.

Articles Imported By Brazil.

A mere enumeration of a few of the principal articles imported by Brazil will serve to illustrate the opportunities which await American exporters in that and other South American fields: Arms and ammunition, cars, automobiles, cotton goods, pharmaceutical preparations, electrical apparatus, cutlery, machinery, leather, printing paper, perfumeries, tin plate, soap and wearing apparel, all of which are bought in large quantities, and in practically every case are obtained more largely from England, Germany and France than from the United States.

You Must Do Your Share to Break Up the Substitution Evil

EVERY time a dealer offers you a "Just as Good," when you ask for a well-known article, he insults your intelligence. He discounts your ability to buy. He puts you in the "don't know" class, and thinks that by giving you a 'little talk' he can induce you to buy his MORE-PROFIT "Just as Good" article.

YOU must do your share to break up the great evil of substitution. You can do it by refusing to buy unknown or "Orphan Brands" when your dealer offers them to you. Do not be coaxed into buying them.

IMITATIONS and "Just as Goods" are mere makeshifts, and never give the satisfaction that the genuine does. You know this is true.

IT MAKES no difference what the dealer says, don't accept his "Just as Good." When you want soap, perfume, household medicine, paint, varnish, automobile tires, food products, chewing gum, corsets, underwear, shirts, collars, shoes, hair tonic, tooth paste or powders, grape juice or soda fountain drinks, etc., whatever you want, ASK FOR IT BY NAME of manufacturer or trade mark brand, and insist on getting it.

A GOOD way to stamp out substitution is to stop dealing with a merchant who offers you a substitute. Tell him why he has lost your patronage, and tell others not to buy from him.

AFTER all, it's up to you. Will you do your part?

KAISER'S ARMY IS PRESSING FORWARD WITH UNPRECEDENTED STRENGTH--ALLIES GIVE WAY

RUSSIANS PREPARE ADVANCE ON BERLIN BY WAY OF GALICIA

Reverses in Eastern Prussia Are Declared to Be Purely Local.

German Reinforcement Followed Immediately By Arrival of Russians.

Austrians Decide to Abandon Lemberg to the Invaders.

AUSTRIANS ROUTED NEAR LUSTCHOFF.

Petrograd, Sept. 2, 3 p. m.—The general staff announces that the Austrian Fifteenth division was completely routed near Lustchoff on Aug. 28, and that 100 officers and 4,000 soldiers were taken prisoners. The Russians captured twenty guns and the flag of the Sixty-fifth regiment.

London, Sept. 2, 9:40 a. m.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Rome says: "Besides advancing in East Prussia, the Russians are also invading Germany from Northern Galicia, their objective being Koenigshuette, in Prussian Silesia, whence presumably they will march on Berlin via Breslau.

A telegram received in an official quarter in London today from the chief of the Russian general staff declares that the Russian reverse in Eastern Prussia is to be regarded as purely local and due to the sudden reinforcement of the Germans (probably at Grae-

FOURTEEN GERMAN OFFICERS CAPTURED.

Paris, Sept. 2, via London, 12:20 p. m.—The Petit Parisian today says that fourteen German staff officers have been captured and sent to Nimes, in the department of Gard.

MONS FIGHT WAS TERRIFIC

Correspondent Claims It Ranks Higher Than Waterloo.

Says Aug. 26 Was Most Serious Day Yet for Germany.

London, Sept. 2, 2:47 p. m.—The Chronicle correspondent from an unnamed point in France, gives a description obtained from officers of the great battle near Mons, on Aug. 26. He says:

"All soldiers agree that Wednesday's battle was by far the more terrible. Certainly it came at the end of several days fighting, but they tell me the Germans put more strength into that day's work than perhaps any other.

"I think the Germans knew that here was an opportunity to wipe out the British force, and they brought up vast numbers of their best and freshest men.

Greater Than Waterloo.

"It was really the first occasion in history on which a battle has taken place between a German and a British army, and I think, when we can read its story as we can that of Waterloo, it will be found that that battle, in which twice as many men were engaged as at Waterloo, deserves far higher place purely as a military achievement.

"When you saw the German rush started, you thought nothing on earth could stop it. That those tremendous charges were stopped and the attackers driven back in disorder is due in the first place, I am certain, to the magnificent marksmanship of the British soldier.

"At the end practically of a week's hard marching and harder fighting, and in the face of perhaps the fiercest frontal attack ever delivered in modern warfare, it must have surprised the Germans. Judging from what they saw, the officers state that Wednesday was the most serious day for Germany since the war began."

BIG LOSSES BY RUSSIANS

General Staff Admits Disaster to Two Army Corps.

People Are Declared to Have Faith in Ultimate Victory.

London, Sept. 2, 10:20 a. m.—Advices have been received here from St. Petersburg to the effect that the Russian general staff frankly confesses to disaster to two army corps, including the loss of three generals.

Telegraphing from St. Petersburg, the correspondent of the Times declares that the war reports given out by the headquarters staff in the Russian capital are generally rather meager, but, in contradistinction to what is the case in Berlin and Vienna, they are always true.

That the headquarters will stick to this plan also when the news is bad is proved by the announcements of today. This attitude shows their confidence in the fortitude and staunchness of the Russian people, which undoubtedly is deserved and augurs well for the future.

People Have Faith.

The wording of today's announcement indicates that other Vistula fortresses, besides Graudenza and Thorn, have been sent reinforcements. The news arrived last night and the peo-

ORDER FOREIGNERS TO LEAVE PARIS

Authorities Will Let Only Those Registered Remain.

Paris, Sept. 2, 2:55 a. m.—A dispatch from Antwerp to the Havas agency reports that by decree of the government all foreigners who were not registered Aug. 1, must leave the city at once.

CHICAGO NEWSPAPER WRITER EXECUTED.

London, Sept. 2, 2:15 a. m.—The correspondent of the Telegraph, who just returned from Brussels, brings a report that a young Frenchman who represented the Chicago Daily News in Brussels has been arrested and shot.

Not Confirmed.

London, Sept. 2, 12:10 p. m.—The London office of the Chicago Daily News said today it had no confirmation of the report that a young Frenchman named Maurice Gerbeault, representing the Chicago Daily News in Belgium, had been arrested and shot.

M. Gerbeault was last seen with an Associated Press correspondent twenty miles south of Brussels.

TURK WARRING UPON RUSSIA?

Declaration Is Rumored, But Not Confirmed, at London.

Ambassador at Washington Has No News of It.

New York, Sept. 2.—Dow-Jones & Co. today published the following on its news ticker:

"London—Unconfirmed reports are current here that Turkey has declared war on Russia. Communication with Constantinople has been cut off for three days and the Turkish ambassador stated he had no way of telling when he would hear from his government again."

Ambassador Not Informed.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The Turkish ambassador here said today he was unable to confirm the report that his country had declared war on Russia. He has not been in cable communication with his government for days.

The object of the mobilization of Turkish troops was described in a statement today by Ambassador A. Rusten Bey.

"The Turkish mobilization which started about a month ago, and not quite recently, as yesterday's telegrams might make one think, has brought to arms not 200,000 men mentioned in the same dispatches, but probably over 500,000," stated the ambassador.

"This operation is not meant to allow Turkey to attack Greece, her differences with Greece being the smallest of her concerns today. She has to prepare in view of other and much more important contingencies."

MALINES IS BEING BOMBARDED AGAIN

Movements in Belgium Cause Series of Rumors.

London, Sept. 2, 2 a. m.—A dispatch from Antwerp to Reuter's Telegraph company conveys the following official announcement:

"The Germans are again bombarding Malines, aiming at the steeple of the cathedral, which is a prominent landmark for miles around.

"Certain movements of the German troops in the direction of Assche, in the province of Brabant, six miles northwest of Brussels, gave rise to the belief that the Germans were contemplating a movement toward Termonde, sixteen miles east of Ghent. However, the Belgian troops have been reinforced on account of the necessity of preserving control of Waasland. The enemy advanced from Brussels to Assche yesterday, but could not penetrate further north.

"Ninove and Alost, sixteen and fifteen miles, respectively, from Ghent, in different directions, have been occupied by the Germans.

"In the provinces of Antwerp and Limburg the situation is unchanged."

COREY'S ESTATE IS OFFERED TO FRANCE

Steel Magnate Goes to Europe to Bring Wife Home.

New York, Sept. 2.—Among passengers on the Olympic which sailed today for Liverpool was William E. Corey, former president of the United States Steel corporation, who owns a large estate and country home lying between two of the forts which guard Paris. He goes to bring his wife back to this country. Mr. Corey said he had offered the estate to the French government as a herding place for cattle to supply the army.

SAYS PARIS STAYS CALM

London Chronicle Correspondent Tells of the Conditions There.

Declares Defeat, Flight and Slaughter Await the Germans.

Paris, Sept. 2, 3:15 p. m.—The Paris Bourse was closed today.

London, Sept. 2, 3:43 a. m.—"With the Germans so near, there has not been a day in the last month when Paris presented the appearance of such complete calm," says the Paris correspondent of the Chronicle. "More shops are open, and rows of chairs have appeared before the chief cafes.

"The possibility of a German raid is very slight. Solitary fortresses may perhaps be masked, but the attempt to cut down the Oise valley towards Paris, except as a trivial raid, without first routing the masses of the army, is madness.

"We May Assume."

"We may assume, therefore, that if the Germans have faced eastward and turned their backs on the British and other forces gathering in Picardy (an old province in the north of France, but now forming the department of Somme and part of Oise, Pas de Calais and Ainse), they must either win an immediate victory or risk being caught between the hammer and the anvil.

"If they win they will still have to

FIGHTING IN EAST UNABATED IN FURY

Russia Admits Losses in Prussia, But Appears to Have Won Overwhelmingly in Galicia.

Turkey and Italy May Yet Take Sides in the General Conflict---Pressure Exerted on Rome.

GERMAN ADVANCE SEEMS NOT TO HAVE SLACKENED ITS PACE

London, Sept. 2, 5 p. m.—The Times correspondent at Dieppe, France, has telegraphed his paper as follows:

"In the main northern theater of the war the German advance appears to continue without slacking its pace.

"It must indeed be an over-wearied army that the Germans are bringing towards the forts of Paris. They have made an effort which nearly deserves to be called superhuman. Nothing like it ever before was seen in war.

"Yet we may be sure they have spent themselves in vain."

The fourth day of the second general battle between the Germans and the allies finds Emperor William's forces pressing with unprecedented strength their advance on Paris. Their right is reported to be within fifty miles of the French capital.

In the absence of official announcements, news dispatches indicate that the British and French continue a stubborn resistance, giving way slowly, however, whenever this strategy is necessary to keep their lines intact and prevent an enveloping movement by the German right.

IN THE EAST.

In the East the fighting progresses with unabated fury. Both the Russian and Austro-German armies have met successes and reverses. It is admitted in Petrograd (St. Petersburg) that two army corps were defeated in East Prussia and that three Russian generals were lost.

On the other hand, the Austrians appear to have been defeated in Galicia, where overwhelming successes are claimed by the Russians. This claim finds support in a dispatch from Vienna, which states that the Austrians had decided to evacuate Lemberg, the capital of Galicia.

LONDON CENSOR BUSY.

The attitudes of Turkey and Italy are anxiously awaited by all the belligerents. A semi-official dispatch from Petrograd says that Turkish troops have landed on shores of Asia Minor at Smyrna. Further pressure is reported to have been brought on Italy by Germany and Austria to have her support the Triple Alliance.

The Japanese foreign office has issued a statement complaining of alleged unfair treatment of Japanese non-combatants in Germany.

FIGHT AT COMPIEGNE

Paris, Sept. 2, 3:15 p. m.—"A German corps marching toward the forest of Compiegne, on the left wing of the allied forces, engaged the English Tuesday, Sept. 1. The English captured ten guns." This statement was given out officially today.

London, Sept. 2.—A corner of the curtain over the battle drama in Northwestern France has momentarily been raised. It shows the allies battling desperately to prevent the success of the German assaults on the Upper Oise, less than fifty miles from Paris.

On the eastern war stage, Russia frankly confesses to disaster to two army corps, with the loss of three generals. Elsewhere the Russian army seemed to have triumphed.

Galicia has been successfully invaded and Lemberg will soon be evacuated, according to reports from the St. Petersburg war office. If this is true, the Austrian menace to Russian Poland will be ended and the Russian forces can begin to converge for the march on Berlin, the Russian objective in North Galicia apparently being Koenigshutte, whence they can march on Berlin via Breslau.

Germans Forge Ahead.

On the Upper Oise the British are fighting desperately to prevent the Germans from securing one of the most direct routes to Paris. News of this battle, reaching here from two different sources, is the first definite information since the end of the battle.

SWINDLED BY LITTLE GIRL

13-Year-Old Child Shows Amazing Cleverness in Fraud.

Had Ordered Goods Worth $118, When Clerk Suspected Her.

What Helen had already purchased when the clerk began to suspect the youthful customer:
Three dresses	$ 35.50
Four hats	16.00
Waists and skirts	20.25
Sweater	7.00
Two middies	7.00
Two coats	16.75
	$118.50

Posing as the niece of Mrs. Joseph Sellwood of this city, little 13-year-old Helen R——, has duped several business men in the last month and yesterday almost got away with $118.50 worth of goods at the Gidding store. One of the clerks suspected the youthful customer and a telephone call to the Sellwood residence exposed the little girl's duplicity. She was later arrested by Detective Norman Terry. The child apparently did not realize she was guilty of anything more than a prank.

This morning the police swore out a warrant against Helen, accusing her of obtaining goods under false pretenses and she will be arraigned in the juvenile court Saturday, being too young to be tried in police court. The girl's mother is heartbroken over the case, and for her sake and the sake of the little girl herself, her name is withheld from publication.

The little girl has unusual intelligence and her bold method of operating amazed the police. She visited the stores, displaying the self assurance of a young girl, fully able to take care of herself. Given at police headquarters following the arrest about 5 o'clock yesterday, Helen showed no signs of grief, nor did she once cry during the examination by Chief Troyer and Detective Terry. She sat in the chief's office, as calmly and unconcerned as if she were at a moving picture show.

Although but two or three instances are already known of her having defrauded local merchants, it is possible the police will learn of more. This morning it was discovered that Seeklins, the florist, had been delivering flowers to a young girl, who said Mrs. Sellwood had sent her. The discovery was made upon the receipt of the florist's monthly bill.

Another discovery made this morning was that Helen had gone to Richard Sellwood of the City National bank on Monday afternoon and, claiming that she was collecting for the Catholic orphanage, was given a check for $20 by Mr. Sellwood. Mr. Sellwood knew the child, having seen her with Bishop McGolrick. This check was cashed yesterday at a Superior street store and the girl had about $11 of the money left when arrested. The police believe she was planning to obtain the clothes from the Gidding store and then leave for Chicago.

Protege of Bishop's.

It developed today that Helen occasionally visited Bishop McGolrick and had at times gone with him on his visits to downtown offices. The little girl is a very attractive child and Bishop McGolrick took a friendly interest in her. It is probable, the police say, that she saw him collect for the orphange and that this gave her the idea that she might get money for herself. She was a pupil at the local parochial school.

Early yesterday afternoon Helen and a companion, who is but 11 years old, came into the Gidding store and told one of the clerks that she is a niece of Mrs. Sellwood and that she had just came to Duluth from her home in Seattle, and that she was sent to the store by her aunt and that anything she desired should be given her and charged to Mrs. Sellwood. She said also that she was on her way to Chicago, where she is to attend a private school.

The clerk at first believed the story and started in to sell Helen whatever she wished. First she bought three hats for herself and one for her companion. Then came three dresses, two coats, a sweater and two middie blouses. By this time the clerk began to suspect her customer and she notified the manager and a telephone call to the Sellwood home revealed the young girl's name. She had already purchased goods worth $118.50.

The police were notified and Detective Terry went down and brought Helen and her companion back to headquarters. The latter was allowed to go, but Helen was kept at the station. On the way from the store Detective Terry found a gold wrist watch and a gold chain on Helen's person, and when she declared she had found them on some stairs at the Glass Block store, the officer took the articles away and is holding them for the owner.

It was said at the Seekins' store that several times during the last month some one telephoned the shop and ordered some flowers for Mrs. Sellwood. The person would then say that a young girl would call for the flowers and each time, they claim, Helen came down and carried off the blooms. The police believe that the young prisoner telephoned herself.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING FOR ST. JAMES' PARISH WILL BE READY FOR PUPILS NEXT TUESDAY

ST. JAMES' PAROCHIAL SCHOOL.

The St. James' parochial school on Fifty-seventh avenue west, located just south of the St. James' Catholic church, has been completed and will open on Tuesday of next week. An enrollment of about 300 children is expected, according to announcement made last night by Rev. D. W. Lynch.

Seven of the ten school rooms will be thrown open for the scholars. Six of these will be on the first floor and the other on the second floor. Sister Beatrice will be principal of the school and she will be assisted by a corps of six sisters, who will have charge of grade rooms and a music teacher.

The new school is one of the handsomest parochial schools in this part of the state. It has cost the parish about $48,000, a large part of which has already been raised by the parishioners. The building has in addition to the ten school rooms, a large auditorium capable of seating nearly 1,000 people, a full basement, part of which has been set aside for clubrooms and lodge rooms.

Rev. Father Lynch has had direct charge of the construction work of the building, assisted by the parish building committee, Ed Dormedy and Matt Doyle. Start on the building was made on Sept. 20 last year and between that date and Dec. 1 the basement and part of the first floor were completed. Work was again begun on the superstructure on March 20 and last week the building was turned over to the parish completed. Bowe & Burke has the contract.

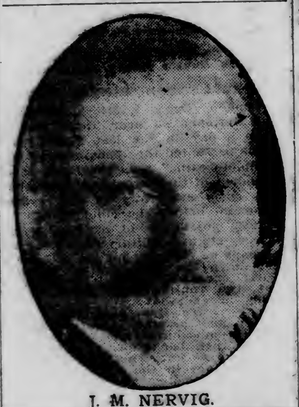

In celebration of the opening of the school the young people of the parish will present a play, "Finnigan's Fortune," early in October. Rehearsals will begin this week. Those who will take part in the play are: John Allen, A. J. Bethune, Clifford Bijold, Frank Sears, Leo Deutsch, Mrs. J. D. Spencer, Miss Emmeline Brett and Miss Emma Lambert.

MAY BE DELAYED MONTHS IN NORWAY

Rev. J. M. Nervig Unable to Secure Passage Until Nov. 15.

It may be Dec. 1 before Rev. J. M. Nervig, pastor of the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Mrs. Nervig and their daughter, are able to return to Duluth, according to word received from the pastor by Knute Larson, 618 North Twenty-first avenue west. The note said that the pastor had made inquiries at steamship offices and all passages for sailing from Christiania, Norway, before Nov. 15 had been taken.

The note was dated Aug. 8 and was received by Mr. Larson Monday. It was brief and to the point, only stating that there appeared to be thousands in Norway who wanted to get to America. Bookings for berths were being made months in advance by tourists.

J. M. NERVIG.

No word has been received recently from P. George Hanson and family who are believed to be still in Norway. H. O. Hanson, his son, said this morning that he was expecting daily to hear of his father and mother having started home. He said he had not heard whether his father had been able to secure passage or not.

THREE SENTENCED IN POLICE COURT

Henry Roggow was sentenced to twenty-five days at the county work farm for having jumped a board bill recently at the Grand hotel. He is alleged by the proprietor to have left the place still owing a bill of $20. His arrest was caused a few days ago, and when first arraigned pleaded not guilty. At the trial yesterday afternoon he was found guilty and fined $25 and costs. He was unable to pay the fine and was sent to the farm.

Charles Johnson appeared before Judge Lanners this morning on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He is alleged to have called a woman at the public market some undesirable names after she had refused to allow him to walk away without paying for a package of vegetables. In police court this morning Johnson pleaded guilty and was sentenced to thirty days at the work farm. Sentence was suspended on condition of good behavior for a year.

John Inger appeared before the court on a charge of keeping a vicious dog. The complaint was sworn to by Lieut. Wilcox. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $1 and costs. The dog was shot by the police this morning.

Superior

CLOSE FIGHTS IN THE PRIMARY

The returns from the primary election in Wisconsin yesterday are coming in slowly, and those in Superior and Douglas county as a whole, are badly jumbled, it is announced from the other side of the bay. There are few settled contests, and it is asserted that in many cases a close count by the officials will be needed to determine the victors. The chief contests are on the Republican ticket. There are few on the Democratic side, the closest and most bitterly fought being for the office of sheriff. In most cases the Democrats had only one candidate for each office, and therefore the vote cast was a mere matter of form and for the purpose of putting the candidate on the ticket for November.

At present it would seem that the following have found favor with the Douglas county voters for candidates in the general election balots, those named being, respectively, in each case, Republican and Democratic:

Governor—Andrew H. Dahl and John A. Allward.

Lieutenant governor — Robert H. Peavey and Melvin Hoyt.

Secretary of state—John M. Donald and Fred B. Rawson.

State treasurer—Henry Johnson and A. C. Dick.

Attorney general—W. C. Owen and Charles A. Kading.

United States senator—Francis McGovern and Thomas Kearney.

Congressional — I. L. Lenroot and John L. Malone.

State senator—Fred Baxter and R. J. Shields.

County clerk—W. J. Leader and Patrick Fitzgerald.

County treasurer—Henry Beglinger and Patrick C. Boyle.

Sheriff—Carl Halberg and George E. Commiskey.

Coroner—Z. A. Downs.

Clerk of circuit court—J. C. Ahlgren and William Stone.

District attorney—Archibald McKay and George C. Cooper.

Surveyor—D. W. Van Vleck and Leo Lord.

POLICE ARREST 310 DURING THE MONTH

Superior police made a total of 310 arrests during August according to the monthly report of the department prepared yesterday by Secretary John McKanna. Of this number 145 were "drunks." The police also gave lodging to forty-five homeless man. The police auto traveled 287 miles in bringing the prisoners to the station.

SAYS ENGLAND MAY LAY MINES, TOO

London, Sept. 2, 5:15 a. m.—The Times naval correspondent, discussing the fact that the German fleet has so far declined the British challenge to a pitched battle by taking refuge in the expedient of sowing mines in the North sea, suggests that it may be necessary for the admiralty, which "has heretofore declined to condescend" to the German methods in this respect, to take retaliatory measures in the near future.

"We may either have to use mines for the purpose of preventing German mine laying vessels leaving German ports," says the correspondent, "or we may decide that crews of vessels used as mine layers should be given short shrift as pirates.

"It may also become necessary to forbid all traffic at night within certain areas, under penalty of vessels contravening these regulations being sunk on sight."

FRESH TROOPS IN THE GERMAN LINES

London, Sept. 2, 10:55 a. m.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Rotterdam says:

"From Terneuzen, on the Dutch frontier near Antwerp, reports come of a general movement of German troops eastward. Exhausted men are being replaced in all directions by reserves. The movement is also believed to be connected with the arrival of the Landsturm reservists, who are to occupy the whole of the Belgian territory.

"The movement of trains for civilians' purposes south of Ghent has again ceased.

AMERICANS PROTEST DROPPING OF BOMBS

Washington, Sept. 2.—Ambassador Herrick transmitted to the state department today the protest of a committee of Americans in Paris against the dropping of bombs by German airships.

The ambassador cabled that the French war office had furnished evidence that the bombs were dropped by Germans, as small German flags and proclamations addressed to the French were contained in them. The ambassador made no protest of his own accord, simply stating that it was the conviction of Americans who investigated the subject that the incident was a violation of The Hague convention and contrary to the rules of civilized warfare.

CALL LONDON LIE FACTORY

Germans Bitterly Denounce Reports of Progress of War.

Koenigsberg Never Was Surrounded, Says Wireless From Berlin.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The German embassy received a wireless today from Berlin, announcing that "German and Austrian troops have occupied Lodz, the largest manufacturing center in Russian Poland, and that the battle northward from Lemberg is continuing.

"The report is confirmed that the French abducted 14 women and 25 children from a German frontier place; also a hospital doctor and assistant from Lorchingen. Fate unknown.

Russian Horrors.

"The papers are full of Russian horrors in East Prussia. The Russians cut off the breast of a mother and impaled her five children on a fence.

"Four Cossacks ravished a woman while they handcuffed her husband and forced him to be a witness."

Later the German embassy received the following additional wireless from Berlin:

"The news that German troops have left Brussels on account of the situation in East Prussia is wrong. The German administration in Brussels is very active, civil servants arriving every day for newly organized offices.

Koenigsberg Not Invested.

"The French official communique that the Russians have completely invested Koenigsberg is also a lie. The Russians never covered half the distance between the frontier and Koenigsberg, and are now retreating eastward after the annihilation of their Narew army.

"Lord Churchill's declaration that a victorious Germany would seek expansion in South America appears to be the climax of ridiculous calumny, and of an unscrupulous attempt to incite the friendly nations of both North and South America against the German people, while the German press here, on the contrary, heartily welcomes the progress and prosperity of free American nations.

Belgians Murderers.

"The Socialistic German paper Vorwaerts gives a shocking description of the wholesale assassination of Germans at Louvain. The Simplicissimus, another publication, says the name of Belgian is the worst insult that could be inflicted upon civilized man."

ANTWERP ATTACKED FROM THE AIR AGAIN

London, Sept. 2, 1:35 p. m.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Antwerp says that a Zeppelin airship passing over that city this morning, dropped several bombs. One struck the railway, doing no damage, but others seriously damaged ten houses.

In addition to those striking the houses, five bombs tore great holes in a field at the rear of the buildings. The forts fired upon the airship and it is believed that she was hit. The Zeppelin retired in a southerly direction and dropped eight or nine bombs at one time, seemingly to facilitate her own escape.

A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Antwerp reports that another Zeppelin flew over Antwerp last night. It was fusilladed and cannonaded, but with what result is not stated in the dispatch.

The Ostend correspondent of the Reuter agency reports that an extensive movement of German troops toward the north has been seen from Brussels. It is believed the Germans are going to Antwerp, where an investment and bombardment are expected.

JAP TROOPS LANDED ON CHINESE SOIL

Pekin, China, Sept. 2.—Japan has landed between 10,000 and 15,000 troops from eighteen transports at Lung Kow, a newly opened port about 100 miles north of Tsing Tau. This is declared to have been done in violation of China's neutrality.

PARIS PAPER SEES NO CAUSE TO WORRY

Paris, Sept. 2.—Commenting on the war situation today, the Temps says:

"It is not the few troops which the Germans can push ahead that can besiege Paris. The important peril is the center, where we perceive a hesitation. The German troops are out of breath and one of their army corps has been transferred toward their eastern frontier. It is probable that we have in front of us on the center forces diminished by fatigue, by our fire and by withdrawals to reinforce the East Prussian army.

"In any case our contingents have had their vacancies filled and their ammunition replenished, while the enemy is encountering great difficulty in getting supplies."

BELGIANS READY TO SAIL FOR AMERICA

London, Sept. 2, 2:26 p. m.—The Belgian commission appointed by King Albert to go to the United States and present to President Wilson a report on alleged violations of international law conventions by Germany, left London this afternoon for Liverpool and will sail tomorrow from that port on the Celtic for New York. The commission is headed by Carton De Wiart, the Belgian minister of justice.

M. De Wiart and M. Vandervelde, members of the commission and Mme. Vandervelde delivered addresses today before French and Belgian clubs on the alleged German atrocities in Belgium.

200 AMERICANS ARE STRANDED IN OSTEND

London, Sept. 2, 2:26 p. m.—The American embassy was advised today that 200 Americans are stranded at Ostend and unable to get their checks cashed. Ambassador Page is making an effort to get money to them.

HEADQUARTERS OF GERMANS IS MOVED

London, Sept. 2, 12:55 p. m.—In a dispatch from Amsterdam the correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company says the German military headquarters, which until last Sunday were at Coblentz on the Rhine, have been removed to an unknown destination.

Before their departure Emperor William caused to be published a proclamation thanking the inhabitants of the city for their patriotism, and expressing his pleasure that Coblentz had been chosen as the first headquarters during the war.

DESCRIBES DEATH OF PRINCE AT LIEGE

Copenhagen, via London, Sept. 2, 4:42 a. m.—The Hanover Courier prints the following account by an eye witness of the death of Prince Frederick William of Lippe at Liege:

"On all sides our detachment was surrounded by Belgian troops who were gradually closing in for the purpose of exterminating us. At the prince's command we formed a circle eight deep, maintaining a stubborn defense. At length a strong division arrived to support us. The prince raised from a kneeling position and turned to the standard-bearer, who lay prone beside him, covering the standard with his body.

"'Raise the standard!' commanded the prince. 'Raise it so we may be recognized by our friends.'

"The standard-bearer raised the flag, waving it to and fro. This action immediately brought upon the standard-bearer and the prince a violent fusillade. The standard was shot away and at the same moment the prince was struck in the chest and expired instantly."

WILL INSPECT TAX RETURNS

Levies on Incomes to Be Gone Over By Government.

Attorney Robinson Gives Rules and Regulations Involved.

Rules have just been issued for the inspection of income tax returns. Much interest will be centered in this inspection in Duluth, and Attorney J. J. Robinson of this city has summed up conditions for The Herald readers as follows:

"President Wilson has ordered that income tax returns shall be open to inspection under the following rules and regulations: Returns of individuals shall not be subject to inspection by any one except the proper officers, and employes of the treasury department, or in a legal proceeding to which the United States is a party. Returns of corporations shall be subject to inspection by the proper officers and employes of the treasury department; by an officer or employe of any other department of the government upon written application signed by the head of the department; by a stockholder of a corporation upon written application signed by him accompanied by proper evidence that he is a stockholder of the corporation named; by the governor of a state imposing an income tax upon written request signed by him. If the return of a corporation is desired in a legal proceeding to which the United States is not a party the application for inspection shall be referred to the attorney general.

"The returns of corporations listed upon the stock exchange and of corporations whose stock is offered for sale to the public by the corporation itself, may be inspected by any person upon written application to the secretary of the treasury.

"All applications must state reason why permission should be granted to inspect the return desired.

"It will be noticed that the government is very strict with returns of individuals. Very little publicity is allowed such returns while the returns of corporations listed upon stock exchanges and of corporations selling its stock to the public are open to inspection to all who make application therefor."

Railroads

TWO NEW ENGINES FOR SOUTH SHORE

Efficiency on the Duluth-Marquette Run Is Improved.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad has put on two new engines for the Duluth-Marquette run. The engines are of the superheater type with three large drivers. They are the largest engines running into Duluth with the exception of the big Missabe locomotives.

The engines run direct to Marquette from Duluth, without changing. Formerly the engines were changed at Thomaston, Mich., about half the distance to Marquette.

J. Foulkes, engineer on one of the big locomotives, said this morning that he had come all the way from Marquette with one tender of coal. He said that the engine burned about half as much coal as some of the older types and gave better service.

SOO HAS NURSERY RAISING WINDBREAKS.

Drake, N. D., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—To provide trees for windbreaks along its main line and branches, the Soo road has established a nursery a mile and a half from this place. It will grow trees for the entire main line, and shrubs and seedlings will be shipped to all points along the main line and the other line running from here to Fairdale and connecting with the Wheat line.

WHEAT MOVEMENT JUST BEGINNING.

The Northern Pacific railroad is showing a modern "war" battery in its ticket office window on Superior street. The "battery" is a picture of thirteen switch engines, lined up in the Rice's Point yards, and ready for instant service in moving the wheat that is expected to pour into the Duluth elevators the last part of the week.

Wheat is coming in slowly, on account of the recent rains in the western grain fields, but it is expected that the end of this week will see it coming in at the rate of 500 or 600 cars a day.

Last year 73,595 cars of grain were received at the Duluth and Superior elevators and it is expected this year's figures will greatly exceed that. In 1912, 106,192 cars were received here. The elevators at the Head of the Lakes have a capacity of from 30,000,000 to 32,000,000 bushels and as the railroads expect to bring in about 140,000,000 bushels shippers look forward to a great improvement in the traffic on the lakes. The wheat will have to be moved from Duluth or else stored in the boats. It is more probable that it will be taken down the lakes for export. Even if it is stored it will help the vessel men because they will get a combination storage and carrying rate.

Special Train to Fair.

The Great Northern railroad will run special trains next Sunday from Floodwood and Grand Rapids to Hibbing for the St. Louis County fair. The Duluth, Missabe & Northern will run a special from Duluth to Hibbing to carry the crowd that will attend the "Duluth day" program.

GERMANY HAS RAISED DYE STUFFS EMBARGO

Washington, Sept. 2.—Representative Metz today received from Rotterdam and transmitted to Secretary Bryan advices that Germany has raised the embargo on exportation of dyestuffs, but not on pharmaceutical products.

Mr. Metz asked the state department to make representations for raising the embargo on the latter. Free shipments of German dyestuffs via Rotterdam are of inestimable importance to the cotton goods industry of the United States. Without German dye stuffs the industry was threatened with at least partial suspension.

"WILSON IN 1916," IS MARSHALL STATEMENT

Washington, Sept. 2.—Vice President Marshall authorized a published statement here today that President Wilson would be a candidate for re-election.

Secretary Tumulty said the White House knew nothing of the statement, and would not comment upon it.

The vice president's statement was made in the course of an authorized interview on the political situation, which concluded thus:

"The Democratic party will have but one candidate for president in 1916, and his name happens to be Woodrow Wilson. He will have the entire and unqualified and united support of his party. Fair minded Democrats will recognize that he is entitled to a chance for a second term to prove the utility of his policies.

"Lightning rods already up may as well be taken down and preserved for future use; Democratic lightning will not strike a rod in 1916."

Entangling Alliances

The old U. S. A. was certainly fortunate that in its youth it possessed A WISE MAN. This WISE MAN rendered great service to his country in many ways, but none more valuable than in the advice he gave when the time came for him to retire to private life. He adjured his country to beware of entangling alliances with foreign countries. This advice became a fixed policy, and now what a happy and prosperous nation the old U. S. A. is! Beware of Entangling Alliances. They will get you sure. When you order coal don't make entangling alliances with the ordinary kind. Order Pittsburgh's Pittston, the guaranteed hard coal, and avoid entangling alliances with short weights, poor quality, inefficient service. In Pittsburgh's Pittston you are guaranteed against all these. For a hundred years it has given satisfaction. Be prosperous and happy, like the old U. S. A. Order today. It costs no more than the ordinary kind and you get the incomparable Pittsburg service. Pittsburgh Coal Co. City Sales Office, 325 West Superior street, corner Fourth avenue west.

BUTTE AGITATOR GROWS DEFIANT

President of Mine Workers' Union Threatens to Shoot Warrant Server.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 2.—The city of Butte and Silver Bow county were placed under martial law in a proclamation issued here late yesterday by Governor Stewart. In his proclamation the governor stated that conditions of lawlessness at Butte and the inability of civil authorities there to cope with the situation were so apparent as to necessitate this course.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 2.—"Muckie" MacDonald, president of the Butte Mine Workers' union, addressing a crowd of several hundred miners last night on a street corner in the heart of the city, declared that any man that came after him with a warrant would be shot.

"I understand that a warrant was issued for my arrest several days ago," he said, "but the officers were afraid to serve it. They were afraid because they knew I would kill any man that came, and I will die before I submit to arrest. If they get me in the courthouse jail some night I would be run out in an automobile and that would be the last of 'Muckie' MacDonald."

Militia Reaches Butte.

Ten companies of the state national guard, acting under sealed orders given by Governor Stewart to Maj. D. J. Joshua, commanding, just before the troops left Helena, arrived here early last night and went into camp on a hillside overlooking the city. Although large crowds watched them, no resistance was offered to the soldiers. The militiamen came here on a train of nineteen steel ore cars and two flat cars on which had been mounted four machine guns.

Butte shortly will be declared under martial law. All policemen were instructed by Mayor L. J. Duncan to report at police headquarters as soon as the troops enter the heart of the city, and turn over the entire city to the militia.

The Anaconda and Original mines resumed work today with protection given all miners who wish to work. The Butte Mine Workers' committee marched to the Original mine late yesterday to demand an inspection of all the miners and to compel all Western Federation of Miners members to join the new miners' union. The committee was refused admittance and was ousted from the grounds.

It is expected that with the city under martial law, Sheriff Driscoll and his deputies will attempt to serve warrants issued by District Judge Michael Donlan last Saturday for the arrest of MacDonald, Joseph Chapman, Joseph Bradley and another on a charge of kidnaping growing out of the recent deportation of Western Federation miners.

ADMINISTRATION STRONG IN PANAMA.

Panama, Sept. 2.—The national assembly began its mid-term session yesterday by electing Ramon Valdez, candidate for president in 1916, president of the body, thus indicating that the administration is in complete control and will be able to carry through its legislative program.

President Boras read his message, which, however, did not outline any new legislation except to request that funds be voted to complete the national exposition and other public work. It touched on the proposed Chiriqui railway and a loan for its construction and the concession granted a New York bank to establish a bank of issue here with $1,000,000 capital.

Yesterday Governor Eberhart issued a proclamation fixing the dates for the "seed corn week" throughout the state.

The seed corn campaign will be well advertised among the farmers of St. Louis county and it is expected that many will break away from the practice of selecting their seed at random from the bin and cultivate the habit of taking it from the growing stalk instead.

NEW GRAND—Vaudeville and Motion Pictures.

Amusement Notes.

"The Littlest Rebel" has all the uplifting dramatic powers within its core that have from time immemorial built good theaters and heaped poetic treasures for the stage. It is the best melodrama that has crossed the 'dead' line for many a year and sets the audience fighting against tears from the start and only the unexpected thrills keep them back.

Little Muriel Cole is herself well worth going to see, her work being remarkable. She gives a wonderful insight into the deep feeling of the little child surrounded by the grimness of war.

The costuming is of the period and the scenery built especially for this production is beautiful while the auxiliary forces go through their scenes like veterans.

Next week commencing with a matinee Sunday with performances Sunday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights with matinees Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Baldwin Players will present a magnificent production of Marie Correlli's "Thelma." The production will be given in every detail to show accurately the beautiful land of the midnight sun.

Matinees of the "Littlest Rebel" will be given today and Saturday.

Not in many seasons has there been so much advance interest in any theatrical presentation as for the appearance of Guy Bates Post, who will open his engagement in "Omar, the Tentmaker," a sumptuous Persian spectacle by Richard Walton Tully, at the Lyceum theater for three nights and two matinees, beginning with a matinee on Labor day.

Mr. Tully is also the author of two other great dramatic successes. "The Bird of Paradise" and "The Rose of the Rancho," both of which are recalled most pleasurably by all theatergoers. In his latest work, which comes direct from a season-long engagement in New York, Mr. Tully has eclipsed all his previous endeavors, and "Omar, the Tentmaker," is far and away the greatest and most romantic success that the stage has seen in several seasons. In the title role, Mr. Post has won for himself more conspicuous laurels than have ever before befallen to him during his career, and his interpretation of the beloved poet, Omar Khayyam, is heralded by critics as the finest romantic impersonation since the passing of the late Richard Mansfield.

Mr. Tully has based his play upon the life, times and Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, the merry-souled poet of the eleventh century, whose enchanting quatrains, as translated into English verse by Edward Fitzgerald are affectionately known wherever the English language is spoken. Especial emphasis was laid by Mr. Tully upon the engrossing love story of Omar, and the play contains some of the most attractive love scenes witnessed in a number of seasons. Briefly, the play relates how the young and impulsive Omar, singer of sweet songs and lover of red wines, wood and won the beautiful Shireen in her father's rose-bowered garden, how the two were ruthlessly separated for many years, how they remained faithful to eacn other through all the storms and stress that befell them, how Omar reared and loved the little Shireen, daughter of his one-time sweetheart, how he learned at last that the little Shireen was also his own daughter, and how in the end, peace and happiness at last came to the poet and his long-lost Shireen. The play bristles with thrilling action throughout, and exciting escapades follow each other in rapid succession.

At nearly every performance this week the picture of the race has been greeted with a generous "hand" by the audience, showing that there are many rowing "fans" among the Orpheum patrons.

Next week a new motion picture service will be presented at the Orpheum. It is a travel weekly, showing pictures of the inhabitants of all the countries of the world. Each week from three to six subjects will be shown. The photographers have visited every country in the world, civilized and uncivilized, and have taken pictures of the inhabitants, the cities, various industries, and other interesting features. The purpose was both to entertain and instruct. The pictures will, it is believed, give students in the public schools a rare opportunity to study geography, and will also prove of unusual interest to their parents. It would take years to visit the countries that have been visited by the photographers, and the results of their travels are given in fifteen or twenty minutes each week. The pictures will be shown exclusively in Orpheum theaters, as they were taken for the Orpheum circuit.

"If you can't afford to travel," said Manager Billings, "this will be the best substitute I know of."

The already popular new Grand has a straight comedy program to present for the last three days of the week, beginning Thursday at noon. Each of the attractions will be new to Duluthians. Formerly almost any old act was thought to be good enough to sidetrack on the popular priced vaudeville circuit, but under Manager Ed. R. Salter's regime Grand patrons are promised the best vaudeville the popular price market affords. The new headline feature will be the Three Stewart Sisters and Their Escorts, a sextet of quality in a carnival of artistic dances and pantomimic evolutions, described as being something absolutely new in the vaudeville world. Manager Salter states that this is the first time the act has been played in a popular priced theater. The musical Couchel brothers are clever comedians, singers and dancers and play upon about every known musical instrument. The Howard sisters are claimed to be two of the prettiest young women upon the American vaudeville stage. They are billed as "The International Entertainers." Duluthians have seen and heard that jolly African, Bert Williams, but there are two other "tan colored comedians" known as "Al" Anderson and "Jay" Goines who are considered by many to be the equal of Bert Williams. These two black and tan boys have been playing two years continuously for Marcus Loew in New York city.

In the photo-plays depicted by the Grandoscope will be "The Masked Wrestler," two reels, Essanay; "The Honeymooners," Vitagraph, and Hearst and Selig news. The performances at the Grand are continuous every day from 12 noon until 11 o'clock p. m.

The show closing at the new Grand tonight has pleased the patrons. The Sisters Barnard are trapeze artists of ability. Miss Margaret Braun is a handsome girl, with a fine soprano voice. Her quick change of costumes and the good work of her sister at the piano add much to the act. "Madam Dippy," a comedy tabloid, is presented by Standsfield, Lorraine and Hall and is extremely funny. The royal troupe of Russians sing, dance and play their native musical instruments.

BUSINESS BLOCK WILL BE REMODELED

New Two-Story Building for Delmonico Restaurant Site.

Following the closing of the Delmonico restaurant on Superior street near Fifth avenue west ,a substantial improvement will be made in Duluth's business district.

Maj. A. N. Seip of Washington, the owner of the building, is in Duluth and he plans to extend the building to the alley, remodel the entire structure, and add another story. The ground floor will be arranged for a first-class restaurant, and the upper floor will be divided into rooms for an European plan hotel.

The plans for the alterations have been drawn upp by Wangenstein & Gilluson. Maj. Seip states that he has been for several months willing and ready to make the alterations demanded by the health department, but has been unable to reach an agreement with the tenants on the details. The plans for the alterations were made several months ago, and have been altered several times. Work will proceed on them at once, and the building, when complete, will be virtually a new structure.

JACKSON FARMERS WILL HOLD A FAIR

The second annual fall fair of the Jackson Farmers' club will be held on Sept. 16 and 17 on the Jackson school grounds on the Pike lake road, five miles above Duluth Heights.

Large exhibits of farm produce and livestock are promised and a number of interesting features will be introduced on the program. These will include contests in hitching horses for farmers competitions in knitting and sewing for women. Duluth merchants are also expected to make exhibits in various lines.

Considerable produce grown in the district will be offered for sale on the grounds, and taking the experience of last fall, it is thought that city residents will avail themselves of the opportunity to secure their winter's supplies of potatoes and other root crops.

By order of Washington Gardner, commander-in-chief, women were not permitted to march in the parade. Hundreds of women, wives and daughters of the old soldiers, were among the spectators.

The paraders marched over a route a mile and a half long.

PRESIDENT IS BACK AT WORK

Signs War Risk Bill and Plans Special Tax Address.

He Sees No Need of Continued Session of Congress.

Washington, Sept. 2.—President Wilson returned to the capital this morning from the summer White House at Cornish, N. H.

Within ten minutes after the president arrived at the White House he was hard at work. He saw several callers. His health was much improved.

The president early signed the war insurance risk bill.

President Wilson sees no reason why congress should remain in session after the emergency war measures and the trust legislation have been disposed of and officials expect adjournment this month.

Will Ask War Tax.

President Wilson personally will address congress, asking that a war tax measure be passed to supplement the failing customs revenues. Soon after returning to Washington today he got in touch with congress leaders. He may deliver his address late tomorrow.

President Wilson today requested denial of reports that he had sent a protest to Emperor William of Germany against the reported destruction of Belgian cities by German troops. White House officials said that the president had taken absolutely no action.

Health Is Better.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 2.—President Wilson yesterday ended his first vacation of the summer and started back to Washington to assume direction of the situation growing out of the European war.

The president's health is better than it has been for months, as the result of his short visit to the Vermont and New Hampshire hills. Apparently he has regained the vigor he lost during Mrs. Wilson's last illness. Published report that Mr. Wilson had decided to run for the presidency again in 1916, were brought to his attention, but he refused to make any comment.

Warned the Crowd.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 2.—President Wilson last night shouted a warning to a crowd of people who had gathered about his private car here, just before another engine went past on the rails on which many of the men and women had been standing. The people jumped in time to escape danger.

The crowd did not notice the oncoming engine in their anxiety to see the president, but he heard it coming.

The president was in his car at work when his train stopped. A crowd of perhaps 100 persons quickly assembled. They called to the president to come out. He did not respond at once, but finally appeared on the observation platform. Those anxious to see him swarmed onto the track next to the one on which his car stood.

The crowd was cheering when the president heard the noice of the approaching engine. After shouting his warning, he shook hands with all who could get to him before his train started.

"We're for you, Woodrow," shouted several men.

"Thank you very much," he replied. "I'm glad to see you all."

of Mons. The battle raged Sunday and Monday, and by sheer weight of numbers the Germans secured a slight advance.

Military experts point out that from the present position on the Upper Oise river, the German advance will become increasingly difficult owing to the natural features of the country as well as the artificial defenses that will have to be encountered.

It is becoming evident that all along the western line the allies are playing for time in the hope that the German assault will become exhausted.

Trying to Enlist Italy.

On the diplomatic side, Germany is making renewed efforts to bring Italy into her camp by a proclamation which cites that victory for England and France will deprive Italy of all chance of dominating the Mediterranean.

The western coast of Belgium and the northwestern coast of France are apparently clear of Germans.

Antwerp has asked for an increased garrison. The town has also experienced a shudder because of another Zeppelin visit. The great dirigible was fired on and it departed without dropping any bombs.

The announcement from Vienna that preparations have been made for the evacuation of Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, in view of the "inevitability" of an approaching occupation, is the first official admission that the Austrians have been worsted in the prolonged fighting in Galicia.

Moreover, Russian accounts from this field of operations have been continuously cheerful. Even the defeat of Russians by the Germans in East Prussia has unabated the optimism of Petrograd. The Russian chief of the general staff calls the affair merely a reverse due to the unexpected appearance of heavy German reinforcements accompanied by siege guns apparently from the fortresses of Thorn and Graudenz.

Nothing so complete as the present censorship of news from the actual battle line in France has been known since the beginning of the war.

Fearful Loss of Life.

London, Sept. 2, 3:18 a. m.—The Chronicle's correspondent from an unnamed town sends an account of the third British battle, dated Monday, which follows:

"Desperate fighting, in which the British troops are playing an heroic part, is taking place close by. The right wing of the allied forces, forming the northern army, has been fiercely engaged, but it is against the British or left wing that the Germans are flinging their whole weight, regardless of the enormous sacrifice of human life entailed. The battle is still at an undecisive stage.

Fresh Troops in Battle.

"Freshly arrived troops from England, who had been pushed forward, arrived in time to participate in the battle yesterday. Many were reserves with South African experience, and they were in fine fettle.

"An overwhelming German force was thrown against our left wing in a vain effort to overcome British resistance.

"The fight for supremacy, which continued throughout the day, is by no means ended. The brunt of the attack was splendidly borne by our soldiers. The heavy and well directed German artillery fire made little impression on our men, although the casualties entailed by the splendid resistance of the British were necessarily heavy.

Compelled to Give Ground.

"After a day of most sanguinary fighting our brave fellows were compelled to give ground slowly. The slight advantage attained by the German hordes was dearly purchased as the attacking German infantry fell in heaps.

"On the right and center the French contrived to hold their own. Toward evening the French delivered a sharp counter-attack, pushing the enemy all along their front. The German losses are stated to be very heavy.

"The battle was continued today by a fresh onslaught on the British, constituting the left flank. According to the latest information which has reached me, our sorely tried troops are being reinforced and they are confident of being able to check the enemy's advance.

Charges Atrocities.

"That stories of German atrocities are not one whit exaggerated may be gathered from the story told me by a sergeant who was wounded in the action near Mons on Sunday a week ago. As he lay helpless on the ground and the German infantry swept by he could hear, from the imploring cries of the wounded in his front, that they were being ruthlessly put to death by their foes.

"Closing his eyes and simulating death, the wounded sergeant lay perfectly still. As the Germans passed him he received a violent blow in the chest from the butt end of a rifle, which broke one of his ribs. He bore the pain unflinchingly and never moved a muscle. Another Prussian stabbed a wounded man with his bayonet as he went past.

German Advance Broken.

"Ultimately the German advance was broken and their infantry came rolling back, shattered and disordered, leaving behind a trail of dead and wounded. The wounded sergeant was picked up by British stretcher-bearers and conveyed to the base hospital, where he is now fast recovering."

"Spirit of Kitchener."

London, Sept. 2, 5:03 a. m.—The Paris correspondent of the Times sends the following:

"Today I pushed up as near the front as possible, but could only get general impressions of the events of recent days.

"It must be borne in mind that although on the left flank the allied armies have been forced to withdraw their lines so far remain intact. At no point has the enemy succeeded in driving a wedge through the circle which is drawing closer around the capital and gaining in strength as it retires.

"Amid all the welter of war the British troops produced the great quality of efficiency. The spirit of Kitchener apparently pervades the whole British expeditionary force. The transport and commissariat are all excellent and they have withstood the slaughtering tactics of the German general staff with wonderful equanimity."

meet other armies, including the large garrison army.

"Common sense is shown in preparing against any contingency.

No Extras Allowed.

"More than one edition daily of any newspaper is prohibited on pain of permanent suppression, and the lights on the Seine bridges and the river side have been greatly reduced, no doubt out of regard for the Zeppelins and aeroplanes.

"No considerable change is perceptible in the military situation, and it is believed that the main French army and the British wing still hold the line. So far the German turning movement by western Belgium, which cost enormous losses and risks, has been successful, but now the position is very different. The best Prussian and Hanover troops are now exhausted, and the Germans have now the main bodies of the allies to meet.

"Defeat, Flight, Slaughter."

"The forts on which so many brains have been spent are not silenced. What prospective defeat, flight and piecemeal slaughter in the open for the Germans!

"A brief official review just issued reveals the vast extent of this unprecedented battlefield, seventy-five miles long. Forty-five miles southward from their main army the allies blocked the German path.

"Whether the same British force is fighting on the Somme to the southwest, or another, we don't know. Near Sedan the French troops had to effect a slow retreat, but it repelled another German attack and in so doing inflicted heavy German losses. Fresh German reinforcements then appeared from Rocroi, a fortified town in the department of Ardennes, making towards • • • • and fighting is now • • • • and going on between the Meuse.

"Siege of Warfare."

"The official note on the fighting described it as a kind of siege of warfare. As every position previously captured by the French in the Vosges region has been strengthened and organized, the French advance there is necessarily slow.

"Parisians, in reply to the message from the German aeroplane to surrender, say: 'What did you bring under your wing that we should surrender to you? You brought death—a bomb. That is all. That is why you will never have Paris. Paris is civilization in its beauty. You are barbarism in its ugliness.'

"The Red Cross ladies here have been officially informed that twelve of their number were killed and that others are missing."

ple of St. Petersburg received it with firmness. Their faith in a final Russian victory remains wholly unshaken.

Gen. Samsonoff, one of the Russian commanders killed, was considered one of Russia's most capable and brilliant generals. He greatly distinguished himself in the Russo-Japanese war, where he commanded a division of Siberian Cossacks. He was afterwards nominated commander of an army corps, and later appointed commander of the troops in Turkestan.

The other two lost commanders, the Times' correspondent goes on, were Gen. Martos, commander of an army corps, and Gen. Pestitch, attached to the general staff.

Situation in Galicia.

From Galicia the only news is that a fierce battle is still raging. The situation in this Austrian province is probably as follows:

A large Austrian army, with its base upon Cracow and Przemysl, fifty miles west of Lemberg, has occupied the south portion of the Russian Polish government of Lublin and Kielce.

It advanced in two independent columns to the north, one on either side of the River Vistula. Against the column advancing on Lublin marched the largest part of the Third Russian army. The hostile forces met south of Lublin and toward Tomashov, where the battle announced more than a week ago is in progress.

Fourth Army Victorious.

At the same time the Russian fourth army crossed the eastern frontier of Galicia, and after a series of minor encounters, in which it was everywhere victorious, drove back the considerable Austrian forces massed there until a general battle ensued about thirty miles east of Lemberg. After long sustained and heavy fighting at this point, the Russians captured several places where the Austrians had taken up positions fortified by field works; namely, at • • • (names deleted by censor).

In conclusion, the correspondent of the Times says that the information given out at headquarters in St. Petersburg indicates that the Russians, in spite of the Austrian stubborn defense, will bring victory home in this long sustained and terrible battle in which probably more than 1,000,000 are engaged.

"Was Brilliant Victory."

Paris, Sept. 2, via London.—A Rome dispatch to the Temps says the Russian victory over the Austrians on the Galician side was brilliant, the right wing of the Austrian army having been decisively turned and cut to pieces, leaving 30,000 prisoners in the hands of the victors.

On the Vistula front, when the Russians encountered the Austrian left wing, the result was somewhat uncertain, but the arrival of important reinforcements enabled the Russians to take a vigorous offensive and repulse the enemy. They captured a large number of pieces of artillery.

The Russians, the dispatch adds, executed many bayonet charges against the Austrians, which had a large share in deciding the issue of the battle. Elsewhere, the Germans endeavoring to effect a junction with the Austrians, sought to meet the Russian attack with a counter offensive, but were repulsed with losses.

denc and Thorn) and the arrival of the siege guns.

Russian reinforcements also immediately arrived.

Will Abandon Lemberg.

"Recognizing that the occupation of Lemberg by Russian troops is inevitable, the provincial government has removed the archives of state and given instructions to the burgomaster as to the conduct of the city after its occupation by the Russians."

Reported From Vienna.

Rome, Sept. 2, via London, 8:28 a. m. —The Giornale d'Italia publishes a dispatch from Vienna saying that the Austrian government has made arrangements for the evacuation of Lemberg, Galicia.

Lemberg is the capital of Galicia. Recent dispatches have described it as invested by Russian troops, and reports from St. Petersburg have declared that the "iron ring" around Lemberg was being drawn closer and closer.

Official Announcement.

Petrograd (St. Petersburg), Sept. 2, via London, 11:55 a. m.—The following official announcement was made public here today:

"Our forces invading Galicia have continued their advance in the direction of Lemberg. The enemy fell back gradually before our troops. We captured some cannon, some rapid fire guns and some caissons. The pursuit continues.

"Near Gulla (?) and Lipa (?) the enemy occupied a strong position of such natural strength that it was considered impregnable. They also desperately attempted to stop our advance by a flanking attack in the direction of Halurz (?).

Buried 14,600 Austrians.

"We repulsed the Austrians, inflicting severe losses. We buried on the battlefield 14,600 Austrian dead, captured a flag and thirty-two guns and a quantity of supplies and made many prisoners, including a general.

"On the south front, in the Warsaw district, all the Austrian attacks have been repelled with success. Assuming the offensive on our right wing, we forced the Austrians to retreat, capturing three cannon, ten rapid fire guns and over 1,000 prisoners. According to statements by the latter the Austrian losses were very heavy."

BRITISH REPORT ON CASUALTIES ISSUED

London, Sept. 2, 11 p. m.—The official reports of casualties suffered by the cavalry brigade and three of the divisions, less one brigade, of the British force in France, follow:

Killed, thirty-six officers and 127 men; wounded, fifty-seven officers and 629 men.

Missing, ninety-five officers and 4,183 men.

This report was received in London from the headquarters in France of the expeditionary force. As regards the men, as distinguished from officers, it is known that considerable proportion of the missing were wounded men who had been sent down country and regarding whom particulars were not available at headquarters.

Among the missing are included those who have not been accounted for and the list may comprise prisoners not wounded and stragglers, as well as casualties.

The casualty list as received includes the names of officers only. The next of kin have been informed by telegraph and the names will be given out publicly tomorrow. It may take some little time yet to collect information as to the other ranks, but their names will be published when received and after their next of kin have been informed.

SAYS GERMANS KILL THE BADLY WOUNDED

London, Sept. 2, 5:25 a. m.—The Ostend correspondent of the Express quotes Leon Hiard, senator of Hainault, as testifying "that the Germans killed their own severely wounded on the battlefield, only tending those who would soon recover."

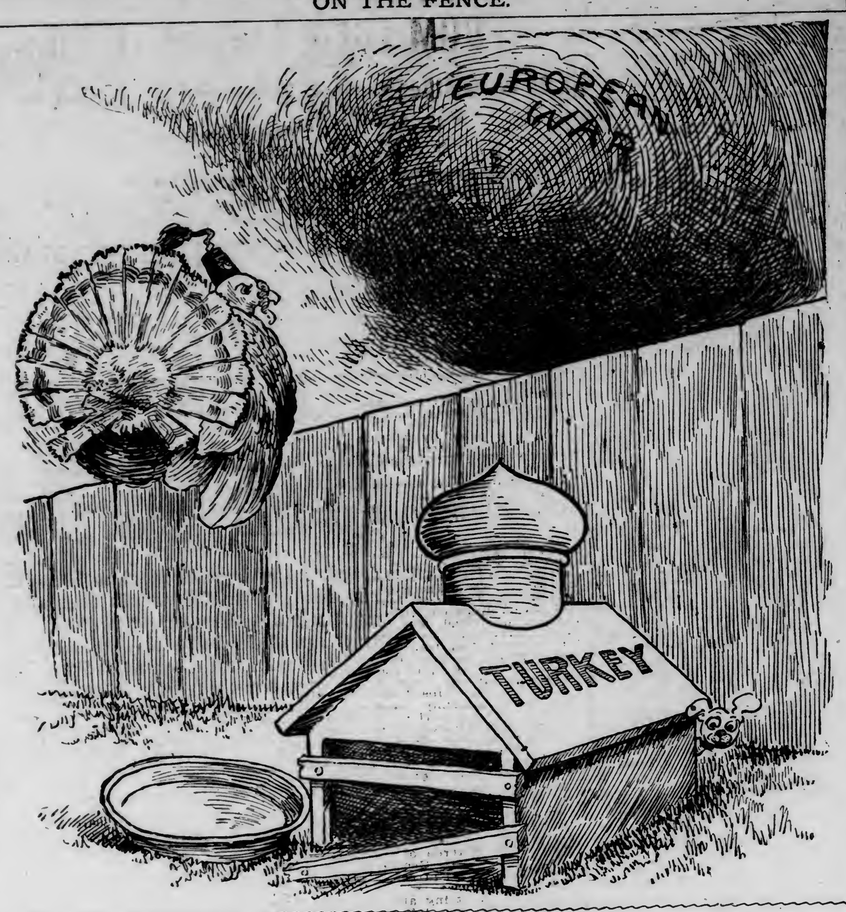

There are many signs, according to the dispatch, that the Germans suffered heavily at Mons. Returning remnants of those who were in the fight spoke bitterly of British courage. One force of 250 British, it is stated, must have accounted for thousands of Germans. All along their line of retreat they had prepared a defense made with bags full of potash, found in a nearby factory. Through these were placed maxims, and on top German helmets. The first time the Germans came up to this seemingly friendly line the maxims spoke, and soon no Germans were left.

Mons is reported to have suffered heavily and its whole neighborhood has been devastated.

RED CROSS SHIP WILL SAIL MONDAY.

New York, Sept. 2.—Miss Mabel Boardman, chairman of the national relief board of the Red Cross, said the Hamburg-American liner Hamburg, which has been chartered as a hospital ship to carry 155 American nurses and surgeons to Europe, will sail from New York next Monday instead of Saturday, on account of the time needed for coaling and re-painting. The ship will be re-named the Red Cross.

LA FOLLETTE MEN BEATEN

McGovern Named for Senator By Wisconsin Republicans.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 2.—The nominations of Governor Francis E. McGovern, Republican, and Paul O. Husting, Democrat, for United States senator, and Emanuel L. Phillipp, Republican, for governor, seem assured from returns received this morning from yesterday's primary election.

Both Judge John C. Karel and John A. Aylward claim the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket, and it may take an official count to decide the winner. These candidates are running neck and neck and neither will concede the other's nomination.

Both Make Claims.

Chairman La Budde of the Karel Democratic campaign committee at 11 o'clock this forenoon claimed Karel was nominated for governor by from 10,000 to 12,000 majority.

Aylward's manager said he had no definite figures, but that belated returns continued to show Aylward gains and was confident of his nomination.

McGovern led a field of six candidates and his nearest competitor appears to be Levi H. Bancroft, who was indorsed by the Madison convention. Thomas Morris of La Crosse, the La Follette candidate, appears to be out of the running.

Phillipp Ran Well.

Next to Phillipp, who was chosen as the Republican gubernatorial nominee, were W. H. Hatton and A. H. Dahl, both La Follette adherents. Phillipp had a plurality of approximately 6,000 in Milwaukee and ran well throughout the state.

Karel, Democrat, led Aylward in Milwaukee by about 3,500, and ran well in most of the lake shore counties. Aylward, however, seems to have evened up matters in other parts of the state.

McGovern had an advantage over Bancroft in Milwaukee, and most of the returns from around the state show him to be in the lead.

Husting, Democrat for United States senator, led Kearney in Milwaukee by about a thousand votes, and outside of Racine, Kearney's home city, appears to have defeated his opponent.

Vote Very Light.

The vote throughout the state was very light, probably not over 50 per cent of the registration.

There were no contests among the Social Democrats and Prohibitionists.

Nominations for congress have been cleared up with the exception of that by the Democrats in the First district. The Republicans in the Ninth nominated John W. Reynolds.

There appears to have been but little notice taken of the "second choice" feature of the ballot.

MAFFI SAID TO LEAD IN VOTING FOR POPE

People of Rome See Smoke of Burning Ballots.

Paris, Sept. 2.—A dispatch to the Havas agency from Rome quotes the Giornale d'Italia as saying that it is rumored in Rome that Cardinal Pietro Maffi, archbishop of Pisa, has received the greatest number of votes in the first balloting for a pope. After him came Cardinal Ferrata, Cardinal Cassetta, Cardinal Lualdi, Cardinal Gaspari and Cardinal Serafini.

According to another dispatch to the Havas agency, several thousand persons assembled yesterday morning to watch the chimney of the Sistine chapel. Presently smoke arose. Then the people knew a pope had not been elected on the first ballot. Toward noon smoke again appeared, indicating that a second ballot had been taken without election. The smoke was from the burning ballots.

NO PRIVATE MOTORS CAN LEAVE PARIS.

London, Sept. 2, 1a. m.—A dispatch to the Reuter agency from Paris says that the military governor has ordered that no private motor cars be allowed to leave Paris after today.

Woman's Realm

The real campaign for the success of the "picture ball," to be given at the Spalding hotel, Sept. 18, opened today with the naming of a ticket committee of fifteen, in addition to the executive committee, of which Mrs. Stanley R. Holden is the chairman.

The task of selecting the different pictures that will be portrayed at the ball is in the hands of the portrait committee, who have already accomplished much in fitting twentieth century women to eighteenth century masterpieces.

The Drama league will introduce the picture ball with three matinee salons, as already announced, the first to take place Friday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the Kitchi Gammi club. The informal talks at these salons will be given in English, not in French, as some persons have supposed, although the series will be devoted to the salon leaders of France.

The hostesses who will dispense hospitality at the salons, in receiving the guests and presiding at the tea tables, will be assisted by ushers. In this role will be for Friday, Sept. 4, Miss Charlotte Wilson, Miss Martha Wall, Miss Margaret Craig and Miss Alexandrea Van Bergen; for Tuesday, Sept. 8, Miss Mary McGonagle, Miss Millet Davis, Miss Marjorie Milne and Miss Ruth Paine; and for Friday, Sept. 18, Miss Elizabeth Woods, Miss Penelope Terrill, Miss Marion Mendenhall, Miss Louise Frick and Miss Julia Marshall.

TWO WEDDINGS.

Swift-Harrison and Pearson-Fuller Ceremonies.

Two weddings of much interest socially will take place this evening when Miss Carolyn Swift becomes the bride of William B. Harrison and Miss Isabel Pearson becomes the bride of Floid M. Fuller. Both brides, who are prominent socially, have been the guests of honor at pre-nuptial affairs.

The Swift-Harrison wedding will be performed by Rev. Robert Yost at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church and will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Damon Swift, 2320 East First street. Miss Frances Swift will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Isabel Patrick, Miss Barbara Rupley, Miss Dorothy Olcott and Miss Elizabeth Olcott. Thomas Harrison will be his brother's best man and G. G. Barnum, Jr., Chalmers Agnew, Jr., E. B. Gridley and Charles McLennan will be the ushers.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding will be Mrs. S. T. Harrison of Crosby, mother of the bridegroom and Miss Virginia Harrison and Miss Marjorie Harrison, also of Crosby.

The Pearson-Fuller wedding will be performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. T. W. MacLean of Trinity pro-cathedral at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Pearson of 4601 London road. The bride's sister, Miss Agnes Pearson will be the maid of honor and her niece, little Margaret Waldron, will be the ring bearer. The bridegroom will be attended by Elmer Blu.

The ceremony was followed by a reception for the immediate relatives of the two families.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding will be the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fuller, his brother, Warren Fuller and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ray W. Fuller, and children, Arthur and Louise, all of Scranton, Pa.

DULUTH TEACHERS RETURN FROM THEIR EUROPEAN TOUR

W. H. Schilling Returns Safely With His Charges—Was Able to Help Many Frightened Women Tourists Abroad.

W. H. Schilling, assistant superintendent of the Duluth schools, returned to Duluth this morning after a tour of Europe.

Mr. Schilling was accompanied by Miss Grace Wright, Miss Florence Williams, Duluth high school teachers, and Miss Louise Kocher of Marion, Iowa, who came here to visit relatives. Miss Edith Scovell, also a teacher in the high school, stopped off in Vermont to visit and will come to Duluth before the opening of the school term.

Mr. Schilling left here with a party of twelve Duluthians and at one time had seventeen in his party abroad. They came home by different routes. Part of the time Mrs. W. A. McGonagle and Miss Mary McGonagle were with them in Europe.

Mr. Schilling said this morning that his party had no trouble in getting home. They sailed on the steamer Scandinavian from Glasgow on Aug. 22.

"I had my passage booked for myself and party before I left Duluth," said Mr. Schilling, "and it happened that the boat I had booked them on was not in any of the trouble that beset other lines after the war broke out. Mrs. Anton Ringsred, with Ruth Ringsred and her friend, Miss Larson, were in my party but they were to sail on the Hamburg-American line from England. When we got to London we found the big offices of the Hamburg-American line all boarded up. The offices had been closed and the officials of the company, fearing a demonstration on the part of the stranded tourists, had protected their plate glass windows with big planks.

Berth Prices Doubled.

"I happened to be well acquainted with a steamboat agency in London and I got passage for the Ringsred party on the Royal George of the Canadian Northern line. They sailed Aug. 12. I got a stateroom with four berths in it at $92.50 a berth. About half an hour later I was offered $200 each for the berths. This was a sample of the plight some of the tourists were in. If I had not been familiar with the agency there the people I was looking after would have been in the same boat with hundreds of others, who are still waiting for passage.

"Anton Ringsred was to meet his wife and daughter in England and come home with them but he was caught in Norway and was unable to get to London. He has now gone to Liverpool and will sail for home from there. Mrs. Ringsred met me at the train this morning and told me she had heard from him."

The fact that Mr. Schilling was an experienced traveler, with several European trips behind him, saved the people in his party from the fate that hundreds of others met when they tried to get home. He started out from Duluth with a party of twelve but when in the European countries he was "discovered" by frantic travelers who declared themselves in on his protection and at one time he had seventeen to look after. His knowledge of European customs enabled him to aid dozens of stranded, frightened women at different times and the members of his party would make him out as something of a hero if he would promise it.

Mr. Schilling and his party toured Germany, Holland, Belgium, France, England and Scotland. "We saw the armies mobolizing in all these countries," he said. "When the troops were being called together there was a general panic among the American travelers, who feared they would not be able to get home. Those who had not booked return passage were offering all kinds of prices for berths and even the steerage was grabbed up by those who wanted to get away."

Miss Selma Swenson of this city is at Thornetop, Vislanda, Sweden, according to a telegram received by J. Harris Trux, secretary of the European Tourists' Information bureau at the city hall, yesterday afternoon.

She was located by Congressman C. B. Miller, her name being among those of whom he was requested to seek information. The telegram states that she needs $120 for her return passage. Secretary Trux does not know who made inquiry for her, a man who did not give his name having called over the telephone with the request that Miss Swenson's name be placed upon the list.

FILES DEMURRER IN HIGGINS CASE

Holding Company Objects to Complaint Made By Mrs. Higgins.

John G. Williams, attorney for the Higgins company, and Jaques & Hudson of counsel for Allan B. Williams, one of the directors of the corporation, today filed a demurrer to complaint in the action recently instituted in the district court by Elizabeth B. Higgins, in which she is seeking the dissolution of the corporation and the appointment of a receiver to distribute its assets in accordance with the terms of the will of the late Frank W. Higgins, former governor of New York, who died seven years ago.

Holders for Higgins' Heirs.

The Higgins company is a holding company for the heirs of the Higgins estate, estimated to be worth several million dollars. In her petition for dissolution of the corporation, Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins, widow of Orin T. Higgins, a son of the former governor, who owns a two-ninths interest in the company; her mother-in-law, Kate C. Higgins, the governor's widow, and her associates are not managing the affairs of the estate to her satisfaction. She alleges that a number of subsidiary companies have been organized, and that much of the expense of conducting their affairs has been charged to the holding company, and that the latter company has wholly failed to comply with the purpose of its corporation.

The demurrer interposed to the complaint of the younger Mrs. Higgins is based on two grounds. It is claimed that the defendant Kate C. Higgins should have been made a party plaintiff to the action, in order that a majority of the stock issued by the corporation be represented on the plaintiff's side of the case. It is also claimed that the complaint does not state facts that will constitute a cause of action.

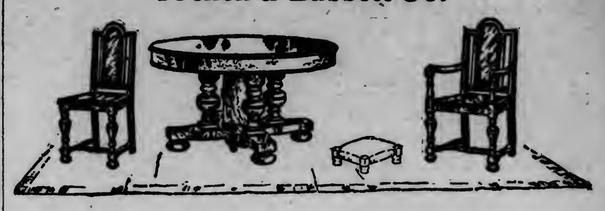

An order to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be granted prohibiting the sale or transfer of any of the assets of the estate, and why a receiver should not be appointed, has already been obtained by the plaintiff, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Higgins. It is directed against Kate C. Higgins, widow; Carroll F. Graff, Allan B. Williams, F. Harrison Higgins and Frank L. Bartlett, directors of the Higgins company. The order is returnable Sept. 5.

OAK is being treated fairly again.

Oak is one of our most beautiful native woods, yet because it was so plentiful at one time, furniture makers abused it. They used it for cheap, showy pieces, and made it as homely as yellow pine.

The "Mission" style showed what can be done with oak. It is an honest wood of great charm when rightly used. But many people do not like the harsh rigidity of "Mission." Therefore the "Flanders" designs of the Berkey & Gay Furniture Company, whose product we sell exclusively here, are the present leading efforts in oak furniture.

Flanders pieces receive the same treatment that oak had in the early 17th century; they have the look of pieces that are old and have been cherished for their beauty for many years.

The Berkey & Gay Furniture Company introduced the Flanders style, and of course it has been imitated---unsuccessfully.

"Flanders" lives because of its worth. Examine it the next time you are in our store.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Women in Battle Will Not Ennoble the Cause.

Since the report of Lady Cook's effort to raise an army among English women was circulated there have been various rumors concerning the women of the several nations now actively engaged in war. It is said that in all these countries women are really preparing to give a good account of themselves, either in the line of battle or as defenders of their homes, their children and their honor.

Women in actual battle, as men go forth and meet the enemy and fight until one side vanquishes the other, make no appeal to me. No more, as far as that goes, do I see the need of this sort of thing among men, especially in this enlightened age. It may be that I shall put my reputation for patriotism at stake by stating that it always seems to me that a certain proportion of the male population are always too ready to engage in warfare for their country's honor.

As long as nations feel that their difficulties are better settled by the sword and the gun, let us leave this ghastly work to men. Women in battle will not ennoble the cause. Their presence only means the worthless sacrifice of more lives. Woman's share in war, if war must exist, is as a binder up of wounds, actually and figuratively. If she has time to spare from her nursing and the care of those left dependent upon her, she should use it to establish peace again.

When it comes to the protection of her children and her home and herself in times of war, it is a different matter. With villages and towns almost depopulated of their males, defense of the most heroic order may become necessary to her.

Regiments of women, versed in the rudiments of defense, might be useful, with the enemy trying to pillage and destroy everything in their paths, but let women refrain from taking part in battle except as war intrudes itself upon their thresholds. Let the great body of women of all nations continue to be keen for peace and foster it all they can while filling the role that nature has best fitted them for while war is on.

Gentlemen:-

We have experimented with three or four standard pianos and find that the "Steinway" best suits our purpose. We consider it the best of the higher classed pianos and expect to increase the efficiency of our orchestra twenty-five percent by the use of this piano.

The piano in a theatre orchestra must combine perfect tone stability and a certain amount of ornamentation. All of these qualities we have found perfect in the "Steinway" you have furnished us, and after several weeks trial recommend it to be the most satisfactory of the higher priced pianos.

Yours very truly,
The Lyceum Theatre Co.

MR. LEE'S GOOD FAITH IS THE ISSUE.

Newspapers which, like The Herald, reported Candidate Lee's apparent abandonment of county option as an issue in this campaign, are being accused, by the partisan defenders of Mr. Lee, of misrepresenting his stand.

If anybody has misrepresented Mr. Lee, it has been Mr. Lee.

It is true that Mr. Lee has not changed his mind about county option, and that he is still for it. After a carefully prepared address in which he set forth his idea of the issues, it was necessary for him to send a letter to the press saying that he still is for county option; so we must believe that he is.

But what has that to do with the original charge that he sought to shelve county option as an issue, after he had made his campaign for the nomination as an ardent advocate of county option?

In Biwabik, the week before the Minneapolis meeting, Mr. Lee said:

> If the legislature should see fit to pass a county option bill I will sign it. Mr. Hammond and every other candidate for governor will make the same pledge, so that on this issue all the aspirants occupy the same ground.

If this wasn't an attempt to shelve county option as an issue, at least in a district where county option has few supporters, what would be? It is precisely the stand which Governor Eberhart took; and for taking it Mr. Lee and his followers called him a trimmer and a "brewery-owned" candidate.

Following that came the Minneapolis meeting of the Lee committee, where Mr. Lee made a formal statement of his views. The words "county option" did not appear anywhere in that statement. Instead, the only reference to the liquor question was a vague and all but meaningless paragraph the sole purport of which was that the people ought to settle such questions, and that they ought to have anything they want. Which is a thing that nobody will deny. It is much harder to understand it than to agree with it.

The fact is that in his campaign for the nomination Mr. Lee appealed to that element in his party which is radical on the liquor question, so to them he urged county option as a leading issue; but that in his campaign for election, when he needs the votes of the Eberhart supporters, many of whom do not believe in county option, he found that issue embarrassing, so he was anxious to submerge it and to pass rapidly on to other and less dangerous issues.

That's why he said what he did in Biwabik.

That's why he told many people in Duluth and on the iron ranges that county option would not be an issue in this campaign.

That's why he made his vague statement in Minneapolis, in which the most conspicuous thing was its avoidance of any reference to county option.

The fact that later, alarmed by the indignation of his county option supporters, he reaffirmed his approval of county option—but still without any promise to make it an issue—does not affect in the slightest degree the much more significant fact that he was willing to smother county option in the effort to regain the support of the Eberhart following, which is indispensable to his election.

What a glorious time Europe would have if it were as easy to win a victory as it is to claim one.

ALL OF IT IS BARBAROUS.

They deserve it, too, if reports are true; and there seems to be no reason to doubt them.

It was barbarous, truly enough; but where would you draw the line?

What about men, on a Christian continent, among nations that pray to a God who said "Thou shalt not kill," deliberately and cunningly seeking to kill other men?

Bombs are cruel and barbarous; but what about machine guns and mines and artillery—cunning machinery for wholesale human slaughter?

Bombs are barbarous; but every aspect of war is barbarous.

The bombs that fell in Antwerp warred upon women and children. But is it less barbarous to spend untold energy and wealth and ingenuity and cunning to make widows of women and orphans of children?

It's a hell's broth, all of it; a noisome mass of anarchronisms, a denial of Christianity, a betrayal of civilization. Some of it is more barbarous than the rest; but none of it is anything but barbarous.

THE WAR FROM DAY TO DAY.

The anniversary of Sedan has come and gone, and it was not marked by any such decisive result as both France and Germany longed for—France for revenge and Germany for the satisfaction of hitting its enemy twice in the same place.

The Germans cannot call the anniversary of MacMahon's defeat significant, because while they were still pressing the allies back, they had yet gained no real victory.

The French can't call it significant, because while their forces still are intact and undefeated, they have been forced steadily back toward Paris on the left of their line, which holds strongly elsewhere.

In point of fact, holding one's breath for the crash of a decisive French defeat is getting to be embarrassing. It has been imminent for a week, promised always the next moment, and it has not yet come; though today come reports of fighting only fifty miles from Paris.

In the meantime, Germany's very advantage of a forward movement is stretching out her line of communications to a thin thread. In the meantime, too, her strength must be gradually wearing down because as the assailant upon intrenched defenses her losses should be the heavier.

Still, unless the French and English manage a sudden and unexpected coup, their defeat is probable and a siege of Paris likely.

But that won't be the end. Paris besieged is not Paris captured. In 1870 Paris held out more than four months; and in 1870 France was friendless and alone, and Paris utterly unprepared for siege.

Now, France has strong allies, and Paris should be as well prepared for a siege as human ingenuity can make it. Moreover, such things as Germany's seizure of Belgium as a German province will stiffen the determination of France's allies. England, for instance, will spend her last drop of blood to prevent the extension of Germany to the Straits of Dover; and will bring her forces from 'round the world to the resistence of Germany's ambition.

Then, too, Russian aggressions in Austria, which are about to force the evacuation of Lemberg, the Galician capital, must lessen Austria's ability to support German aggressions. She will need all her troops in her own defense. Meanwhile the Russian invasion of East Prussia, while it seems to have made no great gains, is still in progress despite the crushing defeat of a Russian army at Gilgenberg, near Allenstein, thirty miles southwest of Koenigsberg. At this writing no recent news of the attack upon Koenigsberg has come; and it may be that the Russians, leaving an investing force to coop up the garrison, is marching ahead toward the real barrier, the line of fortresses east of the Vistula from Posen to Dantzig.

Turkey seems about to leap into the fray on the side of Germany; and diplomats believe that if she does, Greece and Italy will at once take sides with Great Britain, France, Russia, Servia, Montenegro and Roumania. This would leave Bulgaria the only noncombatant in the Balkans, and it is not likely that she will be able to keep out. If Bulgaria enters the fight, it will doubtless be as an ally of the German-Austrian-Turkish forces.

If the war thus widens, in all Europe only Switzerland, Holland, Spain, Portugal and the Scandinavian countries will be free of it.

One advantage in changing the name from St. Petersburg to Petrograd is that the new one is a whole lot easier to get into a headline.

WISCONSIN BACKSLIDES.

Yesterday's Republican primaries in Wisconsin were marked by a crushing defeat to Senator La Follette and his forces.

By the nomination for governor of Emanuel L. Phillipp, a Stalwart, conservative, anti-La Follette Republican, the progressive forces in the Republican party suffered their bitterest beating in years, and the long-licked Stalwarts had their first taste of victory in a decade.

La Follette himself is personally defeated not only by the nomination of Phillipp, but still more directly by the victory of Governor McGovern in his fight for the senatorial nomination. McGovern used to be a La Follette man, but he and La Follette split two years ago in the fight over Roosevelt in the Republican national convention. La Follette called him traitor, fought him bitterly in the recent primary campaign; and yet he wins. And Phillipp, moreover, seems to have carried nearly every county in the state.

What has happened to Wisconsin? Too much La Follette? It would seem so. A reaction toward conservatism? Certainly that is true of the Republicans, though it will take November's decision, in Wisconsin and elsewhere, to show whether the Old Guard really has "come back."

So far as the primaries are concerned, however, this is a humiliating overthrow for La Follette and the progressive element of his party, and a long delayed draught of victory for the Stalwarts.

Moreover, it is an opportunity for the Democrats, who seem to have nominated as their candidate for governor John A. Aylward, a Progressive Democrat; though the outcome between him and John C. Karel is close and it may take the official count to determine it.

Another interesting point is, what effect will this war have on some of those titles that have been bought by the rich papas of American girls?

The Battle of Blenheim

By ROBERT SOUTHEY.

It was a summer evening,
Old Kaspar's work was done,
And he before his cottage door
Was sitting in the sun;
And by him sported on the green
His little grandchild, Wilhelmine.

She saw her brother, Peterkin,
Roll something large and round
Which he beside the rivulet
In playing there had found;
He came to ask what he had found
That was so large and smooth and round.

Old Kaspar took it from the boy
Who stood expectant by;
And then the old man shook his head,
And with a natural sigh
"'Tis some poor fellow's skull said he,
"Who fell in the great victory.

"I find them in the garden,
For there's many here about;
And often when I go to plough
The ploughshare turns them out,
For many thousand men," said he,
"Were slain in that great victory."

"No tell us what 'twas all about,"
Young Peterkin he cries;
And little Wilhelmine looks up
With wonder-waiting eyes;
"Now tell us all about the war,
And what they fought each other for."

"It was the English," Kaspar cried,
"Who put the French to rout;
But what they fought each other for
I could not well make out,
But everybody said," quoth he,
"That 'twas a famous victory.

"My father lived at Blenheim then,
Yon little stream hard by;
They burnt his dwelling to the ground,
And he was forced to fly;
So with his wife and child he fled,
Nor had he where to rest his head.

"With fire and sword the country round
Was wasted far and wide,
And many a childing mother then
And newborn baby died:
But things like that, you know, must be
At every famous victory.

"They say it was a shocking sight
After the field was won;
For many thousand bodies here
Lay rotting in the sun:
But things like that, you know, must be
After a famous victory.

"Great praise the Duke of Marlbro' won
And our good Prince Eugene;"
"Why, 'twas a very wicked thing!"
Said little Wilhelmine;
"Nay . . . nay . . . my little girl," quoth he,
"It was a famous victory.

"And everybody praised the duke
Who this great fight did win,"
"But what good came of it at last?"
Quoth little Peterkin—
"Why that I cannot tell," said he,
"But 'twas a famous victory."

Is Home-Making Fascinating?

Thomas L. Masson in Life.

Far from being dull drudgery, home-making in all its details is fascinating and stimulating, if a woman applies to it her best intelligence and culture.—Mrs. Christine Fredericks in the American Review of Reviews.

And yet, making due allowance for certain exceptions, it seems to be the tendency among women to break away from housekeeping when they increase in culture and intelligence. To an intelligent woman the business of running a house must make its intellectual appeal in much the same manner that the machinery of business makes its appeal to an intelligent man. But in the two cases there are important elements which are unlike. In running a profitable home there is no tangible, positive result like running a profitable business. A man will put up with a business personally distasteful to him if there is money in it. A woman who runs a home well has compensations, but this is not one of them. There is also another thing which counts against Mrs. Fredericks' argument; namely, that running a home offers no variety. It is monotonous. A business properly organized runs along on its own momentum. The men employed to keep it going have powerful incentive to remain at their posts. They are not likely, as servants in a home are, to "chuck" their jobs at a moment's notice through a mere whim. But the machinery of a home may go to pieces "all at once, and nothing first" if the "Boss" withdraws her personal grip.

Managing a household requires a great many qualities, the exercise of which undoubtedly produces pleasure. It requires as much ability as running a government—perhaps more. It is certainly more important. Yet women who experience the "uplift" seem to like to break away from it. The glory of doing it is not megaphonic enough. It lacks the qualities of self-advertisement.

We read every day in the papers obituaries of passing great men, telling for what they were distinguished in their lives, of generals who won battles, of authors who have "made their impress" on their generation, of inventors and seers and heroes, but we never read any such obituary as this:

Mrs. John Smith, who has just passed away in her seventieth year, has led a long and distinguished career as a good cook, a clothes-mender of remarkable talents, a domestic economizer and a children's nurse. Mrs. Smith had a remarkable talent for dealing with servants of all nationalities and making them get along with each other. Many anecdotes of her management and control of her husband are recounted by her neighbors. It is expected that a popular subscription will soon be started to erect to her memory a suitable monument, to be a facsimile in marble of one of her celebrated jars of preserves, etc.

The Lost Individual

Chicago Tribune: After the first German forces had gone into Belgium against Liege there was found on one of the roadways the body of a man holding an umbrella. Some orderly, circumspect citizen, accustomed to guarding himself against such accidents of life, as a sudden downpour, had gone from home, carrying that protection of respectability, an umbrella. Respectability does not submit willingly to the discomfort of dripping clothes and the umbrella is the token of a precise nature.

His fate was sufficiently terrible in its irony to get a like in the cables, and the picture of the man with the umbrella lying dead in the roadway as the troops passed on was given us.

The man with the umbrella was the individual and Europe no longer is made up of individuals. It is made up of masses. The individual has been lost. A regiment may be scattered, a brigade routed, a division hammered, but the individual is gone.

Two weeks ago the life of the man with the umbrella was sacred. He might have been a timid person, but he would have gone almost anywhere in Europe protected by his own consciousness of his individual value. Society was organized to protect him. Laboratories and law, health officers and policemen, bacteriologists and surgeons, worked to guard him.

Tender-Hearted.

Lippincott's: One day I was in a country store when a sweet little 4-year-old girl came toddling in and bought a nickel's worth of candy. A little kitten rubbed against her leg and purred. She laid her candy down on a box to play with the kitten. When she tired of play, she went to get her candy again. But it was gone. Some one had stolen it. Her little face became sad. Something seemed to choke her. Big tears welled up in her eyes and rolled down her cheeks. Poor little thing! I felt so sorry for her that I gave half a stick of it back to her!

Preposterous.

Life: Caperton (a man of business): Now, my dear, I want you to sit down and figure up in advance just what our necessary expenses will be for the coming year; that is to say, I want you to prepare a budget.

Mrs. Caperton (who has been attending lectures on current events): A budget! Why, they don't do that even in congress. Why should I do what the government of the United States doesn't think necessary?

Caperton: I hope you are not comparing my method of doing business with that of the United States government? If I should follow that example I'd fail in three months.

The Fishing Boy.

My life is like a stroll upon the beach,
As near the ocean's edge as I can go;
My tardy steps its waves sometimes o'erreach.
Sometimes I stay to let them overflow.

My sole employment is, and scrupulous care,
To place my gains beyond the reach of tides,
Each smoother pebble, and each shell more rare,
Which ocean kindly to my hand confides.

I have but few companions on the shore;
They scorn the strand who sail upon the sea;
Yet oft I think the ocean they've sailed o'er
Is deeper known upon the strand to me.

The middle sea contains no crimson dulse,
Its deeper waves cast up no pearls to view;
Along the shore my hand is on its pulse,
And I converse with many a shipwrecked crew.

And since in life I loved them well,
Let me in death lie down with them,
And let the pines and tempests swell
Around me their great requiem.
—Henry David Thoreau.

Writing the News

By Fred C. Kelly.

William Atherton Du Puy is a Washington writer noted among his acquaintances for the wide variety of his information. But there was a time in Du Puy's life when he had a great deal less knowledge of things than he has today—and this is particularly true in regard to aquatics. He was raised on the desert out Arizona way, and up to the time he went into a New York newspaper office some years ago to ask for a job he had never seen a large body of water or any kind of water craft—not even a rowboat.

Du Puy had been tipped off, however, that it is unwise to expose one's ignorance when trying to land a job. "If you get a chance," a friend told him, "and the man sends you out anywhere, don't stop to ask him how to get there. Just act as if you knew all about it."

* * *

The city editor explained that his staff was filled and that there was nothing doing. Du Puy was slowly and sadly single-footing toward the door when the city editor got a telephone message about a reporter being ill, and he called Du Puy back.

"Do you suppose you could write the account of the yacht races at Sheepshead bay?"

"Well, then get right out there," directed the city editor. "Our man who was assigned to that has been taken sick. You'll have to hurry." And as he snappped his watch shut he returned to the papers on his desk.

So without asking further questions, Du Puy went down the elevator to go to Sheepshead bay.

Now there were a few little items that he did not just know about the yacht races at Sheepshead bay. He wondered, for one thing, what state of the Union Sheepshead bay might be in. Was it near New York or was he to take a train and ride for a day or so to reach the scene in time? And what was a yacht, anyhow? Was it a big boat like a battleship or was it—ah, maybe the race was between two college crews! He had heard of college boat races.

* * *

The first thing, though, was to learn how to reach Sheepshead bay. Du Puy learned that it was done by means of a series of elevated lines. That may sound simple and trivial enough unless you pause to consider that he had never yet ridden on an elevated line and didn't know what people were talking about when they told him to take an "L" train. He actually wondered if it could be a further abbreviation of L. & N.

At last, though, he found himself on a sad-eyed little wharf that jutted out into the waters of Sheepshead bay. It was his first view of water in one of the larger sizes, and he felt rather helpless. Off across the bay, he learned, were the yachts that were to race.

How was he to tell from looking at a number of ships across the troubled waters how to describe the race? Did one write about the way a ship acted on the back stretch, or how it nosed its way out by half a length, or what was one to say? Where could one buy a score card showing the names of the boats and the numbers of the drivers? And how was one to get close enough to see what was going on?

A man came chug-chugging along in a motor boat and paused for a moment at the little wharf where Du Puy was standing. Du Puy engaged him in conversation.

"Oh, you're the yachting editor of one of the papers?" asked the motorboat man, joyously, for he was glad to meet so important a person.

"Yes," answered Du Puy, modestly.

So the man insisted on taking him over to a point where they could see the races, just for the honor of the thing.

"I'd just like to get your opinion as an expert on the lines of that Saucy Sally boat," explained the enthusiast. "I've got a little money up on her."

Du Puy made up his mind that he would be non-committal and try his best not to expose his comparative ignorance of things nautical. He tried to recall some of the terms he had read in sea stories when he was a small lad, but only two came to him. One was "shiver my timbers" and the other was "marlinspike." He was afraid to use either one of this scant store of expressions lest he get it into a wrong place. Thus he was little better off than a man who knew no nautical terms at all.

"What kind of a showing do you think the Kitty will make?" asked the motor-boatist eagerly.

"Pretty hard to tell—on a day like this," replied Du Puy, chewing an inexpensive cigar with a look of much erudition; "I should hesitate to make a prophecy."

* * *

"That's the way I've felt," agreed the host flattered. "You simply can't tell a thing about it."

Thus their talk ran on and all might have been well, but without warning the motor boat ceased its chug-chugging.

The man worked at the engine for a long time without finding any pulse or respiration. It seemed quite dead.

"Well, unless somebody comes along and picks us up we'll have to use these," said the proprietor, glancing up at a long pair of oars he had strapped to the top of the little boat.

Du Puy doubtless had seen pictures of men rowing, but if he had he did not recall it just then. He looked at the oars and the strange implements filled him with such curiosity that he forgot to be on his guard against asking foolish quetsions.

With his blue eyes full of innocent childish wonder, the supposed nautical savant looked his host in the eye, jerked his thumb in the direction of the oars, and inquired:

"What are they for?"

Who's the Next?

Life: Now that Colorado has been quieted by outside force, we have space in the news column for a good, big sensational running account of how a state government has broken down and been compelled to resort to martial law in a sickly attempt to make up for the lack of a vital constitution and statutes and a fairly modern sense of social justice. There is no doubt, of course, that another state will step into this limelight in due season, but which will it be? Which will follow next in the glorious footsteps of West Virginia, Michigan and Colorado? Our only hope is that the remaining states will talk the matter over and arrange to come along one at a time instead of two or more at a time, thus overtaxing the capacities of our newspapers. In this way we can easily spend fifty or sixty years more in showing how savage a civilized people can be and in proving the utter futility of martial law in settling labor disputes.

In Doubt.

Elect a Legislature Pledged to Action

State Press on the need of economy in state affairs.

Certainly, It's Up to the People.

Red Wing Eagle: "Why should the state pay salaries for a large number of officials when one-half the number could perform the duties of the offices with ease. It is high time the political tree received a thorough pruning."—Cottonwood Journal.

Yes, it is high time. But what is the use talking about it? There never was a year as far back as anyone can remember that such talk wasn't rampant; and yet, was there ever a legislative session held in this state when some additional salary-grabbing positions were not created? The question is, what are the people going to do about it?

Pay Attention to Economy.

Northome Record: The people should interest themselves in the work being done by the state efficiency committee in trying to evolve a better business basis for the government of state affairs. That committee has done a large amount of work already in trying to bring out a system of some kind that will mean more efficiency and economy in state business and has issued a preliminary report which should be read and studied by all voters. Every member elected to the legislature this fall should pledge himself to carry out the plan of putting the state on a business basis and to doing away with the present hodge podge mixup, which costs lots of money, work poorly done and political manipulations that take from the taxpayers hard earned money to further the selfish interests of individuals.

Must Use Force.

Anoka Union: No matter who is elected governor, he will have a great stunt to reduce taxes. He will have to use a stuffed club on the legislature.

Get a Good Legislature Then.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: The real reason for the downfall of the state administration is given by the governor as high taxes. If that be true it was unjust to the governor, for the legislature has had more to do with the high rate of taxation than the governor.

Do Something.

Austin Transcript: With taxes continually on the increase there is urgent need of legislation that will eliminate all appointive offices that are of no real value other than for political favor.

Then See to It.

Anoka Union: The only relief from high taxes must come from the legislature, and not the governor.

How sweet 'twould be at evening
If you and I could say,
Good Shepherd, we've been seeking
The sheep that went astray;
Heart-sore and faint with hunger,
We hear them making moan,
And, lo! we come at nightfall,
Bearing them safely home.

What if the Master came
Tonight, and called your name,
Asking how many sheaves your hands had made?
If at the Lord's commands
You showed but empty hands,
Condemned, your dreaming soul would stand dismayed.
—From "The Desired Haven."

A gentleman once applied to the custodian of the famous Freiburg organ for permission to play the instrument, but was refused because he was unknown to him. After much persuasion, and perhaps a gratuity, he received permission and sat down to play. He discoursed the most wonderful music, that the verger was simply entranced and spellbound. At last he ventured to ask the name of the player. The reply was "Mendelssohn." "And I refused you permission!" the man answered.

God by His Holy Spirit often comes to us for permission, that we may be made useful by doing kindnesses; but the smallness of the duty required leads us to forget who it is that asks our services. Hark, heed, and obey God's call.

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

A terrible wave of fire swept over the country in the vicinity of Hinckley yesterday afternoon, leaving in its wake an awful loss of life and destruction of property. Long before any news was received, Duluth people felt that something terrible would be heard. Early in the afternoon the sky grew dark with smoke and the heavens were tinged with a dull blood red. At 5 o'clock it was dark as night. Ashes were falling all afternoon and by evening the sidewalks were covered. The first information of the fire was the story of the burning of the St. Paul & Duluth limited train. It had nearly reached Hinckley when it was stopped by about 125 people who were fleeing for their lives. They convinced the train hands that they could not get through, and it was decided to go back. Up to this time the fires had been burning quite fiercely on each side of the track and although they were hot they were not very dangerous. But just as the train started back a tornado came up. Instantly the flames rose high in the air. They swept across the track and the cars caught fire. The cab of the engine was burning, but Engineer James Root stuck to his post. He knew the only chance was to reach a swampy lake, known as Skunk lake, nearly four miles distant, and the race began. The cars were on fire, the engine was blazing, and even Engineer Root's clothes were burning, but they finally reached the swamp. Just as they did so the air pipes burned off and instantly the air brake set, stopping the train. The passengers leaped into the swamp and nearly all were saved. During the run the scene inside the car was something awful. The heat was deathly and many of the passengers were frantic. Finally the windows crashed in, the glass being literally melted. The train burned until there was nothing left but tangled iron. The number of dead in Hinckley and other towns cannot be stated yet. Between Miller station and Pine City more than 300 bodies by actual count were found. The body of Orlando Rowley, general freight and passenger agent of the Duluth & Winnipeg road, was found near the wreck of the limited. Relief committees from Duluth and other places are actively at work, and hundreds of the survivors have been brought to Duluth.

Charles E. Doll of Duluth will be married this week at Minneapolis to Miss Alice Thompson of that city.

Mrs. John Cummings has returned from a visit to St. Paul.

Rather Effeminate.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Congressman Peter J. Dooling of New York smiled the other evening when reference at a dinner was made to effeminate ways. He said he was reminded of the explanation of Smith.

Some time ago the Smiths attended a reception where they met a man named Brown. On the way home, while exchanging opinions of the guests, Brown was mentioned.

"Speaking of that man Brown," vigorously remarked Smith, "he certainly has an effeminate way of talking."

"Why, John," was the wondering rejoinder of Mrs. Smith. "How can you say that? He certainly has a very loud and masculine voice!"

"Yes, I know he has," explained Smith, "but what I mean is that he talks all the time."

SPECIAL CARE TAKEN OF AMERICANS IN GERMANY

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Rotterdam, Aug. 21.—Americans who found themselves in Germany during the first few days of the European war were in no wise molested, and the German government took every step to protect them. This is the total of the statements made here by Americans returning from Germany.

Several instances of abuse and personal danger were recorded, but in every case the excitement incident to the declaration of war, mobilization and resulting high spirits of the people were responsible. Then, too, the few cases recited to the Associated Press occurred in out-of-the-way places, and persons touring the empire in automobiles were the principal sufferers.

Mistaken for English.

German villagers, unable to distinguish the Americans from the English, stoned travelers, threatened them and molested them in hotels, but as soon as it had been made clear that the victims of their wrath were Americans, the most complete apologies were offered. In most cases the offenders were immediately arrested and summarily punished.

On Aug. 5 the German emperor is said to have himself issued a decree according to which the burgomasters all over the empire were to be held personally responsible for all harm befalling foreigners, especially Americans. There is every reason to believe from the accounts given by American refugees that the Germans went out of their way to take care of the visitors from the United States.

Officials Were Polite.

It must be said, however, that they were subjected to the severe military rules so suddenly applied, and that those without passports were in some cases detained until identification had been accomplished. But even this necessary process was not attended with the usual brusqueness of the German official. Americans by the score maintain that they had never thought German officials could be so polite as they showed themselves.

Americans in cities had no difficulties of any sort. They were warned to keep off the streets after sundown because the lower classes, it was feared, might mistake them for English. But after a few days this was no longer necessary, and while the Americans had been, in most cases, politely requested to leave Germany at their first opportunity, no pressure for their departure was applied.

As to Getting Money.

Up to about Aug. 5 it was difficult to obtain money in Germany on American paper of any sort. It was soon realized, however, that all American drafts, notes and letters of credit of standing were good, and after that it was a comparatively easy matter to secure money.

The Bristol hotel at Berlin turned 150 rooms over to the Americans, absolutely free of charge, and those who failed to get rooms at hotels were taken in by families. Similar reports were made by Americans from other parts of the empire.

Most of the rolling stock of German railroads was in the hands of the military and needed for transportation of troops. For this reason, little baggage could be carried on trains.

Most prominent American travelers in Germany were given a sort of "laissez partier," or passport, which in most cases exempted them even from having their baggage inspected.

ARTISTS DEPLORE RAZING OF LOUVAIN

Send Telegram to Kaiser, and Ask Others to Do So.

London, Sept. 2.—Telegraphing from The Hague, Reuter's correspondent says: "A dozen Dutch artists and men of letters have sent a telegram to the German emperor expressing their horror at the destruction of Louvain. After declaring their admiration of German culture and the certainty of the sympathy of the civilized world, they urgently call on Emperor William as one of the co-promoters of humanity and civilization, to see that in the future works of our common humanity shall be spared under stress of war.

"Artists, men of letters and other prominent men and women of the world, who sympathize with the main ideas laid down in the telegram are asked to telegraph the German emperor as follows:

"'I entirely agree with the telegram of the friends of civilization.'"

"GERMAN SAVAGERY IS UNBELIEVABLE"

Head of Belgian Mission Makes Charges of Cruelty.

London, Sept. 2.—"King Albert bade us tell all the world that Belgium is not crushed and never will be crushed. Such a spirit as we have never can be downed. We will fight on and on, and success finally will crown the efforts of the allies."

Such was the message that Caerton de Wiart, the Belgian minister of justice, head of the Belgian mission, delivered to the representatives of the press following the visit of the mission to King George and Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister.

M. de Wiart reviewed the charges against Germany in detail, laying great stress on the fact that the Germans had violated the neutrality of Belgium in entering that country, and recited alleged specific outrages on the part of the Germans, giving dates and places and the names of persons said to have been killed.

Statement as to Louvain.

"I have a statement," said M. de Wiart, "from a reliable man who visited Louvain Aug. 30, which says that the Germans were still burning buildings that day, and scattering straw so that every house standing would be destroyed. Drunken German soldiers were reeling through the streets with bottles of wine, and officers were drinking at tables set in the streets.

"Louvain looks like a second Pompeii. Only the town hall and the city station are left standing. The cathedral and the theater have collapsed, as has also the library, with its rare old manuscripts. The university, which had 2,500 students, is a total ruin.

"Aerschot, with 8,000 inhabitants, and Diest and many other unfortified villages suffered the same fate as Louvain. At Diest a mother and her daughter of 12 were shot to death, a young man was bound to a tree and burned alive and two men were buried alive with their heads downward.

"The savagery of the Germans is unbelievable."

VIENNA REPORTS RUSSIAN DEFEATS

Message to Ambassador Is Given Out at New York.

New York, Sept. 2.—Dr. K. T. Dumba, the ambassador from Austria-Hungary to the United States, who at present is at Manchester, N. H., received yesterday from the war office at Vienna a report of the movements of the troops of his country against Russia. The report was made public by James Winter, the Austrian-Hungarian consul general here, as follows:

"Mobilization in Austria-Hungary was accomplished most successfully, and with great enthusiasm among the troops. All races and all parties in the kingdom rallied to the colors in high spirits of patriotism and good will. Two army corps, one of them the famous Innesbrucks of the Tyrol, were sent through Munich by way of Lake Constance to Alsace to aid the forces operating at Muelhausen, in Alsace-Lorraine.

"Germany sent two corps from Saxony and Bavaria to the Galician border, where they are operating with the forces of Austria-Hungary under the Archduke Friederich, and claim a succession of victories.

Repulsed the Russians.

"The Russians attempted to pierce the province of Bukowina but were repulsed with heavy losses.

"In Russian Poland, the Bavarian and Saxon corps took the offensive and won a great victory over five Russian corps in a three-days battle which raged over a front of forty miles.

"The German troops drove the Russians to Lublin and now are advancing toward Lublin.

"The Austrian and German armies are establishing lines as they go along.

"The defenses behind Lemberg at Krakow and Prizemysl, which are the first line of the German and Austrian defenses, are in strongly fortified towns. The Poles and Slavs of the Austrian regular troops are going into the Schizl and have brought great losses to the Cossacks."

Dr. Winter said that the telegram did away with the supposition that the Russian troous were sweeping onward Berlin in overwhelming forces and without cessation or check.

BELGIANS TORTURED, SAYS MRS. HARJES

Boys' Hands Cut Off to Prevent Service in Army.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Herman H. Harjes, wife of the Paris banker, who with other American women has been deeply interested in relief work, yesterday visited the north railroad station and was shocked by the sights she saw among the Belgian refugees.

"The station," said Mrs. Harjes, "presented the aspect of a shambles. It was the saddest sight I ever saw. It is impossible to believe the tortures and the criminalities the poor unforunates have undergone.

"I saw many boys with both their hands cut off so that it was impossible for them to carry a gun. Everywhere was filth and utter desolation. The helpless little babies, lying on the cold, wet cement floor and crying for proper nourishment, were enough to bring hot tears to any mother's eyes.

Story of Mother of Twelve.

"Mothers were vainly besieging the authorities, begging for milk or soup. A mother with twelve children said 'What is to become of us; it seems impossible to suffer more. I saw my husband bound to a lamp post. He was gagged and bound, tortured with bayonets. When I tried to intercede in his behalf, I was knocked senseless with a rifle. I never saw him again.'

"The work which the Red Cross is doing is excellent, but unfortunately it has not sufficient members to cope with the situation. Also its equipment is poor. I saw babies being bathed in dish pans in cold water, no hot water being available. With the help of a policeman, I took as much coffee and bread and provisions as an automobile would hold into the station, and was greeted as a fairy godmother."

TWELFTH GERMAN DEATH LIST GIVEN

Koenigsberg, Coblenz, Rostock and Wismer Men Killed.

London, Sept. 2.—A dispatch to the Evening News from Copenhagen says that the twelfth German casualty list in East Prussia gives the losses of the Forty-third infantry, from Koenigsberg, as about 800. The other regiments engaged, notably the Sixty-fifth Landwehr from Coblenz and the Fusiliers from Rostock and Wismer, lost several hundred men each.

ENGLISH EARL'S SON DIES OF HIS WOUNDS.

London, Sept. 2.—"According to information reaching here," says a dispatch to the Central News from Malta, "Herr von Beitzow, the German consul in Tripoli, has been removed to Italy under arrest, charged with having carried on anti-Italian propaganda among the natives. The Italian authorities have lodged a protest with the German foreign office."

BRUSSELS GIVEN MESSAGE OF HOPE.

London, Sept. 2.—The Antwerp correspondent of an Amsterdam newspaper says that a French biplane appeared over Brussels Saturday, and in a hail of German bullets, twice circled the town, dropping hundreds of pamphlets containing the message "Take courage, deliverance soon."

The aviator then made off after giving the spectators a daring performance of the loop-the-loop.

The Germans have ordered a Brussels firm to make a German flag which they intend to hoist over the Eiffel tower in Paris.

PARISIANS IGNORE GERMAN AEROPLANES.

Paris, Sept. 2, 12:50 a. m.—The operations of the German aeroplanes over Paris have been watched with equanimity by the people. The first day the operations caused some nervousness among the women; the second day it was already an old story, and the third day, they provoked for the most part sarcastic remarks on the inefficiency of the German marksmanship.

A German monoplane dropped a bomb at the Rue Michodiere, and the Rue Quatre Sembre, near the Credit Lyonnaise, yesterday afternoon. A gun mounted on the bank fired four shells at the aeroplane and two English infantrymen fired their rifles repeatedly. Another bomb was dropped near St. Lazare station. Neither bomb did any damage.

PENSIONS FOR ALL EMPLOYES

New Plan Will Be Put Before the City Council.

After a general discussion of old age pensions the fifty city employes of the various city departments who met with the Merritt Utilities association at the council chambers last evening, decided upon a plan which will be submitted to the city council for its approval.

Under the system outlined all city employes not now on a pension basis, being the firemen and policemen, will be eligible. The age of retirement is 60 years, after twenty-five years of service. The pension is fixed at one-half of the average salary for the last ten years of service, and the amount to be paid to be equivalent to 1 per cent of the salary received, the city to furnish the balance. The maximum pension is placed at $600 a year, to be paid in monthly installments. Those leaving before they can receive pensions will be permitted to withdraw the amount of their payments and in case of death before the end of twenty-five years or before the age limit is reached, the amount of their payments will be turned over to the estate.

The handling of the pension fund will be in the hands of a board of five members to be appointed by the city council, each appointed for a term of five years in such a manner that the term of one member shall expire each year.

NEW RECRUITING CHIEF A VETERAN

Served Fourteen Years in the United States Navy.

Peter Coyle, chief water tender of the United States navy, who arrived yesterday to take charge of the local recruiting station, has served under Uncle Sam for fourteen years and is also a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

Mr. Coyle was recently appointed to his first service on land and he came here yesterday from the Minneapolis station, where he served two months. He expects to be here about two years, Chief Quartermaster Erickson, who has been in charge of the local station since 1912, will leave the latter part of next week for Minneapolis.

Mr. Coyle was accompanied by Mrs. Coyle and they are now arranging to move their household goods to Duluth.

FIRE STARTS FROM GAS.

Residence of John Marsh Is Slightly Damaged.

Workmen installing a meter at the home of John Marsh, 211 Third avenue west, late yesterday afternoon set fire to some gas that filled the flooring between the first and second floors and caused a damage to the structure amounting to about $100.

The fire started in the ceiling of the second floor about 5 o'clock and soon spread to the length of the building. One of the workmen telephoned fire headquarters and the firemen soon had the blaze under control, although the flames damaged the ceiling and walls.

The loss to the contents is very slight.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR HILLSIDE

New Club Will Consider Plans to Better Community.

The newly organized Hillside Commercial club will hold its regular meeting tomorrow evening at Gonska's hall, Fifth avenue east and Fourth street.

Several improvements needed by that section of the city will come up for consideration. Among them will be the opening of the Farrell road, which furnishes an easy grade to the country back of the hill; the installation of a "white way" on East Fourth street, between Fourth and Sixth avenues; the services of a trfafic policeman at Fifth avenue east and Fourth sereet during busy hours, and the installation of a drinking fountain at the same corner.

ENGLISH STEAMER IS CARRYING GUNS.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—Dr. Arthur Mudra, German consul at Philadelphia, officially called the attention of William H. Berry, collector of customs at this port, to the fact that the American line steamship Merion, which flies the British flag and which arrived here yesterday from Liverpool and Queenstown, had four six-inch guns mounted on her decks. The German consul said he had made no protest to the collector, but expected to consider the question of the Merion clearing from here with mounted guns under the neutrality proclamation.

Collector Berry has referred the question to Washington. The captain of the Merion said the guns on his ship were for protective purposes only.

The Merion brought 448 passengers from England and expects to sail for Liverpool in a few days.

The White Man's Burden

People are finding out that a lot of the troubles that go to make up life's burden are caused by

Coffee Drinking

Coffee contains a drug, caffeine—about 2½ grains to the cup. It not only stands to reason, but has been demonstrated scientifically and in practical experience, that this steady drugging is a foe to health and comfort.

A great army of people have found freedom from coffee burdens, by changing to

POSTUM

—a delicious pure food-drink, made from whole wheat and a bit of molasses. No caffeine, no drug, no harmful ingredient.

Even children drink Postum freely with benefit; they can't do that with coffee.

Postum comes in two forms:

Instant Postum, a soluble form, made in the cup instantly, 30c and 50c tins.

Grocers everywhere sell both kinds and the cost per cup is about the same.

"There's a Reason" for Postum

FIFTY SUITS FOR DIVORCE

Judges Will Be Busy Correcting Matrimonial Blunders.

Two Breach of Promise Suits and One Annulment Case Up.

District court judges will be kept busy during the next few days correcting the mistakes of the little blind ged. The divorce mill has started on its periodical grind and not less than fifty cases are slated for trial on the calendar of the September term of court, which opened this morning. Fourteen out of the fifty suits for separation are contested actions and will be taken up by the court after the default cases have been disposed of.

About five or six cases will be tried this afternoon. The bulk of the divorce grist, however, will be disposed of tomorrow and Friday, when the four local judges will probably spend the entire day listening to tales of bitter matrimonial experiences. In addition to the large grist of divorce cases the court will also hear two breach of promise suits and one action for an annulment of marriage.

Breach of Promise Trial.

The $160,000 breach of promise suit which has been filed against Dwight Gilbert Cutler of this city by Adelaide Rees of San Francisco, is at issue at this term of court. The case will be tried by a jury. The other breach of promise suit is the one brought by Hattie Cohen, who wants $1,000 from Joe Gertner, as balm for Gertner's refusal to carry out an alleged promise to marry her.

The suit for marriage annulment is brought by Helen Lindsey Sullivan, who alleges that after she married John Walter Sullivan of Minneapolis, it developed that he already had another wife living.

BIG BUDGET FOR WORKS

Commissioner Murchison Asks $237,450 for 1915 Improvements.

The public works fund will require $237,450.17 during 1915 and the permanent improvement fund should have $117,645 for storm sewers, according to the estimate forwarded by Roderick Murchison, public works commissioner, to Fred J. Voss, finance commissioner, this morning.

Commissioner Murchison stated that the estimate covers the work which adequate maintenance would require but is not set forth with any expectation of drawing a larger allowance but merely that the difference between the amount needed and the amount available can be more clearly understood. The estimate for this year was $166,000 and the amount allowed was $150,000. It is improbable that a much greater sum will be available for 1915.

May Have to Levy.

Relative to the storm sewers Commissioner Voss said that it was out of the question to allow anywhere near the estimate. He stated that there was great need for storm sewers in various parts of the city and that the necessity convinced him that the city would have to go back to the old plan of assessing the cost of them against the property benefited. He asserts that the limitations placed upon the levy by the charter makes it impossible for the city to pay for them.

The estimate of the works division was gotten out in considerable detail by Commissioner Murchison and C. G. Butler, secretary. It includes a long list of graded and macadam streets which need repairs, the estimated cost of which would be $89,908.25.

Expense Is Increased.

That for concrete and plank walks is $13,601.28, and that for repairing and cleaning sewers is $9,908.25. The statement comments that sewer maintenance will be heavier next year because of the addition of ten miles of pipe being laid this year and the expense of electric current and an inspector for the Park Point sewer. The estimate for repairing bridges and docks is $8,857 and that for cleaning is $45,000. The latter includes ditches, gutters and culverts, $12,000; removing snow and ice, $12,000; pavements, $20,000 and cutting thistles and weeds in streets and alleys, $1,000. Office salaries, supplies, maintenance, superintendence and general inspection is placed at $12,400.

The machinery estimate is $10,250. The items listed are a motor flusher at $4,500, an auto truck at $4,000, twelve patrol carts at $150, a steam boiler at $600, two rotary sweepers at $600 and a large grader at $500. Mention is made of the fact that if the making of street improvements is extended next year considerable equipment will be needed, but that can be considered in connection with the paving program.

Salary Big Item.

The estimate for the engineering department is $31,750, of which $29,000 is for salaries. Transportation is listed at $1,250, laboratory work at $300, supplies at $900 and a motorcycle at $300.

The estimate for repairing pavements is $12,153, divided as follows: sandstone, $3,900; brick, $1,869; asphalt, $1,407; tar macadam, $4,926, and creosote block, $51. In the storm sewer estimate the biggest single item is $25,000 for Mission creek at Fond du Lac, the overflowing of which has resulting in a number of damage suits against the city. The amount needed for storm sewers incident to street improvements is figured at $30,000.

PROGRAM FOR LABOR DAY

Thousands Expected to Attend Monster Picnic at Park.

McEwen Will Speak; Big Athletic Program in Making.

There will be something doing every minute on Labor day, and the occasion promises to be one long remembered by Duluth labor men. The program is now being completed, and events of various kinds will be in progress from morning until late at night.

The elimination of a parade this year has given place for numerous other events, which are expected to be participated in or witnessed by virtually every person within labor circles. The fact that all business will be laid aside, including the closing of all stores and public offices, indicates that employes in all lines of business will be on hand to take a hand in the celebration.

The big event of the day will be a monster picnic at Fairmont park at which several thousand of the labor men and their families will attend. This will begin in the forenoon and, with other events, will continue until late at night. The Third Regiment band will make the occasion merry, and dancing will take place at the pavilion during the afternoon and evening.

The chief speech of the day will be given by William E. McEwen, postmaster of Duluth and former secretary of the Minnesota Federation of Labor. Mr. McEwen had not yet selected his subject today, but owing to his long experience in labor work, he will undoubtedly speak on some form of unionism.

The athletic program will be an elaborate one, and Mr. McEwen is now working out the details for the sporting events. A big ball game is scheduled to be played, and a tug of war, fat men's races, and events for all of the picnickers will be provided for.

HOUSEWIVES PARTICULAR

Are Watching Scorings of Dairies Made By Milk Inspector.

Housewives are becoming more and more particular about their milk supply, watching the scores of their dairymen and making frequent inquiries about them, according to the monthly report of Milk Inspector Gust Hedman, submitted this morning to Dr. H. E. Webster, director of public health.

This month the inspector states that the third quarterly scoring will be made. Judging from the visits which he has been making, he expects that the marks will be high. Improvements are being continued, and next month he expects that a new barn and a new milk house will be in commission. When the weather gets cooler the tuberculin tests of the herds will be started again.

Some of the restaurants and stores are again falling down in their milk standards, due to the fact that part of them skim their milk or fail to keep it stirred up, according to the inspector. Of the 151 samples tested in August, twenty were below the requirement for butterfat. Three of them were from dairymen, one of whom was arrested and fined, having failed to heed several warnings. The others were from stores and restaurants. Inspector Hedman recommends that future violations of the law result in the arrest of the offenders, as they have had ample warning.

The average butterfat for the month was 4 per cent, or .5 per cent above the requirement. The average bacteria count was 46,773, as compared with 200,000 for August a year ago.

In his report for August, Meat Inspector Leo Bernhardt states that there is only one meat market in the city which is without clean towels. He asserts that the proprietor says he can't afford it and that he claims the cheese cloth taken from veal is good enough. During the month he inspected 475 veal carcasses, of which 11 were condemned. He also condemned 330 pounds of sausage, 70 pounds of fish and 2½ pounds of poultry.

Inspector Joseph Pratts reported that bakeries, lodging houses, restaurants and other places under the supervision of the health department are making needed improvements. He made a large number of inspections.

LAYS CRIME TO LIQUOR

Former St. Louis Hotel Barber Admits He Forged Checks.

Wife of Prisoner Substantiates Statement of Husband.

Jerome E. Warren, 44 years old, who was employed as a barber in the St. Louis hotel shop, is being held for the grand jury on a charge of having forged four checks and passed them on Duluth merchants. He admitted his guilt to Chief Troyer last evening and he waived examination when arraigned before Judge Windom this morning.

Admits His Guilt.

Warren declares drink was the cause. He claims that he came to Duluth about a week ago with Mrs. Warren and that since his arrival here he has been drinking steadily. He did not realize what he was doing, he explained to Chief Troyer, and his statements were substantiated by Mrs. Warren.

The arrest of Warren yesterday afternoon ended a chase that started early in the morning. Zimmerman Brothers, local photo dealers, and the A. B. Siewert company, haberdashers, reported to the police that they had cashed checks signed by Warren on the Canadian Bank of Commerce of Winnipeg and that they learned he had no account in the Canadian bank.

Police Start Chase.

The police believed that Warren was a clever swindler and that he was working his game for a day or two in Duluth. Chief Troyer immediately sent out every plain clothes officer in search of the man, descriptions having been furnished the police by E. W. Bjork, clerk for Zimmerman Brothers, and Mr. Siewert.

Late in the afternoon Warren was pointed out to Patrolman George Wood and the arrest followed. Warren had a companion with him, but the latter was later released by the police. Warren admitted his guilt when questioned by Chief Troyer.

According to Mr. Bjork, clerk for Zimmerman Brothers, he sold Warren a $186 camera on Monday afternoon and accepted a check for $136.50. Warren claimed that he was from Winnipeg and that he had an account in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which he was planning to place in a local institution. Mr. Siewert accepted two checks from Warren in payment for some clothes, while J. D. Siegel, a pawn broker, accepted Warren's check for $20 as security for a $5 loan. A fifth check for $14.16 payable to the Glass Block was found in Warren's coat after his arrest. The checks are being held by the police.

Warren came from Winnipeg about a week ago, having lived there about a year, according to his story to Chief Troyer. He also lived at International Falls, he said.

MRS. McALPINE SUED.

Defendant in Suit Requiring Payment of Two Promissory Notes.

Mrs. John McAlpine was today made defendant in an action brought by Elizabeth J. Welch, as executrix of the estate of Victor J. Welch, her husband, to recover $1,022.66, claimed to be due on two promissory notes, each for $500, given Aug. 20, 1909, and now past due.

Mrs. Welch alleges that Mrs. McAlpine executed the notes payable to her own order at the First National bank of this city, indorsed them and delivered them to one George H. Anglin, who discounted them at a Minneapolis bank and sold the notes to Victor H. Welch. Later, when the notes became due, the Security National bank of Minneapolis sued Mrs. McAlpine, Anglin and Welch. The plaintiff alleges that her husband settled the suit by paying the note. She now asks that Mrs. McAlpine make good the amount.

SECOND VALVE COMPLETE.

The second valve of the duplicate force main laid this year connecting with the big main leading from the Lakewood pumping station to the city, has been completed by the water and light department engineers. The section is about 1,600 feet long and within a short time can be put into commission should it be needed. It cost about $20,000.

A section will be laid each year until the entire main has been duplicated, insuring against accident cutting off the water supply of the city. About eighteen hours were required to place the second valve, during which time the city got its water from the reservoirs.

SUPERIOR STREET MAY BE WIDENED

The city commission went to Lakeside this morning to look over the proposal of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad to decidate a fifteen or twenty-foot strip of their right-of-way for the widening of East Superior street, between Forty-fourth and Fifty-second avenues in return for the closing of several street crossings between those points.

Mayor Prince stated that the widening of Superior street is highly desirable as it is now much too narrow. The mayor as well as other members of the council said that they expect objection to the closing of at least some of the crossings as it would cause some of the residents below the tracks to walk farther to get street cars. It was also pointed out that the district below the tracks will be more thickly settled and would cause more people inconvenience than at present.

The offer of the Iron Range has been before the commissioners informally for some time, but no definite proposition has been officially submitted. The commissioners say that probably in no other way could Superior street be widened so advantageously. While they were not prepared to commit themselves on the project they declared that they would give it very serious consideration.

TAYLOR FOR REGULATION

North Dakota Insurance Commissioner Would Control Insurance Rates.

Favors Having State Actuary and Regulation of All Insurance.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota will have a state actuary, fire insurance will be regulated, and state hail insurance will be made compulsory, if the recommendations of Insurance Commissioner Taylor in his annual report now being printed are adopted by the legislature.

The question of the regulation of rates has been agitated for some years. The commissioner states that he does not believe the state should enter upon the taskw of actually making the rates, but believes it has the same authority of regulation that state and interstate railroad commissions possess regarding railway rates. He believes this work should be done either through the state insurance department or through a board of a commission operating in that connection.

For years the insurance men have demanded a state actuary. There are ample funds for the payment of this official and the commissioner heartily recommends that the governor and the legislature make provisions for the selection of a man for that work.

Big Gain in Business.

The business of the insurance commissioner's office has increased 152 per cent in the past decade. At that time the receipts were about $65,000. They are now about $165,000.

Regarding the hail insurance problem, the commissioner insists that it will not be a success under the present law and believes that compulsory hail insurance will be the most effective way. North Dakota is the only state in the union that has a state hail insurance department. The plan has not been a success. The first year 70 per cent of the losses were paid, the second only 55 per cent and last year 88. This year, because of the heavy August losses, the best that can be done will be 70 to 80 per cent. The law makes no provisions for soliciting new business, as a result the volume of business, being purely voluntary, is small. The insurance is local and not well distributed and where there are losses in insured communities the damage is heavy.

Many other recommendations are embodied in Commisioner Taylor's report.

ACCUSER OF TWO ALLEGED BRIBER

East Grand Forks Complainant Fails to Establish Robbery Charge.

East Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pat Manahan and J. L. La Duke, accused by Joe Gebhart of robbery, were freed in the municipal court yesterday, as Gebhart failed to produce the necessary evidence. Now, Gebhart faces a charge of soliciting a bribe, it being charged that after he swore out the warrants against the two men, he offered to accept $10 from one of the men and withdraw the charge. Gebhart, previous to his present difficulty, had been himself arrested for robbery, but the action was abandoned.

HIGHWAYMAN TAKES POKER PARTY'S COIN.

Courtenay, N. D., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A poker game in a box car on the Soo track was rudely broken up when a hold-up man took all the winnings. The participants were hoboes and had been closely engaged in the game with numerous spectators. A masked man entered the car, forced the men to hold up their hands and face the wall. He secured about $70 and some watches.

LIGHTNING PLAYS ABOUT CUMBERLAND

Barn Near Wisconsin Town Destroyed; City Hall Belfry Struck.

Cumberland, Wis., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—During a severe electrical storm which prevailed here yesterday afternoon lightning struck the large barn of George W. Hatch, eight miles north of this city, setting fire to the structure and consuming the barn and twenty tons of hay. A threshing crew of six men and a team of horses had taken refuge in the barn and all were knocked to the barn floor and stunned, but the men revived in time to escape the flames and get the horses out of the burning building.

Strikes Burning Building.

While the barn was burning, lightning struck the building twice in succession, but the men got out of the building before the second and third bolt hit.

Lightning also hit the belfry of the city hall, tearing a hole in the structure, while the same bolt struck and totally smashed the tongue of a wagon hitched in the street, but the horses were uninjured.

DUCK SHOOTER FINED.

Arrested By Telegraph Operator and Rescued, Then Rearrested.

Oriska, N. D., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because he was rescued by his friends, Joe Eder did not long escape punishment for a violation of the game laws. The Northern Pacific operator at Brackett, a siding, saw Eder shooting ducks. He placed him under arrest and confiscated his gun and the game he had killed. Members of a threshing crew to which Eder belonged rescued Eder and compelled the operator to restore the gun. A local game warden went to Valley City and made complaint and Eder was arrested and his sport cost him $25. Members of the threshing crew may be arrested for their rescue work.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

North Dakota State Superintendent Urges Changes in Law.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Radical changes in the methods of selecting the state and county superintendents of schools are recommended by N. C. Macdonald, state superintendent of consolidated, rural and graded schools. The last legislature took these offices out of politics and made them non-partisan. Mr. Macdonald would go still further and instead of electing them he would have them selected by boards of education on the theory that the members of these boards would be better able to decide the qualifications of the office-holders.

Mr. Macdonald also calls attention to the poor attendance in the rural schools and insists that is the most serious phase that confronts the rural educational work. His investigations show that only 10 per cent of the rural school pupils that start in the first grades ever reach the eighth. Of the boys only 7 per cent reach that far. He would have more drastic compulsory school attendance regulations.

Nine Months Rural School.

He would also compel all schools receiving state aid to have terms of nine months.

His report indicates a growth of 131 consolidated schools during the last two years and 83 during the past year, making a total now of 273, of which 103 are open country consolidated schools and 170 are town consolidated.

He makes a number of important selections regarding changes in the state laws regarding rural schools. He would have all teachers either graduates of normals or of equivalent training. He also wants the powers of the state board of education increased and its scope broadened with less red tape in its organization so its work can be simplified.

CHIPPEWA INDIANS ARE HAVING FAIR

Displaying Products of Soil Thirty Miles North of Bemidji.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chippewa Indians on their reservation, thirty miles north of here, will entertain their pale face brothers next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at a fair and athletic meet, grains, grasses, vegetables and fruits all grown by the Indians being on display for prizes amounting to $300, put up by the government.

Big Corn Display.

One of the agricultural triumphs of the Indians that will be of special interest is a big display of corn. For 100 years the Chippewas had been planting their maize which grew to a stubby growth and with small ears. This year they show corn grown from Minnesota No. 13 seed and some fine results have been obtained.

Another elaborate display will be a large collection of watermelons and canteloupe

The Red Lake Indian band, made up of Chippewa farm students, came to Bemidji today and paraded about the streets carrying banners advertising the fair.

The program of sports to be participated in by Indians only provides for a tug-of-war each day of the fair, ball games and on the last day a sensational game of lacrosse is promised.

Just Between You and Me

By BRUCE

HOW time fugits—oh my, yes. From the humiliating point of the aeroplane flight of the good ship, White Sox, June 9 to the present pinnacle of the pennant race, it seems in passing review but a few days. The rise of the Sox from the companionship of Fort William to the point where the race has been fought out day by day with the Peggers, has been one of the grandest exhibitions in baseball.

John Paul Jones—not the Cornell one—uttered immortal words in a certain sea engagement that have been made much of by space writers. Before boarding the train for Fort William Darby O'Brien also told his men not to abandon the ship. From this point to the brief breeze to the end of the season, it appears that the Peggers have all the best of the going; but win or lose, the bright and shining fact remains that our team has gone out and made a great fight for the league honors.

Back to the wheat fields went Handsome Clarence Grina, and with the hegira of Clarence vanished some of the pennant chances of the shrieking Sox. Clarence is a callow youth with large and sinewy hands and the ability to pitch classy baseball. You can't project willing heavers into successive doubleheaders and dodge the reaction of strained arms.

Ezell and Cunningham have been called upon to bear the brunt of the pitching strain of the last few days. There may be a doubleheader staged in the present series with Fort William. Then the members of the team make the rattled-banged journey back to the American Head of the Lakes and plunge into the final series of the season.

We for one have not by seven black cats of Bagdad bidden goodby to fond and beautiful hope; on the other hand we are not framing any gilt-edged alibis for the team; the truth of the matter is that the Sox are up against a hard game, and should the O'Brien machine come through with the flag all the credit is due to the members of the team.

• • •

Some Comfort in This.

SHOULD the Giants fail to win the flag in the league presided over by John Tener there will be some lurking consolation in the fact that it will not be necessary to face the canister fire from the bats of the Mackmen.

• • •

The Glorious Era.

IF some of the athletes now engaged in the hell fire of war escape unscathed there will arise in the somewhat vague future one of the grandest carnivals of international athletic contests in the history of sport.

There are fighters, automobile racers, wrestlers, cricket players, tennis stars, trackmen and athletes of all forms and descriptions within the ranks of the contending armies. With the resumption of international contests the appearance of some man who has served through the campaign cannot but fail to add interest to the sport and attract large crowds to the contest.

Georges Carpentier will be the greatest hero in the history of the boxing sport and the greatest drawing card in the long history of fistiana. Zbyszko, Raoul de Rouen and others of the foreign wrestlers will have added the prestige of military service to their athletic records. English track stars will be spoken of in connection with their prowess as athletes as soldiers of heroic distinction.

The present war is going to prevent all international athletic competition. Lord Roberts of England has publicly shamed the athletes of England into joining the colors. Athletes in all countries engaged in the strife have hastened to join in the tragic rush to arms. But after the dove of peace has alighted on the scene of carnage and destruction, when the fearful present has been added to the history of centuries, there will be a golden era of athletic endeavor such as has never been witnessed in the sport of the nations.

This war is not only making history, it is also making us all more intimately acquainted with Europe and its peoples. In a more eager and in a more intimate manner will the people of the United States appreciate the international athletic contests of the future.

Gossip From Eau Claire.

In large and lurid letters a circular from Eau Claire announces that a log rolling contest will be staged on Labor day for the championship of the world. Genial Bill Hart, one of the members of the Wisconsin boxing commission, is promoting the show. From boxing to log rolling is a rather startling athletic hiatus, but Bill is a peculiar sort of genius who can span the chasm with smiling aplomb and unruffled countenance.

You are welcome, William.

Should the Sox Lose.

In the calamitous event of the White Sox losing the pennant, the post season series with the Winnipeg Maroons will be in the revengeful nature of the French fighting for the recapture of Alsace-Lorraine. If we can't win the pennant it will be up to the members of the fighting Dooks brigade to go in and beat the everlasting stuffing out of the Peggers.

SETTLING IN FIRST PLACE

Dooks Have More Comfortable Lead in Chase for Flag.

Virginia's Victory Gives the Sox an Edge on Winnipeg.

The Dooks now have a more comfortable bulge on Winnipeg in the pennant race and if the Duluth boys keep up the pace and have ordinary good luck it looks as if the Northern league flag will ride at the top of the pole at Athletic park all next season.

The Dooks are a game and a half ahead of the Peggers as a result of yesterday's games and if they can keep the tail enders where they belong in the present series they probably will stay at the top. Winnipeg has a series on with Virginia and the way the Ore Diggers outhit the Canadian boys yesterday looks good to Duluth fans.

Darby is pushing his boys to the limit as he wants that pennant this year. Darby probably figures that the best way to boost Darby day is to come home with the flag in sight and that is just what he is out to do. It will be a merry race for the rest of the season but the Dooks now have the better of it as it stands.

Next Saturday will be "Darby" day at Athletic park and besides the ball game will be a field meet. The ball players will give exhibitions of base running and hitting and the general public is invited to participate in the other events, such as sack racing and the regulation picnic stunts.

Darby O'Brien will show how gracefully he can receive the ovation of the Duluth fans, who are expected to turn out in numbers to show their appreciation of the Duluth leader. With the Dooks at the top of the ladder it looks as if the fans will be there with the big voice.

The health department reports a great epidemic of sickness among the grandmothers of Duluth and about Friday or Saturday hundreds of deaths are expected to be reported.

FAST TIME FEATURES.

Three Good Harness Races at New York State Fair.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Fast time marked the efforts of eleven horses participating in these races constituting yesterday's Grand Circuit program at the New York state fair.

With three starters, the free-for-all trotting sweepstakes was easily the feature. Anvil won both heats, with Peter Scott, driven by Walter Cox, second, and Dudie Archdale, with Frank G. Jones driving, third.

Geers won a second victory when with Etawah he took the Governor's 2:06 trot, almost without an effort.

Harry the Ghost took the first two heats of the 2:05 pace after coming from the rear at the head of the stretch. In the third heat, however, he failed to last the distance, Del Rey, who had led much of the way up the back stretch, winning handily. Del Rey also won the remaining two heats and the race.

Today's program includes two of the year's greatest classics, the Empire $10,000 stake for 2:15 trotters, and the Syracuse $5,000 stake for 2:11 pacers. The entire card is worth $19,500.

Play Halted By Rain.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 2.—Play in the second round of the mixed doubles in the Missouri valley championship tennis tournament was stopped by rain here late yesterday. In the second round of the singles, Miss Marion Soule, a local school girl, had little difficulty in defeating Mrs. D. B. Foster, Kansas City, holder of the Iowa state championship 6-2, 7-5. Miss Alice M. Prendergast, St. Louis, won her match from Miss Ellen Peters, Kansas City, by default.

Fort William, Ont., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Canucks got only one little hit in the game with Duluth here yesterday. The Dooks won 2 to 0. The game was called in the sixth inning on account of rain. Blancke's slants were too much for the Canadians and they could not connect. Lizette was the only one who got a hit. He got as far as third base and then died there. Duluth made one of its runs in the fourth when Collins and Wise booted a couple. In the fifth Sweeley singled and, with two out, Brackett connected for a three-bagger, scoring Sweeley. Score:

Batteries—Scott and Schalk; Ayres, Harper, Shaw and Williams. Umpires—Chill and Connolly.

Cleaning 'Em Up.

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—Philadelphia closed a very successful home stand by winning yesterday's game from Cleveland, thereby making the third successive clean sweep of a series with the Naps, with an extra game thrown in when the latter dropped off here for a contest two weeks ago. The home team knocked Steen off the rubber in the fourth inning and Blanding met a similar fate in the seventh inning. O'Neill had a finger split by a foul tip in the fifth and was forced to leave the game. While at home Philadelphia won sixteen games and lost four, giving them 39 victories out of the last 45 contests. Score:

FRATERNAL LEAGUE IN GOOD CONDITION

The board of directors of the Fraternal Baseball association met last night to talk over plans of the league for the rest of the season. The Naval Reserves presented a petition for a franchise in the league for next year. The league is in good condition, although there has not been much support from the fans. The fact that there is no park close in to the center of the city is blamed for the small attendance at the games but the directors expect there will be better support next year.

The Eagles led the league, having won seven games out of seven played. The Samaritans bring up the rear, having won but one game out of nine played.

Sunday, Sept. 6, Desmond park, M. B. A. versus Samaritans, No. 3, at 10 a. m.; Owls versus Elks, double-header, first game starting at 2 p. m.; Monday, Sept. 7, Desmond park, Eagles versus Samaritans, No. 1, at 2 p. m.; Eagles versus M. B. A., at 4 p. m.

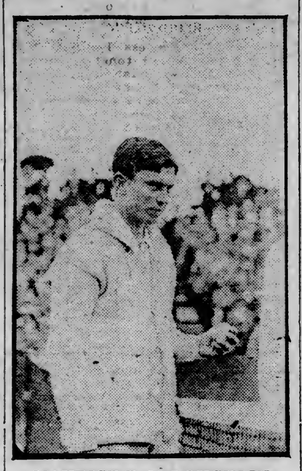

Standing of the clubs:

Eagles	7	0	1.000
Owls	4	2	.667
Samaritans, No. 1	5	3	.625

EAST GRAND FORKS PLANS STRONG ELEVEN

East Grand Forks, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local high school promises to have a strong football combination this fall, the first practice being held yesterday, when sixteen men reported. A. T. Goddard is in charge of the team this year, as coach, and he is being assisted by Wallace Holley and Frank Mayer, in handling the preliminaries.

TENNIS MARVEL LOSES HIS CROWN

MAURICE E. McLOUGHLIN.

The red-headed California, who has been national tennis champion for two years, and recently defeated the brilliant Wilding, the Australian, yesterday surrendered his title to R. Morris Williams II. of Philadelphia. Williams is only 22 years of age, and picked up his tennis skill in Switzerland, after a miraculous escape from the ill-fated liner, Titanic. His victory of yesterday, while well-earned, carries little glorry with it, for it is recognized that McLoughlin was "off his game" to quote the victor, who evidently was more surprised than anybody else at the turn of affairs.

CHICK EVANS IS OUT OF IT

Western Golf Champion Eliminated in National Tourney.

Manchester, Vt., Sept. 2.—The first of the favorites for the national amateur golf title, was eliminated in the first round of match play here yesterday afternoon when Charles Evans of Edgewater, Western champion and prominent figure in the Western championship was eliminated by Eben Byers of the Allegheny Country club, Pittsburg, national champion in 1906 and runner-up in 1902 and 1903, by a score of one up.

Byers won largely because of his ability to play approach shots dead. At the turn he was in the lead two up but Evans pulled up even on the twelfth when Byers missed a short putt. Once more the Pittsburg man went into the lead when he took a three at the fifteenth hole against four by Evans. At the seventeenth hole Byers got into difficulties and the figures here were only approximated when he picked up his ball, conceding the hole to Evans.

The match was settled on the eighteenth hole, where Evans topped his drive and failed to reach the fairway. His attempt to play short of the ditch with his iron failed, and although he made a pretty play out, Byers took the hole and the match.

Jerome Travers, the title-holder was carried to the seventeenth hole before he could win from J. B. Schlottmann of Detroit. The champion was in good form, going out in 36 and taking 32 for the eight holes coming in when he won 2 up and 1 to play.

Travers will meet Byers today in what is expected to be the feature match of the tournament.

Francis Ouimet had to play the full round to dispose of J. R. Jarston of Baltusrol. Ouimet went around in 74, taking a 2 for the thirteenth hole, while his opponent made the course in 75. Old records for the national amateur golf championships were broken when the qualifying rounds were finished. Ray Gorton Braeburn, and R. C. Fownes, Jr., of Oakmont, substituted new figures for a 36-hole qualifying total with 144 strokes apiece. The best previous record was 146 by Walter Travers in 1907.

DOG FIELD TRIALS AT GRAND FORKS.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.))—The annual field trials of the Grand Forks Kennel club will be run next Friday. Dog fanciers of Grand Forks, Crookston and other cities in this section, will have entries.

May Play If They Desire.

New York, Sept. 2.—David L. Fultz, president of the Baseball Players' fraternity, issued a statement last night denying reports that an order had been issued prohibiting fraternity members from playing a post-season series with the Philadelphia Athletics. Members are at liberty to take their own course in matters such as this, he said.

TWO TENNIS TOURNAMENTS IN PROGRESS IN DULUTH

Head of Lakes Tourney Being Played at Oatka.

Only a few matches were disposed of yesterday in the Head of the Lakes tennis tournament being played at the Oatka courts, but those that were played proved exciting and close. The final match of the women's singles was won yesterday by Miss Amelia Andrews, who defeated Miss Mary Winton in a three-set contest, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. The game proved one of the most exciting of the tournament. The mixed doubles will be drawn tonight and entries will have to be telephoned to the Oatka branch at once in order to be included. The men's doubles, which began this morning were drawn as follows:

Derby-Chinnick versus Johnson-Boak, Davis-Dickerman versus W. Fraker-Partner, Thorpe-Thorpe versus Turle-Marshall and Hegardt-Hawkes versus winner. T. SAYS PARIS CAN STAND LONG SIEGE

Former French Officer Optimistic Over France's Position.

That Paris can withstand a siege by the German army, as the English nation will call in soldiers from all parts of the world to aid the French in their last stand, and that the Russian forces will enter the German capital before Paris is taken, is the opinion of Bernard Michelon, a former officer of the French army, who is a resident of Duluth. His brother, Claud, who lives in Indiana, is serving with the reserves, while a 17-year-old niece has gone to the front as a Red Cross nurse.

"Germany will find her advance hampered by the opposing army at every step and at short intervals her progress will be checked for long periods as the fortified cities are reached. Knowing that country as I do it seems to me the Russians will reach Berlin before the Germans can get within sight of Paris," he said.

"In my opinion Paris can easily withstand the Germans until England can call in soldiers from all parts of the world to drive the invaders back and I am convinced that England will do this through her fear of a menace to her own islands if Germany overruns France. Germany must do her work in France quickly and turn her attention to the Russians soon. She surely can not take Paris in the meantime even if she should get her soldiers to the city.

"With great supplies of ammunition and food constantly on hand in Paris, and the additions that have been made since war was declared, there is no way of making even a good guess at the length of time Paris could hold out with a German army on all sides and the most of the French soldiers elsewhere in the country."

MAY START RESERVE SYSTEM ON OCT. 1

Federal Board Has Much Work to Accomplish First.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Although confronted by a vast amount of preliminary work, the Federal reserve board hopes to open the new banking system for business by Oct. 1, according to an announcement by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, ex-officio member of the board.

One of the board's many troubles is the choice of a secretary. The post was offered to Henry B. Fine, dean of the department of science, Princeton university, but declined. H. P. Willis, who came to Washington to talk with members of the board, is understood to have been offered the post.

PRECOCIOUS WILLIE.

New York Tribune: "The Filipinos will get their independence, but not for years to come. The Filipinos are intelligent, but they are not precocious. They don't resemble little Willie."

The speaker was Representative Gorman of Illinois. He continued:

"Little Willie is really too precocious. I met him the other day with his school bag under his arm.

"'Well, well,' said I, 'and so you go to school now, eh?'

"'Sure, Mike!' said little Willie. 'Ain't I over 6?'

"'And do you love your teacher?' I asked.

"'Aber nit,' said little Willie. 'The old hen's too old for me.'"

MILLIONS IN GOOD SEED

James J. Hill Gives Approval to "Seed Corn Week" Campaign.

Says the Importance of Good Seed Is No Mere Theory.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—"If merely the best grain produced this season on each farm were to be used as seed the coming season, millions of dollars would be added to the value of the agricultural product of the state," said James J. Hill when asked for an expression of opinion as to the value of "Seed Corn Week." "Here is an element of wealth easily within reach, costing practically nothing, and very generally ignored.

"The best authorities agree that the total of the crops raised from seed in the United States might be doubled by improved methods of farming. To do this would add $4,000,000,000 to $5,000,000,000 to the nation's wealth and the resources of its farm population. And one of the most important means to this end is the planting of good seed.

No Good Crop From Poor Seed.

"Careful fertilization, thorough and repeated cultivation, first elements of success for the farmer though they are, cannot, of course, grow a good crop from poor seed. And of all the influences that keep the farmers of this country from realizing the full benefits of their labor, inferior seed is one of the most powerful.

"Seed is unfit for planting when it is dirty, or when its grains lack either the full complement of food elements or reproductive power. If the first is the case, the farmer himself can see and remedy it. If the grain itself is below grade, he can with equal ease discover that by the application of tests now explained in numerous agricultural publications, taught in all institutions for agricultural instruction, and so easily understood that the farmer can apply them at home himself. The use of these tests will often save a farmer from wasting a season's work in the planting of grain that either does not grow or yields a product so inferior in quality or quantity as to be unprofitable.

Great Gains Possible.

"The importance of good seed is no more theory. Practical application of seed selection on a large scale has produced convincing results. Enormous yields have been secured from some small fields. Corn prize contests have raised the average production over entire states. It is no accident that in Minnesota and Wisconsin, two states where hard, continuous missionary work has been done, the average yield of corn per acre rose from around 32 or 33 bushels in ordinary years to 40 and 40½ bushels, respectively, in 1913. Nor will there be the slightest trouble in lifting that total 50 per cent or more when both cultivation and seed selection are better understood and more generally practiced by the farming population.

"Our agricultural exports have formed, for the last ten years, from 46 to 56 per cent of all our domestic exports. Before 1900 they ranged from 66 to over 80 per cent. The percentage of our wheat product exported has but once risen as high as 20 since 1903. It used to run from 30 to 40 per cent. And our expanding imports of foodstuffs have attracted general notice.

Millions For a Little Care.

"These are signs of the times and warnings against the future, which call for study of the agricultural situation and concerted effort to raise the home production of foodstuffs. Since one of the most effective ways of doing this is to encourage the use of nothing but the best grain for seed.

"Since the general observance of seed corn week will tend to draw attention to the need and the possibility of good seed, I am heartily in sympathy with the effort that is being made to secure its success. The picking out of good seed corn alone at the proper time in September, according to the simple rules laid down for selection and proper care, might mean a gain of a good many million dollars next year for Minnesota."

GETS LETTER FROM BROTHER IN LONDON

Robert Sessions of this city has just received a letter from his brother, Harry Sessions, who was at the Hotel Cecil, London, England, when the war between Germany and France was begun. Mr. Sessions writes under date of Aug. 2, and he describes vividly the wild excitement and enthusiasm of the Londoners and the panic of the tourists who were caught in the excited crowds.

He speaks interestingly of the money stringency that prevails abroad following the outbreak of the war and of the tourists having to travel in the steerage—any way, in fact, to get out of Europe and the British Isles. History is being made there every day, he says.

NEW HAVEN SYSTEM WOULD RAISE FARES

Boston, Mass., Sept. 2.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford, Boston & Maine and Boston & Albany railroads have filed tariff schedules involving an increase of from 2 to 2½ cents a mile in their mileage books rate. The proposed rates are to become effective Oct. 1 if approved by the interstate commerce commission.

COUNCIL OF EDUCATION

Would Be Composed of University Regents and State Board.

Two Views on the Size of These Boards Are Presented.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the plans for organizing the state government on a business basis, it is agreed by everyone that the administration of the state school system shall be under a state board of education. There was some question last winter whether the university should not be put under the same board, but the view prevails now that for constitutional reasons, if no other, the regents shall have separate jurisdiction. Unity of purpose, however, is to be accomplished by requiring both boards to meet as a council of education.

Size of the Boards.

As to the size of these boards there are two views. One is for a small board, not more than seven members, and some prefer five; the other is for a larger board of seven or nine members.

For the smaller board it is argued that a small body is always more effective. Three men are a better committee than seventeen. They get more done.

For the larger board, it is argued that this is not an executive body as much as a board of directors. And whether it is a church government or a bank, a board of directors as many as nine is not considered a hindrance.

Much Committee Work.

In the second place, both the board of education and the regents will have necessary committee work to do. The board of education will naturally have a committee for rural schools, a committee for high schools, another for normal schools. There may be a committee on libraries and another on teachers' qualifications. To expect members of unpaid boards to sit on all these committees is to put a heavy burden on their time. Nine members can divide into committees of three, so that each will have intimate knowledge of its field, without too great a tax on them.

The same is true of the regents. The committee on the agricultural college and other committees give a great deal of time. With nine members they can split up the job so it will not be too burdensome.

But on the larger matters the whole board will be consulted, and on general policies the entire membership will act.

Differing Conditions.

There is still another argument for the larger boards. The whole state is interested in educational problems. There are many varying interests. There are city problems and rural problems. There are conditions in Southern Minnesota that are different from those in Northern Minnesota. There are factors in the villages that are different from those of farming communities.

It is argued that this board should be a representative body. Three or five men do not know enough about all the conditions to represent the whole state. If these boards are to embody the common sense of the state and have special knowledge of each department of the educational field, the larger board will better serve the purpose.

There is a good deal to be said for the smaller board. But there is also much to be said for making it large enough to be broadly representative. Everyone agrees that education is of the greatest importance, and the only question is by which method the needs of education can be best served.

WOULD WARN ALL MAKERS OF ARMS.

Washington, Sept. 2.—A declaration from the state department to American manufacturers of war material, pointing out the restrictions on such shipments imposed by American neutrality in the European war, will be requested by the house foreign affairs committee. This decision was reached by the committee after a long discussion of the Bartholdt resolution calling for information as to steps taken by this government to prevent violations of neutrality, and asserting that armored automobiles and guns were being shipped to England and France via Canada from American factories.

Representative Bartholdt said he had received protests from German-American citizens against such shipments as a discrimination against Germany and Austria. The committee agreed that American manufacturers had the right to sell at their own risk to any government, provided they do not discriminate between belligerents. As Germany is not in a position to insure transportation, Representative Bartholdt suggested that the state department warn manufacturers to use extreme care to avoid even the appearance of discrimination.

THINKS CANADA'S TRADE WILL BOOM

Port Arthur Man Foresees Increased Inquiry for Products.

Canadian manufacturing and export trade will receive a stimulus from the European war according to James Whalen of Port Arthur, who was in Duluth today. The immediate depression from the war will be more than counteracted, he says, by a revival in business all along the line.

"Canada will soon have an extensive trade with countries she has had little commerce with before," said Mr. Whalen. "The crippling of European industries and commerce will cause a great demand for Canadian products and cause a boom in all industrial and commercial lines. Manufacturing, which has so far been confined largely to the Eastern part of Canada, will spread after the war to the wide areas of the West. The business of the country is already recovering from the first shock of war."

Mr. Whalen believes that Canada will get considerable advertising from the war, and when her soldiers return from the front, business will get new impetus.

"Six or seven trainloads of soldiers are passing through Port Arthur daily," he said, "but there is not any great demonstration except from those who go to the trains to see friends who are departing for the front."

KARLUK'S REFUGEES NEAR STARVATION?

Capt. Bartlett Fears for Party on Wrangell Island.

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 2.—The United States revenue cutter Bear, which arrived here Saturday night from Wrangell island after an unsuccessful attempt to rescue the twenty-one castaways from the Stefansson ship Karluk, who have been on the island since March 10 last, reports having encountered terrible weather off the island, and that it was obliged to turn back owing to the lack of coal.

Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, late master of the Karluk, who is on the Bear, is greatly worried about the Karluk refugees, who had supplies to last them only until Aug. 10. Even if they have eaten their dogs, they must be near the point of starvation. The Bear is taking on coal, and as soon as this work is completed she will turn back to the Arctic to rescue the prisoners.

MORE WORK FOR THE U. S. DIPLOMATS.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Great Britain has asked the United States to take care of her diplomatic interests in Turkey in case of a declaration of war on the allies by the Porte, which is momentarily expected.

HEALTH TALKS

by William Brady, M.D.

Acid Intoxication in Children

A FREQUENT group of symptoms in children from 2 to 10 years of age is called "acid intoxication" by doctors, but commonly called "worms" by grandmothers and medicine manufacturers.

The child becomes listless, loses appetite, acquires a coated tongue and seems more or less feverish, usually more. At the same time there may be indications of a slight sore throat or so-called "cold in the head" which doesn't materialize. Instead the child develops a peculiar, frequent, ineffectual cough. A whitish or bluish line appears about the mouth, with a duskiness or unusual flush on the cheeks. The eyes look abnormally bright. The nervous twitching and perhaps slight delirium alarm the mother. Nausea and vomiting may or may not be present, but constipation is the rule.

The Worms Have It.

So far the doctor holds his own in the diagnostic contest with grandma. But about this time a new symptom develops, and puts the doctor out of the game, leaving grandma to rejoice in her vindication. A characteristic, heavy, sweetish odor on the breath—and this symptom has clinched the popular diagnosis of "worms" since Noah and his numerous household vacated the ark.

This sweetish odor is that of acetone, which is produced by fermentation in the alimentary canal, and absorbed into the blood, to be eliminated partly by way of the breath. It is the poison which causes the drowsiness and feverishness of the attack.

The attack almost invariably passes away in a few days. The very nausea and distaste for food protects the child against mistaken efforts to "nourish" him with fermentable food.

Sugar Not Guilty.

One contributing cause for this condition is insufficient sugar in the child's diet. Revolutionary though this may sound to those who just know sugar makes worms, it is nevertheless the truth. Nervous excitement and exhaustion are other factors. Chronic catarrhal troubles in nose or throat, diseased tonsils and adenoids predispose children to attacks to acid intoxication. Removal of these predisposing factors is often followed by permanent freedom from attacks.

"Indigestion" is another name for acid intoxication. Prompt catharsis with a simple laxative like milk of magnesia is always beneficial. So-called "worm medicine," if it gives any relief at all, owes its effect wholly to the laxative and alkaline ingredients. Physicians sometimes give large doses of ordinary soda (saleratus) in water administered as an enema. The idea is to neutralize the acid so far as possible. Much drinking water and little or no food while the fever is high are advisable for the same reason.

The child is usually sick enough without being forced to swallow worm medicine on purely circumstantial evidence.

Questions and Answers.

J. W. asks: Is there any remedy that will remove superfluous hair so it won't return? A party in England guarantees a certain cure for $5.

REPLY.

No remedy in the world excepting the electric needle will do this. Better keep your $5 and let the England party keep the fake remedy on the other side.

"Pleded" and "Scarified." July 23 we printed a question from "Anxious Mother," asking if it would help a 2-months-old "pleded" baby to have the baby "scarified." We confessed that these terms stumped us. A prominent physician from the South writes in and explains that "Pleded" means many-colored—the baby may be blue at times—and "scarify" means practically wet cupping—the skin being scratched and some blood let.

Fortified with this knowledge we would urge "Anxious Mother" to perpetrate no such crime on her baby.

SAYS U. S. CAN BUY VESSELS

McAdoo Indorses Alexander Bill for Merchant Marine.

Thinks There Is Nothing to Objections to Purchase.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The right of the United States to buy merchant ships of any nationality for neutral uses cannot be disputed by any nation, declared Secretary McAdoo of the treasury department yesterday before the house merchant marine committee, supporting the administration merchant marine bill. Mr. McAdoo refused, however, to discuss the diplomatic phases of the situation, when asked if protests had been received from Great Britain or France against the possible government purchase of German vessels.

Hearings on the bill were concluded, and it will be taken up at once for immediate committee action. An early report to the house is expected.

Indorsed Alexander Bill.

Secretary McAdoo heartily indorsed the Alexander bill, which provides for the organization of a $10,000,000 corporation with power to buy, build and operate ships in the foreign trade, and the government as majority stockholder. He said that as many of the ships would probably be operated at a loss, private capital would not be attracted, the government probably supplying the entire capital.

"Do you understand," asked Representative Saunders, "that there is grave objection on the part of Great Britain and France to our taking over the German bottoms which have been driven out of the foreign trade by the war?"

Indisputable Right.

"Of course I cannot discuss the diplomatic phases of the question," said Secretary McAdoo. "That is the business of the state department. It cannot be successfully disputed, however, that this government has the right to buy ships from German companies or anyone else, so long as it buys those ships for neutral uses."

"It is stated that payment for the ships would be in the nature of supplying funds to a belligerent nation," observed Mr. Saunders.

"The ships are not owned by the government. They are owned by private citizens, and the money would be paid to those citizens, not to the government," answered Mr. McAdoo.

"But it is said that these lines are so closely connected with the government that payment would be practically to the government," Mr. Saunders persisted.

"Nothing in" Objection.

"I think there is nothing in that objection," said the secretary.

"There is no more punctilious citizen of the United States with respect to neutrality," he continued, "than the president, who would be the chief representative of the government in the company to be organized under this bill. We can be assured of absolute neutrality."

The secretary said the government would be in the same position as a private stockholder, so far as international conditions were concerned, and that the question of sovereignty would never be raised in a prize court.

SELL ASSETS OF ANY PROVED MONOPOLY

Reed's Amendment to the Clayton Bill Accepted By Senate.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Discussion of a flood of proposed amendments delayed passage of the Clayton anti-trust bill in the senate yesterday, but administration leaders declared last night it would be disposed of in a few hours today.

With the passage of the bill the administration trust program will have been completed, with the exception of the report of the conference committee on this measure. The decision to drop the railway securities bill was arrived at, and in consequence the Democratic caucus on program, scheduled for today, was postponed.

An amendment to the Clayton bill offered by Senator Reed was accepted. It provides that when a corporation is adjudged a monopoly its assets shall be sold by the court to persons who will restore competition, the court retaining jurisdiction until satisfied this has been accomplished.

No Limit on Size.

Efforts to limit the size of corporations was defeated. One proposal would have barred from interstate commerce concerns whose capital was so great as to "prevent substantial competition." Another fixed $100,000,000 as a maximum capitalization. Senator Poindexter's proposal that interlocking directorates in railway and mining corporations be prohibited also was defeated.

Administration leaders will consult with the president on the rivers and harbors bill, next on the senate program, and a decision will be reached as to whether it shall be put through before possible adjournment.

SAYS MUSSELMANS WILL ENTER AVLONA.

Paris, Sept. 2.—A dispatch to the Hayas agency from Avlona, Albania, says an agreement has been reached between the Musselman insurgents and the population of Avlona under the terms of which the red and black flag will be hoisted and the insurgents will enter the town. The inefficiency of the ruler of Albania, the prince of Wied, and of the government is recognized, and amidst great enthusiasm the mayor and notables of Avlona have taken charge of the city prior to the entrance of the insurgents.

For Blood Eruptions That Linger For Years

How They Are Closed, Cleansed and Healed Never to Return.

Almost anywhere you go people become joyfully reminiscent to tell you how years ago they used S. S. S. for blood eruptions and were entirely cured. This famous medicine removed all impurities, put the blood in fine healthy condition so that pimples, boils, rash, eczema and all eruptive conditions just naturally ceased.

And these people to this day enjoy clear, healthy complexions because S. S. S. went to the sources of impure blood, drove out the acids that cause rheumatism, cleared the membranes of catarrhal infection, assisted the kidneys, lungs and liver to excrete, burn and expel poisons in the blood. Nor does it matter what its nature or by what name it is known S. S. S. drives it out if it is a blood trouble, and most ill health is a blood sickness.

Even those defiant cases that resist such strong drugs as mercury, arsenic or iodide of potash gave way completely to the overpowering effect of S. S. S. in the blood.

It is acceptable to even very weak stomachs hence no one need despair of getting rid of disfiguring blood eruptions. The action of S. S. S. is direct; it works outwardly in accordance with nature's tendencies. As an illustration take for example a blind boil or blood rising.

The action of S. S. S. is such that flesh forming material is rapidly deposited around its edges, they crowd quickly to the center where the skin flakes off leaving a new healthy covering beneath.

Now, this same process goes on all over the body since S. S. S. circulates with the blood wherever it flows. These interesting facts are more fully explained in a book written by a specialist which is mailed free by the makers of S. S. S., The Swift Specific Co., 20 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Ask at any drug store for a bottle of S. S. S., but don't accept a substitute. The medical department of The Swift Specific Co. has been of inestimable value to blood sufferers in successfully directing them to complete recovery. And this advice is entirely free, very complete and a splendid aid to all who are in doubt and perplexed about their trouble.

COURT ORDER STOPS LEVY

Eveleth City Commissioners Are Held Up By Mine Owner.

Hoosier Alleges That City Is Run Entirely Too Extravagantly.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—A restraining order was served yesterday afternoon on the city commissioners, mayor and clerk, enjoining them from making a levy for the ensuing year in excess of $225,000. The plaintiff is Morton D. Hull of Indiana, interested in the Adams mine and fee owner of forty acres included in the Leonidas mine. Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell of Duluth are his attorneys.

The order was issued by Judge Page Morris of the Federal court in Duluth, and the defendants are ordered to appear in court Sept. 10 to show cause why a permanent injunction should not be issued.

The council, last night, instructed City Attorney James P. Boyle to fight the case, employing such assistance as he deems necessary.

In the complaint it is alleged that the council purposed to levy $631,000 or more. This is emphatically denied by members of the council who state that the levey would have been held close to $350,000, as stated in Tuesday night's Herald. When each department turned in its budget the amount totaled $631,000 and this figure evidently leaked out. Included in the total was the cost of paving all streets and other improvements which the council plans to complete in the next few years. The parts of the budgets believed necessary for the coming year were selected and the others deferred, leaving a total of between $350,000 and $360,000.

Says Gleason Dominates.

It is alleged in the complaint that "Mayor J. J. Gleason largely dominates the council," that there has been much political rivalry in the past few months, that the mayor has openly avowed his enmity toward the mining interests and expressed an intention of "going after" them and that the others are "about to follow his lead and do his bidding.

The complaint states that the levies for the last few years in Eveleth, the largest of which was $199,946.23 in 1913, have been ample and that the city has all the improvements to which it is entitled, and that there are no extraordinary conditions demanding a levy in excess of $225,000.

The councilmen, it is alleged, are threatening to and proposing to levy $631,000 because of political feud and announced hostility to the mining companies and by "bluffing" the mining companies to build no political machines for themselves. The proposed levy, the complaint states, is not for improvements, but for money to "waste and squander."

Levies in recent years have been excessive, the complaint states, in order that the city may vie with other Mesaba range towns. The range, Mr. Hull alleges, is experiencing an era of extravagance because of its enormous valuation and levies are being made far in excess of legitimate and reasonable requirements. Unsatisfactory conditions in the iron market due to economic conditions in our own country and the war in Europe makes political spite work particularly unbearable at this time, he alleges.

The City Levy.

It is further alleged that the assessed valuation of the city is $13,330,000; that 95.5 per cent of the property is owned by mining interests; that the average per capita tax for cities of the size of Eveleth outside of the ranges is $9.67; that the per capita tax in Eveleth if the council has its way would be $40; that the city has an income of approximately $35,000 annually from licenses and an income of several thousand from other sources; that $225,000 would be an excessive levy, but the very outside figure would be reasonable.

The claim is made in the complaint that the voters of the city have twice voted down propositions to bond for public improvements in the last few months and that it is the purpose of the mayor to defy the wish of the people and proceed with the work outlined by asking an enormous levy.

City Clerk A. P. Romer states that the complaint is erroneous in stating that the city derives $35,000 annually from licenses. The income from this source, he states, is less than half of the amount alleged.

BUHL SCHOOLS' BIG ENROLLMENT.

Buhl, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Schools in District No. 35, with the exception of the Anderson school, which will not be ready until Monday of next week, opened Monday afternoon. The enrollment in all schools was the largest in the history of the district.

A seventy-five-foot steel flagpole has been purchased and put up on the playgrounds of the new high school. A fifty-foot steel pole has been purchased for the Kinney school grounds.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine wherever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right." —Advertisement.

EVELETH'S RECALL ELECTION SEPT. 15

Voters to Pass Upon Question of Retiring Gleason and Brince.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recall of Mayor J. J. Gleason and Commissioner J. J. Brince will be voted on at a special election Sept. 15. City Clerk A. P. Romer reported to the council last night that the amended petitions asking a recall election were legal and had sufficient signatures to warrant the calling of an election.

Commissioner Brince made the motion that a resolution be passed for an election to vote on the recall of himself and Mayor Gleason. It is understood that enough affidavits were secured by the two officials to invalidate the petitions by the removal of names if they had chosen to use them.

Report of August.

The report of the commissioner of health and public safety for the month of August showed eighteen arrests, $217 paid in fines, twenty-two births, six deaths and one case of contagious disease.

The library board was requested to appoint the city clerk as its secretary to facilitate the handling of bills.

BUHL VOTES BONDS.

Buhl, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a light vote Monday, the proposition of issuing bonds in the sum of $50,000 for street paving, improvements on the municipal power plant, etc., carried. Sixty-six voters favored the issue and twenty-six opposed it. Only one vote was invalid, the voter voting for both issues.

The paving of Culver avenue and State street is progressing and the concrete filler is being put in on the other half of the street. When that is complete the bitulithic surface will be laid. The appearance of the streets which are being paved will be greatly enhanced and will be a source of pride to every citizen.

A special meeting of the council was held last evening to caucus the election votes of Monday.

Jury in About an Hour Returns Second Degree Murder Verdict.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The district court jury that heard the evidence offered at the trial here yesterday of John Lasson, or "Pickerel John," the old trapper living near Orr alleged to have killed Alex Jarvinen last July, returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree about 5 p. m. yesterday. The jury deliberated only about an hour. Counsel for Lasson secured a thirty-day stay pending motion for a new trial. Lasson admitted the killing but claimed he acted in self defense, alleging that the deceased, crazed by drinking hot whisky in Lasson's cabin with the accused and two others, attacked him and threatened to kill him. Lasson is an old man.

DETAILS OF SUICIDE.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 2.—A Lewistown, Mont., newspaper just received here gives the following account of the suicide Aug. 28 of Leroy Morris, a former Hibbing man:

"Leroy Morris, 35 years of age, unmarried and formerly in charge of the Judith ranch, seventeen miles west of Lewistown, committed suicide last evening by shooting himself through the heart, his act being due to ill-health and despondency. Coroner George Creel came in last night with the body and held an inquest this morning. The deceased was a native of Illinois, but came here two years ago from Hibbing, Minn., and took charge of the old Blodgett ranch, which he and some associates purchased. He conducted the property until last fall, when, on account of failing health, he decided to go to California. Mrs. Capron succeeding to his interest and to the management of the big farm.

"Two weeks ago he returned and went out to the ranch. His health was not improved and he was in low spirits. Mrs. Capron, Mrs. Smart and a hired girl were temporarily with him yesterday at dinner, when he intimated his intention of ending it all. Some hours later they heard a shot and going out found the body lying on the ground back of the barn. Mr. Smart and Mr. Fadden were called to the place by telephone and Coroner Creel went out a little later. Mr. Morris was a man of good education and exceptional ability and his sad end is deplored by all who knew him."

The gravel deposit is located in the middle of Anderson's fields in the shape of a mound, topped with a beautiful birch grove. A root cellar is built into one side of the mound and a spring bubbles from the other. Mr. Anderson prizes the place for its beauty and planned to erect a new residence near it. The appraisers fixed the valuation at $400, twice what the county had offered, but Mr. Anderson will refuse to accept it and the matter will go into court on condemnation proceedings.

Gravelle before returning to her home. This is Mrs. Kuppinger's second summer in this section, and she expresses herself as very much pleased with this section as a summer resort.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 178A Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

BOY SHOOTS SISTER WHILE "PLAYING" WAR.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—Playing at war almost killed Mary, the 2-year-old daughter of M. Kalambin of Goodlands yesterday when her 7-year-old brother accidentally pulled the trigger on a 30-30 rifle belonging to his father and the bullet passed through her arm.

The parents were in the field when the boy secured the rifle. With his sister as the "enemy" the youngster charged, his finger accidentally touching the trigger in his excitement. Frightened when he saw the blood streaming from the ugly wound the boy fled to the woods nearby and was not found for over an hour. A physician says the accident will not result seriously.

He at first entered a plea of not guilty but when his trial was started yesterday afternoon before Judge Brady and two witnesses had sworn that they saw him explode several charges of powder he changed his plea to guilty. He was sentenced to sixty-five days on the workfarm. This is the third offense in three years that Stuss has been arrested for by Warden Wood.

STARTS ACTION FOR CREDITORS

J. W. Harbison, trustee in bankruptcy for Gerzien Bros., Hibbing merchants, started suit in district court yesterday afternoon against Lawrence Kovach and the Duluth Brewing & Malting company and others claiming interest in a certain piece of Chisholm real estate in which he seeks to have the property and the proceeds turned over to the creditors of the estate.

Gerzien Bros. were adjudged bankrupts in Federal court Aug. 29, 1907, and George H. Ebert, as trustee, wound up their affairs at that time. After he had been formally discharged as trustee, it was discovered that one of the partners owned an undivided one-half interest in Chisholm real estate valued at $5,000, which had not been included in the bankruptcy schedule. The estate was reopened and J. W. Harbison appointed trustee.

It is claimed that the Gerziens testified before W. O. Pealer, referee in bankruptcy, that they owned no realty and that an effort was made to conceal the fact that Jacob Gerzien owned a half interest in the Chisholm property.

It is Just Natural To Admire Babies

Our altruistic nature impels love for the cooing infant. And at the same time the subject of motherhood is ever before us. To know what to do that will add to the physical comfort of expectant motherhood is a subject that has interested most women of all times. One of the real helpful things is an external abdominal application sold in most drug stores under the name of "Mother's Friend." We have known so many grandmothers, who in their younger days relied upon this remedy, and who recommend it to their own daughters that it certainly must be what its name indicates. They have used it for its direct influence upon the muscles, cords, ligaments and tendons as it aims to afford relief from the strain and pain so often unnecessarily severe during the period of expectancy.

A little book mailed by Bradfield Regulator Co., 305 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., refers to many things that women like to read about. It refers not only to the relief from muscle strain due to their expansion but also to nausea, morning sickness, caking of breasts and many other distresses.

IMPORTANT TRIALS DUE

McAlpine Suits and Others Will Be Heard This Term.

Judge J. D. Ensign presided at the peremptory call of the calendar of civil cases at the opening of the September term of the district court this morning. Out of the 293 cases called, 266 were marked for trial, thirteen were continued to the November term, twelve were stricken, one removed for trial at Virginia and another transferred to Hibbing for trial.

The September term is not exceptionally large but a number of important actions are scheduled to be brought on for trial. Perhaps the most interesting litigation to be taken up at this term of court will be the trial of the actions brought by Mrs. Sarah K. McAlpine against three accident insurance companies to collect approximately $90,000. The insurance companies are contesting the cases.

The nuisance abatement case involving the Clifton hotel property owned by Madam Gain, alias Mary Le Fiohic, or her holding company, the Alecsi Real Estate company, was continued to the November term of court this morning. This case has been pending for several terms but it probably will not be tried until after the supreme court has passed upon the conviction of Madam Gain, who was found guilty of conducting a house of ill fame.

Although Judge Ensign presided at the peremptory call of the calendar he will not assume charge of the term's cases during the next two months. This work will be taken over by Judge Cant.

The September grand jury convened this morning and after receiving a charge at the hands of Judge Ensign retired to the quarters on the third floor of the courthouse to take up the deliberations. The court appointed C. L. Rakowsky as foreman. County Attorney Warren B. Greene, who will direct the work of the grand jury at this term of court, declares that the grist of cases is one of the largest in years. About sixty cases will be presented to the inquisitorial body to its consideration. A large number of indictments are expected.

EGG-CONTAINER FOR PARCEL POST

Axel Peterson, 18 years old, a cripple living at 1011 East Ninth street, has invented an egg-container for parcel post delivery. He showed his invention to Postmaster McEwen yesterday and the latter declared it might be accepted by the government, because of its lightness.

The container is made of wood and is so constructed that it can be easily folded up. It will hold two dozen eggs. The entire container weighs three-quarters of a pound.

Recently the postal authorities at Washington announced the need of a suitable egg-container for parcel post delivery.

BIRTH REPORTS ARE NOT PROMPTLY MADE.

Despite the requests of the health department that physicians reports births at least forty-eight hours arfter a child is born, one physician this morning sent in nineteenbirth certificates for the months of June, July and August.

The health department has many times requested physicians to send in their certificates as early as possible, the same day of the birth, being most desirable. Many physicians have complied with their request, but there are still a few who send their reorts in once a month, or even less frequently. It greatly inconveniences the department and makes it impossible to prepare a monthly report at the end of each month.

ASSIGNMENT OF TEACHERS

All Departments of Public Schools Ready for Opening.

Supt. of Schools Robert E. Denfeld this morning made the final assignment of school teachers for the opening of the regular school year next Tuesday morning. Everything is now in readiness for the 14,000 children, who are expected to enroll during next week.

The assignments of teachers to the junior high schools were finally made this morning by Supt. Denfeld, all the other schools being provided for in the lists prepared last week. Miss Mary Olds will be principal of the Washington junior high school and Miss Laura MacArthur will be in charge of the new junior high school at the Irving school. The latter is opening for the first time this fall.

Examinations Thursday.

Tomorrow morning the examinations for teachers and pupils will begin. The teachers will be examined tomorrow and Friday, while the high school and grade pupils will be examined Saturday. A list of the examinations, together with the hours and subjects, was published in The Herald last evening.

At 9 o'clock Monday morning a meeting of all the school principals will be held at the Central high school assembly hall, after which a meeting of all the school teachers will be held. Supt. Denfeld will preside at both meetings.

School will open at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning for all the high school and grade pupils in the city, excepting those entering their freshman year and the junior high students. The latter will report at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

CUPID "FALLS DOWN" DURING AUGUST

Dan Cupid, mythical matchmaker, broke no records last month. In fact he rather fell down on his job or at least that is the way it would appear from a perusal of the marriage license register at the courthouse for the last thirty days.

The little blind god last month succeeded in luring only 109 couples down the long aisle, which is a poor August record. During the corresponding month of 1913 he claimed 130 couples as victims and in August, 1912, 124 pairs were pierced by Cupid's darts.

MEETS HER SOUL-MATE

Austrian Girl Deserts Benefactor-Lover for Another Man.

Spurning the love of Mike Rosita, who brought her to Hibbing all the way from her home in Austria, furnished a home for her in the range town, bought her a diamond ring and who had already obtained a marriage license, Mary Widosh, 21 years old, this morning declared her willingness to marry Matt Mazalic, 23 years old, the man with whom she was arrested in a Fifth avenue lodging house early last evening. Upon her declaration that she is willing to marry Mazalic, the court agreed to suspend the case against them when they were arraigned in police court this morning.

After the hearing in court this morning, Mike Rosita, who came to Duluth from Hibbing, upon hearing of his sweetheart's arrest, pleaded with her to return to him. The conversation was in a foreign tongue, but a friend of Rosita interpreted it. Rosita declared his desire to take Mary back to Hibbing, to marry her and live with her in the home that he had furnished. He was willing to forgive her for leaving him in Hibbing and coming to Duluth three weeks ago with Mazalic. If she would forget everything, he said, if she would but return to him again.

Rosita, who is 27 years old, almost wept when he pleaded with her, but she was firm and showed no signs of emotion. She did not love Rosita, she declared, and would marry Mazalic before the day was over. Rosita was weeping as he left the station.

Goes Home Alone.

Some time today Mazalic and Mary are to be married, while Rosita is now on his way back to Hibbing, back to the little home he had already furnished, back to the mines, where he has been working for the last eleven years, ever since his arrival from Austria.

About six months ago Rosita moved to a new boarding house near the Buffalo mine at Hibbing, where Rosita is employed. It was there that he met Mary's sister, who told him about Mary, what a beautiful girl she was and how she would be willing to marry him, providing he bought her a ticket to America. Rosita wrote to Mary, and after a time it was agreed that he should send her a ticket to this country. This he did, and about three months ago Mary came to Hibbing. She went to reside with her sister, while Rosita began preparing for the marriage. He bought his wife-to-be a diamond ring and some furniture for their home. About a month ago he obtained a marriage license and even made out all his life insurance payable to her.

But about three weeks ago Mary left Hibbing in company with Mazalic. Rosita tried his best to keep her with him, but she refused to stay, and came to Duluth. Rosita wrote to friends here, asking them to help him win Mary back. When these friends learned that she and Mazalic were living together in a rooming house at 21½ Fifth avenue west, they informed the police, and early last evening the pair were arrested by Patrolman Englert.

They admitted their guilt in police court this morning, but on their promise to marry, the court suspended sentence.

HAS FIT AS HE BOARDS CAR.

Fred Cordes, 26 years old, of New York city, suffered an apileptic fit just as he boarded a Superior car for Duluth last evening. He was cared for by the colductor and passengers until the car reached Duluth and he was then taken to St. Luke's hospital.

Police Surgeon Murphy, who was called to attend Cordes, discovered that the man was unconscious, and it was several hours before he was brought out of that condition. This morning Cordes was reported much improved, and he will be allowed to leave the hospital some time today.

Cordes told Dr. Murphy that he had had been drinking heavily yesterday. He declared he came here recently from New York and that he is a trained nurse.

Wanted at Two Harbors.

Wesley and Easton Benton, brothers, were arrested by the Superior police this morning for the authorities at Two Harbors, on a charge of robbery. The brothers were brought to the local station this afternoon and will be taken to Two Harbors this evening. Wesley is 29 and Easton is 26 years old.

PETROGRAD GIVES STATEMENT ON WAR IN EAST PRUSSIA

London, Sept. 2, 2:34 p. m.—The Russian embassy here has received from the general staff at Petrograd the following account of the Russian reverses in East Prussia:

"Our offensive continues in our western position in East Prussia. Our troops have destroyed the (railroad) stations at Lansberg, Roessel and Bischofstein, and the Heilsberg-Zinten and the Bartenstein-Koenigsberg railroads.

"In the southern portion of East Prussia the Germans brought up reinforcements along our whole front and attacked our two army corps. These corps suffered a check, caused by the heavy artillery which the Germans brought up from neighboring forts on the Vistula.

"Our contact with the enemy remains unbroken, and fresh Russian troops are arriving on the Austrian fronts.

"The stubborn fighting continues."

No Word From Turkey.

Washington, Sept. 2.—State department officials have had no cablegrams from Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople for three days and the belief prevails that cable communication has been restricted.

SLAYER OF GERMAN GENERAL DECORATED

London, Sept. 2, 10:35 a. m.—In a dispatch from Amsterdam the local correspondent of the Central News says that the shot which ultimately resulted in the death of Prince von Buelow, one of the German generals, was fired by a Belgian private named Rosseau, who has since been decorated by King Albert for his conduct in the Battle of Haelen.

Picking up a rifle from beside a dead German, Rosseau fired at this officer and wounded him. The officer subsequently proved to be Prince von Buelow. Exchanging his hat for the German general's helmet, and taking the general's horses, Rosseau made his way to the Belgian lines and was placed in a hospital at Ghent.

GENERAL BATTLE STILL GOING ON

Washington, Sept. 2.—A dispatch dated last night from Paris, to the French ambassador, gives a summary of a three-day battle along an extended front. It says:

"Our troops press forward little by little in the Vosges. In the region of Ham, Vervens and St. Quentin the battle has been continuing from three days.

"In the center there has been alternate successes and checks and the general battle still goes on. Or the left the French forces have had to yield ground, but they have remained unbroken."

GERMAN MOVE IS HIGHLY INTERESTING

London, Sept. 2.—The significance of the removal of the German military headquarters from Coblenz to an unknown destination is difficult to estimate, but the change is regarded as highly interesting.

The announcement by a Paris paper that fourteen German staff officers have been captured and interned at Nimes is the first intimation of this incident. It may possibly be significant, although it is not said where the Germans were taken prisoners.

The Russian embassy here has thought it desirable formally to deny reports of panic at Vilna, which it attributes to German and Austrian sources. The embassy has received a dispatch from Petrograd declaring that these reports are without foundation and that Vilna is perfectly calm. The Christian and Jewish populations are working together for the relief of the wounded.

The Prince of Wales relief fund today passed the $10,000,000 mark.

CHINESE COMPLAIN OF JAPS' LANDING

Washington, Sept. 2.—Chinese officials have called the attention of the American consular officers at Cheefoo to the landing of several thousand troops by Japan on Chinese territory at Lung Kow, near Huang Haien. This, Chinese officials claim, is a distinct violation of neutrality.

SIX LOSE LIVES IN LOOKING FOR MINE

London, Sept. 2, 4:42 p. m.—The steam drifter Eyric, engaged in mine sweeping operations in the North sea, struck a mine this morning and went to the bottom in three minutes. Six members of her crew are missing; five were saved.

CRUISER SIGHTED OFF GOLDEN GATE.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 2.—A three-funneled cruiser was sighted twelve miles off the Golden Gate shortly before noon today. The weather was too thick for the marine observer of the chamber of commerce to make out her identity.

SHIPS REMAIN AT VERA CRUZ

Washington, Sept. 2.—No warships are to be taken from Mexican waters at present, and transfer of command of the fleet from Rear Admiral Badger to Rear Admiral Fletcher has been postponed until next month. It was the plan to bring the fleet to Hampton roads for the transfer.

State department officers who discussed Gen. Carranza's action in closing the port of Vera Cruz, pointed out that his object in all probability was to increase present customs revenues by directing commerce to ports under Mexican control. At Vera Cruz duties are collected by American officials, and after deduction of the costs of the administration, the funds collected are impounded, to be paid to the Mexican government at a later date.

Elections in November.

Mexico City, Sept. 2.—General elections have been called for November. Until these are held the country will continue under military rule. A cabinet meeting was held in Chapultepec castle last night, but neither President Carranza nor any of the ministers would make known the subject under discussion.

New Hampshire Vote Close.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 2.—The contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination at yesterday's primaries was in doubt today and an official count may be necessary to determine the result.

MARKET IS SLIGHTLY UP

Wheat Turns Firm After Weak Opening on Strength at Winnipeg.

Flaxseed Sells Higher With Crushers' Demand and Light Offerings.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 2.—The market was steady up to the close. September wheat closed 3⅝c up and December unchanged. September durum closed ¼c up; October ¼c off; November ½c off, and December ⅜c off.

Oats closed 3⅝c up at 47⅜c for on the track or to arrive. Rye closed 1c off at 89@90c, and barley closed 1c off at 61@73c.

Puts on Minneapolis December wheat closed at $1.12⅝ asked, and calls at $1.19½.

After showing weakness at the start and selling off on the light Eastern inquiry, the wheat market turned firm today and fractional advances were recorded up to the final hour. The recessions around the opening were also promoted through lower Liverpool cables and reported selling by Armour and other large operators at Chicago. The market, however, showed good rallying power and a strong undertone was noted. The later bulge was helped along through the bullish report regarding the crop in the Canadian Northwest, which was officially placed at 125,000,000 bu, compared with 200,000,000 bu last year. That led to a buying movement at Winnipeg, and substantial gains were recorded there in all options. Snow's report regarding the American crop was also bullish.

Under pressure of fairly liberal offerings, the premium in cash wheat was reduced to only 1c over September, whereas it had been 2c over. Millers were reported to be buying mainly to cover their immediate requirements only in view of the unsettled market and the possibility of breaks later. Another weak feature commented on by operators is that outsiders are universally long on the market, making the materializing of a shake-out probable sooner or later.

Reports from the seaboard went to show that progress is being made in clearing up outstanding export contracts in winter wheat. Clearances were heavy, being reported today at 1,581,000 bu or 400,000 bu more than a year ago. Marketings of new wheat in the Northwest are being retarded through the continued rains interfering with threshing operations. Considerable damp stuff is reported among the current arrivals.

September wheat opened unchanged at $1.16 and it gained ½c up to the closing hour. December opened unchanged at $1.17 and after selling off 1c it advanced to fractionally over yesterday's close. September durum opened unchanged at $1.07¼ and gained ¼c. October opened unchanged at $1.09 and weakened ¼c. November opened ¼c up at $1.10½ and sold off ⅜c. December opened unchanged at $1.10½ and weakened ½c.

Flax Sells Higher.

There were some buying orders in flaxseed in hand for execution at the opening and on light offerings, prices were run up from 1½@2c at the start. Trading was only in small lots and was limited in the aggregate. A strong factor in the market was the bullish Canadian crop report placing the flax yield up there at only 5,250,000 bu. The market closed weak with final prices showing gains of 1@1½c.

September flax opened ½c up at $1.59, and closed 1¼c up at $1.59¾ asked. October opened ½c up at $1.61, and closed ½c up at $1.62 asked. November opened unchanged at $1.62, and closed 1c up at $1.63 bid. December opened ½c up at $1.64, and closed 1½c up at $1.65.

At Winnipeg, October flax closed 1c up at $1.39 bid. November closed at $1.41 bid, and December at $1.42½ bid.

T. W. Lewis wired Baker from Minneapolis: "Snow's report on corn is very bullish. This means a crop practically of the same size as last year's. At the present price at which corn is selling, it is the cheapest food product on the list. For feeding purposes, it is worth more than oats, but it is today selling per pound less than oats. While there is no foreign demand for corn, and there is a large foreign demand for oats, the relative food value of the two cereals will cause a much greater domestic demand for corn."

• • •

The wheat crop of the Canadian Northwest is officially estimated at 125,000,000 bu, compared with 200,000,000 bu last year. The Winnipeg Free Press, however, places the yield at 134,474,000 bu. It puts the oats crop at 150,500,000 bu, barley at 28,900,000 bu and flaxseed at 5,250,000 bu.

• • •

The steamer Brainsford has taken on 74,000 bu spring wheat and 126,000 bu durum at the Consolidated and Peavey elevators. The F. W. Hart has loaded 68,000 bu rye at the Itasca elevator and 60,000 bu flaxseed at elevator S.

• • •

The Price Current says: "Harvesting of spring wheat has been delayed in the past ten days by wet weather. The crop will be shorter than last year and final returns for all wheat are not likely to exceed the 900,000,000 bu mark.

"August rains were too late to help corn in the big states, although to the northward where the drouth did not strike there is a splendid outlook. Harvesting of prematurely ripened corn is reported general and there is feeding of the new crop in many sections of Iowa and Illinois."

• • •

Bradstreet's changes this week show a decrease of 358,000 bu; last year the decrease was 2,169,000 bu. Corn increased 2,230,000 bu against a decrease of 548,000 bu last year. Corn stocks were 5,472,000 bu against 3,771,000 bu last year and oats 25,575,000 bu against 35,356,000 last year.

• • •

New York wired: "Otto Ruben of Stockholm, Sweden, has asked through the United States government to keep in touch with firms offering oats. The notice asks for offers of 625,000 bu, giving as reference Goldman Sachs and the American consul of Stockholm, Sweden."

• • •

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Yesterday there was a renewal of strict censorship which became effective shortly before midday. Liverpool and this caused our cables to be held, and then with much accumulation there was no regard for the time of delivery. Yesterday wheat was 1d higher, as influenced by an improved demand for cargoes which were held at 1 shilling advance. The strength in spot American strength was an influence and later deliveries are strong. Corn was influenced downward at 1d decline.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Bullish Owing to Rain and Crop News.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Wet weather in the spring wheat crop belt and official reports that the Canadian Northwest would not yield within 74,000,000 bu of as much as last year had a bullish effect today on the wheat market here. Advanced prices, however, did not last. An increase in the European possible visible supply counted against the bulls. After opening ½c to 1¾c higher the market underwent a decided sag and then rallied to slightly above last night's level.

Subsequently the market had another setback on account of longs taking profits. A reduction in the estimates of the spring crop yield however, helped cause a fresh upturn. The close was firm, ⅜@1c net higher.

Corn held steady in the absence of any large orders on either side of the market. Quotations tended to keep within half a cent range.

Estimates that the crop condition is 68.5 as against 76.7 last month and that farm reserves are only half as large as a year ago brought about a sharp advance later. The close was steady, 1¼@1⅞c above last night.

Oats were sustained by continued export demand. Sweden was said to have asked for an offer on 625,000 bu.

Provisions lacked support. Higher prices for hogs failed to stimulate buying.

Pork nominal; lard, $10.07; ribs, $12.12@12.62.

COPPER MINES RESUME OPERATIONS

An interesting feature in the mining stocks market today was the announcement that three of the Copper Range mines—the Baltic, Tri-Mountain and Champion—had resumed operations. It was also intimated that the Anaconda, Original and Davis Daly mines at Butte have started up again. This is taken to indicate that the inquiry for copper metal is improving, and that operators are looking forward to booking better sales.

Trading in local curb stocks was quiet, being limited to a few transactions in Calumet & Corbin at 10 cents, and Interstate at $4.75.

• • •

At St. Louis, lead closed quiet at $3.75, and spelter quiet at $5.90.

ALL QUIET AT BUTTE WITH MILITIA NEAR

Butte, Mont., Sept. 2.—With a mild form of martial law prevailing here, all was quiet in the city and at the mines today. Notice has been given by the militia that should the slightest trouble occur, rigid military rule will be established forthwith, and this had a quieting effect.

The Anaconda mine, which employs 730 men and which shut down a week ago because of factional trouble among the miners resumed operations today with a full force. The Mine Workers' union committee failed to appear at the Anaconda mine, and all men who appeared for work were sent into the mine regardless of union affiliations. Placards posted at mine shafts by the Mine Workers' committee warning miners not to go to work unless they wore the new union's button were torn down.

Full crews worked all night at the Gagnon and Original mines, which were closed yesterday.

Maj. D. J. Donohue, commanding the state troops encamped here, declared today that the police and sheriff's officers would continue their duties, but the state troops would take charge the instant any necessity arose.

FLUCTUATION IN GRAIN PIT

Traders on Both Sides of Market Pull Down Profits.

War in Europe Likely to Increase Land Values Here.

Traders in grain had no cause for complaint regarding action in the market during the past week. Each day has been fruitful of sharp fluctuations, affording abundant opportunities for pulling down profits or losses on either side of the board.

As a net result cash wheat has advanced 2¾ cents in the week, its figure at the close of business yesterday standing at $1.19. This is a gain of 29⅝ cents from the low point in this year's market, set on July 14 and is 30½ cents a bushel better than a year ago. The September option ran up 2¼ cents and December 3 cents in the week.

"Advertisers Who Seek the Good Will of the Public as Distinguished From the Vultures of Trade"

"Quality circulation is the paying kind. Advertisers who seek the good will of the public, as distinguished from the vultures of trade who swoop down for the periodical picking of the public's pockets, demand quality circulation."—W. B. Walker, advertising manager, Brill Brothers, New York.

The Duluth Herald is not a good medium for the "vulture" kind of advertising. It carries a wide selection of offerings from reputable merchants, and their goods appeal to the class of people reached by The Duluth Herald.

The Duluth Herald's accurate, comprehensive news service, its informative articles and splendid special features have won it a record circulation confined to the permanent, earning element of the population in Duluth and the prosperous towns in its trading zone.

The Sign Versus The Want Ad

HOW MANY PEOPLE SEE THAT "FOR RENT" SIGN?

Do you realize that to every one person who sees the "For Rent" sign, thousands will see your "For Rent" Ad in The Herald Want Ads.

This paper goes to thousands of homes daily—home of progressive, up-to-date families who know that the modern method of house hunting is to simplify effort by referring to the Want Ads that describe and locate houses, apartments, rooms and flats for rent, instead of wandering aimlessly over the city looking for signs.

THE MODERN WAY to rent a house is The Herald Want Ad way.

RUSSIANS CLAIM THE ROADS TO BOTH BERLIN AND VIENNA ARE OPEN TO THEIR ARMIES

AUSTRIANS IN GALICIA ARE ROUTED

Austrian Losses Are Declared to Be Over 100,000 Men.

Rome, Sept. 3, via Paris.—The Russian embassy here has received an official report from Petrograd, setting forth that Russian troops are triumphantly marching on Lemberg, repulsing the Austrians all along the line. The fighting has been on a gigantic scale, 800,000 Russians being engaged against 600,000 Austrians.

If all indications do not fail, the report from the Russian capital continues, the Russians will be definitely victorious, and as a result the roads to Vienna and Berlin will be open to the Russian armies.

Austrian Loss Over 100,000.

The Russian embassy has been notified that the Austrians were overwhelmingly defeated near Lemberg, losing more than 100,000 men and 57

RIOT ON GERMAN SHIP IS REPORTED

Three of Crew and Fifty Steerage Passengers Killed.

New York, Sept. 3.—A riot aboard the German steamer Bluecher, at anchor in the harbor of Pernambuco, Brazil, in which three of the Bluecher's crew and fifty of her 800 steerage passengers were killed, was described today by passengers aboard the Brazilian steamer Sao Paulo upon her arrival here from Brazilian ports whence she sailed at the commencement of the European war.

The Bluecher was bound from Buenos Aires for Hamburg, under the German flag, when Germany and England went to war. Upon learning that war had been declared the Bluecher put back to Pernambuco. She had aboard, the Sao Paulo's passengers asserted, several million dollars for London and 800 Spaniards and Portuguese in the steerage.

Steerage passengers insisted that the ship proceed to her destination and a riot was started. The bodies of the steerage passengers who were killed were thrown overboard, according to the Sao Paulo's passengers.

Nine German ships were tied up at Pernambuco when the Sao Paulo sailed.

WILSON WILL ASK FOR TAX

President Will Tell Congress $100,000,000 Must Be Raised.

Plans to Make No Suggestion Except to Minimize Burden.

Washington, Sept. 3.—President Wilson will appear before a joint session of congress tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock to ask for a war tax measure to raise $100,000,000 annually. This announcement was made today, following a visit of Democratic Leader Underwood to the White House. In his message the president will not advise means of raising the money.

The president finished his addressed and showed it today to Mr. Underwood. Mr. Wilson believes the war tax is necessary to keep the treasury in a strong condition and make it unnecessary to call in funds advanced to banks. He will ask congress to provide for obtaining the $100,000,000 in a way which will be felt least by the people of the country.

GERMAN AEROPLANE AT PARIS WRECKED.

London, Aug. 3, 10:30 a. m.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Paris declares that one of the German aeroplanes of the Taube type, which recently dropped bombs on the city of Paris, has been brought down. The two German aviators on board were killed.

RUSH TO CITY FREE MARKETS

New York People Cause Them to Double and Triple in Size.

Improvements, Including Delivery System, Are Sought.

New York, Sept. 3.—The third day of New York's free markets saw them enlarge to twice and three times their original size, so great has been their popularity with purchasers of table supplies. An increase of 25 per cent in the number of buyers at the four markets was reported yesterday, and still greater increases were expected today.

The success of the Manhattan markets has resulted in a demand for similar trading places in other boroughs of the city, and today plans for establishing them in Brooklyn, Staten Island and in the Bronx were well under way.

Need Improvements.

Observation of the experiment led experts to say that radical improvements in the system must be made speedily if the city as a whole is to feel the benefit of the plan.

The need for having on sale at all the markets every variety of staple foodstuff, so that the housewife may do all her buying in one place, was emphasized.

The officials who are working out the new scheme have arranged for semi-permanent stands with refrigeration facilities, in some of the markets, and believe that when these are completed, meat, eggs, butter, cheese and other perishable food will be offered in large quantities.

For Delivery System.

Those who have long studied the retail trade insist that a delivery system is essential if the mass of the people is to be reached. With this idea in mind, the city officials were working on a plan with idle truckmen who are anxious to try a tentative co-operative delivery system.

SAYS ZEPPELINS ARE OVER-RATED.

London, Sept. 3.—The Antwerp correspondent of the Morning Post, after an investigation into the attempts of the Zeppelin airship in Antwerp, says that the carrying power of the Zeppelins has been greatly exaggerated, and that with proper precautions, a city can guard wholly against airships with such powers of mischief as the Zeppelins have demonstrated up to the present time.

It is officially announced that Gen. Gallieni, commander of the army defending the city, today issued the following proclamation to the inhabitants of Paris:

JAPS LAND MORE MEN

Chefoo Reports Mikado's Forces Strong at Lung Kow.

Pekin Protests That Japan Is Violating Neutrality.

Chefoo, China, Sept. 3, 5:20 p. m.—Japan landed 4,500 additional men at Lung Kow today. Of these forces 500 men are marines, the others being soldiers.

Between 10,000 and 15,000 Japanese troops had been landed at Lung Kow previous to today. The Japanese control the telegraph lines out of Lung Kow.

Pekin Protests.

Pekin, Sept. 3.—The exact number of Japanese troops ashore at Lung Kow, the Chinese post north of Tsing Tau, cannot be definitely determined here. It is believed, however, that no fewer than 6,000 men already are

SAYS PRINCE DIED BY HIS OWN HAND

Committed Suicide Rather Than Face Kaiser After Error.

London, Sept. 3.—(Delayed in transmission).—Prince Frederick William of Lippe took his own life, following a mistake of his regiment, according to Lady Randolph Churchill, formerly Miss Jennie Jerome of New York, who has just arrived here from Germany, coming by way of Holland.

"The true story of the death of Prince Frederick William of Lippe," she said, "is that he committed suicide. He was commanding a German cavalry regiment before Liege on Aug. 4, when his men, in the darkness of evening, nearly annihilated a German infantry regiment which it had mistaken for Belgians. The prince shot himself, fearing to face the anger of Emperor William. His widow, with whom I am acquainted, was informed of his death on Aug. 14."

HE IS THE THIRD NAVAL LORD OF GREAT BRITAIN

ADMIRAL SIR ARTHUR WILLIAM MOORE.

London, Sept. 3.—Admiral Sir Arthur Moore is the third naval lord of Great Britain. He has seen much service since he entered the navy in 1860. He has commanded the China station, the African station and was second in command of the Channel fleet. He served in the Egyptian war.

FIGHTING IS CONTINUING BOTH IN EAST AND WEST

The absence of official announcements from the capitals of the belligerents today is the surest indication that the fighting in the east and west continues without decisive results. Such news dispatches as escaped the censors tend to confirm earlier official claims and admissions.

Russia is pressing forward in the Austrian province of Galicia, after having taken the strongly fortified capital, Lemberg.

The Japanese are said to have occupied seven islands near Kiao Chow and to have landed additional troops within marching distance of that German stronghold, in the face of protests by China.

The governor and other German officials of Samoa have been made prisoners by the British and sent to the Fiji islands.

The government of France is now established at Bordeaux. The foreign embassies and legations, with the exception of those of the United States and Switzerland, have also been removed from Paris to Bordeaux.

DELLA CHIESA WILL SUCCEED POPE PIUS

Archbishop of Bologna to Be Known as Pope Benedict XV.

Has Been Cardinal But Little More Than Three Months.

Rome, Sept. 3.—Cardinal Della Chiesa has been elected pope, in succession to Pius X. The new pope will assume the name of Benedict XV.

Is Highly Esteemed.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The apostolic delegation has not yet been officially advised of the selection of the new pope. Word of the choice reached the delegation through press sources and great interest was manifested. It is pointed out that Cardinal Della Chiesa has had wide experience, both as administrator of the important see of Bologna and also on the diplomatic side as secretary of the nuncio at Madrid.

He is described as a man of great spiritual character and one of the most highly esteemed in the hierarchy.

Cardinal Giacono Della Chiesa, who was today elected pope by the sacred college in succession to Pius X, who died Aug. 20, was created a cardinal May 25, 1914. He is the archbishop of Bologna, Italy.

He was born at Pegli, in the diocese

JAPANESE PICK UP THE GERMAN MINES

Destroy Defenses and Occupy Seven Islands Off Coast.

London, Sept. 3.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company from Tokio, via Petrograd, says that the Japanese have occupied seven islands situated near Kiao Chow.

The Japanese, according to the dispatch, have swept up more than 1,000 mines which have been scattered by the Germans in the waters adjoining their Chinese stronghold.

PARIS MAY BE PIVOT OF OPERATIONS

London Strategists Regard Abandonment of Paris as Necessary.

Big Battle Still Is in Progress—Reports Are Meager.

Word From the Eastern War Zone Is Encouraging.

London, Sept. 3.—In spite of the fact that the French capital has been removed to Bordeaux and that the German army of the west is within thirty miles of the outer fortifications of Paris, a strange air of confidence prevails today among the allies. The general feeling seems to be that the German attack is wearing itself out in hammering away at the allies' lines, which give but do not break.

Military experts agree that Paris will soon be the pivot of the hostile forces operating in the area of the west. Even the downfall of the French capital, it is believed, would not end these operations.

The feeling of confidence was increased greatly by the news of the great victory of the Russians in Galicia. Reports from Petrograd tell of the entry of Russians into Lemberg, the capital of Galicia. These appear credible, as news of the defeat of the Austrians in that district has been received from several sources.

Still in Progress.

The battle to decide whether history will repeat itself in a second siege of Paris is still in progress, according to the latest official announcement here.

Future military historians will write volumes about the details of this battle, but all the British public knows officially concerning the titanic struggle—the most momentous British soldiers have fought since Waterloo—is contained in one sentence of an official report issued last night by the press bureau:

"Continuous fighting has been in

"WAS SECOND BALAKLAVA"

London Mail's Correspondent Describes Charge of Lancers.

Two Terrific Fights Are Told of in His Dispatch.

London, Sept. 3, 3:40 a. m.—The Daily Mail's correspondent behind the British lines describes the charge of the Ninth Lancers, which occurred at an unnamed spot during the recent series of tactical retreats, as a second Balaklava. He says:

"Terrible havoc has been caused in our ranks by shells from a battery of eleven German guns posted inside a forest near the Belgian frontier.

"It seemed impossible to silence their fire until the Ninth Lancers made their attempt, riding straight at the guns after debouching into the open, and charging under a hail of melinite and lyddite.

Reached Guns; Killed Gunners.

"I have not been able to get reliable figures as to the distance they rode, but they reached their goal. Nothing could stop them. They reached the guns, killed the gunners and put the guns out of action. Then, like their prototypes of Balaklava, they rode back.

"On the return they fell in greater numbers still from the action of other German batteries, posted at vantage points around the valley.

"Notable bayonet charges were made at . . . . . (name deleted) on Wednesday last. Several British infantry regiments occupied an exposed position around which the Germans gradually circled, drawing the noose closer and closer.

"The Britishers decided to cut their way through the cordon. So the men went at it, yelling and shouting, and got through, although the German artillery mowed them down frightfully."

"STAR SPANGLED BANNER" DEFENDED BY G. A. R. CHIEF

He Urges Its Retention as the National Anthem.

Encampment Takes Up Problems of Veterans' Order.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 3.—A plea for the perpetuation of "The Star Spangled Banner" as the American anthem, without alloy, was made fervently by Washington Gardner, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, in his address before the forty-eighth national encampment of that organization here today.

He urged the old soldiers to join in a movement to pay special honor to this song, and to discountenance the practice of playing it in medley with such "flippant and comparatively meaningless ditties" as "Yankee Doodle" and "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home." He said there was something inspiring in an audience rising and standing uncovered at the majestic strains of the national anthem, but it was "incongruous, bordering even on the ludicrous" for the band to strike up some other national

GERMANS THROWING POWER TO THE RIGHT

Inference Is Made in London From French Dispatches.

London, Sept. 3.—The British people continue to accept with stoicism the lack of news concerning the operations of the British army on the continent. The government has repeatedly assured the public that all news consistent with the national interest would be given out, and the people are accepting that assurance.

The French official reports throw further light on the operations than those of the British. The French reports say the action on the right of the northern wing has resulted in checking the Germans for a time. The inference plainly is that the Germans are employing all their forces in an enveloping movement against the allies' left wing. That that part of the allied army is retiring to the south and west indicates that the Germans have not yet outflanked them.

Three million Frenchmen are under arms to defend Paris. They still have confidence in the result of the war.

The Prince of Wales fund for the relief of suffering is now over $10,000,000. Recruiting in Great Britain has received impetus from the events of the past fortnight.

PLEASED WITH THEIR CHOICE

Bishop McGolrick Believes Cardinals Made Wise Selection.

Tells of Meeting the New Pope Five Years Ago.

"The selection of Cardinal Giacono Della Chiesa of Bologna as the successor to the late Pope Pius X by the college of cardinals at Rome this morning is a most commendable one and I am very pleased indeed," said Bishop James McGolrick, head of the Duluth Catholic diocese, when informed of the election result by The Herald. Bishop McGolrick just returned from a visit to St. Paul and had received no word of a successful ballot.

Met Him Five Years Ago.

"I met Cardinal Chiesa, the new pope, about five years ago," continued Bishop McGolrick, "and I found him a most wonderful man. Although one of the greatest scholars living, he is a man easily approached and as easy to converse with as a child. He is a delightful conversationalist, as I found during my short talk with him in Rome and later at Bologna, where I visited.

"Although reports from Rome state that several of the other cardinals were more prominently mentioned for the papacy, I am sure the selection of Cardinal Della Chiesa will be welcomed. He is a great man, an able executive, a remarkable scholar and a person well acquainted with the various nations of the world, their peoples and characteristics.

"The selection of an Italian cardinal was rather expected and at this time is more especially commendable, as Italy is one of the neutral nations in the European war. Pope Benedict XV, as the new papal ruler will be called, should prove a great factor in the battle of nations, and I am sure he will fill his task with credit."

New Pope 60 Years Old.

Looking through his records, Bishop McGolrick found that the new pope is 60 years old, having been born on Nov. 21, 1854, in Regli, Italy. He was ordained a priest on Dec. 21, 1878, and a cardinal on May 25, this year, so that he was one of the youngest cardinals in the college.

Up to noon Bishop McGolrick had received no official announcement of the selection of Cardinal Della Chiesa as the successor to Pope Pius.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "The Littlest Rebel."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville and motion pictures.
GRAND—Vaudeville and motion pictures.

Amusement Notes.

A little girl of eight—"going on nine"—is the pathetic central figure of Edward Peple's fine Civil war play, "The Littlest Rebel" now playing at the Lyceum. About her tender form the angry forces of war swirl and eddy, but roll back at last leaving her scatheless.

Two soldiers on opposite sides of the great conflict risk their lives to achieve her safety and are drawn back from the brink of summary execution by the power of the simple truth that comes with child-like candor from her lips.

It is the finest and most touching of the Civil war plays and it has successfully captured a host of Duluth theatergoers. Little Muriel Cole, who has been brought here especially for the role of the "littlest rebel" has a talent far beyond her years and she is giving a remarkable performance of this great part.

The Baldwin Players seem to be at the zenith of their success and the company has never been stronger than it is at present with the excellence of their work and the magnificent productions given by Mr. Baldwin.

Next week opening Sunday matinee and night and giving way to "Omar" Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, continuing with a matinee Thursday, Friday and Saturday and Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, the Baldwin Players will present an elaborate production of "Thelma," Marie Correlli's famous story.

* * *

At least two men on this week's Orpheum bill face the necessity of relying upon their powers of concentration and instantaneous thought while on the stage. An instant's confusion, or a moment of mental abstraction would make their act a failure.

The two men are Harry Breen and Claude Golden. The former is called "the rapid fire song writer." Much of his act is improvised while he is in front of the audience. He sings songs about his audience making up the words as he goes along. The act seems to the audience to be a mere jumble of nonsense, but any person who has attempted to improvise words to any music while he is singing it will realize the necessity for concentration. Mr. Breen says his chief difficulty is in refraining from any words that might offend. Nobody likes to be held up to ridicule, and the singer must not only compose his lines but edit them after he has done so. "Sometimes I think of a good line and have to drop it instantly because it might offend," said Mr. Breen. "Getting a new one is harder than getting the first one."

Mr. Golden the card wizard, must also do some rapid thinking. Some of his card tricks involve complicated mathematical problems, which must be worked out instantly to make the trick effective. There may be reason, therefore, in Mr. Golden's stage stuttering. He has the appearance and manner of a simple-minded inoffensive little man, afflicted with a bad case of stammering. The stammering gives him a few seconds additional time in which to work out his mental problems.

But if either of the two performers through nervousness or any other cause, failed to think rapidly on the stage, his act would be a complete failure.

Each succeeding vaudeville offering presented at the new Grand since its opening seems to have been more popular. There seems to be no end to Manager Ed. R. Salter's list of novelties. The change of program announced for today and the remainder of the week includes the Three Stewart Sisters and Their Escorts, described as a sextet of quality in a carnival of dances and pantomimes. The Brothers Conchel are said to be not only clever musicians, but also comedians of note. Their act is a distinct novelty.

The Howard Sisters are known as the International Entertainers. They are said to be captivating girls and post graduates of the school of strenuosity. Two tan colored men, not seen here for many years, are Al Anderson and Jay Goines. They are said to be well worthy of wearing the mantle of that former great team of gloom destroyers, Williams and Walker. The new photo plays to be exploited by the Grandoscope include the Hearst-Selig news, lately seen at the Orpheum, "The Masked Wrestler," a two reel picture by Essanay and "The Honeymooners," a Vitagraph film. This bill will continue every day from 12 noon until 11 p. m. until Saturday night.

ENGLISH WOMEN READY TO HELP IN THE WAR

WOMEN'S CONVOY CORPS, ENGLAND.

The Women's Sick and Wounded Convoy Corps of England is a hospital auxiliary for field service, organized by the women of England. The women have been camping with the territorial troops each year and going through a regular stretcher and "first aid" drill. So far as known here the territorial troops have not been ordered out of England, and the Convoy Corps will be used only in local relief work.

RAIL VALUATIONS ARE NOT BOOSTED

North Dakota Equalization Board Ignores State Tax Commission's Request.

Bismarck, N. D., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Recommendations of the state tax commission to greatly increase the assessed valuation of railroads in North Dakota, were not acted upon favorably by the state board of equalization. The board was of the opinion that the present assessments were on the basis of equality with others.

Increase Branch Lines.

The only railroad increases that were made were in several branch lines, in accordance with the improved value of the railroad lines through the development of the territory tributary. The total assessments of railroads is $45,422,000.

The equalization board adjourned, fixing the levy for next year at 4 mills.

RECEIVED SHIPMENT FROM MUELHAUSEN

Duluth Merchants Get Consignment of Cotton From Alsace.

Through the Duluth customs house, the George A. Gray company has received a case of linens shipped in bond direct to Duluth. They came on the Celtic, which is reported to have had a narrow escape from a German cruiser, but which arrived safely in New York on Aug. 14.

Probably one of the last shipments exported from Muelhausen, Alsace, which has been the scene of several battles since the war began, arrived at Grays at 3:45 p. m. Tuesday. It consisted of 399 boxes of D. M. C. cotton. The war insurance and cost of export charge on these goods will add quite a bit to the usual import cost.

However, the purchasers consider themselves fortunate in receiving any of these goods at all, as they are now almost entirely off the market and as the factory is out of commission, it will be a long time before any more may be obtained.

Great interest has centered around this shipment, as it was ordered especially for the Christmas fancy work and was shipped out of Muelhausen via the Basle-Antwerp railroad by Dollfus, Mieg & Cie on July 25, for export on a Dutch steamer.

Several hundred people guessed the time of the arrival. The nearest correct guesser was Miss Mary Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baldwin, of 1529 East Second street. The next nearest guess was from Miss Georgina Rodger of 705 East Third street, who guessed 10 o'clock of the same day.

It is said that two other Duluth houses also received shipments of D. M. C. sometime ago, and it is quite likely that Duluthians are more fortunate than women in many other cities, where the stores have not secured their supplies.

INTERESTING SIDELIGHTS ON THE EUROPEAN WAR

Duluthian Tells of Wonderful Motor Cavalry of Germany, the New German Army Uniforms, and Control of Seas By England.

Many interesting incidents of the European war are related by W. H. Schilling, assistant superintendent of the Duluth schools, who returned yesterday from a summer abroad.

"How badly England fears a German invasion is shown by the fact that along the east coast of England and Scotland barbed wire fences ten feet in height have been erected," said Mr. Schilling. "I do not know that this fence extends the whole length of the coast, but I have seen miles and miles of it.

"The press censorship is so complete in England that the English people know less about the war than we do in America. In England they are going about their business in a dogged way and outwardly there are few signs of war, except for the mobilization activities. A friend of mine in Carlisle, Scotland, counted ninety-six trains of troops in one day.

"The press correspondents are mostly in Holland. Richard Harding Davis and other well known war writers are there.

Motor Cavalry.

"One feature of the war that has been little emphasized in the dispatches is the wonderful motor cavalry of the German army. They have a new type of motor car which will carry from eighteen to thirty-six men. It is protected by armor, and on the wonderful roads of France and Germany can travel at high speed. The army has hundreds of these cars. You can imagine what a charge of these cars would be like and how quickly reinforcements could be rushed to any point. Nothing is effective against it but artillery. Rifle bullets are useless, as the men in the cars are protected from rifle fire.

"Another interesting feature is the new German army uniform. It is a gray-green color, and harmonizes perfectly with the background. In the early morning or early evening it is impossible to tell at a distance of half a mile whether there are 200 or 2,000 men in a troop. There is nothing to aim at at a distance of half a mile or more.

"One of the most noticeable effects of the war in England is the number of motor cars taken out of commission. The petrol used there comes chiefly from Austria, and probably two-thirds of all the motor vehicles in England are laid up. More of them are going into disuse daily.

The English Fleet.

"The complete command of the seas is a wonderful tribute to the English fleet. The English and American liners are crossing unmolested. Many have wondered where the English fleet is. Nobody knows definitely, outside of official circles, but it is not hard to guess that it is most efficiently scooping up the German warships, or the seas would not be as safe as they are. The bulk of the fleet is undoubtedly in the North sea, defending the English coast, and watching for a chance to pick up any German vessels that venture out.

"Food prices in London are nearly normal. The government saw to that most effectively after the first war scare. It is in complete charge of the food supplies.

"The Bank of England also showed its efficiency. When war was declared the banks were closed for four days. You can imagine the conditions with thousands of frantic tourists pouring into London. They opened on Friday, and meanwhile the Bank of England has printed an immense supply of one pound and smaller bank notes. When the banks opened there was no sign of a panic. There seemed to be money in plenty for all."

GIRL SPURNS BOTH LOVERS

Judge Windom and Police Captain Fail in Role of Cupid.

Rivals for Austrian Maid's Hand Both Lose Out in End.

Judge Windom and Captain Fiskett made futile efforts at playing the role of Cupid in police court yesterday afternoon. First one tried the part of the love God and then the other, but to no effect.

Mary Widosh, the 21-year-old girl from Austria, who left Mike Rosita, her betrothed, after he brought her to Hibbing, all the way from Austria and then ran away to Duluth with Matt Mazalic, with whom she was arested in a Fifth avenue rooming house Tuesday evening, refused to be married to Mazalic by Judge Windom. The court had declared in the morning that he would suspend the charges against them, if they would marry.

Wanted Church Wedding.

In the afternoon Mary and Mazalic were brought into headquarters for the marriage ceremony, a license having been hurriedly obtained by George Basich, the interpreter. It was then that Mary declared she wanted a church wedding. She would have none of the court's marriages, she said.

At this point Judge Windom asked if anyone in the room had anything to say, and Rosita, who was seated in the rear of the courtroom, declared he objected. He then rushed up and told how he had brought Mary to Hibbing, how he had purchased furniture for their home, how he bought her a diamond ring, a marriage license and had even made his insurance policies all payable to her. With tears in his eyes he told the court that she then ran away from Hibbing in company with Mazalic. He would still take her back, he said, and he asked the court to help him.

Girl Spurns Both.

Judge Windom and Captain Fiskett tried to play the role of Cupid. First the court would talk to Mary and then the captain would try to persuade her to marry her first lover. For an hour this continued, until finally the would-be love gods had to give up in despair. Mary would marry no one but Mazalic. And furthermore, she would not allow the judge to marry her, but insisted on a church wedding. And when the court refused, Mary declared she would marry neither and that she would go to work and support herself.

Finding Mary adamant in her stand, the court then ordered Mazalic put into jail for thirty days, while Mary was given her liberty on condition that she obtain work and behave herself.

It is time for heavier underwear. The place to buy it is the Columbia.

TRIES TO CASH AN 18-YEAR-OLD DRAFT

August Wilda, 27 years old, who was arrested yesterday afternoon while trying to cash an 18-year-old bank draft that had been canceled as many years, was released by the police this morning. Wilda admitted having found the valueless draft on the street, but said he merely tried to find out if it was worth anything.

FUNERAL ARRANGED FOR BOYS DROWNED WEDNESDAY

ARTHUR FISHER.

OLE HOLMAN.

The funeral arrangements for the two boys drowned yesterday afternoon in the pond at the foot of Forty-seventh avenue west were completed this morning by the parents. One will take place tomorrow afternoon and the other on Saturday morning.

The services for Ole, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Amund Holman, 509 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the residence with burial in Oneota cemetery. Rev. J. C. Reinertson, pastor of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, will officiate.

The service for Arthur, the 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fisher, 5714 Wadena street, will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. James Catholic church with burial in Calvary cemetery. Rev. D. W. Lynch will officiate.

Fixed Up a Raft.

The two boys had left their home at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon to play in the neighborhood, according to the belief of their mothers. The parents were entirely unaware that they were going near the bay front or that they had ever been there before. The boys had improvised a raft of two logs and had poled it near to the center of the pond when the accident happened.

According to a statement made to the police by a cook employed at boarding cars standing near the pond, he had watched the boys for some time. He says he noticed the logs spread apart and the boys tumble into the water. They did not come up again.

The police, the coroner and M. J. Filintrault were immediately notified and went to the scene. Three men, Thomas Kilby, Frank Lamoureau and William Dace, who were about a block from the place when the accident happened immediately set to work to get the boys out. They succeeded after nearly two hours' work.

Fathers Are Notified.

The fathers of the boys were notified of the accident shortly after they were recovered. Mr. Holman is employed on the Missabe ore dock and Mr. Fisher at the Zenith blast furnace. The Holman boy was the second oldest child of four children and the Fisher boy, the youngest of a family of three.

During carnival week at the West end the little Fisher boy wandered from home towards carnival grounds and after a search of several hours by the police, was finally found headed homeward at Thirty-ninth avenue west. The child is said to have been very clever in finding his way about the city and his little excursions were thought little of by his parents.

Tour State in Auto.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Judson, 635 North Fifty-ninth avenue west, left this forenoon for a ten days' automobile trip through Western Minnesota and North Dakota. They will visit many of the principal cities in the western part of the state, and on their return will stop at the Twin Cities to take in the closing days of the state fair.

BIRDS BUILD NEST IN TREE CARVING

Cruiser Finds Duluth Man's Name on Tree Near Border —Petrified Eggs Remain.

When Charles McLennan, 5916 Polk street, carved his name in a tree that overlooks International Falls on Dec. 25, 1900, he probably never had any idea the cuts made by his knife would ever become inhabited. But such is the case according to a communication to The Herald received this morning from H. W. Bright of Bemidji, Minn.

In his letter Mr. Bright said he had just returned from a cruise along the international border and that the discovery of the name was one of the features of the trip. His attention was called to the tree on account of its exceptional size. It is six feet in diameter and towers fully eighty feet in the air. It has been reserved by the Crookston Lumber company as a landmark.

McLellan's name and address as well as the date of the carving are now partly covered with a new bark surface. The figure 6 was exceptionally deep. Investigation further revealed that it had undoubtedly been used as a nest by some small birds and the letter "C" had also been used for the same purpose. In addition to the abandoned nest in the letter were three eggs of a fairly large size that never were hatched. The eggs have become petrified and remain as a relic.

Swanstrom-Einolander.

The wedding of Miss Lydia Swanstrom to Swan Uno Einolander took place at 8 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Swanstrom, 11 North Sixty-second avenue west. Rev. C. V. S. Engstrom, pastor of the West Duluth Swedish Mission church, read the service.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ida Swanstrom, and the groom's sister, Miss Hedwig Einolander. The groomsmen were Hjalmer Einolander and Emil Widen. The bride wore a gown of pink crepe de chine and carried a shower bouquet. The bridesmaids wore a pink silk and carried pink roses. The wedding took place in the front room, which was prettily decorated with yellow chrysanthemums. The living room and dining rooms were decorated with pink flowers.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at which intimate friends and relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Einolander left last evening for a two weeks' wedding trip and will be at home after Oct. 1 at Superior.

ONEOTA STREET REPAIRS ASKED

Property Owners Want Holes in Road Filled Up.

Property owners of Oneota street are disappointed because the city is not making repairs on the street. They claim that in view of the fact that the commissioners refused to let the paving of the thoroughfare proceed as planned early in the spring, that the city should at least provide some crushed rock for spots in the street which are now said to be impassable.

"Something ought to be done to better the condition of the street," said Harry Raymond this morning. "The property owners were willing to pay for paving but the city refused to go ahead with the work. The commissioners should be willing now to spend a small sum to place crushed rock in the holes in the street. We have paid out some money to have such work done in front of our place and it is only right that other spots that are in need of fixing should be repaired at once. Teams and automobiles are continually becoming stuck in the mud holes of the street."

Boys Break Lights.

The police intend putting a stop to the breaking of globes on street lights by boys. As a result of the campaign the police last evening arrested two boys, both of whom are less than 12 years of age. They were alleged to have broken globes on street lights at Forty-ninth avenue and Main street. The boys will probably be taken before the juvenile court Saturday.

MUCH COAL IS STILL DUE

Canada Taking Large Amounts and Vessel Men Are Behind.

Through a combination of circumstances the coal shipments were lighter last week than they were during the previous week, which was the slowest week of the season.

Canadian dealers have taken so much hard coal and the Eastern demand has been so large that lake shipments have been neglected. This is regarded in the East as a rather peculiar phase in view of the fact hard coal docks are not so crowded as the bituminous docks. When hard coal shipments are increased it is thought the movement will be steady through the rest of the season, as the shippers are back on their vessel contracts.

Soft coal is no more plentiful than hard coal. Boats are being switched around as best they can to make the coal cargoes go as far as possible and short cargoes are not uncommon.

A number of boats have been named for loading on contract, but no Lake Superior business. Most of the vessels offered have been accepted, but in one or two instances the shippers have not said whether they will be able to load the boats.

Ore shippers see no change in their prospects for sales. Trade reviews now forecast an improvement will not come for another three or four weeks as it will require that much longer for conditions due to the war to adjust themselves. This would be too late for much additional ore to be produced and brought down.

EASTON TIED UP FOR REPAIRS

Brought in From Two Harbors With Piston Broken.

The steamer Easton of the Booth line was brought into the harbor this morning by the tug Minnesota, and is tied up at the Booth dock, her engine undergoing repairs. She was found in distress off Two Harbors last evening by the fishing launch Goldish, having broken a low pressure piston.

The Goldish was unable to tow the stranded steamer into port, but took a man off and he telephoned for assistance from Two Harbors. The Goldish was too far out to hear the Easton's whistle for assistance, but the master saw the steam and surmised that the Easton was in trouble. The Minnesota left this harbor last evening on receiving the call, and brought the Easton back this morning.

SHIP BUILDER OF MANITOWOC DIES.

Manitowoc, Wis., Sept. 3.—Henry Burger, head of the Burger Shipbuilding company and known all over the lakes, is dead at the age of 61. He had been a sufferer for several months but until recently his condition was not considered alarming. He was a member of the Burger family that has become known throughout the great lakes district because of the many craft they have built.

Master Is Ill.

Capt. Robert Foote, master of the steamer Noronic, flagship of the Northern Navigation company's fleet, was severely ill when the steamer reached this harbor on Tuesday. Three doctors came with him from Port Arthur, he having refused to leave his ship at that port. He was much easier when the vessel left this port, and it is believed that no serious complications will arise. It was a case of stomach trouble.

DULUTHIAN WILL REMAIN IN MUNICH

The American Ambassador Cables News of Wilson G. Crosby.

The American ambassador at Berlin has cabled that Wilson G. Crosby, one of Duluth's prominent citizens who was in the war zone at the outbreak of hostilities, will remain at Munich, making no immediate attempts to get to this country.

The cable was sent to William J. Bryan, secretary of state, and the information was forwarded to J. H. Trux, secretary of the European Tourists' Information bureau, which has been established in the office of Mayor Prince at the city hall.

The wire from Secretary Bryan contains the first recent information which the bureau has obtained of any Duluthians now in Germany.

The bureau has been requested by W. B. Brinkman, manager of the George A. Gray company, to use its endeavors to secure some information relative to his aunt, Mrs. A. C. Brinkman, and her daughter, Miss Florence Brinkman. The last he heard from them was a letter dated at Berlin, July 26, and received by him Aug. 27, a month later. At that time they were planning to spend a month at a watering place on the Baltic, intending to return at the end of September to Berlin, where Miss Brinkman is studying music. They went to Berlin last year and planned to remain two or three years.

Secretary Trux forwarded the information furnished him by Mr. Brinkman to Congressman Clarence B. Miller, who promptly replied that he had started the search for Mrs. and Miss Brinkman. Mr. Brinkman told the mayor that although they are undoubtedly provided with ample funds he is worried because he has received no word from them since the war broke out.

HYDROPLANES IN POWER BOAT RACES

Big Regatta Is Opened on Niagara River Course.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 3.—The Sixth annual power boat regatta on the Niagara river opened this afternoon. Nine of the fastest hydroplanes in America are entered, among them Ankle Deep and Reliance VI of New York and the Kitty Hawk VI of Detroit. Canada will be represented by the Baby Doris of Hamilton, Ont.

The opening event, which will be started at 4 o'clock, will be the 25-mile race for the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce trophy. The regatta will last three days.

BANQUET FOR BALL PLAYERS

Win or lose, the Duluth baseball team is receiving, already, the encomiums of the fans of this city, and on Monday night will be the guests of Manager Harry Blume at the Spalding hotel. Mr. Blume, this morning, gave Manager Day of the Spalding orders to arrange a banquet on an elaborate plan for next Monday night, and told Mr. Day that "nothing is too good for our boys."

That was one thing, but shortly afterwards T. B. Hawkes bought a sheaf of tickets for Darby day and, remarking that Darby O'Brien should be given the send-off of his life by Duluth ball "bugs" this season, said that it has been his privilege this year to see a good many big league games, and added:

"It takes trips away from home to really realize the value of the home team and of home things in general. I have seen no better baseball in Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland and other points than I have seen right here in Duluth. And that is not letting loose my home pride, either. That is the fact."

Lincolns to Practice.

The Lincoln football team will call its first practice Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at the Thirty-second avenue west grounds. The Lincoln team played a good game last year, winning thirteen straight games. Several games have been scheduled with out of town teams for this fall and the boys expect to have the same success as they did last year.

Trotter Is Sold.

The Zenith sales stables yesterday sold the thoroughbred trotter, American Boy to Al Honeysett. The horse has a mark of 2.09.

WILL DISCUSS IMPROVING ROAD.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks and Crookston, Minn., good road workers will hold a conference at Crookston this evening to outline plans for contemplated road improvements between the two cities.

With a heavy automobile traffic between Grand Forks and Crookston the road building forces believe that a plan of work will bring about the general improvement of such roads, making them a model for this section.

CAPITOL IS ALL PAID FOR

Walter J. Smith, State Treasurer, Tells of Last Payment.

Big State House Cost $4,500,000—Started With $950,000.

Walter J. Smith of St. Paul, state treasurer, is in Duluth on his annual "hay fever" trip.

Talking through his nose, Mr. Smith told about a big bonfire the state officials are planning.

Tuesday Mr. Smith took up the last certificates of indebtedness outstanding against the state capitol and these certificates will furnish food for the bonfire. The last batch of certificates amounted to $500,000.

The capitol, which was built at a cost of $4,500,000, now stands free from debt and state officials are planning the bonfire to mark the occasion.

The permanent school fund held $300,000 and the swamp land fund held the other $200,000 worth of the certificates that were taken in Tuesday.

Work on the capitol was started with a $950,000 appropriation by the legislature. The remaining $3,550,000 needed to build the structure was raised by the issuance of certificates of indebtedness. Last April $300,000 was paid off, leaving the last $500,000. The first issue of the certificates was on Oct. 1, 1897, of $50,000 worth at 4 per cent. The last issue was in 1905 at 3½ per cent.

Governor Eberhart, Attorney General Smith, Samuel G. Iverson, state auditor, and Walter Smith will be present at the bonfire.

According to Mr. Smith the finances of the state never were in better condition than they are now.

Mr. Smith will be in Duluth several days. He will take a trip on the range before returning to St. Paul.

OBITUARY

Baron John Henry De Villiers, chief justice of the supreme court of the Union of South Africa, died at Pretoria, Union of South Africa, Sept. 2. He was attorney general and minister of marine in the Botha cabinet, and was made baron in 1910. He was born in 1842.

George W. Esterly, who died in Washington, will be buried at his Wisconsin home. Esterly was 73 years old, is survived by his wife, one daughter and three sons. The children are all married and living in different parts of the country. Mr. Esterly was born in Whitewater, Wis., and for many years, with his father, conducted one of the largest harvesting machinery works in the Middle West. Following business reverses in 1892 he was appointed by President McKinley to the post of auditor for the state and other departments. On the abolishment of that office about three years ago, he took a clerkship in the same office, which place he held until his death. The death of a daughter about a year ago, and a severe apoplectic seizure which Mrs. Esterly suffered a few weeks since, contributed to illness which resulted in death.

Rev. Daniel Steele, first president of Syracuse university, died at his home in Milton, Mass., Sept. 2, after a long illness. He was 90 years old.

NERVOUS MEN

Men That Suffer From Nervousness Restored to Normal Health and Strength.

Every normal and healthy man has a natural and abundant endowment of potential Energy, and electro-magnetic Nerve Power. Units of Nerve Energy are drawn from the blood and stored in the celular substance of the Brain and the different Nerve Ganglia, for use in the performance of the involuntary function and voluntary actions of the Nerves.

In health these reservoirs of Vital Power are so abundant that the whole physical and mental being is filled and thrilled with the triumphant consciousness of power, of vitality. Such men possess personal magnetism, and unconsciously inspire those who come into social or business relations with them.

It's different with the man that suffers from ailments caused by weak, impoverished Nerves, the man that is "up in the air" from the least disturbance. Such men have little mastery or self-control, they "feel weak" and "run down," are "nervous" and have "lost ambition." If you suffer from frequent Headaches, loss of sleep and have spells of despondency, it probably means that your Nerves are starving for lack of energy, such as you derive from correct treatment with Organo-Therapy and Electro-Therapy. In the opinion and experience of the Progressive Medical Doctors there is nothing else that will equally restore suffering men so quickly to Health and Happiness.

We have made diseases of men our life study, and we have been eminently successful. The effect of the treatment is to cure those diseases and to restore men to the full enjoyment of nature's best gifts to the normal physical and mental conditions that characterize health.

Our offices are open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., at No. 1 West Superior street. All consultations are free.

$25 FOR A SINGLE VERSE

The Herald Offers Its Readers a Chance to Earn More Per Word Than Kipling or Roosevelt.

Although such literary giants as Kipling, Bernard Shaw and Roosevelt are content to receive but 25 cents a word for the product of their pen, The Herald will give $25 for a simple quatrain of verse in the form used by Edward Fitzgerald in his translated version of Omar Khayyam. The Herald will pay the winner of the first prize the highest price on record.

The Herald will give $25 in gold to the amateur poet, who submits the best quatrain based upon the following translation by Justim McCarthy from the original version of Omar Khayyam:

"Though heaven and earth were blent together, though all the luster of the stars went out, I would wait in your path, O beloved, and ask of you why you have taken away my life."

The task before the seekers of The Herald prize is to render the foregoing quotation into a single quatrain similar in form to that used by Fitzgerald in his version. That all may have an exact idea of just what is to be done, two of the most popular and perfect of Fitzgerald's stanzas are quoted, and may be used as guide as to structure only:

"A Book of Verses underneath the Bough,
A Jug of Wine, a Loaf of Bread—and Thou
Beside me singing in the wilderness;
Oh, Wilderness were Paradise enow!"

"And that inverted Bowl they call the sky,
Whereunder crawling coop'd we live and die,
Lift not your hands to IT for help—for it
As impotently moves as you or I."

Only orignal verses should be submitted. No employe of The Herald is eligible to compete.

The judges in the contest will be Guy Bates Post, who will come to the Lyceum theater Sept. 7, 8 and 9, in the great Persian spectacle, "Omar, The Tentmaker," in which he impersonates the famous poet, Omar Khayyam; George D. McCarthy, assistant secretary of the Commercial club; and the editor of The Herald.

To the author of the best quatrain, The Herald will pay $25 in gold.

To the author of the second best quatrain, The Herald will award a box at the Lyceum theater to see Guy Bates Post in "Omar, The Tentmaker" on Wednesday evening, Sept. 8.

To the authors of the five next best quatrains The Herald will give two tickets each for the performance of Guy Bates Post on Wednesday evening, Sept. 9.

As an additional reward for the winner of the first prize, arrangements have been made with Richard Watson Tully and Guy Bates Post to have the winning quatrain introduced into the dialogue of the play, "Omar, The Tentmaker," when the winning quatrain will be spoken by Mr. Post in his characterization of the Persian poet.

Rules Governing The Herald Contest.

1. Each quatrain submitted must be original and unpublished.

2. To be eligible, each quatrain must follow the structural form of the quatrains of Edward Fitzgerald, although the text itself must contain no phraseology contained in Fitzgerald's work.

3. It is unnecessary to include in the quatrains submitted any of the phraseology or even any of the words contained in the prose subject that has been set for versification. The versification may be as free as desired, provided only that the spirit of the Khayyam saying is preserved.

4. In judging the quatrains submitted, the judges will consider as being of equal importance three factors, i. e., originality, the preservation of the Khayyam meaning, and literary excellence.

5. All quatrains submitted should be addressed to the Omar Editor of The Herald and should be mailed not later than midnight, Monday, Sept. 7. No quatrain postmarked later than that hour will be considered.

6. No quatrain submitted can be returned, and stamps should not be enclosed for that purpose.

7. Contributions should be typewritten or plainly written in ink, and on one side of the paper only, and every contribution should bear the name and address of the author.

8. The prize-winners will be announced in The Herald, Tuesday, Sept. 8, and prizes will be distributed from The Herald office, Tuesday, Sept. 8.

CATARRH TRUTH

Told in a Simple Way

No Apparatus, Inhalers, Salves, Lotions, Harmful Drugs, Smoke or Electricity.

Heals Day and Night

It is a new way. It is something absolutely different. No lotions, sprays or sickly smelling salves or creams. No atomizer, or any apparatus of any kind. Nothing to smoke or inhale. No steaming or rubbing or injections. No electricity or vibration or massage. No powder; no plasters; no keeping in the house. Nothing of that kind at all. Something new and different, something delightful and healthful, something instantly successful. You do not have to wait, and linger and pay out a lot of money. You can stop it overnight—and I will gladly tell you how—FREE. I am not a doctor and this is not a so-called doctor's prescription—but I am cured and my friends are cured, and you can be cured. Your suffering will stop at once like magic.

I Am Free—You Can Be Free

My catarrh was filthy and loathsome. It made me ill. It dulled my mind. It undermined my health and was weakening my will. The hawking, coughing, spitting made me obnoxious to all, and my foul breath and disgusting habits made even my loved ones avoid me secretly. My delight in life was dulled and my faculties impaired. I knew that in time it would bring me to an untimely grave, because every moment of the day and night it was slowly yet surely sapping my vitality.

But I found a cure, and I am ready to tell you about it FREE. Write me promptly.

RISK JUST ONE CENT

Send no money. Just your name and address on a postal card, Say: "Dear Sam Katz: Please tell me how you cured your catarrh and how I can cure mine." That's all you need to say. I will understand, and I will write to you with complete information, FREE, at once. Do not delay. Send postal card or write me a letter today. Don't think of turning this page until you have asked for this wonderful treatment that can do for you what it has done for me.

WHOLESALE TRADE BRISK

Sales of Duluth Jobbing Houses Are Showing Steady Increase.

Higher Grain Prices Promotes Optimism Among Retailers Through West.

Duluth wholesalers and manufacturers are becoming still more optimistic as time goes on. The higher prices prevailing for all grains is leading to the placing of business on a more liberal scale by retailers over the Northwest, and consequently orders being taken in all lines are bulking up to substantially over last year's aggregate.

Current collections are said to be satisfactory and with the larger returns accruing to grain growers, even though the production of wheat fell below its original promise, a general clearing up of outstanding paper this fall is predicted.

Sugar Again Declines.

Trade in grocery staples and features is showing a steadily broadening tendency, according to the Barthe-Martin company of this city and the Twohy-Elmon Mercantile company of Superior. With few exceptions the market continues strong throughout the list. Sugars have again declined, being off 50 cents at New York to $6.50 per 100 pounds.

Coffees are still weakening, due to the reduced European demand, and the disturbed financial situation forcing some of the large Brazilian holders to unload. On the other hand, flour is strong, being now quoted by jobbers at $6.40 a barrel, an advance of exactly $2 since the war broke out.

It is thought by canners that the market in canned vegetables will be high this season, as, with the exception of peas, supplies are short in the principal Eastern and Middle West canning districts. That is said to be especially the case with corn, beets and beans, which have been affected by dry weather conditions. Large quantities of tomatoes are being put up, but their price situation is being influenced by the scarcity in the rest of the list. Quotations in domestic canned and dried fruits are unchanged and they are expected to be reasonable, as yields, of California products are heavy this year. All imported goods are advancing, with every probability that some articles will soon be off the list. Currants are up again, as are also all flavoring extracts.

Dry Goods Trade Good.

Business in dry goods is regarded as satisfactory all round by F. A. Patrick & Co. The house's salesmen who are now all on the road, are picking up a substantial volume of orders from over the territory as far as the Pacific coast. Mail and sorting up orders in many lines are now featuring, showing that merchants were conservative in uplacing their original business. Shipments of fall goods are still going forward, and the factory departments of the local establishment are working to capacity on mackinaws and garments.

Liberal Hardware Bookings.

Heavy bookings in staple hardware were reported by the Kelley-How-Thomson company and the Marshall-Wells Hardware company. Black and galvanized sheets are up 2 cents a ton this week, and window glass is strong, having been advanced 5 per cent all round since the war began, due to scarcity of manganese, one of the constituents in its manufacture. No special changes in other hardware figures have come about of late, but further bulges are expected to develop in the near future.

Furniture Outlook Bright.

"Our business is bulking up well ahead of last year, with North Dakota and Western Minnesota making the best relative showing," said H. E. Seitz of the De Witt-Seitz company. Salesmen are picking up good business in all classes of furniture, he averred, and they are making roseate predictions regarding the outlook for the fall and winter. The company has again found it necessary to increase the output of its mattress factory, and it is now operating with a larger staff than at any previous time in its history.

Shoe Orders Heavy.

Gratification was expressed by the sales department of the Northern Shoe company over the extent of the orders for spring goods being taken by travelers since starting out on their trips two weeks ago. Gains are said to be the rule, business being heavily placed in all grades of footwear. In the expectation of further advances through the list owing to the strong leather market, retailers are showing a disposition to book their requirements ahead as far as possible.

WELL KNOWN BRITISH OFFICERS ARE DEAD

Names Include Those of Distinguished Service Order Men.

London, Sept. 3.—The names of British officers killed or wounded in the fighting in France last week, were made public last night. The list contains names of men familiar throughout the United Kingdom. Virtually all the crack regiments are affected.

Among the killed are Robert Cornwallis Maude, sixth Viscount Hawarden, a lieutenant in the Coldstream guards, and Maj. Victor Reginald Brooke, military secretary of the viceroy of India.

Among the officers missing are Lieut.-Col. A. W. Abercrombie of the Connaught rangers; Lieut.-Col. D. C. Boger of the Cheshire regiment; Col. C. F. Stevens of the Royal artillery, and Col. H. N. Thompson of the medical corps.

Maj. Brooke was born in 1873 and entered the army in 1894. He had seen active service several times and had received decorations including the Distinguished Service Order.

Lieut.-Col. Abercrombie also was a wearer of the Distinguished Service Order medal, as also was Col. H. N. Thompson.

GERMAN PATENTS MAY BE CANCELED.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—The Canadian government is considering the advisability of canceling German patents and copyrights held in Canada. The question is being discussed with the British board of trade. The patents held in Canada cover chiefly chemical preparations and electrical apparatus.

$20,000 TO SERVIAN RED CROSS SERVICE.

New York, Sept. 3.—Michael I. Pupin, president of the Serbo-American Red Cross committee in the United States, has cabled $20,000 to the Red Cross committee in Servia, it was announced at the Servian consulate here. This money has been raised in all parts of this country.

CANADIANS EAGER TO GO TO THE WAR

Regiment of 1,000 American Southerners Is Offered.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 3.—Dominion militia officials are being overwhelmed by men eager to go to the front. The first call was for 25,000 volunteers from which it was proposed to pick 21,000 to cross the Atlantic.

"There are now 35,000 men in camp at Valcartier, and more coming," Samuel Hughes, the minister of militia, said. "There are at least 6,000 men in camp who have never been ordered there. How did they get there? Well, I asked that question myself of the transport officer and was told that they had just come.

"I have not encouraged men to go to the front, but I do not intend to discourage them. They will go to the front eventually.

"I have just received another offer of a regiment 1,000 strong from the United States. This offer comes from a leading man in a Southern state who writes that if allowed to do so, he will bring up 1,000 men who are descendants of the best English, Irish and Scotch families in the South."

ITALIANS BIASED BY GERMAN STORIES

London, Sept. 2, (delayed in transmission.)—The Evening News publishes the following dispatch from its correspondent at Milan, Italy:

"Italian news correspondents are complaining of the great delay in transmission on telegrams filed in London by Italian correspondents addressed to papers in Italy. These messages take from twenty to thirty hours to come through, while press telegrams from Berlin take only four or five hours to reach Italy. As a result the German version of events always precedes the English version, and influences Italian opinion to such an extent that first impressions, which always are given by Germany are most detrimental and difficult to correct."

TRAWLER AND STEAM VESSEL BLOWN UP.

Grimsby, Eng., via London, Sept. 3.—A trawler was blown up by a mine in the North Sea and seven of her men are missing. The trawler was endeavoring to avoid one mine when it struck another.

A Danish steamer is reported to have been blown up by a mine, but the nineteen members of her crew were saved by a trawler.

The trawler Stett was sunk by a German warship, according to a telegram received from her skipper, who is at Amsterdam. He reported all hands on board the trawler had been saved.

GRAHAME-WHITE HEADS AVIATORS.

London, Sept. 3.—Claude Grahame-White, the noted aviator, has been appointed a temporary flight commander in the British navy. Richard T. Gates, who recently resigned from the Royal Aero club, has been appointed a temporary flight lieutenant.

AMERICAN DOCTORS AND NURSES WANTED.

New York, Sept. 3.—Miss Mabel Boardman, chairman of the American Red Cross, who is in New York directing the work of fitting out the Hamburg-American liner Hamburg, which under the name of the Red Cross has been chartered to take the American Red Cross units to the war zone, says she has received a communication from the Greek government asking if the American society was in a position to supply doctors and nurses for service with the Greek army.

She had received also through Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople, she said, an inquiry as to what aid could be given to the Turkish armies if Turkey was involved in the conflict.

WEST END

HERALD BRANCH:
Herman Olson, Manager, 1823 West Superior Street.

PAVING WORK IS COMPLETED

Twenty-Ninth Avenue Will Soon Be Ready for Traffic.

Another paved avenue in the West end will be thrown open to traffic within a few days. The contractor in charge of the paving of Twenty-ninth avenue has completed his job and it will be but a few days before the paving has set sufficiently to allow traffic to pass over it.

Twenty-ninth avenue is the fourth thoroughfare between Superior and Third streets that has been paved within the last two years. The other streets are Twenty-first avenue, Twenty-third avenue and Twenty-seventh avenue. The latter is paved to Fifth street and Twenty-third avenue is paved to Tenth street.

Another street that will be completed this fall that will connect with Third street is Vernon. The concrete base has been laid and the contractor is now waiting for fair weather to begin laying the brick surface. Vernon street is being paved from the intersection of First street and Grand Forks avenue to Pacific avenue.

COLONIALS TO THE FRONT

British Columbia Sends Two Trainloads of "Six-Footers."

Contingent of Sikhs From India Passes Through Fort William.

R. D. Fox, deputy customs collector, returned today from the Canadian Head of the Lakes, states that Canadian soldiers — experienced and "rookies"—have been passing through Port Arthur and Fort William by the trainload from British Columbia and other Western Canada points, but on Tuesday of this week a contingent of Sikhs, black soldiers from India, passed through there on their way east and more soldiers from the British oriental possessions are expected soon.

The men are being sent to Quebec, where they are placed in barracks and assigned to the different regiments, after which they will be shipped to the European seat of war.

Mr. Fox says that two trainloads of recruits from British Columbia arrived on the day he was there and there was not a man among them under six feet in height, while shortly afterwards another trainload came from Fort Garry and many of them would not measure more than 5 feet 6 inches. These little fellows are assigned to the light horse artillery and similar service, while the big fellows are infantrymen.

"Two hundred men from the Ninety-sixth regiment are on duty on the docks at Fort Williams," said Mr. Fox today. "They camp right on the docks and permit nobody to pass unless they have the proper countersign and word. On this side of the line we do not appreciate the seriousness of the situation. In Canada everything but preparations for the war and for sending men forward to fight for the mother country has practically ceased. Business is almost forgotten and nothing but war is discussed."

The building committee held a meeting yesterday and opened the bids. The committee will be prepared to recommend a bidder at tomorrow night's meeting, and it is expected that the contract will be let and the contractor instructed to get the proposed building under way as quickly as possible. The building will cost about $69,000.

There is some on hand, but when it is gone the plant will have to work entirely on sisal from Yucatan, which does not produce as fine a quality of twine as the African. The situation was discussed by the state board of control yesterday in conference with Warden Henry Wolfer of the state prison and C. S. Reed, superintendent of the St. Cloud reformatory, who is soon to succeed Mr. Wolfer as warden.

MAKING CHANGE ON STREET CARS

CONDUCTORS REQUIRED TO BE ACCOMMODATING WHEN POSSIBLE

We desire to respectfully call the attention of our patrons to the necessity of providing themselves with change before boarding cars.

Conductors are required to be prepared to furnish change up to the amount of $2.

Some persons appear to have the idea that the offering of any piece of "good money" on a street car is "legal tender" and that upon making such tender they have the right to be carried whether the conductor is able to make change for it or not. This idea is erroneous, as the courts have held that the tender of a $5 bill in payment of a 5-cent fare upon a street car is unreasonable and therefore not a legal tender. It will therefore be seen that a person who gets aboard a street car with nothing less than a $5 bill is in the same position as if he had no money at all, so far as paying his fare is concerned, and that in such cases it is not as unreasonable as it may at first appear for the conductor to politely ask him to step off the car, procure change and take the next car.

INSTRUCTIONS TO CONDUCTORS

But while conductors are not required to furnish change for any sum in excess of $2, they are instructed by the company to do so as an accommodation to passengers when possible. A conductor is required to have $10 in change when first starting out, and it can easily be seen that the changing of $5 bills from two passengers would exhaust this supply. If he accepted two such bills he would be compelled to stop the car and seek change himself while all his passengers waited.

MISTAKES IN CHANGE

When a conductor takes a piece of money from you from which you expect change, and passes on without returning change or audibly calling out the denomination of the money, you should not rely upon his having correctly read it and upon his returning your chance to you later, but should call him back at once.

In order to prevent mistakes in change, misunderstandings and short change complaints, our conductors have been instructed to call out audibly the moment they receive a piece of money from a passenger, the denomination of the coin or bill, the number of fares which they understand are to be taken from it, and the change to be given in return, and to at once count out the change audibly as they hand it to the passenger. Co-operation of our patrons in insisting upon our conductors observing this rule will be greatly appreciated and will greatly assist us in preventing mistakes regarding change.

VICTIMS OF SPECULATORS

Wealthy Americans Buy Ship and "Bleed" Tourists.

Charge $500 as Minimum for Passage to United States.

The story of how American speculators took advantage of their fellow countrymen in the European war zone by charging exorbitant prices for transportation to America is told by Dr. Rowland Gilmour of Bemidji, who arrived in Duluth from abroad Tuesday. Dr. Gilmour says several speculators formed a company and purchased the Norwegian steamer Viking and charged all they could get for passage.

"For this boat," said he, "they paid $400,000. Realizing that in London there were numerous American business men who would give most anything in their possession to return to America, the stockholders in this boat set a minimum price of $500 for passage across the Atlantic. A maximum price of all they could get was set, and every means to extract money from the persons unusually excited was used.

"Not only was the price extortionate but the accommodations were not of the best. They advertised that 400 passengers would be taken on the boat, believe that the first trip of the boat will pay for it and give each stockholder 100 per cent on his investment."

Dr. Gilmour's statements were verified by W. H. Schilling of Duluth, who returned home yesterday.

"This method of taking advantage of such a situation for mercenary purposes," Dr. Gilmour said, "is very unAmerican. It is the only case I know of where all United States citizens did not share accommodations and money liberally. Personally, I gave away two passages on different boats for American tourists. Many others also placed tickets in the hands of the American consul for the relief of the many who needed help."

Mr. Schilling stated that shortly after the Viking was purchased the Cunard line advertised it had plenty of passages, and the panic was relieved.

The money was found on Kelly by the authorities and the latter was bound over to the district court for larceny.

air in medley with this, and to observe the audience resume sitting in "an irregular, half-ashamed manner." It were better not to rise at all when the national hymn is played in medley, he said.

Headquarters at Washington.

A recommendation that permanent headquarters for the G. A. R. be established in Washington was another point of his address. Chicago and Philadelphia had been proposed, but he preferred the national capital, and thought that if possible the necessary space should be secured in a government building where the officers could keep closely in touch with matters before congress which affected the Grand Army.

A standing committee of seven persons, with the commander-in-chief and adjutant general of the G. A. R. as ex-officio members, he also recommended principally for the purpose of taking charge of all legislation which had the indorsement of the order. He said that such a committee would "concentrate responsibility, reduce expense and give promise of better results."

Committees Too Large.

"As it is now," he continued, "the committees having to do with proposed legislation, number, in the aggregate, nearly ten times seven and are widely separated. It is difficult to have a general meeting, save at large expense to the order or to the individuals. Under the present arrangement, responsibility is too widely diffused and members too rarely brought together for consultation and concert of action."

He urged that no change be made in the method of management of the soldiers' homes which are scattered throughout the United States. Concerning the matter, he said:

The Soldiers' Homes.

"Not a single complaint has come to the knowledge of the commander-in-chief from any member of any home during this administrative year. It is known that an effort is being made to place these homes, now under the care and supervision of our comrades, subject to the approval of the war department, into the custody of men who never saw military service in actual war and whose sympathies are not so likely to be directed toward our comrades, in their declining years. This seems to be a case where the old rule, 'Let well enough alone' will apply. This encampment, in my judgment, should say to congress that the Grand Army of the Republic is decidedly against the proposed change."

The present membership, in good standing, was reported as 171,335. During the year the roll was curtailed by the death of 11,187 old soldiers, but notwithstanding this large figure, it is 151 less than died during the preceding year.

Plunge Into Routine.

The Grand Army of the Republic and the several organizations affiliated with it plunged into routine business today. The principal event of the forenoon sessions was expected to be the annual address of the commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., Washington Gardner of Albion. It was acknowledged that Mr. Gardner was prepared to make several important recommendations.

The meetings of the Grand Army and the Women's Relief Corps promised to last until late in the afternoon. Questions of national policy concerning each order were to be discussed and probably decided upon before night. Matters of interest to the old soldiers included a movement to establish national headquarters in a large city, possibly Washington.

Act on Soldiers' Homes.

It also was considered quite probable that the encampment would officially protest to congress against any proposed plan to change the present method of management of the soldiers' homes scattered throughout the United States. These institutions have been managed by war veterans. Grand Army sentiment seems strongly against so-called outside control.

Receptions and campfires and a display of fireworks at Belle Isle were the entertainments arranged for tonight.

Col. J. L. Smith of Highland Park, Mich., champion long distance runner of the Civil war veterans, was called upon to defend his title this afternoon. At the state fair grounds he was to run ten miles against a picked relay team of ten old soldiers, each of whom was to run a mile. Col. Smith was victor in a similar race at the 1912 and 1913 encampments.

cannon. The occupation of the city of Lemberg was said to be imminent.

Routed the Austrians.

Petrograd, Sept. 3. — The general staff announces that after a seven days' battle the Russian forces seized the fortifications near Lemberg, capital of Galicia, and on Sept. 1, after a furious fight, routed the Austrians, who fled in disorder, abandoning many pieces of artillery.

Grand Duke's Report.

London, Sept. 3.—In a dispatch from Petrograd, dated yesterday, the correspondent of the Times quotes the message of Grand Duke Nicholas to the emperor on the Russian victory in Galicia as follows:

"I am happy to gladden your majesty with news of the victory won by the army of Gen. Ruzsky. After seven days of interrupted fighting, the Austrians are retreating in complete disorder. In some cases they are running away and abandoning their guns, rifles, artillery, packs and baggage trains.

"Prior to this decisive battle, Gen. Ruzsky's army captured in the course of the seven days' fight twenty-four guns, a multitude of firearms and a great number of machine guns."

FRENCH GOVERNMENT MOVES TO BORDEAUX

dent and the members of the senate and chamber of deputies left for Bordeaux this afternoon. Fifteen judges of the court of Cassation also will be transferred to the provisional capital of France.

In addition to the American ambassador, M. T. Herrick, the Swiss minister, M. Lardy, also has decided to remain in Paris. Mrs. Herrick will remain with her husband. All the ambassadors and legations except these two have been transferred to Bordeaux.

The population of the capital is taking the departure of the heads of the government calmly recognizing that it is a matter of prudence.

Although the city generally is placid, the people feel keenly the approach of the German army. Many families left for the West today, taking with them household necessities.

The railroad linesout of Paris to the north have virtually ceased running trains owing to fears of raids by German cavalry .

The proclamation announcing the change of seat of government was issued by the minister of the interior, who said the decision had been taken on the demand of the military authorities, because the fortified places of Paris, while not necessarily likely to be attacked, would become the pivot of the field operations of the two armies.

French Proclamation.

The proclamation follows:

"Frenchmen: For several weeks our heroic troops have been engaged in fierce combats with the enemy. The courage of our soldiers has won for them a number of marked advantages. But in the north the pressure of the German forces has constrained us to retire. This situation imposes on the president of the republic and the government a painful decision.

"To watch over the national safety, the public authorities are obliged to leave for the moment the city of Paris. Under the command of its eminent chief, the French army, full of courage and spirit, will defend the capital and its patriotic population against the invader. But the war must be pursued at the same time in the rest of the French territory.

Struggle for Honor.

"The struggle for the honor of the nation and the reparation of violated rights will continue without peace or truce, and without a stop or a failure.

"None of our armies have been broken. If some of them have suffered only too evident losses, the gaps in the ranks have been filled up from the waiting reserve forces, while the calling out of a new class of reserves brings us new resources in men and energy.

"'Endue and fight!' Such should be the motto of the allied army, English, Russian, Belgian and French.

"Endure and fight! While on the sea the allies have cut the enemies' communication with the world.

"Endure and fight! While the Russians continue to carry a decisive blow to the heart of the German empire.

Reason for Removal.

"It is for the government of this republic to direct this resistance to the very end, and to give to this formidable struggle all its vigor and efficiency. It is indispensable that the government retain the mastery of its own actions. On the demand of the military authorities, the government therefore transfers its seat momentarily to a point of the territory whence it may remain in constant relations with the rest of the country. It invites the members of parliament not to remain distant from the government, in order to form, in the face of the enemy, with the government and their colleagues a group of national unity.

Assured City's Defense.

"The government does not leave Paris without having assured a defense of the city and its entrenched camp by all means in its power.

"It knows it has not the need to recommend to the admirable Parisian population a calm resolution and sang froid, for it shows every day it is equal to its greatest duties.

"Frenchmen, let us be all worthy of these tragic circumstances! We shall gain a final victory, and we shall gain it by untiring will, endurance and tenacity, a nation that will not perish, and which to live evades neither suffering nor sacrifice."

of Genes, Nov. 21, 1854, and was ordained a priest Dec. 21, 1878. He served as secretary of the Nunciature in Spain from 1883 to 1887, in which year he was appointed secretary to the late Cardinal Rampolla.

He was appointed substitute secretary of state in 1901, and in 1907 he was elected to the post of adviser to the holy office.

Appointed to Madrid.

In 1907 he was appointed papal nuncio of Madrid in succession to Monsignor Rianoldini, but this appointment was canceled three days later. This incident had occurred just before he was made archbishop of Bologna. When Mgr. Della Chiesa was given this post it was declared in Rome that it was mainly with the object of combatting modern religious ideas, Bologna being the headquarters of the national Democratic league, where members advocated what is known as "modernism" in religion. In January, 1914, while still at Bologna, the present pope issued a pastoral letter strongly condemning the tango.

It has been 174 years since the time of the last Pope Benedict. On this election to the papacy in 1740, Cardinal Prospero Lambertini assumed that title. It is an interesting fact that the new pope was archbishop of Bologna, while Pope Benedict XIV was born in Bologna.

Two Americans Absent.

According to a dispatch from Rome, dated at 2:50 yesterday afternoon and received in New York early today, the White Star line steamer Canopic, bearing Cardinals Gibbons and O'Connell to Rome, was not due at Naples until tomorrow. Therefore it is probable that neither of these two American cardinals participated in the election of the new pope.

The choice falls on a cardinal of Italian birth, as was expected from tradition and from the disturbed conditions in Europe, which militated against the selection of a pope outside of the Italian hierarchy.

It was at the age of 24 that the new pope was ordained in the priesthood. He soon attracted the attention of Cardinal Rampolla, later secretary of state for Pope Leo XIII. When Cardinal Rampolla was made nuncio to Madrid, he took Mgr. Della Chiesa with him as secretary of nunciature.

Was Minor Official.

On Cardinal Rampolla's return to Rome to become secretary of state for the Vatican, Mgr. Della Chiesa entered the secretariat of state as one of the "minutanti," or minor officials, until 1901, when he was appointed substitute of the secretariat and also secretary of the cypher.

As secretary to the secretary of state, Cardinal Della Chiesa was brought into notable prominence throughout the Catholic hierarchy, but his position was not at that time of cardinalist rank. On the accession of Pope Pius X, Mgr. Della Chiesa continued in the secretariat until Dec. 16, 1907, when Pope Pius X gave him a noted promotion to the position of archbishop of the important see of Bologna.

Made Cardinal Last May.

For seven years he administered the see of Bologna with notable success, until in May last Pope Pius X named him among thirteen members of the hierarchy to receive the red hat.

The full title of the new pope, in addition to Benedict XV, will be Pope Bishop of Rome and Successor of St. Peter, Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church, Patriarch of the West, Primate of Italy, Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman Province, Sovereign of the Temporal Dominion of the Holy Roman Church.

on shore and that 24,000 more are coming.

The Chinese officials of Lung Kow politely protested against the landing of Japanese forces. The Japanese accepted the protest with equal politeness, and then proceeded to disregard it. There was no hostile incident during the Lung Kow landing.

The foreign office has formally protested to the Japanese and British legations here against the violation of China's neutrality involved in the landing at Lung Kow, which, being 100 miles from Tsing Tau, is approached fifty miles beyond the confines of the German leased territory. Knowing, however, that its protest would be useless, the foreign office at the same time requested the British and Japanese authorities to confine their operations to the zone extending on the north from Lung Kow to Liao Chow, and on the south to the previously prescribed fighting area. Neither legation, however, accepted these limitations.

The British regiments which are expected to take part in the investment of Tsing Tau still are at Tien Tsin.

ALLIES ARE HOPEFUL

Have Fallen Back.

To this generality the French official communication adds the fact that the allied forces have fallen back toward the southwest to avoid an action which might have been engaged under unfavorable conditions. How far and to what line the allies have gone is unknown.

There can be no revelation of military secrets, nothing which a patriotic censorship could criticize, in stating these facts, because the German army which is engaging the allies knows precisely where their first line is drawn, and the purpose of the censorship is only to suppress facts which might enlighten the enemy.

Official Reports Are Rare.

The brief official bulletin of last night is the first word the British people have received from their government concerning the present battle. The last previous bulletin was Field Marshal Kitchener's statement, issued Sunday night, throwing a welcome light on the previous four days' battle which ended Saturday, and which reflected the greatest credit on the generalship and discipline of the British army.

"German Advance Amazing."

The Daily News correspondent, wiring from Gournay-en-Bray, a small town near Rouen, says:

"The German advance is amazing. A great battle is raging, with what result I know not, but I do know that the French and British armies are intact and still confident of ultimate success.

"Incredible as it seems, the tremendous masses of men that the Germans have hurled at the allies have not overwhelmed them. It seems that while the Germans have the weight, the allies certainly have the wit and science, and these, with reinforcements, will eventually win.

"Gen. Pau had fine success, but in the center and left center the allies were not so successful, being obliged to retire. As a result of Sunday's battle the Germans now occupy * * * (name of town deleted by censor).

The Withdrawal From Paris.

The decision of the French government to withdraw from Paris while proving a momentary shock to the man in the street, is regarded both by politicians and strategists here as being as wise as it is painful.

To retain Paris as a center of the government would, it is held, be incompatible with the supreme necessities of France at the present moment. These are to keep the government free to act and to keep the army an unbroken force which neither can be captured in detail nor shut up in the fortresses.

A proclamation by the French government describes the move as precautionary and sets forth that an attack on Paris in the near future is not considered probable.

No Basis for Judgments.

No data upon which to base a judgment of the general situation over the wide flung battle line in France is available. The retirement of the allies without a defeat and fighting every foot of the way is an expression that has become stereotyped. It is, however, about the only official news that has reached London since Field Marshal Kitchener's story was given out last Sunday.

The Russian occupation of Lemberg, the capital of Austrian Gallicia, may have a far-reaching effect on the campaign in Eastern Europe, apart altogether from the loss of Austrian prestige through the fall of the city. More than three-quarters of the population are Poles and the Russians anticipate that their entry to the city will contribute toward the hope for Polish uprising against Germany. This uprising Emperor Nicholas contemplated when he promised autonomy to a united Polish kingdom.

The rush of recruits for the British army is phenomenal. No fewer than 60,000 men have joined Lord Kitchener's second army in the last few days.

Battle of Lemberg.

The battle of Lemberg was one of the greatest ever fought. Evidently it resulted in a decisive and perhaps overwhelming defeat of the Austrians. The battle line extended over 200 miles and it is estimated that 1,500,000 men were engaged.

According to an official dispatch received by Emperor Nicholas from Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces, the victory was won after seven days of fighting.

The Austrian army in Galicia was acting in close co-operation with two German army corps facing Breslau and seeking to envelope the Russian forces in Poland.

Their plans, however, met with a series of disasters, ending in a complete rout when an attempt was made to pierce the Russian center.

Line in the West.

In the west, the line now held by the left flank of the allied armies in the valley of Oise runs diagonally from a point northeast of Paris to Compiegne, and thence through Noyon (fourteen miles northeast by north of Compiegne) to La Fere.

La Fere, one of the weaker of the French fortresses, is in the hands of the Germans. Farther east and north the allied armies apparently hold their own in the neighborhood of Laon and Rethel (twenty-four miles northeast of Rheims). The right of the allies rests on the fortified Franco-German frontier.

The names of the British who fell in the four days' battle last week will not be announced until they have been communicated to relatives. The heavy loss of officers in proportion to the men is the story of South Africa over again. It indicates that the officers refused to take cover as they insist that the men shall.

GERMAN GOVERNOR OF SAMOA GIVES UP

Surrenders to New Zealanders and Is Sent to Fiji.

London, Sept. 3.—A dispatch from Wellington, New Zealand, declares the governor of New Zealand has received word that the German governor of Samoa has surrendered and that he has been sent with other German prisoners to the Fiji islands.

The landing of British troops in Samoa was carried out with great expedition. The Union Jack was hoisted over German Samoa at 2:30 in the afternoon of Aug. 29.

The Samoan, or Navigator, islands in the Pacific ocean up to the present time have been owned jointly by the United States and Germany, each country being in possession of two islands. Upolo and Savaii were the German holdings. The British force which took possession of this German territory was sent from New Zealand. The announcement of British occupancy was first made through London Aug. 30.

The Fiji islands are a British colony about 650 miles southwest of Samoa.

SAYS GERMANS SHOW SIGNS OF WEAKNESS

London Chronicle's Correspondent Says English Are Superior.

London, Sept. 3.—The Chronicle's correspondent at the front, writing from an unnamed town in the department of Somme on Tuesday, says:

"The superiority of the British artillery, coupled with the pluck of the British infantry, is rapidly telling on the German attackers. A few more days such as Sunday and Monday and the Germany army invading Northern France will have destroyed itself completely.

"No army that ever existed could endure and survive the terrible losses sustained by the Germans in the last few days. Whole divisions of infantry have been blotted out and shattered and the German ranks are beginning to show demoralization.

"In the latest assault the Germans manifested unmistakable signs of unsteadiness, were seen to waver and frequently to break and flee in confusion. As a result of this prolonged battle the German line has advanced a few miles, but has not gained any marked or decided advantage."

ONE OF MONTE CARLO DIRECTORS IS SPY.

London, Sept. 3.—A letter received in London by an American woman from a friend in Monte Carlo contains the following passage:

"M. Kurz, one of the four directors of the Casino and who has been very much trusted here and also has an estate agency at Beaulieu, has been arrested as a spy. All sorts of plans were found on him and, with others, he is imprisoned in Nice, awaiting trial.

"The Casino is closed."

HEAVY DEMANDS ON AMERICAN LEGATION.

Copenhagen, via London, Sept. 3.—The American legation has been obliged to increase its staff owing to the demands made upon it by anxious Americans and others desirous of learning about relatives in Europe. In the rush of stranded and destitute Americans continues there will not be enough room at the legation to accommodate all those waiting for steamers.

Among those who have obtained passage on the steamer Frederi VIII for New York, sailing Thursday, is Archbishop Seton of Jersey City.

"THERE IS BUT ONE FAIR AND HONEST WAY"

To Determine the MERIT of a Ready-to-take Medicine

The people who have taken Peruna know what Peruna is. The people who have read about Peruna or heard about Peruna, have a more or less imperfect knowledge of it. The true test, the only fair and honest way, is to try it. Read the remarks below, made by people who know Peruna. If you are interested, send to us for the "Ills of Life," full of similar testimonials from honest men and women all over the United States,

Mrs. A. E. Stouffer, R. R. 1, Sabetha, Kas.: "Peruna has given me health and strength; it is the best medicine that was ever made for women. My friends say they never saw such a change in a woman. I talk to every one about Peruna. I cannot say too much for it."

Mr. Isaac Horrenga, Fremont, Mich., writes: "I was taken sick last spring, unable to work for three months and a half. My weight was reduced to 135 pounds. At last I was advised to use PERUNA. I have now gained my usual weight. PERUNA gave me a splendid appetite. I feel strong."

Miss Marie A. Lesser, No. 922 36th St., Chicago, Illinois. "I was troubled with systemic catarrh for years. The catarrh had got all through my system, head, throat, stomach and other internal organs. Tried many remedies. Did no good. Took Peruna at the suggestion of a friend. Was surprised at results. I am now perfectly well and strong. That weak, tired feeling has left me."

Mrs. Alvina Plamann, No. 2025 Elm St., Milwaukee, Wis. "I am now able to do my housework again, and have a good appetite. Peruna did it for me. We always keep Peruna in the house. We all use it, my husband and children. I thank you a thousand times for your advice."

Woman's Realm

The First Presbyterian church was the scene of a beautiful wedding last evening when Miss Carolyn Swift, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Swift, became the bride of William P. Harrison. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Yost at 8:30 o'clock. The decorations of white asters, sweet peas and phlox against a background of Southern smilax made an effective setting for the bridal party.

Leading the bridal procession were Charles McLennan and E. B. Gridley, followed by George G. Barnum, Jr., and Chalmers Agnew, Jr. The maid of honor, Miss Frances Swift, sister of the bride, preceded the bridesmaids, Miss Isabel Patrick, Miss Elizabeth Olcott, Miss Dorothy Olcott and Miss Barbara Rupley. Next came the flower girl, little Frances Harrison, niece of the bridegroom. The bride, who entered with her father, was met at the altar by the bridgroom and his best man, his brother, Thomas Harrison. Harvey Clapp and Walter Kennedy were the ushers and Miss Ruth Rogers was the organist.

The bride's gown of ivory satin and lace was made with a court train and her veil was caught with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a costume of blue chiffon and satin with silver trimmings and carried pink Killarney roses. The bridesmaids wore ruffled gowns of pink satin and carried roses of a deeper shade of pink. The little flower girl wore white and carried a basket of pink roses tied with blue ribbon. Mrs. Swift wore a blue velvet gown with silver trimmings.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 2320 East First street, where a color scheme of pink and green was carried out with roses, phlox and mallows.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were the bridegroom's mother and sisters, Mrs. S. T. Harrison and Misses Virginia and Marjorie Harrison of Crosby, Minn.; an aunt of the bride, Mrs. H. M. Shallenberger of Rochester, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Homer Tenney of Madison, Wis., and Miss Helen Wheeler of Minneapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison left last night for a trip. They will make their home in Duluth.

Wolfrom-Murray.

Miss Mary M. Wolfrom and Murwin H. Murray were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wolfrom, 608 Sixty-third avenue west. The service was read by Rev. Ray Hunt of the First Christian church. Miss Clara Wolfrom, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and Walter Holmberg was the best man. Miss Louise Wolfrom, niece of the bride, played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the processional.

The ceremony was performed in the living room where a background for the bridal party was formed of ground pine and pink and white asters. The bride wore a gown of white crepe de chine trimmed with shadow lace and pearls and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Her veil was arranged in cap effect with lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a platinum lavaliere, set with diamonds, the gift of the bridegroom. The maid of honor wore pink charmeuse with an overdress of marquisette and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. The little ring bearer, Estelle Middlecoff, wore a white lace dress and carried the ring in a rose. The bride's mother wore blue silk trimmed with real lace. Mrs. George Murray, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in pearl gray charmeuse trimmed with real lace. Mrs. C. W. Middlecoff, sister of the bridegroom, wore a cream brocaded satin with a drapery of Spanish lace. Miss Madeline Murray, sister of the bridegroom, wore white embroidered crepe.

The ceremony was followed by a dinner for the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends. A color scheme of purple and white was carried out in the dining room with a centerpiece of white roses and clusters of purple asters used about the room. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. James Wolfrom, Miss Clara Wolfrom and Miss Louise Wolfrom.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray left for a trip. They will be at home after Sept. 15 at 8210 Lake avenue south.

The bride's sister, Miss Agnes Pearson was the maid of honor and her little niece, Margaret Waldron was the ring bearer. The bridegroom was attended by Elmer Blu.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white Swiss satin gown combined with old lace and a tulle veil caught with lilies of the valley. Her bouquet was of lillies of the valley and orchids. The maid of honor was gowned in pink silk and carried pink roses. The little ring bearer wore a white lace frock with a pink sash and carried the ring in a basket of roses. Mrs. Fred H. Waldron, sister of the bride, who played the Lohengrin wedding music, wore her bridal gown of white satin. Mrs. Fearson, the mother of the bride, was gowned in gray charmeuse and Mrs. Arthur C. Fuller, mother of the bridegroom, in black lace over white satin. Mrs. Ray Fuller, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, wore green net over silk.

After the ceremony there was a reception attended by the immediate relatives of the families. Sweet pens and smilax were used in the hall and living room and golden glow and gladioluses in the dining room.

The out-of-town guests were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Fuller; his brother, Warren Fuller, and Mrs. Ray W. Fuller and children, Arthur and Louise, all of Scranton, Pa.

FINDS OLD LETTER OF THOMAS DOWSE

Tells of His Presenting Two Pictures of Duluth to Library.

A letter of considerable interest to the Duluth public library written by Thomas Dowse, Aug. 24, 1900, in which he presents two pictures of Duluth in 1870, has just been discovered in the library files by the librarian, Miss Frances Earhart. One of the pictures is of Duluth "Looking Landward" and the other, "Looking Waterward."

The pictures have been hanging on the library walls for a long time, but probably few have realized that they were left as a memorial by Mr. Dowse, who, as an old settler, had worked thirty years for the welfare of the city and its educational advancement.

The letter was written when Mr. Dowse separated from his old friends and associations in Duluth and went to Chicago. Speaking of his regret in leaving his fellow townsmen, he adds:

"Into whose hands I should place this little token of remembrance, has puzzled me, but the wise foundations laid, the great general privileges secured, by the broad and faithful management of your board—past and present, together with the security of your soon to be built fireproof building, has decided me to ask your kindly care of the evidence of my sentiments which I would offer you, believing that coming years will increase their attractiveness and value."

SUFFERED LITTLE INCONVENIENCE

Mrs. W. A. McGonagle Escaped From War Zone With Little Difficulty.

Mrs. W. A. McGonagle, who has just returned from an European trip, is one tourist who has no "tale of woe to tell." Mrs. McGonagle was accompanied on her trip by her daughter Mary and was met by her husband in New York. They arrived in Duluth yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. McGonagle, while being anxious on her trip after hostilities were begun in Europe, says that her trip was made without great difficulty or inconvenience.

The return voyage was on the steamer Franconia, from Liverpool to New York. She says that although the Franconia passengers knew that a British cruiser was near, the vessel was not stopped. As a precautionary measure the Franconia took the northern passage by way of New Foundland to New York.

Mrs. McGonagle and her daughter were in The Hague when the first news of war reached them. They then went to Brussels, but as there was more excitement there they proceeded to Paris. The next day they started for London. From London they went to Liverpool and took passage for New York and made the trip without any great inconvenience.

"Anything that I would have to tell about the war would be merely personal experiences, and would be of no more interest than those of thousands of other tourists who have returned," said Mrs. McGonagle today.

HOW TO ROLL AN UMBRELLA.

London Globe: I hinted just now that few men can roll up an umbrella nicely. Here is the method I was taught. It is not very pretty, but it is effective. You begin by folding up a sheet of newspaper to form a little pad; otherwise you are apt to spoil your wall paper. Now for the rest. Hold the umbrella horizontally. Hold the pad of paper against the wall, press the end of the umbrella against the paper and the handle of the umbrella against your own body. This leaves the hands free for the delicate task of rolling the umbrella. Find the button. Bring the fold with the button on it to your left, and let it hang down. Then pull out each fold and pass it over the first. Throw the lot loosely around the umbrella without disturbing the creases of the folds. Grip the tops of the ribs with the right hand. Put your left hand around the other end and wind the umbrella through the left hand with a screwing motion.

Do not let go the tops of the ribs of the umbrella. When you have to move the hand slide it around. If you let go you will find that the ribs get out of place and then the folds of the umbrella will follow suit. When the umbrella is rolled up grip it tightly until you have fastened it. If you fail in that detail you will get an unsightly bulge in the center of the umbrella.

IMPORTANT
Worth Knowing

It is time the housewife should be advised on the baking powder subject and about the misleading advertisements.

The average consumer of baking powder does not know that a reaction occurs in the process of baking and the nature of the original materials is entirely changed, so that the substances which remain in the food to be eaten are very different from those which compose the baking powder before baking.

THE HOUSEWIFE SHOULD KNOW that for this reason the statement that a baking powder contains alum or cream of tartar is worthless so far as informing the consumer as to what remains in the food.

WHAT IS EATEN

is what interests the consumer. What you eat as food is important.

Food prepared with cream of tarter baking powder does not contain any cream of tarter. Food prepared with so-called alum powder is free from alum.

When Cream of Tartar Powders Are Used quantities of Rochelle Salts are left in the food. Rochelle Salts is a dangerous drug and is produced by the reaction which occurs in baking.

Why do the Cream of Tarter Baking Powder Manufacturers continually talk about what is in the can instead of what is in the food to be eaten?

Why Pay Forty-Five or Fifty Cents Per Pound

for cream of tartar baking powder and dose your food with Rochelle Salts when the best baking powder in the world can be and is made to retail at twenty-five cents per pound and gives you pure wholesome food?

THE DIFFERENCE

represents the twenty-million dollar trusts profits.

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

Made from the finest materials possible to select, so carefully treated and correctly proportioned and combined that FOOD prepared with it is free from Rochelle Salts, alum, lime or ammonia. It also complies with the Pure Food Laws—State and National.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Children Should Be Trained in Orderly Habits.

"Look here, Samuel," cried an irate matron from her window one morning. "Come right back here, you have forgotten something."

When Samuel's good wife appeared she apologized for her shouts from overhead. Said she: "I was so exasperated that I forgot everything. My husband left his soiled shirt on the floor, where he dropped it while dressing, something he had done on an average of twice a week for nearly thirty years. I have been trying to change him from a careless mortal into a man of tidy habits during all that time."

It is not difficult to solve the riddle of her husband and his untidy habits in his home. He is as spruce a man upon the streets as you will see and he is very methodical in his business affairs. But he has this failing, nettling to a tidy wife, inculcated by his loving mother, I have no doubt.

The talk we had about Samuel and his failing coincided strangely with another experience I had the same morning. The mother of a Harvard graduate showed me her son's room. Everything was tossed about in confusion and looked as though a cyclone had struck it.

"How shall we teach him to be orderly?" inquired the mother in a patient, apologetic tone, busying herself with tidying her son's room. "Cleaning up after him won't do it," I remarked as I turned to go downstairs. "Make his bed and let him do the rest or endure the disorder. If he speaks about it, you can tell him that you are not going to pick up after him as though he was a child any longer."

She kept on with her work and later when I returned to my room the son's was neatly arranged again. I thought to myself either he will make some girl considerable extra work when he is married or there will be a pair of them. Then look out for trouble, for an untidy husband and wife are a thorn in the side of each other.

The better way is to train boys and girls alike in this respect. Make them responsible for their own things, toys, books, clothes and what all. Insist that they keep them in their place and in good order.

THE ANTI-MONOPOLY BILL.

The senate yesterday afternoon passed the Clayton bill, 46 to 16.

The stage of conference, in which differences between the two houses are to be adjusted, comes next; and then the president's signature, and the bill is a law.

This measure, which includes the administration's program for the prevention of monopoly, is supplementary to the Sherman law.

The Clayton law is designed to protect and preserve competition by severely punishing unfair competition, and thus to punish monopoly.

If there had been no unfair competition, there would be no monopolies, no trust problem.

The administration's plan is to prevent unfair competition, and by giving fair competition a free field to make monopoly impossible.

When this law is passed, the administration's program is complete, and congress can adjourn a session perhaps the most important, in the economic sense, in the history of the nation.

The tariff has been revised downward in the interest of the consumer without the slightest menace to legitimate industry.

The banking and currency system has been revolutionized without the slightest disturbance to legitimate finance.

And now the trust problem has been, if not solved, at least confronted with a definite program for its control.

The pledges of President Wilson and his party have been redeemed; and incidentally a war with Mexico has been avoided and the ship of state steered safely through the reefs of international conflict.

It is a splendid record, a bright and shining page in the annals of the nation.

The only way Prof. Taft can get his name in the papers now is to have his daughter be bridesmaid at a Minnesota girl's wedding.

THE FRENCH CAPITAL RETREATS.

Yesterday the French government was in Paris, with the enemy but forty miles away.

This move, heretofore indicated as a probability, is made, it is said, at the request of the military branch of the government. "Paris, while not necessarily likely to be attacked, would become the pivot of the field operations of the two armies." So runs the Frankish explanation.

The move is a wise one. Wisdom, not fear, dictates it. Paris may or may not be attacked; though it is hard to see how it can escape attack. But if it is attacked, it is better to have the government in a place of safety, where it can direct the movements of the allied armies, than cooped up in a beleaguered capital.

Undoubtedly the Germans expected to be in Paris ere this. The Belgian defense caused delay. The stubborn resistance of the allies is causing more delay. Paris is not yet invested, much less taken.

Fortunately for the Germans, the Russian advance also is delayed. Koenigsberg is not taken. The Russian advance has not yet even reached the main line of Prussian defense along the Vistula. The Russian army that came closest to it was defeated at Gilgenberg.

It is barely possible that too much importance has been given to the turning movement of the Germans on the left flank of the allies. While it is gaining slowly, surely, terribly, still, too, it is wasting slowly, surely, terribly. Besides, it is not the main army, the full army which is needed to invest Paris, that is engaged there. Elsewhere along the line the French forces hold firmly. On the left, where it is most bitterly attacked, the French and English have fallen back sullenly, their forces intact, their wits engaged not only in resisting the German advance but, apparently, also in preventing a German attempt to surround and take the allied army of the left.

Nobody must imagine that the war is ended when the French and English left flank is defeated. It is not ended when Paris is attacked; for Paris attacked is not Paris taken. It is not ended when Paris is taken; for the government will be at Bordeaux, the French will still have armies in the field, the English will still be pouring its recruits into France, the Russians will still be hammering their way on toward Berlin.

Moreover, the French and English navies will have command of the sea. On the water, Germany is helpless; and in the long run this will count heavily.

Every day's events add strength to the belief that this is to be a long war. The end is far in the future, and what it will be no man can say.

Some of these American writers who are in Europe gathering up "color" for their future stories may be pardoned even if they develop a bit of yellow in their make-up.

THE CHILDISH SPIRIT OF WAR.

There are sidelights which show, better than the imagination can picture, the bitter spirit which war has bred.

The sovereigns have dramatically discarded the honors, titles and decorations courteously given them in times of peace by those who are now their enemies.

The Russian capital, known as St. Petersburg since Peter the Great founded it in 1703, is now "Petrograd." The Russian could no longer bear the Teuton turn that had been given to the name of his capital. Other Russian towns with Teutonic names are clamoring to have them changed.

The Germans say that "the name of Belgian is the worst insult that could be inflicted upon civilized man."

Yet to the unprejudiced the stories of German savagery are indeed unbelievable, and are to remain unbelieved until they are proved; and the name of Belgian, far from being an insult, is a title of honor and a badge of heroism.

Childish? Yes.

And all war is childish—a reversion to the barbarous childhood of humanity.

Chicago society girls are forming a "made-in-America" society, under the leadership of Miss Jean Storke. Rather appropriate for the home products movement.

WILSON IN 1916.

Vice President Marshall says that President Wilson will be the Democratic presidential nominee in 1916.

Of course! That's no news. Barring Wilson's absolute refusal to accept another term, any other outcome would be a travesty.

He will have no opposition for election that will put the election in doubt for a moment.

Theodore Roosevelt, who will be the Republican nominee in that year, will take note.

What will the family war council do after next Tuesday, when small William takes his geography back to school?

UHLANS AND HUSSARS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

What are Uhlans? Are they a branch of the German military service, or are they a people?

IGNORAMUS.

The Hussars are the German cavalry. The Uhlans are a picked force of this cavalry, uesd chiefly in scouting service. Hussars are used in large bodies—regiments or more. Uhlans travel in small bodies, from a mere handful of two or three or half a dozen up to a platoon.

"The eyes of the army," Von Moltke called them.

They ride over the country in advance of the army; here, there, everywhere. Three or four Uhlans are likely to appear suddenly in some French village, miles from the scene of conflict, striking to the hearts of the villagers the fear that the German armies are come.

Early in the German advance into Belgium there were frequent references to a "curtain" of cavalry that covered the German advance. That curtain was composed of Uhlans.

The Uhlans are carefully chosen. Their officers have for years made a careful study of every road and ditch and bridge in the country that might—and has in the case of France—become the enemy's country. The men are picked for intelligence, alertness, agility and courage. Moreover, great care is exercised to see that the men thus thrown together will be of a character that will make them companionable and harmonious.

The German army throws out its Uhlans as an insect sends out its antennae to feel its way.

Here's hoping peace is declared before the world series begins.

According to Berlin, "allies" should have another "l" in it and be spelled "all-lies."

Only Our Own Land!

Editorial in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

The attitude of neutrality adopted by the United States is not only eminently wise and proper, but it is supported by many considerations of public policy and self-interest along with international comity and duty.

The popular sentiment of the country is almost a unit against the kaiser. But this does not imply any lack of good will for the Germans, or love for the English, or leaning to the French. It means first that the kaiser could have averted the war and did not, and, second, that we are unalterably opposed to absolutism as represented by the governments both of Germany and Austria. It is well to keep this in mind.

England is the one country in the world which under any condition, or circumstance, might buck against us and give us the fight of our life, or a run for our money. There is not now much, if any, menace in England's alliance with Japan. But, if England should issue out of the war victor and undertake a pro-Japanese policy in the Orient—the substitution of Japan for Germany in Samoa, for example—right there and then we fight. Let there be no mistake on that point.

Lying alongside us is Canada. England could harass us on land as she undoubtedly would harass us at sea, especially if we acquire a considerable merchant marine. Japan might easily become a pretext. If Germany come out victor Republicanism is arrested in Europe and imperiled everywhere. If the alliance wins we shall have doubly to look to our ships and our markets. In no event, therefore, can we hold ourselves indifferent.

We do not look, however, with apprehension to the future. We are on the ascending, not the descending, scale of national development. The destiny of the United States of America will carry the American Union to a relation to the rest of the world not attained by Rome at the height of her prowess and glory.

No foreign power will be likely ever to risk a war with us. Indeed, the whole universe will be so weary, so worn out and sick of war at the end of this bloody conflict as will end the strife of nations for a century if not for all time. Already men stand everywhere aghast.

Meanwhile we hold by our guns and keep our powder dry, ready for whatever emergencies arise. Our personal sympathies are quite as much with the German people—victims of arbitrary power—as with the English people and the French people, drawn into war against their bitter judgment and their real wishes. But we are as a nation aloof and apart.

The true American loves no country except his own. Whenever the time comes we shall be prepared to meet England if the need should be wherever England chooses to set the mark; in the Dominion, in China, in Europe, or on the high seas. For us, one flag, one country, one destiny; down with autocracy and arbitrary power in Germany, in Austria and in Russia; up with the standard of freedom, Democracy, Republicanism, all of us joining Baltimore in her centenary refrain that—

"The Star Spangled banner, oh, long may it wave, O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Francis Joseph's Error

New York Times: "God is with you," says the aged Austrian emperor to his German ally. "He will be with us also." Therefore, according to this man who stands on the brink of the grave, though he will be as careful as all the other autocratic rulers to keep well out of the range of the bullets his poor countrymen must face for his sake, God is on the side of massacre and rapine, of wrath and destruction. He is the God of the armored motor car, of the howitzer and the bomb-dropping airship. He sustains the destroyer of harvests. He rejoices in the grief of the widow and the destitution of the orphan.

It is nothing new for the autocrats to claim the help of God in their work of slaughter, but this war falls in an age when that ancient and false conception of the Almighty as a God of battles and upholder of the strong against the weak is not held by the multitudes. Speculation as to which side in the present conflict God may really be on would be profitless, but there is a common belief that man is not placed on this planet to kill his neighbor and steal his property. Francis Joseph is mistaken. This is a wordly war, a material war, if ever any war was, and the spiritual side of manhood shrinks from it. This is an attempt of kings, who hold that the rights of man are limited to obedience and loyalty to hereditary power, to destroy the fruits of enlightenment. Wilhelm's ideal of patriotism is loyalty to the Hohenzollern, Francis Joseph has ever placed the welfare of the Hapsburgs above the welfare of the people of his empire. Whatever may be the immediate outcome of the conflict, it will serve to convince the whole world that men will be better able to fulfill their destinies when all kingly authority is swept away.

A Good Word.

Chicago Post: In connection with the parcel post movement we have all been saying mean things about the express companies for some years past.

But we have the parcel post, and there is no use cherishing resentment.

We might as well admit that the American Express company is a pretty useful institution, after all. Its travelers' credit machinery seems to have been the first, if not the only, thing of the kind that "worked" when the Americans, stranded in Europe, tried to turn paper into hard cash. That's worth remembering in its favor.

A Proud Boast.

Lippincott's: A teachers' meeting was in progress, and it was decided that the more difficult subjects should come in the morning, and those that required less application later in the day. History was the last on the list and Miss Wheeler, the young teacher, protested.

"But it certainly is easier than science or mathematics," the principal insisted.

"As I teach it," replied the young teacher, "no subject could be more difficult and confusing."

The Perils of Pauline.

Atchison, Kan., Globe: A young man who lives in the country north of town recently took a girl to church. At the conclusion of the services the young man went out to hunt his horse and when he came back he found his girl locked up in the church. The young man got a long board, put it up to the window and told the young lady to slide. The girl slid, but half way she struck a large nail, and almost lost her religion, she was so angry.

A Long-Felt Want.

Boston Globe: This country may get along a great deal better some day if only the gyroscope is perfected so that it can be applied to keeping statesman steady.

An Adventure

From Life.

There was quite a flutter this morning among the spectators in the court of special obsessions, Judge Destiny, sitting, as a strikingly beautiful young woman in rather shabby clothes was brought into the courtroom by an officer of the law.

"I picked this here person up on the street, your honor, trying to prevent one of my brother policemen from robbing and maltreating a stranger. I thought she was a fit subject for punishment."

"Quite right," said Judge Destiny. "The reputation of your profession for relieving people of their valuables and holding them up generally must be preserved, even if we have to bring beautiful girls like this up against our displeasure."

He turned to the prisoner:

"What is your name?"

"Peace."

At the mention of her name there was considerable excitement; several statesmen and diplomats in the audience had to be held back from grabbing the fair prisoner.

"You look tired," said the judge.

"Yes, your honor, I've just gotten back from a trip to Mexico. They didn't treat me well there; in fact, they almost tore me to pieces."

"Have you any visible means of support?"

"None whatever; nothing but my good looks."

"You're considerable of an adventurer, aren't you?"

"I have that reputation, your honor, but I assure you I have the best intentions in the world."

"You never did anything for humanity. Isn't it true that wherever your advice has been followed deterioration has always set in? You are a soft spoken miss, but you are mighty dangerous."

The judge turned to the keeper of the prison, who happened to be present:

"Do you think you can keep this young woman locked up permanently?"

The keeper of the prison shook his head:

"She is an old offender, your honor," he replied. "We have had her in before and she has always broken loose somewhere. I suppose that young woman has caused more trouble than anybody we ever had. Why, if she was to have her way there would not be any more murders committed; looting would stop; rapine and diplomacy would cease to exist."

The judge looked around the court. "Is there anybody here who is prepared to defend this person?" he asked.

"No, your honor," replied the clerk. "Plenty of people have advocated her, but they only do it in whispers. When it comes to a showdown nobody will have anything to do with her."

Then the judge turned to the prisoner:

"Young woman," he said, "I have just one more word to say to you. If you make any attempt to escape again, I will call upon every ruler of the world to sit on your case, and I guess among all of us we can fix you so that you won't break loose again."

Lest We Forget

Hemet, Cal., News: Above the din and seething turmoil of an European war, one figure should tower over all—Woodrow Wilson, president of these United States.

But a couple of months ago it was a popular pastime to deride Woodrow Wilson, because of the foreign policy he had adopted for his country. Presumably, they would have desired him to ape the war lords of Europe.

"By their fruits ye shall know them."

Today all Europe is embroiled in conflict.

Today these United States are at peace with all the world—an assured, abiding peace.

Today peace reigns in Mexico, and the prospect of an abiding peace is constantly growing brighter.

Woodrow Wilson's "foreign policy" saved the spilling of precious American blood; saved many an American mother from widowhood; saved many an American boy and girl and baby from the blight of orphanage.

He saved us from the bitterness of war, and from the tremendous financial drain that would have produced another decade of adversity and "really truly" hard times, with its long train of bankruptcies and ruination such as follows in the wake of any war, and such as cursed this country for several decades after the civil war.

And in Mexico the feeling of antagonism against the Yankees is giving away to friendliness, and it appears that Mexico has come into her own—at least, her peace is more stable than we could have made it by armed invasion.

Will those who have derided President Wilson for his "foreign policy" acknowledge the debt they owe to him?

Will they "render honor to whom honor is due?"

Not Worth It.

Ladies' Home Journal: "So you saw the woman drop her purse," said Mr. Marks to his friend, "but lost her in the crowd. Did you advertise?"

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Parks, "but I didn't get an answer. I put this in the papers: 'If the plain woman about 45 years of age wearing a dress and a hat of last year's style who lost a purse containing $3.50 on Twenty-second street on Saturday will apply to ——, the property will be returned.'"

"Good heavens, man!" said Mr. Marks. "No wonder you didn't get an answer. No woman in the world would own up to that description for $3.50."

Followed Instructions.

New Orleans Picayune: She was a little girl and very polite. It was the first time she had been on a visit alone, and she had been carefully instructed how to behave.

"If they ask you to dine with them," papa had said, "you must say: 'No, thank you, I have already dined.'"

It turned out just as papa had anticipated.

"Come along, Marjorie," said her little friend's father, "you must have a bite with us."

"No, thank you," said the little girl with dignity; "I have already bitten."

The Jap Baker's Sign.

The Oriental Review: The Oriental capacity for using our mother tongue with strange twists of unconscious humor is well known, but few examples are equal to this delicious sign of a Japanese baker's shop:

"A. Karinura, Biggest Loafer in Tokio."

But Quick Witted.

Louisville Post: Mr. Absentmind—How do you do, Mrs. Green? It is quite a long time since I saw you.

Lady—My name is Brown.

Mr. Absentmind—Oh, I beg your pardon, but I'm color blind.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Obviously it is a serious thing to forget one's wife's birthday anniversary.

But in the case of Charles Lee Cooke the most horrible oversight that could blight his life would be to slip by the birthday of the czar, the kaiser or any of those big boys.

One night Cooke was attending a fashionable little dinner party and a young woman, two plates away, remarked by way of keeping a bit of table chatter in the air that her birthday fell on the morrow and that her husband had agreed to buy her a beautiful pearl necklace.

When Charles Lee Cooke heard that he clapped his hand to his brow melodramatically and gasped:

"I nearly forgot," he whispered, "that tomorrow is the Japanese emperor's birthday."

Then everybody laughed uproariously, thinking that Cooke had merely sprung a clever little joke and all began to offer him suggestions in a giddy vein.

"What're you going to send the emperor," asked one, "a celluloid comb and brush set, or a match safe?"

• • •

But it was no joking matter with Cooke. The very thought that he might possibly have overlooked the emperor's birthday depressed him.

You see, keeping track of the birthday anniversaries of kings and emperors and such is an important feature of Cooke's job. He is attached to the office of the third assistant secretary of state, which is the branch of the state department devoted chiefly to the social side of things, and the carrying out of various casual amenities. One of Cooke's duties is to prepare cablegrams of congratulation whenever a sovereign with whom we have diplomatic dealings has a birthday.

These cablegrams are sent bearing the signature of the president of the United States—though prepared supposedly by the secretary of state, theoretically by the third assistant secretary of state, and actually by Charles Lee Cooke—or one of Cooke's assistants.

• • •

A few days before the birthday of the next on the list, he takes the precaution to jot down the date on a desk pad. He has never overlooked a bet of this sort up to the hour of this writing, but he never feels entirely safe against the future. When one stops to think that a man will often forget to send flowers home on his wedding anniversary, it is hardly to be expected that Cooke—who after all is human—might not become absent minded some day and slide past the birthday of a man like the czar, for example, with whom he has little more than the scantiest acquaintance.

In wiring congratulations to the big chief of a country that ranks in the first division, like England or Germany, custom has decided that a cablegram of from ninety to 100 words is about right. A message that long costs money, of course, but it is not considered best for a country to be too close-fisted or to quibble over a few dollars in cable tolls. The idea of a president or a secretary of state sitting at his desk with his tongue tucked against one cheek endeavoring to boil down his message to ten words might seem like carrying economy to extremes.

• • •

Just the word "congratulations," or "regards" would answer, perhaps, but whoever started the custom was a heedless person who doubtless had been made verbose by the franking privilege. Now it is too late to cut down. Inasmuch as a ruler's birthday falls on the same date year after year, much expense could be saved the taxpayers by simply sending a few words of good cheer by letter or souvenir postcard; but a cable gives the impression that the president suddenly happened to think of the birthday and then spared no expense to do the polite thing.

Heretofore, by the way, most presidents have glanced at the cables prepared in the state department and O. K.'d them without further ado, but President Wilson has fallen into the habit of going over such messages with great care and changing a word or two here and there to build up the rhetoric.

In writing one of these messages, however, one is not expected to show any great streak of originality. Charles Lee Cooke simply glances over the files and takes care to have the message slightly different in its wording from the one the year before. That lets him out.

The birthday greetings always bring a prompt reply—also by cable—and the reply is invariably within a few words of the same length as the original.

• • •

In the case of a republic, where the ruler is changed every so often, we do not cable on the ruler's birthday but on the national holiday of the country. Similarly, President Wilson gets no birthday messages from sovereigns abroad, but gets a stack of well wishing cables on the Fourth of July.

The king of England never fails to wire the president a Fourth of July message congratulating us on having won our independence from great Britain.

This teaches us, does it not, that the English people have much more sense of humor than we have commonly given them credit for?

• • •

And here's another strange thing: If the wife or brother or any close kin of the czar or any big ruler were to die, the state department here would cable our ambassador in that country to send a message of condolence. Inasmuch as a message of condolence from the United States ambassador is customary at such times, one might almost suppose that the ambassador would be expected to act without being told. But the theory seems to be that it is always safest not to credit an ambassador with any gumption whatsoever.

Where the River Shannon Flows.

There's a pretty spot in Ireland
I always claim for my land,
Where the fairies and the blarney
Will never, never die.
It's the land of the shil-lal-ah,
My heart goes back there daily
To the girl I left behind me
When we kissed and said good-by.

Sure no letter I'll be mailing
For soon will I be sailing,
And I'll bless the ship that takes me
To my dear old Erin's shore.
There I'll settle down forever,
I'll leave the old sod never,
And I'll whisper to my sweetheart,
"Come and take my name "As-thore."

—Chorus—

Where dear old Shannon's flowing,
Where the three-leaved shamrock grows,
Where my heart is I am going,
To my little Irish rose.
And the moment that I meet her,
With a hug and kiss I'll greet her,
For there's not a colleen sweeter,
Where the River Shannon flows.

—James I. Russell.

Standing by the President

The Minnesota Press of All Parties Back of Wilson.

More Honors for President.

Montevideo Leader: More honors for President Wilson, whose plea that the railway strike be averted because of our nation's emergency as regards the European crisis, brought the railway magnates to a realizing sense of the situation and paved the way for an amicable settlement by agreement and arbitration. This is another instance where our president has done the right thing. The managers have now agreed to accept the plan proposed by the Federal board of mediation, which plan had been accepted by the representatives of the enginemen. The matter of wages is to be arbitrated under the Newlands law. Everybody here is delighted to have this matter put in form for amicable settlement.

President's Great Service.

Preston Times: President Wilson performed a signal service to the country when he made a personal appeal to the Western railroads, urging them on patriotic grounds to prevent the threatened strike of the enginemen by submitting their differences to arbitration, thus preventing a nation-wide calamity.

No Strike, Thanks to President.

Mahnomen Pioneer: President Wilson has accomplished many things during the time that he has been president, but nothing that he has done has caused such universal rejoicing as the bringing the Western railroad managers and the engineers and firemen together to settle their differences by arbitration. A strike at this particular time would have been felt by every person in the West. There will be no strike, thanks to the good offices of President Wilson.

Very Badly, Indeed.

Baudette Region: They need a Woodrow Wilson in Europe.

Little Falls Herald: President Wilson has done a real service in having both sides of the proposed railway strike agree to an arbitration of their differences. Coming especially at this time, the consequences of the strike would have been most severe.

Duty Heeded Despite Grief.

North Branch Review: All honor to President Wilson, whose sense of duty impelled him to write an appeal for world peace while sitting at the bedside of his dying wife.

Quiet and Efficient.

Gheen Record: The quiet and efficient way in which President Wilson brought to settlement the dispte between the railroads and their employes is another example of the quiet and efficient way he is conducting all the big problems of the government.

Did His Best, Anyway.

St. Peter Free Press: President Wilson has again shown himself a man equal to any occasion that may arise, no matter how complicated. While the United States is in no way involved in the present European strife and observes a strict neutrality the president feels it his duty, in the interest of humanity, to offer his good offices to the powers now involved in the war and sent a message to that effect to the emperor of Germany, the czar of Russia, the emperor of Austria-Hungary, the president of France and the king of England. Whether the proffer will be accepted at once or later on, to President Wilson belongs the credit of having made possible the cessation of hostilities with honor to all and will always be gratefully remembered by every citizen opposed to the sacrifice of human beings on the battlefield.

What About Sugar?

Madison State Journal: One of the first things to soar was the price of sugar, a necessity next to bread. Almost at the war's opening pistol shot it practically doubled.

Then we were told why. Foreigners, the explanation said, were trying to corner the raw sugar market in Cuba and our refiners had to bid against them.

We thought at the time that sounded rather queer; for why should far-off foreigners get ahead of our alert sugar trust in nearby Cuba. Why should not the trust, by ownership of Cuban cane lands, long ago have insured protection of its chief source of supply?

You must admit it would be a very stupid and sleepy trust which should thus be caught napping.

Now come three assertions on apparently good authority which put the matter in a strikingly different light.

Assertion No. 1 (by W. W. Gardiner, sugar expert and statistician) is that Cuba's crop is ample and that foreigners have bought very little of it.

Assertion No. 2 (by Robert Oxnard, beet sugar man) is that the refining trust had a three months' supply of refined sugar on hand, which it proceeded to push up for an extra profit.

Assertion No. 3 (also Oxnard's) offered in proof that the alleged sugar scarcity is artificial; that the beet sugar interests still have 750,000 bags ready for market, but cannot get takers.

If these assertions are false let us have the truth.

When the sugar trust was plugging the scales at the customs dock in Brooklyn to defraud Uncle Sam of duties, it was not clever enough to hide its trail—it was detected and slapped on the wrist.

Surely, our government is smart enough to find out the truth about the present sky-rocketing of sugar and throw into publicity, if not into prison, the robbers responsible.

If Canada Were Attacked.

New York World: A curiously perverted notion of the Monroe doctrine is found in various letters to newspapers written by correspondents who assume that the United States would not permit a German attack upon Canada if such an attack were possible.

There is nothing in the Monroe doctrine that would prevent German troops from marching from one end of Canada to the other if they could get there. If Germany tried to annex Canada that would be a different matter. The Monroe doctrine does not apply to war. It applies to the alienation of territory.

How He Knows.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: A traveling sales agent visiting a large factory made a bet with the manager that he would pick out all the married men among the employes.

Accordingly, he stationed himself at the door as they came back from dinner and mentioned all those whom he believed to be married, and in almost every case he was right.

"How do you do it?" asked the manager in amazement.

"Oh, it's quite simple," said the traveler, "quite simple. The married men all wipe their feet on the mat; the single men don't."

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

The Duluth relief committee is actively at work making arrangements to care for the survivors of the awful forest fire that swept over Hinckley and adjoining towns and wiped them out of existence. Several relief trains have been sent out to pick up the people who have been made homeless and destitute and bring them to Duluth, and also to bury the scores of bodies that are scattered all over the country devastated by the fire.

Prof. F. R. H. Seaton has resigned his position as organist of the First Unitarian church.

Despite the grief and excitement caused by the calamities on its borders, Duluth's Labor day parade this morning was an unqualified success. G. Olson, grand marshal of the day, headed the procession, with Robert H. Haire, marshal of the first division. Then came a platoon of twenty police, commanded by Lieut. McLean, followed by the City band. Delegates of the Federated Trades and Labor assembly came next. The various unions followed and all were well represented. The second division was marshaled by J. H. Baker, the third by Henry Gazette, and the fourth by D. D. McInnis. Harris' Military band, the American band and the West Duluth band furnished marching music. The procession wound up with a number of handsome floats from Duluth business houses and engines, hose wagons and other apparatus of the fire department, headed by Chief Jackson and Fire Warden Applehagen borne in the chief's red buggy.

At the meeting of the city council last evening, a resolution was passed making H. W. Cheadle city clerk for a week while C. E. Richardson goes on a vacation.

Mrs. R. Blight of Tower, who has been a guest of William Blarnie's family at West Duluth, returned home yesterday.

Charles A. Towne, who has been nominated by the Republicans of this district for congress, will open his campaign on Sept. 10. He says Thomas B. Reed, Congressman Johnson of North Dakota and others are to speak in Duluth.

Rev. Mr. Ingham is on a visit to his family at New Duluth. He is now located at Clear Lake, Wis.

John T. Black, the ex-fire chief of St. Paul, was in Duluth yesterday in consultation with the fire commissioners. They want to make him chief of the Duluth fire department, and if the aldermen will agree to a salary of $2,500 a year he will come.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlan, the Sunshine Man.

Sin is the withdrawing into self and egotism, out of the vivifying life of God, which alone is our true life. The moment the man sins, he dies. Know we not how awfully true that sentence is, "Sin revived, and I died." The vivid life of sin is the death of the man. Have we never felt that our true existence has absolutely in that moment disappeared, and that we are not?

To grieve over sin is one thing, to repent of it is another.

The consequences of sin are meant to wean from sin. The penalty annexed to it is, in the first instance, corrective, not penal.

God sees sin not in its consequences, but in itself; a thing infinitely evil, even if the consequences were happiness to the guilty instead of misery. So sorrow for sin according to God is to see sin as God sees it. The grief of Peter was as bitter as that of Judas. He went out and wept bitterly.

The worst misfortune that can happen is to sin and to escape detection.

It has been well remarked, it is not said that AFTER keeping God's commandments, but IN keeping them, there is great reward. God has linked these two things together, and no man can separate them—obedience and peace.—From Words of F. W. Robertson.

At the Will of a Despot.

New York World: Maeterlinck, after alleging that his "imagination is paralyzed by the appalling realities" of the war, says: "The waste of it! After men have fought so valiantly against disease and death, after we have struggled so successfully against natural forces, to fall at the will of a despot into this welter of carnage!" There is a hint at least of inspiration in that.

MAYBE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I note that verse 18, chapter 13, of Revelation reads: "Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast; for it is the number of a man; and his number is six hundred three score and six." Does this refer to "Officer 666"? Yours truly,

ANOTHER WAR IS BREWING.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been reading with much interest remarks in your Open Court regarding the Gaelic inscription on the Lyceum curtain—"Caed Mille Failtha," and note that same is interpreted as meaning "A Hundred Thousand Welcomes."

Mr. Hugo is in error when he states that the correct spelling of the first word in the phrase is C-e-a-d, as this means permission, leave, etc., and would not give proper sense. C-e-u-d means in English "A hundred"—hence "Ceud Mile Failte" (A Hundred Thousand Welcomes). Yours truly,

JOHN C. MacARTHUR.

WHEN MANHOOD HAS A CHANCE TO DEVELOP.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Coming out of a local moving picture theater the other evening, after having witnessed the performance of Jack London's "In the Valley of the Moon," I happened to overhear a young lady say to her gentleman escort, "My but wasn't she grand. Gee, but that was some romance."

How many people, entranced by the romance of the playlet, forgot to appreciate the great economic lesson that Jack London, Socialist, intended to convey in "The Valley of the Moon."

Billy Roberts, the hero, was a striking teamster. Penned up in a squalid, airless and gloomy city flat, with no income, he was driven to acts of violence in his desperation. He forgot the duty he owed to his fellow-man. He abused his wife and was rapidly developing into a human beast.

Transported to his little farm in the "valley" where happiness and prosperity combined, where he and his wife could enjoy the good things nature intended they should have, Roberts' entire life was changed with the new environment. He took a broader view of life, he grew to love his fellow-man.

As single-taxers say, Jack London, the party Socialist and author of Socialist books, sees the "cat." Shut a man up as you would a beast, and he becomes a beast. Give him sunlight and showers and he develops in the opposite direction. He becomes a man.

And that is exactly the lesson with which London desired to impress his readers when he wrote "In the Valley of the Moon."

Thanks. Yours truly,

TITCH HIGGINS.

OFFICIAL STORY OF ZEPPELIN ATTACK

Antwerp, Sept. 3, via London—The following official statement regarding the maneuvers of the Zeppelin airship over Antwerp Tuesday night and early Wednesday was issued: "A Zeppelin airship was reported at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night near forts to the south of the city, and also near the River Nethe. It passed over Alost, toward Termonde and Ghent, anad then returned toward Antwerp and tried to fly over the city, but for a time a heavy artillery fire kept it outside the outer fortifications.

"At 3 o'clock Wednesday morning five or six bombs were dropped from it. Later seven bombs were dropped in the Parc Du Rossignol, close to some houses which have been converted into hospitals and were flying the Red Cross flag. These houses were damaged and ten or twelve persons slightly injured. After the bomb dropping exploits, the Zeppelin rose and disappeared in the direction of Malines.

Rivets Became Bullets.

"An examination of the bombs thrown showed that they had a thin, double covering, the two covers being joined together with mushroom-shaped rivets which act the part of bullets and are likely to cause terrible injury when the covers are burst by the explosion. They are similar to those used by the Bonnet motor car bandits in France.

"The Belgian authorities conducted the United States consul to the Red Cross buildings which were struck by bombs that he might see the extent of the damage done. King Albert also visited the buildings."

DECLARE BATTLE OF JEDAR DECISIVE

Nish, Servia, via London, Sept. 3.—An official statement gives new and fuller details of the Battle of Jedar. The Austrian force, it says, was composed of 200,000 men and held a favorable position. By its retreat it admitted defeat. The Austrians lost 10,000 killed and 2,000 wounded, according to the report.

"Altogether," continues the statement, "40,000 of the enemy were placed hors de combat. We have sent to the interior more than 4,000 men whom we took prisoners, and have captured sixty guns, much ammunition, the material for the construction of a 600-meter bridge, and a train.

"The battle was of great importance because it was decisive. The enemy retreated to Santzek."

WADING IN DEEP SEA

By SAVOYARD.

Washington, Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—So far as my imperfect vision lets me see there are but two men in it for president in 1916—Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt. Can you name anyone other? Is it Borah? Is it Cummins? Is it La Follette? Burton of Ohio might do, but the ex-G. O. P. has neither the sagacity nor the integrity to take him. Lodge has sense enough to be president, and more than culture enough, but Lodge is more than impossible. Victor Murdock is too young. Besides, he is green gum timber that never will be and never can be seasoned enough to fit for the oak of the White House. The only city of refuge for Murdock is the Democratic party. Kansas is a-going to teach him that some day. And had he, like Jerry Simpson, learned the lesson, he would be the next Democratic senator from that most American of all the American sisterhood that make up this here more or less glorious American Union we have.

And so that brings up back to Teddy, who is a-running up and a-down the earth a-preaching of the damphoolery that he, and only he, can reform the state, put money in all our pockets, melody in all our throats, joy in all our hearts, and other shucks like that, and more beside. Why didn't he do it while he was president, when, as he admits, he had a chance to do it?

* * *

He talks with a great deal of slush about a "non-partisan" tariff commission. You might as well say that in a court of justice you could have a witness that put a dab of truth here and a dab of falsehood there, and from that sort of thing get the testimony before the jury so as to make a just verdict.

Now that sort of slush will go down in a heap of states, where illiteracy is frightful. Let me tell you—hypocrisy is the bane of government. It can only exist with its twin brother, ignorance, and its double first cousin, prejudice. It is the food and the raiment, the bone and the sinew, of demagogy. Its days have been long in our land. The common school has given it a death blow, and the time is not distant when an American statesman must get out of public life, or cease to be a demagogue. He will have to speak the truth, as he sees it, and shame the devil, as he knows him.

* * *

Here is Roosevelt, a standing candidate for president, somewhat vociferous on the tariff question, though he was as mute as a fish about it all the more than seven years he was president, during all which time we had a tariff writ by the taxeaters and paid by the taxpayers. In his writings he was as much of a free trader as Morrison or Carlisle, but he never mentioned the tariff while he was in position to reform it.

Well, he now proposes a "non-partisan" tariff commission! Could you fancy a non-religious church? What would you think of a presbytery composed of Jonathan Edwards and Bob Ingersoll? You could get the church together on a proposition, pro and con, by such, as readily as you could get together a tariff commission composed of protectionists and free traders.

* * *

Roosevelt knows that most of the people of the United States are agreed with him as a free trader. He is only trying to annex the folks that believe with Gallinger, Penrose, Foraker and Cannon, who are honest in the opinion that tariff taxes should be laid, not by the representatives of the people, who pay the taxes, but by the interests who collect and enjoy the swag. Of course he had to denounce the Payne-Aldrich law, for he had not a peg to stand on if he indorsed it.

And here he comes down with his impossibility of a "non-partisan" tariff commission to fix the tariff. In the first place, the Constitution of the United States will not allow that, but then Teddy has a contempt for that instrument. The Constitution says that the congress shall have power to fix the tariff. Here is a proposal that a "non-partisan" commission shall do it.

In the first place you could not constitute a non-partisan commission, and in the next place congress could uptip it the moment it got the result of its deliberations before it.

* * *

Let me tell you about it. Roosevelt is barking up a tree "there's nothing in." He started out in an assault against "watchful waiting" that all now applaud. He talked about the Panama canal business that he would better keep silent about. He is sailing on a sea that has no shore, and while it is next to certain that he will be the Republican candidate for president in 1916, he has got to get an issue.

Let us hope he will find one, and when he gets it a dozen sentences from Woodrow Wilson will knock it into a cocked hat. Mr. Wilson will keep the colonel a-guessing.

RUSSIA ANNOUNCES AUSTRIANS' DEFEAT

Official Statement Is Issued at Petrograd.

Petrograd, Sept. 3.—The following official communication was issued by the Russian war office last night:

"After a battle lasting seven days, the Russian army seized heavily fortified positions around Lemberg (capital of Galicia) in Austria, about ten or twelve miles from the town. The Russian troops then advanced toward the principal forts.

"After a battle yesterday which was fiercely contested, the Austrians were obliged to retreat in disorder, abandoning heavy and light guns, parks of artillery and field kitchens.

"Our advance guard and cavalry pursued the enemy who suffered enormous losses in killed, wounded and prisoners.

Over Three Corps.

"The Austrian army operating in the neighborhood of Lemberg was composed of the Third, Eleventh and Twelfth corps and part of the Seventh and Fourteenth corps. This army appears to have been completely defeated.

"During the pursuit by the Russian troops, the Austrians, who beat a retreat from Gulla Lipa, were forced to abandon an additional thirty-one guns. Our troops are moving over roads encumbered with parks of artillery and convoys loaded with provisions of various kinds.

"The total number of guns captured was 150."

New York, Sept. 3.—The above dispatch was sent direct from Petrograd by the St. Petersburg Telegraph company, the semi-official Russian news agency, and is the first dispatch received in New York direct from the Russian capital since the declaration of war.

AMNESTY OFFERED GERMANS BY KAISER

Copenhagen Dispatch to London Gives War Items.

London, Sept. 3.—Telegraphing from Cophenhagen, the correspondent of the Daily News says: "Several private motor boats have left for Cape Skagen, Denmark, to search for mines which are dangerous to neutral ships. Persons arriving here from Reval, Russia, say that, while crossing the Gulf of Finland on board a Russian ship, they saw a mine explode about a mile and a quarter away. No ships were visible in the vicinity, and the captain of the Russian vessel suggested that the mine was detonated by some big fish coming in contact with it.

"Emperor William has announced an amnesty for all Germans convicted of military offenses or who emigrated without permission, who within three months present themselves for service in Germany, the colonies or on board German warships. The sole condition of the amnesty is that they can prove their recent conduct has been satisfactory.

Food Prices in Denmark.

"During the first month of the war food prices in Denmark have risen on the whole, though not uniformly. A loaf of rye bread which on Aug. 1 cost 8 pence (16 cents) today costs 1 shilling (24 cents).

"English sugar, which was 25 croner a hundredweight Aug. 1, today is quoted at 33 croner (a croner is equal to 27 cents in American money).

"The Germans recently have been trying to buy foodstuffs from Copenhagen, but apart from butter, bacon and eggs they have always been met with the reply: 'We have nothing to sell.'

"The Danish government has just taken the unprecedented step of appropriating all stores of wheat in Copenhagen—480,000 bushels—which will be taken over by public authority at about 17 shillings, 9 pence ($4.28) per Danish tonde (four bushels).

RUSSIAN DIPLOMAT EXPLAINS ORDERS

Says Von Bernstorff Gave Wrong Meaning to Polish Affair.

"Col. Golejewski, military attache to the imperial Russian embassy, has called our attention to the statement made by the German ambassador in one of the last daily interviews that he gave to the press in which he says that 'the Poles have already risen in rebellion, and Russian telegrams stated that the Poles are to be treated as enemies. This decides the fate of Russia. This news, furthermore, comes from Russia. It was not made in Germany.'

"Count von Bernstorff has evidently misunderstood or misquoted the news that did come from Russia on the subject. After his manifesto to all Poles, Russian, Prussian or Austrian, the grand duke, commander in chief, issued some days ago an order to the army to treat all Poles especially leniently, and to give them, even as prisoners or inhabitants of the region that the Russian army occupies, kind and considerate treatment. This is the attitude of Russia toward the Poles.

"But the commander in chief declared also that Galician Polish Sokols, that is, armed troops of a gymnastic society in Austrian Poland, cannot be considered as regular soldiers, but only as 'franc tireurs' and treated as such. This is an accepted rule of warfare, recognized by everybody and especially rigorously enforced by the Germans themselves.

"Count von Bernstorff seems to have generalized this last order, and applied it, not to the Sokol franc tireurs, but to all Poles. There is no doubt but that the orders came from Russia, but the wrong interpretation of them was certainly made somewhere else.

"I consider it my duty to give this explanation in the interest of truth, and the press can easily find the text both of the manifesto and these two orders, as they have been published in American papers."

FIGHT IN THE AIR IS WAGED OVER PARIS

French Aeroplanes Put German Aviators to Flight.

Paris, Sept. 3.—A fight in the air over Paris took place last evening. Three German aeroplanes hovered over the capital, and immediately two French machines were sent up to engage them. Meanwhile rifles and machine guns mounted on public buildings kept up a constant fire.

One of the German machines became separated from the others, and the French aviators flew swiftly in its direction. The German opened fire, to which the Frenchmen replied vigorously.

The engagement seemed to turn to the disadvantage of the German, who mounted speedily to a highr level and, holding this position, was saved from further attack. He finally disappeared in a northwesterly direction over Fort Romanville, after a vain pursuit.

The other German aeroplanes also escaped the fire of the guns, and after circling about for a considerable time, disappeared from view.

ITALIAN SOCIALISTS RESENT GERMAN ACT.

Rome, Sept. 3, via Paris.—The German Socialist deputies Hugo Haase and Albert Sudekum came to Italy in an effort to induce the Italian Socialist party to use their influence to have Italy join Germany in the war. The mission failed, and the Italian Socialists have now published a protest against what they describe as an attempt against the dignity of Italy. They also express the hope that if a cessation of hostilities is impossible, the "infamous war will crush those who provoked it."

100 CHILDREN THE VICTIMS OF SHELLS.

Paris, via London, Sept. 3.—A dispatch from Petrograd says the Novoe Vremya charges that during the bombardment of Belgrade, the Austrians destroyed a maternity hospital over which the Red Cross was flying, killing 100 children.

JAPANESE CRUISER LEAVES U. S. COAST.

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—After hovering off the Golden Gate nearly all day at distances varying from four to fifteen miles, the Japanese cruiser Idzumo yesterday picked up a small launch—whether one of her own or one from land could not be seen—and put to sea at full speed, headed due west.

AUSTRIANS LOSE TO MONTENEGRINS.

Cettinje, via London, Sept. 3.—Although numerically inferior, the Montenegrins have defeated the Austrians near Belek in Bosnia. Gen. Vokovitch, according to an announcement, has taken the offensive and is marching on Tchainitsch, in pursuit of the Austrians.

WANTS AMERICANS TO KEEP FROM PARIS.

Washington, Sept. 3.—With the arrival in Paris of 250 Americans from Switzerland, the last to leave that country by way of France, Ambassador Herrick has asked the state department to advise Americans not to come to Paris in the future. It is inferred the request was prompted by the possibility that military operations about the French capital might block the railroads.

Mr. Herrick has arranged a special train to carry 1,000 Americans from Paris to Havre.

William G. Sharp, who is to succeed Mr. Herrick as ambassador at Paris, arrived there yesterday.

Secretary Garrison said that Assistant Secretary Breckenridge, reported to have disappeared, probably was in Switzerland now.

RIFLES USED LITTLE IN GERMAN ATTACKS.

London, Sept. 3.—The Daily Chronicle's Havre correspondent, commenting on the small part which rifle fire plays in the German attacks, quotes a Red Cross surgeon who, he says, declares that out of 500 wounded, he has treated only one who was suffering from a rifle bullet. All the other wounded had been injured by shrapnel or shell fire.

Harvest Festival at Frazee.

PUPILS HAVE FINE GARDENS

Cloquet School Children Showing Results of Garden Work.

Fine Display Made of Vegetables and Flowers Raised By Them.

Cloquet, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—An exhibit of vegetables and flowers from the gardens of 110 public school children is being made in the basement of the public library. The young gardenrs are delighted with their summer's work and very proud of their vegetables. The ages of the gardeners range from 9 to 14 years, the average age being about 11. Beets, carrots, corn, tomatoes, beans, radishes, squash, cauliflower, celery, cabbage, potatoes, and almost every other known vegetable are on exhibit. Sweet peas, verbina and nasturtiums seem to have been the flowers the children delighted to grow for these flowers are present in such quantities as to make the exhibit resemble a flower show.

Stalks of corn nine feet high with excellent ears are on exhibit, grown by Walter Wennerlund, a 10-year-old gardener. Carl Gustafson, Carl Bruno and Orrin Everson show some excellent ripe tomatoes.

The aim of the agricultural department is to produce a tomato here that will ripen before fall frosts. The tomato plants were started in the school green house and had reached a fair size before being transplanted to the gardens. Fine, large, ripe tomatoes, grown by Ruth Olson were not started in the green house. But those plants ripened quickest which were started in the green house.

Fine Celery Exhibit.

One feature of the children's gardening is the excellent celery grown. Gerald Bodway's exhibit of celery was best. String beans nine inches long were shown, a squash weighing fifteen pounds and a cabbage which was nine inches across.

Mr. Homer, the agricultural instructor, who is in charge of the summer gardens, says that this section of the country leads any place he has seen for the production of root crops far exceeding Illinois and Iowa.

Among those having exhibits are Mildred Nelson, Helen Johnson, Sherman Grant, Carl Gustafson, Ero Strand, Hartwick Lance, Francis Lightfoot, Walter Wennerlund, David Jolliffe, Milton Rullington, Selma Olson, Gerald Bodway, Edward Gustafson, Ruth Olson, Paul Fahlstrom, Orrin Evenson, Stella Maleck, George Benson, Fred Benson, Hildur Holmberg, Walter Newman, Waldron Davis, Victor Wicklund, Allen McIntyre, Theresa McIntyre, Carl Bruno.

Prizes to the amount of $25 are to be awarded to those having the best exhibits and gardens. These prizes were to be given by the Cloquet Commercial club.

Some important changes have been made in the list of prizes to be offered this year and increased appropriations have been made for almost every department. This Week's Sunday School Lesson

Written for The Herald By Rev. J. S. Kirtley, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: SEPT. 6.

Mark xii, 28-44: The Great Commandments.

CONNECTION.

It is still Tuesday of the Master's last week, a day of fierce conflicts. We must not forget that his enemies hated each other, but united to attack Him. Pharisees attacked Him with questions they thought He could not answer without laying Himself open to a charge of some kind on which He could be handled by the Jewish or Roman law, but He drove them back humbled and enraged. Sadducees had the same success. Herodians thought they had impaled Him on their question about paying tribute to Caesar, but He taught them and us lessons of permanent value. Now one of the scribes, who was, of course, of the Pharisee party, approaches Him with a mooted question.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Great Commandments Defined: 28-34.

"And one of the scribes came, and heard them questioning together, and knowing that He had answered them well, asked Him, What commandment is the first of all? Jesus answered him, the first of all the commandments is, Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God is one Lord; and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength. The second is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. There is none other commandment greater than these. And the scribe said unto him, Of a truth, Teacher, Thou hast well said that He is one; and there is none other but He: and to love Him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is much more than all whole burnt-offerings and sacrifices. And when Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, He said unto him, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God. And no man after that durst ask Him any question."

1. THE QUESTION.—The preceding question by the Pharisees and Herodians was about a political matter, that of the Sadducees about religion, and this of the scribe about theology. Those who asked the first two wanted to expose Him to the Roman or Jewish authority, but this one was asked by one of those men who like to talk on theological puzzles. The man was a sincere sort of hair-splitter and wanted to be accurate. For generations the hair-splitters had been trying to decide which class of commandments was of greater importance and which specific commands of the greater group were stronger—ceremonial or moral. It was a practical question after all. Pharisees leaned toward the ceremonial, Sadducees toward the moral commands, though they were anything but moral. Yet it was mainly a personal rather than a party issue. The scribes were professional copyists of the law and had a high conceit of their ability. This one wanted to argue. He would get Jesus' point of view, though he had not the least idea that he could be taught by Jesus. He would try Jesus out and perhaps show Him up as a heretic.

2. PRINCIPLE.—In saying that the two commandments of love to God and love to men are the greatest, Jesus simply penetrated to the principle under all the separate precepts of the law, while the scribes were in the habit of weighing and balancing the separate precepts without going below the surface to find the principle that united them. Love to God is the greatest because He is greatest; it includes all other right things because He is one and created all other things; it makes the one who practices it great for it makes him like God; it leads to all other loving and right practices.

In putting God first Jesus was in harmony with their Scriptures and their history; and He put character above conduct, for our duties to God can only be done when we have love to God.

See the principle still further. If you love God, you must love all of God, for He is one. If you love Him you must love Him with your whole being—with the "heart" where emotions, passions, affections dwell; with the "soul" the home of the life-energy, the will and personality; with the "mind" where reason has its home—love Him thus for you are also one. Without love obedience is slavery; from love to God a free, spontaneous, joyous obedience comes. Jesus meant that and much more; the scribe saw its force.

3. PRACTICE.—The other command is like it because it is the first command in action in your life with others. To put the Creator above all others is to put the other human beings on a level with yourself. To love the Father supremely is to make His other children your equals. That comes as a moral necessity. The best thing you can do for another is to love him because that will keep you from doing him harm and will compel you to do all the other duties you owe him. One should love oneself very highly because that is the standard for one's love for others.

4. APPROVAL.—Two effects of His wise replies both to this man and to other questioners were the approval of this man and the acquiescence of the others. Enemies were muzzled. This man's approval was genuine, for he was sincere and would hardly have run the risk of the hatred of his fellow Pharisees if he were not sincere. It was penetrating and spiritual and intelligent, for he went further and heaped up his approval with some wise words of his own and from the Scriptures. He enjoyed Christ's acuteness of mind, depth and clearness of insight and bold statements. He was glad to classify Jesus with himself and he won the comment of Christ that he was near the kingdom. Let us hope that he afterward accepted Jesus as his Savior and Lord.

We pass over some omitted verses about the pride and hypocrisy of the scribes and all the Pharisees. They lived on the deference the common people showed them and sought it by all forms of pretense. Jesus pressed His opportunity, when He had them all silenced, to expose them to themselves and to their dupes.

II.

The Law in Action. 41-44.

"And He sat down over against the treasury, and beheld how the multitude cast money into the treasury; and many that were rich cast in much. And there came a poor widow, and she cast in two mites, which make a farthing. And He called unto Him His disciples, and said unto them, Verily I say unto you, This poor widow cast in more than all they that are casting into the treasury; for they all did cast in of their superfluity; but she of her want did cast in all that she had, even all her living."

1. CONTRASTS.—It must have been a joy to the Master to go into the temple enclosure where the people could come and worship, and see this woman showing in her action and looks the complete working of the law. Here are three contrasts between her and the rich Pharisees. She had nothing left after giving her quarter of a penny, while they never missed what they gave. She had the spirit of love; they of self-seeking. She won His unstinted approval; they His condemnation.

2. UNITY.—This shows that it is wrong to neglect love of God or love of man, for each needs the other. We are in danger of accepting the altruism Jesus taught us toward the human brother and ignoring the reverence He taught us for the heavenly Father.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The first great commandment acts as a protection and stimulus to the second. When love to God is thoroughly awakened it is the most decisive of all breaks with selfishness and every development of altruistic sentiment becomes possible. But in modern times the opposite mistake is commoner—namely the tendency to put asunder the two commandments by the sacrifice of the first. The service of man is set up as a rival to the service of God; and morality without religion is, in certain circles, a watchword of modern progress.—Stalker.

If you love your will unconsciously fulfill the whole law. If a man loved you would never think of telling him to honor his father and mother. He could not do anything else. It would be preposterous to tell him not to kill. You could only insult him if you suggested that he should not steal—how could he steal from those he loved? It would be superfluous to beg him not to bear false witness against his neighbor. If he loved him it would be the last thing he would do. You would never dream of urging him not to covet that his neighbors had. He would rather they possessed it than himself. In this way "love is the fulfilling of the law."—Drummond.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. What have the attacks on Jesus profited us?
2. What would be your personal gain if you could love those whom now you dislike?
3. How can you learn to love the unlovely or those who have injured you?
4. What benefit do you get from showing your love in giving?
5. What benefit do you gain from showing your love by forgiving?

MARTIAL LAW NOW SUPREME IN BUTTE

First Day Under Military Rule Passes Without Friction.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 3.—The advent of state militia here yesterday and the placing of Butte under martial law did not bring the expected clash with the element that has been making threats of what would happen in case the militia came. Butte's first day under military rule was uneventful. Members of the National Guard of the state have headquarters in the courthouse with Maj. Jesse B. Roote, as chief of staff, and judge advocate.

Orders were given soon after the militia moved into the business district to arrest leaders of the Butte Mine Workers' union, the organization formed to oppose the Western Federation of Miners. Four arrests were made late in the afternoon, one of the men being James Chapman, chairman of the jurisdiction committee and who acted as judge in the deportation of men who refused to join the new union. Chapman had cartridges in his pockets. Three others who were arrested, carried revolvers.

Provost Marshal Conley searched the city for "Muckie" MacDonald, president of the union, but he could not be found. He is wanted on charges of inciting riots.

The list of men who are wanted was said by Maj. Roote to be a long one. The police of Butte and the sheriff's forces of Silver Bow county, were ordered by Maj. Dan J. Donahue, who is in command here to co-operate with the militia in making the arrests and maintaining peace. The city patrol wagon was used by the militia in carrying prisoners to the county jail. They are to be tried by the military court with Maj. Roote presiding.

Jurisdiction Committee Inactive.

For the first time in three days, the jurisdiction committee of the new union did not appear at the mines to enforce its order that prohibited non-members from working. For several blocks around the courthouse, the streets were patrolled by militiamen who prohibited persons from passing through the guarded district. On two sides of the courthouse two gatling guns were placed in the streets. Two machine guns were placed on the roof of the courthouse also. State troops will sleep in the courthouse for the present.

The order of Maj. Donahue placing Butte under martial law, prohibits boys and girls, under 18 years, from being on the streets at night. Women, unaccompanied, are requested not to appear on the streets. All public meetings have been prohibited, but certain organizations will be allowed to meet if they obtain permits. Theaters are allowed to remain open. One playhouse, however, decided to close for the week.

The mines of Butte worked as usual yesterday, but when the miners came to the surface after completing their shift they were searched for dynamite, it having been reported that miners have for some time carried dynamite which they did not use in blasting, from the mines.

UNCLE SAM GAINS VALUABLE RIGHTS

Important Treaty With Panama Has Been Signed.

Panama, Sept. 3.—An important treaty by the terms of which the United States gains control of the waters of the harbors of Colon and Ancon, together with certain other valuable rights, was signed here yesterday by William Jennings Price, the American minister, and Ernesto T. Lefevre, Panama secretary of foreign relations.

The new convention has been in negotiation for years. Early last year the negotiations were broken off by Panama because it then seemed impossible to bring the two governments into accord.

The instrument replaces what has been known as the Davis agreement of June 15, 1912, on the boundaries of the canal zone, in which it was understood that a future formal treaty would fix the delimitation permanently. It also amplifies the Panama canal treaty of Nov. 18, 1913, under which the canal zone was acquired from Panama.

Panama, by the provisions of the convention, will for the first time be placed in direct physical connection with the remainder of the country.

SIX CHILDREN ARE SMOTHERED BY SAND.

Schenectady, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Five girls and one boy, ranging in age from 6 to 10 years, were killed here yesterday by the caving of a sandbank. They were in a tunnel they had dug into the foot of the bank, and when found were covered with several feet of sand.

MRS. GOETHALS DETAINED AS SPY.

Washington, Sept. 3.—With the return to Washington of naval officers who were in France at the time of the outbreak of the war, it became known that Mrs. George W. Goethals, wife of Governor Goethals of the Panama canal zone, was arrested at Ville Franche as a German spy shortly after the war began.

Mrs. Goethals is of German descent and speaks the language fluently. She had some difficulty proving her identity, but finally produced her marriage certificate. When the French officers learned she was the wife of the builder of the Panama canal, they could not apologize sufficiently, and her release was ordered immediately.

INTENSE ITCHING OF ECZEMA

Pimples in Clusters. Kept Getting Worse. Clothing Irritated. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed in Two Weeks.

P. O. Box 13, Kimball, Neb.—"My right limb began itching in several places. Then the eczema came in the form of pimples in clusters and after I would scratch them they would form one lump. It kept getting worse. The itching was intense. My clothing irritated the eruption, also the air. I could not sleep.

"I sent to the drug store and got a bottle of so-called ——— ——— which did no good. I tried everything recommended for it but it kept getting worse. A year after the beginning of the itching I was covered with big itching blotches and the itching was terrible. I could do nothing but scratch and the more I scratched the worse it would itch and burn. I saw a testimonial someone had written about being healed of eczema with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. Then I sent to the drug store and got some more. In two days I was better, in a week the itching had stopped and in two weeks the eczema was all gone." (Signed) Mrs. Henry H. Prouty, Apr. 21, 1914.

EDISON COMPANY ASKS MORE TIME

Twenty-Day Period for Considering City's Offer Expires.

The twenty days allowed the Duluth-Edison company in which to accept the city's offer of $1,107,340.54 for its plant and business expire today. But an answer from the company will not be forthcoming today, according to Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the division of public utilities. He said that A. W. Hartman, president of the company, called him over the telephone yesterday afternoon to ask for more time. The commissioner told him that he is opposed to further delay but that the council probably would take no action in the matter before the council meeting next Monday afternoon.

TRIES TO TAKE HER OWN LIFE

Waitress Out of Work Spends Last $1.50 for Revolver.

Despondent because she was out of work, Gertrude Barrows, 24 years old, who came to Duluth yesterday morning from St. Paul, bought a revolver for $1.50, all the money she had in her possession, and was about to shoot herself early last evening when an officer interferred and brought her to headquarters. She is now at the municipal lodging house.

The young woman came to Duluth from St. Paul early yesterday morning and remained at the Soo station nearly all day. She is a waitress and had been out of work in St. Paul for some time. She decided Tuesday to come to Duluth to seek a position. She tried two or three restaurants yesterday afternoon and when informed that no waitresses were needed, she decided to take her life.

Late in the afternoon the young woman went to a West Superior street store and purchased a revolver and some cartridges for $1.50, all the money she had. She asked the clerk to load the firearm for her, but this he refused to do and she went to the station, where she asked two men to fill the revolver with cartridges.

The two men noticed that the young woman was excited, and they immediately started out in search for an officer. In the meantime she succeeded in putting two cartridges into the revolver and was testing it to see if it would work, when one of the cartridges went off, the bullet striking the floor nearby. She was about to lift the revolver to her head, when Patrolman Englert appeared with the two men and took the revolver from her. He then brought her to police headquarters, where she told the officers that she was out of work and penniless. She was taken to the municipal lodging house for the night.

This morning it was said at the lodging house that the young woman is very nervous as a result of her experience, but that she is expected to be completely recovered within a day or two. Arrangements have been made to secure a position for her and she will go to work in Duluth early next week.

JEAN DU LUTH FARM LAUDED

Duluth Men Praised for Breeding Stock for Northwest.

The September issue of Farm, Stock and Home, published in Minneapolis, carried a most eulogistic and interesting article on the Jean du Luth farm, written by H. J. Carter.

Mr. Carter tells of the big work which is being done for the Northwest by Messrs. Craig, Williams and Grout in breeding high-grade cattle which will be suitable for the Northwest. "The task they have set themselves is a great one; to give the world what is essentially another and better breed of livestock is something worth while," he declares.

He pictures the early development of the farm as on incessant battle against the forest that has been transformed into a great farm laboratory, planned and run for something better than profit. He tells of the great advances which have been made in the breeding to secure the ideal cow desired and gives figures to show the rapid forward strides which have been made. The article carries several illustrations of the farm and its cattle and among them is the large covered motor truck which affords quick delivery of ice-cold milk to a widening and satisfied market in the city.

TWO FROSTS DURING AUGUST

Temperature for Month Below Normal; One "Hot" Day.

The hottest weather which Duluth has had in August since, 1905, was on the eighth of last month, when the mercury climbed to 90 deg., according to the monthly meteorological summary issued by Weather Forecaster H. W. Richardson.

The average temperature for the month was 62 deg., or 2.9 deg. below the normal while the total precipitation was 4.2 inches, or .67 inches above the normal. Frost was noted locally on the twenty-seventh and in the outlying districts on the twenty-fourth, which are exceptionally early dates. The lowest temperature of the month was 42 deg. on the twenty-seventh. The greatest daily range was 32 deg. on the third, when the mercury shifted from 82 deg. to 50 deg. The greatest precipitation was 1.3 inches on the ninth. The accumulated deficiency in temperature since Jan. 1 is 301 deg. and the accumulated excess of precipitation since that date is 4.11 inches. Thus far this year has been cooler and wetter than the normal.

August had 10 clear days, 13 partly cloudy, and 8 cloudy. It rained 11 days and dense fogs occurred on two days. There were nine thunder storms but no sleet or hail storms. No serious storms occurred. The weather man states that with few exceptions the crops in this part of the country are in excellent condition.

HUMANE AGENT HAD A BUSY SUMMER

August and July were busy months for R. D. McKercher, humane agent, and his assistants, according to reports read at the September meeting of the Humane society at the courthouse yesterday afternoon. No meeting was held in August owing to the absence of several members of the executive committee from the city. Plans for the annual meeting, to be held Sept. 16, were discussed.

During the two months the humane agent investigated a total of 84 cases, involving the welfare of 174 human beings. Eight of the cases were not substantiated. Special Agent J. G. Luxon, who has charge of the animal welfare work, investigated 46 cases, involving 196 animals.

C., where he plans to go into the real estate business. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Hurja was presented with a ring by the employes of the publishing company as a token of their esteem and friendship.

Mr. Hurja was connected with the Paivalehti, the Finnish daily newspaper, during the seven years that it was published at Calumet, Mich. When it was removed to Duluth, on Feb. 1 last, Mr. Hurja continued as business manager of the consolidated companies.

It was announced this morning that no changes will be made in the local staff, except that Nels Teppo, general manager, will in the future have active charge of the business office.

OIL COMPANIES ARE WINNERS IN COURT

Suit to Recover Lands for Government Must Go to Trial.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 3.—The application of the United States government for a receiver for oil lands in Kern county, California, worth $10,000,000, was denied yesterday in the United States district court by Judge Dooling.

Judge Dooling's decision, which is a victory for companies controlling immense tracts of oil lands in California, title to which the government seeks to recover, means that the case of the United States against the companies must go to trial on its merits. The decision will affect nearly a score of Federal suits to cancel patents to California oil lands.

Defendants named in the suit decided are the Pacific Midway Oil company, the Maricopa Queen Oil company, the J. D. Spreckels General Petroleum company, the American Oriental company and others.

RAIN HALTS FLAG RACE

Dooks and Peggers Forced to Postpone Games at Same Time.

Season Closes Soon; Fans to Honor Darby O'Brien Saturday.

The fans who hung around the score boards yesterday were disappointed when the little tickers announced "rain—no game" for the Duluth-Fort William and the Winnipeg-Virginia contests. But as long as both teams were standing still there wasn't much of a kick coming.

It is a question whether or not the teams will play today. Canada seems to be a wet place this week, and the grounds are in poor condition. Virginia is being watched with great interest by the Duluth baseball fans. Every fan here is pulling for the boys from the range to go out and give the Peggers another good trimming, thereby helping the Dooks in the race for the pennant. The way the Virginians clouted the ball in the first game of the series with Winnipeg looks good to the fans here, and they hope the Ore Diggers can do it again.

There are only five days of baseball left this season, so the fans will have to let business go and attend the games. The games Saturday and Sunday were scheduled to be played in Virginia, but the range management consented to come down off the hill and play in our backyard.

Saturday is Darby day, and the Duluth fans can show their appreciation of what the Dook has done for the team and for the sport in Duluth by attending the game and rooting for the leader of the home guards.

FARGO TAKES FIRST GAME OF SERIES

CHICKEN SEASON TO OPEN SEPT. 7

Hunting of Game Birds in North Dakota Promises to Be Good.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the prairie chickens well developed and numerous, except possibly in the eastern parts of the Red river valley counties, and with more ducks than were ever known in the state since the settlement of North Dakota, the shooters are anticipating a lot of sport when the season opens at sunrise Monday morning, Sept. 7.

Reports from all sections of the state tell of the unusual numbers of ducks. For several years the state has protected the ducks against spring shooting and the Federal laws were also helpful this spring. The game wardens have been very active in the enforcement of the law against spring shooting and the early spring and summer rains filled the lakes and coulees to such an extent that the ducks had more breeding places than in former years.

Must Have Licenses.

All shooters, regardless of age or sex must have a license. The resident licenses cost $1 and the non-resident licenses $25. Actual residents and dependent members of their families may hunt on their own lands without a license. Non-residents owning land in the state, however, must have a non-resident license.

Ten prairie chickens is the bag limit and shooters can kill twenty-five ducks, or a combination of twenty-five ducks and geese.

Non-resident shooters can carry a two-day kill out of the state.

Violations of the bag limit are punishable by a fine of $10 for each additional bird.

CRACK GOLFERS PAIRED.

National Championship Play Finds Experts Opposed.

Manchester, Vt., Sept. 3.—The third round of the national amateur golf championship tournament at the Ekwanok Country club today found four players from the Metropolitan district, two from Boston and one each from Pittsburg and Chicago. Interest centered in the match between R. A. Gardner, Hinsdale, former amateur champion and Francis Ouimet, Woodland, former open champion.

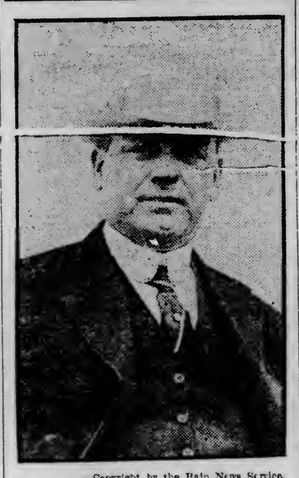

Walter J. Travis, Garden City, former amateur champion, met Roy Webb, Englewood; Jerome D. Travers, Upper Montclair, the present amateur champion, had W. P. Seeley, Brooklaw, for an opponent, and W. C. Fownes, Jr., Oakmont, former amateur champion, played against R. R. Gorton, Brae Burn.

The weather continued very warm, although there had been heavy thunder showers during the night.

Billiard Game Close.

In the second game of the three cushion billiard tournament at the Grand billiard hall F. Stiegler won from Ferguson 25 to 23. The game was close all the way. Each made a high run of three. Tonight Harrington will play Fredrick and tomorrow night Fester and Ferguson will play.

BRAINS OF WINNING BRAVES OF BOSTON

—Copyright by the Hain News Service.

GEORGE STALLINGS.

The leader of the Boston Braves, who are now leading the National league, is perhaps more emphatically in the limelight these days than any other sportsman, and is dividing the newspaper honors with the European war. Stallings made good last year, his first as manager of the Braves, and this year has brought them up from last place to the leadership of the league.

It is said that not only is his supreme ability for handling men and guiding plays, responsible for the onward march of the Beaneaters, but that his efficient, effective and eloquent mastery of vituperation has been one of the strongest stimulants of his team. It is claimed that after Stallings has "cussed out" a player, the erring one becomes possessed of an antipathy toward a repetition of the conversation which amounts to a mania, and sees to it that occasion for another "bawling out" does not arise.

GOLF IN THE UNITED STATES

THEN—and—NOW

Twenty years ago today the first American championship golf match was played. The game was then considered a society fad and was played in a regal setting at Newport, R. I. Of the twenty contestants, W. G. Lawrence of Newport was declared the winner and the first American amateur champion. Golf in the United States is said to date from the establishment of St. Andrews' Golf club at Yonkers, N. Y., in 1888. South Carolinians, however, claim that it was played in their state a century before, and point to the files of the Charleston City Gazette, where an item under date of Sept. 18, 1788, states: "* * * there is lately erected that pleasing and genteel amusement, the golf baan." Golf was played in Scotland, said by many to be its place of birth, generations before Columbus made known that there was an America. One prominent American educator has said that he read an account of a golf game written by the ancient Aristotle, and had found reference to the sport in the Bible. It is also claimed that Holland was its place of origin. In the earliest records of Scottish history, literature and even legislation, golf occupies a prominent place. Over four centuries ago the sport had so overwhelmed archery, the soldier's training, that the Scottish legislature decreed that "the fut ball and golf be utterly cryit doun and nocht usit." Forbidden to the masses, it remained a royal pastime. King James II played a game with an Edinburgh shoemaker; Queen Mary was found playing on the links two days after the death of her royal consort, Darnley. The news of the great Irish rebellion came to King Charles I while he was lifting the ball over the links at Leith.

Today golf, beginning as a society fad in the United States, has become a pastime at which a vast fortune, estimated as high as $50,000,000, is spent every year in the United States. There are said to be more than 200,000 active players who are driving the gutta percha balls over the links whose combined acreage in the United States is nearly as large as the District of Columbia. Some of the American club houses are veritable mansions; one in the Middle West has cost to date over $750,000 for the golfing course, the club house and the equipment. The exact amount of money reaped annually by the American caddies is not definitely known, but it probably equals the amount paid in Great Britain, which is estimated at $12,500,000. Other items that go to make up the annual tribute to golf are clubs and balls. The value of the clubs in use is estimated at nearly $1,000,000, while the balls are valued at over $6,000,000. Golf has spread throughout the world. In Europe there is scarcely a country without its golf links and players. Japan has one of the finest courses in the world. Mexico is rapidly becoming known for its links. While all classes have taken to the sport with great enthusiasm, kings and queens, not to mention the lesser lights of royalty and the nobility, are ardent devotees. King Alfonso has his private links in Spain and has taught his English-born queen to play the game. The German emperor, prohibited by a physical ailment from participating in the sport, nevertheless is an enthusiast and frequently follows his son, the crown prince, about the links at Potsdam. President Wilson and his predecessor, Mr. Taft, are devoted to the game.

RAIN STOPS RACES.

Grand Circuit at Syracuse Fails to Complete Program.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Rain interrupted the racing at the Grand Circuit meeting held in connection with the New York state fair yesterday afternoon. Five heats were contested, but no one of the four numbers on the program was completed.

Two heats were raced in the Empire stake of $10,000 for 2:14 trotters and in both Lassie McGregor, the favorite, was beaten, Margaret Druien taking first place in each. In the second heat Lassie McGregor almost got the distance flag after behaving badly on the getaway.

In the Syracuse stake of $5,000 for 2:11 pacers, King Couchman, the favorite, was pressed hard by Napoleon Direct in each of two heats. In the first heat, Geers was in fourth place at the three quarters pole and was within a few inches of the winner at the wire, the last quarter having been paced in 29½ seconds.

Peter Stevens had a procession in the third race for 2:08 pacers. Garrison pulled up in the stretch to save Murphy with Marietta from the flag.

MIXED DOUBLES WILL BE PLAYED

Tennis Tourney Entrants Keep Their Eye on Weather.

If the weather permits play in the mixed doubles in the Head of the Lakes tourney at the Oatka courts will take place this afternoon.

Sixteen pairs will play down for the finals. It is expected that the players will get to the semi-finals by Saturday if the weather permits.

Yesterday the rain prevented most of the games, but three were played. Ray Smith defeated Charles Fraker, 6-4, and 6-4; Walter Kennedy won from R. S. Smith, 6-1 and 6-1; Knight beat Le Seur, 6-2 and 6-0.

No games were played on the Longview courts in the city tournament yesterday on account of the rain, but it is expected that the tournament will go on today.

PENNANT RACES FROM THE BACK PLATFORM

Andy, the Conductor Fan, Sees Only the Giants—Many Boston Supporters in Lakeside.

"It looks to me as if those Giants were a little off their feed," said Andy Olson, the conductor fan, as he rung up a Canadian dime on a Lakeside car this morning.

Andy is one of the best posted men in Duluth. He knows more about it than Connie Mack, McGraw and Spalding's baseball library. In fact, he is a regular dyed-in-the-wool "nut" when it comes to baseball.

He brings a bunch of bleacherites down on his car every morning and from the conversation around the back platform it sounds as if those Lakesiders didn't know there was a war going on. The only war they can see is the fight for the pennant in the National league and the fight Duluth is making for the flag here.

There was great excitement this morning when the baseball experts got together on the car to hold a post-mortem over the games yesterday when the Giants dropped to second place and the Boston Braves took the lead.

"Of course it is all right for someone else to lead the league for awhile," said Andy, "but those Giants will be back there again soon. There is no chance for Boston when McGraw and his warriors get sore about anything and they are getting real peeved right now."

"Aw, you don't know what you are talking about," said a man on the back platform who was strong for the Boston team. "The Braves are the best team in the league and they will cop that rag just as sure as this car will get down town."

Then the whole platform got into the argument. Boston lost two champions at Third avenue east and the Giants seemed to have the better of the argu-

That's why men are glad to hear about "Right-Cut," and to tell the glad news to their friends in turn.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 3.—With the defeat of Miss Alice M. Prendergast, St. Louis, by Miss Marion Soule, Kansas City, in the third round here yesterday, the last visiting entrant was eliminated from the championship flight of the Missouri valley women's tennis tournament. Miss Soule's victory was unexpected, but at the beginning she seemed to outgeneral her opponent, winning three sets, 10-8, 6-8, 6-4.

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 3.—Joe Wolters of Joliet, Ill., won the 250-mile sweepstakes motorcycle race held at the automobile speedway here yesterday afternoon. UNDYED HOSIERY ONE RESULT OF WAR.

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—Bleached white or undyed hosiery will prevail next spring and summer, according to officers and members of the advisory board of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear manufacturers, who met here to discuss the dye problem with importers and domestic manufacturers of dyes.

Learning that no immediate relief can be expected in the dye stuff situation because of the European war, and that it would take at least a year to establish plants to manufacture dye in this country, the meeting adopted a resolution advising hosiery manufacturers not to accept orders for dyed hosiery for delivery after Jan. 1, or beyond such time as the stock of dye stuffs of the individual manufacturer will last.

HEALTH TALKS

By William Brady, M.D.

Why Measles Is So Fatal

IN that portion of the United States known as the "registration area," which includes those states and cities having reliable records of vital statistics, there were 6,598 deaths from measles in 1910, as compared with 6,255 deaths from scarlet fever and 202 deaths from smallpox.

In New York state there were 1,071 deaths from measles in 1913, as compared with 837 deaths from scarlet fever and one death from smallpox out of 823 cases of smallpox reported.

From two to eight cases of measles in every hundred cases terminate fatally. It is at present a more fatal disease than either scarlet fever or smallpox. And why?

The Lungs Are Air-Hungry.

It is well known that there is always a "catarrhal" condition of the upper respiratory tract with the onset of measles. The nose, throat, and usually the large bronchial tubes partake in the inflammation and eruption. When the inflammatory process extends deeply into the chest there is apt to develop a serious bronchitis or a broncho-pneumonia ("suffocative catarrh," as the older physicians called it) which explains the high death rate from measles.

Furthermore it is a notorious fact that pulmonary tuberculosis often has its inception in a case of measles, the child fails to make the expected full recovery, but continues in a state of lowered resistance until evidences of tuberculosis become manifest. It must be remembered that the majority of young children harbor tubercle bacilli in their deep lymph glands anyway, and a period of diminished vitality from any cause may give the tuberculosis the chance to light up and become active. Measles seems to be the factor that converts many cases of "latent" or inactive tuberculosis into active tuberculosis in children.

Measles Won't Strike In.

Now, briefly, there is no basis for the bugaboo of the "eruption striking in." If ever a child needs fresh air, and cool, clean, moist, outdoor air, it is during the progress of measles. This does not mean that there must be discomfort. Plenty of coverings or clothes may be used to keep the child comfortably warm, or even perspiring a trifle if the doctor thinks best. But do not suffocate the patient with devitalized, overheated, excessively dry air.

Outdoor air, brought indoors if necessary through open windows, is universally recognized as a natural cure for "colds," bronchitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis. If it cures it more certainly prevents. Give the measles victim preventive treatment against respiratory complications and there will be a better story told by the mortality statistics another year.

Questions and Answers.

Express Agent inquires: Why does an injury by a rusty nail subject a person to greater danger of lockjaw than an injury by a bright new nail?

REPLY.

It doesn't. The rust has nothing whatever to do with lockjaw or with ordinary blood poisoning. A fresh, bright nail may be covered with lockjaw (tetanus) bacilli or with the bacteria of acute blood poisoning (septicemia). The popular fancy about rusty nails, colored stockings, verdigris and the like is a relic of ancient times when the actual cause of infection was not understood.

New York Stater writes: Our city had an epidemic of smallpox last winter. The health authorities urged general vaccination. They quarantined known "contacts" who refused to be vaccinated, and permitted exposed persons who submitted to vaccination to go about their affairs. Was this sound sanitation?

REPLY.

The actual mode of transmission of smallpox is not definitely known, there being still some uncertainty as to the specific cause of the disease. Practically, the plan you mention seems to succeed. It is strong evidence of the growing belief in the efficacy of vaccination. However, it is but fair to say that the best sanitarians at present admit that the disease may even be communicable during the stage of incubation—the period between "contact" and the appearance of the first symptoms (usually less than 16 days). If this be true, then all contacts should be reasonably isolated whether they are vaccinated at once or not. For we cannot be sure that the vaccination will "take" the first time.

Mrs. K. J. H. asks: Will massage help a poor complexion as much as is claimed in the "hints" printed in many papers? Are the lotions advised in these "hints" harmful?

REPLY.

The massage will help some, but it won't do all the "hints" claim for the simple lotion you "mix yourself." These new style nostrums are usually not injurious, but neither are they of any value. They are the same old toilet preparations under trade-mark names.

LAST TRUST BILL PASSED

Clayton Measure Is Acted on By Senate—Going to Conference.

Several Amendments Have Been Made—Harbor Bill Next.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The Clayton anti-trust bill to supplement the Sherman law, which will complete the administration trust legislative program for this season of congress, passed the senate late yesterday. The vote was 46 to 16.

Seven Republican senators, Brady, Clapp, Cummins, Jones, Kenyon, Norris and Perkins, and Senator Poindexter, Progressive, voted for the bill.

The senate then voted to begin consideration of the rivers and harbors appropriation bill today and continue until it is disposed of.

Several Republican senators propose to fight the bill, which carries appropriations aggregating $53,000,000.

The Clayton bill was amended by the senate in many particulars, and will be sent to conference, where the Federal trade commission bill—first of the anti-trust measures—still is under consideration. Reports on both measures are hoped for within two weeks.

Fines and Imprisonment.

The bill provides fines and imprisonment for officers of corporations convicted of offenses against the trust laws; prohibits exclusive and tying contracts which restrict independence of purchasers; prohibits holding companies where their effect is to lessen competition or create monopoly, and makes illegal two years after the passage of the act interlocking directorates in competing corporations any one of which has capital of more than $1,000,000.

It also forbids the interlocking of railroad directors with corporations dealing in securities, railroad supplies or contracts, and liberalizes procedure in injunction and contempt cases.

Sections of the house bill relating to price discrimination and unfair competition were stricken out in the senate.

Exemptions Made.

Labor, agricultural and horticultural organizations, not conducted for profit, are exempted from the provisions relating to monopoly.

The maximum penalty fixed for violation of the provision preventing exclusive contracts is $5,000 or one year imprisonment, or both.

The provision against holding companies would not prevent common carriers from acquiring branch lines where there is no substantial competition.

Sections relating to interlocking directorates are made effective two years after the passage of the act.

Directorates of railroads, under the terms of the bill, cannot be interlocked with corporations dealing in securities, railroads supplies or other articles of commerce or contracts for construction, maintenance, etc., to an amount of more than $50,000 in any one year, unless purchases are made after competitive bidding under regulations of the interstate commerce commission. A penalty of two years imprisonment and $25,000 fine is prescribed for violation.

Misapplication a Felony.

Another provision makes it a felony for officials of common carriers willfully to misapply or permit misapplication of funds of the corporation, the penalty being not less than $500 fine or imprisonment for not less than one or more than ten years or both.

The section dealing with court procedure provides that no injunction shall issue between employers and employes in labor disputes unless necessary to prevent injury to property or property rights, and no such order shall prohibit the right of employes to strike or peacefully persuade others to do so. Disobedience of writs subjects defenders to contempt proceedings. The accused in indirect cases being granted trial by jury.

President Wilson will delay his selection of the members of the new trade commission until after the measure has been harmonized with the Clayton bill by the conference reports. He has not considered any names as yet.

HUNDREDS AT WORK AT THE STATE FAIR

Exhibits Coming in and Judging Begun in Several Departments.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hundreds of persons are at work at the state fair grounds preparing for the big exposition, which opens Monday, Sept. 7. Exhibits are coming in for every department, and judging has commenced in several departments.

F. L. Stone of Benson, Minn., a breeder of Holstein cattle, has arrived with thirteen animals. With the exception of some light horses and harness horses, this is the first shipment of livestock to reach the fair grounds.

The judging of butter has commenced. The cheese exhibits will be judged tomorrow. A butter statue of Minnehaha Falls is being moulded in the dairy building by J. D. Daniels, the sculptor engaged by the fair each year. Cheese and butter awards, according to Andrew French, superintendent of the dairy department, will be announced Monday.

Wadena, Nicollet and Sibley counties started work on their exhibits this morning. Red Lake and Washington counties were the first two on the grounds. St. Louis county is putting up its special exhibit, which does not compete with the others.

The rainy weather has interfered with the erection of booths and stands this week. Carpenters at work upon the two swine barns needed to house the record-breaking swine show, will be compelled to work night and day to finish them in time to receive the exhibits.

The rural and graded school exhibits have all arrived, and judging upon them has commenced. There are over 3,000 distinct entries, which is double the number of entries in 1913. Eleven high schools will put on exhibits in the school exhibits building. It has been found that seventy-two children will compete in the spelling contest, Friday, Sept. 11, according to a check made today by George F. Howard, superintendent of school exhibits. Last year there were thirty-three contestants.

EXPERIENCES IN THE WAR ZONE

American Has Thrilling Time Near the Liege Battlefield.

W. A. Kelly, a Toledo, Ohio, hotel man, who has been a visitor to Duluth, has just returned home from a visit to Europe. He was in the war zone and says he had an experience that he would not care to go through again. In an interview he said:

"I was at Aachen, Germany, near the border of Holland and Belgium, thirty miles from Liege, where the first round took place. The roaring of the cannons was continuous and terrific all day. The windows in the house I occupied rattled and the house trembled. In the evening the Belgians stopped firing. The Germans, thinking their guns were out of business, two companies advanced to take the forts. When they got up in closer range the Belgians turned their quick-firing machine guns on them and mowed them down like grass. A doctor who returned from Liege, in an automobile, said the dead men and horses were so thick that it was difficult to get at the wounded.

"The next morning the Germans had more men on the ground than they had before. When I left the Germans had more than a million soldiers in Belgium, and the French, English, Russians and Belgians had a like number expecting to attack each other any day. Imagine what the loss of life will be when they do—with modern guns and airships. The world has never known a war like this.

"It sounds like a fairy tale to hear Americans tell of their experiences and hardships in France and Germany, but millions of dollars' worth of baggage, belonging to Americans, was lost and scattered over Europe. There was no way to get it out. They were glad to get out with what they had on.

"I felt quite safe at Aachen, as I was vouched for by one of the leading citizens and was able to give a good account of myself, but I was watched every minute, and I knew it. I sat around and took it easy and paid strict attention to my own business.

"They caught and shot seven spies in one day in Aachen.

"Thousands of Americans were detained and searched. They would go so far as to make women take their hair down, to see if they had any papers concealed. A pretty French girl, about 19 years old, was caught in the depot. They found a bomb in her suitcase. She was taken outside of the depot and shot. This is only one of the thousands of experiences Americans have had in Europe."

EXPECT WILSON TO BE THE CANDIDATE

Washington, Sept. 3. — The published statement by Vice President Marshall declaring that President Wilson should run for re-election in 1916, and would be the unanimous choice of his party, aroused wide interest in congressional circles, but White House officials refused to make any comment. In Democratic circles, however, it is taken for granted that the president will be a candidate, although it was stated that, so far as known, he has not given the question any personal attention.

The renomination of several senators and representatives who have supported the president on the Panama tolls, the Mexican and other questions, has encouraged Democratic campaign managers. In this connection particular attention was paid to the nomination of Representative Hardwick for senator from Georgia. The praise of the president's Mexican policy in several Democratic state platforms recently also has been received with pleasure by the president's adherents.

The vice president's statement was a discussion of the Democratic outlook.

BIG AMMUNITION CONTRACTS IN U. S.

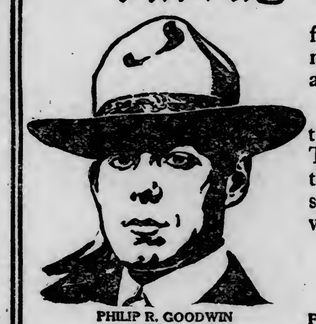

Washington, Sept. 3.—American manufacturers have contracts to supply $20,000,000 in arms and ammunition to certain European belligerents, Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador here, asserted on his return from New York. The ambassador said he did not know if any violation of neutrality were involved, and was not yet in a position to say whether or not the matter would be called to the attention of the American government.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

"NATIONAL HERO SERIES" NO. 9

Admiral de Ruyter—Greatest of Holland's Sea Captains

LIKE our own Paul Jones, de Ruyter knew no such word as surrender. His life from boyhood up was one constant battle against the enemies of his country. He defeated the proud English navy in two wars. One of his sea battles with the English fleet lasted four solid days, and ended with the advantage resting with de Ruyter. Later he fought several great naval duels against the combined English and French fleets, and while his victories were not decisive, he won for Holland undying glory. The great de Ruyter abhorred tyranny of every kind, just as do the Hollanders of to-day. When prohibitory enactments are proposed to those of the blood of Holland they vote to a man against it. They are wherever found unalterably opposed to any legislation which would make the many suffer for the faults of a few. Hollanders know that there is no evil in the barley brews and light wines of their fathers—EVIL ONLY IS IN THE MAN WHO MISUSES THEM. In America we have thousands of these splendid people, and Personal Liberty always obtains where they reside. For 57 years Anheuser-Busch have enjoyed the trade of those of Holland blood because every day of these 57 years has been devoted to the honest brewing of Barley-Malt and Hop brews. It is not to be wondered that 7,500 people are daily required to keep pace with the natural demand for Budweiser. Its sales exceed those of any other beer by millions of bottles. ANHEUSER-BUSCH · ST. FAIR OPENS IN SUNSHINE

Old Sol Shows Face as Gates of St. Louis County Fair Open.

Good Attendance With Air Flight Feature for First Day.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The gates of the St. Louis county fair opened here today under favorable auspices and indications pointing to a large attendance. It was cloudy and cool all the morning but about noon when the fair officially began Old Sol showed his face and the prospects are the afternoon will be pleasant.

This is Hibbing and Chisholm day and this village and the neighboring village will be well represented. The agricultural exhibits and the other things shown are nearly all in place. The display of the agricultural possibilities of St. Louis county is an eye-opener and beats that of last year. The big feature today outside of the races in the way of amusement will be the air flights by De Lloyd Thompson who arrived yesterday accompanied by his mechanician, Mr. Day. They were out at the grounds early today getting their machine in shape for this afternoon's initial flight which will be pulled off providing the weather does not get too blusterous.

Airman Discusses Flying.

Mr. Thompson dispels a lot of illusions about flyers not being able to go up unless wind and other conditions are right.

"The public has been buncoed by aviators for many years," Thompson said, "and has grown accustomed to the belief that man cannot fly unless the wind is right. There are no such things as 'Swiss cheese' atmospheres, 'air pockets,' 'verticles,' 'down trends' or other of the alibis so dear to the heart of the timid, incompetent or inexperienced aviators. A man who can fly well enough to get paid for exhibition flying should be able to fly in any kind of weather even if a cyclone is blowing."

"There is just as much difference between straight flying and fancy flying as there is between ordinary bicycle riding and the fancy riding act one sees upon the vaudeville stage. But a lot of aviators are going around the country, buncoing the public into believing that they can really fly, and so aviation gets a black eye. How many times do we hear supposedly intelligent persons remark that the aeroplane is but a toy, that man will never master the air. I want all those people to come and see me fly. They will go away quite of a different mind.

"One reason, and I might say the chief reason, why members of congress refuse to vote for an appropriation for an adequate aerial army and navy, is because they do not know what man can really do with an aeroplane. But they will soon know because I am going to Washington and give them a private exhibition of my loops and upside down flying."

Three More Days.

Tomorrow will be Mesaba range and Vermilion day and Saturday will be Duluth day. A big delegation is coming from the Zenith City by special train Saturday, the courthouse being closed for the day and all officials and attaches coming. Duluth day is expected to be the banner day of the fair with close Saturday when many who could not get here during the week will be expected. If the weather conditions are good the fair attendance promises to be large.

Plans to make the industrial and automobile parade Saturday night better than anything of the kind that has ever been attempted here are being completed by the men who have been placed in charge.

To Entertain Duluthians.

Prizes are being offered in this event that will make it worth while for the societies, merchants and auto owners to participate.

While the parade is being given under the auspices of the Elks for the benefit of the Duluth visitors, the prizes are offered by the Fair association.

The prizes are as follows: For best industrial float—First, $35; second, $15; third, $10.

For best decorated automobile—First $35; second, $15; third, $10.

These prizes are offered and will positively be awarded, according to the management.

J. L. Lewis is marshal of the parade and will have charge of the line of march as well as the preliminary arrangements.

VIRGINIA BOY HAS HIS SKULL TREPANNED

Frontal Bone Is Fractured in Collision With Automobile.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The delicate piece of surgery known as trepanning was performed at McIntyre hospital this morning on Matt Flii of 715 First avenue north, aged 19, who was injured in a collision with an automobile driven by Harry Fliether on Central avenue yesterday afternoon. His frontal bone was fractured and the surgeons removed several pieces this morning. The boy's condition is critical and the outcome is problematical.

Was Racing on Bicycle.

Flii was riding a bicycle along Central avenue, according to stories of the affair and was racing with another biker, looking back and did not see the automobile into which he dashed. It is claimed Flii was riding on the wrong side of the avenue. He was hurled through the windshield into the lap of the man at the wheel. He was rushed to the hospital in an unconscious condition. This morning it was decided that trepanning was necessary.

VIRGINIAN IS FOUND GUILTY OF ASSAULT

Hibbing Waiter Now Being Tried on Charge of Embezzling $50.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—It took a district court jury about an hour today to find Virtilio Montagnini guilty of criminal assault on charges preferred by a local girl. The accused is about 35 and has lived here several years. The offense is alleged to have been committed here a few weeks ago. He will be sentenced later.

Earl French of Hibbing is now being tried on the charge of embezzlement. It is alleged he stole $50 from the Oliver cafe at Hibbing, where he was employed as a waiter. French denies the charge and claims another took the money. The case will be concluded this afternoon, when the case of the state vs. Robert Lind will be called. Lind is alleged to have abducted Linda Mattson from her home at Alice and lured her to Duluth, where she was captured at Scottsville while masquerading in male attire.

Nose Biter Convicted.

John Maribito was convicted by a jury late yesterday of mayhem in biting off a piece of his wife's nose at Mountain Iron several weeks ago when he attacked her in rage at her alleged attentions toward a Hibbing man. He claimed he was so mad he did not know what he was doing. The disfigured young woman testified and removing the bandage from her nose showed the imprints of her spouse's teeth. He will be sentenced later.

DUNWOODY MINE IS BEING MADE READY

Great Northern Holding Near Chisholm Being Stripped for Mining.

Chisholm, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Great Northern railway is laying tracks and establishing a yard near the Dunwoody property. There will be an extensive system of tracks for ore switching put in by the Arthur Mining company. Earl Bunner, superintendent of the Duluth office of the Arthur Mining company, Mr. Knickerbocker of Hibbing and F. H. Cohoem, who will be the superintendent of the new mine, have been here on a tour of inspection and have taken charge of th property.

Winston-Dear company have been working on the stripping of the overburden since June, 1912. This is about ninety feet deep and the pit level has been lowered considerably during his time. Thy will finish thir work early next season.

The Dunwoody stripping contract is an extensive one as this will be one of the largest mines in this vicinity when opened. Eighteen dwelling houses are in course of construction, as well as a large boarding house. The shops, warehouse and boilerhouse are nearly finished.

STREET MUST BE OPEN

If Hibbing Makes White Way and Paves By Missabe Station.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—If the Missabe Railroad company wishes to have the road running past their station paved and a white way installed between First and Third avenues, a contract giving the people of Hibbing the right to use the street as a public highway for the period of ten years will have to be furnished.

The road has requested the village to pave, but as was pointed out at a recent meeting, there is no legalized street there and the property is purely private. The council members feel that as the railroad company has gone to the expense of grading the street and putting in a station that the village should not be asked to pay for the paving.

MANY PRIZES ARE OFFERED

Lake County Fair Premium List Is Longer and Better Than Ever.

With Better Buildings and More Exhibits, Fair Promises Much.

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The premium list of the Lake County Agricultural society's eight annual fair, which will be held here Sept. 16, 17 and 18, has been issued. It contains more and better prizes than any other previous fair and this fact with the fact that more and better room has been provided leads the officers in charge to believe that the coming fair will be the biggest and best ever held.

The following is the list of officers in charge of the fair this year: J. D. Budd, president; James H. Lunz, vice president; W. B. Woodward, secretary; Fred D. W. Thias, assistant secretary; Odric LeClair, treasurer; George Spurbeck, H. C. Hanson, Mrs. Thomas Owens, E. P. Christenson, Theodore G. Johnson, Mrs. E. P. Christensen, Mrs. E. H. Schreiner, George Munford, E. W. Conliff, Thomas Owens, George Watts, John Dwan, J. E. Chandler, W. L. Fowler, B. F. Fowler, John Jacobson, Olof Nelson, August Tabor, Olof Nelson, L. D. Rose, F. N. Cleveland, A. McPhee and Fred Hagberg, directors. The general committee of the women's department consists of Mrs. Thomas Owens, Mrs. E. P. Christensen, and Mrs. E. H. Schreiner. Following are the superintendents of the departments: Livestock, Iver Amundson; agriculture, Thomas Owens; dairy products, Austin G. Johnson; poultry, J. J. Crooke; floriculture, Mrs. Austin G. Johnson; apiary, A. A. McPheeters; arts and needlework, Mrs. Albert Hanson; household fabrics, Mrs. Victor Olson; paintings, Mrs. J. M. Elliott; pantry and kitchen, Mrs. Ingram Lambert; jellies and pickles, Miss Meta McKee; boys and girls department, Mrs. E. W. Conliff; school exhibits, A. A. McPheeters; farmers and wives department, Mrs. Theodore G. Johnson.

The gates will be open at the fair from 9 until 12 m. and 1 until 4 p. m. Farmers are urged to note that all livestock exhibits must be on the fair ground and in their places by 1 o'clock on Tuesday. All other exhibits which have not otherwise been provided for must be in place by Wednesday evening at 9 p. m.

The following ribbons will be used to designate the prizes: Special premium, royal purple ribbon; first premium, blue; second premium, red; third premium, white; fourth premium, pink. No hawking or peddling goods will be allowed within the fair buildings.

The officers in charge of the fair have been very careful to select the best and most competent judges possible and, therefore, no one need fear but that they will get a fair deal when it comes to judging the exhibits.

More Livestock Premiums.

The cattle and in fact all livestock premiums have been materially increased over that of last year. It is the desire to have a big exhibition of livestock and everything possible is being done by the officers to urge the farmers to bring thei rstock to the fair. The poultry department is also expected to show an increase over last year. This year a building has been provided for the poultry and also additional room has been made for the livestock.

The usual special premium given annually by the land department of the Iron Range road has its usual attractions: Twenty-five dollars for the best display of farm products, and $15 for the second best display. A special premium has also been presented by the Lake County Farmers' club, as follows: Five dollars for the best display of garden products; $3 for the second best display of garden products; $2 for the best collection of stock roots; $5 for the best bushel of oats; $5 for the best bushel of wheat; $5 for the best display of alfalfa, clover and timothy, in bundles of six inches in diameter.

The summer just passing has been one of the most successful to the farmers living in Lake county. The crops have been the best they have been in years and hay especially, which is grown so extensively in this county, was a boomer crop. Potatoes have also been a good crop this year. Everything seems to indicate that the coming fair will by far excel any former fair.

BUHL DOCTOR IS BADLY INJURED

Auto Turns Turtle at Hibbing, His Ribs Being Broken.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. F. M. Johnson of Buhl, assistant to Dr. A. W. Shaw of that village, was seriously injured here about noon today, near the fair grounds, when his automobile turned turtle. He sustained several fractured ribs and one lung was pierced. He was traveling at a rapid rate when the car struck a rut and turned completely over. He was alone in the car. The auto was smashed badly.

GO TO NEW ORLEANS.

Hibbing Councilman to Accompany Fire Chief to National Meet.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 3.—Councilman Robert Geisselman will accompany Chief McIlhargey to the meeting of the fire engineers to be held in New Orleans in October. The council decided that as several new pieces of equipment are to be purchased it would be advisable to have a council member accompany the chief. The council intends to purchase in the near future a new truck and what is known as a squad wagon, which will be the first to answer all alarms. Other pieces may be added in the various locations as water is put in.

For Sallow, Blotchy, Rough or Greasy Skins

Some skins require constant grooming to keep them from becoming oily, muddy, blotchy or rough, or if such condition has developed, to overcome it. In such chronic cases it is particularly inadvisable to keep piling on cosmetics which clog the pores, collect dust and dirt, making the complexion worse than ever. It's a lot more sensible to use ordinary mercolized wax, which literally absorbs a bad complexion. Apply the wax, like cold cream, before retiring; next morning, in washing it off, you'll wash away fine, flour-like particles of the unsightly cuticle. Repeat for a week or two and you'll have an entirely new skin—soft, satiny, spotless and beautiful as a child's. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any druggist's, is all you'll need.

If the skin be wrinkled or flabby, here's the best possible remedy: Mix ½ pint witch hazel and 1 ounce powdered saxolite and use as a face bath. It works like a miracle, yet is entirely harmless.

UNTILLABLE LAND SHOWN BY MOVIES

Hibbing People Given Idea of Reforestration Benefit.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Moving pictures showing the methods of forest preservation and the present deplorable condition of state lands that are not fit for tillage were shown at the Commercial club meeting in the village hall last evening. A short pithy talk dealing with the advantages to be derived by the passage of amendment 9 to the Constitution was given by E. O. Buehler, secretary of the Minnesota Forestry Service.

Mr. Buehler explained that there are in Minnesota now 2,500,000 acres of land owned by the state. Of that 1,000,000 acres is barren or worthless for agricultural purposes. With a good common sense forestry system, should this amendment be passed, this 1,000,000 acres of land which would not in public sales bring over $5 an acre could be made to produce a permanent revenue of $2,000,000 annually. Consequently the state school fund would be increased and the rate of taxation lowered.

As Tourist Attraction.

Another point emphasized by Mr. Buehler and one which will be given attention by the state service should this amendment 9 go through, was the tourist possibilities of the state of Minnesota. Mr. Buehler cited figures showing that several of the Eastern states are deriving a revenue of several million of dollars. "Minnesota," said Mr. Buehler, "cannot be surpassed for scenic beauty, and could be made the tourist center of the Middle West with the proper amount of advertising. We have the game and the fish, the water and forests, but these must be preserved. The only successful method of doing that would be to place them under practical departmental forestry management.

"If this amendment passes it will mean employment for some 10,000 rangers in order to carry out thereforestation policies. These rangers would have families and would need food and clothing and would furnish a market for the produce of the neighboring farming lands. We would have showing in the picture shows in the state and throughout the desert states pictures advertising the scenic advantages of this state, and there is no reason why thepeople of the Middle West would not come to Minnesota and spend their money in sight-seeing when European tourists patronize Switzerland."

Mr. Buehler left today for Duluth.

At the next meeting of the club it is probable that a committee consisting of several men of each nationality will be appointed by the presiadent of the commercial club to talk about it to their countrymen and ask their aid in the passage of the amendment.

EYES TROUBLE YOU?

TRY THIS SIMPLE RECEIPT.

We all know some home remedy for our minor troubles, and by the use of these remedies many a doctor's bill is saved and doubtless many a life.

How few know what to do when their eyes become tired and ache, or feel dry and inflamed from abuse and overuse? In the morning your eyes feel rough or sticky, or they trouble you when you read. What do you do? Most of us rush off and get glasses (perhaps at some cheap store where no skill is used in fitting our eyes), which we very often do not need at all. Thousands are wearing misfit or unnecessary glasses which they might better discard and other thousands can, with a little care, probably so strengthen their eyes that glasses might never be necessary. Here is a free receipt that may be relied upon to give comfort and to help the eyes of some people; it is harmless and has the enthusiastic indorsement of thousands who have used it:

5 Grains Optona (1 tablet).
2 Ounces Water.

Use as an eye wash night and morning, or oftener if possible. It makes most eyes feel fine, quickly allays irritation, brightens the eyes and sharpens the vision. Many who have used it no longer feel the need of glasses; many others have ceased to fear that they will soon be obliged to wear them. Get the Optona tablets from your nearest druggist and prepare the solution at your own home.

BRUNT MINE RUNNING.

Report Mountain Iron Property Had Closed Is Unfounded.

Mountain Iron, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The story printed in the Duluth Herald of Aug. 31, stating that the Brunt mine here had been closed and about 150 men thrown out of work is declared to be untrue, as the property is still working full blast and officials are provoked over the publication saying it was based on rumors.

Chisholm, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. A. A. Bischjold of the park board, is ready at the park for the two deer which the council purchased some time ago from the Virginia park board. The little house has been completed and the fence is all finished except a little work to be done at the bottom where stone is being laid to prevent dogs and wild animals from getting in. The enclosure will be 120 x45. The deer will in all probability be loaded into a box car or cage and brought over today on the electric railway.

ISLAND LAKE HAS BEEN SURVEYED.

HIBBING WANTS AN INCINERATOR.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The frequency with which the dumping ground has had to move has again given rise to an insistent demand for an incinerator. The council has been notified that as soon as the stripping operations cease near the present dumping grounds that it can be no longer used for garbage. The council is now considering an incinerator in which all of the refuse can be burned. Definite action has not been taken, but the question will probably come up again next week.

HIBBING PAVING WORK GOING ON.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contractors who have charge of the paving that is now being done in the village will be kept busy for several weeks. In addition to Railroad street on which the shovel is now working, the council has decided to complete the paving of Fourth avenue south from Cedar street, which was recently opened by order of the council. Curb, gutter and sidewalk will also be extended along that avenue. In case the D., M. & N. road complies with the requests of the council to formally open the street running past the station to the public, paving will be placed there this year.

The Nerves and Their Needs

We do not give much thought to our nervous system when it is working all right but when it goes wrong nature has a way of calling it forcibly to our attention by something that we cannot overlook—pain.

Try to reach a painful nerve with medicine of any sort and you are confronted with a fact that every doctor knows, that the only way to reach the nerves is through the blood.

You see now why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the great tonic for the blood, are also a great nerve builder. When a nerve becomes inflamed and painful it is—unless caused by an accident—because the blood was not giving it the elements of nourishment it needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood, the nerves are strengthened, the inflammation subsides and the pain vanishes. By keeping the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the danger of nervous breakdown, insomnia, nervous indigestion and other disorders caused by ill-nourished nerves is greatly lessened. In children the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills banishes the fear of St. Vitus' dance.

The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a good little book on Nervous Disorders. Write for it today. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

TRACES HISTORY OF SUNDAY OBSERVANCE

Regardless of the rain of last evening, a large audience attended the Bible Chautauqua tent on West Second street, near the Y. M. C. A., to hear Evangelist White speak on "Tracking Forgery Through History."

He said in part: "The Sabbath question is today being world-widely discussed, and while it is generally understood that there is no Bible command or example to observe the first day of the week, or that it has any sacredness attached to it, yet no one need remain ignorant as to the human and traditional origin of Sunday observance.

"Paul told the elders of Ephesus that after his departure men were to arise speaking perverse things and would draw away disciples after them, and he wrote Timothy that many would turn from truth to fables. Scarcely had the apostle died ere apostacy and a failing away began, which eventually culminated in the exaltation of one bishop over all others, and with church and state united, many fables were forced upon worshipers, and severe penalties were inflicted on those who would be true to God's word."

Beginning with the year 140 and continuing on down through history, Mr. White carefully traced the origin of Sunday observance, mentioning such prominent steps as Constantine's law of 321, the Laodicean council of 364, the many church councils of the fourth to the eighth centuries, forged miracles and the famous role of Innocent III, in which divine authority was first claimed for Sunday.

Tonight Mr. White will speak on "The United States in Bible Prophecy."

ON THE IRON RANGES

FAIR OPENS IN SUNSHINE

Old Sol Shows Face as Gates of St. Louis County Fair Open.

Good Attendance With Air Flight Feature for First Day.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The gates of the St. Louis county fair opened here today under favorable auspices and indications pointing to a large attendance. It was cloudy and cool all the morning but about noon when the fair officially began Old Sol showed his face and the prospects are the afternoon will be pleasant.

This is Hibbing and Chisholm day and this village and the neighboring village will be well represented. The agricultural exhibits and the other things shown are nearly all in place. The display of the agricultural possibilities of St. Louis county is an eye-opener and beats that of last year. The big feature today outside of the races in the way of amusement will be the air flights by De Lloyd Thompson who arrived yesterday accompanied by his mechanician, Mr. Day. They were out at the grounds early today getting their machine in shape for this afternoon's initial flight which will be pulled off providing the weather does not get too blusterous.

Airman Discusses Flying.

Mr. Thompson dispels a lot of illusions about flyers not being able to go up unless wind and other conditions are right.

"The public has been buncoed by aviators for many years," Thompson said, "and has grown accustomed to the belief that man cannot fly unless the wind is right. There are no such things as 'Swiss cheese' atmospheres, 'air pockets,' 'verticles,' 'down trends' or other of the alibis so dear to the heart of the timid, incompetent or inexperienced aviators. A man who can fly well enough to get paid for exhibition flying should be able to fly in any kind of weather even if a cyclone is blowing."

"There is just as much difference between straight flying and fancy flying as there is between ordinary bicycle riding and the fancy riding act one sees upon the vaudeville stage. But a lot of aviators are going around the country, buncoing the public into believing that they can really fly, and so aviation gets a black eye. How many times do we hear supposedly intelligent persons remark that the aeroplane is but a toy, that man will never master the air. I want all those people to come and see me fly. They will go away quite of a different mind.

"One reason, and I might say the chief reason, why members of congress refuse to vote for an appropriation for an adequate aerial army and navy, is because they do not know what man can really do with an aeroplane. But they will soon know because I am going to Washington and give them a private exhibition of my loops and upside down flying."

SETTING FOR EXPOSITION

Curling Rink Will Be Turned Into Egyptian City.

The setting for the Industrial Exposition last year, beautiful as it was, cannot be compared to the arrangement made for this year by Charles Josten, who arrived in Duluth this morning from his ranch at Fowler, Mont. Mr. Josten will begin immediately the installation of the interior work on the second floor of the curling rink, and when the exposition opens Monday, Sept. 21, the space will be converted into a scene of startling beauty.

An ancient Egyptian city, with buildings of vari-colored marble, granite, sandstone and sun-baked brick, will be erected in the curling rink. There will be an obelisk, the Sphinx and the Pyramids of Gizeh. Cleopatra will hold court daily at the grand entrance and will view the transformation of her domain by modern industry.

The arts of the ancient Egyptians will be depicted in the primary colors on the walls of the buildings that will house the industrial exhibits.

Mr. Josten has spent seven months in the preparation of the setting and he promises some surprises when it is finally erected. The necessity for decoration by exhibitors will be reduced to a minimum and Mr. Josten will be available for advice to exhibitors, so that the decorative plan may be maintained in harmony throughout the building.

THOMAS BALMER DIES; WAS ILL SEVEN YEARS

Thomas Balmer, 60 years old, a resident of Duluth for thirty years, died at 6 o'clock this morning at his home, 206 South Eighteenth avenue east. He had suffered from paralysis for the last seven years. He formerly worked as a mechanic for the Great Northern railroad and was very well known in Duluth. He was a brother-in-law of Harry Cheadle, former city clerk. Besides a widow, Mr. Balmer is survived by four sons and three daughters.

The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the family residence, with interment at the Park Hill cemetery.

WANT $15,000 FROM RAILROAD

Stepping from one track to another to dodge a train proved to be fatal for Alfonzo Capozzi, who was struck and instantly killed by a passenger train running between Minneapolis and St. Paul on May 21 last. In district court yesterday afternoon, Attilio Castigliano, Italian consul and Frank C. James, special administrators of his estate, began suit against the Great Northern railway to collect $15,000 for the benefit of the dead man's parents. His father resides in this country and his mother in Italy.

Capozzi was working as a section hand on the company's right-of-way. It is alleged that the speed of the train which struck him was sixty miles an hour and was in violation of an ordinance of the city of St. Paul which prohibits a speed in excess of four miles an hour. The company is charged with negligence.

NO DELAY WILL BE PERMITTED

Merritt May Offer Resolution to Start City Plant.

Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, declared this morning that the requests of the Duluth-Edison company for more time in which to answer the city's offer of $1,107,940.54 for its plant and business, will not delay the city's program.

The twenty days which the city allowed the company to reply expired today and nothing has been heard from the company except that President A. W. Hartman has asked for an extension of time, according to Commissioner Merritt.

Charges Dilatory Tactics.

The utility head stated that the company delayed the city several months at the time the appraisal was being made, but that further dilatory tactics will be unavailing. "We shall not lose any more time," he asserted. "We are going right ahead with our plans. There is nothing in the resolution giving the Edison company twenty days to accept or refuse our offer, to prevent them from coming in later with a proposition. We would consider it on its merits, provided it did not come too late."

Commissioner Merritt is having the city divided into tentative districts and estimates prepared of the cost of installing sub-stations for the distribution of power purchased from the Great Northern Power company. The establishment of these stations throughout the city is the plan recommended by W. B. Rittenhouse and C. L. Pillsbury, the engineers who valued the Edison plant, in the event of the city being unable to buy the Edison property at a fair price. An estimate for West Duluth showed that a unit which would supply the entire suburb could be built for $90,000. Commissioner Merritt believes that the cost of units for furnishing the entire city, with power would be about half of what the city has offered the company of approximately $500,000 in round numbers. The city would not attempt to establish these units at once, but would put them in one at a time, the intervals being partially governed by the city's finances.

Resolution for First Unit.

It is not unlikely that the next council meeting, which will be held Tuesday afternoon, Monday being Labor day, Commissioner Merritt will introduce a resolution authorizing the utility division to proceed with the installation of the first unit, which would probably be installed at West Duluth. Such an action would be the most positive kind of an answer to the request of the company for more time, if approved, being in effect an ultimatum to the company that it could either sell to the city or the city would start a competing business without further parley. The announced aim of the city would be to furnish power and light to the public at cost. Commissioner Merritt's opinion is that the company would be forced to reduce rates accordingly.

Boats to Antwerp.

Harwich, Eng., Sept. 3, 2:40 p. m.—The boat service between this port and Antwerp will be resumed tonight after having been discontinued for a fortnight.

BOATS BRING AMERICANS

A. A. Adee Among Those to Return From Europe.

Cruiser Tennessee, With Gold, Has Reached Havre.

New York, Sept. 3.—The American line steamer New York ended her voyage from Liverpool and Queenstown here today with 652 passengers abroad, the majority of them Americans. Among the passengers was A. A. Adee, American assistant secretary of state, who aided more than 800 Americans stranded in Scandinavia in returning home.

The steamer Maracas, which reached port today, reported the British cruiser Bristol at Trinidad on Aug. 25. The next day the Maracas passed two more cruisers, one French and the other British, both heading for Trinidad.

Six hundred and sixty-nine passengers, nearly all Americans, reached port today on the Italian steamer San Guglielmo from Naples.

The Greek steamer Icannina also arrived from Piraeus and Patras, with 419 passengers. Few were Americans.

Tennessee at Havre.

London, Sept. 3.—The American embassy has been advised of the arrival of the American cruiser Tennessee at Havre, where she will supply funds to hundreds of Americans who are trying to leave France by that port, now that the northern ports have been closed because of the German advance.

The embassy today sent a messenger with funds to relieve 200 Americans stranded at Ostend.

Ambassador Page received Mme. Emile Vandervelde, secretary of the new University of Brussels and wife of one of the Belgian commissioners who are proceeding to Washington to describe alleged violations by Germany of the international law conventions.

WASHINGTON HAS DOUBTS OF TURKEY

Morgenthau Has Not Been Heard From for Three Days.

Washington, Sept. 3.—State department officials admitted today their apprehension over the situation in Turkey. For three days there has not been a single cablegram from Ambassador Morgenthau. As the situation grew acute a week ago, he communicated full details of the diplomatic crisis and kept in constant touch on matters of funds for Americans.

The belief prevailed that cable communication either had been interrupted or restricted on account of the gravity of the political situation. A declaration of war by Turkey on Great Britain is expected in many quarters here, though the Turkish ambassador declares he has been without advices for several days, and will not predict what course his country will take.

WILL NOT PROTEST SALE OF MUNITIONS.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, said while at the state department today he would make no protest against the purchase by Great Britain of munitions of war from American firms.

The practice of nations in the observance of neutrality is not to restrict the traffic in contraband, the privilege to prevent such commerce on the high seas resting with belligerents in their right of search and capture.

"TAXPAYERS WILL DECIDE ON WARS."

Washington, Sept. 3.—"When this fearful conflict is over," Senator Burton predicted in the senate today, referring to the European war, "we may safely anticipate that the common people who must bear the burdens of this strife will have the decision as to whether nations shall go to war."

In attributing the conflict to militarism, which would result in "consequences beyond the wildest conjecture," Mr. Burton placed the responsibility upon the "overweening ambition of certain sovereigns not yet come to realize that they are not the state."

The senator was attacking the river and harbor bill carrying $53,000,000 which he characterized as the climax of waste and injudicious expenditure. He said he found no encouraging prospects for the United States in the war.

JAPANESE REPORT TWO LANDINGS MADE.

Tokio, Sept. 3.—According to official announcement made public here today, the commander of the Japanese second squadron reports that on Sept. 2 he landed a detachment at 6 o'clock in the morning. No enemy was sighted, he declared, on land or sea.

The place where this landing took place is not announced, but the commander says there are many military transports there and that the scene was inspiring.

The war office also announced that a landing of troops (to operate against the German holding of Kiao Chow) also has been successfully accomplished.

SAYS AUSTRIANS WERE GOING WEST.

London, Sept. 3.—The Amsterdam correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company telegraphs that last weeks 1,500 Austrian soldiers, belonging to the heavy siege artillery corps of Trists, passed through Cologne on their way to the western theater of the war.

WILLIAM OF WIED FLEES FROM ALBANIA

Ruler Takes Passage for Venice on Italian Steamer.

Durazzo, Albania, via Paris, Sept. 3, 3:35 p. m.—Prince William of Wied quit his new kingdom this morning, taking passage for Venice on the Italian steamer Misurata.

ARREST MORE BUTTE MINERS

Militia Seize Three, Two of Whom Are Armed.

Search for "Muckie" McDonald Has Been Vain.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 3.—Three important arrests were made today by the National Guard of Montana which has Butte under martial law. Two of the men now held prisoners, Alex McClain, known as the body guard of "Muckie" McDonald, president of the new miners' union, and Edward Evans were taken at the point of guns on their way to the supposed hiding place of McDonald. The third man, Joe Shannon, who was picked up in the city, has been prominent in the new union.

Advised to "Go Strong."

McClain and Evans were armed. McClain had $170, provisions for thirty days that he was carrying to McDonald, and a letter addressed to McDonald which had been written by a miner in the Coeur d'Alenes. The writer of the letter advised McDonald to "go strong and blow up a few buildings."

The men arrested today and the four taken yesterday will be tried by a military commission which is to be organized late today. The commission will try all felony cases, and a military court will try the misdemeanor cases. These will include the arrests made by the police.

Try Seven I. W. W.

Seven Industrial Workers of the World members who were arrested in a raid on the I. W. W. headquarters early today, will be taken before the military court.

McDonald, despite a twenty-four hour search, has so far eluded capture, but Maj. Donohue, commanding the militia, expects to hear of McDonald's arrest at any time.

NEW NAVY OFFICER SIGNS TWO RECRUITS.

Peter Coyle's first day as recruiting officer of the local navy station is a record breaker. Out of three applicants, he accepted two during the day, and they will be sent to Minneapolis some time tomorrow.

John Wilcox, 17, of Superior, and Robert Doyle, 21, of Duluth, were the successful applicants to the United States navy. They passed both the physical and mental tests, and will be assigned to Atlantic coast battleships after reaching Minneapolis.

Mr. Coyle came to Duluth Tuesday afternoon to take charge of the Duluth recruiting station, as Chief Quartermaster Erickson has been ordered east. Erickson will leave for the Twin Cities tomorrow. The new officer bears the title of chief water tender in the navy, which is virtually head of all firemen on a battleship. He took charge of the local office this morning.

GERMAN SCOUTS KILLED BY SLAVS.

Berlin, by way of Copenhagen and London, Sept. 3.—The Tageblatt publishes a dispatch from Thorn, West Prussia, describing an ill-fated scouting expedition. A steamer equipped with machine guns and carrying about seventy soldiers steamed up the river into Russian territory and reached a point not many miles from Nieszama. The party landed to reconnoiter the country and was attacked by Russian Cossacks and infantry. Only ten Germans returned with the steamer.

GERMANY ISSUING SMALL BANK NOTES.

Berlin, by way of London, Sept. 3.—The Imperial bank has begun its first day's output of 1 and 2 marks bank notes to satisfy the need for small change. The output of silver coin already has augmented notably. (A mark is approximately 25 cents.)

Superior

POPULATION GAINS 1,000 DURING YEAR.

Superior has gained 1,000 in population since Sept. 1, 1913, according to figures compiled from returns made by the R. L. Polk Directory company. There were approximately 45,000 people in Superior a year ago and now it is estimated that there are at least 46,000.

May Ask Recount.

There may be a recount in the Superior primary election for sheriff on the Democratic ticket. George E. Comiskey leads Martin Sauter by just one vote for the nomination. Comiskey has 249 and Sauter 248. Otherwise the results as published in The Herald last evening stand the same with two minor exceptions: Evan A. Evans is nominated for attorney general on the Democratic ticket and Charles Wickstrom is nominated on the Republican ticket for clerk of the district court.

FROM BOSTON TO NEW YORK IN 1704

A Woman Traveler Describes the Trials and Tribulations of the Journey as Made on Horseback

From "A History of Connecticut," by George L. Clark: In 1704 Madam Knight went from Boston to New York on horseback, and her experiences with bad roads, miserable taverns or huts, were she stopped for the night, give us a dismal picture of the rudeness of the times.

On Oct. 2, 1704, she wrote in her journal: "Began my journey from Boston to New Haven; being about 200 miles." The food offered at the taverns was apt to be trying; in one place the "cabbage was of so deep purple," she thought it had been "boiled in the dye kettle." She speaks of a "cannoe" so small and shallow that she kept her "eyes stedy, not daring so much as to lodg my tongue a hair's breadth more on one side of my mouth than tother, nor so much as think of Lott's wife, for a wry thought would have oversett our wherey." She wrote that after leaving New London:

"Wee advanced on the town of Seabrook. The Rodes all along this way are very bad. Incumbered with Rocks and mountainos passages, which were very disagreeable to my tired carcass. In going over a Bridge, under which the River Run very swift, my hors stumbled, and very narrowly 'scaped falling over into the water; which extremely frightened me. But through God's goodness I met with no harm, and mounting again, in about half a miles Rideing came to an ordinary, was well entertained by a woman of about seventy and advantage, but of as sound intellectuals as one of seventeen."

After crossing Saybrook Ferry, she stopped at an inn to balt, and to dine, but the broiled mutton was so highly flavored that the only dinner received was through the sense of smell. After leaving Killingworth, she was told to ride a mile or two, and turn down a lane, she continues: "We met a young fellow and ask't him how farr it was to the lane, which turned down to Guilford. He said we must ride a little further, and turn down by the corner of Uncle Sams Lott."

She found the people possessed of as "large a portion of mother witt, and sometimes larger than those who have been brought up in Citties" but needing "benefit both of education and conversation." Making shrewd comments she reached Rye, and stopped at a tavern where she ordered a fricassee, but could not eat it; she was then conducted to her bedroom, by way of a very narrow stairway. She says:

"Arriving at my apartment, a little Lento Chamber furnisht among other Rubbish with a high Bed and a Low one,—Little Miss went to scratch up my Kennell, which Russelled as if she'd been in the Barn among the Husks, and suppose such was the contents of the ticken—nevertheless being exceedingly weary, down I lay my poor Carkes, and found my covering as scanty as my Bed was hard. Annon I heard another Russelling noise in the Room—called to know the matter.—Little Miss said, she was making a bed for the men; who, when they were in Bed, complained bitterly, not being used to such lodgings; and so did the men who was with us; and poor I made but one Grone, which was from the time I went to bed to the time I Riss, which was about three in the morning. Setting up by the Fire till light."

Through mud, forests and all sorts of difficulties she made her journey to New York and home again in Boston, and after an absence of five months, she broke out into the following verse:

"Now I've returned to Sarah Knight's,
Thro' many tolls and many frights,
Over great rocks and many stones,
God has presarv'd from fractured bones."

THIMBLES.

New York Sun: Thimbles, which are about 230 years old, are supposed to have come originally from Holland, where they were called finger hats, or finger hoods. In England the name was changed to thumb bell, because the thimble was worn on the thumb to protect it from the thrust of the needle, not to propel the latter through the cloth.

The fashion of gold thimbles persists even today, but in the beginning there was none of the commoner metals and it was not until several years later that the first lead thimble was made. Silver is still the favored metal, though many a skillful seamstress prefers a penny aluminum thimble, as being lighter and leaving no mark upon the finger.

The costly thimble still holds its own in China, where thimbles are often carved out of mother of pearl, with the tops made of a single jewel.

The meeting house in Bolton, Mass., is to be reshingled for the first time since its erection in 1793. Some of the shingles are still in a perfect state of preservation after 121 years' service.

WRECKS OF MATRIMONIAL SEA SEEK REFUGE FROM STORMS IN DIVORCE COURT

Sordid Tales of Cruelty and Abuse Unfolded to Judges.

Twelve Cases Heard in Two Days—Eight Decrees Granted.

Desertion, Cruelty and Faithlessness Are Chief Causes for Actions.

Stories of faithless husbands deserting their brides and throwing their wedding vows to the discard mingled with sordid tales of cruelty and abuse from the hands of drunken and domineering spouses have occupied the attention of district court judges who are turning out the grist of cases in the September divorce mill.

Danny Cupid seems just as blind as ever and the story of his misfits as unfolded from time to time in the divorce court is a never ending one. Since the September term of court opened yesterday morning, twelve cases have been heard by the various judges and one, a contested action, is on trial this afternoon.

Decrees have been granted to eight mismated wives. Four will be obliged to bring additional evidence to the court before findings in their favor will be ordered. It is expected that several more actions will be tried this afternoon and tomorrow.

It was a story of a disappointed and broken-hearted bride that Lena Dunn, 23, told to Judge Dancer this morning when she appeared in his court seeking a separation from Herchell Dunn, 26, a faithless lover who deserted her four years ago, shortly after they were married.

Short Courtship.

The young wife confessed to the court that she had known her husband but two weeks before she married him. "He took me to a circus one day and asked me to marry him. We decided to get married then."

They never started housekeeping, she said, and lived together as man and wife but two days. Dunn was a wireless operator on one of the lake boats and was out of the city most of the time, she said. On Aug. 6, 1910, she said, he deserted. The next time she saw him, more than one year later, she served divorce papers on him. Since that time he has dropped out of sight.

Mrs. Dunn testified that all the money her husband had given her was $53 and that she was obliged to earn her own living as a domestic. She asked the court to restore her maiden name, that of Lena Rocklin. The decree was ordered.

Myrtle Warn Hannigan, 22, secured a divorce from Thomas Jack Hannigan, 32, whom she married at Fargo, N. D. Feb. 8, 1912 and lived with for three months. She claimed that he came home during the wee hours of the morning on one occasion and picked a quarrel with her during which he told her that he was going to leave her "for keeps." That was the last she saw of him, she said.

During the month of August, 1912 she came to this city in search of her husband but she found no trace of him. Realizing that she was about to become a mother and being without friends, the young wife applied to the county for assistance. The child was born at the poor farm on Oct. 4, 1912.

Later the young wife and mother fell into bad company. She turned up in police court on several occasions, after she had been arrested last June, the authorities took her child away from her. On June 7, 1913, it was made a ward of the state and placed in the Owatonna school. The mother later entered the industrial home school for girls on London road.

Jemina Wallace and Thomas J. Wallace, who have lived together as man and wife for more than thirty years and who are the parents of grown children today find themselves locking horns in a bitterly contested divorce case which is on before Judge Bert Fesler of the district court.

Mrs. Wallace alleges that her husband is addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors and that he has been cruel in his treatment towards her. This is denied by Mr. Wallace who charges that she is to blame for the breach in their domestic life.

They were married in the village of Kirkcudbright, Scotland, July 13, 1884. She is 54 and he is five years her senior. The older of the two children is 29 and the younger 18. They reside at 18 Vernon street.

The only marriage annulment suit on the September calendar was tried before Judge Dancer this morning when Helen Lindsey Sullivan, formerly Miss Helen Swan, was freed from the tie which has bound her to Walter John Sullivan since Nov. 1, 1913.

Sullivan is a self-confessed bigamist and the annulment suit was conducted with as little ceremony as possible. She produced the record of the conviction of her husband for bigamy in Judge Fesler's court this year and the court ordered findings in her favor. Sullivan's crime consisted of marrying Miss Swan when he already had one wife living.

Sullivan was arrested four months ago in Minneapolis and brought back to Duluth. His first wife, Mrs. Grace Sullivan appeared against him. After he was indicted, he pleaded guilty. He was paroled under a penitentiary sentence.

Bessie Lamont, 21, was a two months' bride when she received her first beating from her husband's hands, according to the story of an unhappy matrimonial experience she had with Louis C. Lamont which she related in Judge Fesler's court room yesterday afternoon. The court granted the divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

The trouble started when the young wife started out with her sister one night to go to the "movies." When Lamont objected and asserted his authority, she pleaded that she had not been to the "movies" since they were married. Lamont then took his wife in hand.

They were married Jan. 4, 1913 at Hancock, Mich., and are parents of one child, born Sept. 25, 1913. She alleges that on several occasions he expressed the wish that she would leave him as he no longer cared for her. Lamont, she says, is employed by the American Bridge company and is making $4.60 a day.

Mrs. Lamont is now residing at 5201 Ramsey street. The court granted her the custody of the infant child.

• • •

For five long years Mrs. Mary A. Patten withstood the abuse of a drunken spouse before she asserted her independence and left him according to the story which she related to Judge Dancer yesterday afternoon. She asked for a divorce from Charles E. Patten on the grounds of cruelty and desertion, but the court desired to hear further testimony and held the case open.

Mrs. Patten testified that he would come home late at night in a cross, ugly, irritable mood and that he would sometimes beat her and the children. She also claimed that while spending his evenings away from home he was consorting with lewd women. On Jan. 5, 1913, Mrs. Patten and their two children, Winifred, 9, and Charles, 5, left their home in Marquette, Mich., where Patten is employed as a crane engineer and came to Duluth. When she arrived here, she said, she put the children in the St. James orphanage, where she is supporting them. Mrs. Patten is now employed as floor woman at the Peerless laundry.

Mrs. Patten is 16 years old, and her husband is six years her senior.

• • •

Beatings came so thick and fast for Mrs. Emma Gitchell, 29, Virginia, during the twelve years of their married life that she declared she was unable to recall but few separate incidents when she took the stand in Judge Fesler's court yesterday to testify in her own behalf as plaintiff in an action for divorce filed against Charles Gitchell, her husband.

Every day, she said, he called her names and every week of the year he would beat her. As time went on, she testified, his assaults became more violent and more frequent. Finally life with him became unbearable as well as unsafe, she said. In her complaint she alleged that she was in mortal fear of her husband declaring that she believed he might even murder her, if he were not restrained.

They were married at Mitchell, S. D., Nov. 17, 1902. There are no children. The decree was granted.

• • •

Because her husband has served time behind prison bars Mrs. Sarah Reinaman, 26, was yesterday afternoon granted a divorce from John Reinaman, 29, in Judge Dancer's division of the court. She appeared and produced evidence showing that her husband had been convicted of a felony and that on April 27, 1907, he had been sentenced in the court of quarter sessions, Adams county, Pa., to two years in the Eastern penitentiary, Philadelphia. He was sent up for robbery.

Mrs. Reinaman testified that she had visited here husband while at the penitentiary and had seen him after he was liberated two years later, but had not lived with him since. She declared that after he left the penitentiary he went to live with another woman. They were married at Silver Run, Md., May 21, 1905. The court allowed Mrs. Reinaman to resume her maiden name, that of Sarah Carbaugh.

• • •

Lulu Hanson, 25, was granted a divorce from Roy Hanson, 25, by Judge Ensign yesterday afternoon on the grounds of desertion. Mrs. Hanson told the court that they were married Sept. 11, 1912, at York, N. D., and that he abandoned her on April 17 of the following year. At no time since their marriage, she testified, had he contributed anything towards her support. There are no children. The court allowed her to resume her maiden name, that of Lulu Mitchell.

• • •

When Andru Hutter, 45, asked Tilda Aske, 43, to become his wife seven years ago last winter, she was a widow with three children by a former husband and had been receiving aid from the county and neighbors at Ely. As the wife of Hutter, she found that the only difference was that she had one more to support and that she was still obliged to ask for outside assistance. The latters were married in January, 1907, and four months later Hutter deserted her and told her to shift for herself. At least this is the story the unfortunate widow related in Judge Ensign's division of the court yesterday afternoon when she asked for a separation from Hutter. The decree was ordered.

• • •

Throwing a coffee cup in her face at the dinner table was one of the mild antics attributed to Peter Makl, 26, by his wife, Rose Makl, also 26, who testified in the divorce court yesterday afternoon as to his alleged cruelty. The case was held open by Judge Dancer for further evidence.

When Peter came home drunk and she would scold him for it, he would fly in a fit of anger and assault her, she declared. She testified among other things that while she was at the home of Elias Korri at Porcupine, Ont., he attacked her and seriously injured her. In June, 1912, she claims, he deserted her.

The Makis were married in this city on June 7, 1910.

• • •

Caroline Papic, 31, confessed that she could conceive of no reason why Joseph Papic, 31, her husband, should have deserted her after they had lived together as man and wife for six years. She appeared in Judge Fesler's division of the district court yesterday afternoon and asked for a divorce. The court held the case open for further testimony. The Papics were married Aug. 25, 1906, and the alleged desertion took place during the month of December, 1912. There are no children.

• • •

After listening to the story of the unsuccessful marital adventure of Pearl Traviss, 22, and Leon Traviss, 32, Judge Fesler yesterday afternoon indicated that he desired further corroboration of the wife's tale of cruel treatment before he granted her application for divorce. They were married Sept. 7, 1909, and lived together until last February, when, she claims, he deserted her. She alleges that, among other things, he constantly called her vile names.

THIEVES BUSY IN DULUTH

Reports Made of Five Thefts and Burglaries in Day.

Auto, Gunny Sacks and Woman's Toilet Set Stolen.

Since yesterday noon the police have received reports of five thefts and burglaries in various parts of the city.

Albert Blandin of 113 West Fifth street reported that 150 gunny sacks were stolen from his yard, a short distance from the Washington school, early yesterday afternoon. Detectives Bradley and Toewe, who were put on the case, learned that several boys had committed the theft and an investigation disclosed the fact that the sacks were later sold to a wholesale house on West Michigan street. The stolen sacks were finally returned to the owner.

Reo Car Stolen.

Shortly after midnight last night P. R. Canning of 1926 West Third street reported that his five-passenger Reo automobile was stolen some time after 10 o'clock from in front of 423 Sixth avenue east. The car is painted green and bears the license tag number 32676. Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon the police had been unable to find any trace of the stolen machine. The police believe that joy riders took the car and that they probably left it in some unfrequented place.

About 5:30 o'clock this morning the police were informed of the burglary at the Jasper Williams grocery store at Pike Lake some time last night. Two men are believed to have broken into a rear window. They stole $25 from the cash register and several boxes of cigars. Mr. Williams reported the theft and declared that light buggy tracks were found in the rear of the store, but that the trail was lost on the road.

Steal Toilet Set.

Last night Miss Margaret Buckley of 121 East Superior street reported that someone broke into her bedroom and stole a toilet set from the dresser. There was the initial "M" on the comb, brush and mirror stolen.

This morning C. W. Erickson of 108 North Twenty-seventh avenue west reported to Detective Terry that someone stole the front wheel from his bicycle last evening when he left it in the woodshed at the rear of the house. He discovered the theft this morning.

CONFESSES ROBBERIES

Man Arrested in Superior Says He Burglarized Saloons Here.

Half Pail of Small Coin Found in His Room.

A search of the room occupied by Joseph Smith, self-confessed burglar of about twenty stores and saloons in Duluth and Superior, this morning revealed a pail half full of nickels, dimes and quarters, together with several pieces of jewelry, including watches, taken from the cash registers of the various stores robbed. Smith lived at 114 Sixth avenue west, Duluth.

Smith, who is 30 years old, was arrested at 4 o'clock this morning while in the attempt to break into a Superior saloon. He was caught by Patrolman Hubert and when brought to police headquarters, confessed to having robbed about fifteen other stores and saloons in Superior and several in Duluth. The local police were immediately notified, and Detective Toewe was sent to Superior to investigate the case further.

Confesses Robberies.

Smith, upon being questioned, confessed to having entered the George Basich saloon, 111 East Superior street, about a month ago. He later gave the officer Basich's gold watch, which he took from the cash register. He also confessed to having entered the saloon at 220 East Superior street. The police believe he burglarized the three saloons in the West end about two weeks ago, but Smith declares he had nothing to do with those burglaries. He admitted having burglarized about fifteen saloons and stores in Superior during the last two weeks.

The arrest of Smith is a feather in the cap of the Superior police. Every effort had been made to catch the thief, but not until last night was he landed.

Upon being questioned by Detective Toewe, the prisoner declared he lived in a rooming house at Sixth avenue west. He was brought to Duluth. A search of his room revealed the half pail of coins and jewelry.

Smith is being held by the Superior police and will be arraigned there some time today. It is probable that the local authorities will also put in a claim for him in connection with the local thefts.

Little 4-year-old Robert Seaton of 38 East Fourth street was found wandering about Superior street this morning by Patrolman Smollett, and the officer brought the boy to police headquarters. The youngster gave the police his name and address, and he was later taken to his home.

The extremely cool weather the last few days is driving indoors the men who have been sleeping in box cars and sheds. Last night eight men applied at police headquarters for free lodging.

Bound Over on Theft Charge.

Edward Hollin, 32 years old, who was arrested at Cariton yesterday by Sheriff McKinnon on a charge of stealing a trunk at the Omaha station here last Tuesday, waived examination when arraigned in police court this morning. He was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree. The trunk is the property of George Desrochers, 522 Twenty-second avenue west. Hollin's bail was fixed at $500.

Forgery Suspect Released.

Justus Rohanen, alias John Maki, 34 years old, who was arrested by the police last evening on suspicion of being a forger, was later released, following an investigation. It was believed a check Rohanen had in his possession was forged. He was taken into custody by Detectives Schulte and Bradley.

Garbage Collection Pays.

The city's receipts for garbage collection in August were $306.05, according to the monthly report of Mrs. Jeanette Baldwin. In addition to that sum, she says that $3.50 should be credited for garbage hauled free for the mission on Lake avenue and $3.25 for dead dogs and cats which were taken to the incinerator.

"On account of the turning movement of the Germans toward our left wing and in order not to accept battle under conditions which might have been unfair, our troops withdrew toward the south and southwest," it said. "Our forces have stopped for the time being, the enemy in the Bethel regions. The situation remains the same in the center and on our right.

New York, Sept. 3.—The White Star liner Adriatic sailed for Liverpool this afternoon with her armament of four 6-inch rifles. No attempt was made by the customs officials to prevent her departure. The guns were in the same position—two fore and two aft—as when she came into port last Saturday.

One hundred and sixty-two passengers were aboard.

The Adriatic's owners asserted that she was still a merchant ship and that the guns, placed aboard purely as a measure for defense, did not convert her into a warship.

ASPHALT ARRIVES TO FILL UP HOLES

City to Repair Pavement on Superior Street at Once.

P. McDonnell, contractor, put the brakes on the city's program for repairing the asphalt paving on East Superior street between Eighth and Sixteenth avenues, according to Commissioner Murchison.

Last summer the contractor's street improvement jobs were taken over by the National Surety company, his bondsmen, for completion. The work was finished by D. H. Clough & Co., and a carload of asphalt was left over. This was bought by the city to be used for repairs this season but before it was turned over McDonnell had it taken to Hibbing, the commissioner explained.

This left the works division without the asphalt as it could not be secured, being the subject of controversy between McDonnell and the Surety company, both claiming ownership. When J. A. Johnson ordered asphalt for Twentieth avenue east he added enough to supply the city for immediate needs. It was ordered from Chicago but had to be shipped from California. The result was that the asphalt has only just reached the city. The repairs will be commenced without further delay and finished as soon as possible. Except for small patches Superior street is the only one on which asphalt repairs will be made this season.

The employes discovered the fire in time to save the horses. The loss was $16,000, about one-half insured. The house caught on fire twice, but the flames were extinguished.

LAY BLOCKS AT ONCE.

City Will Place Sandstone on West Superior Street.

The laying of sandstone blocks on West Superior street between Twelfth and Fifteenth avenues will be started at once, according to Commissioner Murchison, head of the works division. He said that the blocks were ordered nearly two weeks ago but did not arrive until today. Had they been shipped promptly, he stated, the upper side of the street could have been opened to traffic next week, as the laying of them could have been commenced several days ago.

SHARP UPTURN IN MARKET

Wheat Bulges on Higher Liverpool Cables and Export Inquiry.

Flaxseed Strong, With Buying By Crushers and Light Offerings.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 3.—The market was strong up to the close. September wheat closed 2¾c up, and December 2⅞c up. September durum closed 3¼c up; October 3⅜c up; November 3¼c up, and December 2⅞c up.

Oats closed ⅞c up at 48¾c for on the track or to arrive. Rye closed unchanged at 89@90c for on the track. Barley closed unchanged at from 61c to 72c.

Puts on Minneapolis December wheat closed at $1.15⅝ bid, and calls at $1.24½.

The wheat market developed strength today in sympathy with a sharp bulge in Liverpool, reported liberal offers in the Southwest and the putting through of some further foreign business. The probability that Turkey will enter the war increased the bullish sentiment at Liverpool. That will mean the closing of the Dardanelles and the shutting off of exports from that country, leaving this country to make up the corresponding shortage in supplies. Cash demand for wheat was strong at all points and the markets at St. Louis, Kansas City and Omaha were each up 1@2c.

Heavy trade was reported to have been worked in oats at Philadelphia, Chicago and New York, with the demand steadily becoming more urgent from Great Britain and France. Sales aggregating 300,000 bu were advised at Philadelphia alone. The call for rye was also strong and still higher prices for it are predicted.

Locally it was noted by operators that the market was advanced on comparatively light Eastern demand, showing that supplies are being increasingly firmly held. In that connection Minneapolis and Chicago commented on a growing tendency on the part of farmers to hold their grain, leading to difficulty in filling contracts.

Inspections at Duluth today were 240 cars against 325 last year and a large proportion of the arrivals were of the poorer grades. The movement of the new crop has started in some volume at Winnipeg, receipts there today mounting up to 325 cars compared with 94 last year.

September wheat opened ⅞c up at $1.17⅞ and advanced 1c more up to the final hour. December opened 2c up at $1.19 and held at around that figure. A good call turned up for durum and quotations in it were advanced substantially. September durum opened 1c up at $1.08½ and gained 1c more. October opened ¼c up at $1.09 and advanced 2½c more. November opened 1¾c up at $1.11½ and gained ½c more. December opened ¾c up at $1.10½ and advanced 1¾c more.

Flax Again Bulges.

Flaxseed bulged 1@2c at the start on the executing of a few buying orders and with no offers in sight at the moment. The market then weakened on the withdrawal of inquiry from crushers and some selling pressure, leading to the initial gains being lost in some options. The market closed strong, final prices for the day showing gains of 1⅝@2c. More crushers inquiry offered at the close.

September flax opened ¾c up at $1.60 and closed 1¾c up at $1.61½ asked. October opened ½c up at $1.62½ and closed 1½c up at $1.63½ asked. November opened unchanged at $1.63 and closed 2c up at $1.65. December opened unchanged at $1.65 and closed 1½c up at $1.66½ asked.

At Winnipeg, October flax closed 2c up at $1.41 bid. November closed at $1.43 bid and December at $1.43½ bid.

MARKET GOSSIP.

Substantial trade in flour is reported by local millers, but orders are being taken mainly for immediate shipment. Said A. D. Goodman, manager of the Duluth Universal Milling company, today: "If we wished, we could take enough orders in ten days to keep us going for several months ahead. Under present market conditions, though, I think it more prudent to only book stuff for prompt shipment."

* * *

The steamer Saxona loaded 50,000 bu spring wheat at Elevator S today.

* * *

Broomhall says: "Indian offers are small and firmly held, and it is forecasted that shipments this week will be very light. There are practically no Australian offers, and the United Kingdom is bidding full prices. Crop advices are favorable."

* * *

The Argentine weather is unsettled. The corn market is depressed there with large arrivals, cheap freight and difficulty of shipment. The forecast is for no shipments of wheat this week, and 1,275,000 bu corn.

* * *

A Paris cable reported an urgent demand, notwithstanding larger arrivals, and food prices have advanced sharply. Recent government action has caused a decline, and now French wheat is moving freely.

* * *

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat opened with prominent buying and light offers with October 2d higher than yesterday and December 3½d higher than former quotations. There were few American offers and very light Manitoba offers, together with confirmation that the British government has placed orders for heavy purchases of flour, notwithstanding the good stocks here and heavy grinding by local mills. There is a belief that Turkey will enter the conflict and this will further eliminate shipments. The market was strong and cargoes were held at 1s advance.

"Corn opened unchanged. Spot market is higher and cargoes were more firmly held. Danubian offers were practically nil. Spot wheat was strong generally, 2d higher than yesterday. Corn held firm with Plate grade ½d higher."

* * *

At Minneapolis the cash market was about steady, with the demand good for blue stem, but slow for velvet chaff. One northern sold at from 2 to 8 cents over September. There were scattered flour sales. Cash one northern wheat sold there at from $1.17⅞@1.23⅜, and No. 2 northern $1.17⅞@$1.13¾@1.21⅜. Supplies in Minneapolis elevators decreased 125,000 bu in four days.

CHICAGO MARKET.

New Advance in Wheat on Chance of War Spreading.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Fear that the European war might spread brought a further advance today in the price of wheat. Belief strengthened that Turkey would enter the conflict, and it was confirmed that the British government had placed orders for heavy purchases of flour. Renewal of export business by way of the Gulf of Mexico tended also to lift the market. After opening ⅞c to 2¼c higher, prices held close to the top level reached.

Rumors that Italy had joined the allies led to a further upturn. There was said to be an active demand from exporters at the Atlantic seaboard. The close was strong, 3⅜c to 3¾c set higher.

Corn rose with wheat. There was a good miscellaneous demand. The opening, which was ½c to ¾@⅞c up, was followed by additional gains.

Scarcity of pit offerings resulted in a continued rise. Bullish crop estimates were of decided help. The close was steady at 1⅛c to 1¾c above last night.

Big sales to the seaboard made the oats market firm. On the bulge, however, there was considerable profit-taking by longs.

Provisions turned upgrade after an early break, due to lower prices for hogs. The rally was influenced by the general advance in grain.

WESTERN INQUIRY FOR MINING STOCKS

Fair Volume of Business Put Through in Duluth Curb Issues.

Increased inquiry from the West for Duluth curb stocks was reported to brokers today. A fair amount of business was put through and it was distributed between a greater number of stocks.

Calumet & Sonora sold at 62c; Calumet & Corbin at 9 and 10c; Interstate at $4.75 and San Antonio at $1.50.

Paine, Webber & Co. had the following from New York today: "The position of the London metal market has been largely settled and its opening is in sight. Operations at the Kerr Lake mine at Cobalt will be resumed next Monday and a full force of men will be employed. The unsettled balances of the New York Stock exchange are understood now to be reduced to $750,000."

* * *

A Houghton, Mich., wire said: "There is a movement on foot here to ask the United States government to make large purchases of copper to help out the situation and keep the miners at work."

* * *

At St. Louis lead closed quiet at $3.75 and spelter quiet at $6.90.

SILVER CERTIFICATES BEING DISCOUNTED.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 3.—Banks here state that under present international exchange conditions they do not want to get loaded up with American paper money other than that with a gold guarantee, such as gold certificates and greenbacks. Silver certificates and national bank notes which have not the gold behind them are being discriminated against to the extent of 2 per cent.

ITALIAN SOCIALISTS GROWING RESTLESS.

Rome, Sept. 3, via Paris, 1:46 p. m.—A group of Socialist and Republican members of the chamber of deputies has presented an interrogation to the government asking whether it intends to "join in the protest of the United States" against what is described as "German's repeated violation of international laws during the present war."

The action by Italian deputies referred to in the above dispatch evidently is taken under the misapprehension that the United States has entered a protest concerning Germany's alleged violations of international conventions in Belgium.

BADGER ELECTION FIGURES UNCHANGED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 3.—There is practically no change in primary election figures since reports received yesterday, which assured the Republican senatorial nomination to Governor McGovern and Paul O. Husting as Democratic nominee. Philipp will head the Republican state ticket and Karel is conceded the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The various political headquarters have ceased to receive returns and nothing will be definitely known as to results of nominations below those of governor until the vote has been canvassed at Madison.

BRITISH PUBLIC IS PREPARED TO HEAR THAT GERMANS ARE ATTACKING FORTS OF PARIS

RUSSIANS ARE IN LEMBERG; MAGNITUDE OF THE VICTORY OVER AUSTRIANS CONFIRMED

Three Complete Army Corps and Parts of Two Others Crushed.

Probably 1,500,000 Engaged in Fight on 200-Mile Front.

NEWS CONFIRMED

Paris, Sept. 4, 3:55 p. m.—The capture of Lemberg, capital of Austrian Galicia, by the Russians is officially confirmed here.

London, Sept. 4.—A Petrograd special to the Reuter Telegram company says the commander in chief has notified the emperor that the Russians have occupied Lemberg.

Of the magnitude of the Russian victory before Lemberg there can be no question, says the Post's correspondent at Petrograd. The Austrian forces amounted to no less than 200,000 men, with 500 artillery pieces. There were three complete army corps—the Third, the Eleventh and Twelfth, and parts of the Fourteenth and Seventh. An Austrian army corps on war footing, it was explained, is raised to three divisions, of which the third is made up of reserves.

By this victory Russia has put out of action a quarter of the total Austrian first line troops, and captured nearly a quarter of the Austrian artillery, besides commanding all roads

GERMANY TRYING TO GET SWEDEN'S HELP

London, Sept. 4.—Telegraphing from Stockholm, the correspondent of the Star says: "There is great anxiety felt in the Swedish capital because of the efforts Germany is making, as shown by articles in the German newspapers, to induce Sweden to abandon her attitude of neutrality and take the field as an ally of Germany. The object sought is to weaken the Russian attack in East Prussia by means of a Swedish attack on Finland."

BRITISH SHIPS GET SUPPLIES

German Ambassador Says American Vessels Carry Them.

Intercepted Wireless Messages Seem to Confirm Statement.

COMPLAINED TO BRYAN.

New York, Sept. 4.—Count von Bernstorff says he has made an official complaint to Secretary of State Bryan at Washington about the provisioning and coaling of British ships.

New York, Sept. 4.—Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, announced today that he had received positive information that two British cruisers lying ten miles from New York harbor had received supplies of coal, provisions and ammunition from a vessel flying the American flag.

The supplies, Count von Bernstorff said, were taken aboard yesterday, according to his information. He declined to give his authority for making the statement, or to say what steps he intended to take, if any. The neutrality laws were so vague, he declared, that he did not know yet exactly what he was going to do.

Explains a Mystery.

Intercepted wireless messages copied at the various stations in the vicinity of New York at which the United States government has placed censors would seemingly explain the

CONGRESS URGED BY PRESIDENT TO RAISE ADDITIONAL REVENUE

Would Meet Treasury Deficit Threatened By War in Europe.

Opposed to Government Borrowing Money or Selling Bonds.

Favors Imposition of Internal Taxes to Yield Quick Returns.

Washington, Sept. 4.—President Wilson personally addressed congress in joint session today, urging legislation to raise $100,000,000 a year additional revenue through internal taxes to meet a treasury deficit threatened by the conflict in Europe.

The president told congress that he discharged a duty which he wished with all his heart he might have been spared, but which he performed without hesitation or apology, because of the danger in present circumstances to create a "moment's doubt as to the strength and sufficiency of the treasury of the United States."

Advised Against Borrowing.

While the treasury, he said, could get along for a considerable period, he pointed out the peril of the government's withdrawing from the national banks approximately $75,000,000 of the treasury balance deposited there; advised against the government borrowing money or selling bonds which would make "a most untimely and unjustifiable demand upon the money market," and appealed to the intelligent and profoundly patriotic public to bear the burden of a special tax to meet the unforeseen emergency.

The president began reading his address promptly at 12:30 o'clock after loud cheers had subsided and some members of the Southern delegation gave him a "rebel yell."

Work Already Started.

Congress listened attentively to the address. Immediately upon its conclusion, the legislative machinery was set in motion to carry its recommendations into effect. Chairman Under-

AUSTRIANS MOVING TO AID THE GERMANS

Will Reinforce the Left Wing of the Kaiser's Army.

London, Sept. 4.—From Switzerland comes a report that nearly 100,000 Austrians are being carried westward in trains to support the left wing of the German army operating against France.

An Athens correspondent contradicts the reports that Austria is withdrawing her troops from the Servian frontier to meet the Russian advance. He asserts that Austria is sending reinforcements there to prevent the Servians entering Bosnia.

The withdrawal of the French government to Bordeaux was the most important event yesterday. Military men consider that it was the most practical move, however trying it might be to the pride of the nation. The hope of the allies is that Paris may be defended as the base of the chain of armies across the country, and that its investment will be impossible. In Bordeaux the government can work under more normal conditions than amid the distractions of a military camp such as Paris may become.

The German plan, according to popular speculation, is not to besiege Paris, but to attempt to force a breech in the chain of fortresses with their newest Krupp guns and gain entrance to the capital as they did at Liege and Namur.

FRENCH AND GERMANS GO TO WAR TOGETHER

Travel on Same Ship, But Postpone Fighting Until Later.

New York, Sept. 4.—With 200 French and German reservists mingling like old friends in the steerage, the Spanish steamer Montserrat reached New York today on her way to Cadiz, Spain, from Havana and Vera Cruz. The Montserrat will sail for Cadiz tomorrow. Meantime all the reservists are being kept aboard to avoid the possibility of complications over enforcing the neutrality laws.

Of the reservists 150 are French and 50 are German. They were all taken aboard at Vera Cruz and in nearly every case the fare from Vera Cruz to Cadiz was paid by the French and German consuls at Vera Cruz.

"We are going home to fight," said one of the French reservists, "but we will save our fighting till we do get home."

"Why should we pick quarrels with our French friends aboard the ship?" asked a German. "Wait till we get home, then will come the fighting."

IMMENSE ARMIES IN DEATH GRAPPLE

Only Definite News in Twenty-Four Hours Shows Part of Kaiser's Force Ten Miles From Defenses.

City May Surrender If Outer Forts Fall, Says Report---Value of Russia's Victories Hard to Exaggerate.

London, Sept. 4, 1:20 a. m.—The armies of Germany, Austria, Russia, France and Great Britain are still at death grips in four colossal battles. A few brief bulletins convey all the important facts that the people of Europe know about the war, yet the interests of their armies so far overshadow all individual affairs that they wait with Spartan patience for information.

English newspapers, in the lack of definite news of battle, are filled with stories about wounded soldiers who saw some scrap of the great conflict, and with reports from correspondents far behind the fighting lines.

PREPARED FOR BAD NEWS.

The last twenty-four hours have yielded no definite news of the progress of the battle in Northern France. The public is prepared to learn that the German advance continued to the outer lines of the defenses of Paris. There it is expected that the allied armies will make a stand, on the line from Verdun on the east to the sea, and attempt with all their might to stay the German avalanche.

The British public has turned hopeful eyes toward the east, where the triumphs of Russian arms in the Austrian province of Galicia has been amply confirmed.

Victory at Tomaszow.

In addition to the battle of Lemberg, in which the flower of six Austrian army corps were destroyed, it is evident that there has been a simultaneous victory at Tomaszow, a town of some importance thirty miles southeast of Lodz, in Russian Poland. It appears evident today that not only has the Austrian offensive through Russian Poland, destined to effect a union with German army corps from East Prussia, failed, but the blow has been so severe that Galicia is virtually in the control of the Russians.

Lemberg is not only the capital of an enormous territory, Slavic in its sympathy, but also a transportation point of great strategic value, being the center of eight railroads.

If the Russian successes continue, it is expected that the Austrians will be

"GREATEST BATTLE IN HISTORY" FOUGHT

German Papers So Describe Fight Between Rheims and Verdun.

London, Sept. 4, 12:10 p. m.—Telegraphing from Copenhagen, the correspondent of the Central News says that Berlin newspapers which have been received there describe the battle which was proceeding Wednesday between Rheims and Verdun as the greatest battle in history. Three-quarters of a million men were declared to be participating in the engagement.

80,000 RUSSIANS IN FRANCE, SAY REPORTS

Taken There By British Ships From Port North of the Scandinavian Peninsula, It Is Said.

Movement, If Made, Has Been Kept Almost Completely Concealed From the British Public.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

London, Aug. 27.—Reports reach London from Liverpool that England has placed more than 80,000 Russian troops in France by means of transports sent north of the Scandinavian peninsula to Finland, where the Cossacks embarked and were safely landed at French ports.

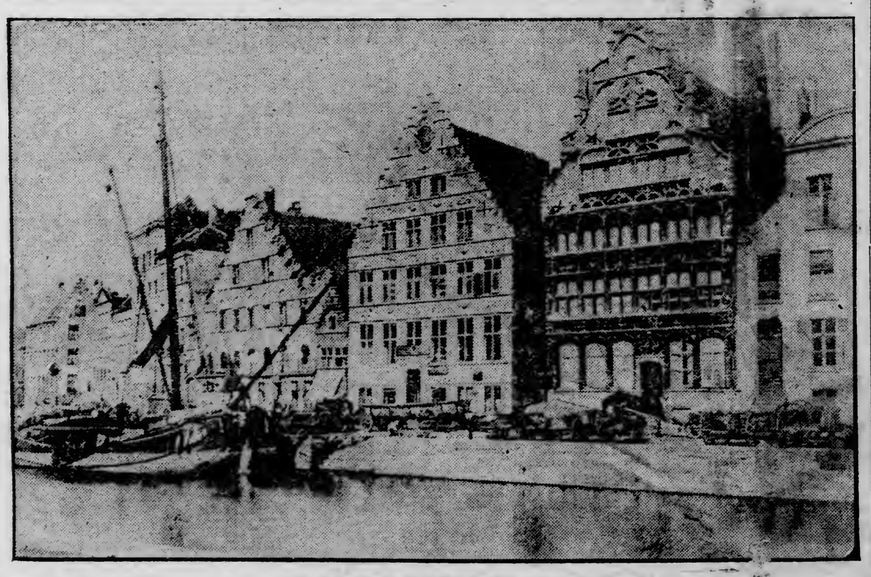

Because of the mines in the Baltic and North seas, and presence of the German fleet it has been regarded as impossible for Russia to reach France except by marching through Germany.

A constant stream of empty ships has been moving south from Liverpool ever since the declaration of war, but there had been no observation of ships northward bound, and the rumor that England has helped Russians into France has given rise to much speculation as to where the ships sailed from.

However, the secrecy which surrounded the movement of the expeditionary army was so complete that the public is willing to believe the English government has it within its power to conceal any movement.

According to stories told by passengers who returned from England on the Mauretania Sept. 3, this reported movement of Russian troops to France was made by way of the Scotch coast.

CITY IS IN PANIC IN FEAR OF THE GERMANS

SCENE IN GHENT, BELGIUM.

London, Sept. 4.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Ghent says that the people there are in a panic over the expected advance of the Germans on their city, which is indicated by the persistent presence of aeroplanes and scouts in its vicinity. It is believed that the Germans are now at Termonde, sixteen miles east of Ghent.

Ghent, the capital of East Flanders, is a city of about 200,000 inhabitants, lying on the Scheldt. It fell into the hands of the Germans. It has always been noted for the independence and courage of its inhabitatnts in refusing to accept unjust rule. It has been the scene of many historic events.

CALLS ON ALL ENGLISHMEN

Asquith Opens Recruiting Campaign in Guild Hall.

Says Whole Strength of Empire Must Be Exerted.

London, Sept. 4.—In the historic Guildhall of London, Premier Asquith today started a crusade to stimulate enlistment under the British flag which he intends to push throughout the country. He is calling upon every able bodied Briton of military age to come to the help of his country in the hour of need.

The premier opened his Guildhall address with the heartening announcement that up to today between 250,000 and 300,000 recruits had responded to the call of Lord Kitchener, the secretary of war.

"Might Versus Right."

"We now find ourselves involved with the whole strength of this empire in a bloody arbitrament of might versus right," the premier declared, "that has been entered into with clear judgment and a clear conscience. What would have been our place among the

GERMANS DRIVEN INTO SWITZERLAND

Two Violations of That Nation's Neutrality Are Reported.

London, Sept. 4, 10:25 a. m.—Telegraphing from Rome the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company says that a message received there from Basel, Switzerland, declares that an unconfirmed report has come into Basel from Berne, setting forth that Gen. Lieut. von Deimling and the German forces under his command have crossed into Switzerland to prevent their capture by the French.

Aviator at Belfort.

Belfort, France, Sept. 2, via Paris.—(Delayed)—A German aeroplane last night dropped several shells here. The missiles made much noise but did no damage. The aviator to avoid the fire of the Belfort forts made a detour over Swiss territory. Also he came from the south instead of coming directly from Alsace and it is declared here that this act apparently constitutes a violation of the neutrality of Switzerland.

SENSATIONAL WHEAT RISE DUE TO FOREIGN BUYING

Anxious to Get Supplies Quickly and Not Quibbling on Price.

Rye and Barley at Highest Level for This Year's Crop.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Yesterday's record price for wheat, $1.25¼, was displaced in the opening trades today when the May option sold to $1.26⅝.

Before the session was an hour old, the market had scored a sensational jump of more than 4 cents a bushel compared with last night. Reports that Holland had received an ultimatum from Germany excited the trade, and there were advices that big export orders were being handled in the United States for the direct account of the governments of Great Britain, France and Greece. The bulge carried May wheat up to $1.29½.

Big Foreign Demand.

The rise in wheat was accompanied by indications that the foreign demand had become of a wide open character. It was said that one firm alone in Minneapolis had sold 100,000 barrels of flour to France. European buying of oats, too, appeared to be limited only by the amount available for immediate shipment at the seaboard.

Profit-taking on the upturn was lively. Reactions ensued, amounting in some cases to more than 1 cent a bushel.

Market Has Second Swell.

On a second swell the market showed an upturn of 5 cents a bushel net. The greatest rise was for delivery in the present month, the September option selling at $1.12¾, as against $1.14¾ last night. It was gossip that foreigners were not quibbling about prices and were anxious chiefly to get supplies quickly. Export clearances of wheat and flour today aggregated 1,806,000 bushels, quadruple the total of the corresponding day a year ago.

Rye today sold here at $1 a bushel for spot cash, an advance of 3@4 cents above yesterday's price. Barley was also up. Both rye and barley were at by far the highest level for this year's crop.

Final transactions showed an advance of 5 to 5⅞ cents compared with twenty-four hours before.

MISS PANKHURST TO STIR UP PATRIOTISM

Suffragette Leader Returns From France to London.

London, Sept. 4, 12:35 a. m.—Christabel Pankhurst, the militant suffragette who in other days gave the authorities plenty of trouble and who has been in exile in France for about two years, has returned to England to carry on a campaign of patriotic propaganda.

GERMAN ULTIMATUM TO HOLLAND REPORTED.

New York, Sept. 4.—Dow, Jones & Co., published the following item on their news ticker today:

"London—It is reported at Lloyds that Germany has sent an ultimatum to Holland. There is no confirmation."

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

The German right is at the rear of the retreating French, who are falling back through Creil, Senlis and Crepy-en-Valois. This news would place the advance of the German host within perhaps twenty miles of the limits of Paris.

Official information regarding the respective positions of the Germans and the allies is, however, lacking.

Mails reaching New York from London today bring a report, originating in Liverpool, that British transports have landed 80,000 Russian troops in France. This matter was not permitted to pass the cable censors.

Press reports of the operations in the east add little to what information has come from official sources. In general they refer to fighting early in the week, and confirm Russian claims of disaster to the Austrian arms in Galicia and German successes in East Prussia. The Russians have occupied Lemberg, the capital and stronghold of Austrian Galicia.

Belgian advices say that a tourist arriving from Buda Pest declared that the people there fear the disintegration of Austria.

Australia has arranged to send more infantry and light horse to support the allies.

Premier Asquith opened a crusade to stimulate recruiting, at a meeting in Guild hall, London. He called upon every able bodied Briton, of military age, to rally to the colors.

MUST SPELL "AMANUENSIS" "MNEMONICS" AND "ETYMOLOGY"

Teachers Must Also Know About Monroe Doctrine, China's Exports, Quebec Act and Washington's First Cabinet.

Teaching school may look easy, but if one but glances over the questions that are being asked at the annual teachers' examinations which started yesterday morning he may change his views. These examinations will establish the right of the young women to teach in Duluth when the schools open next Tuesday morning.

Not only must a teacher know the textbooks, but she must also be able to tell about the European countries at war, to draw an intelligent war map, to tell how many cubic feet of air there are for each of the thirty-nine pupils and their teacher in a room 40 by 28 by 16 feet, to name all the vice presidents of the United States who succeeded to the presidency, tell all about the Monroe doctrine, tell what a "pronominal conjunction" is, explain the meanings of "syntax" and "etymology," and finally spell such words as "tympanum, "mnemonics," "tautology," "amanuensis" and "syllogism."

The examinations began at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and during the day the teachers were examined in geography, arithmetic, grammar, reading and spelling. This morning questions were asked in history and physiology, while this afternoon examinations are being held in civics and theory and practice.

A-Eighth Pupils Entering High School.

10 a. m.—A-eighth civics.
1 p. m.—A-eighth grammar and composition.

Conditioned grade pupils will be examined by the principals at their respective buildings at 9 o'clock tomorrow.

WILL MOVE CEMETERY

Old Indian Burying Ground on Wisconsin Point Must Go.

Bodies Have Been in the Ground More Than Century.

Word was received here yesterday that the commissioner of Indian affairs at Washington has ordered the removal of all the bodies in the Indian cemetery on Wisconsin Point. The land at this point is owned by the Interstate Railway company and the United States Steel corporation, and it is understood plans are already under way for the erection of warehouses and docks on the old Indian campground and cemetery.

Many of the bodies have been in the ground more than 100 years. Several white men who were among the earliest residents at the Head of the Lakes are also buried there. The work of removing the bodies will be in charge of G. W. Cross of Cloquet, superintendent and special distributing agent at the Cloquet reservation.

In his announcement Mr. Cross states that the bodies will be removed to Superior, where they will be interred at one of the cemeteries. This, it is understood, is to be at the Nemadji cemetery. Relatives or descendants of those buried on Wisconsin Point can claim the bodies and bury them where they wish, Mr. Cross states.

Mr. Cross' announcement follows:

"I wish to notify the Indians interested that I have been directed by the commissioner of Indian affairs to take steps looking to the removal of the bodies from Wisconsin Point cemetery to an established cemetery in the city of Superior.

"For the information of the Indians, will say that Wisconsin Point was ceded by the Indians to the United States government by the treaty of 1854, and that the title to the land where the Indians are now buried passed from the United States government several years ago. This land is now owned by the Interstate Railway company. Notice has been served on the government that the company wishes to use the land for commercial purposes, and the government has been requested to remove the bodies at as early a date as possible.

"Those Indians who have relatives buried on the Point are requested to write me, giving the number of their relatives buried there, and also to state their choice of a cemetery in Superior. We wish to be guided by the wishes of the Indians in the removal of these bodies so far as it is possible. If any of the Indians wish to remove the bodies of their relatives themselves, they may have the privilege of doing so.

"It is proposed to remove the bodies to a permanent cemetery in the city of Superior, where the graves will be properly cared for, the ground properly kept up and looked after. This will be a great deal more satisfactory than to allow the bodies to remain where they are, the graves to be trampled over and the ground used for commercial purposes.

"I know that it is the wish of the Indians that the bodies should remain where they are and that a permanent cemetery be established by the government on the Point, and I wish to assure them that I am in full sympathy with this desire, and regret exceedingly that the proper steps were not taken to establish a permanent cemetery before the title of the land passed from the government. However, I trust that the Indians will become reconciled to the removal of the bodies, and that the removal will be done in such manner as to be satisfactory to all concerned."

HORRORS IN LOUVAIN TOLD BY DUTCHMAN

Refugee Tells of Shooting of People and Burning of Town.

Captives Forced to Kneel as Barricade for Soldiers.

Rotterdam, via London, Sept. 4.—A vivid description of the sufferings in Louvain was given by a Dutchman who arrived at Bredau. He was a prominent resident in Louvain when the war broke out.

"We Dutchmen in Louvain," he said, "at first had nothing to fear from the German soldiers, but all houses that had been abandoned by their owners were ransacked, notwithstanding the warning of the military authorities forbidding the troops to pillage.

"In Louvain, as in all other towns they occupied, the Germans imprisoned as hostages of war the burgomaster, the magistrates and a number of influential citizens.

"A few days after the entry of the German troops, the German military authorities agreed to cease lodging their men in private houses upon the payment of 100,000 francs ($20,000) daily. In some of the houses between forty and fifty men had been stopping.

Stables in Bridal Rooms.

"The beautiful rooms in the town hall, where civil marriages take place, were used as stables for the cavalry horses.

On Sunday, Aug. 23, influential people were informed that an order had been given for 250 mattresses, 200 pounds of coffee, 250 loaves of bread, and 500 eggs, and that they must be at the market place within an hour. On turning out we found the burgomaster standing in the market place, and crowds of citizens half naked or in their night clothes carrying everything they could lay hands on to the market place, in order that no harm might befall their burgomaster. After this had been done, the German officer in command said his orders had been misinterpreted—that he only wanted mattresses.

"All houses in the fashionable parts of the town and on the boulevard had to be lighted throughout the night, by order of the German authorities. The doors of houses had to be left open.

"On Tuesday, Aug. 25, many of the troops had left town. We had a few soldiers in our houses. At 6 o'clock in the evening, when everything was ready for dinner, alarm signals were sounded and the soldiers rushed into the streets. Shots whistled through the air and cries and groans arose on all sides.

"We did not dare to leave our houses, and took refuge in the cellars, where we stayed through the long and fearful hours. Our shelters were lighted by the reflections of burning houses. Firing continued unceasingly, and we feared that any moment our houses would be burned over our heads.

Raging Sea of Fire.

"At break of day I crawled from the cellar to the street door and saw nothing but a raging sea of fire. At 9 o'clock the shooting had diminished. We resolved to make a dash to the station, abandoning our home and all our belongings except what we could carry.

"We rushed out. What we saw on the way to the station is hardly describable. Everything was burning. The streets were covered with bodies of victims who had been shot, some of them half burned.

"Everywhere proclamations had been posted, summoning every man to assist in extinguishing the flames and ordering women and children to stay inside the houses. The station was crowded with fugitives.

Family Separated.

"I was just trying to show an officer my papers when the soldiers separated me from my wife and children. All protests were useless. A lot of us were marched off to a big shed in the freight yard, from where we could see the finest buildings of the city and beautiful monuments being burned.

"Shortly afterward German soldiers drove before them 300 men and lads to the Boulevard Vantien and Maria Theresa street, opposite the Cafe Varmalen. There they were shot. The sight filled us with horror.

"The burgomaster, two magistrates, the rector of the university and all the police officials were shot.

"With our hands bound behind our backs, we were then marched off by soldiers without having seen our wives and children.

"From Mont Cesar we had a full view of the burning town. The church of St. Pierre was in flames, while the troops incessantly sent shot after shot into the unfortunate town.

"We came through Hent on our approach to the ruins, and at Hent another group of prisoners, including half a dozen priests, joined us.

Human Shields For Soldiers.

"Suddenly, about 10 o'clock, as a result of some false alarm, we were ordered to kneel and soldiers stood behind us with their rifles ready to fire, using us as a shield. Fortunately for us, nothing happened. After a delay of half an hour our march was continued. No conversation was allowed, and the soldiers constantly maltreated us. One soldier struck me with the butt of his rifle. I could hardly walk any further, but had to.

"We were choked with thirst, but Germans waved their drinking water without offering us a drop. At 7 o'clock that night we arrived at Camperhout on our way to Malines. We saw the half burned bodies of men, Women and children were frightened almost to death, and half-starved. We were locked up in a church, and were later joined by other passengers on the boulevard. That night the church was lighted up by burning houses. Again shots whistled through the air, followed by cries and groans.

Shot All the Priests.

"At 5 o'clock next morning all the priests were taken out by the soldiers and shot, together with eight Belgian soldiers, six cyclists and two game keepers. Then an officer told us that we could go back to Louvain. This we did, but only to be recaptured by other soldiers who brought us back to Camperhout. From there we were marched to Malines, not by the high road, but along the river. Some of the party fell into the water, but all were rescued. After thirty-six hours of senseless excitement and danger we arrived at Malines, where we were able to buy some food, and from there I escaped to Holland. I still do not know where my wife and children are."

SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE IS PARALYZED BY THE BIG WAR

Americans Seek Means to Open Commerce to the South.

People in Some Countries Are Lacking Necessities.

Philadelphia, Sept. 4.—Plans to capture the trade lost in South American countries by the warring nations of Europe were outlined here last night at conferences of more than 500 manufacturers, exporters and other business men. A committee of twenty-five was appointed to make an intensive study of the subject and report as speedily as possible.

Several speakers, including Horace B. Knowles, former United States minister to Bolivia, pointed out opportunities to secure trade with Latin-America, but stated that American capital will be needed to finance the development of these countries.

The proposed appropriation of $25,000,000 for the purchase of a merchant marine by the United States government was favored by many of the speakers.

Conditions Worst in Years.

Panama, Sept. 4.—Reports received here from points on the west coast of South America indicate that conditions worse than anything known in many years now prevail as a result of the European war. The conflict which is now occupying the attention of the world has virtually halted transportation along the Pacific coast of South America, thus putting an end in large measure to the importation of many necessities. There is reason to believe that many persons in the coast towns are in actual want as a result of the stagnation of business, and that thousands are out of employment.

Business in all cities as far south as Antafogasta, Chile, is reported virtually at a standstill, and a number of the largest and most important houses have ceased doing business while they await a resumption of better conditions.

Moratorium at Lima.

The proclamation of a moratorium at Lima permits banks to refuse payments in excess of 5 per cent of their deposits weekly, while the Peruvian government has ordered the stoppage of the exportation of gold.

Conditions at Guayaquil and other Ecuadorean ports, as well as ports in Columbia, are believed here to be equally bad, judging from reports received from these localities.

Ships are clearing from Balboa, the Pacific end of the Panama canal, with little cargo and few passengers, and several vessels are being laid up at Balboa pending better traffic conditions.

The business situation in Central America is believed here to be little better than on the Pacific coast of South America.

"Paralysis of Trade."

New York, Sept. 4.—"North Americans do not and cannot appreciate the terrible predicament the South American republics are in as the result of the European conflict. There has been a complete paralaysis of trade in all the republics and the paralysis is extended even to foodstuffs. Credit has been completely wiped out and merchants are unable to place orders, as all business heretofore has been done with European firms."

Conditions in Latin-America were thus summarized last night at a conference of the consular representatives in this city of all the Latin-American republics, who met at the headquarters of the Pen-American States' association to consider commercial conditions in their countries due to the war in Europe.

The only possible relief, according to the sentiment expressed at the meeting, lies in extension of credit by United States exporters and manufacturers. It was unanimously agreed that the opportunities for North American exporters and manufacturers to engage in South American trade were very attractive, even though the question of meeting the immediate demand might be difficult to solve. The conference felt, however, that this problem could be worked out harmoniously by the buyer and the seller.

ART TREASURES AT MALINES ARE SAVED

Famous Cathedral of St. Rombold and Chimes Are Destroyed.

London, Sept. 4.—A dispatch to the Reuter agency from Amsterdam says: "The bombardment of Malines Wednesday lasted two hours, nearly 200 shrapnel exploding in the town. Much damage was done. The church (the famous Cathedral of St. Rombold) is in ruins, and its beautiful stained glass windows and famous chimes were destroyed.

"Fortunately many of the works of art were saved. The religious shrine in St. Rombold's had been taken to Wavre, while Rubens' painting, 'The Adoration of the King' and 'The Crucifix in the Church of St. Jean' had been removed by motor cars to Antwerp. The gateway and the chimes of St. Rombold's were totally ruined."

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from The Hague says: "One of Rubens' famous masterpieces which had long hung in the Church of Notre Dame at Malines, Belgium, and which was thought to be in danger of destruction by German shells, was saved by M. Demont, the steward of the royal museum at Antwerp.

"M. Demont, on learning that the Germans were bombarding Malines, rushed from Antwerp in a motor car and at great personal risk brought back the painting to Antwerp, passing through the German lines at various points. The painting was given into the custody of King Albert."

SOUTH AFRICANS EAGER TO JOIN WAR.

London, Sept. 4.—The correspondent of the Reuter agency at Capetown, Union of South Africa, sends, the following:

"The magistrates in the Transkei territories, a division on the east coast of Cape Colony, the population of which is 1,000,000, have been traveling among the natives, upon instructions from the government, explaining the war situation. Tens of thousands have been addressed, and the natives everywhere enthusiastically have offered their services to the government. This is typical of the striking unanimity prevailing among every degree of civilization throughout South Africa."

RICE FLOUR BEING USED IN HOLLAND.

London, Sept. 4.—A dispatch to the Reuter agency from Amsterdam says that the Great Eastern steamer Dresden was preparing to leave the Hook of Holland Friday morning with a large number of stranded Englishmen aboard. Only British subjects having certificates proving their nationality were allowed on board.

A royal decree issued in Amsterdam forbids the exportation of rice flour, which is being used in Holland as a substitute for flour made from wheat. The prohibitive prices asked for foreign wheat is the cause.

TURKS MOVE SLOWLY ON PERSIAN FRONT.

Petrograd, via London, Sept. 4.—The Turkish mobilization on the Persian boundary is slow. Many Christians and Kurds have refused to join the movement. The Turks are forcibly enrolling all persons of military age.

There has been a serious conflict between Turks and Armenians at Bitlis, in Turkish Armenia.

SAW BRITISH CRUISERS.

Otherwise Northern Minnesotan Has Uneventful Atlantic Trip.

Warroad, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ole A. Anderson, one of the well-to-do farmers in Laona, has returned from a visit to his old home in Norway. He was accompanied by Mrs. Anderson and her brother. They came across the ocean in a Norwegian ship, which took a course well to the north of Scotland, to avoid as far as possible the places where mines have been sunk. They saw numerous British cruisers, strung out in a line across the North Sea to prevent any ships passing without their consent.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS MAKING BANDAGES

Washington, Sept. 4.—Sewing machines have replaced typewriters in anti-suffrage headquarters in two states, headquarters of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage announces, and volunteers are busy under the direction of the Red Cross turning out bandages and other materials for use on the battlefields of Europe.

This action has been taken by the state organizations of New York and Massachusetts in response to the appeal recently issued by Mrs. Arthur Dodge, national president, and others are expected to follow suit.

Anti-suffrage officers generally will be designated to start collection agencies for Red Cross work.

The proposal has been made that a truce with the suffrage supporters be sought during the European struggle.

WAS LAST TO LEAVE VESSEL

Mrs. Ethel Forgy on Steamer Sampson, Rammed Near Seattle.

Tells Vivid Tale of Harrowing Scenes on Sinking Ship.

News of the sinking of the ill-fated steamship Admiral Sampson near Seattle on the morning of Aug. 26, together with eight passengers and eight members of the crew, and the narrow escape from death of Mrs. Ethel Forgy, wife of Floyd Forgy, a conductor on the Duluth & Iron Range road, who was on her way to visit relatives at Seward, Wash., was received here this morning by D. S. Forgy, 618 West Boulevard, her brother-in-law. Mrs. Forgy was the last passenger to leave the vessel alive.

Well Known in Duluth.

Mrs. Forgy is very well known in Duluth, having lived here for a number of years. She was Miss Ethel Crocker before her marriage and about six years ago taught at the Jefferson school. Her home is now at Two Harbors.

Following her rescue by members of the Admiral Sampson crew, Mrs. Forgy tells a vivid story of the drowning of a woman and child before her eyes and the heroism displayed by Capt. Moore, who sank with his vessel

MRS. ETHEL FORGY.

"After all the passengers had been removed or had jumped from the sinking vessel," Mrs. Forgy said, "officers in the boats hovering near the scene begged Capt. Moore to leave the ship and save his life. He declined and remained in the pilot house until the craft disappeared from view.

"I was the last passenger to leave the ship. This was largely my fault, as I was in my cabin in the forward part of the boat when the crash occurred, and, not knowing the nature of the accident, I decided I would get on all the clothes possible. The officers kept calling to me to hurry, but I refused until I was almost fully dressed.

"As I reached the deck, a woman carrying a little child—I do not know whether it was a boy or a girl—came hurrying by. Even as I watched them, the woman and the child fell into the hatch, which was then under water, and virtually were drowned before my eyes.

"I stood well forward. The Sampson had been cut in two, and the stern portion had sunk. The second of the Sampson's boats was just below me and I jumped. A moment after I landed, the boat I was in was enveloped in a great sheet of water, caused by the sinking of the last section of the vessel. For several seconds, it looked as if we were to be drawn down with her.

Taken Aboard Victoria.

"Several of the passengers in our boat wanted to be rowed to the Victoria near by, but one of the officers—I don't know his name—insisted that we remain where we were in the hope that he might pick up some of the survivors from the Sampson. We saw none of them, however, and a little later were taken aboard the Victoria.

"The officers of the vessel kept their heads from first to last. In the remarkably short time between the collision and the sinking of the shattered ship, Capt. Moore and several of his subordinates awakened every passenger aboard and succeeded in breaking the windows in practically all of the outside staterooms."

The steamer Admiral Sampson was rammed by the Princess Victoria about 6 o'clock in the morning of Aug. 26, off Point-No-Point, near Seattle. The collision occurred in a heavy fog and four minutes after the ill-fated vessel struck, she sank to the bottom, taking with her Capt. Moore, eight passengers and eight members of the crew. Chief Engineer Noon and Wireless Operator Recker were among the crew to lose their lives.

Picks Up Survivors.

The steamer Victoria picked up the surviving passengers and members of the crew and brought them to Seattle about four hours later. One of the passengers, who was saved, died just as the Victoria docked, having sustained severe burns when caught in the wreckage. The Victoria sustained severe damages to her port bow, but had no trouble in reaching Seattle, where she is now undergoing repairs.

MARSHALL COUNTY EXPECTS BIG FAIR

Aeroplane Flights and Speeches By Hill and Lee Features.

Warren, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations are being made for the Marshall county fair to be held here, Sept. 14, 15, 16. Two new buildings have been erected on the fair grounds, a large arts building and one for the rural school industrial exhibit. With these facilities together with the old ones, the fair association will be better able to take care of the agricultural show which together with other special attractions promises to make this the greatest fair in the history of Marshall county. Many new classes have been added to the premium list this year.

Farmers' Club Exhibit.

One new and novel feature is that of having Farmers' clubs exhibits. The farmers have manifested great interest in this feature, many clubs have entered and a lively contest is assured. Another innovation is the exhibit of the pure seed growers and it is expected that a large number of grain growers will enter their grain in this contest.

Among the special attractions will be Heine, the "Flying Dutchman," who will fly in his Curtiss biplane, Sept. 15 and 16. A carnival company will show all three days.

On Sept. 14, William E. Lee, Republican candidate for governor, will deliver an address and on Sept. 15 James J. Hill will speak.

BEMIDJI'S FEDERAL BUILDING LOCATION

Generally Believed It Will Be Across Street From Courthouse.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unless the government changes its present plans, Bemidji's new Federal building will be located directly across from the courthouse at Beltrami and Sixth, and work will begin on the $75,000 structure within two years.

If Bemidji should desire to furnish the government with architect's plans and a free site acceptable to Uncle Sam, work on the new building would start at once.

These statements are made upon the authority of Byron R. Newton, assistant treasurer of the United States, who has final authority over the selection of Federal building sites and who paid Bemidji the rare compliment of coming here to make a personal inspection.

"You have a wonderful little city and need a postoffice as soon as you can get it, and you need one that will take care of an increased business, for Bemidji, in the heart of this great North country, is going to share in the prosperity of the development that is taking place," Mr. Newton said.

Consider Two Sites.

"As to the exact location for the new building here, I will say that the government is considering but two sites; the one close to your union depot on Beltrami, and the one across from the courthouse. We have on file the recommendation of two inspectors in favor of the courthouse location, and I believe they are right, and unless my mind is changed, that is where your postoffice will go up.

"However, that is not a definite announcement. I shall have a technical man look into the depot site in regard to the cost of putting in the foundation. It seems to me that while that site is close enough to the depots to save the government $700 a year in hauling the mails, that it is too far away from the center of town, and that the courthouse location would be more convenient for the larger number of patrons.

WILL RESUME THEIR MEETINGS

Public Affairs Sub-Committees Have Active Season Ahead.

With the crisper air and more exhilarating breezes of September, the public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club will shake off summer lethargy and resume its accustomed activities.

While the constitution is silent as to omitting the August meetings, by common consent the members are not given a black mark for failure to attend summer meetings, but from now on the monthly meeting will be binding upon all members.

The chairman now expects the subcommittee to meet regularly and that every member attend each meeting. The committee has much work ahead for this year in the planning of future development of the city.

The public affairs committee will hold a meeting early this month, and will take up its work from the subcommittees.

EVA WILL BE SPEAKER.

Will Address Commercial Executives at Cincinnati Meet.

Secretary Hubert V. Eva of the Commercial club is on the program at the joint meeting of the American Association of Commercial Executives and the Central Association of Commercial Secretaries at Cincinnati Sept. 28, 29 and 30. Mr. Eva's subject is "The Commercial Organization and the Farming Element."

Duluth's experience in the furthering of agricultural development through the Commercial club has been an inspiration to many other commercial organizations.

Gloves Timely Warning

Buy your gloves now is our advice to every woman. The reason we dwell upon this urgency is because the neglect to purchase now may result in the fact that before the close of the current year half of the feminine population of this country may be without kid gloves.

It is not a question of "Price" with the retailer, but the ultimate impossibility of securing gloves at all.

You can select from our stock tomorrow any Kid Glove except 16 or 20-button lengths at the old price. Buy now while our stock offers you the size and kind you are accustomed to wear.

GERMAN WOUNDED REACH BRUSSELS

All Exit From North of City Is Inderdicted.

Ostend, Belgium, Sept. 4, via London.—According to advices from Brussels, many convoys of German wounded from the South reached Brussels throughout Wednesday night. The German authorities have forbidden all traffic on the Boulevard Botanique, in order to prevent the public's witnessing the arrival of wounded men.

Great activity on the railroads was to be seen on Thursday. Trains bearing German troops were constantly passing. All exit from the north side of Brussels has been interdicted.

Mayors Responsible.

The mayors of the various suburbs of the Belgian capital have been informed by the German military governor of Brussels that they will be held responsible for the maintenance of local order and the prevention of assemblages or hostile demonstrations. These officials are threatened, in the case of the slightest contravention of these orders, with the harshest measures against not only the guilty, but their entire community.

Communication between Ostend and Paris is interrupted.

BRECKENRIDGE IS IN SWITZERLAND

Reports Relief Work Is Practically All Completed.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Assistant Secretary Breckenridge of the war department, in charge of relief work in Europe, concerning whose whereabouts some doubt had been expressed, was in Geneva, Switzerland, yesterday. He reports 1,500 Americans have been sent out of Switzerland on special trains and that many others have gone out by their own means. About 1,000 wish to remain.

Ambassador Herrick has advised Breckenridge that on account of disturbed conditions in France, no more Americans should be sent through that country. Mr. Breckenridge has arranged to leave Geneva by way of Paris for Cherbourg, where the cruiser is in waiting.

Summarizing relief work, Mr. Breckenridge reported:

"Our work is now in a fair way of being completed. The German and Austrian situation is about closed up, likewise in the other countries. It is now a matter of finishing up the work and assembling the officers."

TIMES CRITICIZES HANDLING OF NEWS

London Paper Says Germans Are Getting Moral Advantage.

London, Sept. 4, 4:52 a. m.—The Times in an editorial article this morning compares the prompt manner in which the German authorities treat the dispatches filed by Italian correspondents on the progress of war with the delays, amounting to from twenty-four to forty-eight hours, which the British censorship imposes upon Dutch, Italian and American newspaper correspondents in England. As a result so-called German news, the Times declares, gets a long start throughout the world and to the United States over news reciting the operations of the allies.

"No time is to be lost if this regrettable, and indeed dangerous, situation is to be remedied," the Times says. "The war may last long, and it may affect the very existence of the empires and the countries involved in it. It is not too much to ask that our government should spare neither pains nor money to insure that neutral countries, whose attitude may at critical moments be of vital importance, shall not be left without authentic and veracious information of the progress of the war and of the fortunes of the allied arms."

CZERNOWITZ TAKEN BY RUSSIAN ARMY

They Are Marching South Toward Succawa, Says Report.

Milan, Italy, Sept. 4, via London, 3:29 a. m.—The Secolo's Bucharest, Roumania, correspondent, who is usually well informed, says the Russians have occupied Czernowitz, an eastern crownland of Austria-Hungary, without resistance, and are now marching southward from that city in the direction of Succawa, in the same province and near the Roumanian border.

GERMAN ARMY CORPS RUSHED TO GALICIA

Is Sent to Help Check Russians Near Lemberg.

Rome, Sept. 4, by way of Paris.—News is received from Vienna that a German army corps was hurriedly transported to Galicia to aid the Austrians against the Russian attack before Lemberg.

CENSORS LET LATTER HALF OF STORY BY.

London, Sept. 4, 1:15 a. m.—Additions to the official communication regarding the torpedo gunboat Speedy says:

"The missing include the skipper and four men of the Linsdell. Two men were seriously injured. The remainder of the crew of the Linsdell had been picked up by the Speedy before the latter struck a second mine.

"The Speedy was an old torpedo gunboat of 800 tons, and prior to the declaration of war she was engaged on fishery protection on the North sea."

This additional information regarding the probable loss of the torpedo gunboat Speedy of the British navy and of a merchant vessel of some kind is all the British censors have thus far permitted to come through.

Morganthau Heard From.

Washington, Sept. 4.—The first cablegram received from Ambassador Morganthau at Constantinople in several days reached the state department late yesterday. It made no mention of any declaration of war. It was dated Sept. 2 and said the ambassador had succeeded in sending home all Americans who desired passage.

GERMAN LANDSTURM TO GUARD THE REAR

The Hague, Sept. 4.—The Austrian legation has issued a statement that owing to mobilization of the German Lansturm for the occupation and protection of the German lines of communication, railway traffic in Germany has been temporarily interrupted, delaying Americans who wish to return home.

GERMAN PAPER IS SENT TO ITALIANS.

Rome, via Paris, Sept. 4.—An Italian edition of the German Tageblatt is being distributed throughout Italy. It contains under the caption "The Truth in the War" an article which accuses the news agencies of notoriously serving the countries at war with Germany by circulating false reports, necessitating a direct appeal to the calm judgment of Italians.

After a summary of war news, the article emphasizes the excellent treatment extended to all foreigners in Germany.

SUICIDE PREVENTED.

Man's Attempt to Shuffle Off in Crookston Saloon Frustrated.

Crookston, Minn., Sept. 4.—Believing he was better dead than alive, Lars Johnson, claiming his address to be Hitterdahl, Minn., attempted to kill himself Wednesday afternoon in Burt Cochran's saloon. He ordered a glass of beer after which he took off his glasses and broke them into bits. Mr. Cochran picked up the glasses and them to Johnson. He then claimed that the glasses would never do him any more good and so crumpled them to little pieces in his hands. Johnson carried a gun which he unwrapped and also a box of shells.

Mr. Cochran called the police who arrested him before he could load the gun he was carrying and took him to the police station. The police believe too much liquor was the cause of his peculiar conduct and he may be examined as to his mental condition. He had tried to sell his watch for 50 cents but it was thought he was joking.

GIRL REPROVED, KILLS HERSELF.

Granite Falls, Minn., Sept. 4.—Friday Sternesg, an 18-year-old girl, living with her parents, four miles northeast of here, was found dead in a meadow near home Wednesday. The girl disappeared from home Monday morning, after being reproved by her father for coming in at a late hour the night before. Coroner Burns conducted an inquest, the jury finding the girl committed suicide by taking poison.

CASS LAKE CREAMERY.

Commercial Club Names Committee to Canvass Territory.

Cass Lake, Minn., Sept. 4.—Many farmers were the guests of the Cass Lake Commercial club at a meeting to discuss the starting of a creamery. A committee consisting of H. H. Martin, chairman; W. E. La Fountain and H. Mullen, was appointed by the president of the Commercial club to make a canvass of the territory and report back to the club the number of cows available and the amount of stock subscriptions that could be expected. The creamery will be ready for operation in the spring in the event that cows enough are found.

DANGEROUS FOR U. S. SHIPS

Turkey Warns Washington to Keep Cruiser From Dardanelles.

Relief Funds Must Be Carried By Smaller Craft.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Turkey has declined to grant the request of the United States for permission to send the cruiser North Carolina through the Dardanelles to Constantinople to deliver $150,000 in gold for the relief of Americans in the Ottoman empire.

The grand vizier has informed the American government that the waters of the Dardanelles have been mined, and that it would be unsafe for a vessel as large as the North Carolina to go through the straits. He declared also that it might establish a precedent for the passage of other foreign warships, and suggested that the American naval yacht Scorpion, on duty in Turkish waters, along with other light vessels that serve foreign missions, be sent to sea to meet the North Carolina.

In Morganthau's Message.

This was the substance of a long cablegram received at the White House and state department from Ambassador Morganthau, the first message from him in several days. He made no mention of any declarations of war, but referred to the diplomatic situation as highly critical.

The ambassador reported that all Americans who wished to leave had done so, and he thought funds aboard the North Carolina would be sufficient for immediate needs.

In view of the delicate situation, the ambassador suggested that the plan of sending the Scorpion to meet the North Carolina outside the straits be adopted. The incident was discussed at the navy and state departments and the North Carolina, now at Falmouth, will start today for the Mediterranean. She probably will touch at Italian ports and take aboard Assistant Secretary Breckenridge, reaching the Dardanelles in a week or ten days.

Turkey May Be in War.

By the time of her arrival, officers expect Turkey will have declared war on either Russia or Great Britain. In that event it is deemed important to keep the cruiser away from possible naval conflicts.

The incident served to recall to officials past relations between the United States and Turkey on the passage of foreign warships through the Dardanelles. The United States never has recognized the right of Turkey to close the straits to foreign warships in time of peace, although European powers have agreed to it. The American government has merely recognized the custom of excluding foreign warships as a "usage."

Officials agreed that the imminence of war in Turkey made it similarly expedient at this time for the American government not to press its request that the North Carolina be granted passage.

Greece May Join Allies.

The Turkish ambassador said the Turkish mobilization had been in progress for nearly a month and he believed that 900,000 to 1,000,000 men had been enrolled. He reiterated that the mobilization was not directed at Greece or Bulgaria.

Diplomats generally believe Greece will align herself with the allies against Turkey if the latter declares war. Predictions are growing that Italy is preparing to side with the allies. If she intended to stand by Germany, notification would have been sent to Austria for her to keep her ships in neutral ports and avoid British war vessels.

GERMAN AEROPLANES DISAPPOINT PARIS

People Look in Vain for Visits of Bomb Droppers.

Paris, Sept. 4.—Paris was disappointed yesterday, for no German aeroplane flew over the city. Crowds gathered in the Place de la Concorde, the Place de la Bourse, the Place de l'Etoile and the Quai des Tuileries from 4 o'clock in the afternoon to 7 o'clock to watch for the aeroplane, but none came. Several French machines patrolled the sky, ready to engage the enemy.

Many of the people of Paris have been astonished that the French aviators have not given chase to hostile machines flying over the city. It is explained, however, that only a plunging fire is effective against the aeroplanes, and that over a city a machine gun attack causes risk to more lives from bullets than are endangered by bombs.

The plan now is for the French machines which are on patrol duty to pursue the German aviators into the open country and have the argument out there.

RICHEST BRITISH PEER IS HERO IN THE WAR

DUKE OF WESTMINSTER.

London, Sept. 4.—The duke of Westminster has distinguished himself on the battlefield. He was in a company with Capt. Grenfell and Lieut. Percy Wyndham, son of Countess Grosvenor, during a short engagement, when Grenfell was wounded. At great personal risk, amidst a galling fire, the duke rushed through the battle zone and carried Grenfell to safety.

SEVEN AMERICAN CHILDREN IN BERLIN

Parents Already Are in New York—Youngsters Being Cared for.

Berlin, Sept. 4, via London.—Despite the temporary interruption of the American special train service to Holland owing to military necessities, the relief committee under Maj. James A. Ryan has succeeded in arranging to have special cars with accommodations for 150 Americans attached to military trains leaving twice daily. The trip is scheduled to take thirty hours instead of twelve hours.

The relief committee headquarters resembles a nursery, with the many children there. A family of seven unaccompanied children, whose parents already are in New York, have arrived from Budapest and are being looked after by the relief commission until direct communication with Holland is restored.

Divide the Work.

The work of relief is now divided into three divisions. The American embassy supervises the matter of passports and settles matters requiring diplomatic intervention. Maj. Ryan and the other officers of the committee and Mrs. Gerard, wife of the American ambassador, with the other women of the committee, attend to the actual relief work and the arrangements for transportation. The American consul general, Julius G. Lay, has undertaken to make the payments from the funds transmitted through the state department at Washington.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF BRITISH KILLED.

London, Sept. 4.—The official bureau has issued a further statement of British casualties as follows:

"Killed, 18 officers; 62 other ranks.

"Wounded, 73 officers; 312 other ranks.

"Missing, 86 officers; 4,672 other ranks."

The official bureau explains that the missing mentioned in the list of casualties are men not accounted for, and include unwounded prisoners and stragglers as well as men killed or wounded.

As regards the "other ranks," it is stated that 2,682 men are returned as having been sent back to their base as unfit and that a large proportion of these would be included in the number shown as missing in this and the previous return from general headquarters.

In the report of casualties received last night, the names of the officers were not given. Only their next of kin have been informed, and the names will be published as soon as possible. No names in the other ranks have yet been received, but a number of wounded already have been brought home.

TRANS-ATLANTIC RATES ARE RAISED.

London, Sept. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Bradford of Washington arrived in London yesterday from Paris by way of Havre. Mr. Bradford said the situation in France, so far as tourists were concerned, was very bad; the closing of Dieppe and Boulogne and the interruption of the railway service for military purposes made travel most uncertain. The congestion of traffic at Havre was very marked and the boats for Southampton were greatly overcrowded.

Thousands of Americans still are in France, and it was impossible for many of them even to get a chair on a night train. Women and children were suffering severely from hard experiences on the continent.

All trans-Atlantic rates have been advanced 25 per cent and in some cases more. The officials of the lines say the steamers return empty from America, and that the high rates of war insurance make the extra charges necessary. The Holland lines have increased their rates even higher than the English lines.

KING AND QUEEN VISIT THE WOUNDED.

London, Sept. 4.—King George and Queen Mary paid a visit yesterday to London hospital, Whitechapel, where the soldiers from the East end who were wounded in the battles in France are being treated. There are 300 men in this big hospital, to which they were taken so that they might be near relatives.

The king and queen gave the most minute attention to the accommodations provided for the soldiers. They conversed freely with the wounded men and expressed their pleasure at the care and attention that was being bestowed upon them.

JAPANESE WAR FUND ALREADY AT HAND.

New York, Sept. 4.—A cable dispatch to the East and West agency says:

"Tokio, Sept. 3.—At the conference of local governors today the minister of finance stated that the special appropriation for war purposes to be submitted to the special session of the diet will be 55,000,000 yen ($25,500,000). Together with the sum already expended for the present emergency, it amounts to the total of 66,000,000 yen ($33,000,000). This sum will be defrayed from surplus funds. The treasury has at present a surplus of 120,000,000 yen ($60,000,000). Besides, there are various special funds which can be utilized as war funds. There will, therefore, be neither increase in taxes nor any new loans floated."

AMERICANS REPORTED SAFE TO WASHINGTON.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Dispatches to the state department reporting the safety of Americans in Europe about whom inquiry has been made, include the following:

Chicago, Alderman Ray's wife; Dresden.

St. Paul, Francis Clarke, Munich.

Dubuque, Iowa, Rhombergs, Munich.

Elroid, Mont., Dan McLoughlin, Batoun.

ARTIST TELLS OF WAR ZONE SCENES.

Paris, Sept. 4.—Walter Burley Griffin, the American artist, returned yesterday from Nantes. He observed along a beautiful road from Paris to Orleans an almost unbroken procession of automobiles loaded with Parisians and their baggage. About every 150 yards was a disabled machine. He says it appeared as though all the taxicabs in Paris were going southward.

LABOR UNIONS AID RECRUITING WORK.

London, Sept. 4.—The parliamentary committee of the Trades Union congress has issued a manifesto expressing approval of the efforts which the labor members in the house of commons are making in conjunction with the representatives of other parties to stimulate recruiting.

The manifesto states that in the event of the voluntary system of military service proving inadequate at the present time, the need would result in greatly strengthening the advocacy of compulsory service. Accordingly the manhood of the nation should rally to the defense of the country in such numbers as "will demonstrate to the world that a free people can rise to the supreme heights of great sacrifice without the whip of conscription."

MANY WOUNDED REACHING BERLIN.

London, Sept. 4.—A dispatch to the Evening News from Copenhagen says: "Great numbers of wounded are arriving in Berlin daily. The trains are not unloaded until dark in order to avoid undue curiosity on the part of the public. The wounded are coming mostly from East Prussia.

"Princess Louise of Belgium has been expected to leave Vienna within twenty-four hours."

SERVIANS SENDING MORE MEN TO FRONT.

London, Sept. 4.—A dispatch from Athens says:

"The Servians are sending as many troops as possible to reinforce those already at the River Drina. There is no truth in the report that the Austrians are withdrawing troops from the Servian frontier and sending them to meet the Russians. On the contrary, Austria is sending more men against Servia to prevent the Servians entering Bosnia."

INDIAN WARRIOR HAS LIVED IN THREE CENTURIES

Was in Fond du Lac in 1854—Going to Fair.

Chief Ke-we-ta-ge-ik, "All-around-the-sky," the oldest man in Minnesota, is in Duluth today. He says he is 127 years old. His American name is now John Smith, and he lives at Cass Lake, Minn.

Chief Ke-we-ta-ge-ik is on the way to the Minnesota state fair for the first time in his life. He is accompanied by his grandson, Levi Lego, of Cass Lake, and several other relatives.

The old chief was not feeling well today, so he stayed in his room at the Lenox hotel. He does not use a bed, but reclined on the floor with blankets. He never got used to sleeping in the white man's bed and he said he was too old now to try.

The old warrior is making his first visit to Duluth. He was in Fond du Lac in 1854, but as there was only a small settlement here at that time he did not come here. This is also the first time he has ever seen Lake Superior, although many of the young men of his tribe visited the shores of the lake in the early days and brought back stories of the "big water."

Impressed By Ore Boats.

The big ore boats in the harbor impressed him more than anything else. He said he knew that the white men did wonderful things, but it was beyond his conception how they made the big iron boats float. Through his interpreter he explained that the Indians were masters at building boats but that they did not use iron.

The old chief certainly looks ancient. His face is furrowed with deep creases left by the years that have passed since he was born. His long braids were cut off many years ago and he now has a shock of white hair that stands up straight on his head. Although he is able to travel he has not been active for more than a quarter of a century.

In the early days he was a warrior in the band of Chief Hole-in-the-day, and he fought his last battle under the chief about sixty years ago in St. Cloud, Minn., when the Chippewa band went after a band of Sioux that had killed eleven Chippewas in Crow Wing county. There were eleven Chippewas in the war party and ten Sioux. In the battle nine of the Sioux were killed and the other escaped. Chief Hole-in-the-day was shot in the leg and Ke-we-ta-ge-ik worked the bullet out for him.

"Hole-in-the-day picked up a handful of earth," said the old chief, "and rubbed it on the wound. The Big Spirit was watching over our band and in a few minutes the wound was healed up. There was not even a scar left.

Scalped His Enemies.

"At that time I had a new flintlock gun and I put two bullets in it. I shot into the Sioux and hit two of them with the two bullets. I broke the back of one and hit the other in the head. They were not dead so I clubbed them over the head with my gun and scalped them.

"When I go to a war dance now I am entitled to wear six feathers in my hair. That means that I have killed six Sioux. We are allowed to wear one feather for each of the enemy that we kill."

When Chief Hole-in-the-day died he left the chief rights to Ke-we-ta-ge-ik. His tribe was known in the early days as the Mississippi tribe. The Mississippi tribe was friendly to the white men as the old chief said today that he saved the lives of many of the whites in the early days of the state. He said he had never killed a white man.

In talking of his trip to St. Paul the old chief said he had been to the Twin Cities a few years ago. He was taken to a big pow wow of the Indians at Minnehaha falls when he was 4 years old. He said he could remember the trip down the Mississippi river in his father's canoe. He said that at that time he passed the present site of Minneapolis and that there were only a few wigwams there. He told of his father's carrying the canoes around the falls of St. Anthony. He said he stayed at Minnehaha falls ten days with his people and then was taken back up the river. At that time, according to the old chief, the place was called "Ca-ba-ka," "Where-the-water-falls."

The old chief rubbed a handful of kinnikinick and tobacco together and said he was tired and would like to lie down. He drew himself into his shell and as far as he was concerned the interview was over.

CHIEF KE-WE-TA-GE-IK.

Avoid Danger of Blood Infection

Get Your Blood Strong to Resist Daily Perils

A host of people have thanked their lucky star to have used S. S. S. for the blood instead of those dangerous drugs such as mercury, calomel, arsenic, etc. It is an easy matter to get the blood poisoned from contact with disease germs. They lurk in almost everything we touch or handle and a slight scratch or skin abrasion is often the gate of entrance for a vast army of germs. If the blood is impure, if pimples, boils, eczema or other eruptive conditions make the skin a danger spot use S. S. S. at once and fortify the system. Get your blood strong and full of red corpuscles to renew tissue health. Let S. S. S. keep down tendency of all germs to multiply and your skin will soon renew itself. These facts are explained in a beautiful book just issued and will be mailed free by The Swift Specific Co., 110 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist but insist that you will have nothing else.

For more detailed directions write the Medical Dept., as suggested in circular around the bottle.

WORK FOR LAKE FLEET

Grain Movement Will Provide Cargoes for Idle Boats.

As was expected at this time of the year, grain is beginning to move forward at an increasing rate, and it is likely that the lake fleet, including those boats now lying in ordinary, will be called into commission with a vim for the rest of the season, for the new crop must be moved rapidly; and in view of the fact that there is considerable Liverpool inquiry for export stuff, it is quite likely that that will figure strongly in the business of fall shipping.

At present there is a considerable amount of tonnage loading for Buffalo, and more, it is understood, is booked for the next few days. Vessels loading in this harbor at present are as follows: Saxona, 190,000 bushels of flax and 50,000 bushels of wheat; Goulder, 150,000 bushels of barley and 100,000 bushels of wheat; Gogebic, 90,000 bushels of western white wheat; W. L. Smith, wheat; George B. Leonard, 160,000 bushels of barley, 45,000 bushels of rye and 50,000 bushels of oats; and the Berlin, 100,000 bushels of wheat.

COAL PILED UP ON DOCKS

Movement to Interior Has Been Very Light as Yet.

The coal company officials who arrived in the city yesterday to talk over the shipping situation, are spending today inspecting the coal docks of the Head of the Lakes, and tonight will leave for their homes.

It is claimed that there is little to say about the coal situation at this point, except that the country bankers have been rather slow in financing country coal dealers, with the result that there is a great deal of coal accumulation, both soft and hard on the docks here, and an unusually slight demand for it from the country points that must later be served.

C. E. Tweed, sales agent for the Pittsburgh Coal company said today that while the excess accumulation exists at the Head of the Lakes, the coal must, of course, be moved by the time cold weather sets in and that it is merely a case of delay, rather than of stagnation.

As to the reports emanating from the East that Canada's demands for coal overshadow the shipments in American territory, it is claimed that this is purely in the East and that there is no such strained situation in the West. Port Arthur and Fort William, the Canadian transferring points, it is claimed, have demanded and received only about what they have in past years and no unusual situation exists. It is believed that the abnormal conditions in the coal line which Eastern news claims as existing are confined to Toronto, Montreal and other Eastern points which are badly frightened by the war scare.

LAKE LEVELS.

Superior Expected to Be Higher During This Month.

According to the monthly lake levels statement sent out by the United States lake survey, Lake Superior, while higher than the average for August for ten years, was lower during last month than it was a year ago. The statement gives the stages of water in the Great Lakes during August as follows, recorded in feet above the mean sea level:

Superior	602.76
Michigan-Huron	580.64
Erie	572.59
Ontario	246.33

Lake Superior is .08 foot higher than last month, .02 foot lower than a year ago, .10 foot above the average stage of August of the last ten years, 1.17 feet below the high stage of August, 1876, and 1.16 feet above the low stage of August, 1879. Average stages of the last ten years indicate that the September level will be .1 foot higher.

Lakes Michigan-Huron are .10 foot lower than last month, .58 foot lower than a year ago, .42 foot below the average stage of August of the last ten years, 2.87 feet below the high stage of August, 1876, and .79 foot above the low stage of August, 1911. Average stages of the last ten years indicate that the September level will be .2 foot lower.

Lake Erie is .24 foot lower than last month, .65 foot lower than a year ago, .12 foot below the average stage of August of the last ten years, 1.52 feet below the high stage of August, 1876, and 1.21 feet above the low stage of August, 1895. Average stages of the last ten years indicate that the September level will be .3 foot lower.

Lake Ontario is .39 foot lower than last month, .98 foot lower than a year ago, .44 foot below the average stage of August of the last ten years, 1.93 feet below the high stage of August, 1862, and 1.98 feet above the low stage of August, 1895. Average stages of the last ten years indicate that the September level will be .4 foot lower.

FLEET OFFICERS IN WELFARE MEETING.

During the last few days a meeting of masters and engineers of the Tomlinson fleet has been held in the Board of Trade building, the purpose being the furthering of welfare work and the suggestion of ideas for the benefit of the business and personnel of the fleet. Fifteen masters took part and about an equal number of engineers.

Many suggestions were made to Mr. Tomlinson, all of which he declared to be proper and that he would adopt them. This meeting is usually held in the winter, but as the licensed officers of the fleet were unable to get together last winter, and happened to be in this harbor at this time, the meeting was held at this time.

CRUSH FRANCE, GERMAN AIM

Win at Any Cost, Is Principle of the Warfare.

People and Officials Alike Confident of Final Victory.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

Berlin, Aug. 22.—The departure of Emperor William "in the direction of Mayence" (that is as much as the press was permitted to know or report about it), may be said to marke the beginning of this great European war so far as Germany is concerned.

As in 1870, the more important of the emperor's advisers went to the front with him. The party included Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, Secretary of State von Jagow, War Minister von Falkenhayn, and other high governmental and army officials.

The plan of campaign is that thought out many years ago and never since departed from—to bend all energies at the very outset to the smashling of Germany's western neighbor. Russia is to be left to Austria until France shall have been disposed of.

Confident of Victory.

No one can come in daily contact with the officers of the general staff without being impressed with their confidence in an eventual and absolute victory. There is no boasting, no disposition to underrate the ability of the enemy but there is a grim determination to win at any cost. That this cost will be terrifically high is not for a moment doubted, but the men in charge of operations are determined to make any sacrifice, no matter how appalling, to reach their goal.

The people are inclined to underrate the size of the task before the German army. They are ready, however, to pay the cost of victory, however great it may be. The man in the street, however, will not even admit that a single German defeat is possible.

Everything Was Ready.

A marked feature of the situation is the wonderful illustration of the manner in which German mobilization was carried out. Everything was prepared in advance. Remarkably enough, there was not during the whole period of mobilization a single question from any person in charge of any branch of the work. Not one instruction had been misunderstood.

An illustration of the thorough preparedness of the general staff is the experience of America's military attache, Maj. Langhorne, who called on War Minister von Falkenhayn in the midst of the mobilization. Maj. Langhorne began to excuse himself for intruding at such a busy time.

"Not Particularly Busy."

"Come in, major," said von Falkenhayn. "I'm not particularly busy. I haven't anything to do."

The Associated Press correspondent dined with Gen. von Falkenhayn on the eleventh day of mobilization. The dinner lasted from 8 o'clock until after 11, and in the whole time there was but one interruption, that by an officer with whom the general exchanged a few words and who then left.

A striking thing about the organization of the general staff is the fact that one department has absolutely no knowledge of what is going on in the others. Each officer has his particular work to do and nothing else. Many of the high officers in the staff know less about the course of affairs to date than is known by the general public.

News Service Poor.

The only department of the general staff which was not systematized in advance was the press department, which is even yet not working smoothly. There is no agreement or common understanding between the different officers in charge of the distribution of news and its censorship, and one is disposed to admit dispatches of which the other will not hear. The working arrangements also are so clumsy that unnecessary delays of many hours are caused which could be avoided.

The enthusiasm of the people for the war passes all bounds, and continues to increase, if that be possible. There are no longer any parties.

Simplicimus, the Liberal paper, which sharply caricatures pretty nearly all existing state institutions in times of peace, has suspended publication because it feels, as it announced, that the present is no time to caricature internal affairs. Besides, one of its editors is at the front.

People Are Satisfied.

So far the news given out by the general staff has been extremely meager, but the people accept this condition in the same spirit with which they took up the war.

The confidence in the reports of the general staff is complete and general, and this despite the fact that it is now apparent that the reports have thus far told only part of the story. To date the Germans appear to have made probably more than 10,000 prisoners. Of these 1,000 were taken at Lagarde, 2,000 at Muelhausen, 4,000 at Liege, 3,000 at Stalluponen, and probably more than 1,000 others in skirmishes on both frontiers.

BRITISH SKIPPER IGNORANT OF WAR.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 4.—Laden with coal that would have been precious to the German cruisers, the British bark Invergarry, ninety-two days out from Newcastle, N. S. W., arrived here yesterday, greatly to the relief of her owners, Hind, Rolph & Co. Capt. Holmes knew nothing of the European war until he was spoken 250 miles out from San Francisco, and refused to believe it then until the other skipper showed him the latest newspapers.

LINDBERGH'S PROBABLE NEMESIS PREDICTS ELECTION OF HAMMOND

The reason for the nervousness of Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh of the Sixth congressional district is in Duluth today.

The "reason" is a quiet spoken, modest bundle of energy, named Dr. J. A. Dubois of Sauk Center, and referred to by many politicians as the "greatest single handed campaigner" in Minnesota.

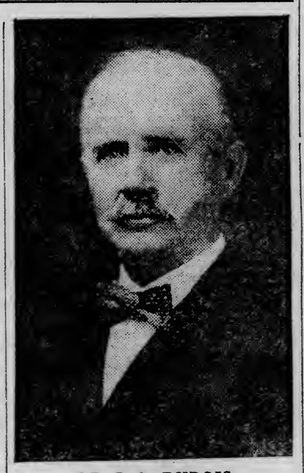

Dr. Dubois is a picturesque figure in Minnesota politics for his personality is bigger than the Sixth district and has overflowed into state affairs and even national affairs before this. The Sixth district is a big one, and includes Sherburne, Stearns, Benton, Todd, Morrison, Crow Wing, Wadena, Hubbard, Cass, Aitkin and Beltrami counties.

It was for many years looked upon as the personal property of C. B. Buckman, Republican congressman. Mr. Buckman ruled the district for many years and was looked upon as unbeatable. That is the kind of an opponent Dr. Dubois finds to his liking, and in 1902 he decided to break a lance with the Republican champion. That fight will long be remembered in the Sixth district. Buckman came through with a small plurality, but to get it he invoked the aid of two United States senators and four congressmen, and even their efforts might have failed if it had not been for the great personal popularity of Roosevelt, which was then at its height and no place more pronounced than in the Sixth. Single handed Dr. Dubois fought his fight, and while it was unsuccessful, it broke the ice. In 1906 Buckman was defeated at the primaries by Lindbergh, who has held the office since that time.

Dr. Dubois is the Democratic nominee against Lindbergh and it is now looked upon as considerably better than an even bet that he will dislodge the man who dislodged Buckman. Dr. Dubois is on his way home from a campaigning tour in the northern part of the district. He spoke for the state ticket at Warroad and Roosevelt, and for his own candidacy at Williams, Baudette and Spooner.

Air Castles.

"My platform might be summed up in the words 'Put a foundation under your air castles,'" said Dr. Dubois this morning. "You must put feet under your dreams and make them walk. I can dream dreams of progressive legislation as well as Mr. Lindbergh, but mere dreaming never gets you any place. Mr. Lindbergh has made a tin god of independence. When the Republicans were in power he held aloof. Now that the Democrats are in power he has no power or influence. He is reckoned as a Progressive in congress, although he is running on the Republican ticket. As far as representation is concerned the Sixth district might as well be in Africa. I want to put the Sixth district on the map of the United States and give it representation. I also want to help uphold the hand of one of the greatest presidents this country has ever had—perhaps the greatest. The love, admiration and respect of the American people for President Wilson has been growing ever since he assumed office. I want to see the Sixth district stand back of him.

DR. J. A. DUBOIS.

"In state matters the Democratic party has a man this year who upholds the best traditions of the party. We have given the state such men as John Lind and John A. Johnson. We have another such man in Hammond. These men stand out among our governors as Wilson stands out among the presidents. Hammond will follow in their footsteps if given the opportunity, and I am thoroughly convinced that he will have the opportunity. I have a very friendly acquaintanceship with Mr. Lee, his opponent, and have not a word to say against him personally. But Mr. Lee understands my position thoroughly. I am against him in this fight and unequivocally for Mr. Hammond. If the voters of Minnesota fail to elect Mr. Hammond they will miss the opportunity to choose a worthy successor to Governor Johnson.

"During the Johnson campaigns a most significant feature was the fact that the traveling men of the state were all for him. That is the case this year with Hammond. The men you meet 'on the road' are almost to a man Hammond supporters. Even during the height of Governor Johnson's popularity, prospects of election never looked brighter for him than they do for Hammond now. There is no doubt in my mind about Mr. Hammond's election."

LEAVES FOR BIG WAR.

Former Grafton Man, Now Wealthy, Joins His Canadian Regiment.

Grafton, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Wentz, formerly of Grafton and reputed to be worth $500,000, made in Canadian real estate and in the lumber business in less than ten years, has gone with his Canadian regiment from Saskatoon, Sask., to Ottawa, expecting shortly to be sent to Europe for participation in the war.

When he left Grafton Wentz was a poor man, but he seized Canadian opportunities at a time when things were booming and became wealthy.

When Great Britain made its call on Canada for men, Wentz responded, going with his company at Saskatoon as major.

Wentz, though the son of German parents, is a Canadian, having been born in that country. His parents removed to Grafton a short time after his birth, and he lived here about twenty years. He is 35 years old, has a wife and two children.

KILLED IN MISSOURI.

Former Grand Forks Man and Woman Victims of Auto Upset.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Phoena Everly, formerly of Grand Forks, and her brother, James Everly, were instantly killed in an automobile accident at Gallatin, Mo., when the latter lost control of the car, and plunged into a ditch.

Everly was attempting to pass another autoist on a country highway. The other driver speeded up as Everly drew up to the side of him, and in a moment a race was under way. Everly lost control of the car, plunging into the ditch, where the car was overturned, and both were sent to their death.

Alleged Thieves Caught.

Portal, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.) — John Carlson and Frank Evers, charged with the theft of about $100 worth of gold from the office of Dr. R. Campbell of Bowbells, a dentist, were arrested here when they attempted to dispose of the gold to local dentists.

Blame Despondency.

Minot, N. D., Sept. 4. — (Special to The Herald.) — Despondency because he had lost his position here is believed responsible for the suicide of George Obermeyer, aged 25, a sheet metal worker, whose body was found lying near the "pot gang" camp, just outside the city. Obermeyer had taken carbolic acid, and had evidently been dead several hours when his body was found.

DERELICTION ALLEGED.

Charges Made Against Minot's Chief Under Fire.

Minot, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.) — Testifying against Ed Robinson, chief of police, against whom he has made charges asking his removal from office, H. C. Rudd, president of the city commission, charged that Robinson had ignored complaints made with reference to hold-ups and the operations of blind-pigs. That Rudd has used two decoys in obtaining evidence against a place operated by negroes, was also brought out. The principal testimony by Rudd related to the handling of the negro question, it being charged that several dives were permitted to operate unmolested.

The hearing before the commission will continue several days.

BODY OF MISSING AVIATOR IS FOUND.

Bardstown, Ky., Sept. 4.—Discovery of the body of Charles Hibbard, an aviator, beside his wrecked machine here today revealed a midair death mystery that probably never will be solved.

Hibbard, who had been engaged by Nelson county fair officers to give exhibition flights, was to have flown Wednesday, but was unable to get his machine ready in time. None of the officials knew he had gone into the air until late yesterday, when his body was found in a ravine near the fair grounds. It is not known here where Hibbard's home was.

ALL BUSINESS HERE SOUND

Commercial Club Paper Decries Wail of the Pessimist.

Duluth Growing Bigger and More Prosperous All the Time.

Duluth and Duluth business conditions are sound and forging ahead rapidly, and there is no place within the city's borders for the calamity howler, according to "Public Affairs," the monthly bulletin issued by the Commercial club. This breezy little publication injects ginger into the situation in the following inspiring fall message:

"While calamity howlers are using the European war as a basis for their plaints, sane business men are merely going about their business, readjusting where readjustment is necessary, discounting conditions that may be reasonably forecasted, overlooking no opportunity to expand to meet the requirements of the situation.

"Careful inquiry has failed to reveal anything wrong with business in Duluth.

"Jobbers in all lines report better business than at the same season last year. Manufacturers are for the most part running to capacity. Retailers are doing a satisfactory business.

"The suspension of work at the steel plant was purely a precautionary measure, applied to all construction work of the United States Steel corporation. Assurances are given that the suspension is not to be for long.

"Duluth's population is growing constantly, as reflected by the house rental conditions. There are very few desirable houses or flats for rent; there is a wholesome building movement in homes of all classes of people.

"There is no reason for anyone losing confidence. No man who thinks for himself can be talked into believing that Duluth business isn't on a sound foundation. There is nothing the matter with Duluth; there is nothing visible in the immediate future that may adversely affect the city."

Count von Bernstorff has repeatedly expressed conviction that the British men of war were both provisioned and coaled from New York.

Maritime men have been totally unable to explain why first one and then another of the cruisers known to be off the coast would come within the three-mile limit, remain a while and then hurry off to sea again. How these cruisers managed to obtain provisions has also been the source of much speculation.

Mr. Hunt Is Busy Man.

One of the wireless messages which has helped clarify the mystery was addressed to H. H. Hunt, at No. 128 West Seventieth street, New York. The message was picked up on Sept. 1 at a station near New York while being transmitted from the British cruiser Suffolk to the Marconi station at Siasconset, Mass. In this message Mr. Hunt was directed to bring a quantity of provisions and some newspapers to a point two miles south of Ambrose lightship at 11 o'clock the following morning. Among the provisions asked for was fresh beef.

The following day, Sept. 2, as the Cunard liner Olympic passed Quarantine, bound out, she sent from her wireless the call letters of the Suffolk, and after receiving an acknowledgement transmitted a dispatch signed "Hunt." In this, "Hunt" informed the commander of the British cruiser that he had been a point two miles south of the lightship at 11 o'clock that morning, but as the Suffolk failed to put in an appearance he would be there again at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

Whether any provisions were actually delivered could not be determined.

RUSSIANS ARE IN LEMBERG

leading from Galicia into Hungary. The Galicians warmly welcomed the Russian troops, according to the prisoners, who also spoke of the terrible execution of the Russian artillery.

Field Covered With Corpses.

Paris, Sept. 4.—The Havas agency publishes a dispatch from Petrograd giving the following official announcement:

"The Fifteenth Austrian division was completely defeated Aug. 28, near Laschoff (a few miles east of Tomaszow, in Russian Poland). A division commander, a brigade commander and a chief of one of the divisions of the staff were killed. One hundred officers and 4,000 soldiers were wounded. We took twenty guns and the flag of the Sixty-fifth Austrian regiment. The battlefield was covered with the corpses of the enemy."

Battle Front 200 Miles Long.

London, Sept. 4.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Times, in a report on the operations around Lemberg, says:

"The forts of Lemberg have fallen and other Austrian armies have been engaged in Northern Galicia near Lublin. We may yet have to chronicle the complete disruption of the dual monarchy's armed forces.

"The operations extended over an enormous front of 200 miles, and probably a million and a half men were engaged. The Austrians' extreme right sustained enormous losses, but the most terrible blow was dealt them by the gallant army which, starting from Rovno, thence toward the southwest, spread fanwise so as to involve the region north and south of Lemberg, menacing the rear of the Lublin army and threatening to cut its communications.

"To parry this movement the Austrians transferred several army corps from the west side of the Vistula, and moving them behind Lublin, hurled them at Ruzsky.

"The result of this movement is chronicled in today's official bulletin on the victory."

Like Iron Semicircle.

The same correspondent, telegraphing concerning Russian military operations, says that the Russian forces drew around the Austrian army like an iron semi-circle. The Austrians thus were obliged to fight for their salvation with extreme obstinacy, owing to the fact that they could not hope for any considerable reinforcements. The southern army, under Gen. Frank, had been almost completely destroyed by the Servians and the transfer of the remnant of three corps would alter nothing, save that perhaps in this manner the road to Budapest would be left open to the Serbs.

The Germans had apparently retired from Polish territory west of the Vistula, and were unable to send the Austrians as much as a single battalion, so that the army under Archduke Frederick was left to its own resources.

Austrian Plan Frustrated.

During the first weeks of the war the principal strength of the Austrian army advanced on the left bank of the Vistula, with the palpable object of reaching Warsaw from the south, while the German army from Eastern Prussia proposed a simultaneous advance into Poland from the north. When the Russian victories at Gumbinnen scattered the illusion of a possibility of advance on Warsaw, the Austrians employed their tremendous forces scattered on the left bank of the Vistula to outflank the right wing of the Russian army encircling Lemberg.

To this enormous superiority and strength on the Austrian side must be assigned the fact that during the first few days of the general engagement of Tomash, the Russian attack was converted into a defense in which the heroism of the Russian army surmounted all obstacles and the Austrians' numerical superiority.

nations if we had been base enough or so paralyzed in our sense of honor and duty to be false to our word and faithless to our friends? We should have been standing by with folded arms, and with such countenance as we could command, while this small and unprotected state, Belgium, was defending her vital liberties and making a heroic stand against overwhelming forces."

The premier declared Germany's invasion of Belgium was the first step in a greater policy to crush the freedom and autonomy of the free states of Europe.

Praised the Belgians.

Continuing, Premier Asquith detailed the heroic efforts of the Belgian forces. He mentioned the siege of Liege, and enumerated countless outrages on the part of what he termed "buccaneering adventurers."

He declared that the greatest crime against civilization was the sacking of Louvain. "This shameless holocaust," the premier continued, "was performed by blind, barbarian vengeance. If we would stand aside we would see this country of ours blotted out from the pages of history."

With great emotion the premier called attention to the fact that it was just three and one-half years ago that he spoke in the Guild Hall on the occasion of the decision of the two English speaking nations of the world to settle their difficulties by arbitration without resorting to armament.

"No one then was sanguine enough to think or even to hope that the era of war was at an end," he said. "But no one anticipated such a terrible spectace as confronts us today, at a time when we thought we were confident in the security of peace."

All Blame on Germany.

The premier paid a compliment to the policy of Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary. Reviewing the incidents leading up to the war, he declared that one power, and one power only, was responsible for the war, and that power was Germany.

"Not a single colleague in the cabinet repented the decision, which had passed from one of diplomacy to one of honor," he declared.

"It would be a criminal mistake to underestimate either the magnitude, the fighting qualities or the staying power of the forces arrayed against the allies," the premier went on. "It would be equally foolish and insensible to belittle our own forces, whether in resistance or attack."

Praised France and Russia.

He praised France and Russia as two of the greatest powers who did not mean to separate themselves from Great Britain any more than Great Britain means to separate herself from them. He declared that if Great Britain were to play a worthy part in this war, she must enlarge the scale of her forces, increase her numbers and multiply many times her effective fighting power.

The premier made the declaration that his object was to impress on the people the imperious urgency of this supreme duty.

BRITISH PUBLIC IS PREPARED TO HEAR

cleared out of Russian Poland within a few days.

Hard to Exaggerate.

If the official reports of the Russian successes in Galicia are anywhere near correct, it is scarcely possible to exaggerate the importance of their victories. If the Austrians are as badly crushed in Galicia as the Russian reports would make the public believe, Russian Poland will soon cease to be a point of anxiety to the Russian defense, and the effort of the Petrograd general staff can be concentrated on an offensive movement toward Berlin.

The meager German reports received here indicate that the Germans are more than holding their own on the border of East Prussia, but the Russian general staff, according to the point of view held in London, does not seem greatly concerned over the status of the campaign in this territory, evidently being willing to await the outcome of movements further eastward before throwing Russia's full strength against Prussia.

Secrecy in the West.

The veil of secrecy over the western area of the fighting—the country north of Paris—never has been harder to penetrate than during the last twenty-four hours. There is no evidence at hand to show that the persistent advance of the Germans has been appreciably checked; on the contrary, at least one point of the German contact is now within twenty miles of the outer fortifications of Paris.

Late news dispatches from Dieppe describe the German right as at the rear of the retreating French through Creil, Senlis and Crepy-En-Valois, towns distant 24, 20 and 35 miles respectively from the boundaries of Paris proper. The fortifications of the French capital extend roughly ten miles beyond the city limits.

The allied armies probably now occupy a line of siege both to the east and west of Paris.

Recruiting has improved in England, and the military authorities are now prepared to form some ten or twelve new divisions.

"May Abandon Defense."

London, Sept. 4, 3:15 p. m.—In a dispatch from Rouen, France, a correspondent of the Chronicle says he has learned that the French authorities in Paris are considering the surrender of the city to the Germans in order to avoid destruction of property from artillery fire.

This will only be done, the correspondent declares, in case the outer lines of the defense of Paris are passed by the invaders.

British, French and Belgian wounded are being transferred from Paris to other cities and the great exodus of the populace of the French capital to the south continues.

Twenty-five Miles Away.

London, Sept. 4.—The correspondent of the Times at Dieppe, under Thursday's date, indicates that the Germans are less than twenty-five miles from Paris. He says:

"All day yesterday the head of the wedge which now forms the German right was furiously forcing its way to Paris, battering the rear of the retreating French through Creil, Senlis and Crepy-en Valois. The cannonading broke windows in Chantilly, which is only seventeen miles north of Paris.

"The Germans are also near Soissons."

Another dispatch to the Times from Beauvais, forty miles northwest of Paris, says that the Germans entered Clermont, thirty-five miles from Paris, at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning. At the same time their cavalry was operating around Beauvais.

Official Statement.

Paris, Sept. 4, 3:40 p. m.—It is officially announced that the opposing armies have not come in contact. They continue their movements, taking positions.

The statement adds:

"The Germans have been checked at Verdun. The French are successful in Lorraine and the Vosges. The situation has not changed."

Manning Defenses.

French troops have been passing through Paris for the last three days, headed toward the battle lines which protect the capital from the German advance.

The resumption of the German offensive is awaited at any moment. The confidence of the French has strengthened. It is felt that the strategical problem of the allies is to select the right plan and the right moment for a counter-offensive movement.

Tens of thousands of Parisians, chiefly women and children, have taken advantage of the free trains placed at their disposal by the government for the purpose of clearing Paris and its environs, so far as possible, of all civilians who might hamper the military operations.

Plenty of Trains.

Most of these people are going to the south or west of France. The military governor of the city has put at the disposal of non-combatants fifteen trains of twenty-five cars each. Passage on them is to be entirely free. They will run today, tomorrow and Sunday, and convey refugees to points outside the military zone.

The principal newspapers of Paris have transferred their offices to Bordeaux, where the Havas news agency also has established headquarters.

wood called a meeting of the ways and means committee to perfect an internal revenue measure tentatively drafted in preliminary conferences. A bill will be introduced as soon as possible.

Following is the full text of President Wilson's address to congress:

Full Text of Address.

Gentlemen of the congress: I come to you today to discharge a duty which I wish with all my heart I might have been spared; but it is a duty which is very clear, and therefore I perform it without hesitation or apology. I come to ask very earnestly that additional revenue be provided for the government.

During the month of August there was, as compared with the corresponding month of last year, a falling off of $10,629,538 in the revenues collected from customs. A continuation of this decrease in the same proportion throughout the current fiscal year would probably mean a loss of customs revenues of from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Cause of Falling Off.

I need not tell you to what this falling off is due. It is due in chief part, not to the reductions recently made in the customs duties, but to the great decrease in importations; and that is due to the extraordinary extent of the industrial area affected by the present war in Europe. Conditions have arisen which no man foresaw; they affect the whole world of commerce and economic production, and they must be faced and dealt with.

It would be very unwise to postpone dealing with them. Delay in such a matter, and in the particular circumstances in which we now find ourselves as a nation, might involve consequences of the most embarrassing and deplorable sort, for which I, for one, would not care to be responsible.

Keep Up Confidence.

It would be very dangerous in the present circumstances to create a moment's doubt as to the strength and sufficiency of the treasury of the United States, its ability to assist, to steady, to sustain the financial operations of the country's business. If the treasury is known or even thought to be weak, where will be our peace of mind? The whole industrial activity of the country would be chilled and demoralized.

Just now the peculiarly difficult financial problems of the moment are being successfully dealt with, with great self-possession and good sense and very sound judgment; but they are only in process of being worked out. If the process of solution is to be completed, no one must be given reason to doubt the solidity and adequacy of the treasury of the government which stands behind the whole method by which our difficulties are being met and handled.

Treasury Could Get Along.

The treasury itself could get along for a considerable period, no doubt, without immediate resort to new sources of taxation. But at what cost to the business of the community? Approximately $75,000,000, a large part of the present treasury balance, is now on deposit with national banks distributed throughout the country. It is deposited, of course, on call. I need not point out to you what the probable consequences of inconvenience and distress and confusion would be if the diminishing income of the treasury should make it necessary rapidly to withdraw these deposits.

And yet, without additional revenue, that plainly might become necessary, and the time when it became necessary could not be controlled or determined by the convenience of the business of the country; it would have to be determined by the operations and necessities of the treasury itself.

Unnecessary Risks.

Such risks are not necessary and ought not to be run. We can not too scrupulously or carefully safeguard a financial situation which is at best, while war continues in Europe, difficult and abnormal. Hesitation and delay are the worst forms of bad policy under such conditions.

And we ought not to borrow. We ought to resort to taxation, however we may regret the necessity of putting additional temporary burdens on our people. To sell bonds would be to make a most untimely and unjustifiable demand on the money market—untimely because this is manifestly not the time to withdraw working capital from other uses to pay the government's bills; unjustifiable because unnecessary.

Country Able to Pay.

The country is able to pay any just and reasonable taxes without distress. And to every other form of borrowing, whether for long periods or for short, there is the same objection. These are not the circumstances; this is, at this particular moment and in this particular exigency, not the market to borrow large sums of money. What we are seeking is to ease and assist every financial transaction; not to add a single embarrassment to the situation. The people of this country are both intelligent and profoundly patriotic. They are ready to meet the present conditions in the right way, and to support the government with generous self-denial. They know and will understand, and will be intolerant only of those who dodge responsibility or are not frank with them.

Not of Our Making.

The occasion is not of our own making. We had no part in making it. But it is here. It affects us as directly and palpably almost as if we were participants in the circumstances which give rise to it. We must accept the inevitable with calm judgment and unruffled spirits, like men accustomed to deal with the unexpected, habituated to take care of themselves, masters of their own affairs, and their own fortunes. We shall pay the bill, though we did not deliberately incur it.

In order to meet every demand upon the treasury without delay or peradventure and in order to keep the treasury strong, unquestionably strong, and strong throughout the present anxieties I respectfully urge that an additional revenue of $100,000,000 be raised through internal taxes devised in your wisdom to meet the emergency. The only suggestion I take the liberty of making is that such sources of revenue be chosen as will begin to yield at once and yield with a certain and constant flow.

Congress Complimented.

I cannot close without expressing the confidence with which I approach a congress with regard to this or any other matter, which has shown so untiring a devotion to public duty, which has responded to the needs of the nation throughout a long season, despite inevitable fatigue and personal sacrifice, and so large a proportion of whose members have devoted their whole time and energy to the business of the country.

ITALY DETERMINED TO REMAIN NEUTRAL

People Are Said to Be Sympathizing With the Allies.

New York, Sept. 4.—Dow, Jones & Co. today published this item on their news ticker:

"Rome—Premier Salandra gave out the following official statement:

"'The Italian government is firmly determined to maintain strictest neutrality.' This corresponds with the feeling of the people, although deep-rooted sympathies are felt for England."

AUSTRIANS SNEER AT ALLIES' FLEET

Believe It Is Afraid to Attack Their Own.

Rome, Sept. 4, via Paris, 10:47 p. m.—Dispatches received here from Vienna describe the ridicule with which Austrian naval circles are commenting upon the Anglo-French fleet in the Adriatic. They declare that although this fleet is more than three times as powerful as that of Austria, it never yet has dared to attack, or even invite the Austrian fleet to battle.

STEWART STOVES & RANGES

STEWART

Means Less Fuel and More Heat

Do you dread the coming winter, with its sharp, frosty nights? Are you prepared for it with a proper, economical heater, one that will save fuel and not be a constant source of expense and dreaded annoyance? If your last year's stove wasted coal, you had to crowd it to the limit, constantly poking, shaking and feeding it with expensive coal. Were you kept warm? Not unless you kept close to the stove, your face burning with heat, while your back and feet were cold. The moment you got away you were glad to get up near the stove again, resting your feet on the side rails.

The STEWART will keep you comfortable and burn less coal, giving a greater heat and more comfort than any heater made. We'll be glad to prove this to your entire satisfaction. The floors are kept warm by the double heating flue in the base. You don't have to crowd the Stewart. Every unit of heat is used and no unused heat passes up the chimney.

Let the Mighty Stewart Keep You Comfortable

The STEWART FLUE SYSTEM is the most perfect system known. It has accomplished two important things—increased the direct radiating surface of the stove without decreasing the radiation from the main bottom or main back and by surrounding the hot air flue entirely by heat, an extra strong hot air flue of large capacity is secured.

We have a genuine Stewart Base Burning Heater, with revolving fire pot and full nickel trimmings, at..... $25.00

A BURDEN TO BE SHOULDERED CHEERFULLY.

Though this country is not at war, President Wilson today asked congress to provide a war tax of a hundred million dollars, which congress will promptly do.

Though we are not at war, other countries are, and one effect of that war is to paralyze the world's commerce. When imports cease, revenue from import duties ceases also; hence the necessity for a war tax.

It is true, as President Wilson has pointed out, that the war tax would be heavier if the Payne-Aldrich tariff law or any preceding tariff law were now in effect. The reason for that, of course, is that the Wilson-Underwood tariff law took a large share of the tax burden from the consumers and put it upon the shoulders of the well-to-do and wealthy through the income tax.

If our reliance for revenue were so largely upon import duties now as they were in Mr. Taft's time, instead of a war tax of a hundred millions, a war tax twice or thrice as great would be necessary.

What form the tax will take is not developed; but undoubtedly the effort of congress will be to fix it so that it will be felt as little as possible by the masses of the people. It will not apply to necessities, but to luxuries. It will be small to any individual, though large in the mass. An additional tax on beer, for instance, would not be felt at all by those who do not drink beer, and very little by those who do.

It will be a tax that had to be, though the occasion is not our fault; and so it will be borne cheerfully, and dispensed with as soon as normal conditions are restored.

The Turk doesn't seem to care especially whom he fights, just so he fights.

THE WAR FROM DAY TO DAY.

To get the proper perspective of the great conflict that scourges Europe, it is necessary to remember that there is not one great battle in progress, but four.

First is the German invasion of France, with the storm center located at the left flank of the French line of defense, which has been bending slowly back toward Paris before an irresistible German advance. This storm center is now close to Paris, with a new battle front and a siege of the French capital imminent.

Second is the Russian invasion of East Prussia, which is stoutly resisted, from which little news comes, but which is engaging a considerable share of the German strength.

Third is the Austrian invasion of Russian Poland in the Lodz-Lublin district, aimed to head the Russian forces off from the march to Berlin. At first victory rested with the Austrian offensive, but if reports are to be believed the Russians have met and beaten this movement; and if so one important road to Berlin is now open—that between the Vistula and the Warthe rivers, in a line between Posen and Bromberg.

Fourth is the Russian invasion of Galicia or Austrian Poland, where success seems uniformly to have been with the Russians, and where the way is being cleared to another road to Berlin—that by way of Koenigshutte in the tongue of Prussia that lies between Austria and Russia, and through Breslau in Silesia.

It should be remembered, too, that so far as the menace to Berlin and Vienna is concerned, it lies far more in the third and fourth movements, in Russian and Austrian Poland, than in the attack through Koenigsberg, which to succeed must cross a formidable deadline in the strongly fortified line from Posen and Thorn to Dantzig.

Yet the main interest, nevertheless, must still center in the attack upon Paris by way of the left of the allied line. This morning the latest reports put German forces within twenty-five miles of the capital. News of the opening of siege gun fire upon the outer fortifications of Paris, then, may be looked for at any moment.

It seems likely that the allies, who though steadily forced back have kept their ranks intact and have successfully—so far—resisted the German attempt to surround and capture the army of the left flank, plan simply to make Paris one point in the new line of defense, which will stretch from Verdun in Northeastern France through Chalons, Reims and Paris to the English channel—or will cover so much of this line of more than three hundred miles as may be necessary.

The attack on Paris can hardly be a siege, for a siege is a comfortable sitting down on the outside while the beleaguered garrison is starved into surrender. There are too many French and English troops loose in France to make that feasible, unless the Germans can defeat and capture several armies. It is more likely to be an attempt to batter down the Parisian skirt of forts with the tremendous Krupp siege guns which were so effective at Namur. The house of Krupp has, it is said, for a long time been busy making these guns. They have a caliber of eighteen and a half inches, they can be used effectually at a range of more than sixteen miles, they hurl a projectile weighing 2,645.52 pounds, and when all is ready the firer has to retire at least six hundred and fifty feet. The explosions are caused by electric contact, and each shot costs Germany forty-five hundred marks, or about $1,125. The gun is exhausted by twenty shots.

The French have had every chance to make Paris ready for the attack. It is claimed that three million men are enrolled there for the defense. The city is surrounded by a continuous line of forts, and entrenchments, barbed wire, mined areas and the like mark a deadline around, between and beyond these forts. It is a deadline, though, that has no terrors for giant siege guns sixteen miles away.

Probably the world's greatest battles have been surpassed in horror and bloodshed by those already fought. Undoubtedly the battles already fought are but skirmishes compared with those yet to come.

The world is to sup its fill of battle horror before the dawn of peace breaks over embattled Europe.

"Our forces lost heavily at—(deleted)" is the way the dispatches read. The big fight certainly is putting that place "Deleted" on the map.

WHAT WILL THEY SEE ON THEIR RETURN?

Sir Ernest Shackleton, undismayed by the war, will soon set sail again for the south polar seas, bent on another voyage of discovery.

On August 1, just as the war was breaking out, a "stout little ship of three hundred and fifty tons"—the Endurance—cast loose from the West India dock in London and shipped out to sea. The Endurance carried Shackleton's scientific party, bound for the south polar continent. Shackleton himself sailed in her as far as Eastbourne, whence he returned to London to make his final preparations. He intends to sail, not later than this middle of this month, for Buenos Aires, where he will overtake the Endurance.

Unless the needs of the British navy prevent—which can only be in the event that it requires every man of its forces—Shackleton, then, will soon slip out of the known world and into the unknown, to be gone an indefinite number of months—at least a year, perhaps more.

All that time Shackleton and his party will be beyond the reach of tidings from the world. Dynasties may fall and others may rise; they will hear nothing of it. Battles may be won, campaigns may be lost, cities may fall, nations may be overwhelmed in disastrous defeat; but they will hear no word of it.

What sort of a world will these men look upon when—if they are lucky—they escape the perils of the ice and cold and come back to civilization (if there is such a thing these days) a year or more hence?

How will the issue stand then between Teuton and Slav?

How will the issue stand then between a submerged civilization and a lava flood of barbarism?

Will the war be over, and if so, how will it be ended?

In the chart room of the Endurance, doubtless, there is a map of Europe. How will that map compare, a year hence, with the map of Europe as it then stands?

War is barely a month old; yet thousands are slain, wide areas of peaceful prosperity have been laid waste, all Europe is in a bitter turmoil. What sights will greet the eyes of these voyagers returned out the unknown when the Endurance lands again at the West India dock in London—if there still is a London then?

Holland to Switzerland: "Good morning. How's your neutrality?"

Wadsworth for senator? Well, if New York is suited, why should anybody else protest?

This tinkering with the names of Russian cities makes safe the prophecy that the war would change the map of Europe.

The "Whys" and the "Wherefores"

Henry Watterson in Louisville Courier-Journal.

Elsewhere in this issue of the Courier-Journal a letter is printed from a most intelligent and thoughtful German in protest against what he conceives as "unfair treatment by the press of the United States of the Teuton side of the European war issue and along with this appeal for justice to the kaiser and the Germans.

Mr. Boetcker makes no distinction between the ruler and the people. He is earnestly loyal to the colors of the Vaterland and implacably hostile to all other standards. He can see but a single side of it. Being a German, "and proud of it," his mind reverts to the scenes of his childhood; to the companions he has left behind; and, inspired by the irresistible prompting of a glorious race impulse, he speaks from a heart which, though self-controlled, blazes with indignation.

Temperamentally, this is unfortunate both for the completeness and the conclusiveness of his argument. We readily go with him in all that he writes of his country and his countrymen. No one can know Germany and the Germans without respecting them. It is a fair and lovely land, a productive and potential people. The debt the world owes to German methods—we need not add to German science and art, poetry and thought—is incalculable. "Made in Germany" has been for years both an asset and a guarantee. "America can teach enterprise to the whole world," says Mr. Boetcker, "but Germany can teach the whole world thoroughness and spirituality," which is gospel true.

The German equally at home and abroad is a good citizen. Though likewise a good soldier, he is yet a peaceful man. His civilization reached him late; but, untouched by Latin frivolity and English bluster, it builded upon the barbaric foundations, from which all the world is sprung, a national fabric and an individual character such as justify the enthusiasm of our correspondent and invoke the admiring friendship of those who have had the happiness to dwell in Germany; to dwell in Germany anywhere between the mountains and the sea; to see visions among the solitudes of the Black Forest and to dream the hours away upon the hillsides of Heidelburg; to wander at will through the parks and galleries of Dresden and Hanover; even to fancy one's self a Teuton by descent from Siegfried as he wanders up and down the Rhine, a poet and a warrior from Tannhauser as he loiters in Munich and lingers, losing all sense of time in Nurnberg; a real German as he listens to music at Beyreuth and drinks beer Unter den Linden in Berlin. God bless the German people, say we, and the Vaterland!

That alone which jars the sensibilities of the American in Germany is not alone the militarist—everywhere in evidence—but the casti sm which, aggressive, tyrannous, and often insolent, stands a wall of stone and steel between the few who rule and the many who hew the wood and draw the water. From the North sea to the French border, from the Baltic to the Lake of Constance, there is no such thing as popular freedom. Autocracy and arbitrary power, a pride of birth and being in the aristocracy hardly less than that of the Regime Ancien whose excesses brought about the Terror in France, meet one at each turning, despite the fine thinking power and productive energies of those plebian Germans to whom Germany really owes her amazing progress the last three and forty years.

Let us admit the enlightened policies of the kaiser. His genius may not be denied. Asserting always the right divine, he yet played to racial pride, to popular vanity, to the national spirit created in the creation of United Germany by the Iron Chancellor whom wisely he displaced and sent to the rear. He touched the German brain and a stream of plenty burst forth. He flattered the German heart and loyalty and prowess sprang into being. All the while he was a Hohenzollern; and after a while he came to believe that even as his elders had taken Alsace-Lorraine he might take Belgium and Holland and incidentally drive England from her mastery of the sea and still further humble France. In a word his ambition got the better of his judgment.

The "White Papers" of both England and Germany show clearly that it was not Germany, but England which made an honest effort for peace.

If Wilhelm were truly a great man he would before consenting to—we will not say precipitating—this awful cataclysm have compelled Austria to come down a peg, or two, in the matter of Servia, and have engaged with England to reach a trade understanding and working commercial agreement short of a resort to war.

The English did not want war. Neither did the French. No one can examine closely the "White Papers" of Germany and England without arriving at the conclusion that it was in the power of the kaiser to avert war. He might have done this by concert with the powers. But, a great man resolved upon peace, following the example of Washington as an original and creative statesman would have taken the lead and compelled peace.

The record shows exactly the reverse. It was Sir Edward Grey, not Kaiser Wilhelm, who exhausted the agencies to that end. These "White Papers" make it plain that England did her utmost to prevent war, that her appeals for pacific conference and compromise were continued even after declarations of war had gone forth and troops were moving; they show likewise that France and Italy were of one mind and aim with England.

In his conversation with the French ambassador on July 24—the day after the sending of the Austrian ultimatum to Servia—Sir Edward Grey, seeing that the danger points were Vienna and St. Petersburg, suggested that if Austria and Russia failed to come to an understanding, Germany, France, Italy and England, the four powers having no direct interests in Servia, "should act together for the sake of peace simultaneously in Vienna and St. Petersburg." This suggestion Sir Edward made also to the German ambassador on the same day, July 24. On July 26 Sir Edward inquired by telegraph whether Italy, France and Germany would join in a conference at London for the purpose of discovering, if possible, a peaceful issue. Berlin's reply to this was that, being in effect a mediation, it was impracticable unless Russia and Austria would consent. The German ambassador in London informed Sir Edward that Germany accepted the proposal "in principle," but he hoped that English influence would be employed in St. Petersburg to "localize the war," to which Sir Edward replied that it was in Vienna that moderation must be urged. Italy "agreed entirely" with the suggestion of England, and the reply of France was a whole-hearted acceptance both of the London conference and of co-operation with the British ambassador in Berlin, and Vienna and St. Petersburg.

It will be seen from these documents that while Italy and France accepted unreservedly, Germany, as the imperial chancellor informed Sir W. E. Goschen, was "not able" to assent to the proposed conference, for the reason that he did not think it would be effective and would have the appearance of an Areopagus in which two powers of each group would sit in judgment on the other two. Sir Edward Grey then asked the German government "to suggest any form of procedure under which the idea of mediation between Austria and Russia, already accepted by the German government in principle, could be applied."

It was wholly fruitless. Berlin was as unresponsive as Vienna itself. The British ambassador to Austria wrote to Sir Edward Grey:

"Although I am not able to verify it, I have private information that the German ambassador knew the text of the Austrian ultimatum to Servia before it was dispatched and telegraphed it to the German emperor. I know from the German ambassador himself that he indorses every line of it."

Sir W. E. Goschen, the British ambassador to Germany, then wired thus from Berlin to Sir Edward Grey: "The emperor returned suddenly tonight and the under secretary for foreign affairs says that the foreign office regrets this step, which was taken on his majesty's own initiative." But the German secretary of state for foreign affairs is represented as saying that he did not know of the note, and the German ambassador in London showed Sir Edward Grey a telegram from the foreign office saying that the German government had no advance knowledge of the note and had no more to do than the other powers with the "stiff terms" of that communication.

These dispatches make it clear as to the attitude of England, France and Italy. They leave no doubt as to Russia, for as late as July 30 M. Sazonof drew up a formula of peace, based upon the disclaiming by Austria of any intention to violate the sovereignty of Servia. Nor can there be any confusion of mind about Austria—she was resolved on war, and on her rests the fullest measure of responsibility for the awful calamity. As to Germany she failed to use her great influence with Austria to dissuade her from the fatal step and this conveys to our mind the impression that the kaiser thinking he was ready, had himself resolved on war.

With the events that followed Austria's declaration of war, the mobilization orders, Germany's demands upon Russia and France, her attempts to persuade or bribe England to keep out of the war, the attempt of some powers to put the blame upon others, and the refusal of Sir Edward Grey to make any warlike commitment on the part of England until Belgium's peril and her duty to France were disposed of, and, finally, the invasion of Belgium, and the immortal stand made by the Belgians, all these things have united the American people against the kaiser.

That does not imply any kind of sympathy with Russia, or sympathetic alliance with England and France. It means neutrality until the war is over. That it will end with the complete discomfiture of the kaiser—that he will go the way the great and the little Napoleon went—we verily believe. Then we shall hope to see rise out of the ruins a united Germany laid in democracy, not in absolutism; in republicanism, not in arbitrary power.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlan, the Sunshine Man.

There is mention made by St. Basil of a certain art of drawing pigeons to their dove-houses in his country by anointing the wings of one of them with a sweet ointment and of its being sent abroad and by the fragrancy of that ointment inviting and alluring others to its home. Such an attractive force is holiness.

It is said when the Cardinal Richelieu wished to build a magnificent palace he selected the site of an old chateau, where his ancestors had dwelt. The work of demolition began; but when the workmen had come to the inner chamber where the cardinal himself had first seen the light, and lain upon his mother's breast, he ordered them to desist, and bade the architect to alter the design of the new edifice, as to adjust all its proportions to that birth room.

Six things are requisite to create a home. Integrity must be the architect and tidiness the upholsterer. It must be warmed by affection and lighted with cheerfulness. Industry must be the ventilator, while over all, as a protecting glory and canopy, nothing will suffice except the blessing of God.—J. Hamilton.

I have a friend who ten years ago lost all his earthly wealth—at that time he made some sort of compromise with his creditors, but expressed his purpose ultimately to pay them all. Not long ago he called upon me and said: "I have just paid the last shilling I owed. I have now nothing left except a good conscience and a resolute purpose. I never was so happy in my life." I grasped his hand and reminded him of what Burns had said: "The honest man, though e'er sae poor, Is king o' men for a' that."

The Returning Victors' Triumphal Hymn.

(What, in substance, the victors, whoever they may be, should sing.)

We come, we come, from the foughten field, from the trenches heaped with dead;
Our garments are smeared with our enemies' gore, but God's blessing is on our head.

For our God is the God of carnage and blood, He's the God of shot and shell;
Unto us He giveth the victory, but our foes he damns in hell.

Five hundred thousand corpses rot to the glory of this our God.
He strengthened our arms to slay them all. For we are His terrible rod.

With rapture we watched our aim make death, and our bosoms with pride would swell.
We chopped off men's hands so they couldn't fight; and we know that it pleased God well.

Peal out, peal out, ye parish bells, peal out in holy glee;
For stately cities are ashes and shards, and rich fields are waste as the sea.

Peal out, peal out, ye parish bells, and drown the mother's wail;
For we, we alone are the people of God. He ordained us his fiery flail.

And ghastly famine will stalk the land, and the babe and the aged slay.
Forget Him who died upon Calvary, and kneel; with thanksgiving, pray.

Statesmen, Real and Near

By Fred C. Kelly.

Washington, Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Edward W. Townsend of New Jersey, author of "Chimmie Fadden," sat listening to the debate in the senate chamber the other day and it reminded him of the last time he went to a hanging.

Whereupon you who read this wonder what sense there can be in a man letting his mind jump from the senate chamber to a hanging. And the answer is that Townsend simply couldn't help it.

Two senators were endeavoring to talk, or rather one was talking and the other was interrupting. As fast as the one who was talking would say anything the other party to the sketch would rise to ask a question in a loud voice. This gradually irritated the first senator until he refused to yield any more of his time and the man who had been interrupting was forced back into his seat.

It was then that Townsend thought of the hanging. He thinks of the hanging, it seems, nearly every time he sees a boisterous, persistent orator forcibly compelled to stop talking.

* * *

Townsend was a reporter on one of the papers out in Frisco and rose by sheer industry and application to the position of execution editor. That is, whenever a prominent man was to be hanged, Townsend was sent to witness the exercises. He became so adept at writing up hangings that to read one of his accounts was almost as enjoyable as seeing the event itself.

One of the hanging parties Townsend attended was in Reno, Nev. Among those present, by the way, was Franklin K. Lane, also a reporter at that time, but now merely the secretary of the interior. He and Townsend did not meet from that day until they ran across each other here in Washington a year or so ago.

The principal of the occasion was a man who had for years been one of the foremost murderers in Nevada. Four times previously he had been sentenced to be hanged, but had always managed to escape on some fluke. He had got it into his head that a death sentence was of little consequence and that he would finally die of old age. And there was where he got off wrong in his viewpoint. It stands to reason that a man who keeps himself getting sentenced to be hanged will carry his pitcher to the well once too often. But this man couldn't see it. Right up to the moment when they pulled the drop he was certain he was going to avoid his part in the entertainment.

* * *

The hanging took place in a yard surrounded by a high fence. Several hundred people were gathered outside, although the fence was too high for them to see what was going on. The prisoner, when asked if he had anything to say, had a great deal to say. He addressed himself to the crowd outside, and cordially invited them to rush against the fence, break it down and rescue him from an untoward fate. Somehow or other, it never seemed to occur to him that they wouldn't do it. He was the most cocksure man, Townsend says, that he ever saw. While waiting for the crowd to tear down the fence the prisoner addressed himself to the sheriff, called him many uncouth names and told him what he was going to do to him as soon as he escaped.

The sheriff was too polite to take mean advantage of a man about to die a premature death and did not talk back to him or even try to stop his speech. But when the man had talked for nearly half an hour without any sign of getting through, the sheriff saw that it would be necessary to adopt some parliamentary procedure and place a time limit on his remarks. He took out his watch and said to the prisoner:

"George, you have just five minutes more. So if there's anything special you want to say, you'd better crowd it into that time."

The five minutes rolled around and the man was still talking.

* * *

"I'm not near through yet," he said, and went right on.

Well, the sheriff was good-natured and let him have another five minutes rather than spoil his closing remarks. When that five minutes was up, he said:

"George, I don't like to hurry you, but I've got to get out of here. Chop that short now and let's get this hanging over with."

The prisoner threw up his hand with a gesture of annoyance, just as if he had been standing in the United States senate, and said impatiently:

"I must not be interrupted."

"But I tell you I've got a busy day ahead of me," persisted the sheriff. "I can't let you talk all day. Come on here now—"

And he seized the fellow and adjusted the black cap.

But the man did not stop talking. He never ceased until the trap had been sprung and the rope tightened about his neck.

It was this persistent talk at the hanging that Townsend was reminded of when he listened to the mixture of talk and interruption in the United States senate.

A Profitable Voyage.

New York World: Noting the arrival at New York of the ship Pleiades from San Francisco by way of the Panama canal, Mr. Heart's esteemed American says:

The opening of the canal to commerce means that the earning capacity of the Pleiades and vessels of her kind has been doubled. She made the voyage in thirty days, whereas it took her sixty-five to go around the Horn. She can thus make two trips where formerly she made two.

Better than anything else that has been said on the subject, this inadvertent statement of a fact gives a clear idea of the unmitigated hold-up which was recently attempted on behalf of the coastwise monopoly at Panama. To enable the Pleidas to double its earning capacity the American people have spent nearly $400,000,000.

When Mr. Hearst and others were demanding that our ships be deadheaded at the Isthmus and incidentally wore insisting that we tear up a treaty, was it their purpose to treble the earnings of the Pleiades at public expense?

Pipes May Be Scarcer.

New York Times: One of the largest pipe-making concerns in the country has sent a letter to its road men, saying that a shortage of pipes is possible. Meerschaum, they say, comes from Vienna, briar root from France, and amber from Germany. Of these materials the concern in question has just about enough to keep its factories in which about 800 men are employed, running for six weeks or so. There is no substitute for these materials in this country. Importations of briar and meerschaum pipes into this country from England and France have been cut off temporarily, and this adds to the uncertainty. The letter concludes: "While we do not wish to look for advantage of the situation in raising our prices, we ask you not to look for any new trade at present. Just take care of your customers until the situation clears."

Governorship Talk

What the State Press Thinks

But They Won't Endure It.

Virginia Enterprise: Just as if there wasn't war enough in sight at the present time, a lot of the newspapers are fighting among themselves about the defeat of Governor Eberhart. A pretty good maxim for the mourners would seem to be "what can't be cured must be endured.

Consistent?

Pine River Sentinel-Blaze: Congressman Lindbergh's political affiliations has been the subject of considerable comment by partisan papers throughout the district. It might be well for those newspapers to look up the party affiliations of Candidate Lee. Two years ago when he failed to get the nomination for governor, he promptly bolted and was a Bull Mooser, but when the nominations for governor were again in order, Bill Lee blossomed out as a real Republican. Yet we have newspapers in the Sixth district that oppose Lindbergh and support Lee!

Sending It to the Scrapheap.

Madison Independent Press: The Republican party of Minnesota is busy these days trying to find out "where it is at." There is no cause for worry about that. The voters of Minnesota will settle that little matter about Nov. 3.

And With Good Reason.

Le Sueur News: We are making no predictions about the end, but before it is started Mr. Hammond has Mr. Lee scared badly.

Pease Reforming.

Cass Lake Times: For nearly fifty years Brother Pease who edits that staunch old sheet known as the Anoka Union has stood staunchly by the Republican party, "through thick and thin," has fought for it, upheld it when others reviled it, has fought for it through all its years of vicissitudes until now when its gubernatorial nominee seems base and unfit he has determined not to die for his party and as vigorously as political circumstances will permit he is lending his aid and influence to the support of "a horrid Democrat." We have always admired the old war-horse for his vigorous defense of his party principles (if Republican policies might be entitled to that epithet), but have sometimes thought that his career was driven by the motor power of political necessities rather than by conscientious convictions. But he is no longer running with the machine, is out in the great field of "Independents" and has at last found that a conscientiousless machine is less satisfactory, even in politics than an open field where all are free to think and act as that mysterious motor directs.

A Difference As to Candidates.

Brainerd Tribune: Mr. Lee says "all good Republicans are lining up for the ticket." All good Republicans "lined up for the ticket" in 1912, but Mr. Lee was not among them. He was very busy about that time persuading good Republicans to bolt the ticket and vote for him as the candidate of an opposition party.

Aha! Eberhart Too!

Princeton Union: Some of the fire-eating partisans of Governor Eberhart are accusing William E. Lee of disloyalty to their chief two years ago. The accusation may or may not be true. The governor's fealty to his party's nominees has been questioned in times past. If Mr. Eberhart was loyal to the Republican nominee for governor in 1904 then there are some awful liars in Mankato and Blue Earth county.

We Indifferent

New York Sun: The sun may be shining too in the Vosges and over Luneville and along the line from Lille to Namur, shining with just the same golden joy that blesses our land of peace. How much do we think, as we enjoy its radiance or perhaps ungratefully cavil at its fervor, of the things it looks down upon half way round the world—the flashing fires of death, the bursting of destruction in the air, the fierce, passionate struggles of frantic men, the crimson spots of agony scattered over the devastated fields, and the upturned faces with the pallor of eternal night upon them.

Is it not strange that we go about in the ordinary way, eating, drinking, sleeping, buying and selling, even merrymaking with careless spirits and vain words, just as if the tragedy of the ages were not in progress within reach of our imaginations? From what deity or demon do we receive the gift of iron thus to harden our hearts?

Danzig, Thorn and Koenigsberg.

New York Times: The strongholds of Eastern Prussia which the Russian armies are attacking are strong, also, in memories. Koenigsberg, its great forts of the Kaserne Kronprinz on the east and of Friedrichsburg on an island in the Pregel, within ramparts flanked by lines of six forts each on either bank of the river, is not only one of the most important commercial cities of Germany. In its Schloss Frederick I and William I were crowned king of Prussia. Albert I founded here in 1544 the great University of Koenigsberg, wherein Kant, J. G. von Herder, Bessel, F. Neumann and Herbart have taught. The town's part in the Hanseatic league is part of the commercial history of the world.

Thorn, called the "Queen of the Vistula," and "the beautiful," had its "blood bath" in 1724, when a religious war made it part of Poland. Copernicus was born there. It, also, was one of the great Hanse towns, and its place commanding the head of the Vistula occasioned the decision to make it a fortress of the first class after the congress of Vienna created it a permanent possession of Prussia. Thirteen forts built in 1878 will defend Thorn against the czar's forces.

Fortifications, with ramparts, bastions and ditches flank Danzig, still flourishing under its aspect of the Middle Ages. There are the old Hanseatic houses; there is the Roman arched Hohe Tor and the Junker-Hof of the merchant princes. The town is one of the chief in manufacture, in shipbuilding, and it is one of Germany's armories.

These cities have of old been drenched in blood. Perhaps the baptism, if it did not sanctify their greatness, was inevitably a part of it. It is their portion to be baptized anew with blood and fire.

Then as Now.

Judge: Apollo had proposed taking Venus to the Olympian games.

"How long will it take you to get ready?" he asked.

"About ten minutes," Venus answered.

"By thunder!" muttered Apollo, after waiting half an hour, "when she has only to twist up her hair!"

Sure to Get In.

Count Okuma's Message.

The Independent: I gladly seize the opportunity to send, through the medium of The Independent, a message to the people of the United States, who have always been helpful and loyal friends of Japan.

It is my desire to convince your people of the sincerity of my government and of my people in all their utterances and assurances connected with the present regrettable situation in Europe and the Far East.

Every sense of loyalty and honor oblige Japan to co-operate with Great Britain to clear from these waters the enemies who, in the past, the present and the future menace her interests, her trade, her shipping and her people's lives.

This Far Eastern situation is not of our seeking.

It was ever my desire to maintain peace, as will be amply proved; as president of the peace society of Japan I have consistently so endeavored.

I have read with admiration the lofty message of President Wilson to his people on the subject of neutrality.

We, of Japan, are appreciative of the spirit and motives that prompted the head of your great nation, and we feel confident that his message will meet with a national response.

As premier of Japan, I have stated and I now again state to the people of America and of the world that Japan has no ulterior motive, no desire to secure more territory, no thought of depriving China or other peoples of anything which they now possess.

My government and my people have given their word and their pledge, which will be as honorably kept as Japan always keeps promises.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

DISTANCE TO PARIS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you please state in the Open Court column the distance between Duluth and Paris, France, in a straight line?

A SUBSCRIBER.

Duluth, Sept. 2.

The distance between Duluth and Paris, in a straight line, is approximately 4,000 miles.—The Editor.

AN ANSWER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A few weeks ago I went to the Nopeming sanitarium to look over building and site and get familiar with the interior working of such an institution. I was heartily welcomed before I entered the building by greeting smiles from one of the open air porches, and shown around the building by the head nurse.

"Much obliged for your kindness. • • • We want you to stay and have lunch with us. We have a fair and an art exhibit and will you to assist us in the distribution of the prizes. • • • Thank you for your confidence."

I had no trouble in influencing the judges regarding the prizes for water colors, pencil drawings, models, etc., but in embroidery I was outvoted. That which I selected for the first prize was a cushion cover showing a Dutch girl, in the background a windmill, with a following melancholy verse (in moll or flat key)—"Vat's the use of moonshine—when there's no one to wife?" I have often thought of that Dutch girl since. This morning I passed Gray's store. Hic et ubique—old mole canst work in the earth so fast? My melancholy friend again musing over "Love's Labor Lost."

Do you blame me that I use your column to answer that interrogation point with a fine line from Byron's Cain, the contents of which have consoled at all times, rich and poor, young and old, sick and healthy, and surely will assist the Dutch girl in wooden shoes, too, to overcome her distress?

"Think and endure—and form an inner world in your own bosom where the outward fails; so shall you nearer be the spiritual nature and combat successfully with your own."

ROBERT LOEBECKE.

Duluth, Sept. 2.

BETTER DRINK GRAPE JUICE THAN BLOOD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you please say in your valuable paper in rather large letters something like this: "Better a secretary of state who drinks grape juice than one who guzzles blood."

PEACEFUL.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 3.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

As a Dutchman born in Sweden and raised and educated among the Irish in the United States, allow me a few words in the Open Court.

I have read your issues of Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 as to the spelling and meaning of the Gaelic phrase on the Lyceum theater curtain. In The Herald of Sept. 1, one of our well-known citizens, with a French name, claiming Celtic birth, but who has lived the best part of his life in this American city with a French name and a large Canadian population, gives the public the "correct" spelling and translation of this phrase; but is this version correct after all? Is it not provincial or colloquial? Is not this phrase spelled differently and rendered differently in different localities? Is not this explanation simply made from the Highland Scotch dialect, and are there not two other Gaelic dialects—the Irish and the Manx?

The Gaelic originated in Ireland early in the Christian era and was not carried to Scotland till some time in the sixth century. There it naturally underwent a change, as it also did at home and in the Isle of Man; so that today there are three different dialects of this language.

Mr. Hugo gives us "the Scotch of it," but a writer in Everybody's magazine for the current month gives us "the Irish of it." Both these are different in orthography and translation.

From this last writer the Irish translation appears to be as first given by The Herald, "A thousand welcomes," not one thousand welcomes or one hundred thousand welcomes, but simply that beautiful, round and euphonious phrase—"A thousand welcomes."

The Scotch rendition may be correct, but it has a harsh, exact and precise sound which mars the spirit, the meaning, the joy of the word welcome. It is too much like saying: "Ninety-seven thousand four hundred and thirteen welcomes," as though a welcome could be measured or limited.

The spelling of this phrase is also given four different ways—by The Herald, Mr. Morrissey, Mr. Hugo and the writer of the Irish story in Everybody's.

The Scotch of it is probably orthodox to the Scotchman, but heterodox to those who are more familiar with the other dialects. You pay your money and take your choice.

DESCRIBES PRINCE'S LEAVING DURAZZO

William of Wied Turns Power Over to Commission.

Paris, Sept. 4, 3:45 a. m.—A dispatch from Durazzo, Albania, to the Havas agency, timed Wednesday evening, tells of the departure of Prince William of Wied, whose brief reign has been a troublous one. It appears that a meeting of protest was held in the city, and the police intervened. At 10 o'clock many armed citizens assembled before the royal palace and the apartment of the minister of finance and demanded the payment of their salaries. Comptroller Travesky calmed the crowd with promises that payment would be made.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon Italian sailors landed and occupied the streets in the vicinity of the royal palace, and Prince William and his princess, accompanied by Turkan Pasha, Akis Pasha, Sami Bey, Ekrem Bey, and the diplomatic corps, left the palace at 6 o'clock.

The international commission assembled in the garden and presented its respects to the prince and princess, who then proceeded to the quay. Volunteers and Italian sailors lowered the flag on the royal palace.

The Italian yacht Misurata, which had been placed at the disposal of Prince William, flying the Italian and Albanian flags, weighed anchor at 7:50, and after a salute from the Italian cruiser Libia, steamed in the direction of Venice.

Prince William of Wied, before he left, confided his powers to the international commission.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR CITY'S WELFARE

Club Will Consider Best Course in Acquiring City Plant.

The Hillside Improvement club discussed many matters of importance to the city in general as well as to that district at its regular meeting at Gonska hall, Fifth avenue east and Fourth street, last evening.

A delegation from the Central Hillside Improvement club attended and it was decided to hold a hillside mass meeting Sept. 17 at which the improvements necessary to the development of the hillside will be considered.

It was decided to ask the works division for information as to when the Farrell road, which would provide an easy grade from the center of the city to the farming country back of the hill, will be opened and improved. The lack of adequate sanitary sewers was criticized.

Tomorrow or Monday a meeting will be held under the auspices of the club to discuss the proper course for the city to pursue in acquiring an electric light and power plant. Commissioner Merritt and a representative of the company will be asked to be present.

It was announced that the street car company had given its permission to use its poles as standards for a white way along Fourth street between Fourth and Sixth avenues east. One was fitted with lights to demonstrate the plan.

AMATEUR POETS OF DULUTH ARE BUSY WRITING QUATRAINS

The announcement in The Herald last evening that $25 in gold will be given for the best quatrain of verse in the form used by Edward Fitzgerald in his translated version of Omar Khayyam has aroused considerable interest among the amateur poets of Duluth. For the prize money the readers of The Herald must render the following prose translation into a single quatrain:

"Though heaven and earth were blent together, though all the luster of the stars went out, I would wait in your path, O beloved, and ask of you why you have taken away my life."

Sample quatrains are herewith published to give the readers an idea of that form of poetry:

"A Book of Verses underneath the Bough,
A Jug of Wine, a Loaf of Bread—and Thou
Beside me singing in the wilderness;
Oh, Wilderness were Paradise enow!"

"And that inverted Bowl they call the sky,
Whereunder crawling coop'd we live and die,
Lift not your hands to IT for help—for it
As impotently moves as you or I."

The prizes offered by The Herald, together with the rules governing the contest, follow:

To the author of the best quatrain, The Herald will pay $25 in gold.

To the author of the second best quatrain, The Herald will award a box at the Lyceum theater to see Guy Bates Post in "Omar, The Tentmaker" on Wednesday evening, Sept. 9.

To the authors of the five next best quatrains, The Herald will give two tickets each for the performance of Guy Bates Post on Wednesday evening, Sept. 9.

Rules Governing The Herald Contest.

1. Each quatrain submitted must be original and unpublished.
2. To be eligible, each quatrain must follow the structural form of the quatrains of Edward Fitzgerald, although the text itself must contain no phraseology contained in Fitzgerald's work.
3. It is unnecessary to include in the quatrains submitted any of the phraseology or even any of the words contained in the prose subject that has been set for versification. The versification may be as free as desired, provided only that the spirit of the Khayyam saying is preserved.
4. In judging the quatrains submitted, the judges will consider as being of equal importance three factors, i. e., originality, the preservation of the Khayyam meaning, and literary excellence.
5. All quartrains submitted should be addressed to the Omar Editor of The Herald and should be mailed not later than midnight, Monday, Sept. 7. No quatrain postmarked later than that hour will be considered.
6. No quatrain submitted can be returned, and stamps should not be enclosed for that purpose.
7. Contributions should be typewritten or plainly written in ink, and on one side of the paper only, and every contribution should bear the name and address of the author.
8. The prize-winners will be announced in The Herald, Tuesday, Sept. 8, and prizes will be distributed from The Herald office, Wednesday, Sept. 9.

PLAN SOCIAL CENTER WORK

Course and Class Plan Will Be Followed By Miss Culkin.

Principal and Teachers Will Aid at the Bryant School.

Social center activities at the Bryant school will begin on Monday, Sept. 29, according to an outline of activities given out this morning by Miss Margaret Culkin, city social center director. As during last year, the school will be open on two evenings of each week, Mondays and Wednesdays, for social center affairs.

Course and class work will be followed this year instead of the "hit and miss" plan of the last season. The various clubs will be organized, under a supervisor, into classes which will take up subjects interesting to the members. These subjects will be taken up in courses and carried through from beginning to end.

Entertainments such as dramatic productions, musicals, lectures and athletic exhibitions will be planned to be given once a month instead of twice each month as last year. These will be open to the general public. Each member of the social center is expected to take a membership card, for which a small fee will be charged, thereby placing the center on a partly self-sustaining basis.

Miss Katherine King, principal of the Bryant school, will take an active part in directing the activities at her school. She will be assisted by a corps of matrons of the West end and teachers of the school who have volunteered to assist in the chaperoning and supervising of the classes.

BOOTHS WILL BE FREE TO ALL

Market Not Well Enough Established to Charge Rentals.

The public market in the West end will hereafter be free for all. Early in the spring on request of farmers in Hermantown the West End Commercial club market committee after consultation with Mayor Prince decided on a plan of reserving booths for the farmers for a consideration of $10 per booth for the season. Only two of the farmers took advantage of securing the booths under this plan.

At the meeting of the club last night a number of complaints from the farmers caused the club to rescind this action and adopted a resolution to refund the money collected from the producers. The market will from now on be free for all, and this action will, it is believed, cause a number of other farmers from Hermantown to bring their produce to the place.

"The time is not yet ripe for the reservation of booths for the farmers," said a member of the club last night. "The amount charged is the same as charged for a season booth at St. Paul, where the producer has a better market and uses the place daily. That as well as the fact that the season is from a month to six weeks longer places the price charged here at a high figure."

OPPOSE PLANS FOR CITY PLANT

West End Club Also Asks Better Police Protection.

West end business men do not take kindly to the proposition submitted by Commissioner Leonidas Merritt to build a competing electric light plant in case the Duluth-Edison Electric company refuses to sell. The scheme met with considerable opposition last night at the meeting of the West End Commercial club when a communication from the commissioner asking that the club take action on the question was submitted.

Some of the members present expressed opinions to the effect that the building of a competing plant would entail a large loss to the city. They were of the opinion that it would take years for the city to drive the company out of the field, and that then it would be questionable whether this could be done without a large loss on the part of the property owners in additional taxes to maintain the plant.

The club laid the matter over until the next meeting of the club when it expects to have a larger gathering present.

Action was taken asking the commissioners to increase the appropriation for police protection. The number of burglaries and robberies that have taken place in the West end this summer was mentioned as one reason why more uatromen were needed for this section. The members will also ask for a branch police station located in this district as well as call bells, so that it will be easy to reach an officer when one is wanted.

Members of the club disapproved of the comfort station building recently installed in Lincoln park. They said that it had been built too close to the street and that in time it would prove a nuisance. They said that the sewer connection was also bad.

FRENCH CLUB WILL BE ACTIVE

Will Invite Both Candidates for Governor to Address Members.

The French Naturalization club will hold its semi-monthly meeting this evening at the French hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street. A short program has been arranged for the evening, which will include a wrestling match between two amateur mat artists.

Plans for the fall and winter activities will be made during the business session. It is planned to have a number of meetings this fall at which candidates for various offices will be asked to be present to state their stand on local and state questions. Arrangements will probably be made to have both candidates for governor at a meeting of the club some time before election in November.

The French club is one of the largest non-partisan political organizations in the state. It has a membership of more than 600 French citizens, all of whom are said to take a live interest in political matters.

On the program this fall and winter it is planned to have a number of interesting wrestling and athletic contests. Dramatic productions will also be scheduled.

FORECLOSURE SUIT AGAINST RAILROAD

Action Follows Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Interest Default.

New York, Sept. 4.—Foreclosure suit against the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company was brought in the Federal district court here yesterday by the Central Trust company. Default of interest to the amount of $1,426,060 on the road's 4 per cent gold bonds of 2002 is alleged.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad company, an Iowa corporation, is one of the two holding companies which control the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway company of Illinois, the Rock Island company of New Jersey being the other.

The interest on the collateral 4 per cent bonds, the outstanding amount of which is $71,353,500, went by default on May 1 last, but under the terms of the company's charter or indenture, receivership proceedings could not legally begin until ninety days after the time of default.

No Official Comment.

The Central Trust company, which has taken an active part in the efforts to reorganize the Rock Island's finances, is the trustee for the collateral bonds, and its action yesterday is regarded as entirely formal. Officials of the Rock Island company now in this city declined to comment on the suit. Similar action was begun last week against some of the officers and directors of the holding companies by Iowa stock shareholders, in which charges of mismanagement and other serious allegations were set forth.

The collateral bonds sold as high as 53 early in the present year and were quoted at 33¾ at the time of default. On July 30, when the stock exchange suspended operations, they fell to 18¾.

COURT REFUSES TO GRANT DIVORCE

Judge Fesler Thinks Wallaces Should Settle Their Differences.

District Judge Fesler yesterday afternoon figured out that inasmuch as Jemina and Thomas J. Wallace had lived together for thirty years without any serious family trouble, they were good for a few more years together. Frowning on the idea of separation, the court denied the application of Mrs. Wallace for a decree of divorce asked for on the grounds of drunkenness and cruelty.

The court told the Wallaces to get together and smooth over their petty differences and not be quibbling and quarreling. Judge Fesler in denying the divorce application indicated that he did not like the attitude taken by Mrs. Wallace and her daughter in trying to oust their husband and father. He held that neither allegation had been proven.

The Wallaces were married at Kirkcudbright, Scotland, back in 1884. They might have celebrated their thirtieth wedding anniversay on July 13 last had they not been at loggerheads in a divorce action at the time. She is 54 and he is 59 and they are parents of two children, aged respectively, 29 and 18.

FRUIT DISPLAY AT EXPOSITION

The Northeastern Minnesota Horticultural society will have a display of fruits grown in the territory around Duluth at the exposition at the Curling rink Sept. 21 to 26.

Space in the agricultural department has been allotted to the Horticultural society, and President J. Kimball and Secretary S. George Stevens, have set about collecting the exhibit. They ask that all fruit growers in this territory communicate with them and make arrangements to send specimens for exhibition.

"Many people believe that fruit cannot thrive in this country," said Mr. Stevens today. "They will learn their error if they visit the exposition. We will have apples, grapes and other products that will astonish those who are skeptics on fruit growing."

The horticultural society has made constant efforts for some years to promote fruit growing in this territory, and the exposition will give the first opportunity to make a showing of results. The display will serve as a further attraction in the agricultural department and a complete exhibition of products that can be grown in Duluth is insured.

URGES CLERGY TO CO-OPERATE

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.) — Archbishop Ireland urges the clergy of Minnesota to co-operate with the extension division of the college of agriculture in the promotion of seed corn week, Sept. 14-19.

Archbishop Ireland is a believer in the planting of good seed if one would grow good crops. In response to a letter from the college of agriculture—outlining the plans for seed corn week, the archbishop sent the following:

"Permit me, as a citizen of Minnesota deeply interested in the intelligent development of its agricultural resources, to thank you for your plans for 'seed corn week,' Sept. 14-19, 1914.

"More and more, each year, corn is becoming the important crop of Minnesota. To all labor connected with it, farmers of the state should give most serious and careful attention—being especially vigilant as to the proper selection of the grain to be used for seed. The importance of well-chosen seed is admirably set forth in your extension bulletin No. 9, copies of which, I understand, will be at once mailed to all who call for them. I have read this bulletin with very much interest, and on turning over its last page, I said—'What a blessing, if every farmer in Minnesota—without exception—were to read this paper, and scrupulously follow out its counsels.'

"You ask me whether in my opinion you may count on the co-operation of clergymen in making efficient distribution of extension bulletin No. 9, and in securing a wide-spread observance of seed corn week. I should be very much surprised if this co-operation were not readily granted.

"To clergymen, who may hearken to words of mine, I say: 'Put yourselves immediately in communication with the office of publications at the college of agriculture, asking for copies of bulletin No. 9, and put without delay a copy into the hand of every farmer in your district.'"

LEARNED BY THE EAR.

Seattle Argus: A scholastic journal gives this story as "strictly true." A class had studied the first chapter of Acts, particularly the facts concerning the election of a new apostle. "And how was Mathias chosen?" asked the instructor.

"They all jumped on him and kicked him," replied the brightest boy of the class.

"Whatever put that idea into your head?" inquired the teacher.

"Well, sir, you told us, ou read to us that 'the lot fell on Mathias'!"

Woman's Realm.

At the meeting of the Woman's council held this morning talks were made by Miss Edith B. Kerr, one of the tuberculosis nurses of the city health department, who told of the work that is done for persons suffering with tuberculosis and for those who have been exposed to it; Miss Edna Meeker, secretary of the Associated Charities, who explained the investigations regarding those who solicit or beg; Mrs. M. R. Baldwin of the city health department who spoke of the garbage collections and other matters of civic interest; and a report was given by Mrs. McComb regarding the number of physicians who have indorsed the proposed city and county hospital.

Tuberculosis Work.

Speaking of the tuberculosis patients, Miss Kerr said:

"I have been frequently asked how cases are reported. They are reported by physicians, neighbors and often by death certificates. When we receive death certificates for persons who have died of the disease in any form we investigate. Often the person has no family, as those who die at the pavilion of the county poor farm. Very often we find a family of little children who have been badly exposed. As we try to make the work largely preventive, an examination is made of those who have been exposed. I know of one instance of a mother who died of the disease, with a large family of children, ranging from a few months old to 13 or 14 years, all sleeping in one room. Three of the children were affected though they were apparently well. The insidiousness of the disease is the dreadful part of it.

Need City Hospital.

"Our work when we find cases is to get them into sanitariums. We find every day in our work the need of a city hospital with a tuberculosis department. Patients in all stages of the disease are taken at Nopeming. It is because many persons who are far advanced in the disease are taken there that there are so many deaths at that place. Nopeming is full all the time and has a waiting list, though the waiting list is not as long as it formerly was.

"I think we are safer in sanitariums than in picture shows and in crowded street cars. We are always exposed in one way or another without knowing it. Perhaps you sit next to a person on a street car who has an open case of tuberculosis and he coughs in your face. It is quite possible to come down with tuberculosis years after being exposed to it, specialists say."

Soliciting Charity.

Miss Meeker advised the discouragement of indiscriminate giving to persons who solicit funds for various undertakings unless they are provided with credentials showing they are regularly appointed to receive the money. As an example she told how a person with a large number of letters that seemed to prove he was qualified to collect for a certain undertaking. It was proved upon further investigation he had not been authorized to ask for donations.

The Associated Charities will investigate any case that is brought to their attention and as it is in touch with the Associated Charities of other cities the facilities for looking into cases are good.

Mrs. Baldwin explained that a free garbage collection would probably not be possible for two years as the city is in debt. She told the members of the Woman's Council that if reports were made to the health department of garbage wagons that are not covered the health department will investigate the matter, providing that the informant can give the license number of the wagon, as without this information the authorities would not be able to locate the wagon and driver. Mention was also made of the ordinance now in the hands of the city attorney providing that all milk must be sold in bottles.

Mrs. McComb reported that of the seventy-four physicians she had interviewed regarding a city and county hospital, seventy-one gave their signatures indorsing it.

It was decided at the meeting that a committee from the Woman's Council, consisting of the executive board and several additional members, attend the meeting of the city council, to be held Sept. 20.

She dwelt especially upon Mme. Rambouillet, who is credited by historians as having been the founder of the first salon known in France. In her magnificent "salon bleu" she gathered persons of wit, beauty and talent, reigning as a queen of conversation for thirty years.

The hostesses of the afternoon were Mrs. Page Morris, Mrs. E. A. Silberstein, Mrs. Whitney Wall, Mrs. George Rupley and Mrs. W. J. Olcott. They were assisted by Misses Charlotte Wilson, Martha Wall, Margaret Craig and Alexandria Van Bergen as ushers.

EMIL FISCHER, OPERA SINGER, KNOWN HERE, DIES IN HAMBURG

EMIL FISCHER.

Emil Fischer, formerly a well known bass singer with the Metropolitan Opera company, who visited in Duluth with Mme. Fischer during the summer of 1912 as the guests of George Suffel, 1401 East Second street, is dead at Hamburg, after an illness of a year. He died there on Aug. 11, but word of his death has just been received here.

Mr. Fischer conducted a studio in New York city for many years. Mr. Suffel studied under him for several years and in 1912 he came to Duluth at the invitation of his former pupil. Mme. Fischer accompanied her husband and they spent about six weeks here. Many Duluthians, especially music lovers, will remember them and their many musical evenings given here during their stay.

Probably the best work Mr. Fischer ever did on the operatic stage was the rendition of the character Hans Sachs in "The Meistersinger." It was considered a masterpiece and the famous bass was known throughout the world as the "greatest Hans Sachs ever heard."

Although he conducted a studio in New York, Mr. Fischer made his home in Hamburg for several months each year. He went there about a year ago, because of ill health, and he never returned to this country. Mr. Suffel, who returned this week from Paris, where he studied music for about a year and a half, did not meet his old teacher during his stay in Europe, although he had heard of the latter's illness.

Mr. Fischer was born in Braunschweig, Germany, on June 13, 1838. His father and mother were both great operatic singers, while Mme. Fischer, who survives him, has also sung with leading opera companies in the East and in Europe.

POLISH DANCER MAY FIND HUSBAND ON AMERICAN TOUR

HALINA SCHMOLZ AND ALEXANDER VOLINEN.

Halina Schmolz, it is reported, will come to the United States to dance for us. She is a Polish girl only 18 years old and pretty as her pictures show. She is a member of the Imperial ballet at Warsaw. She has danced in London music halls and has made a tour of Australia and India. She is at present in Warsaw whence these photographs have just come. Now that Americans have been educated to an appreciation of ballet dancing, Halina ought to make a sensation. She is described as fair and slight and with dark brown eyes. It is reported that she thinks she may discover a husband in America. Her dancing partner is Alexander Volinen, formerly with Pavlowa.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Housewives Need Relief From Their Own Cooking.

Is there anything harder or more monotonous than getting three meals a day and eating regularly of one's own cooking? If you can trust the word of housewives, there is no task more wearying, perplexing or monotonous in the whole routine of housework than the continuous performance of preparing meals. Cooks and chefs are usually fat, but they are almost invariably light eaters, acquiring a distaste for food very early in their careers which they cannot overcome.

The self-same principle is involved with the mother who does all the cooking for her family. What she needs more than anything else is an occasional and regular change from her own pies and puddings, cakes and cookies, roasts and sauces.

A friend of mine, a married man, remarked to his wife on the return from a luncheon we had all enojyed at a mutual friend's house, "I could hardly believe my eyes the way you plied in the food, and you fairly disgraced me. Anyone would think you never got anything to eat at home."

His wife took the raillery good naturedly and replied, "I can't help it if I did. Nothing ever tasted as good to me before. You must remember that this is the first time that I have eaten outside my own house in more than a year. We have cooked everything that we have eaten with the exception of a few loaves of baker's bread, and to tell the truth, I was tired of it."

She continued, "I hate the sight of eggs and the feeling of sugar and the smell of seasonings turns me sick. I scarcely know half the time whether I have seasoned things properly or not. If I could get away from a cook stove and a flour barrel for a month and have some one prepare my meals for me I feel that I could do those meals full justice and return to another uninterrupted season of cooking and eating my own meals with delight."

So, Mr. Husband, if you should notice that your wife's appetite isn't up to the mark, invite her out to lunch or dinner or arrange it some way so that she will have something besides the fare she prepares day in and day out.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

LYCEUM—Baldwin Players in "The Littlest Rebel."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville and Motion Pictures.
NEW GRAND—Vaudeville and Motion Pictures.

Amusement Notes.

"The Littlest Rebel" has brought forth further proofs of the versatility of the Baldwin Players and the novelty of seeing the company one week in character roles and the next in those of the greatest romantic period is appreciated by the host of admirers of Mr. Baldwin's company.

The story of "The Littlest Rebel" is concerned with the efforts of Capt. Cary, a Confederate scout, to get his little girl out of the theater of war and into Richmond. He takes many and long chances, his particular adversary being the Yankee Colonel Morrison, who effects his capture, only to fall under the spell of small-girl witchery woven by Virgie, "the littlest rebel." So he becomes a conspirator to aid in the safeguarding of the child. Eventually both father and cavalry colonel fetch up in the tent of the general of the army—Grant, of course, though he is not named—where they stand in danger of execution, one as a spy and the other as a traitor. But the child is brought in and, by her winning simplicity and truth-telling, clears the situation completely.

"The Littlest Rebel" will continue tonight and tomorrow, matinee and night.

Next week, commencing Sunday matinee and night, continuing Thursday, Friday and Saturday, matinees and nights, giving altogether four matinees and four nights, a beautiful production of Marie Corelli's "Thelma," with Lola May in the title part, will be given.

Two unusual attractions are promised for next week at the Duluth Orpheum, the new bill opening Sunday afternoon.

Gertrude Coghlan will headline the bill and her vehicle is of almost as much interest as the appearance of the star herself. She has a one-act satire called "Food," which was written by W. C. De Mille and produced by Holbrook Blinn at the Princess theater in New York. This satire was one of a program of five one-act plays which created a genuine sensation in New York and ran for more than three months at the little theater. This is the first venture of Miss Coghlan in vaudeville. She should not be confused with Rosalind Coghlan, who has been seen at the Orpheum.

The other unusual attraction will be the engagement of Theodore Bendix, the composer, with his symphony players. He has a stringed quartet, which is claimed to be one of the finest musical organizations ever heard in vaudeville. Either one of these attractions would be sufficient to make the bill something out of the ordinary and in addition to the two of them the new Orpheum picture service, a travel weekly, will be shown for the first time. There will be the usual seven acts in all.

This week's bill is proving popular. It is a dance carnival, with every act on the bill but one featuring dancing or music, but the dances are so varied that it does not grow monotonous and the attendance has been growing all week. Three more performances will be given this evening, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night.

Among the acts booked for September at the Orpheum is Lasky's "Red Heads," the biggest musical comedy on the circuit.

* * *

Manager Ed. R. Salter of the new Grand theater introduced another classy bill at the popular new playhouse yesterday, and capacity audiences put their stamp of approval upon all its features. Both vaudeville and photo plays were clean and entertaining and pleased the most fastidious Grand-goer.

There is a goodly variety of entertainment in the bill and the uniform excellence of the acts was marked. The three Stewart sisters and their male escorts scored a fine success in a series of dances and pantomimics. The pretty and elaborate costuming of the girls, their charm of personality and graceful dance steps won them instant favor. They have speed, too, and executed most clever and brilliant whirlwind dances that showed them apt students of the ballot school.

The Couchell Brothers introduce a novel musical act and give it zest and life with a lot of real humor. The number of instruments these players perform on is amazing and they seem equally proficient on the xylophone, piccolo, guitar and bells. Their ragtime playing on the harp was one of the big hits of the bill as well of their act.

The international entertainers, the Howard Sisters, whose clever dances and stunning costumes kept the audiences in a merry mood introduced a pot-pourri of entertaining features, ending with a buck and wing dance. They appear in four different costumes, all becoming and suitable to the occasion. Some of their best numbers are "Honolulu Hula Girl," "The Down-Home Rag," and "That Tinkling Tango Tune."

Al Anderson and Jay Gaines are Afro-Americans with a keen sense of humor and particularly aptitude in putting over a clever line of clever talk with no end of jokes. None of their offering is plucked from the chestnut tree.

The four reels of photo plays consisted of the Heart-Selig news, a great three-act play photo called "The Masked Wrestler," and the great John Bunny in a farce picture, "The Honeymooners." This same performance will be continued today and tomorrow from 12 o'clock noon until 11 p. m.

Gibbons and O'Connell Too Late to Vote on Pope.

Rome, Sept. 4.—Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore and Cardinal O'Connell of Boston arrived here today from Naples, whither they had hurried by steamer from the United States, hoping to reach Rome in time for the conclave which yesterday elected Cardinal Della Chiesa supreme pontiff of the Roman hierarchy in succession to the late Pope Pius.

ITALY WILL KEEP ON BUILDING FOR FAIR

Rome, Sept. 4, via Paris, 11:04 a. m.—The government has decided to continue the construction of the Italian pavilion at San Francisco to be used at the Panama-Pacific exposition in 1915, with the object of participating, if possible, regardless of the European war.

This decision was reached on the suggestion of Ernesto Nathan, former mayor of Rome, who visited the United States in May and June of this year in the interests of Italian representation at San Francisco.

CASS LAKE HOTEL HAS CLOSE SHAVE.

Cass Lake, Minn., Sept. 4.—What might have proved a serious conflagration was nipped by the fast work of the fire department when the Bay View hotel was discovered to be on fire. The blaze was caused by the explosion of a coffee urn. The Bay View is a three-story building with over fifty rooms.

State Fire Marshal S. F. Fullerton was here yesterday on business connected with the condemnation proceedings regarding a building on Third avenue northwest. The building will be sold to the highest bidder.

MEAT PRICES ARE REDUCED

Lower Wholesale Figures Are Quoted in Nearly All Lines.

Fruits and Vegetables Plentiful and Selling Cheaply Through List.

Living costs are being stearily reduced in the line of meats. The market in them has been going off ever since the big advances that were announced after the outbreak of the European war at the beginning of last month, and in the opinion of packers the downward tendency still prevails.

A round-up of the Michigan street packing establishments today shows that with the exception of veal, wholesale figures are down a cent on the average as compared with a week ago. Native steers today are quoted at 13@14 cents a pound; heifers at 11½@12½ cents; mutton at 10½@11½c; pork loins at 14@15 cents, lamb at 13½@14 cents, and veal at 13@15 cents.

The lowering of meat quotations is ascribed by the trade to better receipts of livestock at packing points, and to a checking down in export trade.

It will also be pleasing for consumers to know that poultry prices are falling, and that as a dealer expressed it today, chickens are becoming a drug on the market. Receipts of live poultry have increased surprisingly, and consequently hens are being quoted at 13@14 cents, and springs at 14@15 cents a pound. It is considered by dealers that poultry is now relatively cheaper than other meat, and is not the luxury that the public generally has been taught to regard it. Said a wholesaler today: "Stewed chickens and dumplings are palatable and in that form it will go a long way in feeding a family."

Butter Prices Unchanged.

The butter market has become steady after its upturn of a week ago, and creamery quotations in tubs and prints are unchanged at 30@31 cents with jars going at 32 cents a pound. While receipts have fallen off of late, being now about the same as a year ago, and consumption is large, stocks are more abundant, for the reason that dealers hesitate to put the product into store at its present comparatively high range of prices. The export trade has also been affected by the irregularity in the foreign situation. It is noted, however, that there is considerably less butter in store now than a year ago, stocks in public warehouses on Sept. 1 being estimated at 8,000,000 pounds less. This is regarded as a market factor to be counted upon later.

Steady Western inquiry on this market is advised by the Bridgeman-Russell company, and the Victor Produce company, leading to considerable shipments down that way by both concerns.

Eggs are still quoted at 25@27 cents a dozen, and in the opinion of dealers there will be no further upturn in their prices for some time yet. Receipts are being better maintained than had been expected, while consumption is not running in excess of current marketings for the time being.

Fruits and Vegetables Cheap.

All kinds of fruits and vegetables are still being offered wholesale on a cheaper price basis than has been the case in two years, according to the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company and the Culbertson Bros. company. Peaches are feature in fruits with Washington and California varieties offering in fine quality and at low prices. California and Washington plums and pears are also to be had on a reasonable basis. Apples are now coming in freely from Michigan, Wisconsin and New York. Prices are lower all round. The first car of Western box apples for the season was received here yesterday. The market in lemons is again off, and is now about where it stood when the war began. Oranges are slightly easier, and the demand for them is said to be growing.

Vegetables are cheaper on the whole again today with supplies from over this district considerably larger than a year ago.

The potato market is weak due to large receipts, but it is thought that prices are now at their bottom as yields through the Northwest are estimated to be smaller than last season.

WAREHOUSING BILL REPORTED TO HOUSE

Will Be Pressed for Passage at This Session of Congress.

Washington, Sept. 4.—As an outgrowth of emergencies occasioned by the European war, the house committee on foreign commerce filed a favorable report on the proposed Federal supervised warehousing system for cotton, grain and other non-perishable agricultural products. The bill, a consolidation of two measures, will be pressed for action at this session.

"The dire situation confronting the cotton producers," the committee reported, "emphasizes most strikingly the uter inadequacy of the present system of marketing American standard farm crops. The essential weakness is lack of adequate storage facilities and their non-relation to the country's banking system."

The bill provides that uniform warehouse receipts will be issued on agricultural products stored in government-licensed warehouses. The system is not compulsory, however, and does not interfere with warehouse systems now organized under state or local authority.

TWO DULUTH COWS HOLD WORLD RECORDS

Younger Wrests Milk Record From Mother, But the Latter Retains Butter-Fat Mark.

The world's championship record for milk production among red-polled cows has been wrested from Pear, the famous beauty of the Jean Duluth herd, by Jean Duluth Pear, daughter of the champion. The record for butter fat production, however, is still held by the elder Pear, and as a matter of fact the Jean Duluth farm can boast of two champions instead of one.

Pear established a record of 13,160 pounds of milk in one year. Jean Duluth Pear's record for the year ending yesterday was 13,536 pounds. The mother's record for butter fat is 603.6 pounds and is still untouched. The younger cow had 546.5 pounds of butter fat to her credit. However, that will make 655 pounds of commercial butter and is considered a very high record.

George P. Grout, superintendent of the Jean Duluth farm, expressed considerable satisfaction with the records shown.

"It all goes to show," said Mr. Grout, "the value of careful breeding in cattle and what pure blood can accomplish. It also disproves the claim some skeptical breeders made that Pear was a freak cow."

CARELESS ABOUT MARRIAGE VOWS

John Baptiste Lavoy Had Three Wives at One Time.

Three wives at the same time were none too many for John Baptiste Lavoy, 41, whose matrimonial stock suffered a slump yesterday afternoon when Charlotte Lavoy, his first and bona fide spouse, told her story in the divorce court and had the marital yoke lifted from her shoulders.

The story of the careless indifference with which Lavoy viewed the sacred marriage vows was related by Mrs. Lavoy No. 1 to District Judge Dancer, who did not hesitate in granting the desired decree.

Mrs. Lavoy, who is now 42, testified that she and John Baptiste, who is 41, were married in Superior on June 10, 1895, and sailed together on smooth matrimonial seas for several years.

Six summers ago, she said, Lavoy suddenly deserted her. They were living in Superior. He came back months later but to stay only a short time before he left on another long trip. Mrs. Lavoy testified that she learned that when her husband came back to her the last time he had married another woman shortly before that.

The next she heard about him, she said, was that he had gone out West and that he had married for a third time. Mrs. Lavoy was given the custody of their five children.

J., where he will attend the annual convention of the company's agents as a special guest. Each year the society pays the expenses to the national gathering of those agents who write a certain amount of business. Mr. Oreckovsky will be accompanied by Mrs. Oreckovsky.

On their return from Cape May, Mr. Oreckovsky will attend the annual convention of the National Underwriters' association as the delegate from the Duluth branch, having been selected several months ago.

From Chicago to Cape May the insurance agents will travel in a special car, which has been chartered for the trip by the officials of the company.

STUDY OF GEOGRAPHY WILL OFFER DIFFICULTIES TO SCHOOL CHILDREN

Scene—Any school room.
Time—Any time after next Tuesday morning.
Cast—Teachers and school room full of pupils.

Teacher—Now that school has opened again, children, we will see what you remember about your studies last year. James Brown, tell us what you know about geography.

James—Geography and I don't speak anymore.

"Now, don't get fresh, James."

"Well, I'm not fresh. But geography and I don't have nothin' to do with one another anymore."

"What do you mean, young man?"

"Gosh, with this war on in Europe, I just quit studying geography. What's d'use. The map's goin' to change every month and I'm just waitin' until war's over. That's all there's to't. Geography and I don't speak anymore."

Teacher—Very well. Mary Jones tell us what is the capital of Russia.

Mary—St. Petersburg.

Shouts of right and wrong are heard from all parts of the room. The teacher finally asked Robert Smith, who almost waved his hand off in his efforts to attract her attention.

Robert—That's all wrong, teacher. The name's been changed. I don't know what it is myself. It's too hard to pronounce.

Teacher—Petrograd is the new capital, children. Now all pronounce it together.

Clarence—Say, teacher, I can bound France.

Teacher—All right, Clarence, bound that country.

Clarence—France is bound on the north by the German army, on the east by the German army, on the south by the German army and on the west by the Atlantic ocean.

Teacher—Sit down. And just for that you'll stay after school and write the word France 1,000 times. Now who can give us the capital of Belgium? Phillip, you tell the class.

Phillip—I haven't read the paper today, so I don't exactly know.

Teacher—Where is Italy, Michael?

Michael—It's neutral now, but you can't tell just when they will get into the fight.

Teacher—Give me the countries of Europe, Harold.

Harold—I can't. The kaiser has them all now.

Teacher—I guess we'll discontinue our geography lesson for today. The class is excused.

AGREE ON THE TRADE COMMISSION BILL

Findings Will Be Made Conclusive Evidence of Facts.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Agreement on disputed points in the Federal trade commission bill has been reached. Appeals from decrees of the commission against corporations would go direct to the United States court of appeals instead of the district courts, and findings of the commission would be regarded as conclusive evidence of fact instead of prima facie. From the decision of the court of appeals there would be na appeal unless the supreme court, upon application, should grant one.

"Unfair methods of competition" was substituted for "unfair competition" to be prohibited, the conferees agreeing not to attempt in the bill a definition of unfair methods of competition.

VILLAIN QUIZZED BY PARIS MAGISTRATE

Paris, Sept. 4.—Raoul Villain, the assassin of M. Jaures, the Socialist leader, was subjected to a preliminary examination yesterday before M. Drioux, the examining magistrate. Villain told the magistrate that while he was preparing a thesis at the Jesuit college at Rheims he was attacked by nervous troubles and compelled to interrupt his studies. Later he attempted literary work, in which he was opposed by his father. He said he had never had from his father the affection he had a right to expect, and claimed also that his father had prevented him from entering the Servian army at the outbreak of the war with Servia. Villain said he did not remember having declared to a functionary at Rheims that the anti-militarists were more dangerous than anarchists and ought to be suppressed.

Medical experts examined the prisoner and will report on his mental condition after the present hearing has ended.

CENSORSHIP OF THE WIRELESS SETTLED.

Washington, Sept. 4.—President Wilson announced that he and Secretary Bryan had agreed on a memorandum for the settlement of censorship at wireless stations.

Secretary Bryan later announced that the question of the use of the wireless by European belligerent powers had been settled by an arrangement through which all of the powers would be permitted to send and receive messages in code or cipher.

SELLING FOOD IS MERELY SIDELINE, IS CITY'S ANSWER

St. Louis Cafe Frequented By Disorderly Persons, Is the Charge.

Hearing on Injunctional Action Will Be Held Saturday.

That the New St. Louis hotel cafe is being conducted as an unlicensed drinking place where the sale of food is merely incidental to the consumption of liquor and that it is frequented by disorderly persons is the charge which J. J. Irwin, proprietor of the hotel, bar and cafe, must face in connection with his fight in the courts to prevent the city council from revoking his license to sell intoxicating liquors.

More Charges Against Proprietor.

In an answer to Mr. Irwin's injunctional action filed against the city commissioners in which he seeks an order from the court restraining the council from taking steps to revoke his license at the St. Louis, Mr. Irwin is also charged with selling liquor in an unlicensed place.

The city's answer was served on H. J. Grannis and E. J. Kenney, attorneys for Mr. Irwin, late yesterday afternoon. The order to show cause why the restraining order which was issued by the court Saturday should not be continued as a temporary injunction until a trial of the issues on their merits might be had, was returnable in district court this morning. The case came up before Judge Fesler but owing to the fact that Attorney Grannis, who had recently been retained in the case, had had little opportunity to familiarize himself with the pleadings, the court adjourned the hearing until tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. The case will be the first one on the special term calendar to be taken up.

That the city council is not relying entirely upon the Hicken liquor ordinance developed today. The answer alleges that Mr. Irwin has also been guilty of violating an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of unlicensed drinking places within the city of Duluth. It is also known as the blind-pig ordinance.

"Unlicensed Drinking Place."

Among other things, it provides that "it shall be unlawful for any person, by himself, or by combining with others, to keep an unlicensed drinking place, or in any way aid or abet in keeping any such place within the corporate limits of the city of Duluth." Violation of the ordinance constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100 or inprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty nor more than eighty-five days.

The answer alleges that Mr. Irwin, in combination with the hotel company, of which he is president, did sell intoxicating liquors in an unlicensed drinking place in the St. Louis hotel in violation of the ordinance and that as a result he has forfeited his right to sell intoxicating liquors in Duluth, by virtue of another ordinance which provides that "in any case where a license has been granted to any person, and it shall thereafter appear to the satisfaction of the council that the holder of such license is not of good moral character, or has violated any of the provisions of this ordinance, the council may revoke the said license."

Run in Disorderly Manner.

With reference to the hotel, the answer sets forth that it is run on what is known as the European plan and has in connection a large cafe which is operated during the late hours of the evening and devoted to entertainments. It is further alleged that "the said hotel and the cafe in said hotel is run in a disorderly manner and is frequented by disorderly persons." It also contends that it has been the practice of Mr. Irwin to sell in the licensed room of the hotel great quantities of liquor to be delivered in the cafe, and there to be consumed after the hour of 11 o'clock at night. The consumption of liquor in the cafe is the principal business conducted there during the later hours of the evening, the answer states, and the sale of food is incidental merely to the consumption of liquor in the cafe.

Blind-Pig Charge.

The city sets up as a further defense of its course that on Aug. 13, 1914, Mr. Irwin violated the "blind-pig" ordinance by selling in an unlicensed drinking place. Last week two waiters, Harvey Roscoe and George Rosko, and a bus boy, George Sarros, were convicted in police court of having illegally sold liquor in the dining room of the hotel. Later a third waiter, Frank Wright, pleaded guilty to the same charge.

The hotel management's contention is that the liquor so sold was contrary to orders and outside of the bar, which was closed at the time, as required by law. When the application for a temporary injunction comes up tomorrow, it will be resisted by the city's legal machinery. Harvey Clapp, city attorney, will appear for the municipality and will ask the court to dismiss the action and discharge the restraining order against the council, which is now in effect.

FINNS FACE STARVATION

Duluthian Returns With Pitiable Story of His Countrymen.

Russian Confiscation and Poor Crops Wreak Havoc.

Poor crops in Finland and the confiscation of property there by the Russian military government will cause the death of thousands of people in that province is the prophecy of George J. Humon of Duluth, a prominent Duluth Finnish Socialist, who returned yesterday from a trip to Finland, where he has been visiting with his mother since early last spring. He had intended bringing his mother to Duluth, but her ill health made the trip for her impossible.

Facing Starvation.

The suffering in Finland as a result of the war was described as most pitiful by Mr. Humon. All the horses belonging to the farmers have been confiscated by the Russians for the army and transportation purposes, and one cow out of every five has been taken. The crops are extremely poor and food of all kinds is so high that the poor cannot get enough to eat. So scarce has flour become, he said, that no one in the city of Ulcoborg, where Mr. Humon was, can buy more than twenty pounds at a time, and the prices are prohibitive for the majority.

The Russian military rule is described as despotic and cruel, with soldiers stationed eyerywhere to enforce the government regulations and prevent a German invasion.

Mr. Humon said that he was never so glad in his life that he was an American citizen, as he was when war was declared over there. He was allowed to go at will protected by his passports while citizens of European countries were treated by the Russians with a high hand. About 400 German students and instructors in the schools of Ulcoborg were arrested he said and placed in prison. Their wives and families were allowed to see them only at certain times, and these prisoners' families were left in straitened circumstances, poverty and possible starvation staring them in the face.

Russia Watches Socialists.

Russia is keeping close watch over the Socialists, he said. No open meetings are now allowed, and if an indoor meeting is held, an advance program must be given the police and officers are on hand to watch all the proceedings. No one is allowed to discuss the war or speak against it.

"It would be impossible for Russia to get the Finns to fight in her behalf," said Mr. Humon. "Russia would not dare to place any large body of them in one body for fear of their going over to the enemy. If Russia does demand the Finns to fight, they will distribute them in small numbers throughout the Russian army. The German and Finnish working classes are in close synuathy."

Mr. Humon's return trip was made without any important incident occurring. He went from Ulcoborg to Christiania, Norway, and from there he took a vessel which made a wide circuit of the British Isles by the North route and thence across the Atlantic to New York.

Buy him a Columbia school suit.

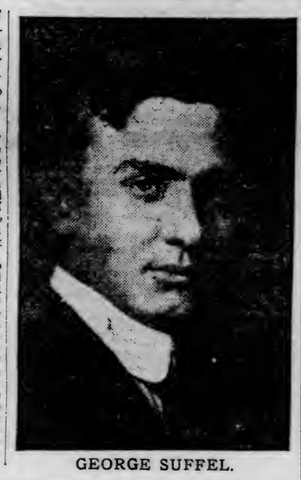

ESCAPES FROM FRANCE, BUT LEAVES HIS BAGGAGE BEHIND

Compelled to cut short his study of music in Paris, because of the European war, George Suffel of 1401 East Second street, is back in Duluth, after experiencing much difficulty in securing passage and sufficient funds to start for home. He was compelled to leave his trunk in Paris.

Mr. Suffel left Duluth about a year and a half ago to study music in the French capital for a period of three years. When the war broke out many of the teachers were compelled to join the ranks, and the others dropped their classes because of the general unrest. Although he had planned to study for another year, Mr. Suffel gave up his plans and decided to start for home.

For several days he was unable to cash any of his travelers checks and he was compelled to subsist on what little cash he had. He waited in line for four days at the office of the American Express company, before his checks were cashed for him. He finally left Paris on Aug. 15 for London and thence to Glasgow, the only place he could get a reservation on a liner.

"Although I experienced a little trouble," said Mr. Suffel at his home this morning, "it was not so hard for me as for large families, or even couples. One person could manage to get along and also obtain a single passage more easily than a party."

GEORGE SUFFEL.

TERRY HAS AX FOR STRAW HATS

Detective Lieut. Norman Terry cannot be arrested for carrying concealed weapons but today he showed himself heartless enough to carry an ax—an ordinary one, too, generally used for chopping wood—which he says he is using to chop up straw hats.

A few days ago Mayor Prince issued a more or less serious proclamation to the effect that it would be "open season" for straw hats after Sept. 1. No other officer than Lieut. Terry has been seen who takes the order literally; but the fact remains that several of his acquaintances had to beg mighty hard with the devastating detective today to keep from going back to the office or the house bareheaded.

ANTWERP FORTS FIRE AT ZEPPELIN

Mrs. Mattie Vick Perry, who died May 11, 1914, at Russellville, Ky., was possessed of real property valued at $15,000 in St. Louis county, according to the petition of her son, Wesley Vick Perry, for letters of administration on her estate filed yesterday afternoon with the probate court. The realty is location in section 22, 49-15.

School Board Meeting.

The school board will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening and as this will be the meeting immediately before the beginning of the next school year, many extra routine matters will have to be attended to. The chief business of the evening, however, will be that of letting the contracts for the proposed new Harriet Beecher Stowe school at New Duluth. The building committee has already decided who are the lucky bidders but nothing is given out until the recommendations will have been handed in to the board as a whole this evening. The school will cost in the neighborhood of $69,000.

Widow Sole Heir.

Simon Samuel Altschul, who died in this city June 15, 1912, aged 72, left personal property valued at $2,500, all of which is willed to his widow, Frances Altschul, 47, according to the latter's petition for appointment as executrix, filed in probate court today. The decedent also owned real estate in North Dakota which was bequeathed to her. Estelle Altschul, a daughter, aged 14, is not mentioned in the will.

Rotarians Meet.

The Duluth Rotary club held, last night, its initial meeting of the new fiscal year at the Commercial club, and took dinner as an opening of the evening's program. The attendance was slight, as most opening meetings register, and many of the things planned to be started at it were put off until the next meeting. However, the business of the new year was begun and at the next monthly meeting it is hoped that there will be many committee reports and much new work for the year to be launched.

State Fair Exhibits.

St. Louis county sent its exhibits for the Minnesota state fair yesterday in a special car.

Woman Charges Cruelty.

Alleging that for the last five years her husband has treated her with cruelty and that he has neglected to provide for her during the last two years, Carrie Le Grange yesterday filed suit for divorce from George B. Le Grange, to whom she was married at Wonewac, Wis., Sept. 4, 1892. She asks for the custody of a minor child, alimony and attorney's fees.

Expects Big Market Day.

Mayor Prince is expecting a bigger day at the public market in the armory, Second avenue east and First street, tomorrow than last Saturday, when all previous records were broken. Twenty-one farmers were present then and more than that are looked for tomorrow. The mayor says that the weather prevented several farmers from coming in last week, the rain having interfered with the gathering of garden products and having made the roads heavy.

Woman Gets Divorce.

Ella M. Schuler, 30, secured a divorce from John M. Schuler, 39, in Judge Ensign's division of the district court yesterday afternoon. She testified that since her husband had deserted her in June, 1910, he had made no provisions for her support. They were married in this city, May 21, 1908.

Fire Losses in August.

During August the fire department responded to forty-two alarms. The losses aggregated $8,139.46, covered by $126,200 of insurance, according to the monthly report submitted to Commissioner Hicken by Chief Randall this morning. Earl Vincent was appointed pipeman on No. 4 company.

Seek "Sleepy Looking Man."

The police have been asked to look for John Greely, "a sleepy-looking man who was very much wide awake when he escaped from the work farm yesterday," as stated in the "kick book." He is described as 29 years old, 5 feet 8½ inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds. He wore a gray mackinaw and dark shirt and trousers.

MAY ASK JAPAN TO BE GUARD IN PERSIA

England Might Be Embarrassed There By the Turks.

Washington, Sept. 4.—In diplomatic quarters today it was believed that should Turkey declare war on the allies and send ships into the Persian gulf, England would ask Japan to take steps to protect British interests in Persia and expel the Turkish invaders. Japan's appearance in the Persian gulf would be only an extension of her action under her alliance with England. An attack on Persia by Turkey would be a blow at both Russia and England.

SAYS KAISER IS IN FRANCE

Berlin Reports Him With Crown Prince at Army's Head.

Bare Fact of "Greatest Battle in History" Is Reported.

London, Sept. 4.—Reference to the titanic struggle between the German army under Crown Prince Frederick William and the forces of France, which took place between Rheims and Verdun Wednesday, is made again today from Berlin. If the Berlin statement proves correct—that three-quarters of a million troops were fighting in that region Wednesday in the "greatest battle of history"—it would explain much of what has been happening in the western field.

Kaiser There in Person.

To bring the troops in that region anything like the number of 750,000, enormous French forces must have been concentrated at the expense of the French left flank, where the Germans have been making progress with their brilliant dash on Paris. The battle along the Rheims-Verdun line has been claimed, in an earlier message from Berlin, as a victory for the army of the crown prince, who is reported to have the assistance of Emperor William, who was present.

That nothing further concerning such a historic fight, now two days old, has come through from any source, is regarded as remarkable even in these days when virtually all springs of information are under political seal.

No Pessimism From Paris.

The French official communications continue to show an utter absence of pessimism and they are generally regarded as indicating that the situation of the allies is far from being as bad as might be conjectured by superficial observers judging from the stereotyped announcements of retirements. Some correspondents go so far as to suggest that the invaders of French soil have been fought to a standstill.

There is no confirmation of the report from Berne, Switzerland, that a German force under Gen. von Delmling has been obliged to take refuge in Switzerland to avoid capture by the French.

Asquith Says It Has But Begun.

In an appeal to the nation to join the colors, made by Premier Asquith in Guild hall today, the speaker said he recognized that the present is only the early stages of what is going to be a protracted struggle.

The premier made also this statement:

"I had abundant grounds for pride and comfort in whatever direction I looked."

WARSHIP NOT TO GO INTO DARDANELLES

Washington, Sept. 4.—Secretary Bryan said today that the American naval yacht Scorpion would meet the cruiser North Carolina outside of the Dardanelles to take off the $150,000 in gold for the relief of Americans.

The secretary said that while no formal reply had yet been made to the communication of the Turkish goverenment that it would be unsafe for the North Carolina to venture through the mined waters of the Dardanelles, the American government plans to use the Scorpion, as suggested by the grand vizier.

Two brothers already have a well established business there. One of them is retiring and Mr. Schulenberg will take his place.

Mr. Schulenberg came to Duluth in 1894 and he has been in the grocery business here since that time.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. Schulenberg and their daughter.

Martin Sauter, who was defeated in the primary election Tuesday for sheriff on the Democratic ticket by one vote by George Commiskey intends to ask for a recount according to announcement made by Mr. Sauter. He claims that all of his second and third choice votes were not counted and that if they had been he would have been the nominee.

GIRL FROM FARM IS GIVEN LIQUOR

Found Intoxicated By the Police—Now Seeks Employment.

Mamie Johnson, 19 years old, who said she left her home on a farm in Southern Minnesota but two weeks ago, was arrested about 10 o'clock last night on a charge of drunkenness. In police court this corning she said that she had been given liquor by a man whom she met on the street and who took her to a restaurant. She said she was trying to find her way to her home when she was picked up by a patrolman. She didn't want to return home because she was ashamed to go back without any money. She was sent to the municipal lodging house pending an effort to secure employment for her.

Hearing on Injunctional Action Will Be Held Saturday.

That the New St. Louis hotel cafe is being conducted as an unlicensed drinking place where the sale of food is merely incidental to the consumption of liquor and that it is frequented by disorderly persons is the charge which J. J. Irwin, proprietor of the hotel, bar and cafe, must face in connection with his fight in the courts to prevent the city council from revoking his license to sell intoxicating liquors.

More Charges Against Proprietor.

In an answer to Mr. Irwin's injunctional action filed against the city commissioners in which he seeks an order from the court restraining the council from taking steps to revoke his license at the St. Louis, Mr. Irwin is also charged with selling liquor in an unlicensed place.

The city's answer was served on H. J. Grannis and E. J. Kenney, attorneys for Mr. Irwin, late yesterday afternoon. The order to show cause why the restraining order which was issued by the court Saturday should not be continued as a temporary injunction until a trial of the issues on their merits might be had, was returnable in district court this morning. The case came up before Judge Fesler but owing to the fact that Attorney Grannis, who had recently been retained in the case, had had little opportunity to familiarize himself with the pleadings, the court adjourned the hearing until tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. The case will be the first one on the special term calendar to be taken up.

That the city council is not relying entirely upon the Hicken liquor ordinance developed today. The answer alleges that Mr. Irwin has also been guilty of violating an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of unlicensed drinking places within the city of Duluth. It is also known as the blind-pig ordinance.

"Unlicensed Drinking Place."

Among other things, it provides that "it shall be unlawful for any person, by himself, or by combining with others, to keep an unlicensed drinking place, or in any way aid or abet in keeping any such place within the corporate limits of the city of Duluth." Violation of the ordinance constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100 or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty nor more than eighty-five days.

The answer alleges that Mr. Irwin, in combination with the hotel company, of which he is president, did sell intoxicating liquors in an unlicensed drinking place in the St. Louis hotel in violation of the ordinance and that as a result he has forfeited his right to sell intoxicating liquors in Duluth, by virtue of another ordinance which provides that "in any case where a license has been granted to any person, and it shall thereafter appear to the satisfaction of the council that the holder of such license is not of good moral character, or has violated any of the provisions of this ordinance, the council may revoke the said license."

Run in Disorderly Manner.

With reference to the hotel, the answer sets forth that it is run on what is known as the European plan and has in connection a large cafe which is operated during the late hours of the evening and devoted to entertainments. It is further alleged that "the said hotel and the cafe in said hotel is run in a disorderly manner and is frequented by disorderly persons." It also contends that it has been the practice of Mr. Irwin to sell in the licensed room of the hotel great quantities of liquor to be delivered in the cafe, and there to be consumed after the hour of 11 o'clock at night. The consumption of liquor in the cafe is the principal business conducted there during the later hours of the evening, the answer states, and the sale of food is incidental merely to the consumption of liquor in the cafe.

Blind-Pig Charge.

The city sets up as a further defense of its course that on Aug. 12, 1914, Mr. Irwin violated the "blind-pig" ordinance by selling in an unlicensed drinking place. Last week two waiters, Harvey Roscoe and George Rosko, and a bus boy, George Sarros, were convicted in police court of having illegally sold liquor in the dining room of the hotel. Later a third waiter, Frank Wright, pleaded guilty to the same charge.

The hotel management's contention is that the liquor so sold was contrary to orders and outside of the bar, which was closed at the time, as required by law. When the application for a temporary injunction comes up tomorrow, it will be resisted by the city's legal machinery, Harvey Chapp, city attorney, will appear for the municipality and will ask the court to dismiss the action and discharge the restraining order against the council, which is now in effect.

FINNS FACE STARVATION

Duluthian Returns With Pitiable Story of His Countrymen.

Russian Confiscation and Poor Crops Wreak Havoc.

Poor crops in Finland and the confiscation of property there by the Russian military government will cause the death of thousands of people in that province is the prophecy of George J. Humon of Duluth, a prominent Duluth Finnish Socialist, who returned yesterday from a trip to Finland, where he has been visiting with his mother since early last spring. He had intended bringing his mother to Duluth, but her ill health made the trip for her impossible.

Facing Starvation.

The suffering in Finland as a result of the war was described as most pitiful by Mr. Humon. All the horses belonging to the farmers have been confiscated by the Russians for the army and transportation purposes, and one cow out of every five has been taken. The crops are extremely poor and food of all kinds is so high that the poor cannot get enough to eat. So scarce has flour become, he said, that no one in the city of Ulcoborg, where Mr. Humon was, can buy more than twenty pounds at a time, and the prices are prohibitive for the majority.

The Russian military rule is described as despotic and cruel, with soldiers stationed everywhere to enforce the government regulations and prevent a German invasion.

Mr. Humon said that he was never so glad in his life that he was an American citizen, as he was when war was declared over there. He was allowed to go at will protected by his passports while citizens of European countries were treated by the Russians with a high hand. About 400 German students and instructors in the schools of Ulcoborg were arrested he said and placed in prison. Their wives and families were allowed to see them only at certain times, and these prisoners' families were left in straitened circumstances, poverty and possible starvation staring them in the face.

Russia Watches Socialists.

Russia is keeping close watch over the Socialists, he said. No open meetings are now allowed, and if an indoor meeting is held, an advance program must be given the police and officers are on hand to watch all the proceedings. No one is allowed to discuss the war or speak against it.

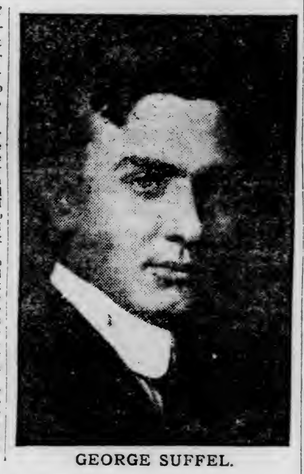

"It would be impossible for Russia to get the Finns to fight in her behalf," said Mr. Humon. "Russia would not dare to place any large body of them in one body for fear of their going over to the enemy. If Russia does demand the Finns to fight, they will distribute them in small numbers throughout the Russian army. The German and Finnish working classes are in close sympathy."

Mr. Humon's return trip was made without any important incident occurring. He went from Ulcoborg to Christiania, Norway, and from there he took a vessel which made a wide circuit of the British Isles by the North route and thence across the Atlantic to New York.

ESCAPES FROM FRANCE, BUT LEAVES HIS BAGGAGE BEHIND

Compelled to cut short his study of music in Paris, because of the European war, George Suffel of 1401 East Second street, is back in Duluth, after experiencing much difficulty in securing passage and sufficient funds to start for home. He was compelled to leave his trunk in Paris.

GEORGE SUFFEL.

Mr. Suffel left Duluth about a year and a half ago to study music in the French capital for a period of three years. When the war broke out many of the teachers were compelled to join the ranks, and the others dropped their classes because of the general unrest. Although he had planned to study for another year, Mr. Suffel gave up his plans and decided to start for home.

For several days he was unable to cash any of his travelers checks and he was compelled to subsist on what little cash he had. He waited in line for four days at the office of the American Express company, before his checks were cashed for him. He finally left Paris on Aug. 15 for London and thence to Glasgow, the only place he could get a reservation on a liner.

"Although I experienced a little trouble," said Mr. Suffel at his home this morning, "it was not so hard for me as for large families, or even couples. One person could manage to get along and also obtain a single passage more easily than a party."

TERRY HAS AX FOR STRAW HATS

Detective Lieut. Norman Terry cannot be arrested for carrying concealed weapons but today he showed himself heartless enough to carry an ax—an ordinary one, too, generally used for chopping wood—which he says he is using to chop up straw hats.

A few days ago Mayor Prince issued a more or less serious proclamation to the effect that it would be "open season" for straw hats after Sept. 1. No other officer than Lieut. Terry has been seen who takes the order literally; but the fact remains that several of his acquaintances had to beg mighty hard with the devastating detective today to keep from going back to the office or the house bareheaded.

ANTWERP FORTS FIRE AT ZEPPELIN

Antwerp, Sept. 4, via Paris, 3 p. m.—A Zeppelin airship appeared over the city at 3:55 o'clock this morning. It was greeted with a fusillade from the forts, but it is not known what damage was inflicted.

What are believed to be the oldest printing blocks in the world, dating back at least 800 years, recently were discovered in an old building back of a Buddhist monastery in Korea.

The realty is location in section 22, 49-15.

School Board Meeting.

The school board will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening and as this will be the meeting immediately before the beginning of the next school year, many extra routine matters will have to be attended to. The chief business of the evening, however, will be that of letting the contracts for the proposed new Harriet Beecher Stowe school at New Duluth. The building committee has already decided who are the lucky bidders but nothing is given out until the recommendations will have been handed in to the board as a whole this evening. The school will cost in the neighborhood of $69,000.

Widow Sole Heir.

Simon Samuel Altschul, who died in this city June 15, 1912, aged 72, left personal property valued at $2,500, all of which is willed to his widow, Frances Altschul, 47, according to the latter's petition for appointment as executrix, filed in probate court today. The decedent also owned real estate in North Dakota which was bequeathed to her. Estelle Altschul, a daughter, aged 14, is not mentioned in the will.

Rotarians Meet.

The Duluth Rotary club held, last night, its initial meeting of the new fiscal year at the Commercial club, and took dinner as an opening of the evening's program. The attendance was slight, as most opening meetings register, and many of the things planned to be started at it were put off until the next meeting. However, the business of the new year was begun and at the next monthly meeting it is hoped that there will be many committee reports and much new work for the year to be launched.

State Fair Exhibits.

St. Louis county sent its exhibits for the Minnesota state fair yesterday in a special car.

Woman Charges Cruelty.

Alleging that for the last five years her husband has treated her with cruelty and that he has neglected to provide for her during the last two years, Carrie Le Grange yesterday filed suit for divorce from George B. Le Grange, to whom she was married at Wonewac, Wis., Sept. 4, 1892. She asks for the custody of a minor child, alimony and attorney's fees.

Expects Big Market Day.

Mayor Prince is expecting a bigger day at the public market in the armory, Second avenue east and First street, tomorrow than last Saturday, when all previous records were broken. Twenty-one farmers were present then and more than that are looked for tomorrow. The mayor says that the weather prevented several farmers from coming in last week, the rain having interfered with the gathering of garden products and having made the roads heavy.

Woman Gets Divorce.

Ella M. Schuler, 30, secured a divorce from John M. Schuler, 39, in Judge Ensign's division of the district court yesterday afternoon. She testified that since her husband had deserted her in June, 1910, he had made no provisions for her support. They were married in this city, May 21, 1908.

Fire Losses in August.

During August the fire department responded to forty-two alarms. The losses aggregated $8,139.46, covered by $126,200 of insurance, according to the monthly report submitted to Commissioner Hicken by Chief Randall this morning. Earl Vincent was appointed pipeman on No. 4 company.

Seek "Sleepy Looking Man."

The police have been asked to look for John Greely, "a sleepy-looking man who was very much wide awake when he escaped from the work farm yesterday," as stated in the "kick book." He is described as 29 years old, 5 feet 8½ inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds. He wore a gray mackinaw and dark shirt and trousers.

MAY ASK JAPAN TO BE GUARD IN PERSIA

England Might Be Embarrassed There By the Turks.

Washington, Sept. 4.—In diplomatic quarters today it was believed that should Turkey declare war on the allies and send ships into the Persian gulf, England would ask Japan to take steps to protect British interests in Persia and expel the Turkish invaders Japan's appearance in the Persian gulf would be only an extension of her action under her alliance with England. An attack on Persia by Turkey would be a blow at both Russia and England.

SAYS KAISER IS IN FRANCE

Berlin Reports Him With Crown Prince at Army's Head.

Bare Fact of "Greatest Battle in History" Is Reported.

London, Sept. 4.—Reference to the titanic struggle between the German army under Crown Prince Frederick William and the forces of France, which took place between Rheims and Verdun Wednesday, is made again today from Berlin. If the Berlin statement proves correct—that three-quarters of a million troops were fighting in that region Wednesday in the "greatest battle of history"—it would explain much of what has been happening in the western field.

Kaiser There in Person.

To bring the troops in that region anything like the number of 750,000, enormous French forces must have been concentrated at the expense of the French left flank, where the Germans have been making progress with their brilliant dash on Paris. The battle along the Rheims-Verdun line has been claimed, in an earlier message from Berlin, as a victory for the army of the crown prince, who is reported to have the assistance of Emperor William, who was present.

That nothing further concerning such a historic fight, now two days old, has come through from any source, is regarded as remarkable even in these days when virtually all springs of information are under political seal.

No Pessimism From Paris.

The French official communications continue to show an utter absence of pessimism and they are generally regarded as indicating that the situation of the allies is far from being as bad as might be conjectured by superficial observers judging from the stereotyped announcements of retirements. Some correspondents go so far as to suggest that the invaders of French soil have been fought to a standstill.

There is no confirmation of the report from Berne, Switzerland, that a German force under Gen. von Deimling has been obliged to take refuge in Switzerland to avoid capture by the French.

Asquith Says It Has But Begun.

In an appeal to the nation to join the colors, made by Premier Asquith in Guild hall today, the speaker said he recognized that the present is only the early stages of what is going to be a protracted struggle.

The premier made also this statement:

"I had abundant grounds for pride and comfort in whatever direction I looked."

WARSHIP NOT TO GO INTO DARDANELLES

Washington, Sept. 4.—Secretary Bryan said today that the American naval yacht Scorpion would meet the cruiser North Carolina outside of the Dardanelles to take off the $150,000 in gold for the relief of Americans.

The secretary said that while no formal reply had yet been made to the communication of the Turkish government that it would be unsafe for the North Carolina to venture through the mined waters of the Dardanelles, the American government plans to use the Scorpion, as suggested by the grand viziec.

Found Intoxicated By the Police—Now Seeks Employment.

Mamie Johnson, 19 years old, who said she left her home on a farm in Southern Minnesota but two weeks ago, was arrested about 10 o'clock last night on a charge of drunkenness. In police court this corning she said that she had been given liquor by a man whom she met on the street and who took her to a restaurant. She said she was trying to find her way to her home when she was picked up by a patrolman. She didn't want to return home because she was ashamed to go back without any money. She was sent to the municipal lodging house pending an effort to secure employment for her.

ON THE IRON RANGES

ST. LOUIS COUNTY FAIR NOW RUNNING FULL BLAST

Great Throng Is Expected Saturday When Many Duluthians Will Attend.

Displays of Agricultural Wealth Are Subjects of Favorable Comment.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Louis county fair got under way yesterday. Although it was clear and a trifle cool the attendance for the first day came up to expectations. The weather is more favorable today being sunny and fairly warm and the indications are that there will be a large crowd out this afternoon.

This is Vermilion and Mesaba range day. The 2:14 trot, the 2:22 trot or pace and the special running race are the speed events for today. Lady Heart belonging to P. R. Olston of Fargo is a favorite. The purses for the three events respectively are $400, $300 and $100.

De Lloyd Thompson, the aviator, will make two excellent flights from the field on the fair grounds. All concessions are running full blast and every one is having a good time. Several special trains and many special cars on the electric line were run to bring the hundreds of visitors. The weather was a great improvement over yesterday.

Fun For Duluthians.

Tomorrow, Duluth day, will be the big day of the week. Speed events for that day are especially attractive.

The program of races and the entries tomorrow follows:

Thursday's Races.

A slow and heavy race course and unpleasant weather were the difficulties under which the management of the fair association labored in staging yesterday afternoon's race program. Two harness races and one running race proved exciting, the winner of the several laps being nip and tuck for first place every time.

In the 2:13 pace event, Lady Heart, the bay mare owned by P. R. Olson of Fargo and driven for two heats by Bay Heart and the other three heats by William Fitzgerald, and Ashland Lockhart, the bay horse driven by Lockhart and owned by J. T. Smith of Fargo, tied for first in points, but since Lady Heart won first in three out of five heats, she was awarded the first money. Lockhart took second and Zip Bang, bay horse owned by J. T. Smith of Fargo, took third money. The purse offered was $400.

Fritz Randall, the bay gelding pacer owned by J. Bradford of Crookston and driven by Wilet Shelden, easily took first money in the 2:30 class by winning three laps out of four. E. R. Beaman's sorrel mare from Moorhead, driven by Allerton, took second place in that event.

The running race, although short, was very exciting, especially the last lap, when Chiltondam, a bay mare owned by G. W. Williams, and Little Chub, the bay gelding owned by S. Warner, were on the home stretch neck-and-neck. William Mason rode Chiltondam and Nakapoo rode Little Chub.

C. A. Hitchcock of Crookston was official starter and one of the judges. J. R. Harrington was scorer and M. H. Cupples and Dr. Mason were the other judges. A. E. Dyer, Peter McDermott and A. Branhard were timers.

The lineup in the 2:13 pace and the positions at the end of each lap were:

Name—	1.	2.	3.	4.	5.
Idle Time	3	4	4	4	4
Zip Bang	2	1	3	3	2
Ashland Lockhart	1	2	2	2	3
Lady Heart	4	3	1	1	1

Time made by the winner of each lap was: First, 2:20 flat; second, 2:19¼; third, 2:19½; fourth, 2:22, and fifth, 2:25.

In the 2:30 pace the horses lined up as follows:

Name—	1.	2.	3.	4.
Queen Alice	2	3	4	4
Chestola	4	1	2	2
McClellan	3	2	3	3
Kingsley	5	4	5	5
Fritz Randall	1	5	1	1

Fastest time in each heat was: First, 2:29¼; second, 2:29¼; third, 2:29½, and fourth, 2:25½.

In the running race Chiltondam took two straight heats. The first was made in :53 flat and the second in :50 flat. A $100 purse was given in this event. A $300 purse was offered in the 2:30 event.

Fine Farm Exhibits.

There is much at the fair to delight the eye of the true farmer. Never since the organization of the association has there been such a wealth of agricultural exhibits as is now on display in the agricultural building. St. Louis county would do itself proud at any state fair with an exhibit of such variety and quality as is being shown this year.

The D. & I. R. railway experimental farm at Meadowlands has an excellent and varied display of vegetables, grasses, melons, grains, corn and other farm products. The iron ore exhibit is one of the features of the display.

Bear River Display.

Farmers residing in the Bear River vicinity have put in a great deal of work on their exhibit, which is a beauty. In race track vernacular the exhibits from Chisholm, Goodlands, Bear River, Swan River and Sturgeon Lake neighborhoods and all other parts of the county vie with each other in a neck-to-neck competition.

The children's garden plot exhibits occupy the center of the stage, so to speak, being placed in the show windows of the agricultural building. At the west end of the building is the school work exhibit, consisting of specimens in penmanship, drawing, manual training, forging and every other subject.

In the center of the hall are several booths in which the industrial products are shown. Several kinds of shoes manufactured in the Zenith City are shown at one booth and canned goods and manufacturers' products at another booth.

To the lovers of the forest and the chase, the forestry exhibit is of particular interest. It shows in a striking manner the rapid destruction of our magnificent pineries, the ruthless exploitation of our forest wealth and the desolate condition in which some of our cut-over areas remain. It makes one plain the only remedy for existing conditions is to pass an amendment to the state Constitution.

Fine Livestock.

Some of the record-breaking stock of the state and even the world are owned and kept on St. Louis farms. Many of the best are on exhibition, among them the herd of hogs from the homestead of the noted pugilist, Pal Brown. Pal, besides being a top-notch exponent of the manly art of self-defense, is an enthusiastic agriculturalist and spends his idle moments on his farm near Chisholm.

In close competition with wheat, the staff of life is milk, the fountain of youth. All bossies are valuable, but the few herds that have been found especially so in this neck of the woods are the Holstein, the Guernsey, the Jersey, the Red Poll and the Short Horn. Each of these breeds is represented by one or more herds.

Never in the history of the county has there been such a collection of the domestic fowl as is being shown here. There are springers, and old hens and cockey roosters that make the hills reverberate with their proud cock-a doodle-doos. There are brown Leghorns, white Leghorns, Plymouth Rocks, and any number of laying and setting breeds.

The domestic art hall and the women's department contain tasty specimens of fancy work and needle work, drawing, painting, cooking and baking, preserves, jellies and other exhibits of feminine handiwork. A splendid library exhibit and a display of goods from the Patrick woolen mills combined with the others, makes this the best exhibit ever held in these departments.

Yesterday was Chisholm and Hibbing day and that fact was brought home by the efficient musical work of the Chisholm Commercial band. The excellent musical organization from the neighboring village was most ably assisted in producing sweet strains for the benefit and entertainment of the public by the Ely Kid band, which is composed of school boys, few of whom have grown out of short pants. The kid band was one of the features of yesterday's program.

CHISHOLM IS DOING PAVING.

Chisholm, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Men who have been working on the cement sidewalks on First and Second avenues yesterday finished the work and were at once transferred to the paving on Third avenue which is being rushed as fast as possible. There will be about a mile of this street paved before cold weather if possible, as it is the intention of the council to pave from the high school building to the Lincoln school. The storm sewer which is under construction from Walnut street and Fifth avenue to the lake, comprising a distance of about ten blocks, will in all probability be completed within the next week. Works in all lines for the city has progressed very well, in spite of the rainy weather which has prevailed during the past two weeks.

EVELETHIAN SAW WAR EXCITEMENT

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 4.—Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. More of Eveleth have returned from a three months' tour in Europe with a party of about 150 American surgeons and their wives. The surgical part of the tour practically ended with the London session of the Clinical Congress of Surgeons of America, which was the principal object of the trip. The itinerary included France, Switzerland, Bavaria, Austria, Germany (with a trip down the Rhine), Belgium, Holland, England and Scotland.

Saw Royal Funeral.

The party reached Vienna in time to witness the funeral procession of the crown prince of Austria and his consort at 11 p. m. and later were in Brussels during the ceremonial reception of the lord mayor of London, whose visit there was presumed to have some bearing on the impending war.

"When the war broke out between Austria and Servia there was a great deal of excitement in London among all classes of people," said Dr. More, "which became more intense when it was known that England would take part. The newspapers were issuing extras and things were happening so rapidly that it was hard to keep track of them and know what it was all about.

"The recruiting offices everywhere were enlisting thousands of men and shipping them to various points. Most of the soldiers were young men and boys, many of them not more than 18 years of age. They were usually accompanied to the train by large numbers of women, their mothers, sisters, wives and sweethearts. To the credit of the women, it must be said that they sent their soldiers away bravely, with very sober faces but without any hysterical demonstration. They all took it very seriously and seemed to mean business.

"One interesting sight was a company of 700 or 800 Scottish lads in kilts, carrying their guns and marching to the train, preceded by the bagpipes and drums and followed by the hospital corps with ambulances and stretchers and a bicycle corps with first-aid equipment; while from another direction came a procession of cannon, dray loads of shovels, guns, ammunition and army equipment. Everything was done rapidly and in a business-like manner."

AUSTRIANS CANNOT GET HOME TO WAR

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although there are believed to be at least 1,000 Austrians living on the Mesaba range, many of whom have seen service in wars, anxious to go back and fight for their country, they cannot go because of lack of means to send them from New York or other Atlantic port.

Matt Zukelich, a local Austrian, who was summoned to St. Paul by the Austrian consul there to go abroad, has returned and says the Austrian government is unable to afford Austrians passage home to fight. This will probably mean that the local labor situation that might have been made serious by losing lots of men will be improved.

CONVICTED ONES GET SENTENCES

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Hughes today passed sentences on some convicted persons.

John Mariabito, the Mountain Iron man, convicted of mayhem in biting off a piece of his wife's nose got an indeterminate sentence of from one to fifteen years in state prison.

Virgilio Monegnini, convicted of criminal assault upon a Virginia girl, was given from one to twenty years in state prison, indeterminately.

Antone Grenieri indicted for shooting Paul Tonti at Hibbing was allowed to plead to a lesser charge and was sentenced to four months at the county work farm.

The court appointed E. J. Larson to defend M. W. Fearlily indicted on an embezzlement charge for getting coin here on an alleged bogus draft. Court then adjourned until next Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. when the trial of Seman Petroff indicted for second degree murder in killing L. S. McDonald at Ely, July 4, will come up.

Linda Mattson tried yesterday for abducting Linda Mattson of Alice was acquitted.

Earl French, a Hibbing waiter accused of embezzlement, was also freed.

FEE OWNERS DENY STARTING ACTION

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The so-called "fee owners" office in this city disclaims any responsibility for the restraining order served on the city council to prevent a levy in excess of $225,000. The report having been circulated that the order had been issued at the instance of and upon the initiative of the fee owners the local representatives of the Eldridge M. Fowler estate, the Simon J. Murphy estate, the Temple E. Door estate, and Robinson & Flinn made the following statement:

Statements Annoying.

"It is somewhat annoying to have an erroneous impression of this sort generally circulated. The people we work for are not the only 'fee owners' owning lands under lease to the mining companies operating in and around Eveleth, but as they are the only ones who maintain regular headquarters, everybody naturally associates them with any action or remark where the term 'fee owners' is used.

"One paper states that the action was started by one Martin Hull, a fee owner of the Leonidas mine. This is a mistake on the face of it, because the fee of the Leonidas is owned by the state of Minnesota. Very likely the real complainant is Borton D. Hull, who is one of the syndicate owning the enormous fee interests at Hibbing, where headquarters are maintained, and the same people, or some of them, own all or part of the fee of the Virginia mine, which is located in the northwest corner of the corporate limits of the city of Eveleth and on the branch of the D. M. & N. railway running from Wolf to Virginia. There is also a piece of land known as the Hull forty, which is partially covered by the big Adams open pit, and while our people own the fee of the Adams mine proper, they have no interest whatever in the Hull or the Virginia, nor are they parties to the present suit in any manner whatsoever, either directly or indirectly."

LARGE EVELETH WEDDING.

Miss Harwood Becomes Bride of Mr. Meissner of Indiana.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Helen M. Harwood, oldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. PLAN DISTRICT MEET.

District Sunday School Gathering to Be Held at Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. Richard W. Bowden of Duluth, who on Sept. 1 was appointed field worker for the Minnesota Sunday School association, began his work Tuesday by visiting the ranges, his object being to reorganize St. Louis and Cook counties for aggressive Sunday school work. He was in Eveleth and held a conference with the workers of the different churches of the city, and it was decided to hold a district Sunday school institute on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 20 in the Presbyterian church here. The Eveleth district includes the Sunday schools of Eveleth, Gilbert, Sparta, Biwabik, Aurora, McKinley, Iron Junction, Forbes and Kelsey. These schools will be represented by delegates at the institute. A program consisting of addrsses by able speakers and a study and discussion of best and latest Sunday school methods is being planned for the occasion, Rev. Philip A. Schwarz having been appointed as chairman of the program committee. Other members of the committee are Rev. O. D. Cannon and Charles H. Rutty.

LOADED TWO CARS IN RECORD-BREAKING TIME.

CIRCULATING MEDIUM.

Rat Bounty Tickets Used By Eveleth Boys for Money.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rat bounty tickets are taking the place of cashiers' checks in the juvenile business life of Eveleth. A rat bounty check will buy a bag of peanuts or popcorn at some stands without discount, and they figure in knife trades and other transactions. Some of the youthful financiers take a usurous profit in discounting tickets for cash.

Gilbert, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The flag team of the Oliver fire department has gone to Hibbing to race against the team from Coleraine to decide the championship of the range during the fair. The boys have kept up their training since the Buhl tournament, where they gave a good account of themselves. On Labor day at Gilbert they will also compete against the Gilbert and Elba teams and probably some other events will be pulled off. Great preparations are being made for the agricultural and domestic science exhibit. There are a number of fine gardens in the vicinity and a very fine exhibit of agricultural products is promised, among which will be a tobacco plant in good condition.

A feature of the exhibit will be a baby contest and a number of fine specimens, home-grown, will be exhibited. Gilbert will keep open house on that day and promises a fine time, as well as providing something of interest and for the instruction of all. The various committees are working in harmony and have the final arrangements about completed. The firemen have completed arrangements for the grand ball to be held Monday night at Dowling's hall.

TRAGEDY SHOCKS ELY.

Murder and Suicide of Former Residents in Nevada Startle.

Ely, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city was shocked by the news in Thursday's Herald of the murder of Mrs. John Judnich by her husband who then killed himself out in Nevada as both are well known here.

The woman was 23 years old and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Barrage of this city, who have resided here for over twenty-five years. Mr. and Mrs. Judnich left Ely for Nevada about six years ago and have always been prosperous and it is thought that the closing of the mines and the war caused the deed. They leave three children, two girls and one boy, the oldest being 8 years, the youngest 3. The children will be brought here and cared for by relatives.

The funeral arrangements have not been made and it is expected that both bodies will be brought to Ely for burial. Mrs. Judnich leaves besides her parents, three brothers, George, Steve and Joseph of Ely, and three sisters, Mrs. Pete Svetic of Aurora and Mrs. Eli Gustanavic and Mrs. J. Skala of Ely.

John Judnick was born in Austria about twenty-six years ago and has nearly all of his relatives in Ely. They are Mrs. Joe Pluth, Mrs. Joe Spritzer of Ely and Mrs. Steve Rosman of Section 30. How the shooting took place cannot be understood by friends as both were held in high esteem by everybody.

WANT ROAD REPAIRED.

Lake County Automobile Owners Desire Better Highway.

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake County Automobile association held a meeting in the Commercial club last evening. The deplorable condition of the county road running west from the city and north toward Waldo to the city limits was discussed. The association appointed a committee of two to take the matter up with the city and endeavor to have the matter acted upon at once. The city, however, has realized the bad condition of this road and has taken the matter up with the county, asking it for aid in the repairing of this particular piece of road.

The possibility of an accident at the bridge over the Iron Range tracks west of the city at what is commonly known as Mud Cut, was considered. After considerable discussion it was decided to take the matter up with the county board and have it take action on the matter.

It was also brought to the attention of those present that some local auto owners are in the habit of leaving their cars standing on the streets headed in the wrong direction, which is regarded as a very dangerous thing to do. Also that many violated the state law by running the cars in the city with their muffler cut-outs open.

They intend making their home in Biwabik.

Mothers Tell of Mother's Friend

Experience is or should be our best teacher. Women who have obeyed the highest and noblest of all sacrifices, the struggle for the life of others, should have a better idea of helpful influence than those who theorize from observation.

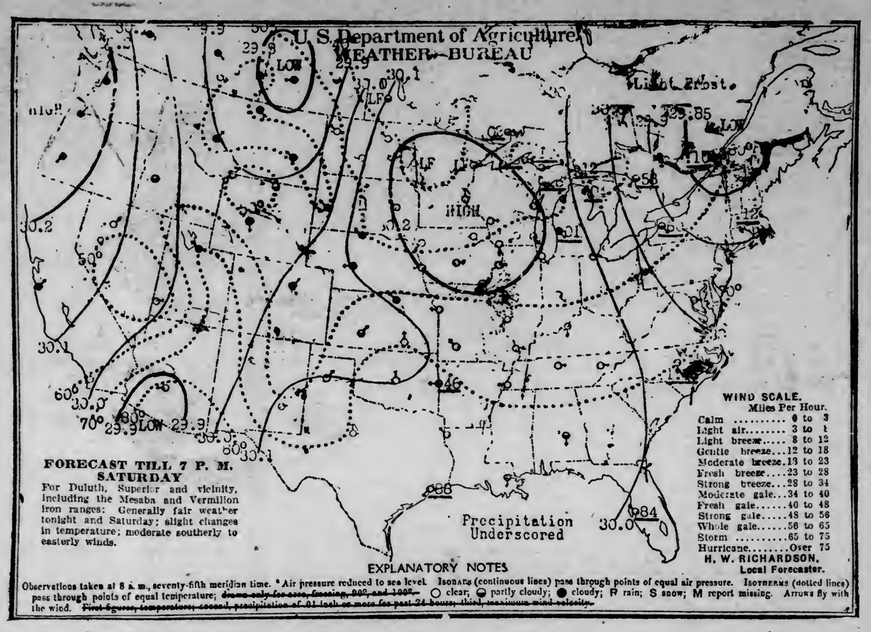

At any rate when a prospective grandmother urges her daughter to do as she did—to use "Mother's Friend," there is ample reason to believe it the right kind of advice.

Its purpose is to furnish pliancy to the muscles, to take away the strain on the cords and ligaments, to relieve the tension of nerves and tendons so apt to provoke or aggravate nausea, morning sickness, twitchings of the limbs and so on. It is applied externally.

Although, in the nature of things, a woman would use "Mother's Friend" but rarely, yet so effective has it been found that this splendid remedy is on sale in most drug stores throughout the United States. It has been prepared by Bradfield Regulator Co., 306 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and advertised by us for over twenty years. Ask at the drug store for a bottle of "Mother's Friend." It is worth while.

THIN BLOOD AND DYSPEPSIA

Thin-blooded people generally have stomach trouble. They seldom recognize the fact that thin blood is the cause of the indigestion but it is.

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble. It affects the digestion at once. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this condition nothing will more quickly restore appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and the enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates the tired muscles and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. The first sign of returning health is an improved appetite and soon the effect of these tonic pills is evident throughout the system. You find that what you eat does not distress you and that you are strong and vigorous instead of irritable and listless. You are now on the road to health and care in the diet is all that you need.

The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., will send you a little diet book free on request. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

CAUGHT IN SUPERIOR.

Pair Alleged to Have Robbed Two Harbors Man Arrested.

Two Harbors, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Emil Nelson returned last night from Superior with Easton and Wesley Boutin, brothers, accused of having robbed Gust Skoglund of this city of $13 and a gold watch. According to Skogland, the two men approached him Tuesday evening while he was standing near the passenger dock and after knocking him down took his valuables. After doing this the two men left on the steamer Crescent for the north shore, where it is expected they took a boat to Duluth. The watch was pawned in Duluth a day or two ago. While the two men claim they are innocent of the charge, the officers believe they have the right men. The trial was set for Sept. 16.

SIOUX COUNTY NOW CREATED

Governor Hanna Has Issued Proclamation Making Its Existence Legal.

Fifty-First County in North Dakota Once Standing Rock Reservation.

Bismarck, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fifty-first county of North Dakota was created yesterday, when Governor L. B. Hanna issued a proclamation setting aside the southeastern portion of Morton county, on the Standing Rock Indian reservation, as Sioux county.

Fort Yates likely will be the county seat of the new county, at least temporarily. The choice of the temporary seat of government is made by the board of commissioners, which has been designated by Governor Hanna—John A. Styles, Fort Yates; John Leath, Solon; W. W. Dritholt, Morriston; with A. Colville as county auditor.

Ends Long Contest.

The formation of the county ends a movement that has been under way for several years, and which has had several interesting features, not the least of which was a pilgrimage of about 50 to 75 Indians of the reservation to Bismarck three years ago, when they requested the governor to create a county. Chief John Grass, head of the Sioux, probably the oldest living Indian in the state, headed the delegation.

The new county has splendid lands and the creation of the county is expected to assist materially in its development.

DENIES EFFORT TO OUST WORST

Member of North Dakota Agricultural College Board Makes Reply.

Devils Lake, N. D., Sept. 4.—"There is absolutely nothing to it."

This is the declaration of Clark W. Kelley, agricultural college trustee, to the charge that has been made that an effort is being made to "get" President J. H. Worst, Prof. H. L. Bolley and Prof. E. F. Ladd.

"Every member of the board of trustees is a personal friend of these men and there is no occasion for the vague charges which have been made. There is not a man on the board but who is giving his best efforts toward providing North Dakota with a college of agriculture of which it can be proud.

Praises Cooper.

"Thomas Cooper, who was made head of the government experiment station, has accomplished a wonderful work. It should be understood that in every other state in the Union the agricultural college and the government experiment station have been operated under entirely separate heads, but of course co-operating. The board deemed it for the best interests of both institutions to put a man at the head of the experiment station.

"The trustees assumed not a dollar of indebtedness from the better farming association which had not been pledged with the various counties. Under Mr. Cooper the Federal government has opened the strings of the treasury and funds which have never before been available have been tendered North Dakota."

A board meeting will be held in the near future at which it is likely the charges will be threshed out.

THREE YEARS' WAR NOW EXPECTATION

According to Bemidji Man Who Has Just Returned From England.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—"At least three years is the estimate of the British military experts as to the length of the present war in Europe," said Dr. Rowland Gilmore, who with his wife has just returned from a several weeks' trip spent in London where the doctor went for surgical work and where he was when England declared war against Germany.

English Blame Germany.

"The English people are intensely patriotic," continued Dr. Gilmore, "and they place the blame of the war on Germany and believe that country will be defeated decisively in the present conflict. The English are going about the war calmly and with determination. They would welcome any attempt at invasion on the part of Germany. They believe it an easy matter to sink transports and they have taken precautions to prevent an aerial attack.

"The war office took prompt measures to prohibit extravagant prices for foodstuffs. The crops in England this year are unusually good."

THREE NEGROES ARE SUSPECTED

Arrested in North Dakota Charged With Killing White Man.

Lidgerwood, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three negroes were arrested and taken to jail in Wahpeton, where one was positively identified by the victim as the man who shot and fatally wounded Frank Kulick, an Austrian. The latter was camping with some transients in the jungles at the Great Northern stockyards and was on the ground asleep when awakened by the negroes, one of whom carried a large revolver. He begged in broken English not to be shot but as he was slow in obeying their commands to throw up his hands, he was shot in the abdomen and will die.

FEARS SWEDEN MAY ALSO BE INVOLVED

Warren, Minn., Editor in Old Country Writes of War's Results.

Warren, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. P. Mattson, the editor of the Warren Sheaf, who has been touring the European countries, had his pleasure trip halted by the war. From Stockholm he writes that business all over Sweden is paralyzed and banks find themselves hard pressed on account of the withdrawal of deposits made at the first rumor of war. Upon his arrivel in Sweden he deposited his money in a bank and when the troubles commenced this bank tightened up and would pay to depositors only small amounts.

"Sweden," he continues, "fears that it will be drawn into the world war, but it is taking all precautions to remain neutral and is preparing to defend its neutrality. The entire navy has mobilized and a few corps of the army. Everywhere on the streets the eye meets with men in uniforms and the drilling of soldiers is going on constantly."

BOTH FACTIONS ARE SATISFIED

North Dakota Republicans Reported Pleased With Sprague's Election.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The selection of Frank Sprague of Grafton as chairman of the state Republican central committee is generally regarded as satisfactory. A former leader of the insurgent movement stated that Sprague was entirely satisfactory from his factional standpoint. "A splendid man for the place" was the characterization of a former stalwart leader.

Two years ago the Republicans wished Sprague to take the place, but he declined; then, after the death of Chairman Gray, he was again offered the position, with the same result.

Finally Accepts.

He at first refused to consider the proposition this year, and would not finally accept until given assurances by the leaders of both factions that they would give him their heartiest cooperation and would bury the hatchet. His strong personal friendship for Col. Fraine, candidate for lieutenant governor and a fellow-townsman, was one important factor in getting Sprague lined up for the place.

Mr. Sprague has a wide acquaintance over North Dakota as a result of his activities in political and fraternal circles. He is receiving assurances from all over North Dakota of cooperation, and is expected to get the factions together after ten or fifteen years of differences.

SHERIDAN COUNTY CROPS ARE GOOD

North Dakota Community Where Heat and Rust Did Little Harm.

Denhoff, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheridan county suffered less from the heat and rust than some sections of the state, but damage was done to what promised to be the greatest crop ever harvested in this country. The present crop is the best that has been gathered in the past five years, and the farmers are feeling considerably encouraged.

The most satisfactory yields have been from the Hannchen barley and the Marquis wheat. Both appear to have resisted the heat and rust better than any other variety of grain, as a result of which there will be a largely increased acreage of those grains next year. This was the first year either had been tried in this locality.

Durum wheat was fair, some fields going over twenty bushels. The Fife and blue stem were less prolific, and other varieties of barley and oats have not brought large yields.

Labor has been scarce in this section of the state. The farmers are now becoming more interested in livestock raising and corn growing.

Dooks and Maroons in Driving Finish for League Pennant.

Darby's Men Have Lead of More Than Full Game.

The Dooks will be home tomorrow to start in on the last lap of the race for the pennant. There will be three more days of baseball in Duluth. There will be a double-header with Fort William today and tomorrow the Dooks will play the Virginians here. Sunday and Monday there will be double-headers here and they will wind up the season.

The Dooks were forced to remain idle yesterday while Winnipeg won one game and tied another with Virginia. The Peggers will play a double bill with Virginia this afternoon and Duluth fans can only hope that the Ore Diggers trim them. The race for the flag is close and the Dooks will have to keep on with the winning if they expect to cop the rag. It is hard to pick the winner at this time, but the baseball dope can be easily made to favor the Dooks. They have a lead of a little more than one full game on the Maroons, and every day this lead is held it looks bigger.

Tomorrow is Darby day at the park and following the game with Virginia a field meet will be held. Duluth merchants, who are pulling for the home team in the pennant race, have offered prizes for winners of the events tomorrow. The prizes are as follows: Zenith trackdraw, donated by Christenson-Mendenhall company; a pair of Gitchi Gammi shoes, given by the Northern Shoe company; a box of Osmundo cigars, given by the Rust-Parker company; and a hat, given by Kenney & Anker.

Among the stunts to be pulled off tomorrow will be a sack race, exhibitions of fungo hitting, base running, bunt hitting and a 100-yard dash.

The game will be called at 2:30 tomorrow to leave some of the afternoon for the field meet.

From the way the fans have taken up the idea of Darby day it looks as if there would be a big crowd out tomorrow to honor the leader of the Dooks. Hundreds of fans are wearing small tags with the picture of the Dook on them, proclaiming Darby day. If the weather man is kind just this once the Duluth fans will be grateful and will not kick on the next northeaster, but if he pulls a northeaster for tomorrow

Lassie McGregor, winner of the big stakes along the line, was hardly in the running, and was forced down to fourth money because of her continued misbehavior.

A second reversal was suffered when King Couchman, the heavy money-winning pacer, took defeat in the Syracuse $5,000-stake for 2:11 pacers. Napoleon Direct, driven by Ed Geers, took the three final heats yesterday after having lost two on Wednesday. King Couchman was far in the rear.

FOOTBALL ON BOARDS NEXT

High School Boys Will Get Out for Practice Next Week.

Only Five Old Men Left Over From Last Year.

With the opening of the high school next week the football season in Duluth will be started in earnest.

G. A. Glyer, the new coach, is expected to arrive at any time now and he will go to work at once to build up a team.

He will have a nucleus of five old starsto build his team around. John O'Brien, Bobby Walsh and Capt. Bobbie Kerr, halfbacks, and John Town and Phil Warner, guards, are all that are left of last year's team. They are all in good shape after the summer vacation and they will be better men this year than they were last because they will have more weight.

Freshmen to Be Husky.

Reports from the grade schools indicate that a husky class of youngsters will enter high school this fall and the coach may be able to pick a few good players out of the freshmen.

Roderick Dunn, Joe Dumoe, Gilbert Denfeld, Walter Lawrence, Paul Flynn, Percy Stevens, Capt. Matt Brown and William Culkin, who played on the team last year, were graduated last June and they will not be in the game this year.

The first game on the schedule this year will be with the alumni team, as usual. Last year the alumni beat the regulars 3 to 0 and it was the only game the high school boys lost all season.

The game this year will be a good one of the old grads will get out and buck up against the school team. There are about a dozen good players in town and they all said they would get out for the game but no organization has been formed yet.

The alumni players are not in training and it is no snap, they say, to get out and stackup against the younger huskies in a regular game, but it is expected they will get up their nerve in time for the game.

War Postpones Game.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 4.—Owing to the war, which has drawn away many of the dominion's best cricket players, the match between all-Canada and the United States has been canceled. This game was to have been played here Sept. 14 and 15.

THESE MAINSTAYS BRING GIANTS BACK

MATHEWSON AND TESREAU.

McGraw's team was put back into the lead of the National league yesterday by the pitching head work and steadiness of those standbys, Mathewson and Tesreau. Brooklyn, against which team the Giants played yesterday, got only two hits off Christy and one from big Jeff, which record, with Boston's defeat by the Phillies, put the New Yorks back to the top of the list.

The pitching of Mathewson and Tesreau this year, critics believe, has had more to do with the team's position than any other feature of the play. Other pitchers have gone had and erratic, but these two big fellows seem to never have weakened seriously.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Collins' triple and Lewis' error scored for Philadelphia in the first inning and a batting rally in the seventh added two more tallies. Scores:

NET PROFITS GO TO DARBY

Orator Will Get Receipts After Expenses Are Paid.

The question of the day among the baseball fans of Duluth is: "What will Darby get out of it?" meaning what will he realize out of the Darby day demonstration.

Darby will get the net receipts of the game, President Blume said today. He will take the place of the owners of the team for about five minutes when the kale is being handed over and he will get it all.

Of course Virginia will get its regular cut from the gate receipts and the expenses of the team and the park for the day will be taken out, but they will be merely the legitimate expenses. After that, what is left will be for Darby. As it promises to be one of the biggest days of the year Darby will get in on a purse such as the owners of the team seldom get their hands on.

H. A. Blume, president, said this morning that he had received a letter from President Burmeister of the Northern league, enclosing $5 as a donation to Darby day. President Burmeister praised the work Darby had done in the league, especially this year, when he brought the team from the bottom up to the top of the league.

Mr. Blume said that many prominent men were interested in giving Darby an ovation and that he would not be surprised to see the largest crowd in the history of the park turn out tomorrow.

CRACKS STILL WIN.

Leading Golf Players Survive in Championship Match.

Manchester, Vt., Sept. 4.—Again yesterday players of highest rank were the survivors in the match play for the United States Golf association amateur championship over the links of the Ekwanok Country club, completing the third round.

Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, present title-holder, won by 6 up over W. P. Seeley of Brooklawn.

Francis Oulmet, former national open champion, was an easy winner. He ended his match with Robert A. Gardner of Hinsdale, a former amateur champion on the eleventh green of the afternoon round, 9 up.

The veteran Walter J. Travis of Garden City, another former amateur champion, and W. C. Fownes of Oakmont, title-holder in 1910, survived their difficulties. Each was forced to an extra hole.

The match between Fownes and R. R. Gorton of Braeburn, carried most of the gallery. Fownes started the afternoon round 2 up, but Gorton evened the match at the sixth hole. The advantage alternated after that. Starting the eighteenth hole, Gorton was one down. Fownes laid a stymie, but Gorton skillfully hopped his opponent's ball, gaining the hole and squaring the match. A poor approach shot lost him the extra hole.

Travis finished the morning round of his match with Roy D. Webb of Englewood, 2 down and he lost the first two holes of the afternoon round. Then he set out to even matters up, and had done so before the ninth hole was reached. Playing the extra hole, Travis went into the rough on the right and Webb was bunkered to the left on the drive. Travis pulled his second, missed his third and then played his fourth shot almost dead to the cup, for an 18-inch putt. Webb was on the green in three, but he took three putts and the veteran won.

SEASON WILL OPEN MONDAY

Prairie Chickens and Ducks Are Said to Be Plentiful.

The open season for prairie chickens and ducks will begin next Monday, Sept. 7.

Many different parties have planned to start for the hunting grounds tomorrow or Sunday in order to be out with their guns the first thing Monday morning.

Until the cold weather arrives the sportsmen will devote their efforts chiefly to bagging chickens, which are becoming more and more numerous in this part of the state, as the farming country is opened. Hunters have been running their dogs to get them in condition and are looking forward to excellent sport.

Duck hunting will not become general until the northern freeze-up, when the southward flightswill begin. The duck hunting until that time will be limited to shooting the local ducks which have been feeding on nearby rice beds. In same favored spots, where the birds are undisturbed, they get so fat that they fly with difficulty when fall arrives.

The partridge season will open Oct. 1 and the big game season Nov. 10. Good shooting in these lines is also promised, as partridge, deer and moose are said by men familiar with the woods, to be plentiful.

SUN SHINES ON COURTS

And Tennis Players Take Advantage of Fine Weather.

Tournament Is Expected to Reach Final Round By Night.

With ideal weather at last, the survivors in the Head of the Lakes tennis tournament were hard at it this morning and this afternoon the semi-finals in both the singles and doubles will be played.

Ray Smith yesterday defeated Chatfield of Minneapolis in straight sets, 6-3 and 6-4. As Chatfield was a former holder of the Head of the Lakes championship this makes Smith look like a contender for the title this year to be feared by the others. Other matches yesterday were as follows: Walter Kennedy was defeated by Walter Fraker, 6-3 and 6-4; Towne beat Thorpe 4-6, -5 and 8-6. Craig defeated Nat Davis, 6-4, 4-6 and 6-4; Burr of Minneapolis beat Craig in the next match; Ferry of Superior beat Horak of Duluth, 6-1 and 8-6.

Games scheduled for today are as follows:

At 9:30 a. m.—Johnson-Boak vs. Davis-Dickerman. Barr-Chatfield vs. Thompson-Smith.

At 10 a. m.—Ray Smith vs. Walter Fraker.

At 11 a. m.—Thorpe-Thorpe vs. winner Johnson-Boak vs. Davis-Dickerman match.

Afternoon—Semi-finals singles, 2:30 p. m. Semi-finals doubles, 3 p. m.

The consolation draw is as follows:

Preliminary—H. Boak vs. R. Hawkins; W. Thorpe vs. George Stillman.

McManus vs. De Witt; Earlson vs. Hegardt; C. H. Johnson vs. Floyd Fuller; H. J. Cowie vs. J. J. Robinson; C. Le Sure vs. J. E. MacGregor; W. Turle vs. C. Helmbach and R. R. Smith vs. J. Marshall.

Players in the consolation are expected to arrange their matches as soon as possible, as they must all be over with tomorrow. It is probable that many of the games will go by default if the players are not on hand in time.

The standings to date follow:

Men's Singles.

Eights.	Semi-Finals.	Finals.
W. Fraker Ray Smith
	L. Kennedy

	Burr, Mpls.

Report Is Premature.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The site for the next army-navy football game has not yet been decided, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. While no official statement from the athletic authorities here was forthcoming, rumors that the army had surrendered and that Philadelphia was to get the game, were denied.

MAY LIBERALIZE THE RESERVE BANK ACT

Amendments Are Ordered Favorably Reported to the Senate.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Amendments to liberalize the Federal reserve act were ordered favorably reported by the senate banking committee. They would permit the Federal reserve board to postpone payment of the second and subsequent installments of stock subscription of member banks and postpone for not more than four months reserve requirements for member banks. They would permit member banks to carry in the Federal reserve banks any portion of their reserves now required to be held in their own vaults and allow them to count as part of their lawful reserves Federal reserve notes up to 5 per cent of their net demand deposits.

Additional Liabilities.

Other amendments would permit member banks to incur additional liabilities on account of indorsement of foreign bills of exchange, "two-name" commercial paper indorsed by member banks and such acceptances as are permitted under rules of the board, not to exceed twice the unimpaired capital and surplus of the bank.

They would also permit bills bought in the open market to be used as basis for the issue of Federal reserve notes and authorize the secretary of the treasury to designate the Federal reserve banks as agents of the United States and of member banks in the redemption of bank notes in circulation, including the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency notes.

The amendments provide also for a system of clearance between the treasury, Federal reserve banks and the member banks.

RESTORATION OF POLAND

Would Be Potent Foundation for Permanent Political Peace Structure.

Poles Determined to Remain Neutral During the Present War.

By CASIMIR GONSKI.
In the Milwaukee Sentinel.

In July, 1899, the undersigned had the pleasure to use the columns of the Sentinel for an article regarding the agitation for the re-establishment of Poland as a republic. That agitation was partly brought about by a memorial addressed by United States citizens of Polish birth or extraction to the peace conference, then in session at The Hague. Of course, nothing became of that memorial, and it is doubtful whether the representatives of the United States, into whose hands it was entrusted, even presented the same to the peace conference.

It is to be presumed that such omission was due to a lack of understanding of the importance of the issues raised by the memorial, rather than indifference toward the Polish cause. But much more attention than the memorial attracted was the proposition of the Russian general, Dragomiroff, made to the peace conference for the re-establishment of an independent Poland by the voluntary surrender on the part of Russia, Prussia and Austria of the respective territories acquired by them through force, to the extinguishment of an independent Poland.

Sank Into Oblivion.

Gen. Dragamiroff, author of several works on the military situation in the East, was then in command of the Russian forces along the Austrian border and was the chief of staff of the Russian army. No doubt he was a strategist of no mean ability, and it may be taken for granted that his proposal for the re-establishment of Poland was not a matter of sentiment or justice, but purely a conclusion to which his observations had led him.

Gen. Dragomiroff, in his address to the peace conference, advanced the logical argument that the economic, political and military pressure along the borders of Russia, Prussia and Austria was so great that to maintain the equilibrium of peaceful conditions and to prevent the eventual outbreak of an international conflict, the re-establishment of Poland was an absolute necessity. By such a step the cause of the proposed disarmament, then discussed at the Hague, would be greatly advanced. So argued Gen. Dragomiroff.

It may be remarked in passing that Dragomiroff, having made that proposition, sank into oblivion, and we have not heard from him since. The powers, not being then at war, found such a proposition decidedly distaseful.

A Clear Situation.

The situation was then clearly perceived by statesmen and diplomats; it is susceptible of easy understanding by all at the present time.

For centuries Poland has been the battling ground of Europe. At the height of her power her borders extended from the Baltic to the Black sea, from the Dnieper to the Oder. Her mighty armies, her matchless cavalry successfully fought the Turks, Swedes, Russians, Germans and Prussians. She was the Knight of nations, the tower of strength protecting Western Christendom and civilization against Eastern barbarism and Mongolian invasion.

The limits of this article will not admit of a historical review of centuries of incessant wars, but it will be apropo to remind our German friends of Kara Mustapha's invasion of the holy Roman empire of German nationality, when the Mohammedan and Mongolian hordes swarmed toward Vienna. Not unlike now was then the cry of the German emperor, Leopold: "Save Western civilization, save the German empire," in which cry Pope Innocent XI joined: "Save Christianity." The ambassadors of emperor and pope begged and implored King John Sobieski to come with his army to Vienna's rescue by forced marches, while Emperor Leopold sought safety in flight.

Saved By King John.

King John saved the empire and Christianity, but failed to receive even the thanks of the cowardly emperor. Sobieski's lofty purpose was expressed in his address to his troops just before the battle: "You are fighting for the king of kings, for his, not for our glory."

This high idealism, bound to an intence love of their country, has always characterized the Poles. They have been ever ready to shed their blood for others if they considered their cause worthy or in furtherance of Poland's restoration. Thus history records the valor of Polish arms under Napoleon I, for whose successes against Italy, Austria and Germany, the brilliant leadership of Gen. Dombrowski was largely responsible. History also records how Napoleon broke his promise to restore Poland, when it was in his power to do so.

The struggles of the young republic across the seas, now our United States, appealed to the love of freedom of the Poles and again Polish blood was shed so that others might be free.

The three heroic, but unsuccessful efforts to save Poland by armed revolution form a chapter in history not excelled in fortitude and patriotism by any other nation. In the last effort, "the bear who walks like a man," needed the help of the Prussian eagle to prevail over the brave little band of Poles, whose blood drenched their native soil without regaining its freedom.

Fought by Others.

History also records how the Poles fought when compelled to fight for others, being conscripted into their armies. Be it said to the honor and glory of those Poles who fought in the Austrian and Prussian armies, that once having donned the uniforms of those nations, they remained true to their cause while the war was being waged.

In the war of Prussia against Austria in 1866, Poles fought on both sides, and neither side complained of Polish treason. In the Franco-Prussian war of 1870-1, within the memory of many now living, the Poles formed whole battalions of the Prussian army. They served the Prussian cause heroically, even though the trend of Polish sympathy might have been in France's favor. While the Poles had neither admiration nor confidence in the ability of Napoleon III, who was a boulevardier rather than a soldier or statesman, it was but natural that they should have wished for the success of any arms against the Prussians.

It will serve a good purpose, in describing the valor of the Second battalion, Sixty first regiment, composed exclusively of Poles, to employ the language of a German officer, Henry Schern, in describing the assault upon St. Martin at the battle of Dijon, Jan. 23, 1871. I quote from his memoirs:

An Act of Heroism.

"The bugles sounded the charge; the Poles forming the remnant of the regiment, to a man surrounded the commanding officer and with tears of exaltation in their eyes begged him to send them upon the enemy to recover the standard." (In an assault upon St. Martin almost the whole of the Sixty-first regiment was annihilated by the French guns. There remained a part of the Second battalion, composed entirely of Poles, and it is this remnant of the regiment of which the author speaks). "The colonel sent them out to the battle field to recover the lost standard, and the next morning there returned into the Prussian lines only one soldier, severely wounded, with tottering step and without the standard. All his comrades were lying on the battle field. The following day the soldiers of Garibaldi (commanding the French) found the standard torn into shreds by bullets and drenched with Polish blood. Touched and exalted by this unusual heroism, Garibaldi ordered the standard returned into the Prussian lines with all honors of war, and then retired from his position."

"Shortly afterwards William I presented a new standard to the Polish battalion and solemnly expressed his appreciation and gratitude."

The German War.

Anent this occurrence as described by the German author, the Bavarian weekly, Das Bayerisches Vaterland, wrote a few years ago on the occasion of the passage of the Prussian expropriation laws against the Poles, as follows:

"In view of this fact we have the clearest illustration of the highest glory, forfitude and bravery with which all Polish battalions distinguished themselves in this last war of Germany. The war reports are filled with acknowledgment of the distinguished courage of the Polish troops, whose blood ran in streams for Germany and for—Prussia. And the reward for all that shall now be the expropriation law against the Poles. For all that there shall now be passed against the Poles exceptional laws depriving them of their lands and their own soil, from their fatherland, and even stripping them of their own language! * * * Does not this unheard of injustice cry to the heavens for vengeance?"

This is a verbatim translation of what this honest German-Bavarian paper wrote a few short years ago when the whole Germany, with the exception of Prussia, cried shame upon the Prussian government because of its cruel persecution of the Poles. Nothing that I could write is able to add to the horrified condemnation of such base ingratitude on the part of the Prussian government toward the Poles.

No Teuton Quarrel.

We have no quarrel with the Germans. Their sympathy for us and our cause has frequently been expressed abroad and here, but is it to be wondered that we have no good wishes for the continuation on an anti-Polish policy of Bismarck, Buelow and Bethmann-Hollweg? Is it to be wondered that, as was said of Carthage of old, we now say: "Borusiam esse delendam."

Our heartfelt sympathy may go out to the thousands of unfortunate ones who will lay down their lives upon the battle fields, and among them will be many of our own brethren, but if we wished well to the Prussian cause we would be traitors to our own.

Although Russia is a Slavonic country, the sufferings which the Polish nation has endured during more than one century of persecution, the pogroms, cruel conscriptions, physical tortures and spiritual misery inflicted upon us by the Romanoffs and their brutal, bureaucracy government will never be forgotten as long as Poles dwell on earth. Human memory can not endure be sufficiently long to forget such wrongs.

It will be easily understood with what utter distrust we view the offer of the czar to grant autonomy to the Poles. Time was when we might have been satisfied with that, but that time has changed.

Militarism the Cause.

We do not believe that the underlying causes of this terrible war are pan-Slavonic against pan-Germanic. Neither the triple alliance nor the triple entente have any aspect of racial controversy. The causes for the war are military and economic, furthered in some instances by a one-man military power.

We do not hear of racial riots between the Poles and Germans in Chicago, Buffalo or Milwaukee. Despite the war, the relations between these nationalities remain friendly and undoubtedly will and should remain so. There is no racial hatred between these nationalities; if it is said to exist in Europe, it is brought about by militarism and bureaucracy.

The Poles abroad, as well as their American brethren here, have determined to remain neutral; they have no concern beyond the restoration of Poland. They firmly believe and expect that this war will change the map of Europe; that Russia, Prussia and Austria will lose their Polish territories, wrongfully acquired, and that such loss, whether voluntary or not, will be to their own benefit. If Dragomiroff's advice had been heeded, the war in the east of Europe might have been prevented.

Thirty Million People.

A restored Poland, with a population of 30,000,000, a cultural and brave nation, free from foreign alliances, with a republican form of government, patterned, for instance, after the government of Switzerland, would be an impregnable bulwark of safety, a most potent foundation for a permanent, political peace structure in the east of Europe. It is to this end that the agitation of the Poles is directed; it is to this end, that we, American citizens of Polish birth and extraction, would implore for it the tremendous moral force of the approval of the American nation. No matter from what political angle the diplomats of Europe may think Poland's restoration desirable, it would be an act of fundamental justice decreed by the laws of God and man, and now, that the case of Poland has been called in the court of nations, it is our hope and prayer, as it should be of the whole civilized world, that justice be speedily done.

BORAH DIGS UP THE BALTIMORE PLATFORM

Washington, Sept. 4.—Senator Borah, Republican, read into the senate record yesterday the declaration of the Baltimore platform for a single presidential term. The senator made no comment, but Republican senators viewed his action as supplementary to Vice President Marshall's declaration that President Wilson should be nominated to succeed himself in 1916 and would be the unanimous choice of his party.

ARMAGEDDON: THE LAST BATTLE

Fateful questions are revolving in the minds of thoughtful people throughout the world these anxious days. Is this the end of war? Is civilization in jeopardy? Is government of the people, for the people and by the people to vanish from the earth? Is Liberty destroyed by the dead weight of Militarism? The answer to these questions is —The Stars and Stripes—the United States of America, our own Country, Happy Old U. S. A. The Citizen who is burdened by the dead weight of ordinary coal may find freedom and relief in Pittsburgh's Pittston, the guaranteed hard coal. Ordinarily, inefficient coal is wasteful, a dead weight on your resources. Pittsburgh's Pittston is like a beacon guiding the wayfarer to the safe harbor of economy, thrift and satisfaction. Be like the old U. S. A., Happy, Contented and Prosperous. Buy Pittsburgh's Pittston today. And with it you get Pittsburgh's service. It costs no more than the "Dead Weight" Kind.

Plain Truths About Antiseptics

POUR some peroxide on the kitchen floor or on your healthy skin; if the peroxide is good, you may "watch it work," just as the advertisements say. Pour it on a fresh cut or hold some of it in your mouth and it will foam exactly as it does in contact with an infected wound. But don't apply it to fresh or clean wounds unless you have some ulterior motive, for the ebullition is as likely to drive infection deeply into the wound as it is to remove it. The action of peroxide is comparable to the action of dynamite in a blast—the force of explosion extends in all directions.

Although peroxide possesses some antiseptic or germicidal power, it is very rarely employed by modern surgeons.

Carbolic acid is used for two main purposes. First, to cauterized wounds, because its effects extend deeply, and yet can be completely neutralized by an application of alcohol afterward. Second, it is a cheap and efficient disinfectant for dishes, utensils and woodwork, if used in the strength of 5 per cent—one part acid to twenty parts water. Pure alcohol is the antidote to surface burns from carbolic acid.

Carbolic solutions are dangerous for wounds or for home use. Not rarely the use of carbolic solution or carbolic salve for a simple little wound has caused gangrene of the finger. Even if no dangerous results appear, carbolic is too destructive to the immature and new tissue cells to deserve any place in the home medicine cupboard. It kills germs, all right, but it kills new cells, too; that's why things heal so slowly under carbolic salve.

Bichloride of mercury is almost too dangerous and too destructive for doctors to use, to say nothing of domestic prescribing. If the tablets were not given such an impressive blue color with indigo, this antiseptic would scarcely enjoy its present repute. In fact, it is a very inferior antiseptic, compared with many safer ones. A teaspoonful of tincture of iodine in a pint or a quart of water that has just been boiled is safe, and, in contact with living tissues, much more efficient than any strength of bichloride ordinarily employed.

As much boric (or "boracic") acid as recently boiled water will dissolve makes a safe and useful antiseptic solution for bathing eyes, gargling or washing wounds. It will accomplish all that more perilous chemicals will accomplish in the hands of non-professional persons.

PUNCTUAL JAMES.

New York Journal: An old Englishman, James Scott by name, traveled about on business until he was nearly 80 years of age. He became celebrated for his punctuality and methodical habits. Upon one occasion a gentleman stopped at an inn much frequented by Mr. Scott and saw a fine fowl cooking.

"You cannot have that, sir," replied the landlord. "That is being cooked for Mr. Scott, the traveler."

"I know Mr. Scott very well," said the gentleman. "Is he stopping here?"

"Oh, no, sir," answered the landlord. "But six months ago he ordered a fowl to be ready for him at precisely 2 o'clock today, and we are expecting him every minute."

To the housewife who knows, baking suggests Armour's "Simon Pure" Leaf Lard.

So much of the success of your pastry depends upon your shortening that you can't afford to take chances. Armour's "Simon Pure" Leaf Lard is the same sort of Lard that mother used in her famous pies. It is made in the same way—open kettle rendered—it is made from the same sort of fat, *the pure leaf. Each pail bears the stamp of purity—"U. S. Inspected and Passed."

"Star" Ham a la King

Boil two pounds of Armour's "Star" Ham until tender; then make a cream sauce and add one can of chopped pimentoes, one chopped green pepper. Put in cream sauce and just before serving add one glass of sherry wine and serve on toast.

WILL DISCUSS INSURANCE

City Considers Various Means of Covering Risks.

Clapp Studies Situation and Explains Matters to Council.

Whether or not the city shall elect to remain under the employers' liability act, or resume liability insurance to cover risks under the law, or continue as at present, under the act but without insurance, will be considered by the city council at a future meeting.

City Attorney Harvey Clapp explained the situation to the commissioners informally this morning after the regular council meeting. He said that the experience of ten years had shown that the city was paying about $2,500 per year in premiums and that in that time but one judgment of $1,000 had been obtained, and that it had been repudiated by the insurance company. It was in view of these circumstances that the city decided a year ago to discontinue insurance and carry its own risks.

The attorney stated that by remaining under the law it is responsible for every man in its employ who is injured, while if it decided not to continue under the act, it would only be liable where negligence on the part of the city could be shown. In the former there is the possibility of the city accumulating a big pension list, but in the latter the damages which could be collected from the city would be greater. As between the two it is a question of which would be the cheaper.

Another question which enters into the situation is that of public policy. The query was raised this morning that it might have an adverse influence upon the liability law. If the cost does not appear to be too great, the city will likely continue under the liability law as at present. But the legal department will secure statistics in order that the matter may be more intelligently considered at a later meeting.

GET $3,090 FOR ISLAND LAKE IN'

Damages Awarded to Tenants of Land Needed for Reservoir.

Jerome E. Cooley, Renwick B. Knox and Henry Nolte, appointed by the district court as appraisers in condemnation proceedings instituted by the Great Northern Power company to acquire certain property for reservoir purposes, yesterday afternoon agreed to award Bert F. Gilbert and those claiming under him as leaseholders of the Island Lake Inn property in section 32, 53-14, $3,090 damages. It is probable that the award will be accepted by both sides and that no further proceedings in court will be necessary.

The property sought to be condemned is now occupied by a small tavern known as the Island Lake Inn, which is being conducted by D. H. Clough and E. A. Tessman, doing business as the Island Lake Inn company. T. E. Considine also has some interest in the leasehold of the property. When the power company builds a new reservoir in that vicinity the land on which the building is located will be flooded with water. The company already has a contract with the owners in fee, but was unable to reach any agreement with the leaseholders.

The appraisers met yesterday at the courthouse to determine the amount of damages which would be sustained by the leaseholders.

STEEL PLANT SUBURBS

NEW STATION URGED FOR STEEL PLANT

New Duluth and Gary Residents Want Trains to Stop.

The Northern Pacific railroad will be asked to build a passenger and freight station for the steel plant district on its main line next year, according to business men of that district who are interested in the progress of the suburb. The station can be built within a short distance of the corner of Commonwealth avenue and Zimmerly avenue and be accessible from this point by means of a stairway from the street.

While only two trains use this track during the week day going west it is said that if these would stop at the suburb it would prove a great convenience to the residents. These trains are the morning passengers to the Twin Cities and the one to Brainerd and Staples.

Now it is necessary for the residents of the district to go to West Duluth in order to take either of these trains.

The matter is to be taken up by the New Duluth Commercial club and the Gary Improvement club. A petition asking for this service will be circulated among the residents and presented to the railroad officials.

TO LET SCHOOL JOB.

Contract for New Duluth Building Will Be Awarded.

The contract for the construction of the New Duluth-Gary school will be let this evening at the regular meeting of the school board. It is probable that the contract will go to Jacobson Bros., who submitted the lowest bid, $52,000, for the job.

It is proposed to rush the construction work in order that the building may be ready for the opening of the second half of the school term in January. The school will be known as the Harriet Beecher Stowe school and the school now bearing that name in New Duluth will be abandoned.

TWO HELD FOR COUNTERFEITING

With the arrest early this afternoon of Peter and Matti Niukkanen, two brothers, on a charge of counterfeiting, the police believe they have solved a problem that has kept the authorities guessing for several weeks.

A short time ago the police received reports of the circulation of counterfeit money among West end merchants. The police were given descriptions of the two men and not until this afternoon were they located. They were found at Peter's home, 1712 West Second street. He is married and has a family.

The police also found a crude counterfelting outfit in the house and this is now in the possession of the authorities. The two brothers, who worked as tailors, but who have been unemployed for some time, were taken into custody by Sergeant Hunter.

NEGRO IS SLASHED IN SALOON FIGHT

Badly Cut on Head in Argument Over Nickle Drink.

James Williams, colored, was badly slashed with a knife in half a dozen places about the head and face by John Longs, another negro, about 9 o'clock last night, following a quarrel over payment for a nickel drink in the saloon at 21 West Michigan street.

Longs, alias "Queer," alias John Tulliver, alias Wilson, escaped but was later captured by the Superior police and returned to local headquarters about 3 o'clock this morning. Williams was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where his wounds were dressed by Dr. I. J. Murphy, police surgeon. William Clark, another negro, was cut in the hand when he rushed to Williams' assistance. Williams is in no danger and will recover.

Longs was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of second degree assault. He waived examination and was bound over to await the action of the grand jury. His bail was fixed at $1,000.

BIG DELEGATION GOING TO FAIR

Special Train Will Start for Hibbing Saturday Morning.

The Commercial club "Special," which will start for the St. Louis county fair at Hibbing tomorrow morning, is already assured of good patronage. The many exhibits and the excellent entertainment promised have attracted wide attention, and Duluth expects to send a delegation that will be a credit to the county and Duluth.

The Third Regiment band will be on the train, and stops will be made at all important towns on the D., M. & N. line so that the town folks may hear the music of the band and give the Duluth delegation the "once-over."

The itinerary has been worked out, and it has been arranged so that return tickets may be used on any D., M. & N train either Saturday or Sunday. Tickets will cost $8, which sum will include payment for fare, luncheon on the train, and admission to the fair grounds at Hibbing. Each purchaser of a ticket will be furnished with a cap, cane and pennant.

The itinerary follows:

Leave Duluth 7:20 a. m.; arrive Eveleth 9:50 a. m.; leave Eveleth 10:20 a. m.; arrive Virginia 10:46 a. m.; leave Virginia 11:16 a. m.; arive Chisholm 11:59 a. m.; leave Chisholm 12:29 p. m.; arrive Hibbing 12:49 p. m.

Returning, leave Hibbing 10 p. m.; arrive Duluth 12:30 a. m., Sept. 6.

WASHINGTON MAY GET G. A. R. MEETING

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 4.—At the closing business session of the forty-eighth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic today, the old soldiers were to decide upon the next meeting place and choose new officers. It was expected the 1915 encampment would go to Washington.

The race for commander in chief to succeed Washington Gardner of Albion, Mich., promised to be close and spirited. Some ventured to predict David J. Palmer of Iowa would be the next commander in chief. Among other candidates prominently mentioned were C. W. Blodgett, Ohio; O. A. Summers, Indiana; Frank O. Cole, New Jersey; P. H. Corey, Kansas, and Thomas H. Soward, Oklahoma. Soward is senior vice commander in chief.

SIDEWALK WORK BEGUN.

Crew Starts on Commonwealth Avenue Job.

A crew of men commenced this morning laying concrete sidewalk on Commonwealth avenue between Goodhue street and the transfer railroad tracks. The walk will be eight feet wide. The distance is about four blocks.

PRICES on foodstuffs are advancing; like the Germans, slow and sure, they are marching toward our city. We are sitting on the lid, holding the prices down. It is "up to you" to buy now before the prices get beyond your reach. We have not raised our prices only where we were compelled to do so, and many articles remain at the before-war prices. Remember that at our place of business you are buying at wholesale one-half dozen of any article at the strictly case WHOLESALE price. It is not our purpose to frighten you, but to conservatively advise you of the conditions as we see them. We still advise you to buy as we have in our ads for the last 30 days. When we have to replenish our stock we will be obliged to raise our prices in conformation with the advance we will have to pay. Remember, we buy direct from the manufacturer and sell direct to the consumer, thus eliminating the middleman's cost of doing business and his profits ,which conservatively, amounts to 20%. Every day is a wholesale day with us, not any one day when we make special prices.

WEST DULUTH SOCIAL CENTER WORK WILL OPEN SEPT. 30

Social center activities in West Duluth will be placed on a self supporting basis if the plans now being arranged by Miss Margaret Culkin, social center director, are carried out. Not only will the centers pay most of the expenses but stricter supervision is planned which will keep non-members and undesirables away from dancing parties that are planned.

The activities will begin at the Irving school on Tuesday evening, Sept. 30. Club meetings for girls will be held every Tuesday, and on Thursdays the school will be open for boys' and young men's clubs. Class and club work will be the principal features of activities and studies in organized classes will be carried out in courses.

Dramatic clubs, debating clubs, cooking and folk dancing clubs will be conducted in this manner. Each class will have a competent instructor or supervisor. The athletic branch of the work will be under the supervision of Alex McKenzie while the principal activities will be under direct charge of Miss Laura MacArthur, principal of the school and Miss Culkin.

Instead of having dances each week for an hour as formerly, it is planned to have two of these monthly. The entire evening will be given over to this movement or other games as the young people choose. No one who has not a membership ticket in the social center will be allowed to enter the building on these nights. The membership tickets which will entitle them to the dancing privilege will cost, according to plans, 25 cents each month. This ticket will entitle the members to all other activities on other days. This amount can be paid each month to other activities who is to be chosen later. Partial membership which will not include the dancing will be sold at 10 cents per month. The money raised in this manner will, it is believed, pay for what music is used, allow for a small pay for supervisors and other incidentals.

The social center activities at the R. E. Denfeld high school will not open until after the New Year. There it is planned to carry on the larger affairs, such as entertainments, lectures to which prominent speakers will be invited, athletic training, etc.

On the opening night, Sept. 30, plans are being made for a literary and musical program. Miss Culkin announced that she expected to have some good talent appear at that time on the program. The entertainment will be free to the public. It is probable that Mayor Prince will speak on the opening night.

AURORA FARMERS' DAY.

Plan Being Worked to Assure Its Being Success.

Aurora, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Preparations are well under way for the Farmers' day celebration which will be held here Saturday, Sept. 12. The committees are busy at work and reports from the farming country are favorable to a large attendance and the entrance of a large number of products in the contest for prizes.

The list of prizes is large and comprehensive and includes the following: Best general display, best bundle of wheat, best bundle of oats, best potatoes, best cucumbers, best beets, best carrots, best cabbage, best bundle of barley, best parsnips, best rutabagas, best onions, best corn, best tomatoes, best clover, best timothy, best alfalfa, best butter.

In addition to the list of prizes, the committee has arranged for a free lunch at noon and for a free show at a local picture theater for the people from the farming country.

VIRGINIANS GIVE TO SCANDINAVIANS.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A cargo of flour donated by local Scandinavians will be sent across the ocean to Norway and Sweden for the benefit of unfortunates who are suffering from the present war prices there. At a mass meeting held here $300 was subscribed to the fund.

"Our countrymen in Europe have plenty of fish and potatoes, but are short of flour," said Attorney E. J. Larson, who was elected secretary of the meeting. "Norway and Sweden grow little grain with the exception of some rye, all of the wheat being shipped in from foreign countries. As these countries are now at war no shipments of any kind can be made into Sweden or Norway. The fishing season will open there in a few months and as the catches are always large there will be plenty of fish. The stock of potatoes is sufficient, so that what the poor will mostly need will be flour."

VIRGINIA PLANS FARMERS' FAIR.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Elaborate plans are afoot for the big farmers' fair to be held here at the Technical high school, Sept. 12. The exhibits promise to be large. The county agricultural agent will attend, as will A. B. Hostetter of Duluth, W. B. Dickinson of Meadowlands and other agricultural experts.

HIBBING WILL PLAY BRAINERD.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A shift in the lineup of the Sluggers is contemplated for the series against the fast Brainerd aggregation that starts with a game tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. Carroll, who has been behind the bat for some years, will be played at first; C. Booth, the speedy outfielder and shortstop, being used back of the plate. Nord has sufficiently recovered to take his old place at short, and Williams, who has covered the initial sack, will play in the outfield.

Elks to Play Ball.

Eveleth, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local Elks will go to Virginia by auto Sunday for a game with the Virginia lodge team. Both lineups include the names of former stars of the diamond and a real exhibition is expected.

Team Delays Traffic.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Traffic on the Mesaba Electric road was delayed yesterday for more than an hour and a half when a team owned by Hackett & Parks at Chisholm wandered onto the Longyear lake trestle and dropped between the ties. After considerable work on the part of the men employed at the park and gravel pit, the horses were raised sufficiently so that they could be pushed into the lake. They then swam to shore without injury.

MISSING CHISHOLM YOUTH IS FOUND.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 4.—Uno Sampson, aged 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sampson of Chisholm, whose mysterious disappearance three years ago was the cause of much excitement on the range, has been found.

He was found living with a settler near Elephant lake, twenty miles west of Cussons. The boy's father went to him and asked him to return to Chisholm, which the lad has agreed to do.

Chisholm Boys Drilling.

Chisholm, Minn., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interest in the drilling of local boys by John Enrico, formerly with the Fourteenth cavalry, and John Trome of the Third field artillery at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., is still very keen and the boys get out every evening and go through the drills and parade the principal streets, attracting considerable attention. They are preparing for a thirty-mile hike over Sunday to the North woods.

Railroads

RAILROADS CAN HANDLE ALL CROPS

North Dakota Railroad Official Has Little Doubt on Question.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Railroads are in good shape to handle the wheat crop of the Northwest, according to J. H. Griffin of Grand Forks, division freight agent of the Great Northern.

"All stations report a surplus of cars at the present time, and while the grain movement hasn't hardly commenced yet, this augurs well for the satisfactory handling of the grain. There is every reason to believe that the crop movement will not be retarded."

Northern Pacific officials make similar reports of the situation.

Wednesday the Great Northern handled 125 cars of new wheat on the Dakota division, embracing the northwestern section of the state, and yesterday they handled 145 cars of new wheat.

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, and stomach-ache are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of flas and acids. Wind distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, probably the best and most effective corrector of acid stomach known, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation, and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation, wind and acidity are dangerous and unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper antacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.—M. F. P.—Advertisement.

CROSSING WARNINGS.

Two Railroads to Guard Against Accidents at Grafton, N. D.

Grafton, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—After several men have been killed as a result of crossing accidents and the long continued demand of the city officials for more safety, the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific are putting in automatic signal bells at all crossings here. They begin to ring when a train approaches within 2,000 feet and ring until the train stops and uasses beyond that limit. These are expected to warn pedestrians and prevent fatalities.

Kurrie Heads Monon.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Harry R. Kurrie of Chicago was elected president of the Monon railroad at a meeting of directors held in New York. Announcement was made at headquarters here.

INFORMATION BOOTH PROVES ITS WORTH

The information booth mantained under the direction of the publicity committee of the Commercial club at the corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street has proved its worth this far. An accurate record has been kept of the number of people inquiring at the booth and it shows that from June 12 to Sept. 1, 19,136 people inquired, a daily average of 236. The record by months is:

Month.	Days.	Total.	Daily Av'age.
June	19	2,930	154
July	31	7,718	249
August	31	8,488	278
Total	81	19,136	236

The club has received several letters from visitors, who were enthusiastic in their appreciation of the service given at the booth. A representative of the Minneapolis Civic & Commerce association on a visit to the city made careful inquiry of the method of giving the service and the results, and several other visitors talked of introducing the plan in their home commercial organizations.

WESTERN STATES BUILDING ROADS.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Western states are showing greater progress in the construction of good roads than are the states of this portion of the Northwest, according to Dr. H. R. Brush, president of the Wonderland Trail association, who returned yesterday from a trip to the Pacific coast, in the interests of the Duluth to Seattle auto road. In the Western states, Dr. Brush says much work has been done on the trail, and it is in very good condition.

UNCLE SAM IN PROPHECY

Evangelist White Gives Discourse on Prophetic History.

Last night at the Bible Chautauqua tent on West Second street, near the Y. M. C. A., a large audience was present to join in the opening song, "America," after which Evangelist Stemple White delivered a stirring address on "The United States in Bible Prophecy."

Mr. White set on the blackboard nine points of identity, to show that "the two-horned beast" was a symbol of Uncle Sam and his work. True to all these points, Mr. White traced the rise of this nation from 1776 onward, explained how her territory was peaceably acquired, even as the two-horned beast was the only power that arose "out of the earth," for the great nations of conquest were pictured as arising out of the troubled sea.

Tonight Mr. White will speak on "Twentieth Century Church Councils, Religious Legislation and the 'Image to the Beast,'" and promises to disclose some most remarkable testimony as to the fulfillment of Revelation 13, which he says is now going on.

FLETCHER WILL REARRANGE NAVY.

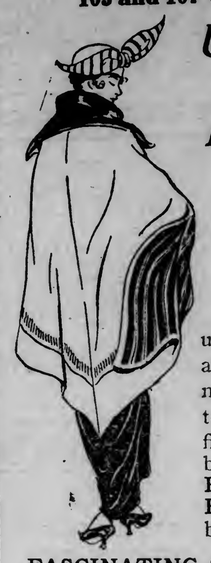

Washington, Sept. 4.—When Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher succeeds Rear Admiral Badger as commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet Sept. 17 he will carry out his own ideas regarding the organization and operations of the fleet. The admiral has been a member of the general board, has been a student of strategy and tactics for several years and Secretary Daniels has decided to give him an opportunity to put his views into practice.

Admiral Fletcher intends to make the First and Fourth divisions, as representing the ends of the fleet either in column or line, the strongest divisions. It is also his purpose to establish a cruiser division.

FIRST STATION OF CITY LIGHT PLANT ORDERED BY THE CITY COUNCIL

Commissioner Merritt Is Told to Begin Construction at West Duluth.

Will Provide Current for District West of Thirty-Eighth Avenue.

Company Has Not Yet Refused or Accepted City's Offer.

The city council today passed a resolution directing Commissioner Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, to proceed with the construction of a municipal electric light plant, the first unit of which will be installed at West Duluth.

The utility commissioner is ordered to proceed with plans and specifications for supplying current to the entire city and to contract for the construction and equipment of the first transformer station to be located so as to furnish electricity to the section lying between Thirty-eighth and Seventy-third avenues west.

Advice of Experts.

The city proposes to proceed under the recommendation of C. L. Pillsbury and W. B. Rittenhouse, the engineers who recently completed the valuation of the Duluth-Edison plant. This is that if the property of the corporation cannot be purchased at a reasonable price, the city "install a distribution system consisting of lines radiating from numerous small sub-stations located at sub-centers of distribution throughout the city, these sub-stations to be supplied with current purchased from the Great Northern Power company."

The action of the city commission follows the failure of the Duluth-Edison company to accept within the twenty days allowed the offer of the city to purchase its plant and business for $1,107,940.54, the full value as calculated by Rittenhouse and Pillsbury. The figure represents $907,940.54, the present physical value, and $200,000 for "going value," including allowances for good will, the upbuilding of the business, etc.

Time Limit Expires.

The time limit of twenty days expired yesterday. The only word received from the company was a request two days ago from President A. W. Hartman for a short extension of time in which to submit an answer.

City Attorney Harvey Clapp, who prepared the resolution, stated this morning that the city council has ample power to proceed along these lines, as full authority to do so is conferred upon it by the city charter. Section 8 of chapter viii provides for "a public utility fund for the acquisition, construction, support, maintenance and operation of any public utility owned or operated by the city," and it is under that section which the council is proceeding to secure an electric lighting plant for Duluth. Submission to the people for approval is not required, according to the officials.

Caution Is Urged.

When the resolution, the most far-reaching yet passed by the council towards acquiring a municipal electric plant, was introduced, Fred J. Voss, finance commissioner, expressed the belief that it would be well to continue it until a later meeting, or at least until the meeting next Tuesday, for further consideration. He declared that the matter was one of the utmost importance to the city, and that the council should proceed with the greatest care.

He said that several courses were recommended by the engineers who made the appraisal, and that the council as a body had spent but little time on any of them. He also pointed out that the Edison company may yet file an answer, adding that he had been told that this would be not later than the next meeting, which comes Tuesday afternoon. The finance commissioner stated that he was on record for municipal ownership, but that he was suggesting more time in order that the council might be better informed before passing any resolution ordering action. He voted for the resolution, however, and it passed unanimously by a vote of 4 to 0, Commissioner Murchison being absent.

Mayor Prince stated that he favored the immediate passage of the resolution, and that its passage would not interfere with the company's presenting an answer next Tuesday or at a subsequent meeting, if it desired to do so.

Commissioner Merritt strongly urged the passage of the resolution. He asserted that the Edison company has been causing delay and would continue to do so if permitted.

Time to Act.

Commissioner Hicken declared that the time had come for the city to act. He said that if the city were to undertake to condemn the present plant the company could continue the case in the courts for two or three years, during which time it would be collecting a tribute of $170,600 to $175,000 a year. He said that the people are paying too much for their light and that it could well afford to pay attorney's fees and legal expenses.

Commenting upon the substations the report submitted by the engineers who made the appraisal says that "The substations could be made very attractive little buildings containing only simple and durable apparatus requiring moderate attendance, so that initial cost, conversion and distribution losses, operation and maintenance costs, and depreciation charges would all be brought to a minimum. A further advantage would lie in the fact that these substations and their distributing systems could be installed one at a time and be put into operation immediately upon completion of each unit, so that not only would the initial cost of building up such a system be low, but there would be a very short period of idle investment. This plan would enable the city in time to make lower rates than under any of the other plans mentioned and lower than could profitably be made by the existing company."

The Resolution.

The resolution passed by the council this morning reads as follows:

"Whereas, By resolution passed by the city council on the city of Duluth on the seventh day of August, 1914, an offer was made to the Duluth-Edison Electric company to purchase the plant, equipment and property of the Duluth-Edison company for the sum of $1,107,940.45, by the terms of which resolution said offer was to remain in force for a period of twenty days after the publication of said resolution and the service of a copy thereof upon said company; and

"Whereas, The said period of twenty days so fixed in said resolution has expired; and

"Whereas, The said offer has not been accepted by the Duluth-Edison Electric company, now therefore,

Be it resolved, That the commissioner of public utilities be and he is hereby directed to take such steps as may be necessary or proper for the installation of a municipal electric lightning plant.

"Be it further resolved, That said commissioner of public utilities be and he is hereby directed to prepare the general and detail plans for a municipal electric lighting plant in accordance with the recommendations of Messrs .Pillsbury and Rittenhouse as described in course four of said report on the valuation of the Duluth-Edison plant under date of July 30, 1914. Such plans shall consist of a desirable number of transformer stations located advantageously in different sections of the city receiving power from the Great Northern Power company's lines and equipped with transformers, lightning arresters, switches, regulators, relays and such other apparatus as may be necessary, together with such poles and distributing lines as may be necessary for the proper distribution of current to the city's customers.

"It is further resolved, That as soon as practicable upon the completion of these plans that the commissioner of public utilities is hereby directed to contract for the construction and equipment of the first transformer station to be located so as to supply electric current to that portion of the city located approximately between Thirty-eighth avenue west and Seventy-third avenue west, and to place said unit in active operation at as early a date as possible."

SHERIFF HAS LITTLE BILL

Wants $401 From City for Taking Prisoners to Farm.

City Attorney Will Pass on Legality of Charge.

Aside from passing the resolution directing Commissioner Merritt to proceed with an electric light plant to compete with the Duluth-Edison company, the city council transacted only routine business at its meeting this morning.

The meeting was called primarily to pass the payroll for August in order that the employes may draw their monthly stipends tomorrow, the regular pay day.

Sheriff John R. Meining presented a bill for $401.80 for transporting prisoners to and from the work farm since Jan. 1. He asks $332 as statutory charges for executing that number of commitments and the balance as mileage for hauling the prisoners to the farm. The bill was referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to its legality.

J. F. Killorin of the Northwestern Oil company was granted a revocable permit to install a gasoline supply tank on the north side of Superior street between Washington avenue and Eighth avenue east.

The request of the Hillside Commercial club for the installation of a bubbling fountain at Fifth avenue east and Fourth street was referred to Commissioner Merritt.

An invitation was received to attend the annual convention of the League of American Municipalities to be held in Milwaukee Sept. 29 to Oct. 2.

Water and gas mains were ordered extended in Superior street to a point 876 feet easterly of Thirty-sixth avenue east and in Woodland avenue from Winona street to lot 16, block 9, Woodland Park addition. These are the first extensions ordered under the new ordinance assessing guarantees against all property benefited.

The paving of Fifth alley between Third and Fourth avenues was ordered. The estimated cost is $2,229.

The contract for the paving of West Fifth street from Twenty-first avenue to Piedmont avenue was awarded to A. Bodin on his bid of $3,835.79 for bituminous concrete.

An ordinance appropriating $100 for a contingent fund for the public library was given its first reading.

All bids for the construction of an iron stairway leading from the Lake avenue viaduct to the lower side of East Michigan street were rejected. All were over the maximum cost of $300 authorized by the council.

CAN SELL ARMS TO ANY BELLIGERENT

Washington Makes Clear U. S. Position as to Supplies.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, has not presented to the state department any evidence of coaling and provisioning of British warships at sea by an American vessel.

The ambassador asserted recently that American firms were selling ammunition to Great Britain, but did not take the subject up with the department.

Officials of the department informally explained today that the attitude of the United States was clearly established. Firms can sell ammunition to any belligerents, all such articles being subject, however, to capture at sea as contraband cargo.

As to Coaling at Sea.

As to coaling to warships at sea, the state department established a precedent in the recent sailing of the Mexican steamer Mazatlan from San Francisco, suspected at the time of an intention to coal the German cruiser Leipzig. The vessel was given clearance papers for Guaymas, Mex., with the understanding that if the American consul there did not report her arrival on a certain date with her cargo intact, the Mazatlan would be regarded as a man of war and be prohibited from coaling in any American port again for three months. Similar action would be taken with respect to vessels flying the American flag, it was said.

THE WAY EGGS CROSS FOOTLIGHTS.

Green Book Magazine: Reynolds Wolf tells this one of Nora Bayes:

Once Miss Bayes was appearing in a breakfast scene where eggs were being served, and a child sitting in a box made manifest his interest in the food. Stepping down to the footlights she tendered the youngster an egg, but his mother drew back her child with a sign of annoyance.

"You should let the young man take it," said Miss Bayes quietly. "It is unique for eggs to be passed from this side of the footlights."

NO HOLIDAY FOR COURTS

Judges Must Work While Others Go to Hibbing.

$100,000 Breach of Promise Suit May Be Continued.

Although tomorrow will be observed as a holiday in most of the county offices, so as to permit county officials and members of the clerical staff to attend the St. Louis county fair at Hibbing on Duluth day, the courts will be open for business as usual. The special term calendar for the day includes hearings on motions in a number of important cases.

Motions for continuance for the September term will be heard by the court in two cases. Baldwin, Baldwin & Holmes, attorneys for Dwight Gilbert Cutler, defendant in $100,000 breach of promise suit filed by Adelaide Rees of San Francisco, will ureg a motion to have the case continued to the November term of court and Gust Egdahl, defendant in an action brought by Inga Rensaa to recover damages she claims to have sustained by reason of her husband's disabilities incurred in the Egdahl saloon several months ago, will also ask for further time. The case was tried once and an $8,000 verdict returned in Mrs. Rensaa's favor. Judge Dancer granted a new trial.

St. Louis Case Up.

The court will also take up motions in the injunctional suit filed by J. W. Irwin against the city in the case involving the fate of the St. Louis hotel bar liquor license, and a number of other matters.

An order to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be granted restraining the directors of the Higgins company from disposing of any of the corporation's assets and why a receiver should not be appointed to take charge of the company's affairs is also returnable tomorrow. The order is directed against Mrs. Kate Higgins, widow of the late Frank W. Higgins, former governor of New York and other directors of the Higgins company, her dissolution of which is sought by Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins, a daughter-in-law, who owns a two-ninths interest in the company.

Monday will be a legal holiday at the courthouse owing to the fact that it is Labor day. On Tuesday the cases on the September term calendar will be taken up. The first actions to be tried will be the McAlpine insurance cases, of which there are three. Mrs. Sarah K. McAlpine, widow of the late John McAlpine is suing the insurance companies for claims aggregating $89,000. The companies have interposed a double defense claiming that both she was instrumental in causing his death and that Mr. McAlpine was a suicide.

STRATEGIC VALUE OF PLACES CHANGED

Berlin Says Allies' Predictions Have Failed to Hold Good.

Berlin, Sept. 4.—By wireless to the Associated Press, via station at Sayville.—The towns of Chalons and Verdun have lost their strategetic importance, as a result of the German advance. Toul and Epinal (capital of the department of Vosges) may delay the armies of Prince Rupprecht and Gen. von Heeringen, but this is unimportant. Raids in Upper Alsace are to be expected while Belfort is in the hands of the French, but this is without significance so far as the general result is concerned.

The Lokal Anzieger points out that the taking by the Germans of Lafere and Laon almost without a blow means the capture of a position on the line where the population had been reassured, and which line, according to the assertion of the latest English papers received here, would hold out long against the Germans.

Austrian Aid Great.

It is now revealed that Austrian motor batteries, each consisting of two 12-inch guns mounted in automobiles, have been co-operating with the German heavy artillery in the reduction of Northern fortresses. The mobility and accuracy of the fire of these batteries is highly praised by headquarters, and the special correspondents.

The decoration of the Order of the Iron Cross has been conferred upon Aviator Lieutenants Zahn and Rheinhardt. The aerial arm of the German forces probably will receive many such distinctions as their achievements over a heavy fire have been remarkable.

New York, Sept. 4.—In view of the fact that doubts have been expressed as to the genuineness of messages from Germany via the Sayville wireless station, a careful study of the original of the foregoing dispatch to the Associated Press, containing as it does certain indicia as used only by the Associated Press and other matter in the text, establishes its genuineness. The message was filed in Berlin early today and was sent in accordance with instructions transmitted to the Berlin bureau by wireless on Wednesday last.

GERMAN AVIATOR IS RESCUED AT SEA

Harwich, Eng., Sept. 4, 5:07 p. m.—A British submarine has brought in a German airman and his mechanic who were found floating on their fallen aeroplane sixty miles off the coast. After rescuing the men the submarine sunk the aeroplane.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE.

New York Tribune: The boy or girl who is given some useful work to do at home is helped to realize and to enjoy the responsibility of doing the task and doing it well and is thus gaining in character building. It may be that a boy is expected to keep a yard in order, go on errands, or relieve some one of care; or that a girl is required to attend to some household tasks, to dust a room, or keep a desk in neat condition, arrange flowers for the table, or make a dainty dessert. Little things, faithfully done, help to form habits of neatness, orderliness, thoroughness. These duties may seem small but they are important beginnings.

Work of any sort is a training. The habit of concentration helps to give power and decision.

Success is never won by a careless, slipshod, slovenly way of working, but by a patient, persistent, faithful habit of attention to detail, and in the conscientious fulfilment of a task, large or small, and whether it is liked or not.

The honest purpose should be to do it well, although it may neither be observed nor praised.

Whatever our daily work the discipline of it teaches us self-restraint, obedience to law and guides us to a well-ordered life.

THIRTY-TWO TRUE BILLS ARE RESULT OF FOOD PRICES

Washington Dealers Are Accused of Boosting Living Cost.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Thirty-two indictments were returned here today by a Federal grand jury, after an investigation to determine whether food prices had been artificially increased here on pretext of having been caused by the European war.

Bench warrants were issued for all the indicted men, who are local commission merchants or produce dealers, and bail was arranged for their appearance in court. No nationally known concerns were indicted.

The indictment charges that they have been fixing prices every day on food stuffs by "ballots" or "suggestions," or verbal agreements and that the fixed prices have been circulated by printed circulars. The indictments are under the Sherman law, and conviction carries a fine of $5,000 or one year's imprisonment or both.

THE HEALTH-SEEKER

There's More to It Than "Take First Train to Another Climate."

By THEODORE C. MERRILL, M. D.

She was brave, industrious, was Little Woman, married to a brave, industrious, but poorly informed Little Man. Little Woman stayed properly at home and cared for her nest; Little Man daily went forth to labor at very particular steel things.

Little Woman could do everything about the house; Little Man could do just one thing connected with the manufacture of finely graduated calipers or gauges, capable of measuring the thickness—or rather, the thinness—of writing-paper.

It is not the purpose of this account to describe the conditions of Little Man's job; suffice it to say that he had to spend many bent-over hours each day away from fresh air, benevolent sunlight, and healthful out-of-doors. The development of tuberculosis in Little Man was natural. He wasn't very robust by birth; he wasn't informed about tubercular infection; and all he could do was to "plug along at the job."

Of course, when he became unable to do his work well, that is to say, when "the boss kicked too much," he consulted a doctor. The doctor, a busy man who wrote and talked mechanically, prescribed a mechanical remedy for the mechanic who was to swallow it; for he said that the mechanic's trouble was a "chronic cough." And thus it was that Little Man had a narrow squeak.

The doctor had a medical friend who, himself, had taken chances, gone to Texas, or Arizona, or New Mexico, or somewhere in "the Southwest;" and it occurred to the Eastern man, as it occurs to so many Eastern men, that the Southwest was the very place for sick, helpless mechanics who have every opportunity of finding sustenance in a region where factories are practically unknown and specialized mechanisms entirely of the imported variety! So Little Man listened to the advice which pointed him to life-giving prairie air and provided miraculously for work, and went home to Little Woman to talk things over and count up cash. Little Woman knew that Little Man must do something for himself, and, equally that she must do something for them both. Therefore, she would take in sewing or go after it, in that wonderful Southwest of plenteous jobs, while Little Man might work at something-or-other-which-the-Lord-would-provide. In this simple way, Little Man would speedily get well, home would hold together, and a vacation outing would take the place of the mechanical misery of graduated gauges. Cash? They counted it. They had just about one hundred dollars besides the expense of a journey to the Southwest.

It never occurred to them not to trust the doctor—he had often and often trusted them!

It never occurred to the doctor not to trust his own mechanical prescription. He had no time to study rush and dust and other mysteries of very particular steel things.

So the doctor sent the young couple away to the Southwest, omitting to notify his friend, the Southwest doctor, about them until they were on the train. Then it was too late for the Southwest doctor to do anything but think unprintable things when he learned that he was to meet at the train two ignoramuses fighting tuberculosis and expecting to find jobs just as soon as the stiff and scanty foliage which competed with cactus for the limited moisture of air and soil.

The "ignoramuses" hadn't written ahead to ascertain about board or a place to stay or the number of sewing women in the community. They were going to Healthdom. That was enough. Hadn't the doctor said that?

So they got off the train and smiled just as hard as their new doctor did and the smiles looked almost exactly the same—as hopeful as hopeful could be.

The new doctor examined Little Man and found moderately advanced, but not necessarily hopeless, tuberculosis. The young mechanic had a fighting chance providing he could rest, live in cozy quarters and have good food.

To understand possibilities, the new doctor had to have a private talk with Little Woman. With this doctor of the Southwest, private talks had become almost as mechanical as the prescriptions of his Eastern confrere—thank God, not quite!

The new doctor sent Little Man with a letter to the foreman of railway machine shops in the next town—the only mechanical industry in the vicinity.

While Little Man was gone, the new doctor gently explained to Little Woman that she could not earn more than a dollar a week there by sewing or other labor. There were many other women in the locality adding to pinmoney, or killing time, or waiting for death to carry away a loved one—all just so many factors contributing to use up money and decrease chances for renumeration.

About the time Little Woman was crying her eyes out, all by herself, at the terrible prospect she was facing, Little Man came back smiling cheerily because he hadn't been able to find work and didn't wish to bother wifey with a trifle synonymous with Despair. But he didn't smile when he went to see the Southwest doctor and have a private talk of his own.

The new doctor probed. Little Man had a brother in Manitoba. Prairie country, that! fresh air! out of doors! New doctor felt hope all through him. So he asked falteringly if the brother could help take care of Little Man for a time.

Hurrah! Brother was not only fully able to support Little Man, but would fairly love to do so. Then why—why in—in heaven—hadn't the Eastern doctor sent Little Man out to Manitoba at once, thereby saving this needless waste of travel expense to the Southwest?

Little Man didn't know.

"You've got just enough money to get you both to Manitoba," pointed out the Southwest doctor. "Hike, while times are good. In three weeks, if you stay here, you'll be on the county—and how would you like that for medicine? Your chance is in Manitoba, not in the Southwest."

So Little Man mustered up quite a genuine smile, after all, at leaving the Southwest instead of at living there!

In Manitoba he got well. But it was a narrow squeak.

"Find out first, find out first," adjures Little Woman; "and be sure to make Eastern, or Western, or Northern, or Southern doctors translate for you and explain all about any prescription beginning: 'Take first train to another climate.'"

A LONESOME DONKEY.

National Monthly: Last summer Mr. Oakes, an eminent lawyer, sent his wife and young daughter to a farmhouse in the White mountains for a vacation. Shortly after he received an urgent from the little girl to send her a pet donkey to use while there. She had read about donkeys and heard about them, but was not at all familiar with their peculiar vocalism.

The donkey arrived and the child had many rides around the vicinity. She enjoyed it all hugely except the animal's strange noises, which inspired her with the profoundest pity for his evident distress.

One day, after vainly trying to subdue his vocalism, she wrote a letter to her father, in which she said:

"Dear Father: I do wish you would come up here soon; my donkey is so very lonesome."

THE OLD FASHIONED SHAWL.

Washington Star: An old-fashioned shawl or large square of material may be converted into a handsome draped wrap for present use. To proceed, place the shawl wrong side up on a table, with the lengthwise middle fold in front, as this will be the line of the middle back from neck to bottom. Turn over toward you both upper corners at the right angles until the edges meet on the fold. About fourteen inches from the apex of the pyramid tack the two edges to the fold, and this joint becomes the middle of the neck in the back. Arrange on a form or on yourself.

The two lower corners will fall apart at the bottom. Take each in turn and loop it up under the arm until a loose sleeve is formed at the right place. Then lift the right lower corner and lay in plaits, one on top of the other. Lap this over on the left straight side and fasten with a hook and eye or fancy buckle.

ALMOST TOO MUCH.

Youth's Companion: The first carpet ever seen in East Hampton, Long Island, was in Parson Lyman Beecher's house. One day a little money came from Uncle Lot Benton, the good angel of the Beecher family. With it young Lyman bought the cotton; his wife, Roxanna, spun it, had it woven and painted it over in oil colors, with a gay border round the edge, and groups of flowers in the center.

When the new carpet was laid down, the people were astounded at the magnificence of the pastor's parlor. Good old Deacon Tallmadge, coming one day, stopped at the door afraid to enter.

"Walk in, deacon," said the pastor.

"I can't," he answered, "'thout stopping on't. D'ye think," he added, in wondering admiration, "ye can have all that an' heaven, too?"

WOULD MAKE CONCESSIONS.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Speaking of the willingness of some people to make most any concession in order to have peace, Congressman Roy O. Woodruff of Michigan told of an incident that recently happened in a public school.

The teacher in the aforesaid school was instructing a class of youngsters in geography, and after going through the lesson she closed the book and turned to Willie Jones.

"Willie," said she impressively, "what is the shape of the earth?"

"It's round, Miss Mary," was the prompt response of Willie.

"How do we know it is round?" was the teacher's next question.

"All right, Miss Mary," replied the youngster, yieldingly, "we'll make it square, then. 'Tain't no use startin' an argument about it."

TO CLEAN MILK BOTTLES.

Los Angeles Times: An easy way to clean milk bottles is to fill the bottle half full of hot soap suds and drop in the wire dish cloth that hangs over most everybody's sink. Give the bottle a few shakes and rinse with hot water and your bottles are thoroughly cleaned in a very few minutes.

WHEAT ADVANCES TO THE HIGHEST POINT IN YEARS

Market Bulges on Millers' Inquiry and Export Trade at Seaboard.

Trading in Flaxseed Quiet With Inquiry and Offerings Light.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 4.—The market was strong up to the close on heavy buying. September wheat closed 4⅝c up and December 4¾c up at the highest point in years. September durum closed 3½c up; October 3¾c up; November 3¾c up, and December 4½c.

Oats closed 1¾c up at 50½c for on the track. There was no market in rye. Barley closed 1c up at from 62c to 77c.

At Winnipeg October oats closed 1c up at 54¾c and December 1⅝c up at $1.29½ asked.

Puts on Minneapolis December wheat closed at $1.18½ asked and calls at $1.20½ asked.

Wheat prices were advanced to the highest range in many years on all the American markets today. There was a burst of buying at the opening, and it was continued throughout the session. The strength was attributable to heavy demand from millers and the reported working of liberal new foreign business in both flour and wheat. A Minneapolis milling company advised the sale of 100,000 bbl of flour for shipment to France today, and Scandinavia and Holland were also said to be in the market for American foodstuffs. New York exporters reported a large demand for rye flour for export, and the working of a substantial tonnage of it. Another bullish feature came in advices from Liverpool of a decline of 25 per cent in ocean freight rates due to a reduction in cargo war risks insurance rates. Shipments from the seaboard have been heavy of late, as evidenced in the clearances of wheat and flour last week aggregating 9,750,000 bu.

Cash wheat was especially strong at all points. At Kansas City the market in it was up 4@5c, while at Omaha a bulge of 8½c materialized. Due to the wet weather having interfered with threshing operations in the Northwest receipts here were light. Inspections today were 271 cars, compared with 387 last year. Stocks of wheat in the elevators here now total 1,584,000 bu, a decrease of 680,000 bu in the last five days. So far practically no shipping orders have been received by Duluth elevator men, but with a continuance of the milling and export call now being met with at the seaboard, it is expected that grain will be sent down the lakes in some volume in the near future.

October wheat opened unchanged at $1.19 and the market in it was advanced 3⅝c up to the final hour's trading. December opened unchanged at $1.19⅞ and gained 3⅝c.

September durum opened ¼c up at $1.11 and gained 2½c. October opened unchanged at $1.12½ and advanced 2½c. December opened unchanged at $1.13 and gained 3c.

Flax Strong, Too.

With the attention of operators directed to wheat, the market in flaxseed was comparatively neglected today. The opening was fractionally higher on some buying orders from crushers, while offerings were only limited. Final prices were ½@1c up.

September flax opened unchanged at $1.61½ and closed 1c up at $1.62½. October opened ½c up at $1.64 and closed 1c up at $1.64½ asked. November opened ½c up at $1.65½ and closed 1c up at $1.66 asked. December opened unchanged at $1.66½ and closed ½c up at $1.67.

At Winnipeg, October flax closed 1c up at $1.42. November closed at $1.43½ bid and December at $1.45.

Wheat now being received here is showing considerable dockage, according to H. E. Emerson, chief inspector of the Duluth grain inspection bureau. A large proportion of the grain is grading No. 3 northern and lower, and the presence of some wet stuff is noted as a result of the recent heavy rainfalls over the Northwest.

A London cable said that freight rates had declined 25 per cent as the result of a reduction in cargo war risk insurance rates.

• • •

Bradstreet's reported wheat and flour clearances for the week at 9,750,000 bu.

• • •

Rycroft wired from Chicago: "There won't be a bushel of wheat fed on this crop. It will be all corn fed, and foreigners will have to keep buying oats as America is the only source of supply. If Turkey joins in the war, there is no telling when Russia will be able to resume shipments from the Black sea. Of course, on these rallies, there is more or less profit taking, but I am content to sit on what I have, believing conditions later on warrant a very much higher level of values."

At Minneapolis the cash market was firm in blue stem at 6c to 8c over September. Velvet chaff was easy at 1c to 2c over September. Flour sales for export were reported. Cash No. 1 northern sold at from $1.21⅛ to $1.28⅛ and No. 2 northern at from $1.17⅛ to $1.26⅛. Supplies of wheat in Minneapolis elevators decreased 100,000 bu in the week.

• • •

C. S. Lewis & Co. wired Baker from Minneapolis: "The probabilities of Turkey entering the foreign conflict is a most important one so far as American wheat prices are concerned, and should not be overlooked by the trade. At present France and England can keep the Mediterranean open and receive supplies from Russia, but if Turkey enters the conflict it will permanently close in Dardanelles and completely shut off Russian and Danubian grain shipments."

• • •

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "In France the weather is fine and new wheat is moving. Millers are grinding freely. Arrivals continue liberal, but the government is still buying on a liberal scale and prices in Paris are again hardening. The port at Antwerp is open and daily sailings from Great Britain are now noted. Foodstuffs are moving and being supplied by the allies. Scandinavia and Denmark are placing large orders for both wheat and flour."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Continues to Break Present War Records.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Wheat today continued to break high price records of the present war. It was said that export demand was active and was based on large orders for the government of Great Britain, France and Greece. Besides, there were rumors that Holland had received an ultimatum from Germany. The opening, which was ¼@1½c higher, was followed by an additional ascent averaging more than 2c all around compared with last night.

Soaring of prices had not been checked until after 6 cents or more a bushel had been added to some values. Profit taking reactions were only of a temporary character.

The close was unsettled at an advance of 5c to 5⅞c net.

Corn swung upward with wheat. The market at first had been inclined to sag owing to the fine weather and larger receipts. After starting ⅛c off to ⅜@½c higher, prices scored a moderate general gain.

Reports of frost damage in Iowa helped incidentally to strengthen the market. The close was nervous at 1¾c to 1⅞c above last night.

Unabated export call had a bullish effect on oats. Profit-taking, though, by longs exercised a restraining influence and kept quotations within a comparatively narrow range.

Provisions were easy on account of lower prices for hogs. First transactions moved a shade to 5@7½c under last night.

Wheat—No. 2 red, $1.19½@1.23½; No. 3 hard, $1.18½@1.22½.

Japan will take this year as soon as physically possible more American cotton than ever before. The lowest estimates of her American cotton requirements are 2,000,000 bales. Japanese agents have instructions to purchase the cotton at 9½ cents or better. The aggregate purchase is in the neighborhood of $100,000,000 and will use more than 13 per cent of the entire American production.

"It is believed locally that England is aiding Japan in financing the huge purchases. Sixty and ninety-day cotton bills in yen have made their appearance in New York, but the bankers would have none of them. The bills were changed to sight bills in order to be financed more conveniently.

"Another reason for the sight bill transaction lies in the fact that Japan wants early delivery. Last year Japan used 2,000,000 bales of cotton in all, but obtained only about 500,000 from America. Her total requirements of all cotton, including Egyptian, this year are estimated at 3,000,000 bales.

"Japan's purpose in purchasing cotton is to capture the trade in piece goods with China which has been handled largely by Austria and Germany. Austria, before the outbreak of the war, was laying down piece goods in Shanghai as good in appearance as American piece goods and better than Japanese, for one-half the price. In consequence, Austria's piece goods trade with China was enormous.

"For the trade abandoned by Austria and Germany, Japan and the United States will divide the competition. Japan is taking the jump on America and is planning to go after the Chinese trade with a rush."

BIG JOBS FOR STEEL MILLS

Manufacturers Encouraged By Volume of New Business.

Iron and steel manufacturers regard the volume of new business being placed with the mills this week as encouraging in view of the strained foreign conditions and the stiff money market.

An interesting feature is the increased inquiry for pig iron in the East. Standard steel rail mills are reported to be now operating on a slightly higher basis than July, with further inquiries coming to hand from both Eastern and Western railroads for tonnage to cover their usual fall programs of repairs to roadbeds.

Prices in steel products are holding wellwith no changes reported in any direction. The recent advanced quotations of $21 on billets and $22 on sheet bars have been established by actual sales at Pittsburg and Youngstown. The receipt of several large inquiries for pig iron is also advised by Eastern furnace men.

Foreign inquiries for finished steel products are being received in fair volume and the booking of some substantial British and French orders shortly is expected by the United States Steel corporation.

An official of a large Chicago steel concern reports that his company's operations have been increased materially this week due to the better general demand. Orders for steel wire from South America are said to have been booked by mills there within the last few days.

CONDITIONS SOUND IN EVERY QUARTER

Northern Pacific Head Sees Fine Outlook in Northwest.

J. M. Hannaford, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, expresses himself in optimistic terms in the course of an interview at New York during his visit there this week.

He said that he regards the underlying trade conditions in the Northwest as sound in every quarter and that he could see abundant reasons for confidence in the outcome during the next few months. He commented on the fact that the farmer is holding his grain for better prices, and he found cause for gratification in the attitude of the banks and grain buyers in enabling growers to harvest and market their crops without diffic

ALLIES AGREE TO MAKE NO INDIVIDUAL PEACE; GERMANS ADVANCE, LEAVING PARIS ON RIGHT

BRITISH CRUISER BRISTOL IS BADLY DAMAGED IN FIGHT NEAR HAYTI BY KARLSRUHE

GLASGOW IS REPORTED AS DESTROYED

English at Georgetown Deny Story of Loss of Warship.

German Officer Brings News of Bristol to New York.

Says Karlsruhe Captured and Sank Two Merchantmen.

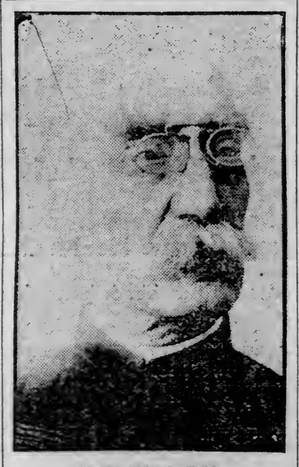

New York, Sept. 5.—The German cruiser Karlsruhe has engaged and badly disabled the British cruiser Bristol off the coast of Hayti, according to H. H. Weissner, a lieutenant of the German army, and leader of seventy-eight Germans who arrived here today on the Clyde line steamship Algonquin from Puerto Colombia on their way to join the colors.

The German lieutenant also said that a Dutch skipper had brought word to Puerto Colombia that the Karlsruhe had met and sunk the British cruiser Glasgow off the Colombian coast. This, however, he said, was denied by British officials in Georgetown. Before meeting with the Bristol, Lieut. Weissner asserted the Karlsruhe captured two British steamships, transferred their passengers, crew and stores to the cruiser and then sent the ships to the bottom.

Marooned the Prisoners.

After sinking the merchantmen, the Karlsruhe sailed to a small island in the Caribbean sea, off the port of Baranquilla, Colombia, and there landed the people taken from the British ship. Sufficient food for a month was also left on the island. The marooned passengers and the crew may be on the island yet, Lieut. Weissner said. He had not heard that they had been taken of.

GERMANS MOVING TROOPS EASTWARD

Seem to Be Drawing Men From Alsace Lorraine.

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Copenhagen dated Friday says: "Berlin dispatches indicate that the Germans are throwing troops back eastward to meet Russia's advance.

"The president of the German military staff controlling the railways states that the principal lines will close for the present, so that on the German section the main communication between Scandinavian countries and the continent, via Gjerdser and Warnemunde, is again shut down. All the rolling stock, it is said, is now wanted for moving a large number of troops to the eastward.

"Further indications are that the points the troops are being withdrawn from are Alsace and Lorraine.

"All the German railroads are now closed to civil traffic, and land communication from Berlin and Copenhagen is stopped."

CITY OF TERMONDE HAS BEEN DESTROYED.

London, Sept. 5, 8:12 a. m.—A dispatch to the Central News from Amsterdam reports that Termonde, sixteen miles east by south of Ghent, has been hastily destroyed and that railway communication is interrupted.

NO LETTERS IN GERMANY

"Write Only Cards," Woman Writes to Sister in Hibbing.

Gives Some Notion of the Feeling in the Fatherland.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A graphic description of some of the scenes in the war-infested countries of Europe has been received by Mrs. Ernest Michaelson of this village from her sister in Germany. As no letters are allowed in the mails, the story came on a series of potsal cards running in numerica l order. Combined they read as follows, being dated at Wismar, Aug. 16:

"My dear Katie—This time we cannot write you a letter, as only open postcards are permitted, but my congratulations to your birthday are nonetheless hearty. Your thoughts probably oftentimes drift to our beloved Germany, which now must struggle through so perilous a time. On the other hand, the time is also mighty inspiring—the courage, enthusiasm

GENERAL'S DAUGHTERS JOIN RUSSIAN ARMY

Dress as Soldiers and Will Be Sent to the Front.

London, Sept. 5, 4:48 a. m.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Times telegraphs a story to the effect that two daughters of Gen. Tomilovsky, one of the Russian commanders, have volunteered for the war. In compliance with their persistent request, they have been permitted to dress themselves in soldiers' uniform and they will be sent to advanced positions.

FIVE GERMAN CORPS REACH THE VISTULA

Paris, Sept. 5, via London.—Five German army corps have arrived at the Vistula river, according to the Rome correspondent of the Paris Matin. These corps are mostly from Belgium and the north of France, the correspondent says, and were brought up to oppose the advance of the Russians.

PUT BELGIUM UNDER THE GERMAN TIME

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Central News from Amsterdam reports that the Germans have changed the time of the Belgian clocks, altering them one hour to synchronize them with the German clocks. When Belgian citizens protested Gen. von Der Goltz replied: "In Germany there should be only one time."

PARIS ON GERMANS' RIGHT.

Paris, Sept. 5, 3:15 p. m.—An official announcement says: "The enemy is pursuing his wide * * * movement. He continues to leave the entrenched camp of Paris on his right and to march in a southeast direction."

(One word, the omission of which from the French official statement is indicated by asterisks, is evidently confused in transmission. It appears most likely to have been meant for "converging.")

FIRST GREAT CLIMAX NEAR.

London, Sept. 5.—The first great climax of the campaign of the allies against Germany, waged so relentlessly for weeks past in Northern France, will not now be long delayed, according to opinion in London. But with which side will rest the real advantage is still entirely a matter of speculation.

The first official communication from Bordeaux, the new seat of the French government, speaks of the German movement on Paris as having been diverted to the eastward, in which direction the invaders have reached La Ferte-Sous-Jouarre, some thirty miles east of Paris. This would seem to confirm the German announcement that the allied forces have been driven back to, and in some cases, across the river Marne.

According to other sources of information the German troops are much nearer Paris than has been indicated officially; they are said to be within a few miles of Chantilly, twenty miles north of the capital.

German Staff at Mons.

The German general staff has moved from Brussels to Mons, Belgium, nearer the scene of operations, and Austrian soldiers, apparently have been brought from Lorraine to the western theater of war to fill the enormous gap in the ranks of their allies, the Germans.

The Petrograd war office now estimates that the Russian victories in Galicia and the Servian victory at Jadar have so crippled the forces of the dual monarchy that only ten Russian army corps are needed to keep Austria in check. This releases twenty corps for the invasion of Germany.

Ready for Fall of Paris.

If Paris falls, the effect already has been more or less discounted in London, as the war office has managed to convey the impression to the public that the capture of the French capital means only the prolongation of the war. This phase of the situation, brought home to the British public, has unquestionably stimulated recruiting.

There is no indication that the allies in the west intend to assume the aggressive. On the other hand, the indications are that if the Germans capture Paris, every effort will be made to render it a barren triumph by leading the Germans from position to position in a series of rear guard actions until the invaders are exhausted.

The first official communication from the new capital of France at Bordeaux indicates the failure of a German flanking movement, evidently intended to cut the left wing of the allies.

"Hungry for News."

Meanwhile the English public, hungry for news of the operations of the allied armies in the western theater of the war, had to content itself today with the brief official communications issued from Paris and Bordeaux. These only whetted the appetite.

Military experts believe the Germans are preparing for a grand assault upon Paris in the hope of battering down the defenses of the capital. This is because the investment of Paris, while the huge, mobile army of the allies is outside the city, would not appear to be a logical part of the swift German campaign.

News of the withdrawal of German troops toward the Prussian frontier is not generally credited here, because with their supreme effort in the west as a primary object, the Germans are hardly likely to weaken their forces.

Belgians Active Again.

News from Northern Belgium indicates that the Belgian troops are recovering from the gruelling punishment inflicted upon them by the German invaders and are resuming their activities.

In some quarters the belief prevailed that the German plan of campaign may be radically changed by the Austrian disasters, but in spite of this move, observers are of the opinion that Germany must continue her remorseless advance in the west without considering the misfortunes of her ally.

These misfortunes are now admitted by Vienna, whence has come official admission that the Russians have captured both Lemberg and Halicz.

GUARANTEE TURKEY WILL STAY INTACT

Powers of the Entente Make That Price of Neutrality.

London, Sept. 5.—A belated message from Constantinople, dated Aug. 31, says the ambassadors to Turkey of the powers of the entente—Great Britain, Russia and France—renewed in a more formal manner the communication made to the grand vizier on Aug. 17, guaranteeing the independence and integrity of the Ottoman empire against all comers, should Turkey observe strict neutrality in the European war. The ambassadors left with the grand vizier a written statement on the subject.

RUSSIANS ARE INVADING AUSTRIA FROM TOMASOW

Both Lemberg and Halicz in Galicia Have Fallen.

Stories of Terrific Encounter Are Told in Dispatches.

Rome, Sept. 5, via Paris.—Sergius Sazonoff, the Russian foreign minister, has telegraphed the Russian embassy here that the Austrian defeat near Lemberg was much greater than at first appeared. The Austrians, in escaping, left on the battlefield, besides 25,000 men, nearly 200 cannon, flags, ammunition carriages and thousands of horses.

The Russion foreign minister adds that the Russians have also invaded Austria from Tomasow.

As a whole, the Austrian division was practically annihilated. Among the killed were the general in chief and his staff. A large number of prisoners were taken, including several officers.

Halicz Also Occupied.

London, Sept. 5.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Post, describing the Russian advance on Lemberg, says:

"The Austrians were concentrating two more army corps toward the east of their position to face the Russian

SERVIANS REPORT ON LOOT OF BATTLE

Big Lot of Supplies Declared Captured at Jadar.

Nish, Servia, Sept. 4, via London, Sept. 5, 8:50 a. m.—According to the official organ Srpski Novine, the following spoil was captured by the Servians in the battle of Jadar:

A hundred cannon, of which 92 were field guns.

Eight siege guns.

Twenty-five hundred horses.

Three hospitals of 3,000 beds.

Thirty-seven mitrailleuses.

Thirty-seven thousand mauser rifles.

One hundred and fourteen full caissons, containing 500 shells for each cannon; ammunition.

Four thousand six hundred prisoners, including a large number of officers and one military band with its conductor.

Three regimental cash boxes full of money.

One aeroplane.

The Austrian dead are estimated to number between 30,000 and 32,000.

Gen. Yovanovitch reports that he alone had 10,000 of the enemies' bodies buried. Other Servian generals' reports of their successes have not yet been received.

Take Over Crystal Palace.

London, Sept. 5, 9:30 a. m.—The admiralty has taken over Crystal palace for naval training purposes, which are to begin in a fortnight.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Conflicting news dispatches and vague official statements leave the fortune of the immense armies struggling before Paris today a matter of conjecture. All accounts agree, however, that the moment is approaching swiftly when the French capital must have resort to its own defenses. Despite occasional temporary successes of the allies, their line appears to be slowly giving ground before the German advance. The Germans, in a semi-circle, seem to have reached points east and west of Paris, their left wing touching La Ferte-Sous-Jouarre, in the department of Seine-et-Marne.

The exact position of the German right wing is not revealed, but so far as known it has not succeeded in getting around the allies' left, formed by British troops.

A Rome dispatch says that five German army corps have arrived at the river to support the defense against the Russian invaders of East Prussia.

The Russian general staff claims that its victorious army in Galicia is sweeping the Austrians before it.

Further fighting is reported at Termonde, sixteen miles east of Ghent, suggesting that the Belgian forces from Antwerp have again entered the fray.

There is no additional news regarding the Russian troops having been landed at Ostend from British transports.

The Servians claim that the Austrians left 30,000 dead after the battle of Jadar, and that the Servians captured 4,600 prisoners.

An official statement issued at Paris this afternoon says the Germans continue to leave Paris on their right and to march in a southeasterly direction.

DENY MAKING BAD DOLLARS

Brothers Arrested for Counterfeiting Say They Are Innocent.

Police Find Complete Outfit in Cave on the Hillside.

Declaring that the tools found in their house belong to William Johnson, who left the city last Wednesday; that the counterfeit dollars found in their possession were given them as change in a West end saloon and also by Johnson, and that the plant hidden in a cave at the crest of the hill above Central park was entirely unknown to them, the two brothers, Peter and Matt Niukkonen, who were taken into custody early yesterday afternoon on a charge of counterfeiting, are being held by the police for the United States Federal authorities. A secret service officer is expected here early this afternoon from St. Paul.

The two brothers, who live at 1712 West Second street, will face a Federal charge of counterfeiting and will probably be arraigned in the United States court here next week. Should they be indicted and convicted, the brothers will face a maximum penalty of five years in the Federal prison.

Counterfeit Dollars.

Sergeant Hunter, who is in charge of the West end station in the absence of Sergeant Holmstrom, began investigating the case several days ago. Complaints had been made lately by West end saloon keepers that counterfeit dollars were in circulation, and yesterday morning Sergeant Hunter learned that the money had been passed at the following saloons and stores in that part of the city: Thomas Atol, 1829 West Superior street; John Atol, 1603 West Superior street; Herman Quistrom, 1911 West Superior street; Alfred Rye, 2002 West First street, and Andrew Carlson, 31 North Nineteenth avenue west.

Further inquiry revealed the fact that two men had been purchasing copper rivets and tin at Gustafson's hardware store, 18 North Nineteenth avenue west, and in this way Sergeant Hunter learned the address of the two brothers. He had also obtained their descriptions from the saloon keepers.

Sergeant Hunter then sent William Tengblad, a clerk at the hardware store, and Thomas Atol, saloon keeper, to the house of Peter Niukkonen on a pretext of being in search of a rooming house. When the two men left, Peter followed them and Sergeant Hunter, who was around the corner, arrested him on suspicion. The officer then went to the house and arrested Matt, on whom one of the counterfeit dollars was found, when he was searched.

Through further inquiries and on information furnished by two boys, Mahlon La Crosse, 117 Park avenue, and Phillip Gustafson, 114 Park avenue, that they had seen two men making daily trips up the hillside above Central park, the police later in the day located a complete counterfeiters' plant hidden inside a cave. The hunt along the hillside lasted for nearly two days. Chief Troyer, Capt. Fiskett, Detectives Schulte and Toewe and Sergeant Hunter conducted the search, aided by La Crosse and Gustafson, and two other boys, Edwin Wohl and Paul Miller, who came to the scene a little later.

Tools in Cave.

The tools found in the cave consist of metal dies for molding, two double bellows and a small blast furnace, files, brushes, hammers and tongs. A search at the Niukkonen home a little later revealed more tools of a similar nature. These are all being held at headquarters as evidence against the two brothers.

This morning the brothers told Chief Troyer that the tools found in their house were left there by William Johnson, whom they met but recently and who left the city last Wednesday. He is unable to talk English, they claim. They also deny having made the counterfeit money and declare that the dollars found in their possession were given them by Johnson before he left, and that $4 was given them by a saloon keeper as part change for a $10 bill. The police found $11 in all on the two brothers. They deny having had any knowledge of the plant in the cave.

The metal dies appear very old and the police believe that they have been in use for many years. The dollars have the correct weight, but not the true ring. From all appearances, the copper rivets were melted, made into a disk and placed into the mold. Then the molten tin was poured in, the edges later being filed, to give the milled appearance. The coins bear the date of 1900.

Peter and Matt Niukkonen are both well known in Duluth, having lived here for many years. The former is married and has four children. Matt had been making his home with Peter for some time. They are both tailors and claim that they worked for Mellin, the tailor, several years ago.

According to the stories they told Chief Troyer, Peter went to Canada on Dec. 2, last, and Matt left shortly after for Finland, where he visited with his relatives during the winter. In April he returned and went directly to Canada, where he worked with his brother. About six weeks ago Peter returned to Duluth, while Matt came home about Aug. 20, last. Both have been out of work ever since their return.

RUSSIANS HEAD NORTH

Move Against Flank of Austrians Invading Russia.

Official Account of Taking of Lemberg Is Given.

London, Sept. 5.—The Rome correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company says dispatches from Vienna announce that, following its success at Lemberg, the Russian center has suddenly begun a movement northward, against the flank of the armies under Austrian Generals Aufenburg and Dankel, who have been successfully operating against Lublin and Zjamohac.

General Staff Statement.

Petrograd, via London, Sept. 5.—The Russian general staff issued the following account of the fighting which led to the capture of Lemberg, capital of Galicia:,

"In the offensive against the Lublin Kholm front, the main Austrian force, placed on the Savichost, Tanoff, Tomachoff and Belz lines heavy forces. Second Austrian army composed of Third, Eleventh and Twelfth corps and five divisions of cavalry, gathered in the region east of Lemberg to cover this operation. The Austrian concentration was not completed, however, and topographical considerations compelled the enemy to reinforce the army still more with troops of the Seventh, Thirteenth and Fourteenth corps, thus making a total of twelve divisions of several brigades of the Landsturm.

Hampered by Streams.

"Our troops in the Lonthk, Dubno and Brokuroff districts crossed the frontier on Aug. 20 and marched on Lemberg for the purpose of thwarting the Austrian covering movement, and acting against the flank of the enemy. This offensive was hampered by the numerous affluents of the Dniester river, flowing across all the routes. Moreover, the enemy possessed on the Dneister a series of fortifications designed to defend bridges, from which they menaced the Russian flank and communications with Russia.

"In the period between Aug. 17 and Sept. 3, the Russian left wing advanced 220 versts (about 147 miles), fighting all the time. The bulk of the hostile forces, entrenched in powerful positions at Kamenka and Galitch, offered battle and were thoroughly defeated in a desperate contest.

"Between Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, in one district of the upper course of the Gnila Lipa alone, where the enemy's line was broken, the Austrians lost 12,000 men killed or wounded.

Flight and Panic.

"The retreat of the enemy after his defeat at Lemberg assumed the character of disorderly flight and panic, and the Russians took 200 guns together with the baggage and tens of thousands of prisoners. It is believed that the remnant of the Second Austrian army is now no longer of any military value.

"On Sept. 2, when the Russians were drawing up within cannon shot of Lemberg, the surrounding forts did not stop this advance. The same day Lemberg was closely surrounded by Russian troops, and was captured, with enormous quantities of war materials. All the buildings in town were packed with Austrian wounded who had been abandoned in the enemy's headlong flight.

"Besides the political and military importance of Lemberg as the center of Galicia, its capture is very important from a strategic point of view, as it constitutes a great railway junction, commanding the lines leading to the rear of the Austrian army, which is now halted in line with Opele, Gamostic and Belz.

"The capture of Lemberg will enable the Russian army to push forward with still greater intensity."

From Aug. 20 to Sept. 3.

New York, Sept. 5.—A summary of Russian operations in Galicia from Aug. 20 to Sept. 3, culminating in the capture of Lemberg, is contained in cable advices received here by Col. Nikolai Golejewski, military attache of the Russian embassy at Washington, from the Russian war office in Petrograd. The message states:

"The First (Northern) Austrian army deployed on the line Savichost-Janov-Bieleoray-Tomachoff-Belz, on an advance toward the first Lublin-Kholm line. To protect its left flank from the side of our Kiev district, the Austrians concentrated to the east of Lemberg a second army, consisting of the Third, Eleventh and Twelfth army corps and five cavalry divisions.

"At the time of our defensive movement the army had not yet overpowered the Austrians.

"Our troops of Kiev district, concentrated on the line Lonthk-Dubno-Proskuroff on Aug. 20, across the frontier, and advanced toward Lemberg in order to defeat the Austrian troops mentioned above, and attacked the flank and rear of the Northern Austrian group.

"The main forces of the Austrians occupied a strongly fortified position on the line Kamenka-Haliez, where they were completely routed in the battles of Sept. 1 and 2. Along the lower course of the River Gnila Lipa alone, where the enemy's lines were broken on Sept. 3, the Austrians lost 20,000 men killed and wounded.

"After the defeat of the Austrians at Lemberg their retreat assumed the character of a flight, during which 200 guns, baggage and prisoners by tens of thousands fell into our hands.

"The victory of Lemberg gives our army the opportunity to strengthen its onslaught on other forts in the vicinity."

Tells of Aerial Flight.

Bordeaux, via London, Sept. 5.—The Petite Gironde says that when a German Taube aeroplane tried to approach Paris yesterday it was attacked near Vincennes by two French airmen. The French aviators sent a charge of grapeshot into the wings of the Taube, smashing it.

SAYS GERMANS HAVE LOST 200,000 MEN

London, Sept. 5.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Gisors, a French town near Beauvais, estimates the total losses of the allies at 40,000 and the losses of the Germans at 200,000. He says a moderate estimate of the German losses places them at 20 per cent at least.

Sheer weight of numbers has pushed the Germans forward at the amazing rate of twenty-five miles a day, the correspondent adds.

NO GUNS ON BRITISH PASSENGER VESSELS

Washington, Sept. 5.—British authorities have directed that the British passenger ships plying between England and the United States carry no guns. Orders to that effect have been received at the embassy.

SAY BELGIANS LIED AS TO LOUVAIN FIRE

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Wolff bureau from Berlin, by way of Copenhagen, says that the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung has published the following official statement.

"Belgium is circulating officially a false account of the occurrences for which Louvain was compelled to suffer. It is declared that German troops were repulsed by a sortie from Antwerp and were mistakenly fired on by our own troops in Louvain and that this caused the burning of Louvain.

"As a matter of fact, events proved indubitably that the Germans repulsed the Belgian sortie. During this engagement the Germans in Louvain were attacked, unquestionably in pursuance of an organized plan in different parts of the city. This happened after the Germens had been in pleasant relationship with the inhabitants of Louvain for more than twenty-four hours."

WANTS WILSON TO APPEAL TO KAISER

London, Sept. 5.—The Spectator, discussing the German operations at Louvain, says: "We venture to take this opportunity of again suggesting that President Wilson should again approach the German emperor and ask him for a plain declaration of what his intentions are with regard to all the treaties signed in his behalf at The Hague. Those agreements have been shamelessly disregarded, so that no earnest man can now place any trust in German promises."

The newspaper says that Englishmen, no matter what Emperor William's arrangements might be, would have no thought of reprisals, adding that there must be no policy of an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth.

"Here is Mr. Wilson's opprtunity," the Spectator continues. "The United States is strictly neutral—as honestly neutral toward Germany, we are sure, as toward ourselves. But she is the only neutral great power except Italy left outside the orbit of war. We earnestly hope that Mr. Wilson, finding himself in this position—particularly since he represents a nation committed to the principles of The Hague—will boldly ask the German emperor to declare his intentions."

CRACK REGIMENTS OF BRITISH IN BATTLE

London, Sept. 5.—The war office last night issued another list giving the names of officers killed, wounded or missing in the fighting in France. Among those killed is Lieut.-Col. C. A. S. Brett, D. S. O. (Distinguished Service Order), of the Suffolk regiment.

Included in the list are junior officers of the Coldstream Guards and other crack regiments.

Lieut.-Col. C. A. S. Brett was a veteran of the Hazara (British India) expedition and of the South African war. In the latter campaign he was mentioned in dispatches for gallantry. He was severely wounded in action and received the Distinguished Service Order medal with three clasps. He was born in 1865, the son of Lieut.-Col. Arthur Brett of the Second Dragoon Guards.

GIRL WITH PLANS ABOUT PARIS FOUND

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to Reuter's from Dieppe says: "A German girl spy was arrested Thursday by English soldiers on the bridge over the Oise river at La Croix. In her possession were the plans of all the roads and bridges around Paris. She looked to be not more than 17 years old.

"A German spy dressed in an English uniform was caught the same day and shot by an officer when he made a gesture as if to take something out of his pocket instead of obeying an order to throw up his hands."

"WE MUST HAVE MEN," WRITES COMMANDER

London, Sept. 5.—Sir Philip Chetwood, commanding the British cavalry brigade which routed the Prussian horse at Cambrai, Landrecies and Lecateau on Aug. 28, writes home as follows:

"We have been fighting without cessation for ten days. We have had no rest and have been fighting with odds five to one against us. We have been through the Uhlans like brown paper, but we must have men."

Sir Philip Chetwood was the first one mentioned in Gen. French's dispatches.

TURK RESENTS THE JIBES OF AMERICANS

Washington, Sept. 5.—The Turkish embassy still was without advices from Constantinople today, but Ambassador A. Rustem Bey issued a statement resenting American newspaper wit at the expense of the belligerent powers, in which he classified Turkey as one of the nations which had "not yet" been drawn into the vortex of war.

"What I will call the funny columns in the American papers contain jokes, and not infrequently jibes, at the expense of one or the other European countries engaged in the conflict now raging or expected to join in it," said he. "Cartoons are also indulged in as a means of turning into ridicule the misfortunes of those who are fighting, or the anxiety of those not yet drawn into the bloody vortex.

"Turkey has come in for much of this journalistic pleasantry. Speaking for my country I will say that while wit is a precious quality, and many of the writers of the funny columns undoubtedly possess large measures of it, it betrays a lack of human feeling and delicacy to see in the threatened destinies of a nation which has always lived on friendly terms with the United States, an occasion for inducing laughter."

TIMES COMPLAINS AGAIN ABOUT NEWS

London, Sept. 5.—The London Times editorially deals with the British system of censoring news dispatches. It calls attention to the fact that the German government has always understood the value of presenting its own news to the public abroad, and says:

"Englishmen are apt to regard this kind of propaganda with contempt. They believe that truth will prevail over untruth, no matter how scientifically falsehood may be spread. In the long run their confidence is no doubt justified, but in the present circumstances the practice of giving lies too long a start may be attended by serious drawbacks."

LETTERS SAY BERLIN FACES EPIDEMICS

London, Sept. 5.—A Copenhagen dispatch to the Mail, dated Friday, says:

"Private letters show that owing to the fact that many German doctors are at the front, Berlin is finding it difficult to cope with an outbreak of typhoid and cholera there.

"Enormous numbers of wounded are arriving at Vienna, where, owing to the meat famine, the people have been compelled to become vegetarians."

KING ALBERT OF BELGIUM WOUNDED

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Central News from Amsterdam says that King Albert of Belgium was slightly injured by a shrapnel splinter while he was heading the retreat of Belgian troops to Antwerp. A shell exploded against the rear wheel of the automobile in which King Albert was seated and his car was badly damaged.

Earlier advices reported what was probably the same incident but it has not before stated that the king was wounded. It was stated that his car had been slightly damaged by a stray bit of a shell.

RETURN CARGOES TO THE AMERICANS

Washington, Sept. 5.—The British government has taken steps to return promptly to American shippers cargoes captured aboard German ships. Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador, delivered to Secretary Bryan the following note expressing the attitude of his government:

"In order to prevent loss to subjects of neutral powers, and to encourage continuance of trade, his majesty's government has taken steps to set free expeditiously, and without reference to a prize court, as many cargoes as possible, even though in some cases cargoes may be liable in law to condemnation as a prize. An executive committee with full powers to deal with such cases has been appointed."

Cargoes referred to were those aboard the German ships en route when war was declared. About 150 such ships have been captured by the British fleets. Some cargoes were diverted to Gibraltar, others to points in Canada and the Bermudas, and American shippers generally have been for a prompt recovery of their goods.

Secretary Bryan expresses satisfaction over the arrangement by the British government.

SAYS RUSSIANS CROSSED ENGLAND.

New York, Sept. 5.—Further corroboration of reports that Russia has been landing troops on Belgian soil by way of England and Scotland, reached New York yesterday, when Dr. Daniel Elliott of Newark, N. J., a passenger on the Cedric, declared he witnessed a movement of troop trains conveying Russians through England. The Cedric arrived from Liverpool with 1,460 passengers, including many American refugees.

Dr. Elliott would not say in what part of England he was when he saw the troop trains. He estimated the number of the Russians at more than 70,000 and declared they had come by way of Northern Scotland and were on their way to the English channel to embark for the continent.

Passengers who arrived on the Mauretania from Liverpool brought the first information concerning the reported transportation of Russians to Belgium by way of British territory, and mail advices from London yesterday told of 80,000 Russian troops having reached France.

TURKS PRAYING FOR GERMAN SUCCESSES.

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Evening Standard from Paris says it is learned that the Vienna papers have received a telegram from Constantinople stating that prayers for the success of the Austro-German army have been ordered in all the Turkish mosques. The correspondent adds that this is believed to be the first time on record that Moslems have offered prayers on behalf of Christians.

BULGARIA PLANS TO STAY NEUTRAL.

Paris, Sept. 5.—A Havas agency dispatch from Athens says that the Bulgarian minister to Greece has assured the government that Bulgaria has decided to maintain the strictest neutrality until the end of the war.

HOLLAND READY TO OPEN THE DIKES.

New York, Sept. 5.—Arrangements to send Dutch reservists back to The Netherlands to preserve the neutrality of that country have been begun by Count De Beaufffort, The Netherlands minister to the United States.

"While our country is absolutely neutral," he said, "we have mobilized our army as a measure of precaution. We do not wish to be dragged into the war, and our army will be used only if our neutrality is violated. Then we shall act, not only with arms, but with our natural defense—the dikes which hold back the sea. We can flood strategic sections of our country in a few hours."

The count said Holland is overrun with starving refugees from Belgium, and that the resources of the country are being taxed to care for their distressed neighbors.

AMERICANS PRAISED BY THE PARIS PRESS.

Paris, Sept. 5.—The decision of the American government to maintain its embassy in Paris during the days to come is commented upon with warm appreciation by nearly all the newspapers of the capital. The services of Elihu Benjamin Washburne to his countrymen and to all the residents of Paris in 1871 are recalled. Mr. Washburne was American minister here between 1869 and 1877.

William Graves Sharp, who has been appointed to succeed Ambassador Herrick and who, pending the transfer, will assist Mr. Herrick here, and Robert Bacon, a former ambassador to France, now here, have been referred to as a delegation of eminent Americans whose presence will be on the side of "conscience and reason."

OFFICERS NAMED TO MAKE BELGIANS PAY.

Copenhagen, via London, Sept. 5, 8:35 a. m.—The Berliner Tageblatt announces that Dr. Karl Helfferich, director of the Deutsche bank, and Dr. Paul von Schwabach, head of the Bleichroeder firm, who are serving as reserve officers in a Cuirassier regiment, have been appointed to attend to the arrangement for the payment of Belgian war contributions.

It is recalled that Bismarck in 1871 employed the head of the Bleichroeder firm at the time as financial expert in connection with the French war indemnity.

LOUVAIN CITY HALL STANDS ALL ALONE.

London, Sept. 5, 9:15 a. m.—The Rotterdam correspondent of the Nieuw Rotterdamsche Courant sends the report that the town hall in Louvain is safe, standing alone, with all the houses around it destroyed.

GERMAN GENERAL STAFF IS AT MONS.

London, Sept. 5.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Central News says that the German general staff has been moved from Brussels to Mons.

CANADIAN CAMP IS HEALTHY PLACE.

Camp Valcartier, Quebec, Sept. 5.—The last of the troops from whom will be chosen the first Canadian contingent for over seas service should be ready here by Sunday night. About 450 are expected today. The strength of the concentration camp is now 33,650.

Probably the most remarkable feature of the camp is the comparative absence of sickness. Last night there were only 55 patients in the two field hospitals, and their troubles are only of a minor character. Slightly over a dozen patients have been removed to the Quebec hospital during the last two weeks. It is reported that all are doing well.

SAYS KILLING DOES NOT STOP GERMANS.

London, Sept. 5.—English soldiers from the front tell some wonderful stories about the terrific execution done by their machine guns on the advancing Germans.

"We take up a position on the roadside and wait for them to come," said one of these soldiers.

"When they are 200 or 300 yards away we are eager to fire. Says the captain: 'wait a bit till I make sure they are not English.'

"He looks through his glasses and then says: 'Let them have it, boys!'

"Off it goes and you see 50 or 60 drop. But it makes little difference, others come on and then we move our guns."

GERMANS ESTABLISH RULE IN BRUSSELS.

Rotterdam, via London, Sept. 5.—A special dispatch to the Courant from Maastricht announces that the Germans have established a general government at Brussels. Maj.-Gen. von Luettwiz has been made military governor of the conquered territory, and Maj. Baer military governor of the city territory, under the judicial jurisdiction of the high court at Cologne.

The forces under the crown prince of Bavaria, says the dispatch, still are opposed by a strong force in Lorraine.

TWO REGIMENTS OF CZECHS IN MUTINY.

London, Sept. 5.—The Daily Telegraph says it learns from a reliable source that two Czech regiments at Vienna mutinied when ordered into active service. They were drawn up in the Prater and a large number were shot. Similar reports of disaffection in a Czech regiment have reached London from another source.

1,000 BIG CANNONS IN PARIS DEFENSES.

Paris, Sept. 5.—Emile Aimond, president of the finance committee of the senate, declared to the newspapers last night that for a circumference of 150 miles around the intrenched camp of Paris is defended by 1,000 cannon of large caliber, perfectly sheltered and capable of crossing the fire so as to defend all approaches. The batteries, he said, are connected with supply depots by mils of narrow gauge railway tracks.

Germans on Goeben and Breslau

London, Sept. 5.—A Reuter dispatch from Constantinople, dated Aug. 28 and arriving here by an indirect route, says the German crews of the former German cruisers Goeben and Breslau are still on board these vessels.

WHY

Cream of Tartar Baking Powder Manufacturers

KNOCK

THE TRUST complains bitterly about the test made by the representatives of the Calumet Baking Powder Co. because it demonstrates the nature of the residue left in food prepared with cream of tartar powders.

The test shows the enormous residue of Rochelle Salts, which is the principal ingredient of a Seidlitz Powder.

We want everyone to see the test, and we will then abide by their decision as to which is the purest, most wholesome, efficient and economical baking powder. By practical cooking tests the demonstrators will prove that there is Rochelle Salts left in your food if you use Cream of Tartar baking powders.

Constant dosing of Rochelle Salts is very injurious to health.

The following are physicians who testified to the dangerous effects of taking Rochelle Salts through the medium of straight cream of tartar powders:

Dr. E. H. Bartley, of the Brooklyn Board of Health.
Dr. Frank A. West, Professor Materia Medica in Long Island College Hospital.
Dr. W. J. Purcell, of New York Board of Health.
Dr. Moreau Morris, of New York Board of Health.
Dr. J. T. Nagle, Chief of New York Bureau of Vital Statistics.
Dr. A. Warner Shepard, Former Health Officer of Brooklyn.

There are other names and further information we can furnish upon receipt of inquiry.

Calumet Baking Powder is pure in the can—pure in the baking and complies with the Pure Food Laws. It leaves no substance such as Rochelle Salts, alum, lime or ammonia in the food. The Cream of Tartar Baking Powder manufacturers cannot truthfully make this statement.

CATER TO YOUNG MEN AND BOYS

Gately's Store Particular as to Style and Quality.

We are giving the strictest atention right now to the needs of boys, youths and young men. We know they are a particular lot and must have the right things to wear at school.

We are constantly thinking of the boys' and young men's needs, tastes and fancies—a reason perhaps that this store has become so popular with the boys.

We are as enthusiastic about our boys' department—their suits, coats, hats, shoes and furnishings—as the boys are about the new things they are going to buy for fall and winter. We know too that a great deal is expected of our boys' clothing because of our reputation as sellers of fine clothes for men. So we set up the same high standard for the boys' clothing and make no bid for the cheap clothing business. The result satisfies the increasing number willing to pay a fair price for fine goods, and uphold the Gately reputation as thoroughly reliable clothiers.

SCHOOL BOARD LIFTS BAN ON NORMAL SCHOOL GRADUATES

May Be Employed Without Being Forced to Seek Experience.

Directors Discuss Insurance Rates and Interest Paid By Banks.

The request made some time ago by J. L. Washburn that the ban be raised on applicants for teaching positions in Duluth schools who have not had a year's experience in the work outside of model schools, etc., was granted last evening, the vote being entirely different from what it was when the old board voted some time ago. When the old board voted there was one absentee and the result was a tie. Last evening Director J. H. McGiffert, who brought the matter up at a previous meeting, took it up again and the vote resulted in unanimous consent that the requirement in the rules be withdrawn. The rule has been in force for many years and Supt. Denfeld has opposed its elimination. He was not present at the meeting last evening, being unavoidably out of the city.

Another matter which aroused considerable interest last evening was the submission of unrequested solicitations for insurance business, one for fire insurance, several for liability and several others for boiler insurance. They were not acted on, as none of the insurance held expires for some time yet, but Director Cobb seemed to voice the sentiment of most of the directors when he declared that a combination exists among the insurance men and that hereafter unless competitive figures are offered he, for one, will vote against placing any insurance and having the board make arrangements to carry its own risks. Several of the other directors said that they felt the same way about it and if they carry out their expressed intent it is likely that some meeting in the near future, when policies expire, will be fraught with radical changes in the rules of the board.

Bids From Banks.

Another series of bids received and which were characterized by President F. A. Brewer as the result of a "combination," were those of the four national banks of the city asking that they be designated as depositories for the ensuing year. Mr. Brewer's remarks were indorsed by the others and the bids were left to the finance committee, which was instructed to request of the banks better bids, and to report the matter back to the board at its next meeting. Each of the banks, in requesting its appointment as a depository, offered to pay 1½ per cent interest on daily accounts, crediting the interest at the end of each month, and 2½ per cent on the sinking fund. The directors declared that the bids should be rejected. However the committee will inquire into the matter before such action is taken.

"In the old days," said President Brewer, "when we had but one depository we got better treatment. During the last year we have had three depositories and have not had as good a deal as formerly. Now the four banks have combined, and the bids are worse than ever. We are up against a combination that we might as well fight now. We are not tied hand and foot to the national banks."

Two New Schools.

It was reported that the Munger and Denfeld schools will be completed and ready for the opening of the new school year next Tuesday; the committee on buildings and grounds also reported that it has acquired the additional four lots necessary for the new Stowe school at New Duluth, paying $1,600 for them.

A report was submitted to the effect that the proposed junior high school at the Lincoln school at the West end, will cost $100,000, as sixteen rooms, an assembly room and a gymnasium will be necessary, and it was pointed out that until the recently authorized bond issue is sold, a matter which is delayed because of the tight financial conditions, it is unlikely that any of the work can be done. A motion to employ an architect to get plans ready for the junior high school was adopted, however, for the reason that the board wants to be prepared to rush the work when financial matters are brighter and the bonds are disposed of.

Teachers Resign.

Resignations of the following teachers were accepted: Mabel Chapman Delly, Edna M. Jones, Myra T. Patterson, Lillian M. Reinholden, R. E. Long, Fern Sweezey, Alta M. Merritt and Alice J. Tripp.

The recommendation of Supt. Denfeld that a reward of $10 to $25 be offered for the arrest and conviction of vandals who are causing heavy expense for the board by the breaking of window glass in the various schools, was referred to the committee on buildings, with power to act. It is claimed that these depredations have been exceptionally heavy during the present vacation period.

Another recommendation of the superintendent accepted was that night schools that have been carried on for the last two years in the Central high, Monroe and Irving schools be continued for the coming school year beginning on the second Monday in October and continuing until the last Friday in March. The classes to be offered are as follows:

Work in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades for those who find it necessary to procure labor permits and have not reached 16 years of age; English for foreigners; typewriting and stenography, bookkeeping, cooking, wood-working, machine shop, and printing.

In the report of the committee on schools it was reported that Instructor Gibson of the agricultural department of the Central high school, has asked that a model home creamery be installed in the laboratory of the department. Some discussion arose, the committee having made no recommendation, but the board referred it back to the committee with power to act.

Administration Building.

The committee recommended that the president of the board appoint a committee to investigate the probable expense of converting the old Washington school into an administration building. President Brewer named as members of this committee Directors McGiffert, Colman and Getchell.

Other recommendations of the committee, which were adopted, was the transfer of J. R. B. Adair from the Central high school to the position of instructor of chemistry in the R. E. Denfeld high school; the transfer of D. W. Heistraand from the Central high school to the Denfeld as head of the department of mathematics and Latin; the establishment of a kindergarten department at the Munger school; the fixing of the daily sessions in the grades from 9 to 12 a. m. and 1:30 to 4 p. m. with an intermission of fifteen minutes for recess during each session; for kindergartens, first and second grades, sessions beginning at 9 o'clock to 11:45 a. m. and 1:30 to 3:45 p. m.; sessions in the high schools to be from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. with an intermission of from twenty-five to thirty minutes for lunch.

The committee also recommended that the boundaries line for the Central and Denfeld high schools be fixed at Thirty-fourth avenue west. This was adopted.

FINEST BALL ROOM IN STATE

Proprietor of Spalding Spends Thousands for Improvements.

Duluth will soon have the finest ballroom in the state according to George W. Reynolds, the new proprietor of the Spalding hotel. Mr. Reynolds is spending thousands of dollars in remodeling and refurnishing the Spalding, and the ballroom is receiving a great deal of attention, as it is planned to make this place the center of large social events this coming fall and winter.

A new floor is being laid in this room which will be perfect in workmanship, and the walls and ceiling are being redecorated. Many of the other rooms in the hostelry are being refurnished throughout with new carpets, and other necessities. The woodwork is being polished throughout the building, and is assuming the appearance that once made this hotel famous as an elegant headquarters for travelers and the social set of Duluth.

Mr. Reynolds is showing his patriotism for Duluth by buying everything in Duluth. There are so many things needed in refitting the hotel that he says he cannot form any estimate as to what he will pay out until he gets through.

Mr. Reynolds is well pleased with the prospects for business in Duluth, and feels certain that the Spalding can be made one of the greatest centers of the traveling public in the Northwest. The future possibilities of the city he says are very bright, and he feels that the people of Duluth will be glad to make the Spalding a headquarters for social affairs and give it their patronage at all times. He looks for a splendid patronage during the fall and winter, and of course the tourist season is always a great success.

NEW TEMPLE IS ASSURED

Shriners Approve Action of the Building Committee.

Site Already Purchased; Richardson Will Head Association.

Aad temple's proposed Shrine building in Duluth was assured last night, when about seventy-five members met at the Masonic hall and ratified the action of the building committee in purchasing the lot at the southwest corner of First avenue west and Fourth street, and also formed the Aad Temple Building association, which is to be incorporated under the statutes of the state and which will have charge of the erection of the structure.

Officers of Association.

Potentate H. W. Richardson will head the new building association as president; Lionel Ayres, chief rabban, was named vice president, and S. L. Fraser, secretary, and J. W. Lyder, treasurer, of Aad temple, were selected to serve in similar capacities for the association. These new officers have selected M. M. Gasser as manager, with the power to have charge of the property and the new building when erected. These officers hold over until the annual election next December.

The site was purchased by Jesse Norton, John Jenswold, Jr., and M. M. Gasser, who were appointed by Potentate Richardson several months ago to represent the Shrine in the negotiations for a suitable building site. Early last week the deal for the Fourth street property was consummated, all that remained being ratification by the Shriners. The property was owned by Col. C. H. Graves and has a frontage of 100 feet on Fourth street and 140 feet along First avenue. It is located just behind the old Graves' home on Third street.

Construction to Begin Soon.

The new building association will have charge of erecting the building, and although nothing definite is known at present, it is probable active construction will start next year. The building will serve as a clubhouse for the 1,000 odd Shriners in Northern Minnesota and the center of all the activities of that organization. Although no meals will be served there, the building will have all the club accommodations, including billiards, bowling, cardrooms and library rooms. There will also be a magnificent assembly hall and stage, and ballroom.

The new Shrine temple will be the only one in the state. The local fraternity was organized in 1905.

ACCIDENT MAY BE CAUSE OF CRIMES

Former Sunday School Teacher Under Arrest Is Examined.

Joseph Schmitt's career of crime may have been caused by the pressure of a skull bone on the brain, according to specialists who have during the last two days given the man a thorough examination. It has been found that the man sustained a fracture of the skull in an accident ten years ago and at the examination yesterday developed the fact that one of the skull bones was pressing on the brain.

From the man's own confession his career of crime has dated about that far back. He has told about burglaries and robberies in which he took part in other cities that date back for several years. A number of years ago he claims to have been a Sunday school teacher.

It is proposed to get his consent to having an operation. If this removes his criminal tendencies the police say he may be given a chance to reform.

Body Not Identified.

The body of the man who fell into the slip at the Northwestern coal dock No. 3 yesterday afternoon has not been identified as yet. It is being held at Coroner Downs' undertaking rooms. The man is believed to have been intoxicated when the accident happened. He is described as being about 30 years old, was well dressed, clean shaven and the sum of $2 was found in his clothes. He has a scar an inch long on his chin. He wore overalls and a jumber over his clothes when drowned. The body will be kept for a week at the undertakers in the hope of having the man identified.

BROWN WINS AT HIBBING

Has All the Better of Yoakum in Twenty Rounds.

Big Crowd Is Well Satisfied With the Decision.

Pal Brown of Chisholm decisively defeated Stanley Yoakum in twenty rounds at Hibbing last night and there seems to be little question now but that Brown will be matched for a ten-round go with Leach Cross, the New York dentist, the date to be not in the very far future. It will be pulled off at the opera house in Superior if present plans go through. Sig Abrams of Duluth, fight promoter, has negotiations already under way.

Brown's victory over Stanley Yoakum, the tough lightweight, has practically clinched the Cross match, for when it is shown that the Chisholm scrapper has class enough to not only best so tough a boy as Yoakum in twenty sessions, but to have him hanging on to escape a knock-out in three rounds, it puts him in a division eligible for tests with the front rankers. That Leach Cross is one of the best lightweights in the world has long since ceased to be regarded as a question. He has been a contender for championship honors for some time and has man-handled some of the best in the lightweight class to such an extent that their course thereafter was downward.

In his fight with Yoakum, Brown outpointed the Denver boy in seventeen of the twenty rounds, and in the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth had Yoakum all but out. It looked like the kibosh route for the chap from the Rocky mountains, but his wonderful stamina pulled him through. Pal, in the boxing display, made Yoakum look like a bum. From the thirteenth on it was all Brown's fight and Yoakum was hanging on and stalling in every way he could to avoid a repetition of the punishment he had received. He took no chances from then on. The only showing he made was in the opening rounds.

The crowd was a large one and the decision was very satisfactory.

FALL HANDICAP AT GOLF CLUB

Two Matches Remain in Play for Women's Trophy.

Play in the first qualifying round of the fall handicap match is on at the country club today. The first sixteen will qualify for the match play handicap. All games must be played before Oct. 5.

Labor day the president's trophy match play against bogey will be on.

A week from today the Portage Lake golf club of Houghton, Mich., will send its best players for a match with the stars of the country club here. It is expected that about fifteen or sixteen will come from Houghton. The Northland club will send a delegation of players to the Thunder Bay golf club at Port Arthur the latter part of the month. About fifteen will go from here.

Two more matches are scheduled for the women's tournament at the Northland club. They will be played next Thursday and a week from Thursday. The winner of the play will get the summer tournament trophy. Mrs. A. W. Hartman won the match last week. Mrs. Hartman has won once, Mrs. Windom three times and Mrs. Cole twice. There are eight matches in all.

SCHAUER SHOWS WELL WITH GIANTS.

"Rube" Schauer, who was leading pitcher last season for the Superior team of the Northern league, and was purchased by the New York Giants, has not had much chance to show what he can do, but last Wednesday showed enough so that the baseball writers of the New York papers handed him some nice verbal bouquets.

Rube has appeared on the mound for the Giants in only one or two games, and then to fill out the career of some other box artist who had been derricked by McGraw. On Wednesday that happened to Marquard, who went up in the air during the first five innings of the game with Brooklyn and was taken out. Schauer was put in for the sixth inning and then gave place to Fred Schupp, another "student" who has south-paw prowess in the course of development. Most of the papers in New York comment favorably on Rube's showing, the World saying:

"The only redeeming feature of the game from the Giants' point of view was the fine work on the mound of Rube Schauer and Fred Schupp, the young southpaw. Schauer replaced Marquard in the box in the sixth inning. Although he only pitched one inning, he gave a very creditable account of himself."

MISS TURLE AND MISS WALKER WIN.

Miss Penelope Turle and Miss Walker won the women's tennis tournament of the boat club in the doubles this morning. They defeated Miss Louise Frick and Miss Katherine Combs. Miss Andrews won in the singles several days ago. The scores in the doubles today were: 6-2 and 8-6.

FLICKERTAILS IN FIELD ANOTHER YEAR.

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Forks baseball prospects for 1915 were considered at a meeting of the Grand Forks baseball club held last night and it was practically decided to place a team in the field again, retaining the franchise. Eddie Wheeler, who has made a success of managing the Grand Forks club this year, is in line for the management of the local club again next season. It is reported, however, that Wheeler also has an offer of the management of the Fort William club, though nothing definite on that score has been announced. Wheeler returns to Grand Forks immediately following the close of the season next Monday and at that time the directors of the local club will discuss with him the question of the management af the 1915 team.

Ouimet Leads.

Manchester, Vt., Sept. 5.—Francis Ouimet of the Woodland, Mass., golf club, the 1913 open champion, was one up over the amateur champion, Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, N. J., at the end of the first round in the finals for the national amateur open golf championship on the Ekwanok links today.

SEES ONLY PROSPERITY

J. M. Gidding Believes War May End Sooner Than Expected.

There is nothing but prosperity ahead for the United States in every line of business and the European war will open up new channels of trade and start new wheels of industry according to the optimistic forecast of J. M. Gidding, who has just returned to Duluth from New York. Mr. Gidding is one of the leading merchants of America and has large stores in Paris, New York, Duluth and other large cities.

The business situation in the East has already become almost normal, Mr. Gidding says, and is improving daily. People there are turning attention to their business affairs and letting the European countries fight their own battles. The shutting off of foreign commerce has had its effect, he says, but the outlook is bright for American shipping.

Mr. Gidding believes that peace may not be so far off as many think at present. He referred today to a statement made a few days ago by the German ambassador, von Bernstorff in which he said the kaiser was willing to consider peace proposals at any time, granting England the supremacy of the sea and making any reasonable compromise. Mr. Gidding said that he did not think enough attention has been given this statement of the German ambassador. Von Bernstorff, he said, was one of the men closest to the kaiser and was probably better qualified to represent him than anyone else. Mr. Gidding believes that a decisive turn in the war may be reached in a week or ten days and that a peace conference may follow soon after.

The effect of the war on the United States, said Mr. Gidding, should be for greater prosperity and development. The crippling of industries abroad and the loss of workmen who fall in battle will cause mills and factories there to work under a handicap for a long time, even after war is over. This should make a greater demand for American goods and products of all kinds. Mills and factories in the United States are already responding to this prospective demand and are planning big outputs for the near future.

Mr. Gidding had planned to sail for Paris on the Vaterland, but his plans were changed when the war broke out. He will be in Duluth for a short time attending to business matters here.

BLAZING TRAIL FOR MOTORISTS.

A. L. Meigs and assistants, representing the Automobile Trail Blazing Association of America, are in the city touching up and repainting old lines, and will develop the work on the ranges and by completing the connection of the yellow trail between Grand Rapids and Cass Lake, there having been a break there owing to the inability of the trail blazers to get through by auto on account of the roads. That difficulty has been overcome, however, and the blaze will be completed between those points, making the yellow trail from Grand Rapids to Bemidji complete. Mr. Meigs announces that in the spring the red trail from Duluth to Port Arthur, Ont., will be completed. During this visit to the Head of the Lakes Mr. Meigs has also finished the trail marks to Superior.

"The association," said Mr. Meigs today, "has eighty-nine machines at work on the trail-blazing, and has completed that trail from New York to Seattle, and has the one from Philadelphia to San Francisco almost completed. The work is being pushed fast and soon it will be impossible to go to almost any part of the country without a complete guide."

DULUTH EDISON COMPANY REJECTS OFFER OF THE CITY

Declares $1,107,940 Wholly Inadequate; Less Than Bonded Debt.

Would Mean Destruction of Stock Held By 540 Holders.

Declaring that the price offered by the city is wholly inadequate, President A. W. Hartman yesterday afternoon presented a letter to Mayor Prince, formally rejecting the city's proposal to take over the plant and business of the Duluth-Edison Electric company for $1,107,940.54.

President Hartman states that the city's offer is less than the company's bonded debt and would mean the total destruction of all the value of the entire capital stock held by 540 shareholders, which has cost them more than $1,000,000 in cash within the last eight years. He says that the engineers who made the valuation used the so-called reproduction method if it secured better results for the city, but abandoned it for attempted actual cost to the company where this method would bring the price lower. He states that the allowance of $200,000 as going value was an arbitrary figure and altogether too small, the engineers having failed to take many essential factors into consideration.

Best Service at Low Rate.

President Hartman declares that the company has been rendering the best of service at a low rate and that there is no public need at this time for the city to acquire the plant of the Edison company or to build a competing plant.

The company's position is set forth by President Hartman as follows:

"The Honorable City Council, Duluth, Minnesota:

"Gentlemen:—This company has received copy of your resolution approved Aug. 8, 1914, offering to it, subject to approval by the voters of the city, $1,107,940.54 for its plant, equipment and property on Jan. 1, 1914, subject to allowance for increase in value or depreciation during the year 1914.

"The subject matter of the resolution has had the careful consideration of the company and its officers and directors, and the conclusion has been reached that the company must decline the suggested offer.

"This company and its predecessor companies have furnished the electric lighting to the city of Duluth and its inhabitants for more than twenty years. It has gone through the hardships and difficulties necessary in establishing its present prosperous business.

"Its predecessor companies have experienced financial difficulties as the result of attempting to give the best possible service. Practically the entire time of the executive officers of this company has for the last twenty years been given to the building up of this business.

"This company has outstanding in the hands of actual investors the following securities:

Common stock, par value	$ 500,000
Preferred stock, par value	1,150,000
Bonds	1,132,000
Total	$2,782,000

These bonds and preferred stock have cost the present holders not less than 95 cents on the dollar of par value. The common stock has sold for somewhat less.

The earnings of the company for a number of years have been sufficient to pay all interest on its bonds, dividends upon its preferred stock, and to render service second to none furnished in this country.

"The suggestion of your honorable body is that the company, through the officers, sell the plant and property of the company for less than the actual outstanding bonds.

540 Stockholders Involved.

"This would mean the total destruction of all of the value of the entire capital stock of the company held by 540 different owners, and which has within the last eight years cost these owners in excess of $1,000,000 in cash.

"The suggestion has been made that the company is owned by the Bond & Share company of New York. That company did on Jan. 31, 1914, own 150 shares of the common stock of the company and no more. The entire list of stockholders is furnished to the city in a sworn report each year, and these reports are all on file with the city auditor. The suggestion that the company is owned by any other corporation is, of course, inadvertently made. No member of your body would wilfully misstate the fact, and the facts are as stated, that the company,—that is, its stock which represents its property subject to the bonds,—is held by 540 different owners whose names, addresses and the amount owned by each are set forth in the company's reports filed with the city; and what your honorable body is suggesting is not depriving some bond and share company of its property, but is, that 540 stockholders, with an actual investment of more than $1,000,000 cash made within a few years, be deprived of their property without any compensation.

Lowest Possible Valuation.

"The price suggested by the city is wholly inadequate. Every facility was given to the city to make a complete inventory and valuation of the company's property. The apparent purpose of the engineers in fixing prices was to adopt such method, varying it where necessary to accomplish their purpose, as would produce the lowest possible valuation of physical property. Then without waiting for the figures showing the cost to the company of its property and its value as an income producing plant, it adopted a wholly arbitrary and inadequate amount of $200,000 as a so-called going value.

"In attempting to reach the value of the physical property of the company, the engineers used the so-called reproduction method. Where it was apparent that this method would produce a higher result, then the engineers abandoned it and attempted to base their figures on the actual cost to the company.

"As an illustration of the inequality and unfair result of this varying of method, it is sufficient to point out that in the actual construction of its property the company has paid high prices for copper, for instance, and in determining the value of the copper the engineers have based it upon going prices. On the other hand, where the engineers considered the cost of reproducing the present underground system of the company, they omitted entirely the cost of taking up and relaying pavements as they now exist, and attempted to fix this part of the value on the original cost to the company. In other words, where the present cost of reproducing the plant or any part of it would be lower than it actually cost the company, the engineers have, so far as we can learn, invariably used this method; but where the present cost of reproducing the plant would be more than its actual cost to the company, then the reproduction cost has not been accepted.

Depreciation Unfair.

"What we believe to be a wholly unfair and arbitrary depreciation charge has been made in many cases. The engineers have arbitrarily assumed that property having been in use a certain number of years has depreciated to a certain extent—this without any reference to what it would cost to make the property as good as new. The engineers have also arbitrarily, as we think, in their valuation reduced the value of the reserve steam plant of this company from $206,003.37, which they estimate as the amount necessary to reproduce it, to $84,480.60, and the only reason we can see assigned for this is the claim that the plant is not in constant use.

"These are but two illustrations of many samples that may be found in the report, showing how unfair it is to the company if it is assumed to be a correct statement of the present value of the company's property.

Too Little Considered.

"In arriving at the so-called going value of $200,000, the city's engineers have been even more arbitrary and unfair to the company, if such a thing is possible, than in their valuation of the physical property. The engineers have taken an arbitrary method which, as we understand, is not used by any engineer in attempting to reach the total intangible or going value, but only in determining one element of the same. In the method used by the city's engineers, no consideration at all is given to, nor any allowance made for, either the good will of the business, which is very valuable, the earning capacity of the plant, which is very great, the actual cost in money of the property which the company has been obliged to purchase from time to time and which largely exceeds the total amount suggested by the city, the cost of building up the business, and the high rate of interest and commissions necessary to be paid to induce capital to invest in such business before it has become established and safe.

Overlooked Four Points.

"No consideration at all has been given to:

"(a) The cost of plants and cost of business not now visible, but which actually existed and which were necessary to create the present business.

"(b) Early plants discarded, due to advances in the art and inadequacy.

"(c) Parts of early plants and distribution systems discarded after consolidation on account of duplication.

"(d) Cost of soliciting, advertising and other methods of increasing the volume of business, thereby decreasing the cost of production and making the business a self-supporting business, and reduction in rates.

"The so-called going value of $200,000 suggested by the city's engineer is merely a part of the loss of earnings and of interest which the engineer admits would accrue to the city if it tsarted in to build a competing plant and this company retired from business without any opposition as rapidly as the city could take on the new business. Of course, no such condition exists or ever did exist or ever could exist.

Points to Be Considered.

"In determining the value of any property where people expect to be fair, consideration is always given to what has been actually paid for it and to what it will earn. The property of the company is actually owned by its stockholders and bondholders.

"The bondholders' rights are ahead of the stockholders'. In case of sale of the property, the bondholders would the property, the bondholders would receive the entire amount realized until they were paid in full. After they were paid in full, the balance would go to the stockholders. The stockholders of the company through their purchase of its stock have paid considerably more than $1,000,000 for the property, subject to the bonds.

"The company has been rendering excellent service at low rates, and has been able to earn sufficient to make its preferred stock worth practically par, and to give a large value to the common stock.

"The engineers do not even mention any of these matters, nor give them any consideration, and the suggestion of the city is that this entire investment of stockholders be wiped out and their property turned over to the city without any consideration to them.

"No complaint is made or can be made as to the service given by the company. It is as good as the service given by any other company in this country in a city of the same size, and compares very favorably with the service given by the city itself in its water and gas department. It is admitted by everybody that the company's rates are low. Its rates for city lighting are lower than those recommended by Clausen & Pillsbury in their report of 1911. The city has the power to regulate rates and keep them at all times reasonable.

City Gets Best Service.

"We submit to your honorable body that there is no public need at this time for the city to either acquire the plant of this company or to build a competing plant. The city and its inhabitants now have the best of service at reasonable rates, with power in the city to regulate both the service and rates. You now have, we submit, as good service and as low rates as you can hope to obtain through municipal ownership, unless you intend to bear a part of the expense of operating and maintaining the plant through general taxes. The suggestion has been made that if the city begins the construction of a competing plant, this would 'at once destroy any so-called going value in the Edison plant.' We suggest that that is hardly a fair method of treating this company to deliberately start in to the building of a plant with the express purpose of destroying what is admitted to be at least $200,000 in value of property belonging to the stockholders of this company.

Would Check City Development.

"We submit it is unfair to the stockholders of this company to wait until it has built up a profitable, paying business, and then ask that the plant and business be turned over to the city for a wholly inadequate consideration. This attitude, if persisted in, will do more than any other one thing to prevent the proper growth and development of this city. Investors cannot be induced to expend their money in a city that has the reputation of seeking to destroy values as soon as a business is in a prosperous condition.

"This company cannot, without wholly disregarding the interests of its stockholders, whose money has made the service which the city and its inhabitants have received possible, accept the offer of the city council, and must, therefore, decline the same."

RUSSIANS ARE INVADING AUSTRIA

Kiev district army, but the Russians attacked before the concentration was completed.

"On Wednesday morning the Russians were established all around the northern, eastern and half of the southern face of the capital. Lemberg stands high above the surrounding country, its obsolete defences being supplemented by modern entrenchments.

Entered on Heels of Rout.

"It would seem that the rout of the Austrian army, whose double duty it was to cover Lemberg and also the right flank of the Austrian forces in Poland, was so absolute that the Russians must have entered Lemberg at the heels of the runaways, for at 11 o'clock Thursday morning Lemberg was entirely in Russian possession. The military stores of every kind—explosives, powder magazines complete, wireless and telegraph installation—in short, the whole equipment of the important military center—fell intact into the hands of the victorious Russians.

Halics Harder to Capture.

"The capture of Halicz, which was protected by thirty small forts, entailed a harder task, as the Russians were obliged to capture all the forts and the Austrians made desperate resistance.

"The Russians had been fighting continuously for eight days after a previous week or ten days of marching. The fighting and marching troops of the Russian left wing covered nearly 150 miles in seventeen days, capturing Halicz on Aug. 17, after two days of hard fighting.

Why Names Are Changed.

"All towns in Russia with a German form of name were changed to the Slav form. This is not due to the fact that Russia is at war with Germany, but is Russia's appeal to the inexorable tribunal of history against the savage ferocity the unsoldierly nation consistently displayed towards helpless refugees.

"A considerable sensation was caused here by the discovery aboard the German cruiser Magdeburg, which was recently blown up, of a number of cat-o-nine-tails which were found in every officer's cabin, all bearing signs of hard usage."

An Officer's Story.

The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in Moscow sends a story of the fighting in Galicia, given him by an officer who was wounded in the battles near Tomaszow and Lublin. The story follows:

"The battle lasted three days. The Austrian left wing, with Mitrailleuses, took the offensive on our right flank, but in a short time our infantry put all the Austian officers hors de combat, thus causing a panic.

"We then began a general attack, and the Austrians quickly hoisted a white flag, threw down their arms and surrendered. This happened several times. The Austrian machine guns and artillery worked well, but the men in the batteries were unable to endure our bayonet attacks.

Cheered During Attack.

"Near Zamoso and Lublin we approached the Austrian position, and crawling to within 100 paces of the Austrian line, we cheered loudly and threw ourselves upon them. The Austrians in the front position hoisted the white flag and the others behind them fled, leaving several guns, a military convoy, money chests and two bags of soldiers' letters."

Fugitives who have arrived at Vienna from Lemberg, says the Telegraph correspondent, say the Austrian military authorities and the whole Austrian army are demoralized. Before leaving Lemberg, the Austrian soldiers pillaged the houses of rich Poles. The retiring Austrians blew up the Galician bridges and destroyed the railway.

and death-defying bravery cannot be described. All party differences are wiped out. Even the most radical Social Democrat voluntarily reports to the colors, and every one fights to the last drop of blood.

"Everybody knows that it means an extreme effort, since we must defend ourselves against six enemies; but the spirit of the soldiers is marvelous.

"Germany Above All."

"Fourteen days ago at midnight yesterday our soldiers began their march with martial music, preceded by the waving flag, and singing 'Germany, Germany above all.' They were placed directly on the French boundary, and today many a one is resting beneath the cold sod, for our Ninetieth regiment has suffered especially severely in the assault upon Luettich (Liege). The young Zimmerman at the market place (Ernest probably knows his father) who was present, has written to his father that the courage with which our German troups have fought cannot be described. A hill of eighty meters (250 feet) in height, topped by cannon upon cannon, had to be rushed. Yet there was no faltering. Everybody gritted his teeth and was inspired by the one thought, 'we must win!'

"That the small excursion steamer had the daring in the face of certain death to penetrate as far as the mouth of the Thames in order to lay mines, certainly must be marveled at. One hundred men had volunteered to take part in the undertaking, although they well knew that there would probably be no return.

Atrocities of Allies.

"The atrocities in Belgium are hair-raising. They are not deeds of men but bestial—and the situation in France is little different.

"Your countrymen and consuls are doing excellent work. They are soliciting funds for the Red Cross, and their sympathies seem to be with us. Please send us a German paper or two from Hibbing occasionally, so that we may see the drift of public opinion over there.

"Yesterday our beloved kaiser proceeded to the front. May he bring good luck to his brave troops; We hope to continue victorious—that, at present, is our sole thought.

"With thousand greetings, I am ever,
"YOUR CLARA.

"Write only cards, we do not receive any letters."

The "small excursion steamer" referred to evidently is the one reported in the press ditches as the North German Lloyd liner Koenigin Louise.

FRANCE PROMISES NEWS OF THE WAR

Paris, Sept. 5.—The military government of Paris announces that advices regarding the progress of the war, under the supervision of Louis Lucien Klotz, former minister of the interior, will be given out in the afternoon and evening. They will necessarily be laconic, it is said, but the terms thereof will be confirmed and truthful. Matter that may be of use to the enemy will, of course, be withheld.

CAN HURL TWENTY CORPS ON GERMANY

Russia Feels Austria Will Cut Little Figure Now.

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Rome contains a message from Petrograd in which a high Russian military official is quoted as follows:

"When the war began Austria was our most serious enemy because, except for four army corps sent against Servia, her entire army was directed against us.

"Now that Servia has annihilated four Austrian corps at Shabatz and we have decisively defeated 200,000 men between the Vistula and the Dniester, ten Russian army corps are sufficient to hold the Austrians in check, leaving us twenty corps free to launch against Germany."

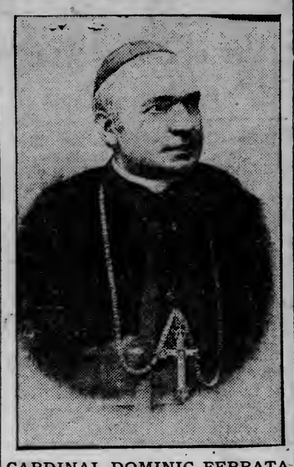

PREDICTS BIG LOSS TO GERMAN FORCES

Wounded Officer Talks About Attack on Paris.

London, Sept. 5, 12:17 p. m.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company from Ostend, Belgium, says advices from Brussels represent that city as extremely quiet, since most of the German army of occupation has been sent to the vicinity of Termonde, where fighting is going on.

A high German officer, lying wounded in a hospital, is quoted in Brussels as having told his attending surgeon that the German army, in his opinion, would lose three-quarters of its effective force before capturing Paris.

WILL TAKE THE PLACE OF MERRY DEL VAL

CARDINAL DOMINIC FERRATA.

Rome, Sept. 5.—It is officially announced that Cardinal Dominic Ferrata has been appointed papal secretary of state.

Cardinal Ferrata was born in 1847 at Montefisscon, Italy. His work as papal nunzio at Paris and as prefect of the congregation of bishops in Rome stamped him as a finished diplomat. He presided over the Eucharistic congress held last year at Malta.

In 1901, when the late Cardinal Rampolla resigned as papal secretary of state, Cardinal Ferrata was mentioned as probable candidate for the office.

NEW POPE EAGER TO SECURE PEACE

Is Said to Have Talked Plainly Before Election.

Rome, Sept. 4, 8:50 p. m., via Paris, Sept. 5, 9:30 a. m.—It was related here today that in conversations before his election, Pope Benedict XV repeatedly expressed his belief in the necessity that the pontiff should intervene with an appeal for peace, not in a purely evangelical form, but in precise diplomatic action.

"The pope," he is quoted as saying, "must actually place himself amidst the combatants, instead of keeping away and preaching peace and concord from a distance."

It is asserted that he expressed these ideas in the conclave with Genoese tenacity, but at the same time showing such absolute neutrality towards the belligerents that it brought about his election as pontiff.

SAYS DALMATIAN COAST IS OCCUPIED

Montenegrins Hold It Between Antivari and Cattaro.

Rome, Sept. 5, via Paris, 11:0 a. m.—A telegram from San Giovanni, in Albania, says that Montenegron troops, led by Generals Martinovich and Bucotich, have occupied the Dalmatain coast between Antivari and Cattaro

On Austrian Territory.

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch received here from Milan, Italy, quotes the Corriere Dela Sera to the effect that a Montenegrin army corps has occupied a strip of Austrian territory between the Montenegrin frontier and the sea, as far north as Budua, ten miles southeast of Cattaro. The advance guards have arrived near Cattaro, which the Montenegrins are bent upon taking with the assistance of French and British warships.

WILLIAM HOPES TO GO BACK TO ALBANIA

Says His Life Is Consecrated to Helping That Country.

Paris, Sept. 5, 4:25 a. m.—A proclamation issued by Prince William of Wied to the people when he left Albania is given in a Rome dispatch to the Havas agency. It follows:

"Albanians, when your delegates came to offer me the crown of Albania, I responded with confidence to the appeal of a noble, chivalrous people, who asked me to second them in the work of national revival.

"I came to you animated with the most ardent wish to aid you in this patriotic endavor, and you have seen me from the outset consecrate all my efforts to the reorganization of the country, and desirous of giving you a good administration and justice for all.

Inauspicious Events.

"However, inauspicious events have thwarted our common effort. Some minds, blinded by a passion not understood, opposed reforms and would not grant credit to the government. Besides, the war which has just broken out in Europe has complicated our situation.

"I have, therefore, no thought to leave the work to which I wish to consecrate my strength and my life. It will be useful that I go for some time to the Occident; but whether far or near, I shall have only one thought —that of working for the prosperity of the noble, chivalrous Albanian country. During my absence the international controlling commission will assure a government."

WELLESLEY WOMEN BACK FROM EUROPE

Steamers Lampo and Infanta Isabel Reach New York.

New York, Sept. 5.—A party of sixteen young women of Wellesley college—two teachers and fourteen students—marooned in Italy at the beginning of the European war, reached New York today aboard the Italian tank steamer Lampo from Genoa. The Lampo had no passenger accommodations, but her officers gave up their cabins to the women.

The Spanish steamship Infanta Isabel arrived from Barcelona and Cadiz with 323 passengers. She was chartered by the American consul at Barcelona, acting under instructions of the American ambassador at Madrid, and brought only Americans. An average of $150 fare was charged for the trip.

Seventy-eight German reservists reached port on the Clyde liner Algonquin from Puerto Colombo.

RELIEF COMMITTEE HAS BUSIEST WEEK

Sends Home Last Installment of 56,000 Americans.

London, Sept. 5.—Herbert J. Hoover, chairman of the American relief committee in London, reports today that his committe has just finished the most strenuous week it has had since the war began. The work of taking care of the American refugees who are flocking here from the continent, has called for special efforts.

The committee estimates that during the last week a total of 6,000 Americans have come into England from across the channel, and that 600 of these were absolutely destitute. Boarding places were found for 920 persons and 1,257 were assisted financially.

American departures from London for the United States during the last week number 11,000, which makes a total of about 56,000 who have gone home since the war began.

THIRTEEN ENTOMBED IN OKLAHOMA MINE

Thirty Feet of Coal and Rock Imprisons Miners.

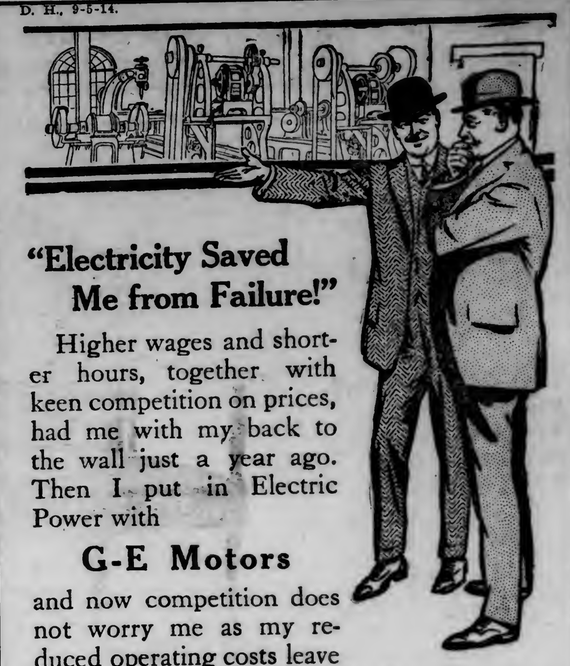

McAlester, Okla., Sept. 5.—After working all night rescuers seeking thirteen men entombed in the Union Coal company mine at Adamson had failed to reach them early today. It was stated that about thirty feet of coal and rock must be removed before the men could be taken out. No sound of any kind has come from the prisoners, two of whom are Americans. The others are Italians and negroes.

THERE HAS BEEN FIGHTING AT ——.

London, Sept. 5, 4:11 a. m.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Antwerp, timed Friday afternoon, says:

"There has been fighting since morning at —— (name deleted) where the Germans apparently are threatening our communications."

DULUTH EDISON COMPANY REJECTS OFFER OF THE CITY

Declares $1,107,940 Wholly Inadequate; Less Than Bonded Debt.

Would Mean Destruction of Stock Held By 540 Holders.

Declaring that the price offered by the city is wholly inadequate, President A. W. Hartman yesterday afternoon presented a letter to Mayor Prince, formally rejecting the city's proposal to take over the plant and business of the Duluth-Edison Electric company for $1,107,940.54.

President Hartman states that the city's offer is less than the company's bonded debt and would mean the total destruction of all the value of the entire capital stock held by 540 shareholders, which has cost them more than $1,000,000 in cash within the last eight years. He says that the engineers who made the valuation used the so-called reproduction method if it secured better results for the city, but abandoned it for attempted actual cost to the company where this method would bring the price lower. He states that the allowance of $200,000 as going value was an arbitrary figure and altogether too small, the engineers having failed to take many essential factors into consideration.

Best Service at Low Rate.

President Hartman declares that the company has been rendering the best of service at a low rate and that there is no public need at this time for the city to acquire the plant of the Edison company or to build a competing plant.

The company's position is set forth by President Hartman as follows:

"The Honorable City Council, Duluth, Minnesota:

"Gentlemen:—This company has received copy of your resolution approved Aug. 8, 1914, offering to it, subject to approval by the voters of the city, $1,107,940.54 for its plant, equipment and property on Jan. 1, 1914, subject to allowance for increase in value or depreciation during the year 1914.

"The subject matter of the resolution has had the careful consideration of the company and its officers and directors, and the conclusion has been reached that the company must decline the suggested offer.

"This company and its predecessor companies have furnished the electric lighting to the city of Duluth and its inhabitants for more than twenty years. It has gone through the hardships and difficulties necessary in establishing its present prosperous business.

"Its predecessor companies have experienced financial difficulties as the result of attempting to give the best possible service. Practically the entire time of the executive officers of this company has for the last twenty years been given to the building up of this business.

"This company has outstanding in the hands of actual investors the following securities:

Common stock, par value	$ 500,000
Preferred stock, par value	1,150,000
Bonds	1,132,000
Total	$2,782,000

These bonds and preferred stock have cost the present holders not less than 95 cents on the dollar of par value. The common stock has sold for somewhat less.

The earnings of the company for a number of years have been sufficient to pay all interest on its bonds, dividends upon its preferred stock, and to render service second to none furnished in this country.

"The suggestion of your honorable body is that the company, through the officers, sell the plant and property of the company for less than the actual outstanding bonds.

540 Stockholders Involved.

"This would mean the total destruction of all of the value of the entire capital stock of the company held by 540 different owners, and which has within the last eight years cost these owners in excess of $1,000,000 in cash.

"The suggestion has been made that the company is owned by the Bond & Share company of New York. That company did on Jan. 31, 1914, own 150 shares of the common stock of the company and no more. The entire list of stockholders is furnished to the city in a sworn report each year, and these reports are all on file with the city auditor. The suggestion that the company is owned by any other corporation is, of course, inadvertently made. No member of your body would wilfully misstate the fact, and the facts are as stated, that the company,—that is, its stock which represents its property subject to the bonds,—is held by 540 different owners whose names, addresses and the amount owned by each are set forth in the company's reports filed with the city; and what your honorable body is suggesting is not depriving some bond and share company of its property, but is, that 540 stockholders, with an actual investment of more than $1,000,000 cash made within a few years, be deprived of their property without any compensation.

Lowest Possible Valuation.

"The price suggested by the city is wholly inadequate. Every facility was given to the city to make a complete inventory and valuation of the company's property. The apparent purpose of the engineers in fixing prices was to adopt such method, varying it where necessary to accomplish their purpose, as would produce the lowest possible valuation of physical property. Then without waiting for the figures showing the cost to the company of its property and its value as an income producing plant, it adopted a wholly arbitrary and inadequate amount of $200,000 as a so-called going value.

"In attempting to reach the value of the physical property of the company, the engineers used the so-called reproduction method. Where it was apparent that this method would produce a higher result, then the engineers abandoned it and attempted to base their figures on the actual cost to the company.

"As an illustration of the inequality and unfair result of this varying of method, it is sufficient to point out that in the actual construction of its property the company has paid high prices for copper, for instance, and in determining the value of the copper the engineers have based it upon going prices. On the other hand, where the engineers considered the cost of reproducing the present underground system of the company, they omitted entirely the cost of taking up and relaying pavements as they now exist, and attempted to fix this part of the value on the original cost to the company. In other words, where the present cost of reproducing the plant or any part of it would be lower than it actually cost the company, the engineers have, so far as we can learn, invariably used this method; but where the present cost of reproducing the plant would be more than its actual cost to the company, then the reproduction cost has not been accepted.

Depreciation Unfair.

"What we believe to be a wholly unfair and arbitrary depreciation charge has been made in many cases. The engineers have arbitrarily assumed that property having been in use a certain number of years has depreciated to a certain extent—this without any reference to what it would cost to make the property as good as new. The engineers have also arbitrarily, as we think, in their valuation reduced the value of the reserve steam plant of this company from $205,003.37, which they estimate as the amount necessary to reproduce it, to $84,480.60, and the only reason we can see assigned for this is the claim that the plant is not in constant use.

"These are but two illustrations of many samples that may be found in the report, showing how unfair it is to the company if it is assumed to be a correct statement of the present value of the company's property.

Too Little Considered.

"In arriving at the so-called going value of $200,000, the city's engineers have been even more arbitrary and unfair to the company, if such a thing is possible, than in their valuation of the physical property. The engineers have taken an arbitrary method which, as we understand, is not used by any engineer in attempting to reach the total intangible or going value, but only in determining one element of the same. In the method used by the city's engineers, no consideration at all is given to, nor any allowance made for, either the good will of the business, which is very valuable, the earning capacity of the plant, which is very great, the actual cost in money of the property which the company has been obliged to purchase from time to time and which largely exceeds the total amount suggested by the city, the cost of building up the business, and the high rate of interest and commissions necessary to be paid to induce capital to invest in such business before it has become established and safe.

Overlooked Four Points.

"No consideration at all has been given to:

"(a) The cost of plants and cost of business not now visible, but which actually existed and which were necessary to create the present business.

"(b) Early plants discarded, due to advances in the art and inadequacy.

"(c) Parts of early plants and distribution systems discarded after consolidation on account of duplication.

"(d) Cost of soliciting, advertising and other methods of increasing the volume of business, thereby decreasing the cost of production and making the business a self-supporting business, and reduction in rates.

"The so-called going value of $200,000 suggested by the city's engineer is merely a part of the loss of earnings and of interest which the engineer admits would accrue to the city if it started in to build a competing plant and this company retired from business without any opposition as rapidly as the city could take on the new business. Of course, no such condition exists or ever did exist or ever could exist.

Points to Be Considered.

"In determining the value of any property where people expect to be fair, consideration is always given to what has been actually paid for it and to what it will earn. The property of the company is actually owned by its stockholders and bondholders.

"The bondholders' rights are ahead of the stockholders'. In case of sale of the property, the bondholders would receive the entire amount realized until they were paid in full. After they were paid in full, the balance would go to the stockholders. The stockholders of the company through their purchase of its stock have paid considerably more than $1,000,000 for the property, subject to the bonds.

"The company has been rendering excellent service at low rates, and has been able to earn sufficient to make its preferred stock worth practically par, and to give a large value to the common stock.

"The engineers do not even mention any of these matters, nor give them any consideration, and the suggestion of the city is that this entire investment of stockholders be wiped out and their property turned over to the city without any consideration to them.

"No complaint is made or can be made as to the service given by the company. It is as good as the service given by any other company in this country in a city of the same size, and compares very favorably with the service given by the city itself in its water and gas department. It is admitted by everybody that the company's rates are low. Its rates for city lighting are lower than those recommended by Clausen & Pillsbury in their report of 1911. The city has the power to regulate rates and keep them at all times reasonable.

City Gets Best Service.

"We submit to your honorable body that there is no public need at this time for the city to either acquire the plant of this company or to build a competing plant. The city and its inhabitants now have the best of service at reasonable rates, with power in the city to regulate both the service and rates. You now have, we submit, as good service and as low rates as you can hope to obtain through municipal ownership, unless you intend to bear a part of the expense of operating and maintaining the plant through general taxes. The suggestion has been made that if the city begins the construction of a competing plant, this would 'at once destroy any so-called going value in the Edison plant.' We suggest that that is hardly a fair method of treating this company to deliberately start in to the building of a plant with the express purpose of destroying what is admitted to be at least $200,000 in value of property belonging to the stockholders of this company.

Would Check City Development.

"We submit it is unfair to the stockholders of this company to wait until it has built up a profitable, paying business, and then ask that the plant and business be turned over to the city for a wholly inadequate consideration. This attitude, if persisted in, will do more than any other one thing to prevent the proper growth and development of this city. Investors cannot be induced to expend their money in a city that has the reputation of seeking to destroy values as soon as a business is in a prosperous condition.

"This company cannot, without wholly disregarding the interests of its stockholders, whose money has made the service which the city and its inhabitants have received possible, accept the offer of the city council, and must, therefore, decline the same."

RUSSIANS ARE INVADING AUSTRIA

Kiev district army, but the Russians attacked before the concentration was completed.

"On Wednesday morning the Russians were established all around the northern, eastern and half of the southern face of the capital. Lemberg stands high above the surrounding country, its obsolete defences being supplemented by modern entrenchments.

Entered on Heels of Rout.

"It would seem that the rout of the Austrian army, whose double duty it was to cover Lemberg and also the right flank of the Austrian forces in Poland, was so absolute that the Russians must have entered Lemberg at the heels of the runaways, for at 11 o'clock Thursday morning Lemberg was entirely in Russian possession. The military stores of every kind—explosives, powder magazines complete, wireless and telegraph installation—in short, the whole equipment of the important military center—fell intact into the hands of the victorious Russians.

Halicz Harder to Capture.

"The capture of Halicz, which was protected by thirty small forts, entailed a harder task, as the Russians were obliged to capture all the forts and the Austrians made desperate resistance.

"The Russians had been fighting continuously for eight days after a previous week or ten days of marching. The fighting and marching troops of the Russian left wing covered nearly 150 miles in seventeen days, capturing Halicz on Aug. 17, after two days of hard fighting.

Why Names Are Changed.

"All towns in Russia with a German form of name were changed to the Slav form. This is not due to the fact that Russia is at war with Germany, but is Russia's appeal to the inexorable tribunal of history against the savage ferocity the unsoldierly nation consistently displayed towards helpless refugees.

"A considerable sensation was caused here by the discovery aboard the German cruiser Magdeburg, which was recently blown up, of a number of cat-o-nine-tails which were found in every officer's cabin, all bearing signs of hard usage."

An Officer's Story.

The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in Moscow sends a story of the fighting in Galicia, given him by an officer who was wounded in the battles near Tomaszow and Lublin. The story follows:

"The battle lasted three days. The Austrian left wing, with Mitrailleuses, took the offensive on our right flank, but in a short time our infantry put all the Austian officers hors de combat, thus causing a panic.

"We then began a general attack, and the Austrians quickly hoisted a white flag, threw down their arms and surrendered. This happened several times. The Austrian machine guns and artillery worked well, but the men in the batteries were unable to endure our bayonet attacks.

Cheered During Attack.

"Near Zamoso and Lublin we approached the Austrian position, and crawling to within 100 paces of the Austrian line, we cheered loudly and threw ourselves upon them. The Austrians in the front position hoisted the white flag and the others behind them fled, leaving several guns, a military convoy, money chests and two bags of soldiers' letters."

Fugitives who have arrived at Vienna from Lemberg, says the Telegraph correspondent, say the Austrian military authorities and the whole Austrian army are demoralized. Before leaving Lemberg, the Austrian soldiers pillaged the houses of rich Poles. The retiring Austrians blew up the Galician bridges and destroyed the railway.

NO LETTERS IN GERMANY

and death-defying bravery cannot be described. All party differences are wiped out. Even the most radical Social Democrat voluntarily reports to the colors, and every one fights to the last drop of blood.

"Everybody knows that it means an extreme effort, since we must defend ourselves against six enemies; but the spirit of the soldiers is marvelous.

"Germany Above All."

"Fourteen days ago at midnight yesterday our soldiers began their march with martial music, proceded by the waving flag and singing 'Germany, Germany above all.' They were placed directly on the French boundary, and today many a one is resting beneath the cold sod, for our Ninetieth regiment has suffered especially severely in the assault upon Luettich (Liege), the young Zimmerman at the market place (Ernest probably knows his father) who was present, has written to his father that the courage with which our German troops have fought cannot be described. A hill of eighty meters (250 feet) in height, topped by cannon upon cannon, had to be rushed. Yet there was no faltering. Everybody gritted his teeth and was inspired by the one thought, 'we must win!'

"That the small excursion steamer had the daring in the face of certain death to penetrate as far as the mouth of the Thames in order to lay mines, certainly must be marveled at. One hundred men had volunteered to take part in this undertaking, although they well knew that there would probably be no return.

Atrocities of Allies.

"The atrocities in Belgium are hair-raising. They are not deeds of men but bestial—and the situation in France is little different.

"Your countrymen and consuls are doing excellent work. They are soliciting funds for the Red Cross, and their sympathies seem to be with us. Please send us a German paper or two from Hibbing occasionally, so that we may see the drift of public opinion over there.

"Yesterday our beloved kaiser proceeded to the front. May he bring good luck to his brave troops. We hope to continue victorious—that, at present, is our sole thought.

"With thousand greetings, I am ever,
"YOUR CLARA.

"Write only cards, we do not receive any letters."

The "small excursion steamer" referred to evidently is the one reported in the press dispatches as the North German Lloyd liner Koenigin Louise.

FRANCE PROMISES NEWS OF THE WAR

Paris, Sept. 5.—The military government of Paris announces that advices regarding the progress of the war, under the supervision of Louis Lucien Klotz, former minister of the interior, will be given out in the afternoon and evening. They will necessarily be laconic, it is said, but the terms thereof will be confirmed and truthful. Matter that may be of use to the enemy will, of course, be withheld.

CAN HURL TWENTY CORPS ON GERMANY

Russia Feels Austria Will Cut Little Figure Now.

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Rome contains a message from Petrograd in which a high Russian military official is quoted as follows:

"When the war began Austria was our most serious enemy because, except for four army corps sent against Servia, her entire army was directed against us.

"Now that Servia has annihilated four Austrian corps at Shabatz and we have decisively defeated 200,000 men between the Vistula and the Dniester, ten Russian army corps are sufficient to hold the Austrians in check, leaving us twenty corps free to launch against Germany."

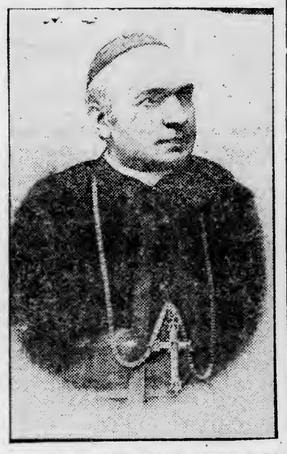

PREDICTS BIG LOSS TO GERMAN FORCES

Wounded Officer Talks About Attack on Paris.

London, Sept. 5, 12:17 p. m.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram company from Ostend, Belgium, says advices from Brussels represent that city as extremely quiet, since most of the German army of occupation has been sent to the vicinity of Termonde, where fighting is going on.

A high German officer, lying wounded in a hospital, is quoted in Brussels as having told his attending surgeon that the German army, in his opinion, would lose three-quarters of its effective force before capturing Paris.

WILL TAKE THE PLACE OF MERRY DEL VAL

CARDINAL DOMINIC FERRATA.

Rome, Sept. 6.—It is officially announced that Cardinal Dominic Ferrata has been appointed papal secretary of state.

Cardinal Ferrata was born in 1847 at Montefisscon, Italy. His work as papal nunzio at Paris and as prefect of the congregation of bishops in Rome stamped him as a finished diplomat. He presided over the Eucharistic congress held last year at Maita.

In 1901, when the late Cardinal Rampolla resigned as papal secretary of state, Cardinal Ferrata was mentioned as probable candidate for the office.

NEW POPE EAGER TO SECURE PEACE

Is Said to Have Talked Plainly Before Election.

Rome, Sept. 4, 8:50 p. m., via Paris, Sept. 5, 9:30 a. m.—It was related here today that in conversations before his election, Pope Benedict XV repeatedly expressed his belief in the necessity that the pontiff should intervene with an appeal for peace, not in a purely evangelical form, but in precise diplomatic action.

"The pope," he is quoted as saying, "must actually place himself amidst the combatants, instead of keeping away and preaching peace and concord from a distance."

It is asserted that he expressed these ideas in the conclave with Genoese tenacity, but at the same time showing such absolute neutrality towards the belligerents that it brought about his election as pontiff.

SAYS DALMATIAN COAST IS OCCUPIED

Montenegrins Hold It Between Antivari and Cattaro.

Rome, Sept. 5, via Paris, 11:0 a. m.—A telegram from San Giovanni, in Albania, says that Montenegron troops, led by Generals Martinovich and Bucotich, have occupied the Dalmatain coast between Antivari and Cattaro

On Austrian Territory.

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch received here from Milan, Italy, quotes the Corriere Dela Sera to the effect that a Montenegrin army corps has occupied a strip of Austrian territory between the Montenegrin frontier and the sea, as far north as Budua, ten miles south-east of Cattaro. The advance guards have arrived near Cattaro, which the Montenegrins are bent upon taking with the assistance of French and British warships.

WILLIAM HOPES TO GO BACK TO ALBANIA

Says His Life Is Consecrated to Helping That Country.

Paris, Sept. 5, 4:25 a. m.—A proclamation issued by Prince William of Wied to the people when he left Albania is given in a Rome dispatch to the Havas agency. It follows:

"Albanians, when your delegates came to offer me the crown of Albania, I responded with confidence to the appeal of a noble, chivalrous people, who asked me to second them in the work of national revival.

"I came to you animated with the most ardent wish to aid you in this patriotic endavor, and you have seen me from the outset consecrate all my efforts to the reorganization of the country, and desirous of giving you a good administration and justice for all.

Inauspicious Events.

"However, inauspicious events have thwarted our common effort. Some minds, blinded by a passion not understood, opposed reforms and would not grant credit to the government. Besides, the war which has just broken out in Europe has complicated our situation.

"I have, therefore, no thought to leave the work to which I wish to consecrate my strength and my life. It will be useful that I go for some time to the Occident; but whether far or near, I shall have only one thought —that of working for the prosperity of the noble, chivalrous Albanian country. During my absence the international controlling commission will assure a government."

WELLESLEY WOMEN BACK FROM EUROPE

Steamers Lampo and Infanta Isabel Reach New York.

New York, Sept. 5.—A party of sixteen young women of Wellesley college—two teachers and fourteen students—marooned in Italy at the beginning of the European war, reached New York today aboard the Italian tank steamer Lampo from Genoa. The Lampo had no passenger accommodations, but her officers gave up their cabins to the women.

The Spanish steamship Infanta Isabel arrived from Barcelona and Cadiz with 323 passengers. She was chartered by the American consul at Barcelona, acting under instructions of the American ambassador at Madrid, and brought only Americans. An average of $150 fare was charged for the trip.

Seventy-eight German reservists reached port on the Clyde liner Algonquin from Puerto Colombo.

RELIEF COMMITTEE HAS BUSIEST WEEK

Sends Home Last Installment of 56,000 Americans.

London, Sept. 5.—Herbert J. Hoover, chairman of the American relief committee in London, reports today that his committe has just finished the most strenuous week it has had since the war began. The work of taking care of the American refugees who are flocking here from the continent, has called for special efforts.

The committee estimates that during the last week a total of 6,000 Americans have come into England from across the channel, and that 600 of these were absolutely destitute. Boarding places were found for 920 persons and 1,257 were assisted financially.

American departures from London for the United States during the last week number 11,000, which makes a total of about 56,000 who have gone home since the war began.

THIRTEEN ENTOMBED IN OKLAHOMA MINE

Thirty Feet of Coal and Rock Imprisons Miners.

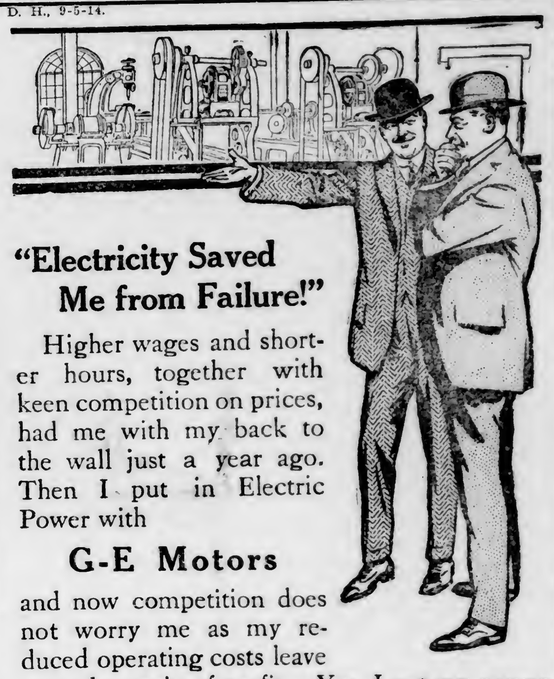

McAlester, Okla., Sept. 5.—After working all night rescuers seeking thirteen men entombed in the Union Coal company mine at Adamson had failed to reach them early today. It was stated that about thirty feet of coal and rock must be removed before the men could be taken out. No sound of any kind has come from the prisoners, two of whom are Americans. The others are Italians and negroes.

THERE HAS BEEN FIGHTING AT——.

London, Sept. 5, 4:11 a. m.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Antwerp, timed Friday afternoon, says:

"There has been fighting since morning at ——— (name deleted) where the Germans apparently are threatening our communications."

SPANISH MISSION DESIGN

TO COST $6,000.00

We present to our readers this week the second design of the Spanish-Mission series. The exterior is constructed of stucco over frame, with a large open terrace which could be roofed over if desired. The size of the building exclusive of the porch is 34 feet by 24 feet.

The interior is arranged in the customary manner for a house of this shape. A large fireplace is one of the central features of the large Living Room. The Bed Rooms are all of good size and properly lighted. The first floor is finished in birch and the second floor is yellow pine. The house would cost to build in Duluth about $6,000 complete, including plumbing and heating.

Nearly all advertising is good but some is better than others. Newspaper advertising is best of all because it produces the best immediate results for the least expenditure of money.

People regard the newspaper as timely.

An advertisement in a newspaper suggests quick action and generally brings it.

Manufacturers are finding the newspaper the best gateway to immediate results.

It is a two-edged weapon for sales victory. It stimulates both the consumer and the local dealer.

People believe in newspapers, believe in dealers who advertise in newspapers, and believe in manufactured products brought to their attention through the advertising columns of local newspapers.

TUESDAY—Business meeting of the Duluth Drama Study club in the library club room at 10 a. m.; salon given under the patronage of the Drama league at the Kitchi Gammi club at 3 p. m.

WEDNESDAY—Wedding of Miss Edith Fitzsimmons and George A. Merritt at Trinity pro-cathedral at 8 p. m.; followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Fitzsimmons, 1431 East First street.

SATURDAY—Social meeting of the Matinee Musicale at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Duncan, 2215 East Second street, at 3 o'clock.

This has been a busy week socially with weddings, the beginning of the matinee salons and numerous small affairs that included functions in honor of brides of this week and of next week.

Of wide interest were the weddings of Miss Isabel Pearson and Floid M. Fuller and of Miss Carolyn Swift and William P. Harrison, both ceremonies taking place Wednesday evening. The Swift-Herrison bridal party was entertained at dinner Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Olcott.

Tuesday Miss Ramona Hoopes entertained at tea in honor of Miss Kathryn Denfeld, whose wedding to Edward Amtsbuechler will take place this evening. The young women of the Denfeld-Amtsbuechler bridal party were entertained at luncheon Thursday by Mrs. W. E. Richardson and yesterday Miss Denfeld was the guest of honor at a breakfast given by Miss Margaret Culkin and Miss Susan Stryker at the home of Miss Culkin. The bridal dinner given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn concluded the pre-nuptial affairs.

In honor of Miss Edith Fitzsimmons, whose wedding to George A. Merritt will take place Wednesday evening, Miss Grace Porter entertained informally Tuesday afternoon and Miss Lucy Nightingale and Miss Eleanor Reichert gave a theater party Wednesday. Mrs. Thomas A. Merritt entertained at a shower Thursday in honor of Miss Fitzsimmons, and Miss Helen Evered gave an informal party yesterday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A Merritt will entertain the members of the Fitzsimmons-Merritt bridal party at dinner this evening and Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Fitzsimmons will give the bridal dinner Monday evening.

Tuesday the Saturday club held its annual luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. L. Washburn.

Wednesday Mrs. J. A. Watterworth entertained at luncheon for Mrs. Wiley and Mrs. Bostwick of Minneapolis.

Thursday Mrs. Homer Collins gave a luncheon in honor of Mrs. S. T. Harrison of Crosby, Minn., and Miss Olive Kreltter entertained informally in compliment to Miss Lillian Urban of New Orleans.

A large number attended the salon given yesterday afternoon at the Kitchi Gammi club under the patronage of the Drama league. The other two salons of the series will be given Tuesday and Friday afternoons of next week at the Kitchi Gammi club.

Even the very young members of society have had a share in the festivities of the week. Yesterday afternoon Madeline and Marcus Fay entertained their young friends at a dancing party at the Country club and this evening Jack Marshall will give a dancing party at the Kitchi Gammi club from 7 to 10 o'clock.

The leading events for next week will be the salons and the wedding of Miss Edith Fitzsimmons and George A. Merritt, that will take place at Trinity pro-cathedral at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

The club season will open next week. Tuesday morning the Duluth Drama Study class will have a business meeting to make final plans for the year's work and Saturday afternoon the first meeting of the Matinee Musicale will be held, taking the form of social affair at the home of Mrs. C. A. Duncan.

An evening branch of the Duluth Drama study class, intended for those who are engaged during the day, will be organized at a meeting that is called for Friday evening in the library club room.

Events of Interest

Mrs. Heber Hartley of 1032 East First street entertained at tea yesterday in honor of Miss Jessie Hartley, a bride-elect. There were twenty-five guests.

* * *

At the next six Wednesday dinner dances at the Country club Miss Berta Schmied and Leo Schmied will give demonstrations of the latest social dances. The Esther Gomberg orchestra will play for these weekly dances.

* * *

Miss Helen Evered of 5620 West Sixth street entertained yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Edith Fitzsimmons, a bride of next week. Auction bridge was played at three tables. The favor was won by Miss Vera Maxon of Waukesha, Wis., who will be one of Miss Fitzsimmon's bridesmaids. The living room was decorated with sweet peas and the dining room and reception hall with golden glow.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Fay entertained at a dancing party at the Country club yesterday afternoon for their grandchildren, Madeline and Marcus Fay. Favor dances and a contest added to the pleasure of the youthful dancers and made the afternoon a most enjoyable affair. The boys tried to see who could hang upon blue and gold ribbon clothes lines the greatest number of doll clothes most quickly. An Indian dance, originated by Miss Berta Schmied, was the most delightful feature of the party. At the close of the dance all the boys wore Indian headdresses and the girls were gay with bead necklaces. Beatings on a tom-tom gave an additional Indian air to this part of the program.

OLDEST DULUTH WOMEN'S CLUB HAS AN INTERESTING PROGRAM OUTLINED

MRS. H. J. GRANNIS, President.

MRS. F. J. O'DONNELL, Corresponding Secretary.

MISS MYRA GERMOND, Treasurer.

MRS. JOHN WILSON, Federation Secretary.

THE season of the Saturday club will open Sept. 26, when a business meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. F. O. Sherwin, 2114 Woodland avenue, followed by a social meeting to which each member may invite a guest. During the social part of the afternoon the keynote of the historical work for the year will be struck by the showing of stereopticon views of Egypt that have been bought by the public library.

History and art have been grouped together for this year's work of the club, as those phases of Egypt are almost inseparable. The study of Egypt will include its architecture, literature, ancient religion, geographical features and wonderful monuments.

The literary programs will be devoted to Russian, American, German and English writers with a lecture on "Contemporary Literature," by Dr. W. F. Hovis.

One of the science programs will be of special interest as it will deal with the physical geography of Minnesota, the geological formations in the region of Lake Superior and the geological history of the Great Lakes. At the second science meeting, Charles H. Frazee of the Duluth normal faculty will lecture on "Sanitation."

Oldest Duluth Club.

The Saturday club is the oldest woman's club in the city and will celebrate its silver anniversary during the year. It has always been a departmental organization, its original divisions having been history, music and art. Later literature took the place of music. History and art are now grouped together and literature and modern science form the other divisions.

This year the current events feature of the meetings will be emphasized, more time being given to that division of the afternoon's programs and less time to history, provided the disturbed condition of Europe does not make authentic news impossible.

Each member may give special attention to the phase of work in which she is especially interested, but each one is supposed to take part in a program during the year.

There is no limit to the membership of this club, but a candidate's name must be presented by a member of the board of directors and must receive the unanimous vote of that board. A woman must attend one meeting of the club before she becomes a member.

The officers of the club are: Mrs. H. J. Grannis, president; Mrs. R. Spiegel, first vice president; Mrs. R. E. Denfeld, second vice president; Mrs. G. D. Hilton, recording secretary; Mrs. F. J. O'Donnell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John Wilson, federation secretary; Miss Myra Germond, treasurer, and Mrs. J. W. Harbison, auditor.

The delegates to the Woman's council are Mrs. F. J. O'Donnell and Mrs. J. A. Keyes and the alternates are Mrs. W. B. Brinkman and Mrs. F. O. Sherwin. The delegates to the state federation meeting are Mrs J. H. Grannis and Mrs. N. B. Morrison, with Miss Jessie Maynard and Mrs. W. W. Lawrence as alternates.

The program for the year is as follows:

PLANS UNDER WAY FOR "PICTURE BALL"

Duluth Girls Will Represent Famous Artists' Models.

The plans for the "picture ball" to be given on Sept. 18 at the Spalding hotel have progressed rapidly during the week.

Miss Jean Marshall, one of the younger set chosen for a portrait, will be a charming Greuze, a perfect type to portray, "The Girl With the Doves." Miss Wilhelmina Fitger has been selected for the best known of Jules Breton's remarkable portraits, "The Song of the Lark," the original of which is valued at $50,000. Miss Katherine Hubbell will pose in the well-known "Bergere et Fleurs," by Boucher. Another notable portrait will be a Fragonard, taken by Mrs. Stephen Jones, whose charm and grace will enhance the delicacy and the witchery which that painter strove to impart to his models.

These four French portraits are but a very small group on the program, but each typifies a distinctive phase of eighteenth century art. The revival of crinolines in fashion will assist materially the costuming of these famous portraits.

The picture ball will be followed on Saturday, Sept. 19, by a matinee of "Children in Art," also in the new ballroom of the Spalding. In the grand march, every participant will be in fancy dress costume. The masterpieces in child portraiture will be given first, and the matinee will conclude with general dancing for all the younger set. The hours are from 3 to 6.

Drama Study Club.

The business meeting of the Duluth Drama club that was to have been held Tuesday afternoon will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in order that it and the salon at the Kitchi Gammi club will not conflict. The meeting will be held in the library club room.

Theosophical Society.

The Duluth lodge of the Theosophical society held its regular lodge meeting for members only, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the lodge room, 203 Temple building. The Karma and Reincarnation legion will meet the same evening at 7:30 o'clock. The Sunday afternoon study class will meet at 3 o'clock.

Church Meetings.

The women of the Central W. C. T. U. will be assisted by Rev. John Hoffman and Rev. Swaney Nelson at their peace and arbitration meeting Sunday afternoon at the First M. E. church. The meeting has been called by Mrs. H. A. Fentress, evangelistic superintendent.

The Flaaten Conservatory of Music and Expression

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Parents Generally Choose Best Associates for Children.

A young girl writes: "It seems to me that my mother objects to every friend and companion I have that I like. They always turn out to be the kind of girls and boys she does not want me to know. Can you tell me why this is and what I can do about it?"

Yes, I think I can tell you, and why your mother objects to some of your friends, and what you can do about it. I can remember the time in my own life when it seemed that my father (I only had him to guide me) objected to many of my companions or those whom I would have as intimates.

They were not bad boys and girls. At least all of them as far as I know have turned out to be good men and women. But they were of a precociousness in various ways to make any thoughtful mother or father question whether or not association with them might not lead to harm, and if less of their society was not the safest and wisest thing.

My father made strenuous objections to many boys and girls for one reason and another. As I look back I think that almost without exception his scruples were well founded. I think I may have been inclined to that precocity of which I speak in others, and that his efforts to keep me with companions of my own age, not so forward, was the right thing to do.

Sometimes there is a little snobbishness mixed with the parents' objections to a son's or daughter's associates. Fortunately there was nothing of this kind in my children. I could associate with the obscurest child in Christendom if only it was straightforward and wholesome. Of course if one's mother is a snob (fathers seldom are) she can make it uncomfortable for her more democratic son or daughter.

However, as a usual thing there is something besides snobbery bound up in the warning against the youthful companion. Girls and boys will do well to heed it until the time arrives when they have a better understanding of the refinements of life and of what proper associates mean to one all through life.

NEW Y. W. C. A. EXTENSION WORKER

Miss Dodd of Cedar Rapids Will Succeed Miss Anders.

MISS IDA M. DODD, who has for the last ten years been connected with the Young Women's Christian association of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, will come to the Duluth association Sept. 15 to succeed Miss Mae Anders as extension secretary. Miss Dodd leaves the Iowa association with regret but as she is a hay fever sufferer she believes that the Duluth climate will prove beneficial to her.

Miss Dodd began her work at Cedar Rapids as a volunteer worker, and gradually rose to be secretary.

One of her chief lines of activity has been studying and aiding working girls. She gave advice and assistance to many girls, and mothers often come for counsel in the management of their daughters. She did not confine her work to the "Y" building, but went to factories, shops and stores, or wherever she could be of help to business girls.

The Duluth association believes itself fortunate in securing her services.

Miss Anders will go to Sioux City, Iowa, to take charge of the extension work there.

Fall Term Opens.

IN THE WORLD OF MUSIC

AMERICAN music will be represented by a sonata of a striking nature this season in the performance of David and Clara Mannes, whose sonata recitals for violin and piano have met with much favor. The composer is Cecil Burleigh, a young American, who lives in Sioux City, Iowa, where he teaches at Morningside college. Mr. Burleigh has recently had the proofs of the work sent to the Manneses from G. Schirmer, who will publish it. It is entitled "Ascension" and is the first sonata for violin and piano on a Biblical subject.

Mr. Burleigh's sonata is based on the Passion of Jesus and is in three sections. The first is said to describe the coming of the Savior, the scene in the manger being suggested in the opening. In this movement the envy and hatred of Herod is depicted and the slaying of all the children in Bethlehem. The movement closes with the return of Jesus from Egypt. In the next movement the rebellion and uprising of the people is dealt with followed by the crucifixion, and the last section suggests the reappearance of Jesus and his ascension.

Performances were given last winter of Mr. Burleigh's "Indian Sketches" and "Twelve Short Poems" and won the sincere approval of their hearers.

* * *

Carl Flesch, the eminent Hungarian violinist, who has been passing the summer with his family at Zandvoort, Holland, arrives in New York early in October for a concert itinerary lasting the entire season. It was the original intention of Herr Flesch to appear in America only during the months of January and February. War conditions in Europe changed the plans of the great virtuoso and when the early arrival of the violinist was hinted at immediate bookings appeared. In as much as several of the great violinists are at the front with their regiments it appears that Carl Flesch will be the only one of the sensationally successful European violinists who will concertize in America this season.

* * *

Maggie Teyte, the English prima donna soprano, whose tour with Jan Kubelik was cancelled owing to the European war situation, will arrive in America the last week in September. Miss Teyte was not expected in the United States until in January, but when her American managers realized that the prima donna would be available earlier than was anticipated, they at once booked an extensive concert itinerary for this youngest of all grand opera singers.

* * *

Arthur Shattuck, the American pianist, cables his managers that the war has not yet disturbed his Parisian home and further declares that he has read more war news via cablegrams from America than printed in the daily newspapers of Paris. Mr. Shattuck will arrive in New York in December and his concert tour will begin the first week of January.

* * *

Margarete Matzenauer, prima donna contralto of the Metropolitan Opera company, will arrive in New York Oct. 20. Prior to her concert itinerary Mme. Matzenauer will make a series of phonograph records. Her first concert appearance this season will be in Houston, Texas, Oct. 27.

* * *

Cecile Ayres, the pianist, arrived in New York Aug. 24 on the Principe de Undine after an uneventful journey from Genoa on the steamship especially chartered to bring back a cargo of Americans who were marooned in Europe. Jeanne Gerville Reache, the French contralto, has arranged to join the French Red Cross for a month and accordingly will sail with her husband, Dr. George Gibier Rambaud, the head of the Pasteur Institute in New York, for France. Reache has arranged to return to America in time to fill her first concert engagement which is in Topeka, Kan., Nov. 13.

* * *

George Hamlin, tenor of the Chicago-Philadelphia Grand Opera company, is passing the summer in Milan, Italy, with his family and reports to his managers that the only discomfort the European situation has created so far as the Hamlin family is concerned is a total cancellation of a large number of dates in the tenor's opera and concert itinerary on the continent. Mr. Hamlin states he will be in America to fill his spring bookings without fail.

* * *

Christine Miller, the contralto, who enjoys the distinction of being the highest paid church singer in America has been located by the state department in Berlin. A cablegram from Thomas Nelson Page, United States ambassador to Italy, from Rome, says Miss Miller is well and happy. She will return to New York Sept. 15.

Rules Governing The Herald Contest.

1. Each quatrain submitted must be original and unpublished.

2. To be eligible, each quatrain must follow the structural form of the quatrains of Edward Fitzgerald, although the text itself must contain no phraseology contained in Fitzgerald's work.

3. It is unnecessary to include in the quatrains submitted any of the phraseology or even any of the words contained in the prose subject that has been set for versification. The versification may be as free as desired, provided only that the spirit of the Khayyam saying is preserved.

6. No quatrain submitted can be returned, and stamps should not be enclosed for that purpose.

7. Contributions should be typewritten or plainly written in ink, and on one side of the paper only, and every contribution should bear the name and address of the author.

DULUTH WOMEN GATHER FOR FIRST OF THREE AFTERNOON DISCUSSIONS OF THE FRENCH SALON

Art Gallery of Kitchi Gammi Club Provides Beautiful Setting for Meeting Under Auspices of Drama League—Miss Harriet Bogardus Gives First Lecture.

YESTERDAY afternoon the initial salon of the series arranged by the Duluth Center of the Drama league of America attracted nearly 100 Duluth women to the art gallery of the Kitchi Gammi club which made a suitable and attractive setting for the gatherings.

Without being introduced Miss Harriet Bogardus of New York began her subject, "The Ethics and Aesthetics of Conversation." Seated at a small table upon a platform she presented her theme with great animation in a voice that was heard easily by those at the back of the room. Her being seated, her vivacity, the repetition of particularly important statements and the introduction of anecdotes and observations brought the speaker close to her audience.

"The Ethics and Aesthetics of Conversation" will be followed at the other two salons, to be given Tuesday and Friday afternoons, Sept. 8 and 11, by talks on some of the most important salon leaders of France.

As an example of Miss Bogardus' research work in her chosen field, may be mentioned the fact that her description of Mme. Rambouillet and her salons, limited though it is—for history has contributed very little information regarding this wonderful woman—represents gleanings from possibly fifty books.

Miss Bogardus' talk was in part:

"Emerson says, 'The delight in good company, in pure brilliant social atmosphere, doubles the value of life.'

"Society, or association, as the word indicates, is a psychological fact and as such it depends on man's delight in the companionship of his fellows and on his power to join them in common activity.

Social Ethics.

"Social ethics is the general theme announced for this series of studies. And now let us consider for a moment a definition of our subject. Ethics briefly defined is the study of what we ought to do. Then, following logically, social ethics would be the study of what we ought to do socially.

"We may be blessed with the wisdom of Minerva, be given the moral sense of a Diana and gifted with the genius of a Sappho, and yet if we have never acquired grace in the art of conversation our success as far as society is concerned can never be assured. Conversation is the life, the nervous circulation of the social body, therefore we should try to talk well. And good talking never comes by nature. It demands too much, not only of intelligence, but of those finer perceptions, which are made sensitive and keen only by an habitual breathing in of the social atmosphere, and an habitual insight into the temperament of others.

"There is no doubt that of all the accomplishments prized in modern society, that of being agreeable in conversation is the very first. It is an art not included in the list with painting, architecture, sculpture and music, yet older than any of them, and is the one universal accomplishment which all must practice in one way or another as long as one lives, if not as a mere ornament, then as a necessity of life. It is far easier to be the orator of the day than the conversationalist of a lifetime, and success in conversation is in many respects a greater thing than success in public address, for it means the mastery of more intricate conditions and the steering clear of more subtle and complicated dangers."

Miss Bogardus spoke of the different kinds of conversation, the expression of critical opinions that involves the exercise of discrimination, sympathy with the spirit of the times that the speaker's opinions may be of immediate value, the courage of his convictions in order that he may make his statements with sincerity, and the possession of a generous heart in order that judgment may be silent while mercy speaks.

"It is a French proverb that tact consists in knowing what not to say. Whether this be true or not, we do know it is a subtle quality not easily defined—a sensitive touch in social matters. It has been a much-disputed question as to whether or not tact could be cultivated. It would seem that we were cultivating tact when we manifest an interest in people as distinct persons whose opinions and feelings we desire to know, and in conversing with them give, a part of the line of thought and get a portion of it from others, even though the whole is already our own.

Making Others Converse.

"The impulse to say everything one's self springs from personal vanity. The faculty to make another person say part of it—that is the highest and best of all ethical conditions for social intercourse.

"Taste is instinctive, and nothing so well illustrates the taste of a time and a people as its prevalent style of conversation. Personalities are never in good taste; they are poisonous and they are also cheap, for they are the poverty of our intellectual resources. Talk about almost anything rather than persons, and especially near persons. The great danger in speaking of persons, like attraction in gravity, is inversely as the square of the distance. There is no doubt but what conversation rises in character in the ratio of its being impersonal, for the individual can seldom be safely a subject for conversational criticism and then company will run the risk of wounding his neighbor's feelings or being more or less unintelligible.

"This applies to anything like wit or humor, the very things on which brilliance in conversation most depends. Wit consists in quick flashes, in prompt repartee; while humor is sustained, it is a comic way of looking at serious things, a flavoring of narrative, a perception of a ludicrous vein in human life and character.

Wit Often Cruel.

"The great wit is often cruel and even glories in wounding the sensibilities of others, while humor, if it is coupled with kindliness of heart and tact, may be regarded as the very highest of conversational virtues. There is no amusement more refined or so worthy an intellectual being as the witty or humorous talk that is still kind, playful yet reverent, which recreates from toil and care, and yet leaves no sting.

"In summing up the characteristics of good conversation, they suggest to us the foundation, the tetrachord or major scale, out of which grow all the harmonies. For conversation ought to be mental music in which diversity of thoughts in the unity of humanity, makes harmony for the soul.

"By association men are led out of themselves and compelled to regard others. Society exists to cheer by social fellowship and strengthen by social interaction, that human sympathies may spring into being under the touch of happy intercourse.

"Such has society been many times in the world's history, as notably among the great French leaders, the masters of the social art, in the salons of its gifted women.

"The social life of the two centuries during which women played so important a role in France is always full of interest from whatever point of view one may regard it. Nothing strikes us more forcibly than the remarkable mental vigor and farreaching influence of these women whose scope of action was merely a social one. However talented or beautiful the feminine types of other nationalities may have been, it is in France that we find the forerunners of the intelligent, self-poised, clear sighted, independent modern woman.

"Now success in conversation depends as much upon the disposition as upon the brains, for social talent is distinct and implies a happy poise of character and intellect, the delicate blending of many gifts, but not the supremacy of any one. The remarkable women who reigned in the salons of the last century were all distinguished for these virtues, and with them was combined that good nature based on toleration rather than insipid acquiescence. For there can be no animated talk without dissent, but dissent must be disguised by the language of courtesy.

The First Salon.

"Historians credit the Marquise de Rambouillet with having founded the first salon known in France. It is very unlikely when she established herself that she saw the end from the beginning, and it is even more unlikely that she had a definite conception of what had never before existed.

"She was that unusual something, a born social leader with the gift of organization. She was an attractive woman, well-born, talented, beautiful and rich. But above all she was a good woman, her irrevocable purity having been a grateful theme to both critics and historians. And more than this, her downright unaffected goodness influenced everybody about her and without perhaps intending it she did a most extraordinary thing. In a corrupt age she made virtue fashionable.

"She sought to gather all that was most important, whether for wit, beauty, talent of birth, into an atmosphere of refinement and simple elegance, which tone down all the discordant elements and raise life to the level of a fine art. Nor was this great house merely an academy nor its devotees pedants and blue-stockings. It was society, music and dancing. And there was a fitness in this for these people were of the best blood, the best breeding and the best literary culture in France.

"The first salon and its famous founder will always hold a lasting place in history and literature, for without putting pen to paper she purified the language, refined the manners and elevated the moral tone of an otherwise corrupt and dissolute age. But the idea which dominates all others is that the Hotel de Rambouillet stood for the art of conversation.

"Mme. Rambouillet was born of a noble Roman family and it was to her nationality as well as to her early training that she owed her taste for the beautiful in literature and art which later gave rise to the association of her name with all that was elegant and refined in Parisian society.

"She was about 26 years of age when her home was finished and ready for occupancy. She made the plans herself and so superior was it to all French architectural designs of the period that houses were built according to her ideas throughout France.

"We learn from the writers of the day that she was tall and of dignified carriage. Her features were regular, her eyes and complexion fine. Mlle. de Scudery speaks of her as beautiful, gentle and generous, constant in friendship, good, just and pure.

"Fortunately her marriage had been a suitable and happy one, built upon affection and unity of tastes. No place could have been better fitted for the purpose to which it was consecrated, that of the betterment of society, than the beautiful residence which its owner dedicated as a shrine to the fine arts in which she included the art of conversation.

Life in the Salon.

"Historians have lamented their inability to give an accurate picture of the life in this salon. The walls were tapestried in blue velvet paneled in borders of gold. The furniture was of the same material, relieved by gold fringes and lace. It was lighted by 1,000 tapers and lamps of Venetian glass, the first to be used in France. The air was perfumed with the odor of flowers in such a profusion that eternal spring seemed to reign there. It was divided up by screens used to facilitate the formation of intimate and confidential groups, so that on first entering it was sometimes difficult to see the number of guests actually present.

"In the innermost alcove sat Mme. Rambouillet herself, receiving two or three at a time, because confusion displeased her and noise distracted this goddess of gentleness. Here in this sanctuary she received for thirty years the homage her friends bestowed upon her."

At the conclusion of Miss Bogardus' talk tea was served. The hostesses of the afternoon were: Mrs. Page Morris, Mrs. E. A. Silberstein, Mrs. Whitney Wall, Mrs. George Rupley and Mrs. W. J. Olcott. They were assisted by Misses Charlotte Wilson, Martha Wall, Margaret Craig and Alexandria Van Bergen as ushers.

OPPOSED TO CITY PLANT

French Club Members Do Not Favor Merritt's Plan.

Think Competing Plant Would Be Reckless Financial Move.

By a unanimous vote of the members of the French Naturalization club present at its meeting in the French hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, last night the club was placed on record as being strictly opposed to the plan of Commissioner Merritt to build a competing electric light plant. E. P. Grignon, corresponding secretary of the organization, was instructed to communicate to the city commission the feeling of that body.

While the club was unanimously against the building of the new plant the feeling was about even as to whether the plant of the Duluth-Edison Electric company should be purchased outright or not. Many of those present expressed their belief that the city would be better off with this utility in the hands of private parties, as it would create a competition between it and the city gas department. There were also many statements made that the people of Duluth were not receiving courteous treatment at the hands of the city employes while every request made of the corporation was immediately looked after.

Among the speakers against the building of the new plant were John Cartier, A. Boisgoli, A. Bourdash, Fred Bolanger and others. They declared that the scheme looked like reckless financing and should not be considered.

Following the passing of the resolutions the club made plans for a series of entertainments and public meetings to be held during the fall and winter.

BACK FROM THE WAR ZONE

P. G. Hanson and Family Return After Voyage in Steerage.

Says Thousands of Americans Are Still in Europe.

P. George Hanson, 2217 West Third street, and Mrs. Hanson, their two daughters, Misses Ruby and Muriel, and son, Joseph, returned home yesterday noon from the war zone.

They left Christiania, Norway, on Aug. 22 on the steamship Hellig Olav of the Scandinavian-American line and arrived in New York Wednesday. Passage was secured by Mr. Hanson through his former connection with steamship companies as agent for a number of years.

Returns in Steerage.

"We are certainly glad to get back, even if we had to come in the steerage and had berths in the foremost end of the boat," said Mr. Hanson today. "The ship carried 1,300 Americans, and the demand for space was something unheard of. People were willing to pay almost anything to be taken across, saying that they did not need berths, but would be glad to sleep on the decks, trunks or any other place."

P. GEORGE HANSON.

Mr. Hanson said that there were still thousands in Norway's capital seeking passage home. Many of these, he said, would be unable to return until very late in the fall. Rates on the ships has also been raised about 20 per cent, he said.

"We stood the passage very well in spite of encountering a severe storm in the North sea. The storm lasted for two days. Waves ran very high. Nearly every one on board was seasick. During the storm we, who had berths in the foremost end of the boat, could feel the ship raising high in the air and when it came down to meet the next wave she would sink as if going to the bottom, striking the water with terrific force. Can you blame some of us for becoming seasick?"

Factories All Closed.

The war in Europe has had a tremendous effect on the people of Norway and Sweden, said Mr. Hanson. Every factory of any importance has closed down, throwing thousands of people out of employment, and has caused an unprecedented rise in the price of all foodstuffs. Flour has trebled in price and sugar has doubled. Every other food has increased correspondingly.

Most of the larger factories of Norway are operated by German or French capital and this has all been withdrawn because of the war. The Norwegian people are inclined to throw the entire blame of the war on Germany and are very bitter toward that nation because they believe Germany could have averted the conflict.

Try to Get Swedes' Aid.

Mr. Nelson said that in Sweden every attempt was being made by Germany to bring the Swedes into the conflict. He said that this was being done possibly with the hope of swinging the Swedish armies against Russia, thereby detracting the attention of the Russians from the northwestern border of Germany. The people of both the Scandinavian nations are opposed to being drawn into the affray, he said, although the feeling of sympathy is almost entirely with the English and French.

"The delay in getting Americans back to America is caused principally by the fact that nearly every ship in the North sea located in the Scandinavian peninsula was pressed into service to bring Englishmen and Frenchmen back to the country during the first two weeks in August. There were probably 50,000 English and French at various centers in Sweden and Norway when war was declared. This large number had to be transported to their home countries in ships. The Germans in the country went by rail to Stockholm and by boat across the Baltic sea.

Expected War for Six Years.

"The nations of Europe have been expecting this war for the last six years, according to men in touch with the official circles. Preparations have been going on and all points on the German coast have been strengthened."

Mr. Hanson said he had heard of Rev. J. H. Nervig and his family but had been unable to get in touch with them. He was unable to say when they would get back. On the Hellig Olav were people from all sections of the country. He said he had inquired of the other passengers for other Duluthians but was unable to find any.

Both Sweden and Norway are mobilizing their armies. The war footing of Sweden amounts to about 500,000 men, while that of Norway about half that number, said Mr. Hanson. He said that the best of feeling now existed between the two nations and that they would join in battle on one side if they were drawn into the war.

Clark-Troutman.

The wedding of Miss Bessie Clark and Edward Troutman took place Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at the parsonage of the Second Presbyterian church, 2109 West Second street. Rev. J. A. McGaughey read the service. Mr. and Mrs. Troutman will make their home in this end of the city.

Will Ordain Elders.

Two new elders will be ordained at the services preceding the communion service to be held at the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street tomorrow morning. The new elders are H. S. Nelson and E. H. Bekkering. A meeting of the session of the church will be held at 10:15 a. m. at which applicants for membership will be examined.

West End Briefs.

Rev. W. E. Harmann, pastor of the St. Peter's Episcopal church has returned from Aitkin, where he has been instrumental in the organizing of a large confirmation class. The pastor expects to visit his new class once each month during the winter.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Hermantown church will entertain this evening at a lawn social. A musical program will be given. The affair will be held at the Hermantown mission.

Albert Cowrman of Winton, Minn., is spending a few days in the West end.

Peter Johnson of Bemidji is a guest for a few days at the home of West end relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Sporman of Prairie Lake, who have been visiting West end relatives for the past two weeks left for their home last evening.

SAYS WILSON HAS FREED LEGISLATION

Secretary Daniels Makes Address at Bar Harbor, Me.

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 5.—Declaring that President Wilson and the Democratic congress had kept all the promises made to the people in the party's platform, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, in a campaign speech here yesterday, added that the president had set America free to legislate without fear.

"Greater than the tariff law itself, greater than the currency law itself, greater than all the needed constructive legislation of this record-making administration," said Mr. Daniels, "looms up this fact: That the people may legislate without any longer fearing that our business is going to be checked or our prosperity destroyed. The right to enact such laws as they conceive are best for them has at last been restored to them."

JAPAN THANKS THE UNITED STATES.

Tokio, Sept. 5.—Baron Kato, minister of foreign affairs, reviewed at length at the opening of the Diet today the events leading up to the war with Germany. He closed with this tribute to the United States government:

"To the American government, for the courtesy which it has been good enough to extend to Japan in connection with the present trouble, and for the protection of Japan's subjects and interests in Germany and Austria, I desire to express the sincere appreciation of the imperial government."

COMPLETES REFORM OF SHIPPING LAWS

Washington, Sept. 5.—The final step in opening American registry to foreign-built merchant craft was taken at the White House last night, when President Wilson signed an executive order suspending from operation sections of the navigation laws, as authorized by the new registry bill. These require American watch officers on American ships, and that inspection and measurement for registry shall be made by United States officials.

At the marine insurance bureau, which was opened for business yesterday, it is expected applications for change of register and for war risk protection will follow quickly on the signing of the suspension order. Several American companies which operate fleets of foreign-registered steamers have already signified their intention of flying the American flag hereafter. Their ships number more than 200, and with the suspension order in effect, it is expected their applications will be received within a few days.

CHILE IN HURRY FOR AMBASSADOR.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 5.—Commerce and financial circles are studying the possibility of replacing the maritime traffic which has been suspended by the war, with ships flying the Chilean or the United States flag. At the same time the government is studying facilities to further this project.

Official circles are expressing wonder because the United States has not yet named an ambassador to Chile, although the Chilean government passed a bill two months ago naming an ambassador to Washington.

SOX RETURN HOME FOR FINAL SERIES OF SEASON, STILL HOLDING A SLENDER LEAD OVER THE MAROONS—DARBY DAY AT ATHLETIC PARK—DOUBLE HEADERS SUNDAY AND MONDAY

This is Darby day and the manager of the Dooks will be at Athletic park with bells on to receive his friends.

The Duluth team returns home today to close the 1914 season in the Northern league. The Dooks will play today, tomorrow and Monday. There will be a single game today but tomorrow and Monday will be double-headers.

After the game today there will be a field meet, with prizes for the winners.

Mayor Prince will be at the game today and he will make the presentation of the purse to Darby. H. A. Blume said this morning that he probably would have the money ready for Darby before the game is over. He will give the money to Mayor Prince, who will make a presentation speech, and hand the gold over to Darby.

Duluth is still ahead of the rest of them in the league and with the forfeited game given to Winnipeg yesterday thrown out by President Burmeister the Dooks have better than even chances. Harry Blume said this morning that he talked over the long distance telephone with Burmeister and that the league president said he would throw the forfeited game out of the standings. He said Tim Flood ought to have put the offending player off the field with the aid of the police instead of calling the game and giving it to Winnipeg. Flood is in Dutch with many of the fans as well as the league officials.

If those Virginians will only be gentlemen and let Duluth win in the present series there will be nothing to it. Darby and his crew are going after the range boys in a way that no polite host would and they are going to try to send the Ore Diggers home with the small end of the score.

Ezell or Withers will pitch for Duluth today. In all probability Ezell will start the game.

The sun was rather fickle this morning but it looks as if the weather man was on Darby's side at that. There was a little rain early this morning and then a little sun but Old Sol finally got warmed up and came out to smile on the ball park.

The returns from the Winnipeg game will be received at the ball park this afternoon by innings.

On Labor day one game will be played at 10 a. m. and the other at 3 p. m. The latter will be the last game of the season.

NORTHERN LEAGUE

DOOKS GET EVEN BREAK

Split Double-Header With Fort William Team.

Duluth Pitchers Hurl Wonderful Games—Thirty Strikeouts.

Fort William, Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Duluth broke even in the double-header here yesterday.

The Duluth pitchers struck out thirty men in the two games and between them allowed only eight hits. Cunningham pitched the first game and lost, 1 to 0. Blancke won the second game for Duluth, 4 to 1. Cunningham allowed six hits and struck out fifteen men. He hit Manager Lizette with a pitched ball and Rhoades, who went in for Lizette, made the hit that won the game for Fort William. In the second game Blancke allowed but two hits and struck out fifteen men. The score:

PEGGERS MOVE CLOSER TO TOP

Win One and Have One Given Them By the Umpire.

Winnipeg, Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Peggers crawled up closer to the top yesterday by winning one game and having one given them by the umpire, Tim Flood. The first game was forfeited to Winnipeg when Couture failed to leave the grounds when ordered off by Flood. It looked a little like a raw deal when the game was forfeited. The score:

Batteries—Matts and Farrell; Spahr and Kurke.

SUPERIOR TAKES BOTH CONTESTS

Superior won both games in yesterday's double-header with Fargo-Moorhead. In the first game a batting rally saved Superior from defeat. The Fargo team led until the eighth inning when the Speriorites got busy with the stick and hammered out a victory. Winfield of Fargo broke his ankle in sliding to home plate. The score:

Cincinnati, Sept. 5.—Chicago dropped her final game of the season on the local grounds to Cincinnati, 4 to 2. Cheney's wildness, coupled with a wild throw to him in the seventh was mainly responsible for the defeat of O'Day's team. Two wild pitches, five bases on balls and an error was Chency's record for the last four innings. Douglas was steady throughout.

Boston got four runs in the first inning. After giving four bases on balls, Mayer was succeeded by Tincup, who held Boston in check until the eleventh when they got a run. Tincup was taken out for a pinch hitter, and Alexander went to the rubber in the twelfth. Smith's double and sacrifices by Maranville and Gowdy sent over the winning tally.

Giants Win Again.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 5.—New York made it three out of four so far in the series with Brooklyn by winning yesterday in a game in which there was much fault finding with the umpires. Marty O'Toole, recently acquired by the Giants from Pittsburg made his initial appearance in a New York uniform and was on the winning side of a 4 to 3 score. The former Pirate kept Brooklyn hits well scattered except in the eighth when a muff by Robertson payed the way for two runs. Larry Doyle's four hits and sharp fielding by the visitors figured largely in their victory. Manager Robertson, Capt. Daubert and Shortstop Egan of Brooklyn were put out of the game for disputing decisions.

DOUBLE HEADER

TOMORROW

First Game Called at 2 p. m.

DULUTH vs. VIRGINIA

MAY BE OSHKOSH FOR THIRD TIME

Leading in Flag Race of Wisconsin-Illinois League.

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 5.—The fight between the Oshkosh and Green Bay teams for the pennant continues to hold the attention of the fans in the Wisconsin-Illinois league. With the end of the season only eight days away and the Oshkosh club three games in the lead the former champions seem virtually certain of capturing the flag for a third time.

Since leaving Green Bay, where three games were dropped, the leaders played consistently and won all but one game during the week. The Green Bay team was off color in two games played with the Appleton team and was beaten with the result that Oshkosh increased its lead slightly.

Now that the season is nearly over and the finances of some of the clubs are not in any too good shape, the officers of the clubs have opened up the subject of reducing, cutting down the salaries of players and the salary limit of the league next year. It has been suggested that the salary limit of the clubs should be reduced from $1,400 a month to at least $1,200. Even a figure as low as $1,000 has been mentioned. At any rate it is contended by the magnates that the players are receiving too high pay and that something must be done by the minor leagues to hold down salaries. The fans donate large sums of money annually to maintain teams, but the fear is expressed that they are getting tired of putting up so much coin.

SCHEDULE OF Y. M. C. A. ATHLETICS

The following schedule has been made out by the Y. M. C. A. for its winter athletic classes:

Business men, 12 o'clock—Monday, class baseball; Tuesday, class volley ball; Wednesday, volley ball; Thursday, class baseball; Saturday, game.

STARS WILL HELP TENNIS NOVICES

Labor Day Tournament at Spirit Lake Gives Chance to All.

A large entry list is expected for the Labor day tournament on the Spirit Lake courts. This is one tournament where any player, no matter what his ability, has an equal chance of winning. Players are divided into two classes and ranked according to ability. Then the highest ranked in the upper class is paired with the lowest ranked in the lower class to form one team. The second highest in the first class with the second lowest in the second to form another team, and so on until all players have been paired into teams.

Then the draw is made in regular tournament style and played down. No deuce sets are played in order that the play may be finished in one day.

Judging by the number of players who have already entered the tournament this year will be among the most successful yet held.

NATIONAL GOLF TITLE AT STAKE

Travers, Present Holder, and Ouimet, Meeting for Amateur Crown.

Manchester, Vt., Sept. 5.—Clear skies and mild air brought perfect conditions for the final match in the national amateur golf championship tournament at the Ekwanok Country club today between Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, N. J., and Francis Ouimet of the Woodland Golf club at Newton, Mass. Travers, the present champion, has held the title three years. Ouimet attained prominence by defeating the English experts, Vardon and Ray, in the open championship last year.

Travers and Ouimet have met twice in match play in the last thirteen months. At Garden City, in the amateur championship event last year Travers was the winner, and in the contest for the Lesley cup at the country club of Brookline, Mass., Ouimet defeated Travers.

In addition to the championship event, W. C. Fowes, Jr., Oakmont, and R. R. Gorton, Country club, Brookline, met today in the play-off of the tie for the gold medal for the lowest score in the medal play round.

SPORTING COMMENT

THEY love us around the circuit. There is no dodging that fact. They love us as a German Uhlan loves the Marseillaise. They love us like a Servian soldier loves an Austrian. They love us as the house cat loves the bull terrier.

Witness the throwing of the game at Winnipeg yesterday. They didn't have time to play a double header, in the first place. The train leaves at 5 o'clock and the teams had to catch it. So Couture is chosen to be the goat. He shows insubordination, and is ordered from the field. He refuses to go. Shall we call a policeman and have him ejected? No, sir; all the policemen have gone to the front with the Canadian troops, except one or two scattered along Portage avenue. To order in a new third baseman, of course, would have been the logical move for Flood, but that would not help Winnipeg throw the spurs into Darby's bleeding flanks. Accordingly the first game is declared forfeited to Winnipeg, and the second hurriedly begun.

But the work was a little too raw for Burmeister to stand for. Over the long distance telephone today he said that it would be thrown out.

The Winnipeg deal, however, shows what Duluth is up against for the next three days. The Dooks have got to come through under the whip and win all five remaining games to be sure of the pennant. They can't count on Winnipeg being defeated.

The reason for this grouch against Duluth around the circuit is not known, but it exists. It has existed ever since Duluth began her climb. We know that Taylor hated us, but this seems to have spread to the other teams.

* * * *

O'TOOLE, the $22,500 prize beauty, won his first game for New York after being cast off by Pittsburg. Is it possible that the chance of digging into that world series pie put some life in the withering whip of the former St. Paul phenom? For $3,000 any pitcher might show ambition.

* * * *

MONDAY will bring some consolation to the sportsmen who are no longer permitted to fish for trout. The chicken and duck season will open. There are many short trips which may be made from Duluth in a week-end, with good prospects of getting a few birds. There are only local ducks yet, the flight from the north not having begun.

A few flocks of chickens have been spotted up along the Alger-Smith line, and they are just beginning to come into this part of Minnesota.

TOP-NOTCH BATTERS FEW IN BOTH MAJOR LEAGUES

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Only nine batters in the National league are in the .300 class, according to averages published here today. Ross Erwin, with his average of .348 acquired in twenty games with Brooklyn, is leading. Next are Dalton, Brooklyn, .338; Becker, Philadelphia, .317; Daubert, Brooklyn, .313; Magee, Philadelphia, .310; Connelly, Boston, .306; Phelan, Chicago, .304; Wheat, Brooklyn, .299.

With three men among the leaders, Brooklyn is setting the pace for the clubs with .269 and New York is next with .261. James, Boston, with 20 wins and 6 defeats; Rudolph, Boston, with 19 and 8, and Mathewson, New York, with 21 and 9, lead the pitchers. Herzog, Cincinnati, has most stolen bases —41.

In the American league, Joe Jackson, Cleveland, has regained the leadership with .362. There are only eleven .300 hitters in the American, and next to Jackson they are Collins, Philadelphia, .354; Hoblitzel, Boston, .354; Cobb, Detroit, .351; Mitchell, Washington, .350; Cree, New York, .333; Speaker, Boston, .333; Baker, Philadelphia, .333; Crawford, Detroit, .323; McInnis, Philadelphia, .310; Walker, St. Louis, .308. Philadelphia with .271 and Detroit with .251 lead the clubs, while Maisel, New York, a leading base stealer with 52. Leading pitchers are Bender, Philadelphia, 14 and 2; Leonard, Boston, 19 and 5, and Plank, Philadelphia, 15 and 4.

Manager Bill Hinchman, finally has displaced John Titus as leading batter of the American association. The Columbus leader is hitting at a rate of .374, while the Kansas City man's average is .363. Then come Kirke, Cleveland, .349; Killifer, Minneapolis, .344; Miller, Columbus, .337; Altizer, Minneapolis, .336; Rath, Kansas City, .329; Livingston, Indianapolis, .327. Minneapolis and Kansas City are tied for the lead in club batting with .276 each. Compton, Kansas City, with 45 is ahead in stolen bases.

Bennie Kauff of Indianapolis, the Federal league "Ty Cobb," continues in front of the outlaws, with .367.

Larry Lejeune still leads in the Western league. The Sioux City slugger has an average of .377.

FITWELL-PROCTOR GAME SCHEDULED

The Fitwell senior team will play the Proctor team at Proctor tomorrow for the semi-professional independent championship of the Head of the Lakes.

There has been a bitter controversy between the managers of the two teams and it is expected the game will be hotly contested. The Fitwells were defeated by the Proctors last Sunday but the manager of the Fitwells declared it was not the regular Fitwell team.

STAGELAND

RICH in dramatic coloring are the tales that are handed down from the Far East. "Kismet" opened up a hitherto unexplored fluid to the dramatist. The tales of the Arabian Nights had been overlooked by the playwright. Properly expurgated they have proved the basis of many a modern story, but their possibilities in the dramatic line had been neglected. The tale of Hajj the Beggar showed what a field it was. Not only are the tales themselves rich in dramatic action, but they offer unequaled opportunities for the spectator in costuming and setting. The gorgeous colorings of Persia, the producers decided, should not be wasted entirely on rugs and cigarette advertising. So "Kismet" burst on a delighted public.

Then came "Omar the Tentmarker" and "A Thousand Years Ago." They came a week apart, and a rather interesting story of a theatrical war is told regarding their production. "Omar" was ready for rehearsal when the Shuberts are said to have learned of it and to have received a "Thousand Years Ago." The latter play was rushed through rehearsals and opened just a few days before "Omar" was ready for its premier. Behind "A Thousand Years Ago" was all the influence of the Shuberts and for a time it eclipsed its rival. It is also said to have been a charming play, a little scenic and dramatic gem, but for some reason it "failed to catch on." Meanwhile "Omar" opened to poor business, but gradually grew in popularity until it completely drove its rival from the field. It is the story, of course, of the life and love of the great Persian poet, handled with some freedom from the confining bonds of history perhaps, but following more or less closely what records there are of his life. Eastern critics treated it most kindly. It is said to have real dramatic merit, and the producers have had an unequaled opportunities in costuming and staging the play. Duluth will get its first glimpse of "Omar" Monday and Guy Bates Post will still be in the leading role. It is the first big road attraction of the year.

* * *

THERE are several family names that seem inevitably bound up with the stage. Such names as Irving, Terry, Barrymore, Jefferson and Coghlan have been associated with the drama for several generations. One of the Coghlan family will be in Duluth next week in the person of Gertrude Coghlan. The best known member of the family is probably Rose Coghlan. Her daughter was at the Orpheum last season, and her sister, Gertrude, will headline next week's Orpheum program. Gertrude Coghlan has for years been one of the most intelligent and earnest women on the American stage. Her vehicle will also be interesting. Holbrook Blinn, who was last seen here with Mrs. Fiske, caused something of a furore in New York with his five one-act plays at the Princess. This little theater is cursed by its enemies with the word "highbrow" and upheld by its friends as a serious attempt to make something of the one-act drama. Miss Coghlan picked one of these five plays, a satire entitled "Food," for her vaudeville debut, and will be seen in it here.

Theodore Bendix, the composer, will also be on the bill.

* * *

PROBABLY there won't be an opera house in Europe this coming season, and

Probably the European song birds, or many of them, will flock to this country, at least those who are not fighting, and Probably New York will be overrun with the greatest singers in the world.

Suppose these song birds would be willing to sing more frequently and for a moderate sum, and

Suppose some enterprising manager would start them out for tours of America either in concert or on the vaudeville circuits, and

Suppose Duluth were able to hear some good music during the coming season at popular prices, would it respond?

It would be interesting to know.

"THELMA" ON SUNDAY.

Baldwin Players Will Present Drama of Midnight Sun.

"Thelma," the beautiful story of the land of the midnight sun, which has won world-wide success as a novel and as a play, will be presented by the Baldwin Players at the Lyceum theater, commencing with a matinee Sunday, and giving way to "Omar" Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, continuing Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with a matinee Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"Thelma" needs little introduction to Duluth theatergoers, as it has been seen here before, but its production at the hands of the Baldwin Players calls for special comment.

The production has been built in the studios of the company and the settings are elaborate and complete in every detail. The first act is particularly beautiful, showing as it does the Alten fjord in summer, with the midnight sun glowing over the blue waters of the fjord. The last act shows the same scene, only with the wonderful changes which winter has brought. All in all, the scenic features are lavish in their beauty and nothing has been left undone to make "Thelma" a feature production.

Miss Lola May will be seen as the beautiful Thelma, and surely a more beautiful Norse maid could not be found. Mr. Barton will be the Sir Phillip of the story, while Mr. Beamish will give another of his clever character delineations as Olaf Guldmar, the descendant of the Vikings. Joseph De Stefani will enact the ill-fated dwarf, Sigurd, a part in which he has already won unstinted praise from press and public. Thelma will bring out the full strength of the Baldwin Players, and a beautiful production is assured.

The great New York success "Overnight," one of the best of all comedy successes, will be presented during the week of Sept. 13.

GUY BATES POST,
Coming to the Lyceum Sept. 7 in "Omar, the Tentmaker."

COMEDY AT REX.

Will Be Leading Feature of Next Week's Films.

Comedy will make up the larger part of Sunday's show at the Rex. "Wiffle's Double" and "Uncle's Finish" are the mirth makers.

"All Love Excelling" a feature drama in three parts, is the story of a noble love on the part of a woman, a love that causes her to make the greatest of sacrifices—that of her own happiness. The action takes place in both the United States and Europe and some stirring scenes of the battle of Inkerman in the Crimea are introduced.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the celebrated German dancer, Gretchen Krug, will appear in a story of her own life and in which she takes the leading part. The play opens in the little village of Weepsey near Amsterdam where lived Gretchen Krug with her parents who owned a tulip farm. Her only playmate was Hans Schmidt, a shepherd boy. Learning of an approaching festival of flowers in a nearby town, the two young folks decide to enter the contest. Folk dancing is a part of the contest, and Herr Zimmer, the director of a theater in Amsterdam, noticed the charm and grace of the young dancers. Six years rolled on and Gretchen had become a celebrated dancer and also something of an upstart refusing to receive her rustic friends. But fate, in the shape of a balloon, caught in a terrific storm, took a hand in opening the dancer's eyes to true love and loyalty.

WHAT PRESS AGENTS PROMISE FOR DULUTH THEATERS

GUY BATES POST AT THE LYCEUM

Will Play Role of the Famous Persian Poet Omar.

The red letter event of the current theatrical season will occur next week when Guy Bates Post will present at the Lyceum theater for three nights beginning with a Labor day matinee and also on Wednesday a special matinee, "Omar, the Tentmaker," the sumptuous love play of Persia, by Richard Walton Tully, which was the reigning dramatic success of Broadway during the last theatrical season. The attraction comes direct from its metropolitan triumph, and the entire original company and spectacular scenic equipment will be transported here intact.

Mr. Tully has woven the story of his Persian romance around the life, the times, and the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, the genial and beloved poet and mystic of the eleventh century. The stimulatingly imaginative qualities, the masterly characterizations, the freshness and facility of plot that marked Mr. Tully's previous plays, "The Bird of Paradise" and "The Rose of the Rancho," have in every particular been excelled in "Omar, the Tentmarker." In this play he has combined the swift poignancy of realistic drama with the poetic insight and imaginative sparkle of romantic fantasy. Mr. Tully, not only wrote "Omar, the Tentmaker," but he personally produced it, and in association with Wilfred Buckland designed the vivid coloring settings and together are also managing its triumphant career.

Pictorially it is doubtful if "Omar, the Tentmaker," has ever been surpassed upon the American stage. A company of nearly 160, clad in the brilliant raiment of the Orient, pass to and fro in the moonlight rose-scented garden, come and go among the huddled, teeming bazars of Naishapur, attend judgment in the imposing Hall of Royalty, seal their fates in the narrow streets, the roisterous taverns, the lofty mosques, and the busy pot'er's stall. All the pictorial delights and charms of old Persia have been transformed to the stage with unforgettable fidelity.

The play itself recounts the wonderful love-life and picturesque wanderings of one of the most romantic figures in the world's history, Omar Khayyam, the great Persian poet, mystic and epicurean of the eleventh century, who shares in immortal kinship the spirit of Dante, the Italian, and Francois Villon, the first poet of France. How Omar wooed the beautiful Shireen in the glowing flower garden at sunset, how he remained faithful to her through stressful years, how he sought and found and lost and found again his happiness, how he sang of the grape and love and joy in eternal quatrians, how he defied bigotry, suffered unspeakable tortures, delved into the basic riddles of human existence, have all been skilfully commingled in the most entrancing romance of modern times.

Guy Bates Post brings to his portrayal, of the loveable Omar the ripest and most engaging attainments of his conspicuous career. At a time when the English speaking stage is lamentably lacking in actors of sufficient intelligence, robustness of experience and loftiness of vision to attempt the enactment of heroic figures, Mr. Post has won the applause of both expert critic and casual playgoer by his marvelous characterization of the merry Persian. The character of Omar is a most complex one, and without slighting the delicious humanity of the man, his fondness for laughter and wine, his ready wit, his caustic tongue, his scornful pen, Mr. Post also emphasizes with engaging truthfulness the deeper and more philosophical phases of the man's nature. The numerous company in support of Mr. Post unite their splendid talent to produce a most remarkable and praiseworthy ensemble.

GERTRUDE COGHLAN AT THE ORPHEUM

Star in Princess Theater Playlet—Theodore Bendix Coming.

With no less a headliner than Gertrude Coghlan, with an act like Theodore Beadix and his symphony players second on the bill, and with a new motion picture service, the Orpheum program for next week is of far more than ordinary interest.

The most artistic and most discussed one-act plays of recent years have been presented at the Princess theater in New York. The five plays produced by Holbrook Blinn in particular aroused the intense interest of the most critical theatergoers in New York and ran for more than one hundred nights at the little theater. One of the most interesting of these was a satire by William C. De Mille on the high cost of living, and entitled "Food." Following its run at the Princess theater, Miss Coghlan secured this vehicle for vaudeville and surrounding herself with such well known actors as J. H. Gilmour and Robert C. Ryles she started out in vaudeville with it. Miss Coghlan should not be confused with Miss Rosalind Coghlan, who was in Duluth last season. This is Miss Gertrude Coghlan's first venture in vaudeville. She opened but recently in the Majestic theater in Chicago.

The playlet is laid in the year 1961, or about fifty years from now. The scene is in the home of a man earning $100,000 a year, which is hardly considered a living wage then. Right at the start, for instance, it shows the husband and the wife dining on half a cracker and three drops of precious milk. So expensive has food become that they cannot afford more. The center of the funmaking, however, is an egg. The value of an egg fifty years from now, the dramatist contends, will be such that to eat one will be an almost unheard of extravagance. The wife tasted one once when a child and she is obsessed with the desire to devour another. The plot hinges on this, and it is said to be a most delicate and amusing satire.

The act should be a most unusual one for vaudeville, both on account of the prominence of the star, and the interesting nature of the playlet.

As distinguished in the musical line as the headline sketch will be in the dramatic, will be the act offered by Theodore Bendix and his symphony players. Most musicians are familiar with the piano compositions of Mr. Bendix. For many years his name has been associated with the best in American music and for his vaudeville tour he has secured three assisting players, whose achievements in the musical world promise an act quite out of the ordinary run. Arthur Lichstein, the violin soloist, is the Hollander medalist at the Imperial Conservatory of Music in Berlin, and last season achieved no little prominence in concert work in New York city. Leo Sachs, the cellist, was a favorite pupil of the great Julius Klengeland, formerly solo cellist for the Royal Munich symphony orchestra. He has also appeared as cello soloist with Arthur Nikisch, claimed by many musicians to be the greatest living conductor. Frederick Handte, the second violinist, was soloist with Victor Herbert's orchestra last winter. Such a quartet of musicians should offer something most unusual in the musical line, and interest many who are not regular vaudeville patrons.

There are no more popular blackface comedians on the Orpheum circuit than Swor and Mack. They have visited Duluth twice with a different act each time, and on each appearance have been easily the most popular act on the bill. Mack's silent game of poker and his eccentric dancing are two of the funniest bits in vaudeville, and they are expected to provide much of the comedy next week.

Eunice Durham, formerly one-half of the vaudeville team of Burnham and Greenwood, will appear with Charles Irwin in "A Song Sketch at the Piano." Miss Greenwood will be remembered as the girl who kicked sideways. Miss Burnham was her partner at the piano. She now has for her partner a clever young Englishman, whose character songs have made a hit over the circuit.

Grace Mack and John Ellis have an act of songs and dances and some costumes of an up-to-date style. They have never been seen in Duluth before, but come well heralded.

Three equilibrists compose the Alco Trio, which will be on next week's bill. The understander is a woman and she supports the two men during their tricks in the air.

The seventh act on the bill will be offered by Adair and Adair, who have a lively comedy bar act.

* * *

Beginning next week the new motion picture service will be presented weekly in all Orpheum theaters. It is called the Orpheum Travel Weekly. Each week from three to six countries are visited, and in each country the camera reproduces scenes of interest. The pictures may show street scenes, the habits and customs of the people, or famous industries. It is planned to give the audience the best possible idea of the country and its people, and after a season of the pictures the spectators should have a knowledge of geography that could be obtained in no other way except by travel.

VARIETY AT THE NEW GRAND

Manager Salter Promises a Bill of Diversified Amusement.

The improvement in the quality and general standard of attractions offered those who patronize popular-priced amusement goes steadily forward at the now popular New Grand and the spirit of success seems to be securely perched upon the broad shoulders of Manager Ed. R. Salter, who seems to be striving to improve conditions in every department of this new playhouse.

One of the most important questions to which often too little attention is given, in Mr. Salter's opinion, is "giving the people what they want." He has made a careful study of the patrons of the new theater and the field of popular-priced vaudeville and his efforts to supply the demands of patrons of the "theater beautiful" have been more than heartily welcomed by the throngs of Duluthians who, while in attendance, have been noting and watching the many innovations and developments in this varied form of entertainment.

The new program to be offered for four days, starting at noon on Sunday, will be variety in all that the word implies. First comes "The Three Cyclonians," sometimes called "The Whirlwinds of Mirth on Whizzing Wheels," and included in their performance they introduce their own novelty, the original funny motorcycle.

Miss Amanda Gray and "The Elks' Trio" will be the feature of the artistic portion of the program. This trio consists of Miss Gray and two men and they render a repertoire that extends from grand opera to rag time. Miss Gray was formerly with the Henry W. Savage forces and was prima donna with the No. 1 "Madame Butterfly" company.

All the German dialect comedians have not returned to "Der Vaterland" to fight. Bruce and Calvert, known as "Der Cholly Chermans," who side by each "bombard and lambaste" the English language in a much more terrifying manner than did ever the famous Weber & Fields army of tongue-tied, word-twisting delineators, will be at the New Grand next week.

The Sidonias' offering is one of America's real eccentric novelties. It is called "The Lady Artist and the Tramp" in "The Laugh Factory." Accord to the enthusiastic press agent it has the following ingredients: Three hundred and twenty side-shaking laughs, forty-two howls of delight, fifty screams of fun and one long, lingering merry smile.

Manager Salter says of next week's bill: "Forget the war and any local troubles and get on this 'laughing wagon.'"

The four reels of pictures to be shown by the grandoscope include "The White Mouse," a two-reel Selig subject; "Fable of Difference Between Learning," an Essanay product, and a biograph play called "For the Cause."

The usual daily performances, starting at 12 noon and continuous until 11 p. m., will be given.

"The Red Bottle" will soon be seen at the New Grand. The mystery of "The Red Bottle" is liquid air and there is no sleight-of-hand or illusion work in the act to keep the audience guessing. It is merely a scientific demonstration that is entertaining and instructive.

The program closing its engagement at the New Grand tonight embraces the best entertainment Manager Ed. R. Salter has as yet presented at that popular resort. The Three Stewart Sisters and "Their Escorts" are the feature in an English act of pantomimic work and a series of pleasing dances with numerous changes of costumes. Anderson and Goines are two clever colored comedians. The Couchel Brothers are past masters as musicians and the work of one of the brothers, playing rag time upon the harp, is most pleasing. The Howard Sisters are two

The SUNBEAM

"Molly, the Drummer Boy," an adaptation from the novel by Harriet T. Comstock, will be offered the patrons of the Sunbeam as the feature photoplay for tomorrow's program. This story depicts incidents connected with the American revolution and relates how a young girl imbued with the spirit to help her countrymen enlists as a drummer boy. A notable cast of characters of the Edison company is seen in this production, including Charles Ogle, who takes the part of Washington, Yale Boss, the young boy actor who is so popular with the moving picture enthusiasts, and Augustus Phillips.

"The Shadow of Tragedy" is a two-reel picture play written by Emmet Campbell Hall and produced by Arthur Johnson, who plays the leading part in the last reel. It is very interesting in character and has been well introduced. Raymond Hackett plays little Robert, supposed to be about 10 years old. Lottie Briscoe and a splendid cast make this a most creditable offering. "Romantic Josie" will make up the laughing hit of the show. It is a two-part Vitagraph comedy and so interested does Josie become in her book that even the house afire and the presence of the firemen cannot destroy her love of romance.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate."

A farce of fun and mystery, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," a dramatization of the story by Earl Derr Biggers in many ways the most talked-about play of recent years, is to be offered by the producers, Messrs. Cohan and Harris, with the original New York and Chicago cast at the Lyceum early in October.

The unique production which has made such an extraordinary success in America, has been witnessed by more than 1,000,000 people during the year since its first performance, and is now being played in a half dozen countries.

The story is one of much interest and tells of a young author, who has made a bet that he could invent and write a popular novelette in the course of twenty-four hours, retires, for the purpose of winning the wager, to the loneliest place in the world—a summer hotel upon the top of the Baldpate mountain, now snowed in deep in the dead of winter. After he has been installed by the caretaker, who assures him that he holds the only key to Baldpate and is therefore safe from all intrusion, six other people successively let themselves into the hotel with other keys and proceed to involve the hero in a mad series of exciting and ridiculous adventures. The plot is compounded equally out of the elements of farce and melodrama. Many of the incidents are genuinely thrilling, and others are uproarious. It is only at the conclusion of the wild and whirlin action that the audience is told that what it has witnessed was not a series of real incidents, but only a depiction of the popular romance which the hero has composed to win his wager.

The production is on a vast scale. It is considered by Cohan & Harris as their greatest triumph as producers.

They Both Lost Five.

Ed R. Salter, manager of the New Grand, was in a story telling mood and here is the result. "It is sometimes mighty hard times for actors in New York, especially when they are out of employment. It is also far from easy for the more prosperous ones to distinguish as to who is really entitled to charity. It must, however, be said that no man of any class is more generous than the theatrical man when he is in funds. One night when I was going home from the Green Room club, I met an actor acquaintance of former days. After the greeting, the actor stopped and said: 'Say, Eddie, may I speak to you a minute.' He separated me from my friend, got me to the curb, and in an undertone said: 'Things are going awfully rocky for me just now, old man. I haven't worked in four months, lend me a ten spot, will you, Eddie?' I studied for a moment and then with deliberation said 'No, I can't do it.' His face fell and he looked absolutely helpless. I reconsidered and said: 'But I'll tell you what I will do. I won't lend you ten, but I'll give you five, if that will do you any good, and then we'll both lose five. See?'"

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Among the Lasky vaudeville productions for the present season are "The Garden of Peaches," with Minerva Coverdale and Marie Richmond in the leading parts; "The Society Buds," including Harry Bergman and Gladys Clark with a company of sixteen and Edward Abeles in "A Memorandum Book." It is also stated that Robert Edeson and Edna Goodrich will be seen in a Lasky production.

The news that David Warfield will appear in Duluth at the Lyceum theater during his forthcoming tour of the country, will be interesting to local theater-goers. The play in which Mr. Warfield will be seen is a revival of "The Auctioneer," the comedy in which he made his first success thirteen years ago, and which laid the foundation of his great fortune. Last season David Belasco revived "The Auctioneer" with Mr. Warfield in his popular role of the lovable old Hebrew merchant, Simon Levi, and he had planned to present him in a new play this year. But the revival was received with such emphatic marks of artistic approval and the receipts were so sensational in the few cities that were fortunate enough to be included in the itinerary, that Mr. Belasco, in response to thousands of requests from theater-goers throughout the country, decided to continue the revival for this season.

The Motor World

DRY DISC CLUTCH SOLVES PROBLEM

New Device for Disconnecting Axle and Motor.

"The problem of providing a means of disconnecting the motor from the rear axle has been one that has continually confronted the automobile engineer since the early days of the industry, and various devices have been used to some degree of success," states M. W. Turner, distributer in this territory for the Haynes, "America's first car."

"The cone type and disc running in oil type have been popular, but certain features of their action have led to the development of a new type of clutch known as the three plate, dry disc clutch. This is an ingenious arrangement of three plates separated by heavy rings of Raybestos. The plates are held in contact by a large spring and are enclosed in an oiltight compartment so that the friction surfaces are entirely dry and free from oil. This feature insures a perfectly even action of the clutch since the influence of the irregular feeding of oil is absent.

"The faces of the plates are parallel and large friction surfaces are to be had. The compactness of the entire clutch lends the use of it admirably to the unit power plant construction of the Haynes light six. The clutch is so smooth and flexible in action that should the clutch pedal be released suddenly, there will be no sudden shock thrown onto the transmission gears, and the plates will engage gradually without grabbing.

"The design of the clutch is such that but a slight pressure is needed to depress the clutch pedal, and this is a big feature for the driver who covers much distance in a day's run. The clutch pedal is free from the usual stiff and harsh action. The advantage of easy action is most noted in shifting gears when the clutch should be fully released, and the last trace of work in driving a car is removed."

OVERLANDS SOLD TO WAR OFFICE

England Will Use Cars for the Protection of Her Coast.

Twenty-one Overland automobiles were sold and delivered on Aug. 5, to the war department of Great Britain, according to word received from John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company, who has just returned from England. Together with a number of automobiles of the same make already in the service of the English army, the new cars will be used for patrolling and guarding the coasts.

"The sturdy Overland construction which has given the car universal popularity as a pleasure vehicle is making it invaluable to the English Coast guards," says Mr. Willys. "Automobiles also are being extensively used for transporting men, ammunition and supplies, both in England and on the continent. They are already a great factor in Red Cross and other humanitarian work.

"The ability of motor cars to cover great distances in a short space of time has created a great demand for them among the military authorities. Many cars owned by private citizens have been commandeered for purposes of war.

"There is also a great field for motortrucks on this side of the Atlantic. Although difficulties are being encountered at present in shipping motor vehicles from the United States to European parts, I believe that the situation will clear within a few weeks.

"Practically all of the motor trucks manufactured in Europe are subsidized by the governments and consequently are subject to call in case of war. The withdrawal of these vehicles from their ordinary work has been followed by heavy levies upon horses for military use. Although delivery systems throughout the continent have been paralyzed, the tremendous armies in the field are not entirely provided with the needed transportation facilities.

"As the call for military reserves has practically unmanned all of the large automobile factories on this side of the Atlantic, new vehicles of necessity must be purchased from manufacturers in the United States."

WAR MAKES CAR DEMAND

Speedway Chief Returns From Trip to Europe.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 5.—Carl G. Fisher, president of the Indianapolis motor speedway and of the Prest-O-Lite company, has reached home accompanied by Mrs. Fisher and John Aitken of the National company, having escaped from the European war net.

"The foreign motor car companies will not be shut down for the reason that products are needed for war purposes," said Mr. Fisher. "But the factories are greatly handicapped by so many of the workingmen being reservists. Boillot is aide de camp and driver for the generalissimo of the French army; Goux is a mine layer in the army, while Thomas, winner of the last 500-mile race, is an aviator in the French army. Boillot also is a reserve aviator.

"As to what effect this will have on the next 500-mile race it is hard to say. However, I look for the war to be over by that time. There will be enough of the foreign cars to insure European representation, while I look for more American cars than ever."

$3,000,000 FOR HIGHWAY.

Lincoln Memorial Road Will Be Lined With Trees.

The course of the Lincoln highway is to be beautiful from ocean to ocean by the planting of trees, shrubs and flowers along each side of the roadway at a cost of $25,000,000.

The General Federation of Women's clubs has formulated plans for beautifying the highway and has already received pledges of nearly $3,000,000.

Co-operation of governors of the various states and mayors of the various cities, through which the highway passes, has been promised and local committees are being appointed in the districts.

Fruit trees will be planted along the roadside by several states which have adopted a plan of R. H. Williams, sales-manager of the F. B. Stearns company, Cleveland, Ohio, makers of Stearns-Knight cars.

Williams has made several motor car trips over part of the highway, and has interested thousands of people in his fruit preservation plan.

"By planting fruit trees instead of merely ornamental shade trees three birds are being killed with one stone," Williams declares. "When the fruit trees blossom in spring, the highway will become a bower of beauty. The shade from fruit trees will be just as good as that from any other trees, with the additional value of giving the motorist fresh fruit."

New Jersey has already indicated its intention to use fruit trees along the road and Pennsylvania is considering forest preservation in conjunction with American laurel for decoration.

OUTFIT CONFISCATED IN WAR ZONE

MRS. R. F. AVERY AND DAUGHTER.

Here's the American motorcycle outfit which has been confiscated for use in the European war—presumably by the Belgian army—cutting short the tour of Mrs. Rachael Foster Avery and her daughter of Philadelphia, Pa.

The Averys were traveling in Belgium when war broke out. They saw the Belgian army mobilizing and were in the midst of hostilities for some time. Then some officers saw their machine and immediately grabbed it up and made it a part of the motorcycle corps.

The postcard received from Mrs. Avery gives very little information except that they are safe. The postmark on the card was not legible so it is not certain where they were at the time of the confiscation of their motorcycle, but as they expected to be in Ostend, Belgium, the early part of August, it is supposed their outfit was appropriated by the Belgians.

Mrs. Avery and her daughter have spent much time abroad in previous years. This year's motorcycle trip was being made for the purpose of inspecting dairy farming in Great Britain, Holland, Belgium and France. Both mother and daughter are students at the Agricultural College of Wisconsin and Miss Avery was prominent in university activities. She was class secretary, an excellent swimmer and had won much admiration for her classic dancing. They hope to be able to get back to America in time for the opening of college in September.

LARGE AUTO EXPORT.

Cars Valued at $40,136,565 Were Shipped in 1914.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Exports of automobiles from the United States in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914, were the largest on record. Their total, including shipments to Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico, amounted to $40,136,565, against $39,325,000 in 1913, the former high-record year. The year's total included 30,136 complete cars, valued at $27,797,642; automobile tires, $4,159,464; automobile engines, $1,351,893; and miscellaneous parts not specified, $6,787,575.

With the sole exception of 1908, every year during the past decade has shown an advance in value of American automobiles sold to foreign countries. In the fiscal year 1908, according to the bureau of foreign and domestic science, department of commerce, the value of automobiles exported was $1,896,605; in 1909, $5,387,021; and in 1914, exclusive of parts and shipments to our own non-contiguous territories, $26,574,574, having quintupled in five years and increased thirteen-fold in a decade.

Europe bought nearly one-half of America's entire sales of automobiles to foreign countries last year, although some shipments thither are for reshipment to other parts of the world. To the United Kingdom the exports amounted to 7,222 cars, valued at $5,853,127; to Germany, 1,435, valued at $1,059,429; to France, 1,429, valued at $924,130; and to other countries of Europe, 3,271, valued at $2,580,428. Canada and Australia are also important markets, the former having taken 4,624 cars, valued at $5,919,776; and the latter, including other British Oceania, 4,244, valued at $3,695,595. To South America as a whole, we sold last year 1,985 automobiles, valued at $1,939,212, and to Mexico, 167, valued at $266,675.

The growth in exports of automobiles has been accompanied by a corresponding decline in imports of like articles, the total having fallen from 1,624, valued at $2,905,391 in 1909 to 300 cars, valued at $620,493 in 1914, a new low record for the decade. Of the year's imports, 124 were from France, 40 from the United Kingdom, 55 from Italy and 21 from Germany.

Automobile Notes

Touring cars and commercial vehicles, as well as all horses, have been commandeered by the governments of Germany, France, Russia, Austria and Great Britain for use in military service. Taxicabs and motorbuses have been withdrawn from service in the big cities, and the big department stores, furniture stores, breweries and other business houses depending upon heavy freight haulage are completely crippled in their delivery service. Old-fashioned push-carts, dog-drawn wagons, wheelbarrows and similar "antediluvian" conveyances are in demand.

Rubber growing in British Guiana is slowly increasing, with favorable prospects for its becoming a permanent source of wealth. Vice Consul Lester W. Collins, Georgetown, British Guiana, reports that strong government encouragement is being given to the industry. Areas have been planted in rubber trees in various parts of the colony, under differing conditions, and the prospects are excellent, in most cases, for successful cultivation. It is estimated that over 2,000 acres are now planted in rubber, by far the greater area being in Hevea Brasiliensis.

The establishment of a service of motor wagons for cargo transport in the national territories of Argentina is at present being considered seriously by the minister of the interior at Buenos Aires. It is contemplated starting this service in the tobacco-growing districts. Tobacco cultivators frequently lose the fruits of their labors owing to the present difficulty of procuring transports of their produce to points of shipments.

Plans for an automobile race course in or near Chicago, which have been buzzing for some time, have taken a new turn. It is now stated that the Hawthorne dirt track probably will be transformed into an automobile race track on the lines of the Los Angeles motordome in California. The cost of building such a track amounts to less than $100,000.

A taxicab service has been introduced in Colombo, Ceylon, by a London and Calcutta firm and a motor car agency in Ceylon. Twenty automobiles of American manufacture have been put into immediate use. These cars were introduced a year ago.

Boston has made its first installation of motor trucks for the purpose of collecting ashes and rubbish. As the contracts for collection expire the city will gradually increase its motor service. Plans are under way for the purchase and use of two more electric trucks and one gasoline truck. It is expected that in time the department will be completely motorized.

Kissel Notes

A Kissel Kar 60 "Six" demonstrator that has been driven more than 40,000 miles, last week made an astonishing record on a trip from Boston to the White mountains and return by a rounadobut route .The drive registered a little more than 600 miles and an absolutely clean score was made. H. S. Daniels and A. K. Menzel of the KisselKar factory were passengers as guests of George H. Lawrence, sales manager of the KisselKar New England branch.

• • •

Perfect scores were made by twelve of the twenty-four entries in a motor truck race held in Southern California last week. The first of these to finish was a KisselKar, three and one-half tonner, driven by O. L. Kern. The run was from Los Angeles to Riverside and return over a 204-mile course, and was considered a grilling test of efficiency and durability.

• • •

A. S. Robinson of the Pacific Kissel Kar branch at Los Angeles, in commenting on the fact that his city has now 2,800 motor trucks in service, estimated that within five years power-driven vehicles will be carrying practically all the heavy freight delivered within the boundaries of that city.

As to general business conditions, President George A. Kissel believes that the European war will soon prove a wonderful stimulus, disposing, at least for the time being, of many local economic questions that have, in a measure, held back the fullest prosperity.

WHY THIS HASTE ABOUT A CITY LIGHTING PLANT?

On motion of Commissioner Merritt, the city council has authorized him to proceed to the erection of a municipal electric lighting plant.

This without consulting public opinion and, in the opinion of The Herald, without a reasonable study of the proposition. Moreover, it is without a vote of the people, and no such project ever should be taken up unless the people have voted their will upon it.

The city is proceeding precipitately to the erection of a city lighting plant, to be operated in competition with the privately owned plant, without any public authorization, and without any answer to these vitally important questions—if there has been, indeed, any study of them:

What is the occasion for this radical step?

Upon what complaint of rates or service is it based?

What promise is there that either rates or service can be improved by a municipal plant?

How much too high are the present lighting rates, and how much can the city by this project reduce them?

How can the project be financed?

A business man who ventured upon a highly expensive project without careful study of such questions as these would be thought insane; certainly he would be inviting bankruptcy.

The city has, it is true, voted bonds to be used in buying or building an electric lighting plant. It is also true that a very large percentage of those who voted for this bond issue did so only in the belief that it would arm the city with a weapon that would enable it to make a highly favorable contract with the private electric company.

Moreover, nobody who voted for those bonds imagined for a moment that any further step would be taken unless it were first referred to the people for their adoption or rejection.

Now, because the city attorney believes he has found a section of the charter that authorizes this action, the city pitches pell mell into a far-reaching project, apparently without any counting of costs or analyzing of possibilities.

It is not demonstrated that there is a public sentiment in this city favoring the construction of a municipal lighting plant.

It is very much to be doubted if there is any such sentiment.

Possibly if the purchase of the existing plant at a reasonable rate could have been arranged, the public might have sanctioned its purchase.

There has been, on the surface at least, no such complaint of the rates or service of the private company as to warrant the construction of a competing plant.

Nobody has assured the city that it can make rates lower than those now charged by the private company.

Certainly, in competition with that company, the only way it can hope to get business will be by a reduction of rates. Does any member of the city council know that the city can offer reduced rates without a loss?

And even if it be assumed that the rates and service of the private company are so objectionable to the public that there is a demand for a competing plant, and even if it be assumed that a competing plant will result in better service and lower rates, HOW IS THE PROJECT TO BE FINANCED?

By bond issues? Who, in the present state of the world's finances, is going to buy the bonds?

The city is already heavily bonded for municipal public utilities. This burden of bonded debt does not diminish materially, because the policy of the water and light department has not been to provide for retirement of bonds. Bond interest now constitutes a very large part of the cost of water and gas; and yet no project is afoot to reduce this charge, though that would be vastly more to the purpose than the building of a lighting plant to compete with the strong private concern now operating here.

Perhaps present electric light rates and service are such that the city must act; but if so it should be demonstrated.

Perhaps the city by a competing plant can assure patrons of better rates and better service; but if so it should be demonstrated.

Perhaps the city council knows how it will finance this project in these critical times in finance; but if so it should be demonstrated.

Certainly there is no such rush about this matter as to justify hurrying into it pell mell without full consideration of these vital questions, and without a warrant from the people for such action.

The Russians are eager to get rid of German names, but they aren't any keener for that than the Germans are to get rid of the Russians themselves.

THE WAR FROM DAY TO DAY.

The curtain of censored mystery that overhangs the war in Europe lifts fitfully, bafflingly; and reveals only enough to puzzle the world.

But one thing seemed clear this morning: that the German advance had not yet reached Paris. Ostend, far from the battlefield, reported last night that the German right, which has been engaged, apparently with success, in the attempt to turn the allied left, had been repulsed and had fallen back to St. Quentin, eighty miles from Paris. This, though undenied or confirmed, may or may not be. The repulse, if any, may have been only of the German vanguard of cavalry and light artillery. The German troops reported at Soissons, at Compeigne, at Senlis, may have been and doubtless were mere skirmishing parties thrown out in advance of the main line.

That the report of a German repulse was without foundation, however, was made clear this afternoon by the revelation that the Germans are close to Paris on both the east and the west, their left wing being reported at La Ferte sur Jouarre, thirty miles to the northeast of Paris and far within the Reims-Verdun line of French defense.

The statement that the German assault is continuing a wide circling movement, and leaving entrenched Paris to its right, while it marches to the southeast, would indicate a possible—even probable—plan of enveloping the allied army of defense on the north, west and south, and so capturing it before the attempt upon Paris.

To the allies and their friends the failure of news to come of an investment of Paris, hardly less than the report of a rebuff to the invaders, is encouraging. It may easily be that the tactics of the allies have been to draw on the enemy, engaging him every foot of the way, and thus to stretch out his lines of communication to the breaking point while wearing down his strength. Certainly, despite the impressive advance of the German right, there has been no rout of the allied forces at any time.

And what a tremendous thing that German advance has been! Long planned, long prepared for, every step thought out in advance, it has been a gigantic avalanche of troops, proceeding with the irresistibility of a glacier and the certainty of a well-oiled machine, fighting over every foot of a march more than two hundred miles long.

A month ago today the Germans were investing Liege, where the Belgians made their gallant and heroic resistance. They were at Brussels sixteen days later, from whence they turned down the valley of the Meuse. They were at Namur next day, and then at Charleroi, at Mons, and across the French border August 26, three weeks after their attack upon Liege. Then they were investing Maubeuge in France; next they were at Le Catea, at Le Fere, at Soissons, at Senlis—at the very gates of Paris! Every foot of the way was disputed, every mile was a battle. Yet this tremendous war machine of the kaiser has advanced with appalling certainty toward Paris with hardly a halt—unless it has been halted now.

Yet how meager and baffling the news of these great movements! Yesterday, like a flash of half-light out of darkness, came a reference to a battle on the line between Reims and Verdun, the final line of the French defense of Paris on the right, with three-quarters of a million troops engaged in "the greatest battle of history," with the crown prince leading the German hosts, the kaiser himself at his elbow—and then the curtain drops. There was a battle Wednesday—"the greatest battle in history"—but that's all we know about it.

In this morning's "news" from the front there were hints—impossible of confirmation because of the censor's baffling activity—that the Germans may have sent a force through Belgium to the north, with the idea of cutting the British communications, and perhaps of heading off the British recruits, which with picturesque suddenness prove to include seventy or eighty thousand Russians, brought unexpectedly from out of the unknown down through Scotland to the English channel and so to France to join the allies.

In the East, where the Bear that Walks Like a Man is looking toward Berlin, little news: a Russian victory at Lemberg certain, a Russian victory in Russian Poland reported but doubtful, with an Austrian victory there claimed by Berlin. Berlin is not yet dangerously threatened, and Paris must yet hold out till the Russian hosts menace the Teuton capital. From Russia comes the confident claim that now with ten army corps it can hold Austria, leaving twenty corps free for the march to Berlin.

Fighting everywhere, a decisive result nowhere confirmed except as to the issue in Lemberg between the Russian advance and the Austrian defense, little real news from anywhere.

So the grim struggle enters upon its second month.

A thoughtful study of the map will go far to convince any American that the word "Neufchateau" is European for "Springfield."

THEY ARE ON THE JOB.

Leslie's Weekly, in an editorial written before congress brought back its laggard members by the rule regarding forfeiture of pay for absenteeism, said:

It is not pleasant to read in these times of stress and turmoil that congress has gone on strike. More than half of all the members of the senate and house, according to the news dispatches, have left Washington, many of them declaring that they will not return. Meanwhile President Wilson, in spite of the saddest of all domestic bereavements, has kept at his post of duty, putting to shame the absentees in congress and the money-seekers of the Chautauqua circuit.

The nation can be proud of the fact that its president, despite the tremendous burdens that have been heaped upon him, the heaviest borne by any president in half a century, and despite the personal grief that fate added to his load, has stayed by his post through it all, taking a brief vacation of three days only when it was absolutely necessary.

And Minnesota can be proud of the fact that Congressman Winfield Scott Hammond, despite the fact that he is a candidate for governor and that his enemies are busy at home, has refused to turn for a moment from the high duties that confront him at Washington, but has remained at HIS post of duty through it all.

Christabel Pankhurst is back in England, to "stir up patriotism." It isn't as if Christabel wasn't experienced in the stirring up business.

WAR AS A DOMESTIC PACIFIER.

The world has observed how war solidifies nations and drowns domestic dissension.

The German Socialists are as patriotic as the Kaiser himself.

In Ireland the Orangeman and the Catholic Irishman are as loyal as the Briton.

In reckoning the causes of the war, the fact that rulers threatened by domestic revolt may have counted upon this should not be forgotten.

Many an autocrat, his absolutism threatened by a new birth of common sense among his subjects, has turned the thoughts of his people away from dangerous topics by creating a foreign war.

War, indeed, has forefended many a revolution.

This canny counsel of absolutism has had its share in creating this war, beyond any doubt.

And by and by the Eastern states will wake up to the fact that while they have been having war fits, the West has been doing business.

THOSE PARTISAN SPECTACLES.

Says the Brainerd Tribune, a very Republican newspaper: "If this country had been enjoying the benefits of a Republican protective tariff for the past year and a half, instead of being under the Underwood Democratic makeshift, it would not now be confronted with the necessity for imposing the always hated internal revenue war tax in order to meet the expenses of government, and that, too, all because of a war in which we have no part."

Wonder if the Brainerd Tribune really believes that? It must, or surely it wouldn't say it. Partisanship often leads men of ordinarily good sense to make themselves ridiculous.

Of course a child could see that the situation which makes the war tax necessary would have come about no matter what kind of a tariff law was in effect.

War stopped importations, and so, of course, it stopped revenue from that source.

Absolute free trade would let imports in, but would stop revenue.

A prohibitive tariff, like war, would stop revenue by shutting out imports.

But any kind of tariff law that contemplates revenue—which is the only kind of tariff law that is constitutional—will cease to yield revenue when importations cease, whether its duties are high or low.

The Underwood tariff bill, by its lower duties, made it necessary to supplement revenues by the income tax law; and that shifts part of the burden from the consumer, who is everybody, to those with taxable revenues, who are relatively few.

But the failure of tariff revenue in war time would have come about no less certainly under the Payne-Aldrich law, the McKinley law or the Dingley law than under the Underwood law.

If the Brainerd Tribune is not grateful to us for this elementary lesson in the tariff question, it ought to be.

These are the days when the lucky man in Europe is the one without a country.

A RIPPING TUNE.

Musicians don't think much of the music of that tune. It's far from "classic," whatever that may mean. Technically it does not analyze very high grade from the high-brow viewpoint—which is a very stupid and absurd viewpoint.

And the words aren't much. "Bring the good old bugle, boys," was written by somebody who did not know that the bugle, with its four "open" notes, isn't fitted for an obbligato or even an accompaniment.

So neither in words nor music does it rank very high in the estimation of the music expert.

But who gives a hang about that? "Marching Through Georgia" is a ripping militant tune, with the swing and fire and dash of victory in it. To the rhythm of marching hosts it is an inspiration to deeds of valor. Like "Dixie," its influence has spread far beyond its original field. Except in the territory between "Atlanta and the sea," where it is not safe to sing it even today, its inspiring swing stirs Southern blood as the rollicking lilt of "Dixie" stirs the slower blood of the North.

The Highlanders showed good judgment.

Ten to one the Berlin dressmakers in these days don't call themselves "modistes."

WHAT WILL CURE WAR.

"Will this be the last war?" asks the Kansas City Star. "Will the horror of it, and the suffering of it, cause such a revulsion of feeling as to lead to world peace?"

Professor Ferdinand Schevill of the University of Chicago says "no:"

These battered and impoverished peoples will be preserved for no other purpose than for new wars and new disasters if they do not fit themselves out with a new mind. And that means that the individual—for everything depends in the last analysis on him—must learn the lesson of peace and love, for which in Europe, much more than in America, he is as yet not greatly receptive. If the European man does not acquire a new set of dominant ideas, the present war, irrespective of who wins or loses, can only add another mass of terrible rancors to those already existing.

Only DEMOCRACY can provide mankind with that "new mind" and "new set of dominant ideas" which is declared to be needed.

If the rancors bred by this war take a logical and accurate direction, they will be aimed at the rulers, the autocrats, the despots, the military absolutisms that, in the last analysis, have hurled humanity at humanity's throat.

And, when humanity sees that absolutism is the cause, humanity will destroy absolutism, level the monstrous hypocrisy of Divine Right, and build upon its ruins a foundation of world Democracy upon which, and upon which only, a permanent civilization can be reared.

At least we can hope that no news of a decisive battle will come on the day after election.

MAJORITY RULE OR FADDISTS' RULE?

For instance, there is a point in direct legislation, which has been debated very heatedly, that in the clearer light of the present becomes very illuminating and discloses an interesting freak of human nature.

Among believers in the initiative and the referendum there are two schools. The difference between them can best be illustrated by the variance in their views on what vote should be required to carry a measure under either the initiative or the referendum.

One school holds that a mere majority of those voting on the proposition ought to be enough.

The other would require a majority of those voting at the election.

The first school has been in the habit of calling the second school bourbon and reactionary.

The second school has, with somewhat better temper, called the first school visionary and impractical.

Now the difference between the two rules is pretty big. When a hundred thousand voters attend a state election at which measures are to be decided by the people, the radical school would call those measures carried if only five thousand people happened to vote on them at all, providing more than half the five thousand voted yes. Of course that's minority rule. Yet the radicals urge this plan and shout the slogan "Let the people rule."

The more conservative reformers would not call those measures carried, in such cases, unless fifty thousand and one out of the hundred thousand voted for them. "Let the people rule," these conservatives say; "but let's be sure it is the people that are ruling."

What the radicals are seeking is to make it easy to carry reform propositions. By that they mean their own reform propositions. Though they don't know it, what they advocate is not "Let the people rule," but "Let US rule."

If the people want to amend the Constitution, enact a law under the initiative or veto a law under the referendum, they ought to be allowed to do it.

But it ought not to be so that an absurd minority of them could do it.

That isn't popular rule; it's faddists' rule. And it is dangerous—not only to the peace and stability of the state, but to honest popular rule because it opens the way to abuses that will make it ridiculous.

Let's have the people rule, by all means. But let's be sure it's the people that are ruling, and not merely a well-meaning but possibly unwise minority.

It must be conceded that the war furnishes endless opportunity for the development of the "if" line of conversation.

COST THAT CAN NEVER BE COUNTED.

There are plenty of statisticians in these days who will give you data on the cost of the war in Europe. They will say that it takes so much to feed and clothe the armies, so much to arm them; a certain amount for ammunition and transportation, and other expenses divided equally.

But there is another cost that never will be counted—never can be counted—and yet is the real cost. And that is in the turning back of national progress in every one of the countries involved either in actual strife or in frantic and industry-paralyzing efforts to remain neutral.

Some conception of the magnitude of this cost can be had if you consider what has been attained by the nations of Europe in the last hundred years. Then remember that much if not all of this attainment is to be lost in the conflict, and that at least some of the ground it covers never can be regained. It will give a bit of an idea of what Europe is suffering and will suffer in the future.

The wealth of the United Kingdom, for instance, was placed a hundred years ago at twelve and a half billion dollars, according to Sir George Paish, editor of the London Statist. He estimates that wealth in 1914 at eighty-five billion dollars, an increase of eight hundred and fifty per cent. The income of the British people in the same period has increased seven hundred per cent, or from one and a half to twelve billion dollars.

The wealth of France, says the same authority, has grown from ten billion to fifty billion in the last century, while Germany, probably lower in wealth a century ago than was France, now has a wealth of eighty billions of dollars.

As a comparison, he gives the wealth of the United States a hundred years ago as one and three-quarters billion, and today as one hundred and fifty billion—an increase of nearly eighty-five hundred per cent.

Now consider what the war is doing. It is stopping the industries in which the people earn their wages, and in which wealth, individual and national, is produced. It is laying waste the natural resources which also contribute to national wealth. It is creating a class of men and women who will be unfit for industrial and productive efforts when the war ends. And it is creating a further class of dependents who will be a drain on the wealth of both individuals and communities for at least a generation.

Who can count the cost of all this? Nobody. It is beyond computation in human accounts. And yet, enormous, incomprehensible, irretrievable as it is, it must be added to those other cost in life and treasure that are more readily ascertainable.

The only trouble with Sherman was that he was too mild in his language.

An edict has gone forth that the saloons of London are to close at 11 o'clock. How do you say "Hicken" in English?

The Chronicle of the Drum.

Last year, my love, it was my hap
Behind a grenadier to be,
And, but he wore a hairy cap,
No taller man, methinks, than me.

Prince Albert and the queen, God wot,
(Be blessings on the glorious pair!)
Before us passed, I saw them not,
I only saw a cap of hair.

Your orthodox historian puts
In foremost rank the soldier thus,
The red-coat bully in his boots,
That hides the march of men from us.

He puts him there in foremost rank,
You wonder at his cap of hair;
You hear his saber's cursed clank,
His spurs are jingling everywhere.

Go to! I hate him and his trade
Who bade us so to cringe and bend,
And all God's peaceful people made
To such as him subservient?

Tell me what find we to admire
In epaulets and scarlet coats,
In men, because they load and fire,
And know the art of cutting throats?

The Kaiser in English Eyes

From Stanley Shaw's "William of Germany." (Macmillan.)

What strikes one most, perhaps, on looking back over the emperor's life and time, are two surprising inconsistencies, one relating to the emperor himself, the other to that part of his time with which he has been most closely identified.

The first arises from the fact that a man so many-sided, so impulsive, so progressive, so modern—one might almost say so American—should have altered so little either in character or policy during quarter of a century. This is due to what we have called his mediaeval nature. He is today the same Hohenzollern he was the day he mounted the throne, observing exactly the same attitude toward the world abroad and to his folk at home, tenacious of exactly the same principles, enunciating exactly the same views in politics, religion, morals, and art—in everything which concerns the foundations of social life. He still believes himself, as his speeches and conduct show, the selected instrument of heaven, and acts toward his people and addresses them accordingly. He still opposes all efforts at political change, as witness his attitude toward electoral reform, towards the Germanization of Prussian Poland, towards the Socialists, towards Liberalism in all its manifestations. He is still, as he was at the outset of his reign, the patron of classical art, classical drama and classical music. He is still the war lord with the spirit of a bishop and a bishop with the spirit of the war lord. He is still the model husband and father he always has been. Most men change one way or another as time goes on. With the emperor time for five and twenty years appears to have stood still.

The inconsistency relating to his time arises from the contrast between the real and the seeming character of the reign. For, strikingly and anomalously enough, while the emperor has been steadily pursuing an economic policy, a policy of peace, his entire reign, as one turns over the pages of its history, seems to resound, during almost every hour, with martial shoutings, confused noises, the clatter of harness, the clash of swords and the tramp of armies. From moment to moment it recalls those scenes from Shakespearean drama in which indeed no dead are actually seen upon the stage, but at intervals the air is filled with battle cries, "with excursions and alarms," with warriors brandishing their weapons, calling for horses, hacking at imaginary foes and defying the world in arms.

And yet in reality it has been a period of domestic peace throughout. Though there has been incessant talk of war, and at times war may have been near, it never came, unless the Southwest African and Boxer expeditions be so called. Commerce and trade have gone on increasing by leaps and bounds. The population has grown at the rate of nearly three-quarters of a million a year. Emperor William the First's social policy has been closely followed. The navy has been built, the army strengthened, the empire's finances reorganized; in whatever direction one looks one finds a record of solid and substantial and peaceful progress and prosperity. A great deal of it is owing, admittedly, to the Germans themselves, but no small share of it is due to the "impulsive" emperor's consistency of character and conduct.

Probably the inconsistencies are only apparent. Germany and her emperor have grown, not developed, if by development is meant a radical alteration in structure or mentality, and if regard is had to the real Germany and the real emperor, not to the Germany of the tourist, and not to the emperor of contemporary criticism. It has been seen that the emperor's nature and policy have not altered. The Constitution of Germany has not altered, nor her press, nor her political parties, nor her social system, nor, indeed, any of the vital institutions of her national life. With one possible exception—the navy. The navy is a new organic feature, and, like all organisms, is exerting deep and far-reaching influences. Germany, of course, is in a process of development, a state of transition. But nations are at all times in a state of transition, more or less obvious; and it will require yet a good many years to show what new forms and fruits the development now going on in Germany is to bring. The emperor, it is safe to say, will remain the same, mediaeval in nature, modern in character, to the end of his life.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John O. Quinlan, the Sunshine Man.

Let me but live my life from year to year,
With forward face and unreluctant soul;
Not hastening to, nor turning from the goal,
Not mourning for the things that disappear
In the dim past, nor holding back in fear
From what the future veils, but with a whole
And happy heart that pays its toll
To Youth and Age and travels on with cheer.

So let the way be up the hill or down,
Though rough or smooth, the journey will be joy,
Still seeking what I sought when but a boy,
New friendships, high adventure, and a crown;
I shall grow old, but never lose life's zest
Because the road's last turn will be the best.
—Henry Van Dyke.

Giving is in contrast to paying. Much of even Christian offering soon degenerates into paying. What commences a gift often goes on as a mere payment of a subscription or a rent. Paying and giving are opposites. Paying is getting as much commodity for as little cost as practicable. Giving is of heart purpose and loving contrivance—providing the fullest offering that ability and prudence allow. As we never can render an equivalent to God for his infinite benefactions to us, let our offerings ever be, at least, the joyfully devoted gifts of love. Giving to God is in contrast to receiving from him. Receiving is an essential act of creature life, and a mark of creature nature. Man receives even as the inferior creatures, and much more abundantly. God alone gives absolutely and really. It is Godlike in man to give as he is enabled. God gives man more than he himself wants, that he may have something to give. In this way God prompts man to give.—John Ross.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Call Out the Reserves.

A nation's army on a war footing is far different from that of the same country in time of peace. In war the fighting force is gradually increased through the call to the colors of one class of citizens after another, till the usual strength is tripled or quadrupled. A German assured me the other day that the kaiser could draft reservists of all classes till the fatherland had at least 8,000,000 men under arms. Let us pray that so colossal a host of fighting men may never be gathered. It were better for the reservists and for the world that they stay on their farms and in their shops.

But nothing is more desirable for the individual than to call out the reserves in his own nature. To set latent powers at work, to arouse sleeping energies is the privilege and the duty of every man. It is doubtless true, as Prof. James reminded us from the viewpoint of psychology, that, "As a rule men habitually use only a small part of the powers which they actually possess and which they might use under appropriate conditions." Not one man in fifty realizes what he could accomplish were every power of his nature evoked.

One of the most interesting things in life is the sudden, unexpected development in some personality of powers that have lain dormant. Some emergency reveals strength in the nature that was wholly unsuspected. Under stress of peril the bedridden will walk, the slender woman will stop a runaway horse or save someone from a burning building, the madcap boy will display heroism and endurance of a high order. "I didn't know he had it in him," is our comment. Neither did he know he had it in him, till the occasion called. It is evident that the human organism has stored-up reserves of energy that are ordinarily not employed, but that may be called upon when the crisis or the great occasion reveals us to ourselves.

Conservation is a master word of the day. We try to make the most of everything. We utilize what was formerly wasted. The dump heaps of our grandfathers become our mines. We rake them over and pick out gold, uranium and radium. Through ignorance our grandfathers and grand mothers allowed scores of chemicals, essences and useful ingredients to go to waste. Today the industrial chemist is teaching us to save much that was thrown away, and to gain the profit of scores of by-products.

Just so should we make the most of our human personalities. Men do not begin their careers on the earth fully developed physically, mentally or spiritually; and, what is more pathetic, htey frequently end them as bundles of unrealized possibilities. They are like the slothful man in our Lord's parable, who had to report merely, "I went and hid thy talent in the earth." They are like an army that has never gathered anything like its full strength.

How may one call out his personal reserves, develop his own life to capacity? That alone is success and anything less than that is failure. The answer must be in terms both of resolution and of religion. The will must be set to work as the normal opener of deeper and deeper levels of energy. Men come into full mental stature only through incessant effort. And if resolution is the opening of deeper levels of energy, faith is their establisher and guarantee. For real religion means not some dead decorum, but the introduction of us mortals to a new and abundant life, to a realization of the utmost that Almighty God has designed our individual natures to reveal.

WHY THIS HASTE ABOUT A CITY LIGHTING PLANT?

On motion of Commissioner Merritt, the city council has authorized him to proceed to the erection of a municipal electric lighting plant.

This without consulting public opinion and, in the opinion of The Herald, without a reasonable study of the proposition. Moreover, it is without a vote of the people, and no such project ever should be taken up unless the people have voted their will upon it.

The city is proceeding precipitately to the erection of a city lighting plant, to be operated in competition with the privately owned plant, without any public authorization, and without any answer to these vitally important questions—if there has been, indeed, any study of them:

What is the occasion for this radical step?

Upon what complaint of rates or service is it based?

What promise is there that either rates or service can be improved by a municipal plant?

How much too high are the present lighting rates, and how much can the city by this project reduce them?

How can the project be financed?

A business man who ventured upon a highly expensive project without careful study of such questions as these would be thought insane; certainly he would be inviting bankruptcy.

The city has, it is true, voted bonds to be used in buying or building an electric lighting plant. It is also true that a very large percentage of those who voted for this bond issue did so only in the belief that it would arm the city with a weapon that would enable it to make a highly favorable contract with the private electric company.

Moreover, nobody who voted for those bonds imagined for a moment that any further step would be taken unless it were first referred to the people for their adoption or rejection.

Now, because the city attorney believes he has found a section of the charter that authorizes this action, the city pitches pell mell into a far-reaching project, apparently without any counting of costs or analyzing of possibilities.

It is not demonstrated that there is a public sentiment in this city favoring the construction of a municipal lighting plant.

It is very much to be doubted if there is any such sentiment.

Possibly if the purchase of the existing plant at a reasonable rate could have been arranged, the public might have sanctioned its purchase.

There has been, on the surface at least, no such complaint of the rates or service of the private company as to warrant the construction of a competing plant.

Nobody has assured the city that it can make rates lower than those now charged by the private company.

Certainly, in competition with that company, the only way it can hope to get business will be by a reduction of rates. Does any member of the city council know that the city can offer reduced rates without a loss?

And even if it be assumed that the rates and service of the private company are so objectionable to the public that there is a demand for a competing plant, and even if it be assumed that a competing plant will result in better service and lower rates, HOW IS THE PROJECT TO BE FINANCED?

By bond issues? Who, in the present state of the world's finances, is going to buy the bonds?

The city is already heavily bonded for municipal public utilities. This burden of bonded debt does not diminish materially, because the policy of the water and light department has not been to provide for retirement of bonds. Bond interest now constitutes a very large part of the cost of water and gas; and yet no project is afoot to reduce this charge, though that would be vastly more to the purpose than the building of a lighting plant to compete with the strong private concern now operating here.

Perhaps present electric light rates and service are such that the city must act; but if so it should be demonstrated.

Perhaps the city by a competing plant can assure patrons of better rates and better service; but if so it should be demonstrated.

Perhaps the city council knows how it will finance this project in these critical times in finance; but if so it should be demonstrated.

Certainly there is no such rush about this matter as to justify hurrying into it pell mell without full consideration of these vital questions, and without a warrant from the people for such action.

The Russians are eager to get rid of German names, but they aren't any keener for that than the Germans are to get rid of the Russians themselves.

THE WAR FROM DAY TO DAY.

The curtain of censored mystery that overhangs the war in Europe lifts fitfully, bafflingly; and reveals only enough to puzzle the world.

But one thing seemed clear this morning: that the German advance had not yet reached Paris. Ostend, far from the battlefield, reported last night that the German right, which has been engaged, apparently with success, in the attempt to turn the allied left, had been repulsed and had fallen back to St. Quentin, eighty miles from Paris. This, though undenied or confirmed, may or may not be. The repulse, if any, may have been only of the German vanguard of cavalry and light artillery. The German troops reported at Soissons, at Compeigne, at Senlis, may have been and doubtless were mere skirmishing parties thrown out in advance of the main line.

That the report of a German repulse was without foundation, however, was made clear this afternoon by the revelation that the Germans are close to Paris on both the east and the west, their left wing being reported at La Ferte sur Jouarre, thirty miles to the northeast of Paris and far within the Reims-Verdun line of French defense.

The statement that the German assault is continuing a wide circling movement, and leaving entrenched Paris to its right, while it marches to the southeast, would indicate a possible—even probable—plan of enveloping the allied army of defense on the north, west and south, and so capturing it before the attempt upon Paris.

To the allies and their friends the failure of news to come of an investment of Paris, hardly less than the report of a rebuff to the invaders, is encouraging. It may easily be that the tactics of the allies have been to draw on the enemy, engaging him every foot of the way, and thus to stretch out his lines of communication to the breaking point while wearing down his strength. Certainly, despite the impressive advance of the German right, there has been no rout of the allied forces at any time.

And what a tremendous thing that German advance has been! Long planned, long prepared for, every step thought out in advance, it has been a gigantic avalanche of troops, proceeding with the irresistibility of a glacier and the certainty of a well-oiled machine, fighting over every foot of a march more than two hundred miles long.

A month ago today the Germans were investing Liege, where the Belgians made their gallant and heroic resistance. They were at Brussels sixteen days later, from whence they turned down the valley of the Meuse. They were at Namur next day, and then at Charleroi, at Mons, and across the French border August 26, three weeks after their attack upon Liege. Then they were investing Maubeuge in France; next they were at Le Catea, at Le Fere, at Soissons, at Senlis—at the very gates of Paris! Every foot of the way was disputed, every mile was a battle. Yet this tremendous war machine of the kaiser has advanced with appalling certainty toward Paris with hardly a halt—unless it has been halted now.

Yet how meager and baffling the news of these great movements! Yesterday, like a flash of half-light out of darkness, came a reference to a battle on the line between Reims and Verdun, the final line of the French defense of Paris on the right, with three-quarters of a million troops engaged in "the greatest battle of history," with the crown prince leading the German hosts, the kaiser himself at his elbow—and then the curtain drops. There was a battle Wednesday—"the greatest battle in history"—but that's all we know about it.

In this morning's "news" from the front there were hints—impossible of confirmation because of the censor's baffling activity—that the Germans may have sent a force through Belgium to the north, with the idea of cutting the British communications, and perhaps of heading off the British recruits, which with picturesque suddenness prove to include seventy or eighty thousand Russians, brought unexpectedly from out of the unknown down through Scotland to the English channel and so to France to join the allies.

In the East, where the Bear that Walks Like a Man is looking toward Berlin, little news: a Russian victory at Lemberg certain, a Russian victory in Russian Poland reported but doubtful, with an Austrian victory there claimed by Berlin. Berlin is not yet dangerously threatened, and Paris must yet hold out till the Russian hosts menace the Teuton capital. From Russia comes the confident claim that now with ten army corps it can hold Austria, leaving twenty corps free for the march to Berlin.

Fighting everywhere, a decisive result nowhere confirmed except as to the issue in Lemberg between the Russian advance and the Austrian defense, little real news from anywhere.

So the grim struggle enters upon its second month.

A thoughtful study of the map will go far to convince any American that the word "Neufchateau" is European for "Springfield."

THEY ARE ON THE JOB.

Leslie's Weekly, in an editorial written before congress brought back its laggard members by the rule regarding forfeiture of pay for absenteeism, said:

> It is not pleasant to read in these times of stress and turmoil that congress has gone on strike. More than half of all the members of the senate and house, according to the news dispatches, have left Washington, many of them declaring that they will not return. Meanwhile President Wilson, in spite of the saddest of all domestic bereavements, has kept at his post of duty, putting to shame the absentees in congress and the money-seekers of the Chautauqua circuit.

The nation can be proud of the fact that its president, despite the tremendous burdens that have been heaped upon him, the heaviest borne by any president in half a century, and despite the personal grief that fate added to his load, has stayed by his post through it all, taking a brief vacation of three days only when it was absolutely necessary.

And Minnesota can be proud of the fact that Congressman Winfield Scott Hammond, despite the fact that he is a candidate for governor and that his enemies are busy at home, has refused to turn for a moment from the high duties that confront him at Washington, but has remained at HIS post of duty through it all.

Christabel Pankhurst is back in England, to "stir up patriotism." It isn't as if Christabel wasn't experienced in the stirring up business.

WAR AS A DOMESTIC PACIFIER.

The world has observed how war solidifies nations and drowns domestic dissension.

The German Socialists are as patriotic as the Kaiser himself.

In Ireland the Orangeman and the Catholic Irishman are as loyal as the Briton.

In reckoning the causes of the war, the fact that rulers threatened by domestic revolt may have counted upon this should not be forgotten.

Many an autocrat, his absolutism threatened by a new birth of common sense among his subjects, has turned the thoughts of his people away from dangerous topics by creating a foreign war.

War, indeed, has forefended many a revolution.

This canny counsel of absolutism has had its share in creating this war, beyond any doubt.

And by and by the Eastern states will wake up to the fact that while they have been having war fits, the West has been doing business.

THOSE PARTISAN SPECTACLES.

Says the Brainerd Tribune, a very Republican newspaper: "If this country had been enjoying the benefits of a Republican protective tariff for the past year and a half, instead of being under the Underwood Democratic makeshift, it would not now be confronted with the necessity for imposing the always hated internal revenue war tax in order to meet the expenses of government, and that, too, all because of a war in which we have no part."

Wonder if the Brainerd Tribune really believes that? It must, or surely it wouldn't say it. Partisanship often leads men of ordinarily good sense to make themselves ridiculous.

Of course a child could see that the situation which makes the war tax necessary would have come about no matter what kind of a tariff law was in effect.

War stopped importations, and so, of course, it stopped revenue from that source.

Absolute free trade would let imports in, but would stop revenue.

A prohibitive tariff, like war, would stop revenue by shutting out imports.

But any kind of tariff law that contemplates revenue—which is the only kind of tariff law that is constitutional—will cease to yield revenue when importations cease, whether its duties are high or low.

The Underwood tariff bill, by its lower duties, made it necessary to supplement revenues by the income tax law; and that shifts part of the burden from the consumer, who is everybody, to those with taxable revenues, who are relatively few.

But the failure of tariff revenue in war time would have come about no less certainly under the Payne-Aldrich law, the McKinley law or the Dingley law than under the Underwood law.

If the Brainerd Tribune is not grateful to us for this elementary lesson in the tariff question, it ought to be.

These are the days when the lucky man in Europe is the one without a country.

A RIPPING TUNE.

> As one Highland regiment marched through the Strand its band played "Marching Through Georgia."—London dispatch.

Musicians don't think much of the music of that tune. It's far from "classic," whatever that may mean. Technically it does not analyze very high grade from the high-brow viewpoint—which is a very stupid and absurd viewpoint.

And the words aren't much. "Bring the good old bugle, boys," was written by somebody who did not know that the bugle, with its four "open" notes, isn't fitted for an obbligato or even an accompaniment.

So neither in words nor music does it rank very high in the estimation of the music expert.

But who gives a hang about that? "Marching Through Georgia" is a ripping militant tune, with the swing and fire and dash of victory in it. To the rhythm of marching hosts it is an inspiration to deeds of valor. Like "Dixie," its influence has spread far beyond its original field. Except in the territory between "Atlanta and the sea," where it is not safe to sing it even today, its inspiring swing stirs Southern blood as the rollicking lilt of "Dixie" stirs the slower blood of the North.

The Highlanders showed good judgment.

Ten to one the Berlin dressmakers in these days don't call themselves "modistes."

WHAT WILL CURE WAR.

"Will this be the last war?" asks the Kansas City Star. "Will the horror of it, and the suffering of it, cause such a revulsion of feeling as to lead to world peace?"

Professor Ferdinand Schevill of the University of Chicago says "no:"

> These battered and impoverished peoples will be preserved for no other purpose than for new wars and new disasters if they do not fit themselves out with a new mind. And that means that the individual—for everything depends in the last analysis on him—must learn the lesson of peace and love, for which in Europe, much more than in America, he is as yet not greatly receptive. If the European man does not acquire a new set of dominant ideas, the present war, irrespective of who wins or loses, can only add another mass of terrible rancors to those already existing.

Only DEMOCRACY can provide mankind with that "new mind" and "new set of dominant ideas" which is declared to be needed.

If the rancors bred by this war take a logical and accurate direction, they will be aimed at the rulers, the autocrats, the despots, the military absolutisms that, in the last analysis, have hurled humanity at humanity's throat.

And, when humanity sees that absolutism is the cause, humanity will destroy absolutism, level the monstrous hypocrisy of Divine Right, and build upon its ruins a foundation of world Democracy upon which, and upon which only, a permanent civilization can be reared.

At least we can hope that no news of a decisive battle will come on the day after election.

MAJORITY RULE OR FADDISTS' RULE?

For instance, there is a point in direct legislation, which has been debated very heatedly, that in the clearer light of the present becomes very illuminating and discloses an interesting freak of human nature.

Among believers in the initiative and the referendum there are two schools. The difference between them can best be illustrated by the variance in their views on what vote should be required to carry a measure under either the initiative or the referendum.

One school holds that a mere majority of those voting on the proposition ought to be enough.

The other would require a majority of those voting at the election.

The first school has been in the habit of calling the second school bourbon and reactionary.

The second school has, with somewhat better temper, called the first school visionary and impractical.

Now the difference between the two rules is pretty big. When a hundred thousand voters attend a state election at which measures are to be decided by the people, the radical school would call those measures carried if only five thousand people happened to vote on them at all, providing more than half the five thousand voted yes. Of course that's minority rule. Yet the radicals urge this plan and shout the slogan "Let the people rule."

The more conservative reformers would not call those measures carried, in such cases, unless fifty thousand and one out of the hundred thousand voted for them. "Let the people rule," these conservatives say; "but let's be sure it is the people that are ruling."

What the radicals are seeking is to make it easy to carry reform propositions. By that they mean their own reform propositions. Though they don't know it, what they advocate is not "Let the people rule," but "Let US rule."

If the people want to amend the Constitution, enact a law under the initiative or veto a law under the referendum, they ought to be allowed to do it.

But it ought not to be so that an absurd minority of them could do it.

That isn't popular rule; it's faddists' rule. And it is dangerous—not only to the peace and stability of the state, but to honest popular rule because it opens the way to abuses that will make it ridiculous.

Let's have the people rule, by all means. But let's be sure it's the people that are ruling, and not merely a well-meaning but possibly unwise minority.

It must be conceded that the war furnishes endless opportunity for the development of the "if" line of conversation.

COST THAT CAN NEVER BE COUNTED.

There are plenty of statisticians in these days who will give you data on the cost of the war in Europe. They will say that it takes so much to feed and clothe the armies, so much to arm them; a certain amount for ammunition and transportation, and other expenses divided equally.

But there is another cost that never will be counted—never can be counted—and yet is the real cost. And that is in the turning back of national progress in every one of the countries involved either in actual strife or in frantic and industry-paralyzing efforts to remain neutral.

Some conception of the magnitude of this cost can be had if you consider what has been attained by the nations of Europe in the last hundred years. Then remember that much if not all of this attainment is to be lost in the conflict, and that at least some of the ground it covers never can be regained. It will give a bit of an idea of what Europe is suffering and will suffer in the future.

The wealth of the United Kingdom, for instance, was placed a hundred years ago at twelve and a half billion dollars, according to Sir George Paish, editor of the London Statist. He estimates that wealth in 1914 at eighty-five billion dollars, an increase of eight hundred and fifty per cent. The income of the British people in the same period has increased seven hundred per cent, or from one and a half to twelve billion dollars.

The wealth of France, says the same authority, has grown from ten billion to fifty billion in the last century, while Germany, probably lower in wealth a century ago than was France, now has a wealth of eighty billions of dollars.

As a comparison, he gives the wealth of the United States a hundred years ago as one and three-quarters billion, and today as one hundred and fifty billion—an increase of nearly eighty-five hundred per cent.

Now consider what the war is doing. It is stopping the industries in which the people earn their wages, and in which wealth, individual and national, is produced. It is laying waste the natural resources which also contribute to national wealth. It is creating a class of men and women who will be unfit for industrial and productive efforts when the war ends. And it is creating a further class of dependents who will be a drain on the wealth of both individuals and communities for at least a generation.

Who can count the cost of all this? Nobody. It is beyond computation in human accounts. And yet, enormous, incomprehensible, irretrievable as it is, it must be added to those other cost in life and treasure that are more readily ascertainable.

The only trouble with Sherman was that he was too mild in his language.

The Chronicle of the Drum.

Last year, my love, it was my hap
Behind a grenadier to be,
And, but he wore a hairy cap,
No taller man, methinks, than me.

Prince Albert and the queen, God wot,
(Be blessings on the glorious pair!)
Before us passed, I saw them not,
I only saw a cap of hair.

Your orthodox historian puts
In foremost rank the soldier thus,
The red-coat bully in his boots,
That hides the march of men from us.

He puts him there in foremost rank,
You wonder at his cap of hair;
You hear his saber's cursed clank,
His spurs are jingling everywhere.

Go to! I hate him and his trade
Who bade us so to cringe and bend,
And all God's peaceful people made
To such as him subservient?

Tell me what find we to admire
In epaulets and scarlet coats,
In men, because they load and fire,
And know the art of cutting throats?

The Kaiser in English Eyes

From Stanley Shaw's "William of Germany." (Macmillan.)

What strikes one most, perhaps, on looking back over the emperor's life and time, are two surprising inconsistencies, one relating to the emperor himself, the other to that part of his time with which he has been most closely identified.

The first arises from the fact that a man so many-sided, so impulsive, so progressive, so modern—one might almost say so American—should have altered so little either in character or policy during quarter of a century. This is due to what we have called his mediaeval nature. He is today the same Hohenzollern he was the day he mounted the throne, observing exactly the same attitude toward the world abroad and to his folk at home, tenacious of exactly the same principles, enunciating exactly the same views in politics, religion, morals, and art—in everything which concerns the foundations of social life. He still believes himself, as his speeches and conduct show, the selected instrument of heaven, and acts toward his people and addresses them accordingly. He still opposes all efforts at political change, as witness his attitude toward electoral reform, towards the Germanization of Prussian Poland, towards the Socialists, towards Liberalism in all its manifestations. He is still, as he was at the outset of his reign, the patron of classical art, classical drama and classical music. He is still the war lord with the spirit of a bishop and a bishop with the spirit of the war lord. He is still the model husband and father he always has been. Most men change one way or another as time goes on. With the emperor time for five and twenty years appears to have stood still.

The inconsistency relating to his time arises from the contrast between the real and the seeming character of the reign. For, strikingly and anomalously enough, while the emperor has been steadily pursuing an economic policy, a policy of peace, his entire reign, as one turns over the pages of its history, seems to resound, during almost every hour, with martial shoutings, confused noises, the clatter of harness, the clash of swords and the tramp of armies. From moment to moment it recalls those scenes from Shakespearean drama in which indeed no dead are actually seen upon the stage, but at intervals the air is filled with battle cries, "with excursions and alarms," with warriors brandishing their weapons, calling for horses, hacking at imaginary foes and defying the world in arms.

And yet in reality it has been a period of domestic peace throughout. Though there has been incessant talk of war, and at times war may have been near, it never came, unless the Southwest African and Boxer expeditions be so called. Commerce and trade have gone on increasing by leaps and bounds. The population has grown at the rate of nearly three-quarters of a million a year. Emperor William the First's social policy has been closely followed. The navy has been built, the army strengthened, the empire's finances reorganized; in whatever direction one looks one finds a record of solid and substantial and peaceful progress and prosperity. A great deal of it is owing, admittedly, to the Germans themselves, but no small share of it is due to the "impulsive" emperor's consistency of character and conduct.

Probably the inconsistencies are only apparent. Germany and her emperor have grown, not developed, if by development is meant a radical alteration in structure or mentality, and if regard is had to the real Germany and the real emperor, not to the Germany of the tourist, and not to the emperor of contemporary criticism. It has been seen that the emperor's nature and policy have not altered. The Constitution of Germany has not altered, nor her press, nor her political parties, nor her social system, nor, indeed, any of the vital institutions of her national life. With one possible exception—the navy. The navy is a new organic feature, and, like all organisms, is exerting deep and far-reaching influences. Germany, of course, is in a process of development, a state of transition. But nations are at all times in a state of transition, more or less obvious; and it will require yet a good many years to show what new forms and fruits the development now going on in Germany is to bring. The emperor, it is safe to say, will remain the same, mediaeval in nature, modern in character, to the end of his life.

Just a Moment

Daily Strength and Cheer.

Compiled by John G. Quinlan, the Sunshine Man.

Let me but live my life from year to year,
With forward face and unreluctant soul;
Not hastening to, nor turning from the goal,
Not mourning for the things that disappear
In the dim past, nor holding back in fear
From what the future veils, but with a whole
And happy heart that pays its toll
To Youth and Age and travels on with cheer.

So let the way be up the hill or down,
Though rough or smooth, the journey will be joy,
Still seeking what I sought when but a boy,
New friendships, high adventure, and a crown;
I shall grow old, but never lose life's zest
Because the road's last turn will be the best.

—Henry Van Dyke.

Giving is in contrast to paying. Much of even Christian offering soon degenerates into paying. What commences a gift often goes on as a mere payment of a subscription or a rent. Paying and giving are opposites. Paying is getting as much commodity for as little cost as practicable. Giving is of heart purpose and loving contrivance—providing the fullest offering that ability and prudence allow. As we never can render an equivalent to God for his infinite benefactions to us, let our offerings ever be, at least, the joyfully devoted gifts of love. Giving to God is in contrast to receiving from him. Receiving is an essential act of creature life, and a mark of creature nature. Man receives even as the inferior creatures, and much more abundantly. God alone gives absolutely and really. It is Godlike in man to give as he is enabled. God gives man more than he himself wants, that he may have something to give. In this way God prompts man to give.—John Ross.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Call Out the Reserves.

A nation's army on a war footing is far different from that of the same country in time of peace. In war the fighting force is gradually increased through the call to the colors of one class of citizens after another, till the usual strength is tripled or quadrupled. A German assured me the other day that the kaiser could draft reservists of all classes till the fatherland had at least 8,000,000 men under arms. Let us pray that so colossal a host of fighting men may never be gathered. It were better for the reservists and for the world that they stay on their farms and in their shops.

But nothing is more desirable for the individual than to call out the reserves in his own nature. To set latent powers at work, to arouse sleeping energies is the privilege and the duty of every man. It is doubtless true, as Prof. James reminded us from the viewpoint of psychology, that, "As a rule men habitually use only a small part of the powers which they actually possess and which they might use under appropriate conditions." Not one man in fifty realizes what he could accomplish were every power of his nature evoked.

One of the most interesting things in life is the sudden, unexpected development in some personality of powers that have lain dormant. Some emergency reveals strength in the nature that was wholly unsuspected. Under stress of peril the bedridden will walk, the slender woman will stop a runaway horse or save someone from a burning building, the madcap boy will display heroism and endurance of a high order. "I didn't know he had it in him," is our comment. Neither did he know he had it in him, till the occasion called. It is evident that the human organism has stored-up reserves of energy that are ordinarily not employed, but that may be called upon when the crisis or the great occasion reveals us to ourselves.

Conservation is a master word of the day. We try to make the most of everything. We utilize what was formerly wasted. The dump heaps of our grandfathers become our mines. We rake them over and pick out gold, uranium and radium. Through ignorance our grandfathers and grand mothers allowed scores of chemicals, essences and useful ingredients to go to waste. Today the industrial chemist is teaching us to save much that was thrown away, and to gain the profit of scores of by-products.

Just so should we make the most of our human personalities. Men do not begin their careers on the earth fully developed physically, mentally or spiritually; and, what is more pathetic, htey frequently end them as bundles of unrealized possibilities. They are like the slothful man in our Lord's parable, who had to report merely, "I went and hid thy talent in the earth!" They are like an army that has never gathered anything like its full strength.

How may one call out his personal reserves, develop his own life to capacity? That alone is success and anything less than that is failure. The answer must be in terms both of resolution and of religion. The will must be set to work as the normal opener of deeper and deeper levels of energy. Men come into full mental stature only through incessant effort. And if resolution is the opening of deeper levels of energy, faith is their establisher and guarantee. For real religion means not some dead decorum, but the introduction of us mortals to a new and abundant life, to a realization of the utmost that Almighty God has designed our individual natures to reveal.

THE OPPOSITION AT BAY

By SAVOYARD

Washington, Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A fellow, you can call him nothing else, was governor of one of our great states, and he is reported as saying that if Theodore Roosevelt were now president of the United States there would be no war in Europe. That man ought to be apprehended and put in charge of the committees of charities, that have supervision of the lunatic asylums in that bailiwick. No telling what he will do if suffered to be at large. Possibly he would not steal something, but he, might cause a riot.

• • •

Have you heard a sneer about "watchful waiting" lately? I trow not. Have you heard that American diplomacy is now become "the laughing stock of Europe"? Certainly not. Even Col. Roosevelt has not a word to say about Mexico.

• • •

And here comes a matter of polity that I shall venture to put to my little constituency. How far does the liberty of the press extend? Here is the Washington Post telling us that we must make a bigger navy than England and Japan combined have, to conserve our rights in the Pacific.

Does the liberty of the press extend to this—that the editor has the right to deem his every reader a fool? I think we ought to have court adjudication as to that.

• • •

The New York standpatters have met and put out their manifesto against the Wilson administration. They say that the Democratic tariff is sectional. How can that be? The big crop of the North, corn, is also on the free list, though the South grows immense crops of corn and the North not a bale of cotton for commercial purposes. Rice, a Southern product, was reduced in the levy, and so was barley, a peculiarly Northern product, reduced in exactly the same proportion. Sugar was put on the free list and Louisiana is raising a bigger row about that than all the rest of the country together.

The greatest speech against a protective tariff ever delivered came from Shakespeare's Marcus Brutus:

"For I can raise no money by vile means.
By heaven, I had rather coin my heart,
And drop my blood for drachmas, than to wring
From the hard hands of peasants their vile trash
By any indirection!"

• • •

Now these New York Republicans, led by Mr. Root, the very cream de la cream of the party, denounce the Democratic tariff. For what? For the income tax. Precisely. And there is not a Republican in the Union who is not, at heart, against the income tax. He has a contempt for the assault Marcus Brutus made on a tax that wrings from the poor their vile trash.

Now, men and brethren, this country has come to the pass that the great majority of the people are resolved that wealth shall bear at least its fair share of the public burdens. A tax on blankets is a tax on consumption, for it takes as many blankets to keep the poor man's bed comfortable as it does a rich man's, and more, for the rich man lives in a palace and the poor man in a cabin.

• • •

Mr. Root—and Roosevelt says he is the greatest statesman of our age—Root tells News York that the income tax must be repealed. I can't think about Root without recalling Hearst. In his "Windsor Prophecy" Dean Swift accused the duchess of Somerset of the twin crimes of having red hair and of being privy to the murder of her first husband.

The lady, a notoriously red-headed beauty, held the charge of murder as a trivial accusation, but furiously denied that she was red-headed.

Hearst hates Root with a cordial hatred for his speech that Roosevelt ordered him to make accusing Hearst of inciting the murder of McKinley, yet he has nothing but praise for Roosevelt, whose spokesman Root was!

• • •

Very well. New York leads in Republican councils and New York's voice is for repeal of the income tax. As I am now advised La Follette was the sole Republican senator who voted for the income tax. Possibly I did him an injustice the other day when I put him as one of his party who voted against the Democratic tariff. This ought to make amend.

The Democratic party stands with and for Woodrow Wilson. If he is right we are all of us right. If he is wrong, then all of us are wrong. He is the leader of the party and he is the leader of his country. He has not yet made a mistake. I am sure Sam Blythe was right when he said Wilson had more sense than any of 'em.

Forty thousand horses could not have won a race from Eclipse—"first, and the rest nowhere." Wilson is first and no one of the rest is in sight of him.

HEALTH TALKS

by William Brady, M.D.

The Safety of Anesthetics

ONE of the greatest terrors of surgery, in the patient's mind, is the anesthetic. People still seem to think that it is a dangerous thing to inhale ether or chloroform in the hands of a skilled physician. And if we were to judge by the disasters duly served up in the papers the popular dread of an anesthetic could not be wondered at. But we must remember that only the rare accidents get into the news; the thousands and thousands of uneventful anesthetizations performed every day never become a matter of publicity.

Of course there is a certain degree of risk involved in the taking of any anesthetic. But looking at the question from all sides the risk assumed by the patient is really not so great as is the risk he would have to assume without the necessary operation. And another thing, a large share of the fatalities attributed to anesthetics are in reality due, at least in part, to other factors—the patient's exhaustion from disease, affections of the heart or maybe chronic alcoholism or other injurious habits which the public knows nothing about.

The Untrained Anesthetist.

Fatalities from anesthetics administered by careless or incompetent persons—nurses or other half-trained or untrained persons—are easily the bulk of the list. Dentists are legally entitled to administer anesthetics, but as a rule the careful dentists call a physician when a general anesthetic is required. Nurses are not legally entitled to administer anesthetics; surgeons or physicians who permit nurses to assume this responsibility lay themselves open to malpractice suits if anything goes wrong, and the courts are quick to find that the patient's heir or guardian is entitled to damages. No one but a qualified M. D. or a qualified dentist may legally administer anesthetics.

Of the two common agents, chloroform and ether, the latter is deemed the safer for general use. Under certain conditions, however, chloroform would be safer for an individual; for instances, cases in which there is a chronic bronchitis or a chronic nephritis usually take chloroform better.

The Modern Method.

Ether was formerly given by saturating a sponge and literally forcing the patient under. This was mighty unpleasant and unnecessarily risky. Nowadays the ordeal is far from unpleasant; the patient has all the air he wants all the time, and the ether is administered very slowly and gently, drop by drop, until drowsiness and sleep comes on with little or no excitement. The drop method robs the anesthetic of all its disagreeable features, especially for children, who take it without fear or even as a trip to fairyland.

Poor policy, starving for that kind of gout. Certainly you should eat tomatoes. Like all other fruits, they tend to reduce acidity, or rather increase alkalinity of the blood. A Valuable Handbook.

THE IRON ORES OF LAKE SUPERIOR. Second Edition. By Crowell & Murray. Cleveland: The Peyton Publishing company.

The second edition of this book is probably the most comprehensive as well as the best treatise on this subject published so far. The information contained in this volume of 269 pages is a compilation of facts relating to the iron ores of this region, most of which has appeared in the various trade journals, geological reports, and scientific society transactions. It is arranged for ready reference and is very convenient in form.

Information regarding this subject has been so widely scattered up to this time that its presentation in one volume will be very acceptable to mining men and the interested public as a whole. Maps have been re-drawn and matter appearing in the former edition has been corrected wherever necessary. The latest descriptions of the mines on the different ranges have been secured and data have been added as to their location and the names of managers, superintendents and sales agents. Information has been secured from all classes of mining men who are in a position to give accurate information.

The book contains ten chapters and an elaborate index. Each chapter treats a separate phase of the subject as fully as could be expected.

One of the most interesting chapters is the early history of the Lake Superior region. Others contain information on geology, mineralogy, production of ore dock equipment, classification of ores, beneficiation of ores, methods of analysis, fuel engineering, locations and descriptions of mines.

The index is complete, showing the name of each mine and ore referred to and the range to which it belongs.

An Old-Fashioned Romance.

SILVER SAND. By S. R. Crockett. New York: Fleming H. Revell company. $1.25 net.

Here is a sound and sweet old-fashioned romance to which it is a relief to turn from the turgid flood of sex and problem novels.

It is a tale of gypsies and outlawry, of religious persecution and the cruelty of oppressors, in the days when Stuarts were kings of England and before Catholic James declared the Toleration that followed the cruel reign of Episcopal Charles.

John Fan, gypsy born and gently bred, is the hero. Lithe, young, handsome and of marvelous strength and agility, this eldest of the blood of Egypt and therefore king of the gypsies, makes an ideal hero. He entered the service of the hereditary sheriff of Galloway, gentle and merry and kind Sir Andrew Agnew, under the name of Silver Sand, which he must needs adopt because he was proscribed by the oppressors. But presently Sir Andrew himself, hunted and haunted by Graham of Claverhouse, was himself proscribed because he would not let his king choose his religion for him.

Juliana Stanley, brown Romany beauty, exercised her Romany right and choose Silver Sand to be her husband. He, though heart-free, accepted this pleasant doom, though Juliana left him free to marry among the outlanders when his heart was stirred. Graham of Claverhouse, upstart agent of the king, falsely charged Sir Andrew with the murder of two of his soldiers, whose lives had been taken by Red Killer, a gypsy, for reasons which Silver Sand approved. So Claverhouse took Sir Andrew's powers away, and beleaguered his house, while Sir Andrew flew to Ireland for safety. Silver Sand went to the rescue, and Juliana followed him in man's attire.

But on this errand Silver Sand met Mistress Lilias, Sir Andrew's beautiful niece, and fell a prey to her beauty and winsomeness and her quick-silver gayety.

Here was a pretty pickle for a fine young man—married "over the tongs" to a loyal gypsy beauty who served him well and loved him deeply, and in love with a fair daughter of the outlanders! As if it were not bad enough, he must bring Juliana, in her male attire, to meet Lilias. Thus the "eternal triangle" which is the three dimensions of all romance.

What with this and with maraudings and pursuits and captures, with killings and marvelous escapes, the story makes a fine old-fashioned romance which it is a delight to read. Crockett, at his last, was at his best.

A Very Pretty Story.

THE TWENTY-FOURTH OF JUNE: MIDSUMMER DAY. By Grace S. Richmond, author of "Red Pepper Burns," etc. Garden City, N. Y.: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.25 net.

And here is a wholesome and satisfying tale of great charm; one that you can read with complete enjoyment, and have a good time the while with the comfortable throat-convulsons you feel when your emotions are pleasantly stirred and with the warming chuckles that follow closely.

The tale deals with the development of "Rich" Kendrick, a young man who up to the time the story opens has given his energy and time mainly to spending money. His being is stirred when for the first time he enters a real home in which, besides an extraordinarily beautiful picture of the American home at its best, he finds a girl—Roberta Gray.

The Grays are very pleasant people to know, as the reader finds no less than Kendrick did; and Miss Richmond

GRACE S. RICHMOND,

An American Novelist of the Home, Whose New Book, "The Twenty-fourth of June," Has Just Been Published By Doubleday, Page & Co.

makes them very real and very lovable. They, especially Roberta, change young Kendrick's ideas of life. Roberta, manifestly, has no patience with idlers, especially rich idlers. Richard, having determined that she shall like him, ceases to be idle; hence the story. Moreover, it develops that his idleness and spending have been pretty decent, and that he had naturally good qualities to start with.

We feel a good deal of sympathy for this poor rich young man who has never known a home and who is so much an object of suspicion as a "cotillion-leader" and society butterfly, and who has to go such lengths to prove himself. But he is the right sort, and it all comes out as it should.

It is a mighty wholesome and agreeable romance about a mighty likeable lot of people. There is tender sentiment without sentimentality, sweetness without cloying. Everybody with right instincts will enjoy it hugely.

A Dickensy Flavor.

THE BIRD-STORE MAN. By Norman Duncan. New York: Fleming H. Revell & Co. $1 net.

Norman Duncan has made here a quaint and charming story, and has created a quaint and charming character with a decidedly Dickensy flavor in Timothy Twitter, the bird-store man. The story is about what happened to Twitter, the bird-like bird dealer, to a wonderful dog Alexander, and to the little girl who owned him and her aged grandfather, and it is all told with a whimsical tenderness and charm.

Fakes Exposed.

1001 TESTS OF FOODS, BEVERAGES AND TOILET ACCESSORIES. By Harvey W. Wiley, M. D. New York: Hearst's International Library company. $1.25 net.

The title, if it conveys the idea to you that the book offers recipes for making tests of the commodities you buy, is misleading. What it contains is the results of official tests of innumerable foods, beverages and toilet accessories, showing what claims are unfounded, which goods are misbranded and adulterated, and which are good. The utmost frankness is used in exposing the falsity of advertised claims, but there is a liberal use of the star which distinguishes honest products.

The book should be a valuable household accessory.

A Tale of the Lumber Woods.

JESS OF THE RIVER. By Theodore Goodridge Roberts, author of "The Wasp," etc. Illustrated. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.25 net.

Mr. Roberts has pictured—and pictured well—the dense woods of Canada as a background for the romance of which he writes. His description of the wild and rugged scenery of that part of the dominion—the lumber woods—in which the plot, if plot there be, is laid is excellent, and of such a realistic nature that it makes one who likes the outdoor life feel at home with the book: and also with the characters portrayed. That is the best of the work. The story of the love of Jess for a sturdy young lumberman, is not much above the commonplace—if any at all; but then, love stories never grow old, nor do the invariable obstacles to the culmination ever fail to hold interest. As modern romances go, Jess of the River is worth reading.

A Novel of Sensation.

INSPIRATION. By Carol Gordon. Illustrated. New York: G. W. Dillingham company. $1.25 net.

The author has written what is claimed to be "a story of today." Just why "today" more than any other period is not made clear, for it is a story of the eternal triangle. The heroine is given at first a rather sordid role, for it is frankly admitted that she married for money. Her husband's infidelity not unexpectedly follows, and is rather enlarged upon. His death, while out rowing with "the other woman," cuts the story in two, after which Olga, which is the heroine's name, visits Paris, meets with a sort of soulmate in the person of an artist, to whom she becomes the inspiration of his great salon picture. Ultimately, of course, everything is properly adjusted and the two wed.

The book is entertaining, that is admitted; but just why it is said to be written with "a deep conviction of purpose" is not so patent; for there is nothing new in it and it points no more of a moral than any other problem novel, even though it is well written.

Stories for Girls.

THE LITTLE AUNT. By Marion Ames Taggart, author of "Six Girls and Betty." "The Doctor's Little Girl," etc. Chicago: M. A. Donahue & Co. $1.

To the very interesting Brett family came news of the impending visit of an aunt—or half-aunt, she being Father Brett's half sister. The children groaned at the prospect of meeting a grim spinster aunt, and were amazed when they found her a merry, winsome little miss near their own ages. They had merry times together, and Miss Taggart makes a merry tale of it all.

GIRLS OF MOUNT MORRIS. By Amanda M. Douglas. Chicago: M. A. Donahue & Co. 75c.

Mount Morris is a girls' school, where Lilian Boyd and her mother went to work, just as poverty was about to engulf them and force Lilian to abandon her cherished school plans. There, with the girls of Mount Morris, Lilian had some exciting experiences, and the telling of them makes an attractive story for girls.

Among the Magazines.

Scribner's Magazine for September publishes the first reproductions in color of many of the notable mural paintings which fit into "The Color Scheme at the Panama-Pacific Exposition." Jesse Lynch Williams describes how the chief of color and decoration, Jules Guerin, has devoted two years to elaborating this wonderful and original color scheme. After one hundred years of peace between England and America, a remarkable document has been revealed for the first time. It is the "Diary of James Gallatin in Europe." James was the son of Albert Gallatin and as a mere boy acted as his father's secretary and jotted down from day to day, with all the enthusiasm of youth, his observations on the events leading up to the Treaty of Ghent. Col. Roosevelt narrates his journey "With a Mule-Train Across Nhambiquara Land" in the Brazilian wilderness. The Nhambiquara are a strange wild tribe, absolutely naked, friendly and kindly. The colonel says that "Nowhere in Africa did we come across wilder or more absolutely primitive savages." The illustrations show their bee-hive huts, their primitive archery, the Juruena river, the gigantic ant-hills taller than a man's head—and the colonel vividly describes all these things.

The Atlantic for September strikes the social note in its opening essay, "Philanthropy With Strings," in which Prof. Edward Alsworth Ross sets forth with succinct frankness the disadvantages to social settlements, Christian associations and other social and religious philanthropies, of the donations from the influential rich. Illustrations of the hampering and deteriorating effects of this sort of benevolent subsidizing are presented with relentless candor. The second paper, "Syndicalism and the General Strike in Italy," by George B. McClellan, formerly mayor of New York, is a valuable presentation of the political situation in Italy. The causes of the general strike in June, in the present year, and its menacing results are given with refreshing clearness, and the various strands of the confusing political and industrial tangle are characterized and labeled for the enlightenment of the American reader. The author is to be congratulated upon his lucid treatment of a cloudy theme. "The Decadence of Human Heredity," by S. J. Holmes, and "Eugenics and Common Sense," by H. Fielding-Hall, are two interesting papers discussing the same subject from two entirely different points of view.

The September issue of Outing is the big annual fall-shooting number beautifully illustrated. It is edited for the sportsman whether he goes after shore birds, quail, or the elusive musk-ox. The complete game laws of the United States and Canada for 1914 are also given in this issue. Did you ever hear of a .410 "caliber" shotgun? There is one on the market now and it's brand new. "Small Boring With the Smallest Bore" tells the story of this dandy little firearm.

There is great variety in the September Century, great variety and great bounty. There are no less than nine short stories, the scenes of which are laid in places as far apart as ancient Paris and modern Mexico. Hilaire Belloc starts a series of six flashlight scenes from the French revolution, upon which he is an authority. Arnold Bennett and Albert Bigelow Paine continue their travel series, "From the Log of the Velsa" and "The Car That Went Abroad." William Winter gives the history of the various representations of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" and Prof. Edward Alsworth Ross writes on "The Hebrews of Eastern Europe in America." Arthur Christopher Benson and Robert Haven Schauffler furnish essays upon new artists, literature and life in general. Judith Cladel gives us more of Rodin's Note-Book, with pictures from his sculpture, and James Oppenheim strikes a new note in American poetry with his "Songs for the New Age." The authors represented with short stories are Maria Christina Mena, Eden Phillpotts, G. L. Teeple, Margaret Dodge, Ian Hay, Donn Byrne, George Bronson-Howard, George Weston and Sarah Comstock. There are also such poets as Louis Untermeyer, Grace Hazard Conkling, Arthur Davison Ficke and Margaret Cobb—the last-named being a California mountain woman, discovered by Jack London.

The September St. Nicholas is very much of a vacation number with an account of the fun of "Aquaplane Riding," as they try it on Lake George, by Dr. E. J. Morris; Billy Evans' discussion of "The Heroes of the World's Series and the 'Goats,'" more chapters of Grace Tabor's "Garden Making" and of "The Housekeeping Adventures of the Junior Blairs," and several stories of summer good times and adventures. Hildegarde Hawthorne's department of Books and Reading deals this month with "The Great Imagiher," Robert Louis Stevenson, and J. L. Harbour's "The Story of the Star-Spangled Banner" gives a patriotic flavor to the number.

• • •

Jullus Muller has a great future before him as a writer. You'll believe this when you read his complete novel published in the September Lippincott's, "Their Princess of Stars." The story bristles with originality and sternly refuses to permit the most blase reader's attention to wander. It opens with a battle between financial giants of Wall street, then the scene shifts to war-ridden Mexico. Through it all runs the tenderest, sweetest love story you ever read. There are many short stories, including a funny one about baseball, called "The Breaking-in of Fatty," by Grant Trask Reeves. 'Hidden Waters," which is almost long enough to be classed as a novelette, is an admirable story of a man's hopeless love. The characters are drawn with an insight almost uncanny. The author is Katharine Metcalf Roof.

In the September American Magazine Jerome D. Travers, four times amateur golf champion of the United States, writes the second article in his series of four articles on golf. The present article is entitled "The Winning Shot," and it shows that the putter is far and away the most important golf stick, and he tells how to use it. These articles by Travers are just as interesting to non-golf players as to players because they are filled with dramatic stories of exciting games participated in by great players. As a matter of interest, there are in the United States today about 800,000 golf players. In the same issue Edna Ferber writes another Emma McChesney story entitled "The Self-Starter," in which Emma McChesney's son, Jock, starts out in the advertising business on a large scale.

Joseph C. Lincoln, whose stories are now appearing in the Popular magazine, tells in his latest yarn, "The Reincarnation of Brother William," of the conundrum which the Cape Cod folks had to solve: "When is a hog not a hog?" It is one of the funniest stories Joe Lincoln has written.

The September Woman's Home Companion is a "Fashion Forecast Number." Grace Margaret Gould, the fashion editor, with the assistance of her staff of writers and artists, presents the fashion news in a practical way so that readers can follow up her suggestions and make definite use of them. In a general way her policy is to show women how they can make use of the latest fashions without extravagance. An interesting feature of this month's fashion department is a colored plate of an afternoon gown designed by Madame Paquin for the conservative American woman. The gown is reproduced from Madame Paquin's design by Henry Hutt and is done in full color. Another strong feature of the September issue is the first of a series of articles reporting a minister's experiences with women. The first article is entitled "The Woman Who Came in the Night." It is an account of a woman who went to her pastor when she was in serious trouble, and the story reveals the immense responsibility and opportunities of ministers for service in their communities.

• • •

"The Whole Truth," opening novelette in September Young's Magazine, by Inez Thompson, is an absorbing revelation of a woman's thoughts. A young matron who loves her husband but is of an adventurous turn of mind, enters into an "affair" with a fascinating and somewhat unscrupulous bachelor. Sparring, evading, conniving, they progress to the point where the husband, who genuinely cares for his wife, has begun to seek solace in diversion. From this point the story becomes involved in an element of mystery which should be left for the author's unfolding. The novelette is vital as are most documents written in the first person. Louise Winter, whose finished style is a joy to her countless readers, contributes a realistic story, "The Price at Thirty." It portrays the fate of a woman who has fallen under the wheel of commerce and been ground into ill health. Flickering hope urges her pathetic struggle toward recovery but—the end of the story is tragically absorbing.

• • •

It must have been a prophetic inspiration that led Ainslee's to print "Winged Victory" by I. A. R. Wylie, as the complete novelette in its September number. Just as the warring nations of Europe so absorb public interest, this story appears, thrilling with adventure, its plot and counter-plot largely concerned with the armies of England and Germany. The hero and the villain are officers in the English army. The invention of an aeroplane that is to be of great value in military maneuvers is the leading motif of the story. Germany is determined to obtain possession of it, while the inventor is equally determined that it shall only be used by his own country. A powerful love interest is woven through it all.

In Woman's World for September the story of our national hymn is told by Gustave Kobbe—a most interesting account of the circumstances under which Francis Scott Key composed "The Star Spangled Banner," especially since the nation is to commemorate its writing in a centennial celebration in Baltimore, Maryland, during the week of Sept. 6 to 14. The fiction will prove unusually attractive to readers.

• • •

The September Strand is a special fiction number and contains a great many short stories by such well-known writers as Richard Marsh, Austin Phillips, E. Temple Thurston, Capt. F. E. Verney, Harry Harper, etc. "How They 'Broke Into Print,'" is continued, the article this month dealing with Elinor Glyn, Basil King, Owen Johnson, George Barr McCutcheon, Gertrude Atherton, Carolyn Wells, Meredith Nicholson and Gene Stratton Porter. Miss Lillah McCarthy contributes her "Reminiscences," which are amusing, and a number of well-known caricaturists have selected their "Best Caricatures."

• • •

In the September Wide World Magazine, Thomas S. Wilby describes his remarkable motor car trip across Canada. Some time ago, Mr. Wilby made a pioneer trip round the United States in an automobile, but the present tour is by far the more exciting. He met with all sorts of adventures, and the utmost interest was taken in his ambitious venture by the people living along the route. The article is excellently illustrated with Mr. Wilby's own photographs. Another highly interesting and instructive article is by Felix J. Koch and deals with the means adopted to protect "poaching" in Yellowstone park.

• • •

A record-breaking number of illustrations serve to make the September number of Popular Mechanics Magazine one of the most interesting that has ever been issued. It contains 404 pictures, depicting the advance of science and mechanics during the past month, and 311 terse articles, every one "written so you can understand it." Among the pictures there are a large number of page views and groups of views. Two of these groups show eleven watercycles of various types which competed in the first annual watercycle race meet at Paris recently. An article on the travels of a letter through the world's finest postoffice declares that the Chicago postoffice is more completely equipped with mechanical devices for the rapid handling of the mails than any other institution of its kind in the world.

Are we, the American people, prepared to profit by this European war? asks Harrington Emerson in the leading article of The Engineering Magazine for September. Have we a policy? Are we to let the opportpnity pass? Thanks to our currency bill, we have almost unlimited ability to expand financially and to finance our American neighbors. The Panama canal opens a door to the west coast of South America. The merchant marine of the world is flocking to our flag. Are we wise enough to secure, hold, and expand it? Great times of peaceful expansion and growth are, in this great catastrophe, ours for the taking. Never was there such an opportunity for any nation before.

The boy who wants to make money and the boy who is interested in business—and that includes almost all modern boys—will find in "The Money Finders," a serial beginning in the current issue of The American Boy, a story to his taste. This excellent tale is by Gardner Hunting, and deals with the adventures of three boys in the small manufacturing business. "The Last Invasion," by Donal Hamilton Haines, now appearing serially with its vivid portrayal of battles in the air and all the wonders of modern warfare is of particularly timely interest.

• • •

The first installment of a three-part story of the stage, by Booth Tarkington, is the fiction feature of the September Metropolitan. It is called "Harlequin and Columbine," and Earl Derr Biggers' serial, 'Gem of the Dust," is continued, and there are short stories by such well-known writers as Joseph Conrad, Coningsby Dawson, Charles Marriott and Inez Haynes Gilmore. "A Key to the Labor Movement" is a terse and forceful article by Walter Lippmann. Francis Ouimet, the golf champion, contributes "My Impressions of British Golf," and Charles Belmont Davis writes entertainingly on "The Passing of the Gaiety Girl." John Reed is represented by a humorous Mexican sketch, "El Cosmopolitan," and "Czaranza—An Impression." A story of unusual human interest is "The Criminal Shop," by Mary Rider.

The September John Martin's Book is out in red and black and many colors, and we may paradoxically say it is sure to be read all over. It is gay with jolly tales and legends, scores of pages to paint, busy with things to do, and bubbling with nonsense. John Martin is fast slipping into the heart of the home through his Book, and he is not all an idealist, as is sometimes suspected. This is proved by the unique and subtle advertising pages of the magazine. These pages are almost as amusing and altogether as well illustrated as the literary body of the magazine. John Martin's Book is full of what the children need, what we all need—fun, friendship, health and happiness. There is wisdom, too, discreetly given. John Martin's Book is a magazine for children from 4 to 10 years of age, $3 a year.

ON THE IRON RANGES

DULUTHIANS DOING FAIR

Reach Hibbing on Special and Are Escorted to Grounds.

Stops at Various Towns Along Line, Picking Up People.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—This is Duluth day at the St. Louis county fair, and the visitors from the Zenith City are much in evidence. The weather is not as favorable as hoped for, being cloudy when the visitors arrived, but it is expected a pleasant afternoon will be realized.

The special pulled in about 1 p. m., the Third Regiment band with the party immediately getting busy and furnishing some fine music. After parading the town, the visitors were escorted to the fair grounds. There are about 140 in the party.

Every visitor was decked out in the special paraphernalia prepared by the energetic Commercial club of Duluth. Every county official and the majority of the clerks from the courthouse were in attendance, and the home-coming feature of the fair was splendidly exemplified.

Plenty of amusement has been provided for today. With the ball game, which started at 1 o'clock heading the afternoon features, the guests were then treated to a rare program of races and the splendid flights of Aviator Thompson at the grounds.

Green Benicia had an easy time capturing the 2:22 trot or pace, the best heat being reeled off in 2:24½. Jim Henderson was second and Grace Red third. In the half-mile running race Georgia Shamb was first, Sundante second and Mackney third. The best time was 53½ seconds.

Airman's Stunts.

Nearly a mile up in the air De Lloyd Thompson, a former San Francisco boy, looped the loop yesterday afternoon, did the spiral dip and rocked the boat. He made three double loops and cut a figure S. He is the first of the several aviators who have been engaged by the fair board, that has made a flight from a local grounds which, although rough, did not in the least deter this aerial dare devil in his play against death.

Rising with a start of less than 300 feet Thompson made an abrupt ascent, rising to a higher elevation much as a hawk does. Attaining an altitude of 3,000 feet after circling over the village, he shut off the engine. People stiffened in their seats and were all nerves in anticipation of a terrible accident, but nothing was amiss. Thompson was only preparing for his invitation to greedy death. His machine was dropping fast and the descent gave one the impression that the driver had lost control.

Virginia, Minn., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Duluth special pulled in here at 11 a. m. today. There were 135 in the party all togged in white hats. The belief is held by many that when the complaining parties are shown the actual figures of the proposed levy the objections will be withdrawn. JURY RETURNS TRUE BILLS

But Six Indictments Made Public; Arrests Awaited.

About One-Third of Cases Under Investigation Are Disposed of.

The September grand jury reported sixteen true bills in Judge Cant's division of the district court yesterday afternoon. But six of the indictments were made public as arrests in the other cases have not yet been made. Judge Cant dismissed the jury until next Tuesday, Monday being Labor day. About one-third of the cases under investigation are now disposed of.

The six indictments made public follow: Vule John Babich, grand larceny in the first degree; Fred J. Goodrow, assault in the second degree; Otto Mattson, burglary in the third degree; Rudolph Dahl, alias Richard Dahl, receiving stolen property; Peter Lind, Charles La Motte and Albert Johnson, burglary in the third degree, and Mike Tomeg, assault in the third degree.

Babich is indicted on a charge of appropriating $2,700, which he collected from the Soo railroad company, while acting under power of an attorney as agent for Georgia Musevich between May 4, 1912, and May 4, 1914. Georgia Musevich, widow of George Musevich, lives in Austria.

The husband was accidentally killed in a railroad accident in Wisconsin several years ago and Babich, after securing the power of attorney, settled with the railroad company for $3,000. It is alleged that only $300 of this amount was sent to the widow.

A brother of the deceased came to Duluth last spring and after making inquiries regarding his brother's estate, took up the matter with County Attorney Greene and Babich was arrested. He is now in jail.

Fred J. Goodrow, who was indicted on a charge of second degree assault, is accused of having attacked W. E. Welch while the latter was walking with a friend on Superior street. Welch lost several of his teeth from a blow said to have been delivered by Goodrow. Welch declares he had never seen Goodrow before.

Otto Mattcon, who is accused of larceny in the third degree, is said to have broken into a Duluth, Missabe & Northern freight car May 25 with intent to commit larceny. Another indictment accuses Peter Lind, Charles La Motte and Albert Jenson of the same offense. They are accused of having broken into a Soo freight car Aug. 27 for the purpose of robbery.

Rudolph Dahl, alias Richard Dahl, is charged with having received twenty-one sacks of flour valued at $65 which had been stolen from the Omaha railroad July 28.

Mike Tomeg, who is charged with third degree assault, is under indictment for severely beating his wife July 19.

A Dainty Toilet Article.

Every lady who desires to keep up her attractive appearance while at the theater, attending receptions, when shopping, while traveling, and on all occasions, should carry in her purse a booklet of Gouraud's Oriental Beauty Leaves. This is a dainty little booklet of exquisitely perfumed powdered leaves which are easily removed and applied to the skin. It is invaluable when the face becomes moist and flushed, and is far superior to a powder puff, as it does not spill and soil the clothes. It removes dirt, soot and grease from the face, imparting a cool, delicate bloom to the complexion. Sent anywhere on receipt of 5 cents in stamps or coin. F. T. Hopkins, 37 Great Jones street, New York.—Advertisement.

LIMITS THE LIABILITY ACT

Sudden and Violent Injuries Only Come Under Law.

The workmen's compensation act is intended to cover personal injuries sustained in a sudden and violent manner, according to a decision handed down in district court yesterday by Judge Bert Fesler.

The decision was in the case of Joe Tuden against the Colvin-Robb Lumber company. He was employed as a "road monkey" last winter and he followed a sprinkling wagon which was used in making an ice road. Jan. 29 the thermometer ranged from 32 degs. above zero to 18 degs. below. From the exposure Tuden was badly frozen and the sight of one eye nearly destroyed, for which he demanded compensation under the liability law.

Judge Fesler ruled that as Tuden's injury was not of a sudden or violent nature he does not come within the terms of the compensation act. It is believed that this is the first time that this phase of the new statute has been interpreted in the courts. The case was dismissed without costs to either party.

UNCLE SAM IN NEED OF RODMEN

The United States interstate commerce commission is constantly in need of rodmen and chainmen to work in connection with that body's plan of securing the valuation of the property of common carriers. For this reason the civil service board will hold open competitive examinations constantly from now on. Other examinations are scheduled for this fall.

Word to this effect was received here yesterday and applicants will be accepted from time to time. These positions pay from $780 to $1,080 a year, together with the necessary expenses. No written examinations are required, but competitors will be rated on their physical ability and training and experience.

Persons desiring information can write to J. M. Shoemaker, secretary of the state examining board, for the particulars and the original announcements of the examinations.

Other examinations to be held here this fall follow:

Sept. 16.—District inspector, migratory bird law.

Sept. 28.—Clinical psychiatrist, $2,000; specialist in educational systems (female), $1,800; chief petroleum technologist, $4,800; agronomist, $2,000, and associate engineer-physicist, $2,000.

WIDOWS SEEK RIGHT TO ADMINISTER ESTATES

Elise M. Jacobs, 814 Minnesota avenue, yesterday petitioned the probate court for letters of administration on the estate of her late husband, James C. Jacobs, who died at his home in this city July 4 last, aged 57, leaving a widow and four children. The estate consists of a homestead worth $600 and personal property valued at $550.

Under the will of William Beyer, Rice Lake farmer who died Sept. 19, 1906, and which was never presented to the probate court until yesterday, Rose Beyer, widow, receives all property left by the decedent, both real and personal. The widow yesterday petitioned the probate court for an order determining the descent of a 70-acre farm to her in accordance with the terms of the will. Six sons and two daughters have no interest in the property.

SENATE STANDS PAT ON CLAYTON BILL

Nelson Is Named on Conference Committee for That Body.

Washington, Sept. 5.—The senate has voted to insist on its amendments to the Clayton anti-trust bill, and named on the conference committee Senators Culberson, Overman, Chilton, Clark of Wyoming and Nelson of Minnesota. Principal points of difference relate to the senate's elimination of the section relating to price discriminations.

Senator Newlands submitted the report of the conference committee on the Federal trade bill. In addition to changes affecting court procedure in reviewing findings of the proposed commission, the committee injected a provision to guard against indiscriminate complaints of unfair competition, stipulating that whenever the commission should have "reason to believe that a person, partnership or corporation has been or is using any unfair methods of competition, and if it should appear to the commission that a proceeding by it in respect thereof would be to the interest of the public," it should order an investigation.

The conference report on the trade commission bill also was submitted in the house, and Chairman Adamson of the interstate commerce committee announced he would call it up Tuesday for consideration. The report declared that the conferees found it impossible to frame definitions to embrace all unfair practices, "as there is no limit to human invention."

HUMANE SOCIETY WILL HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

CARDINAL REFUSES TO RETRACT CHARGE.

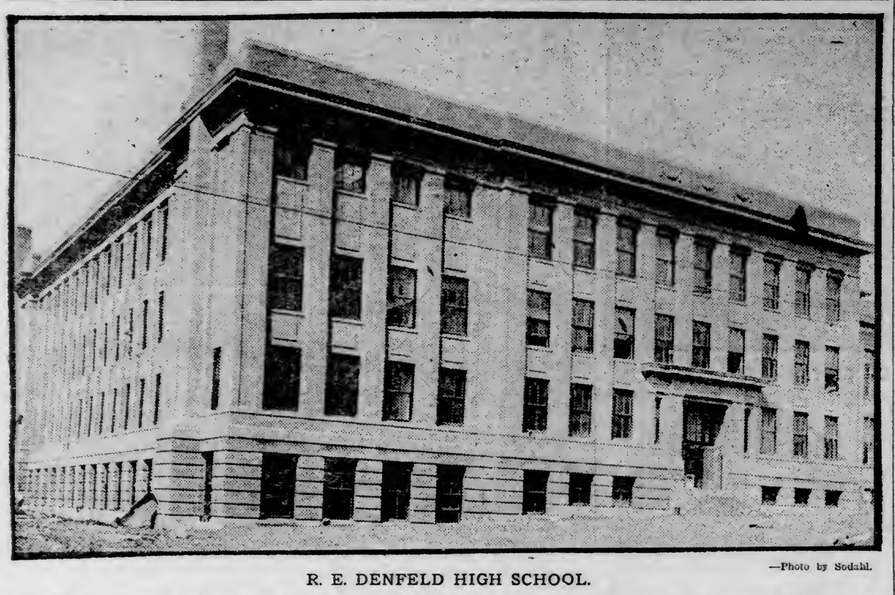

Paris, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Petit Parisien from Rome says that the Austrian ambassador there asked Cardinal Mercier, archbishop of Malines, who was in Rome attending the conclave, to retract a declaration the cardinal had made concerning the destruction of Louvain by the Germans. The cardinal refused, and the ambassador declared that the former need not count upon safe conduct for his return trip to Malines. Cardinal Mercier started for France yesterday in company with Cardinal Amette, archbishop of Paris.

NEW INDUSTRIAL HIGH SCHOOL WILL OPEN TUESDAY---EXPECT 300 TO 400 PUPILS

R. E. DENFELD HIGH SCHOOL.

The R. E. Denfeld Industrial high school, one of the most modern buildings of its kind in the country will open Tuesday. It is expected that between 300 and 400 students will enroll in the institution during the opening week.

The building has been completed with the exception of leveling the grounds surrounding the building, and the installation of some of the machines for the manual training department.

The construction of the building was begun last fall. It has cost the city about $200,000. It occupies practically all of the property between the Ely school and the West Duluth public library on Central avenue and between Central avenue and Fifty-sixth avenue.

In addition to the gymnasium and thirty class rooms the building has an assembly hall and auditorium seating 1,200 people. The rooms include the wood working and manual training rooms, domestic science rooms, special class rooms, and laboratory rooms.

Plans will be made for an entertainment which will be also in the form of a reception to be held at the school for the parents during the latter part of the month. These plans will be taken up and carried out by the students after the opening of the school.

Mr. Foster intends to have the government of the school again turned over to the pupils. The success of this during the last two years at the Duluth Industrial high school while located at the Irving school building has warranted it being tried out in the new building, said Mr. Foster. He says that the pupils are adepts at governing themselves and believes that such methods will not only bring about good discipline but also strengthen the character of the pupils.

OPPOSED TO NEW PLANT

West Duluth Club Members Do Not Favor Merritt Plan.

West Duluth citizens are opposed to the building of an electric lighting plant, according to expressions given last night at the West Duluth Commercial club. The members said that the proper course for the city, if it wanted a municipally owned plant, was to get it by condemnation proceedings, which it had the right to do under the charter, and not to try the experiment of running the present company out of business by means of competition.

Among those who strongly opposed the building of a new plant were David Sang, Thomas Olafson, H. H. Phelps, P. H. Martin, Emil Zauft, Frank Carlson, W. E. Kern and others. Some of the speakers said in no uncertain language that they did not have confidence in the commission to carry a deal that would entail the building of a new plant to successful issue.

The speakers also averred that the financial condition of the city was not such as to warrant the building of a new plant, and practically all were of the opinion that taxpayers generally would oppose the issuance of new bonds on which they would have to pay interest.

Following the discussion it was decided by the members to leave the question open until next Friday evening, when a meeting open to the public will be held at which it is proposed to ask Commissioner Merritt to speak and give his side of the question. All citizens of West Duluth interested in the matter will be requested to attend this meeting and give their views on that night. It is probable that the club will then go on record one way or the other on the subject.

HORSE KILLED ON CROSSING

A horse was killed by the incoming passenger train and its driver had a narrow escape from a similar fate at the crossing of the Thomson road over the Canadian Northern railroad at 8:45 o'clock this morning. The horse was dragged for fifty feet and practically cut to pieces.

Knute Peterson, 130 North Sixty-first avenue west, was driving a team belonging to Emil Elmquist down the hill with a load of rock. He did not see the approaching train until almost on the track and then he was only able to turn the team to the left along the track and jump out of the wagon himself before the engine struck. The horse on the right hand side was torn from the wagon and carried with the engine while the other animal was unharmed. The wagon was also badly smashed.

At this crossing a bank shields the view of the road from the west from people traveling along the highway. The hill is quite steep at this point making it dangerous on its approach. The city and county have, it is said, requested that a viaduct over the tracks be built by the railroad company but up to this time no action has been taken.

WAR PLAYS HAVOC WITH LAKE PASSENGER TRADE

Harry H. Hurdon, Duluth agent for the Northern Navigation company, announces that the statement regarding the withdrawal of the steamers of that company from the lake trade, as given out this morning, was erroneous and he cannot imagine where it originated. Instead of the Noronic, the flagship of the fleet, making her last trip to Duluth last Tuesday, she will come on one more trip, reaching here next Tuesday. The Hamonic, which is in port today, will bid Duluth farewell for the season when she pulls out of the harbor this evening. The Huronic made her last visit to Duluth for 1914 when she was here Thursday.

"The war conditions," explained Mr. Hurdon this morning, "have had most to do with the early closing of the schedule of our ships. Passenger business in all lines has been all shot to pieces for several weeks past, but the Canadian vessels were more vitally affected because of the war than the American vessels; but the latter have felt the pinch badly. With business reaching practically the eliminated stage, we felt that it is useless to pursue it for the balance of this season. Before the war broke out, we enjoyed a good business, and the war can be blamed chiefly for its obliteration."

SCHOOL OPENING INCREASES DANGER

With the opening of schools the September issue of the Health Bulletin, which is published monthly by the health department under the direction of Police Surgeon Murphy, again warns parents to carefully watch their children and aid in the campaign to prevent the spreading of contagious diseases.

"This month," says the Bulletin, "the city schools are again opening. We desire to impress upon parents the great importance of carefully watching their children for any evidences of sickness. Wherever children are gathered together a noticeable increase in contagious disease follows, therefore close attention to what may appear to be a trifling ailment, which may be the premonitory symptoms of a contagious disease, is imperative in order that epidemics may be prevented."

DENTAL CLINICS FOR THE SCHOOLS

Urging dental clinics in schools, a more concerted campaign against impure milk, and praising the plan of the superintendent of schools to conduct a school for defectives, the September issue of the Health Bulletin went to press this morning and 5,000 copies will be distributed next Tuesday. The edition this month is one of the most comprehensive yet published.

The reason why so many copies are being printed is that the health department plans to have an exhibition at the third annual industrial exposition during the week of Sept. 14 and copies of the Bulletin will be given away free to the public.

The summary continues as follows:

"Typhoid fever is the only one of the communicable diseases unduly prevalent. Eighteen cases were reported this month.

"As it was, only eight of the eighteen cases reported could have possibly contracted the disease within the city limits. The other ten came from points some distance from this city.

"Scarlet fever dropped from twenty-five cases to eight cases. Nine cases of diphtheria were reported. The tuberculosis register was decreased by eight deaths. Total number of births was 157, and the total number of deaths was 87, of which 19 were under 1 year of age."

EMPLOYE NEED NOT BE ON DUTY

An employer is liable for accident to his employes while the employe is on the premises through the necessity of his employment, whether he is actually engaged in working or not, according to the decision handed down in the case of Fred Cook against Alger, Smith & Co., by Judge Bert Fesler today.

Cook was hired to work on the roads. He slept in a shanty from which he had to go to the eating camp to get his meals. While passing from one to the other he fell on a sheet of ice and injured his arm and shoulder. The company denied liability because Cook was not actually working on any road at the time he was hurt. The court held that Cook was entitled to damages and ordered judgment for $53.94, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent from May 20 last.

DEATH DUE WHOLLY TO REVOLVER SHOT.

Replying to the amended answers of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company of California and the London Guaranty and Accident company, Sarah McAlpine reaffirms that John McAlpine came to his death as alleged in the complaint. She alleges that death was caused wholly by the discharge of a firearm and that neither the assured nor the plaintiff nor any bodily infirmity or weakness of the insured contributed directly or indirectly to the death. The reply was filed with the clerk of the district court this morning. Notices were also filed directing the insurance companies to produce various letters written to them by Mrs. McAlpine relative to the death of her husband and the proof of death.

GROUNDS MUST BE SPECIFIED

Council Must Make Definite Charges Against Saloon Licenses.

The city council must specify the grounds on which it proposes to revoke saloon licenses, in order that the licensee may know what charges he has to meet and prepare a defense, according to the decision of Judge Bert Fesler this morning in the St. Louis hotel case.

Aug. 24, the commission passed a resolution citing J. W. Irwin, licensee of the saloon in the St. Louis hotel, to appear the following Monday to show cause why his license should not be revoked. The allegation was that the safety division has in its possession certain facts offering conclusive proof that he had violated the conditions of his bond, which provides that he must obey the laws of the state and the ordinances of the city. The court held that this was too general, as the licensee would be obliged to prepare a defense against all ordinances and statutes.

Last week the court issued a restraining order preventing the council from taking any action on the proposed revocation on Monday. The order was returnable yesterday but was continued for hearing until this morning.

Enters Denial.
In the reply to the city's answer, filed this morning, Irwin flatly denies that the hotel or cafe is conducted in a disorderly manner or that it is the practice to sell in the bar great quantities of intoxicating liquor to be consumed in the cafe after 11 o'clock, or at any time or that the sale of food is merely incidental to the consumption of liquor in the cafe. He states that there is no entertainment except music during the service of meals and such as is customary in first class cafes. He declares that the hotel and cafe are patronized by men and women recognized as among the best people in their respective communities; that no sales of liquor have been made in the cafe with his consent or knowledge, and that before his license was issued the city made an investigation as to his good moral character and as to whether or not it was issued for a proper place. He said that he has been a resident of the city two years and of the state for thirty-two years and that his character and reputation could readily be ascertained before the license was issued.

In passing upon the case, Judge Fesler said that he would not express any opinion as to the time to be allowed, as he could have no knowledge as to whether or not the council might not grant an extension if requested.

After the judge's decision, Safety Commissioner Hicken said this noon that another resolution citing Irwin to appear to show cause why his license should not be revoked, but specifying the grounds, will be introduced at the council meeting next Tuesday afternoon.

MANY AMATEUR POETS.

Fifty Quatrains Already Submitted in The Herald Contest.

About fifty amateur poets of Duluth have written quatrains for the prizes offered by Guy Bates Post, who will open here Monday night in "Omar, the Tent Maker." The quatrains are written in the style used by Edward Fitzgerald in his translation of Omar Khayyam. Many of the verses are good and the judges will have a hard time to pick the winner. From the interest shown in the contest since it was announced in The Herald, it appears that Duluth has many students of the old Persian poet.

DULUTH NOT IMMUNE FROM BUBONIC PLAGUE.

The bubonic plague, which has caused so many deaths recently in New Orleans, is discussed at length in the September issue of the Health Bulletin, copies of which will be mailed Tuesday morning. That Duluth is not immune and that the plague can be prevented by the extermination of rats, are among the statements made in the Bulletin.

COMMON LAW WIFE SEEKS A DIVORCE.

Complaints in three divorce cases were filed with the clerk of the district court this morning. Minnie Anthen, 53, seeks separation from John Anthen, 49, on the grounds of desertion. She said that she entered his employ as housekeeper twelve years ago and that eight years ago, after he had secured a divorce from his wife, she has been his common law wife, no marriage ceremony having been performed.

Anna M. Rhodes, 20 years old, wants a divorce from Ralph V. Rhodes, 22 years old, for alleged desertion. She wants to resume her maiden name, Anna M. Wise.

Agata Rozanska desires to have the court sever her marriage bonds with Mike Rozanska. She says that he has deserted her and that she had been informed that he is a gambler and at times drinks intoxicants to excess.

Bertelle-Marvin.

L. E. Marvin of this city and Miss Emma Bertelle Barker were married Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Louise Barker at Slayton, Minn.

A yellow color scheme was carried out by bells of yellow flowers and garlands of yellow blooms, carried by the attendants, forming an aisle. The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast.

The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Marvin, and his sister, Miss Lois Marvin, of this city attended the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin will be at home after Oct. 10 at 127 Chester Park way.

"A Sanitary Conscience."

Under the title of "A Sanitary Conscience," the September issue of the Health Bulletin, published by the health department, goes into length on the creation of a new conscience, which has to do with cleanliness, health and sanitation.

The Health Bulletin has the following to say on the new conscience:

"There is springing up in this country a new conscience, a conscience which has to do not only with one's own surroundings, but with one's neighbors.

"The propaganda of the great army of public health workers is beginning to bear fruit. Not many people compared with a few years ago are content now to allow an accumulation of rubbish to remain a breeding place for flies and other disease carrying vermine. The educational campaign relating to this matter has been productive of most gratifying results in our local campaign against the fly."

SHOW PATIENTS' WORK.

The skill and industry of patients at the Nopeming tuberculosis sanitarium is shown in an exhibit now on display in the window of the George A. Gray store. The articles in the exhibit were taken from the list prepared for the Tuberculosis World's fair, held Aug. 15.

The workmanship and artistic taste shown is remarkable. Hand painting, crocheting and sewing are among the lines of work featured. The exhibit was sent to Mr. Gray and will be on display until Duluthians have had an opportunity to look it over.

SPORTSMEN ARE LEAVING

The hunting season will open Monday and Duluth sportsmen are already on their way to the fields. The state bars will be down on prairie chickens, and ducks and the first hunters are leaving today.

The duck shooting will not be good until it gets cold up north. Then the ducks will come down in flocks and the shooting will be fine.

Reports from the fields in the western part of the state, where most of the hunters go, say that the prairie chickens are more plentiful this year than for several years past.

The prairie chickens are not in covies yet and this is the best time of the year to shoot them.

Among the Duluth men who will go to western part of the state and to the Red River valley are: F. A. Patrick, H. F. Salyards, G. G. Hartley, W. A. Abbett, J. J. Wall, E. G. Beeson, J. U. Sebenius, Dr. and Mrs. Catterson, Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Jones, H. F. Williamson, A. L. Agatin, H. H. Myers, Lane McGregor, R. A. Horr, John Mann and others.

Twenty-one hunting licenses have been issued so far. Each hunter is allowed to kill fifteen game birds a day.

DR. H. M. STOEL, OSTEOPATH, OPENS OFFICES IN DULUTH

After six years' successful practice in Houghton, Mich., I have opened offices in Duluth, and will hereafter make this city my headquarters, believing that it offers much greater opportunities than the Copper country.

My offices will be at 211, 212, 213 and 214 Torrey building, where I will have a woman assistant.

I have no criticisms of the methods of followers of other pathies, nor with other osteopaths of Duluth, and hope to work in harmony with them, but I believe I have the most up-to-date methods in osteopathy and I am convinced that osteopathy is the most successful of all the pathies. It does not bury its mistakes.

Before giving me their confidence, the people of Duluth are entitled to know my credentials, and I am not ashamed of them. I am a graduate of the American School of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo., and a post-graduate of the Still College of Osteopathy at Des Moines.

I am also a post-graduate of the Post-Graduate Medical school and hospital, Chicago, and of the Chicago Polyclinic college.

Neither am I ashamed of my record in Houghton. I was fortunate in having the confidence of many of the leading men of that city, and have been their adviser for years. Here is what the Houghton Mining Gazette said of me when I left:

DR. H. M. STOEL TO DULUTH.

Popular Osteopathic Practitioner to Locate in New Field.

Dr. H. M. Stoel, for the past six years engaged in the successful practice of the profession of osteopathy in Houghton, will close his offices here today and on Monday will leave for Duluth, where he is to locate. Dr. Stoel will be succeeded in Houghton by Dr. H. M. Hurd of Duluth, who comes well recommended.

During his residence in Houghton, Dr. Stoel did much to dignify the osteopathic methods of treatment and he was so successful with his school of healing as to establish it as one of the recognized branches of the healing art. He performed some truly wonderful cures for Houghton and Houghton county people and his clientele naturally receives the news of his departure with regret. Dr. Stoel leaves Houghton county only because he is convinced that Duluth and its contiguous territory offers him a wider field.

MANY GIVEN STATE HELP

In Polk County 104 Schools Now Get Such Assistance.

Every Year More of Schools of That County Secure Aid.

Crookston, Minn., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Every year more Polk county schools avail themselves of special state aid offered by the state educational department, according to reports to County Supt. Thorson on the county rural schools. This shows 104 schools have taken advantage of this opportunity of state aid, eight semi-graded schools sending in applications, thirty class A schools, thirty-six class B schools and thirty class C schools applying for same.

The class A schools to receive state aid must be an eight-month school and must have a teacher with a first grade certificate, the class B schools must have eight months of school with a second grade teacher, while a class C school must have seven months of school with a second grade teacher.

To Receive About $12,750.

With one or two exceptions, the entire number of schools applying for state aid will receive it this year or in money amounts to $12,750.

This money coming from the state aid goes into the ordinary school channels and makes better equipped schools, better school buildings, better schoolhouses and more and better books for the pupils, and generally makes a better standard of schools. In the last five years the number of state-aided schools has increased from twenty-two to the present number of applicants. From the activities of the school boards this summer and the increase of many of the school districts, many more schools will have qualified for the special aid in another year.

These schools do not include a special aid to high schools, graded schools, association or consolidated schools and industrial departments.

NERVOUS MEN

Men That Suffer From Nervousness Restored to Normal Health and Strength.

Every normal and healthy man has a natural and abundant endowment of potential Energy, and electro-magnetic Nerve Power. Units of Nerve Energy are drawn from the blood and stored in the cellular substance of the Brain and the different Nerve Ganglia, for use in the performance of the involuntary function and voluntary actions of the Nerves.

In health these reservoirs of Vital Power are so abundant that the whole physical and mental being is filled and thrilled with the triumphant consciousness of power, of vitality. Such men possess personal magnetism, and unconsciously inspire those who come into social or business relations with them.

It's different with the man that suffers from ailments caused by weak, impoverished Nerves, the man that is "up in the air" from the least disturbance. Such men have little mastery or self-control, they "feel weak" and "run down," are "nervous" and have "lost ambition." If you suffer from frequent Headaches, loss of sleep and have spells of despondency, it probably means that your Nerves are starving for lack of energy, such as you derive from correct treatment with Organo-Therapy and Electro-Therapy. In the opinion and experience of the Progressive Medical Doctors there is nothing else that will equally restore suffering men so quickly to Health and Happiness.

We have made diseases of men our life study, and we have been eminently successful. The effect of the treatment is to cure those diseases and to restore men to the full enjoyment of nature's best gifts to the normal physical and mental conditions that characterize health.

Our offices are open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., at No. 1 West Superior street. All consultations are free.

MARKET HAS SHARP DROP

Wheat Declines on Realizing and Hedging Sales By Operators.

Flaxseed Drops on Lack of Crushers' Support—Trading Light.

Duluth Board of Trade, Sept. 5.—The wheat market was weak from the opening today as a result of realizing by operators, who had good profits showing after the sharp advances of the two previous days. There was also considerable closing out of trade by dealers who did not consider it prudent to leave them open over the two days' holiday. Heavy hedging sales on purchases of new wheat were besides a factor. Declines of 3⅜@3⅝c were recorded at the close.

September wheat opened ⅝c off at $1.23 and, closed 2⅜c off at $1.20¼. December opened ⅛c off at $1.24½, and closed 3⅜c off at $1.21 bid. September durum closed 1½c off at $1.12¾. October opened ¼c off at $1.16, and closed 2¾c off at $1.13½ bid. November opened 1¼c off at $1.16, and closed 2¾c off at $1.14½ nominal. December opened unchanged at $1.17½ and closed 4¼c off at $1.13¼ bid.

Oats continued strong on heavy export demand and the reported working of considerable business. They closed ¼c up at 50⅝c for on the track, or at 50¾c for to arrive.

A feature in the day's trading was the big inquiry for rye from millers, the grain being required to fill export orders for rye flour. The market in it bulged 5c to a close of 94@95c for on the track. Barley closed 1c up at from 63 to 74c.

At Winnipeg, October oats closed ⅛c up at 54½c bid, and December ⅜c off at 53½c.

The extent of the new export business is to be judged by Chicago advices to the effect that 1,000,000 bu of wheat had been sold for export in two days, and vessel space had been chartered for the shipment of 300,000 bu to Bufalo at a rate of ⅞c. Considerable grain is expected to be shipped from Duluth elevators for the East next week. The rate to Buffalo is now 1½c.

Marketings in the Southwest were heavy yesterday and today with 1,100,000 bushels reported to have been bought by millers in the two days. A weakening factor in the day's market situation was the intimation from Turkey that it has not broken its neutrality, and that the Dardanelles are still open to merchant vessels. That is said to have caused some reselling of wheat by foreigners today.

Heavy Break in Flax.

Flax seed took on another weak turn with declines of 6c showing in the day on all options. That was attributable to an entire lack of interest on the part of crushers and some offerings. The volume of business put through was light, and it came in small lots. New flax has not begun to move yet, and old stock at interior points are reported to be cleaned up. There were no receipts of the seed at either Duluth or Winnipeg today.

September flax closed 6c off at $1.46½ bid; October opened ¼c off at $1.64¼, and closed 6c off at $1.58½ bid; November opened 5c off at $1.61 and closed 6c off at $1.60; and December opened 3½c off at $1.63½, and closed 6c off at $1.61 nominal.

At Winnipeg, October flax closed 4½c off at $1.37½. November closed at $1.38 bid, and December at $1.40 bid.

Foreign closing cables: Liverpool—Wheat, unchanged to 1d higher; corn, unchanged. Paris—Wheat, 1¼c up.

A New York wire said: "Some of the leading members of the Chicago board of trade, it is understood, have intimated to exporters the desirability of doing less export business for a while, so that the market could quiet down. Exporters here are disposed to view this intimation with disfavor, claiming the export business was vastly overrated. They also pointed to the fact that the Canadian exportable and American exportable surplus was about 375,000,000 bu. Last year the world's imports were 665,000,000 bu, of which 116,000,000 bu were for German and Austrian account, leaving net imports of 549,000,000 bu, so that the American supply is two-thirds of the entire imports last year of all the countries which cannot be supplied."

* * *

Flour stocks at the principal distributing centers east of the Rockies on Sept. 1 were 548,000 bbl against 526,000 bbl, the previous month and 512,000 bbl last year.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Wheat opened yesterday with good buying. Prices were advanced ½d, influenced by the strong advance in spot and persistent strength in cargo offers and the strong cables from America. There is general heavy demand, and Indian cargoes are now advancing rapidly. Arrivals are being absorbed, and this is leading to fresh buying. Corn was inclined lower and quoted at ½d decline. The spot market was unchanged and Plate offers were larger, with longer shipments this week from Argentine. Spot wheat was strong, 1@5d higher, with the principal advance in new Manitoba. Corn was quiet and unchanged. There are no wheat cargoes arriving off coast and none awaiting orders. Wheat cargoes are strongly held at 6@9d advance."

At Minneapolis the cash market was quoted easier. One big milling company was out of the market on account of being blocked at mill. One northern blue sold at from 5@7c over September; velvet chaff at 1@2c over. New flour business since last yesterday was moderate. The big mills are busily grinding on export business.

* * *

Argentine—Wheat shipments were 274,000 bu against none last week and 296,000 bu last year. Oats, none, against 860,000 bu last year. Corn, 1,140,000 bu, of which 65,000 bu was to America, against 578,000 bu last week, and 728,000 bu last year.

* * *

India—Wheat shipments this week were 256,000 bu, all to the United Kingdom. Estimates next week are 260,000 bu. Australia—Wheat shipments were 56,000 bu to the United Kingdom.

* * *

In Great Britain, weather is fine. New wheat is moving freely and being quickly absorbed. English country markets are strong. Arrivals of foreign wheat is being ground rapidly and the demand for finished products is large, according to Broomhall.

MUCKIE AND HIS FOLLOWING USE KNIFE AND ROPE IN BUTTE

Mines Closed Owing to Quarreling Between the Rival Unions.

Three Men Deported By the Muckies But Brought Back.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Butte's a beautiful town to live in. In some respects it is preferable to Liege. Until the militia came a few days ago there was but one authority in Butte, and in order to live in Butte it was necessary to have permission only from Muckie McDonald and the horde that comprises his irresponsible following in the Butte Mine Workers' union. That half the mines were closed because of the European war and the absence of a copper market, was not sufficient for Muckie, nor for the handful of "faithful" followers of Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners. They had to resurrect the knife, the rope and the bludgeon, and close a few more mines while they were quarreling over the question whether all the mine workers should swear allegiance to King Muckie. The new union decided to put up to the mining companies the demand that all miners be members of the new union, and action on the demand was precipitated by the small number of remaining followers of President Moyer and the Western Federation of Miners remaining in Butte. They met and resolved that if any one of the thousands of idle miners in Butte left the district without a card from the Western Federation of Miners local they were "scabs" and should be so treated and regarded in all other federation camps. That meant that they would be blacklisted elsewhere and would forever be marked men in other organized mining districts.

New Union Got Busy.

Naturally, that started things again, and the union got busy. The first mine visited was the Anaconda, and 200 miners who had advance notice of the coming of the mob remained away. Thirty-four who did not wear the badge of the new union had the temerity to show up at the mine and were captured by the Muckie committee of 150 and marched through the city to a vacant lot, where they were tried on a charge of being unfriendly to the new union. All were found guilty, every member in the mob taking part in the trial, in the accusations, in the denunciation of the accused, and in the shouts of "guilty"! But the convicts, all but three, were given an opportunity to join the new union, an opportunity all availed themselves of.

Three Are Deported.

Three, however, were not permitted to unite with the Muckies because they were not able to disprove an accusation that they were friends of Moyer or that they were still friendly to the old union, although they denied it, and the mob deported them—escorted them several miles out of town and told them to keep going or they would be lynched. After the mob had dispersed, the sheriff followed the three men and brought them back to Butte but had to lock them up in jail to save them from violence.

When the Mine Workers marched to the Anaconda mine and started to run things they were warned by one of the mine officers that if they attempted to create trouble they would get what was coming to them. This act of independence was reported and later another committee went up the Anaconda hill. They had a rope. The mine officer had disappeared and he remained out of town for days after. The committee discovered that some one had torn down one of their placards on a mine hoist and they made a long but unsuccessful search for the offender, threatening to tear him to pieces.

Men Bought Guns.

In the union and on the street corners, unmolested, members of the new union urged their hearers to arm themselves and raid the food warehouses, hotels and cafes. It was practically decided to do that, in one of the union meetings, and men went out and bought guns. Several of them gathered at the new union headquarters and compared their purchases. One man accidentally shot and killed one of his fellows. The authorities took no action regarding the matter, but the dead man furnished reason for a great funeral and marching miners.

In a day or two after the Muckies got busy they had the whole district cowed, and everybody ate out of Muckie's hands. The usual notices, accompanied by threats of direct action, were served on the newspapers. Society folk were notified by anonymous letters to cease giving parties and dances while men were idle and hungry in Butte. Others were warned not to appear on the streets in automobiles, and they heeded the warning, discharged their chauffeurs and jacked up their machines in the garages.

Mayor Powerless.

Appeals were made to Mayor Duncan, Socialist and former direct actionist, but he told the callers that he was powerless. Appeals were made to Montana's governor, who once appealed to Muckie McDonald to help him maintain order and was curtly turned down by Muckie, but the appeal at first brought no satisfactory answer, but he finally sent the militia. There was talk of organizing a citizens' alliance or vigilance committee, but Muckie and his crowd served a general notice not to attempt it.

What Muckie Said.

"There is one thing I want to say to you people," said President Muckie in a street speech. "We understand that the sheriff's office is planning to get the leaders of this union and that they expect to pick us up one at a time. Now I want to serve notice that if there is anything of that kind doing, you want to report it to headquarters at once. We won't stand for anything of the sort, and we serve notice right now that there will be some direct action if they try anything of that kind. We understand that some of the business men are in on it, too, and I don't know whether the city hall is in it too or not, but we want it understood that the new union is running Butte. If there are any skunks in this crowd we will take care of them, too. We didn't follow the example of the old union. We took the men who were our enemies and told them to get out of town, but we didn't mistreat them, and we didn't beat them up. We treated them all right, but told them to get out of town. We understand that the sheriff's office went and brought them back, but it won't be healthy for them to show up; that's all. Now, we are going to be peaceable; no one can say that Muckie McDonald has broken any law. We will not start anything, but if they start anything they had better look out. They will get some direct action."

Caused Mine to Close.

The action of the rebel miners resulted in the closing of the Anaconda mine, one of the few Butte properties that was operated after the 50 per cent curtailment which followed the European war outbreak. The Moonlight mine of the Anaconda company was closed at the same time because of an accident to the hoisting engine, the suspension of operations at the two mines causing the laying off of about 850 additional men. Ordinarily the Butte mines employ about 9,000 to 10,000 men. Fully 6,000 have been laid off, and many of them have left town, but the city is still full of idle men who declare they will not leave, but will help themselves when necessary. On Wednesday, after the militia arrived, the Anaconda mine was reopened.

Output Greatly Reduced.

The normal output of the Butte mines is about 24,000,000 pounds of copper per month, although it did, in years past, run as high as 32,000,000 pounds. For several years the production of the Anaconda company averaged around 22,000,000 pounds, which included the output of the North Butte company, of about 2,000,000 pounds. The North Butte having been cut off entirely, and the Anaconda company having curtailed about 60 per cent, it is doubtful if the Butte mines are putting out more than 10,000,000 pounds of copper per month. This production is made at a loss to the companies, for on the reduced output the cost correspondingly is increased and it is pretty certain that the cost of copper per pound is greater than any price that could be obtained for the product at present. The Anaconda company has kept some of its mines open for no other reason than to give employment to some of the most needy miners—men with families to support. It is possible that the conduct of the warring unions may yet result in a complete suspension of operations in the Butte district.

They have not yet made their demands on the Butte & Superior company, but the statement has been made from apparently reliable sources that a large number of Butte & Superior miners will not be bulidozed by the I. W. W. dynamiters, and that the mine may be compelled to close. The Butte & Superior and the Clark Elm Orlu, the only operated zinc properties in Butte, are reaping a large profit from the war conditions, which have raised the price of spelter, and probably they comprise the only mining industry that is benefited by the war.

Butte-Duluth.

The Butte-Duluth company is still operating under an arrangement with its miners to pay half cash and half in scrip. A car of copper was shipped by the Butte-Duluth to New York a few days ago, the shipment consisting of 50,000 pounds. The local management has no knowledge of where the product of the mine is being used, but is gratified to find a market under present conditions. The company is shipping regularly from 120,000 to 125,000 pounds of copper per month, and with its new mill, in process of construction, will be in a position to greatly increase the amount as soon as market conditions warrant. The mill is at present handling 200 tons of ore per day, and when the new sections are completed, will have a capacity of 500 to 600 tons.

Other Work Stopped.

The Anaconda company has stopped development work on the Nettle mine in the western section of the Butte district, and after pumping water for several months, has allowed the workings to fill again. The action was taken on account of general discouraging conditions and the necessity for economy. The East Butte Copper Mining company has also stopped all work at its mines and smelter, and now maintains only two shifts of pumps to keep the mine clear of water. The Rainbow Development company, which has been developing a new property in the northeast section of the district, and has been unwatering and equipping for a resumption of development the Butte & London mine, has stopped all work and is allowing the workings to fill with water. It is stated, however, that the Butte & London is so well equipped now that it will be easier and cheaper to unwater the mine again than to keep a pumping plant in operation.

MINES ARE RETRENCHING

Michigan Companies Engaged in Curtailing Production and Costs.

Cutting Pay and Time Rather Than Letting Any Men Go.

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The two last weeks has been here a period of retrenchment for most of the companies. The Copper Range, which sells a great deal of its copper abroad, acted soon after the war began, but most of the others, which sell the greater portion of their metal here, could afford to and did take the time after the first scare was over to, as far as it was possible, forecast the probable effects of the struggle. Each company has worked out the problem of curtailing production and costs according to its own conditions, but all have been very much loath to let go any men, seeking to achieve the results desired rather by cutting the time and pay. Very few men have been discharged. One company, even during the past week when operating on reduced time, has sought out the men out of work and given them employment, including quite a number of those who were very hostile during the strike. The course of these companies has been very warmly approved both by the men and the public. It is hoped that there may be something of a business revival since the United States will have to supply the wants of the South American, African and Austrian trade, and that no further reactions will be necessary. Every effort is being made to provide for those who are out of employment, by the county supervisors and the Copper Country Commercial club, composed of about all the business men. The Wolverine and Mohawk hase reduced the pay of the miners to $2.50 and that of the trammers to $2.25 per day, thus approximately restoring it to the basis of May1, 1912, and the salaries and wages of all the remaining employes have been cut proportionately. There was no cut in time and the mills are still running to capacity. The Calumet & Hecla has cut the salaries 15 per cent and put the wages back to the May 1, 1912, standard, and the working time on the three-quarter basis for the entire force. New Arcadian has lowered the pay of the miners to $2.30 and that of the trammers to $2, making no change in time. Mass has reduced the pay throughout about 20 per cent with same working hours. This mine was making quite a good profit with the tonnageof nearly 1,100 tons daily up to the beginning of the war, but cannot probably do any better than break even now. Victoria has made a 25 per cent reduction in pay for the whole number employed. Quincy has cut the pay of every one 12½ per cent. It does not seem likely that there will be any nfore shut downs in the immediate future.

Franklin.

Franklin management is now convinced from the excellent average of the copper values disclosed on the thirty-second level in the drifts, in the raise, and in the drift driven from the raise seventy-five feet above the thirty-second level, that this good mineralization is of a large extent, and having discontinued its drifting is going to extend its opening on the dip or slope of the lode so as to make available a large number of levels for drifting. The length of the drifts on the thirty-second level is 685 feet, the northern being 225 feet and the southern 460 feet, and those of drift from the raise and the raise itself are each 110 feet, making a total of 895 feet. The two drills that have been extending the southern drift on the thirty-second level will be moved down to the thirty-sixth level on the Pewabic or Quincy amygdaloid, almost to the bottom of the shaft, a crosscut started to cover the 350 feet to the Allouez conglomerate, and then a raise will be driven up to the thirty-second level, thus affording four new levels and greatly improving the ventilation. The two drills now operating at the upper drift will be moved to the top of the raise, so as to extend the latter thereby providing four more levels. On these levels thus opened up a drift can be made in each direction affording gradually stopes sufficient for a large tonnage. Chutes will be hollowed out in the rock as on the amygdaloid, on the three levels above the main levels so that the rock can be dropped down and the skip filled very quickly. The two drills now driving the exploratory crosscut from the shaft have reached a point about 300 feet in. The prospect of the company paying all its debts of about $100,000 or so and then having a large fund in the treasury for this development work is most favorable as $70,000 was received Aug. 26, the day set for payment of the assessment called about Aug. 1. There are now outstanding 166,353 shares.

Keweenaw.

Keweenaw Copper has completed its diamond drilling for some time at least. Holes No. 16 and 17 have just passed through the Ashbed lode on which all of the exploratory work of this company has been done both by diamond drill and shaft for the two last years, finding fair grades of the metal, and width of about twenty-seven feet. The lode which is known as the Ashbed was formerly considered to be a separate lode, but has been determined lately to be the lower portion of a conglomerate of pebbles of amygdaloidal rock usually but not always divided by a "horse" or inclusion of trap. The conglomeratic characteristics of the upper portion are much more marked, and formerly not much if any copper was encountered in it, but lately commercial grade have appeared as in these two holes. A heavy stockholder familiar with the lodes of this district recently inspected the cores of the Phoenix subsidiary and stated that their showing surprised him by their excellent character. No. 16 hole met with the lode at the depth of about 900 and No. 17 at that of 400 feet, both being near the Garden City shaft located about seven-eighths of a mile northeast of the Phoenix shaft. The cores of the holes near this shaft warrant its reopening, when the company can afford to give it attention.

South Lake.

South Lake is pushing its crosscut from the bottom to the South Lake lodes very rapidly, fifty feet having been made last month. A distance of about 400 feet has been already covered. For the first time a change has appeared in the course of these rocks where the formations at the point of sinking the shaft have almost the reverse dip or slope to that of the four South Lake lodes. The formations encountered by the shaft had a dip of 20 degrees southward but the beds now have become steeper and their inclination is 60 degs. President R. M. Edwards who returned from Boston Aug. 28, and who intends to spend a month or so here, states that drifting will be started very soon on the so-called Evergreen lode No. 1, which, when passed through by the shaft, when tested by the diamond drill at different angles at the third level, and when crosscut at the same level from the shaft, has shown such a width and a high grade of copper, will be opened by drifting.

New Arcadian.

New Arcadian has extended the northern drift at the 250-foot level 40 feet and the southern 30 feet. The former, as when it was crosscut, met with the copper rather evenly distributed throughout its width, while the latter disclosed the metal in the mass form, but both are rich and almost equally so. It is expected that the crosscut at the 900-foot level will cut the lode any day now. The two drills that have been employed at the southern drift of the 600-foot level and at the northern drift of the 750-foot level have been moved to the 250 and 900-foot levels. It is expected that at the 900-foot level the lode will be entered a few feet further away than at the 750-foot level, as it sems to diverge, although very slightly, with depth from the shaft.

North Lake.

North Lake pushed its crosscut on the third level northwest 196 feet in August, very creditable work for Supt. Bennett and his crew, making a total of about 650 feet and leaving only about 100 feet yet to be traversed. The objective point is the so-called Evergreen lodes discovered by the sinking of the South Lake shaft. If this pace of advance is kept up, these lodes should be cut about the middle of the current month. As they are entirely without any marks of identification and nothing has been previously revealed along their strike or course, it is impossible to venture any forecast concerning them.

NEED MORE MINES IN COEUR D'ALENES

Hundred More Men Put on By Interstate Callahan Alone.

Wallace, Idaho, Sept. 5.—The most interesting and important piece of news received in the Coeur d'Alene district since the war started was contained in a short telegram last week received by the local management of the Interstate-Callahan mine from the company's head office in Duluth. The telegram simply instructed the manager of the property to put on 100 miners at once, and push the property to its capacity as fast as possible. The increased activity at the mine is due, of course, to the advance in the price of zinc, and that the company expects the present price of $5.50 to remain firm is evidenced by their order to increase the working force. The mine had just cut down its crew a few weeks ago to about fifty men, and it was expected that even further curtailment would be necessary. The war, however, directly affected the European zinc production, and officials informed of this, ordered immediate resumption of mining.

The Interstate-Callahan company will take advantage of the zinc situation as far as their plant can be enlarged to near its capacity, and with this end in view a new milling plant has been planned for construction at an early date. The location of the plant has not been made public, but it is known that several different locations have been looked over and planned on, including a site at Enaville. At this point the company would have plenty of room and plenty of water for milling purposes, and cheap transportation from the mine after the necessary arrangements for tunnels and tramways have been completed.

DRILLING ON SOUTH RANGE OF CUYUNA IS VERY ACTIVE

Lenox Company to Develop Property North of Fort Ripley.

Rumored M. A. Hanna Company Is to Enter the North Range.

Brainerd, Minn., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A section of the south range of the Cuyuna iron range which is a hive of industry is at Barrows and vicinity. The Barrows - Mississippi company is operating a drill near the town, the work being done by the Seafield Exploration company. Nels Olson and John Johnson of Superior, Wis., interested in the property, visited the drills Wednesday. The Barrows Mining company, a newly formed company, is drilling in section 16, and is on its first hole. As soon as the proper amount of exploration work is done, the company will put down a shaft under the supervision of C. B. Rowley of Brainerd. A large body of high grade ore is being developed on this property. The Brainerd Mining company, fee owners of land to the north of Barrows, have a drill engaged in exploration work. It is said they are finding a better grade of ore than expected. The Lenox Development company, of which E. W. Thomas is president, is working out plans to operate its property four and a half miles north of Fort Ripley. Drills will soon be at work. The large Eastern acquaintance of the Lenox company helps them exceedingly. At the regular monthly meeting of the directors held in Little Falls last Tuesday important matters were considered, as a result of which President Thomas will leave for the East in a few days.

Adams Working Steadily.

The Adams mine is working steadily. No shipments have yet been made, all ore being stockpiled. But little water is being pumped and all is being easily handled by the pumpage facilities provided. At the Wilcox mine of the Canadian-Cuyuna Ore company shaft sinking is in progress. The shaft has been anchored in solid rock and when the sinking has reached the required depth drifting will be done. The mine expects to ship from 5,000 to 10,000 tons this year before navigation closes.

At the Crow Wing county poor farm exploration work is being carried on by the Longyear company. P. W. Donovan, superintendent, says that assays for iron and manganese are being made. So far, says he, no manganese has been shown up. Hole No. 1 revealed forty feet of iron. Quality and quantity are improving as the drilling proceeds.

Mines at Crosby.

The Inland Steel Company Thompson mine at Crosby has two shovels in ore in the pit. The mine is also reported to have commenced underground work. The Croft mine at Crosby has a crew of forty men at work on the buildings and the concrete reinforced steel chimney which is now forty feet high and being built up at the rate of five feet a day. The Meacham mine at Crosby is silent, having never yet shipped. It was expected at one time that this property, which possesses a fine cement shaft and is ready for shipment purposes, would be extensively worked this season.

The mines of the Rogers, Brown Ore company are busy with the exception of the Armour No. 1 mine which has not been worked this season and which still has near the shaft about 10,000 tons of ore. Steam shovels are working at the Armour No. 2 mine at Crosby and the Kennedy mine at Cuyuna, adding their quota to the regular shaft shipments.

The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs and Cuyuna-Duluth mines, subsidiaries of the American Manganese Manufacturing company are working steadily. The iron being found at the Cuyuna-Duluth mine is of a particularly high grade, a late assay card giving these values: Iron, 62.58 and phosphorus, .108; iron, 63.34 and phosphorus, 071; iron, 63.11 and phosphorus, .074; iron, 63.94 and phosphorus, .084.

Menganese Assays.

So much interest has been awakened in manganese on the Cuyuna range that many Eastern people have requested assay figures on sample properties. The Cuyuna-Mille Lacs mine of the American Manganese Manufacturing company is the pioneer manganese producing mine of the range. However the Duluth-Brainerd mine is also making a good record and assays as made by the O. J. O'Connell company of Crosby are herewith given in full so that observers may see how the manganese, phosphorus, iron and silica range in samples. In laboratory No. 50,325 there was found iron 23.41, phosphorus. 137, manganese 34.40, silica 6.63; in laboratory No. 50,326 there was found iron 14.35, phosphorus .089, manganese 44.74 and silica 3.97. The main drift of the mine was sampled and showed for the first five feet iron 29.18, phosphorus .103, manganese 16.57 and silica 23.10; from five to ten feet iron 32.81, phosphorus .067, manganese 21.01 and silica 4.41; from ten to fifteen feet iron 29.32, phosphorus .167, manganese 29.20 and silica 9.97; from fifteen to twenty feet iron 37.50, phosphorus .122, manganese 17.17 and silica 6.02; from twenty to twenty-five feet iron 25.17, phosphorus .077, manganese 33.97, silica 6.82. On Aug. 15 the main drift, in laboratory sample 50,522 gave these figures in the breast of the man drift; iron 16.05, phosphorus .095, manganese 41.37 and silica 3.30; iron 25.32, phosphorus .104, manganese 32.57 and silica 8.84.

The Iron Mountain mine is reported to have a crew at work and to have commenced mining. Manganiferous ore is reported to have been found in large quantities. At the Cuyuna Iron & Manganese Ore company's property check drilling is being carried on by the Jones & Laughlin company.

Hanna Coming Back.

There is a rumor on the range that the M. A. Hanna company, at one time identified with South Range interests, is to enter the north range, manganese ore being the attraction which has brought back the company to the Cuyuna iron range. It is said the Hanna company is negotiating for manganese properties and it is expected that negotiations may soon be announced. The European war has now progressed over a month and there has not been a rush of manganese ore shipments. With the raising of large armies in England it does not look probable that heavy manganese shipments can be made from England or continental Europe.

Fred D. Vibert, president of the Crow Wing Mining company was on the range Wednesday and was accompanied by John Long, W. G. Dolan and Lewis McCullough, all of Cloquet and by J. A. McDevitt of Duluth. This company lately sold a mining property to the Pittsburg Steel Ore company at a good price.

L. L. Culbertson of Duluth, president of the Cuyuna-Sultana company, was on the range Wednesday and was accompanied by H. J. Campbell, son of J. C. Campbell, a fee owner of property being developed by the Cuyuna-Sultana. Accompanying them was also George Rosenblad of Duluth. The Seafield Exploration company is operating two drills on their property in section 3, township 46, range 29.

Drilling in Little Pine.

H. J. Kruse of Crosby has two drills at work in the Little Pine country and near by, at Emily Louis Rouchleau of Minneapolis has been operating two drills for the last year or more.

A release of mining leases has been filed, the grantor being E. M. Hinkill and the grantee to the transaction the G. W. Murphy estate. The property includes the northwest quarter, the north half of the southwest quarter, the southeast quarter of section 20, township 138, range 27; the south half of the southwest quarter of section 17, township 138, range 27; the north half of the northwest quarter, the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 21, township 138, range 27; the east half of the southeast quarter of section 32, township 138, range 27; the south half of the southwest quarter and the southeast quarter of section 33, township 138, range 27; the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter and the west half of the southwest quarter of section 27, township 138, range 27; the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 29, township 138, range 27. There has been an assignment of interests between the Moctezuma Iron company and Charles S. Slack, the property being in the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 5, township 47, range 29.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CONTRACT FOR NEW SCHOOL IS BIGGEST JOB OF WEEK

Building for Steel Plant Suburbs Will Cost Nearly $70,000.

New Hartley Office Building Will Cost $53,000—Many Homes.

The awarding of the contract for the Harriet Beecher Stowe school, designed to serve the needs of New Duluth and Gary, was the outstanding feature in the building trade this week.

At the meeting of the board of education last night, Jacobson Bros. were awarded the general contract at $52,725. This includes the septic tank and 2 per cent of the amount of all the sub-contracts as remuneration for supervising them. Including sub-contracts the total cost of the structure will be $68,668.16.

E. S. Farrell obtained the heating and plumbing contract at $9,825; Stack Bros. the plumbing contract at $2,651.35 and F. O. Peterson the electric wiring at $2,151.20. Work upon the building will be started at once, and it is expected it will be ready to open for the January school term.

The building will be of brick with brown stone trimmings, two stories in height. It will have reinforced concrete floors, and is designed to be entirely fireproof. Besides the usual class rooms, it will have domestic science and manual training departments, and a large gymnasium in the basement. Kelly & Williams were the architects.

Building Permits Amount Up.

Permits issued at the building inspector's office during the week were thirteen in number with the cost of improvements placed at $68,235.

The feature in the list was a permit issued to G. G. Hartley for $53,000 to cover the cost of his new office building now under erection on Superior street between Seventh and Eighth avenues east.

Another interesting item was the issuing of a permit to the Zinsmaster-Smith Bread company for a brick and tile storage and shipping building to adjoin their present premises at Superior street and Twenty-ninth avenue west. It is said that the expansion of the company's business since its establishment here less than two years ago has been so marked that it is being already found necessary to increase its facilities.

Building operations made a gratifying showing last month. Permits issued by the building inspector numbered 160, with the cost of the improvements involved placed at $238,023. This compares with 151 permits for improvements aggregating $156,960, issued in August, 1913.

Eliminating the permit of $1,500,000 for the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad's new ore docks, the estimated cost of buildings erected in Duluth during the first eight months of this year was $561,152 greater than during the corresponding period of 1913.

The figures of the building inspector show that up to Aug. 31 this year, 1174 permits for improvements estimated at $2,112,284 were issued. This compares with 1015 permits for $3,051,132 issued during the same period last year. These include the dock authorization.

One of the new features of the week in building trade circles was the announcement of the decision of Albert Selp of Washington, D. C., owner of the property at No. 417 Superior street west occupied for several years past by the Delmonico restaurant, to make extensive improvements upon it at an estimated outlay of $18,060. The building will be remodeled and a story added. The first floor will be fitted up for a continuance of the restaurant business and a store will also be located in it, while the second story will be laid out for hotel purposes. The plans for the work are now in preparation by Wangenstein & Gilluson, architects, and it is expected that figures upon it will be taken shortly, with a view to its being carried through this fall.

* * *

Contracts covering the proposed improvements to the Fargusson building on the lower side of Superior street and Fourth avenue west are expected to be awarded within the next few days. Bids upon the work were opened at the beginning of the week, and it is understood that William Fawcett was the lowest bidder on the general contract with Henry Gazette, the lowest bidder on the heating and plumbing. The bids have been forwarded East to the owners of the property, the Massachusetts Realty company, with the recommendation of the architect, W. P. Allred, that the contracts be awarded as above mentioned. The figures came within the architect's estimate of $30,000.

* * *

Figures upon the plumbing and heating and the erection of the boiler house at the Nopeming, Minn., sanitarium will be received by the architects, Holstead & Sullivan up to Sept. 10. The cost of the work is estimated at $25,000. Jacobson Bros., the general contractors for the building, are making good progress with it. Figures are also being taken by the same architects for Arthur P. Barnes' new home in Congdon park.

They have besides plans in preparation for a modern home for R. H. Holladay of Chisholm, Minn. It is estimated to cost $5,000.

* * *

The contract for a modern frame residence for C. E. Moore of Virginia, Minn., has been awarded to Andrew Nelson of that place at $6,000. Holstead & Sullivan were the architects.

* * *

Vernon J. Price & Co., architects, have plans in hand for six one-room schools to be built in St. Louis county. They will be located in districts 45, 51, 53, 57, 58, 77 and 78, and are estimated to cost $2,000 each.

* * *

The contract for the new brick fire hall to go up at Virginia has been awarded to J. Donahue of that city. The structure will cost about $15,000. The plans were prepared by Holstead & Sullivan, architects.

* * *

The bids upon the new school to be built at Coleraine, Minn., will be opened this afternoon, and it is expected the contract will be awarded immediately. Bray & Nystrom were the architects.

Builders' Exchange Active.

At the last monthly meeting of the Duluth Builders' exchange, the Modern Roofing & Insulating company of this city and James Sampson of Virginia, Minn., were elected members. This brings the membership of the exchange up to 115, and it is confidently predicted that it will reach 150 by Jan. 1 next.

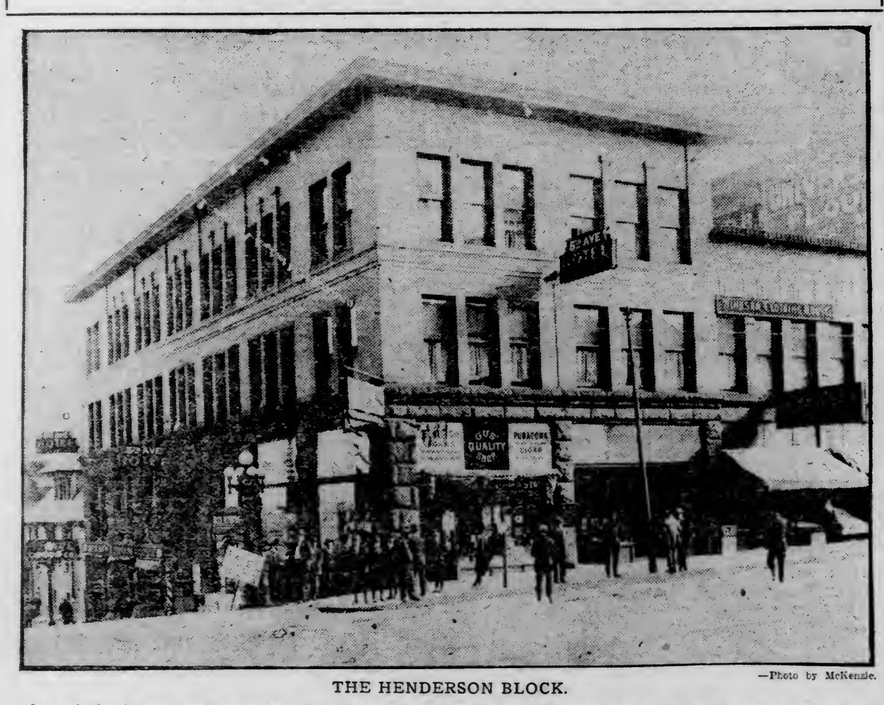

As the outcome of a discussion during the evening, the conclusion was reached that it is advisable for the exchange to interest itself more deeply in civic affairs. Its public affairs committee headed by M. A. Thomas propeses, it is intimated, to get busy at once and to come before the next meeting with a report covering various subjects that are interesting to citizens.

An entertainment committee was appointed to arrange a series of programs for the winter meetings of the exchange. These will include papers and discussions upon a number of trade topics. The first lecture in the list on the subject of a quantitative survey system, will be delivered at next month's meeting by A. Halstead, architect.

One of the largest realty transactions put through in years was closed up this morning in the sale of the Henderson building at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue west and Superior street by Charles E. Henderson of Easton, Md., to the Fifth Avenue Building company, a corporation recently incorporated by local capitalists. The property has a frontage of 75 feet on Superior street and it extends back 115 feet the full depth of the lot to Michigan street. It is regarded as one of the most valuable pieces of central property in the city. The deal was closed through the office of Stryker, Manley & Buck.

The Fifth Avenue Building company pays $100,000 for the buildings, and taks a ninety-nine year lease on the ground, paying an annual rental of $10,000 in monthly installments without revaluation during the whole term of the lease. This is equivalent to a 5 per cent on a valuation of $200,000. This amount is considered to be probably more than the land would sell for now but is thought a reasonable proposition when there is to be no revaluation during the whole term of the lease.

All of the buildings, except the southwest corner, are strictly fireproof, having store rooms fronting on Superior street, Fifth avenue west and also on Michigan street. On the easterly thirty-nine feet of the lot the building is three stores and basement on Superior street and four stories and basement on Michigan street. The buildings have walls of the best type of pressed brick and sandstone, the foundation being of reinforced concrete piers bolted to solid rock. The frame work consists of steel columns and beams covered with fireproof tile. All material entering into the construction of the building is not only fireproof, but subject to little or no decay and it therefore will require a very small outlay for repairs. The steel columns and steel and tile floors are constructed in a way to admit of partitions being erected wherever desired. The steel frames for elevators, if wanted in the future, are placed so that any additional construction will not interfere with the present tenants, each of whom has his own entrance from the street and is or may be shut off from other tenants by a fireproof wall.

The building is of exceedingly heavy construction, designed to carry very heavy loads, so that it may be used for any purpose whatever, no matter what the character of the business. The lower floors are of tile construction in preference to concrete so that in case of changing tenants, the floors and partitions could be readily altered to suit the tenants; but it is so arranged that if deemed desirable eight additional stories may be very economically added.

The rental value per front foot of this property is perhaps greater than that of any other corner in the city. The reason for this, aside from location, is because the entire front on all sides is occupied by stores which, with one exception, have entrances on a level with the sidewalk of the street on which they front.

On Michigan street the level is one story, or twelve feet, below that of Superior street, and the grade of Fifth avenue descends from the higher to the lower level. The stores on this descending grade of Fifth avenue, with one exception, are adjusted to the street level in front of each store. This gives an opportunity to run the stores facing Superior street through to Michigan street, but on a higher level than those facing Michigan street, thus giving two floors for rental purposes, both having entrances on a level with the street on which they front. No other building in the city enjoys this advantage to the same extent.

The streets on which the building fronts each have an active current of traffic passing over them, especially in the immediate vicinity. With Superior street the principal business street in Duluth, Fifth avenue is the principal cross street and has many times more traffic than any other cross street in the city. The street movement on both Michigan street and on Fifth avenue is considered to be greater in front of this building than on any other parts of these streets.

The Fifth avenue Building company, the purchasers of the buildings, was recently organized by Stryker, Manley & Buck, with a capital of $100,000. Its officers and directors are: J. D. Stryker, president; A. H. Brown, vice president, and Fred W. Buck, secretary and treasurer.

INVESTORS IN MARKET FOR OUTLYING REALTIES

Sale of Large Block Put Through in Steel Plant District.

Preparations for Extensive Home Building in Vicinity of Boulevard.

Good inquiry for building lots and residence properties in various sections of the city was advised by realty operators during the last few days.

An interesting feature of the present week came in the passing of deeds from the Capital Security company to the Northland Investment company covering a block of eleven lots in the vicinity of Thirteenth street and Eighth and Ninth avenues west near the Incline. It is intimated that the purchasers propose to carry through an improvement program at the property involving the erection of a number of moderate priced homes. On account of its easy accessibility to the central portions of the city, a strong inquiry for lots is said to be developing in that district, and substantial improvements are foreshadowed up there within the next twelve months.

Another realty development of the last couple of days, was the sale of a block of lots in Gary First and Central divisions, aggregating $12,000 in value, to a syndicate of investors from Gary, Ind. The property was purchased from the Gary Land company, and it is understood that the buyers contemplate erecting a number of houses on their lots next spring. This deal is thought especially gratifying by A. W. Kuehnow, president of the local company, as reflecting the optimistic views entertained by interests who have witnessed the rapid building up of the United States Steel corporation's industrial center in Indiana. They predict a repetition of that experience at Duluth, and consider that properties in West Duluth and in the steel plant districts here offer wonderful investment possibilities.

* * *

The Harris Realty company sold a residence property at 904 Woodland avenue for Olaf Olson to Peter J. Van Vick at a consideration of $5,700. The Duluth Realty company represented the seller.

* * *

The Alliance Real Estate company reported the sale of four tracts at Exeter farms, and with several inquiries now in hand, the outlook for putting through a considerable volume of business during the present month is regarded as promising.

* * *

A substantial broadening in interest in farming lands was noted by various local operators. That is regarded as due to the outlook for a high range of prices in farm products during the coming year at least, as a result of the European war. The Ebert-Walker company advised the closing up of two sales in Aitkin county and one in Carlton county to buyers from Illinois. The Whitney Wall company reported visits here during the week of prospective land buyers, with every prospect that some sales will be closed up within the next few days.

* * *

W. M. Prindle & Co. advised sales of three building lots in Crescent View park. It is probable that two of the purchasers will improve in the building of homes before the close of the present season.

* * *

The Hoopes-Kohagen company effected two lot sales in its Park Drive division. The installing of water and sewer mains is proceeding on two of the streets in that division, and it is expected that after the completion of those improvements, a number of houses will be built.

* * *

Charles P. Craig & Co. advised the putting through of two sales of building lots in Highland Park over the Duluth Heights. A five-acre tract at Greysolon farms was also disposed of.

PALMER HEAD OF THE G. A. R.

Iowan Is Elected Commander-in-Chief; Other Elections.

Col. Smith Retains Title as the Champion Runner.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 5.—David J. Palmer of Covington, Iowa, member of the Eighth and Twenty-fifth Iowa regiments in the Civil war, was elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic at the closing session yesterday of the forty-eighth national encampment. Although there were several candidates in the race for commander in chief, most of them withdrew at the last moment and Mr. Palmer had no serious opposition. Other officers elected were: Senior vice commander in chief, J. B. Griswold of Grand Rapids; junior vice commander in chief, F. W. Connors of Dallas, Tex.; surgeon general, L. S. Feller, Brooklyn; chaplain in chief, Orville J. Nave of California.

Want Veterans Employed.

A committee of past commanders in chief was elected to frame a congressional bill providing for the retention of all Civil war veterans in public employment, irrespective of their age. Another resolution adopted opposed any change in the national flag.

One death and one man said to be dying was the toll of the encampment. A veteran thought to be William Weston of Dexter, Mich., dropped dead on the street yesterday, and John Marshall of Lima, Ohio, taken sick Thursday, is not expected to recover.

Commander in Chief Palmer announced the following staff appointments:

Adjutant general, George A. Newman, Des Moines; quartermaster general, Col. D. E. Stowitz, Buffalo; assistant quartermaster general, J. H. Holcomb, Philadelphia.

The Women's Relief corps elected Mrs. Sarah E. Fulton of Rochester, N. Y., president.

Mrs. Bessie A. Bowser of Indianapolis was elected president of the Daughters of Veterans' auxiliary. The United States Veteran Signal association elected George Carr Romel, Manassas, Va., president.

Mrs. Mary A. Jameson of Marine City, Mich., was elected president of the Ladies of the G. A. R.

The Sons of Veterans chose Charles F. Sherman of Mount Vernon, N. Y., commander in chief.

Smith Wins Ten-Mile Race.

Col. J. L. Smith of Highland Park, Mich., successfully defended his title of champion long distance runner of the G. A. R. for the third consecutive time. Opposed by eight veterans running in relays on the fair grounds track, the white-haired athlete finished a ten-mile grind far in the lead. Several of his opponents were unable to run their share of the relay, and "fresh recruits" were pressed into service, but they all looked alike to the colonel. A touring car, donated by a local automobile concern, was presented to the "Highland Park Flyer" in recognition of his victory.

STUPENDOUS OLEO FRAUD IS CHARGED.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 5.—What Federal officers declare is one of the greatest frauds of its kind ever perpetrated on the government, is charged in indictments returned here by a special Federal grand jury against six officers and employes of the Capital City Dairy company of Columbus and the company as a corporation. It is alleged the company made and sold many thousand pounds of artificially colored oleomargarine during the last three years, representing it to revenue collectors as uncolored, and paying only a tax of ¼ cent a pound instead of the 10 cents a pound imposed on colored products.

When arraigned before Federal Judge John E. Sater, Dennis Kelly, Eberst, Corbett and Hayes pleaded not guilty and were released on $15,000 bond each. They will be tried at the December term of court.

Porto Ricans Nominated.

Washington, Sept. 5.—President Wilson nominated Matin Travieso, Jr., of Porto Rico, to be secretary of Porto Rico, and Manuel V. Domenech of Porto Rico, to be commissioner of the interior.

MUCH TALK ON CITY PLANT

Various Clubs Express Opinions as to Proper Action.

The various improvement, commercial and civic clubs of the city are "hopping" to the invitation of Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, to express their opinions as to the proper course for the city to pursue in its acquisition of a municipal electric plant.

The fall meetings are starting and at practically all gatherings which have been held thus far, the lighting question has been broached. The French Naturalization club of the West end last night went on record opposing the building of a competing plant by the city, as ordered by the council at its meeting yesterday morning. There was less objection to the purchase by the city of the present plant of the Duluth-Edison company.

The other clubs are arranging for meetings to be held in the near future. Last night the West Duluth Commercial club decided to invite all residents of the suburb to attend the meeting of the club next Friday night, when the municipal lighting plant will be the chief subject of discussion.

The Hillside Commercial club will hold a mass meeting next week, probably Thursday night, at the Boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. The acquisition of a lighting plant will be the principal topic for consideration. The debate will be mainly as to whether the city should purchase the plant of the Edison company, condemn it or pursue the course started yesterday, when Commissioner Merritt was directed to prepare plans and specifications for a competing plant and to contract for the construction and equipment of the first unit at West Duluth.

Meetings of other clubs to consider the lighting question are being arranged.

BRITISH ATHLETES FLOCK TO COLORS

Salvation Army Also Furnishes Its Quota for War.

London, Sept. 5.—Events in Northern France and the campaign started by Premier Asquith and other leaders have given immense impetus to recruiting. It is confidently predicted in official circles that Lord Kitchener soon will have the half million men he desires. Cricketers, football players and other athletes who at the beginning of the war were inclined to keep their engagements, have now canceled all games, and are flocking to the colors. The association of Rugby football organizations has canceled all its matches, most of the players having joined the forces. Every player on last year's international team is serving either in the army or navy or is training for the service. Every Salvation Army corps in the country has contributed its quota of men to the army or navy, and other members of the organization have volunteered for Red Cross work.

CHARGE MINOT POLICE HEAD WITH DRINKING.

Minot, N. D., Sept. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sensational evidence is being produced in the hearing into the charges that Ed Robinson, chief of police of Minot, has been guilty of drunkenness while on duty, and of failure to perform his duty, made by H. C. Rudd, president of the city commission.

William Dunnell, D. A. Dinnie, H. Hancock and H. C. Rudd, have been the principal witnesses for the prosecution.

MAKE BELGIANS DIG THE TRENCHES.

London, Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Reuter agency from Ostend says that the German governor of Brussels is forcing the members of the civil guard who have been disarmed to assist in carrying out the defensive preparations. The guards are used mainly in digging trenches. It is contended that this constitutes another violation of the laws of war.

PRESIDENT URGED TO SET PRAYER DAY.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Many requests have been received at the White House that President Wilson designate a day of prayer for peace in Europe. No action has been taken.

RAISSULI, MOORISH PRETENDER, IS DEAD.

London, Sept. 5.—The Exchange Telegraph company's Teuton, Morocco, correspondent says that Raissuli, the noted Moorish brigand and pretender to the throne of Morocco, has died in the country between Tangier and Teuton. Raissuli has been the means of no end of trouble in Morocco.

PIGS HELP CLEAR LAND AND RETURN PROFIT TO THE FARMER

SOME NORTHERN MINNESOTA PIGS.

Pigs as well as sheep are valuable aids in clearing land, according to the best authorities on the subject. Instead of keeping pigs penned up in close quarters they should be given wide range, in which event they will prove invaluable to the farmer who has brush land to clear.

In discussing hog culture and the adaptability of St. Louis county land a local authority on the subject says:

"The farmers fail to appreciate the value of hogs in this, a clover country. Young pigs will make splendid growth on clover and blue grass pasture alone if given at the same time a patch of brush land to run in. They will find lots of roots and shrubs upon which they like to feed and will at the same time be helping to clear the land. The mistake is too often made of keeping hogs shut up in a close pen or small yard. If given free range they will make growth so cheaply that a farmer can afford to buy some corn with which to finish them for meat or market. In lieu of corn, hogs can be cheaply fattened on a combination of ground barley and oats, both of which can be grown cheaply and abundantly in this territory.

"Instead of buying high-priced meats, any farmer with even a small acreage can and should keep pigs enough to supply his own family with meat. A hog is easily butchered and the process of curing the pork for summer use is simple and inexpensive.

"The people of Denmark, who make the best bacon in the world's market, find that they can import corn from the United States and feed it with a profit to their hogs that have made their growth on such products as are grown in Denmark.

"The farmers' clubs in St. Louis county who want corn to feed can co-operate through the county agent and buy the corn direct from Southern Minnesota and Iowa through the farmers' clubs in that territory who have corn to sell."

WHAT SETTLERS HAVE DONE

One Farmer Near Cook Started With $4.10, and Owed $60---Wouldn't Sell Farm He Now Owns.

St. Louis county is full of good stories of men who have started farms with small means and worked their way through to substantial prosperity. Such stories are proof enough that St. Louis county contains rich farming lands capable of a high state of cultivation. If they could be collected into book form, they would make an interesting volume to be added to the historical collections of the county.

Started With $4.10.

Take for instance the story of Henry Wiittanen. Before coming to Cook Mr. Wiittanen visited a number of states in seach of a home. His investigations finally led him to Minnesota, and hearing of St. Louis county, he went to Virginia, and later decided to homestead a quarter section on the Little Fork, just west of Cook. This was seven years ago. When he landed on his claim, Mr. Wiittanen had but $4.10 and owed $60. Today he has the patent to his land, eleven cows, a good team of horses, a flock of chickens, a good house and outbuildings, all the machinery he can use on his farm, a wife and three children, is free from debt and has money in the bank.

Wouldn't Sell Farm.

When Mr. Wiittanen was asked what he considered his farm worth, he replied substantially as follows:

"It is worth more than anything else on earth. It is not for sale. It is the home of my wife and children, the place that has made me independent and where I have spent the happiest days of my life." When asked if others do as well as he had done, he said that others were doing even better, and referring to his neighbor, he said, that man had done just as well in everything except in the matter of wife and children—he has neither.

One of the First Settlers.

John Olson, who settled in the Cook district, also tells these facts:

"I was one of the first settlers that came into this country, when it was still a wilderness eleven years ago. With three of my neighbors we were obliged to cut our own roads a portion of the way into the country. We had to haul our provisions a distance of twenty-eight miles and today we have country roads in all directions and many more being built. The railroad has also come since and the town of Cook, adjoining my farm, which consists of three general stores, two blacksmith shops, two hotels, a church, a creamery and a farm implement dealer; there is also a drug store now under construction. We also have three farmers' telephone companies with lines to many farmers.

No Equal for Clover.

"The country is lightly timbered with poplar, spruce and balsam, the land is slightly rolling; the soil is of a clay loam and free from stone. I have traveled through Norway and Sweden and lived in Juneau county, Wis., for eleven years and have not found as productive a soil as we have here; for clover and timothy hay this country has no equal. Wheat and all kinds of root crops give large yields also. I get good prices for everything I raise. I sold my hay, clover and timothy mixed, on car at $17 per ton. I raised about 100 tons last year.

Buys Modern Machinery.

"We bought a new motor hay baler last fall and have been baling for our neighbors. At this time we have baled over 700 tons and still have more to bale.

"The country is settling up fast and large clearings are being made. We want more settlers (the right farmers). There are all kinds of good lands that are not improved. I like the country so well that I bought 440 acres more land this winter to add to my homestead."

Stories like these might be greatly multiplied. The men who have gone into the northern country have succeeded, because they have been men of thrift and energy, and because they have found their acres to be rich in fertility and capable of producing large crops of such stuff as will maintain live stock. Testimonials like these from the Cook district are the best evidence of the profit found in farming there.

WANTED — SAL

Good Times Ahead

THE sudden breaking out of War caused many to "run to cover." Like the chicken on whom the rose leaf fell, some of us became a prey to fear and were ready to declare the sky is "falling."

Now our vision is clearing, our alarm has fled, we have recovered our poise and our courage. We are seeing, also, our opportunity. Swiftly and almost overwhelmingly has come to us the perception of the fact that the competition of Continental Europe has been taken away. We are faced with a condition and an opportunity both tending to our advantage as a country of industry, agriculture and trade. Good times are ahead, if Americans see and seize the present opportunity for enlarging their industries and trading.

Means That Last Austrian Stronghold Is Lost in Galicia.

Would Clear Way to Junction of Russians on Prussian Boundary.

Paris, Sept. 7.—According to advices received here, a second Austrian army operating in front of Krasnozdow, in the Lublin region, has suffered great losses and is now on the defensive. Some of the Austrians have been forced to retreat.

A dispatch to the Havas agency from Petrograd says the political prisoners in Lemberg, Galicia, were set at liberty by the Russians soon after they entered the city.

Surrounding Przemsyl.

London, Sept. 7.—Some official reports from Russia state that Russian troops are gradually surrounding Przemsyl, which will soon either surrender or be taken by assault.

Przemsyl is a strong fortress, fifty miles west of Lemberg, and its fall would mean the loss by the Austrians of the last stronghold in Galicia. It would clear the way to an advance of the Russians westward towards the junction of their forces on the east Prussian frontier.

AUSTRIANS DENY BIG LEMBERG FIGHT

Legation at The Hague Also Contradicts Reports of Mutiny.

The Hague, Sept. 6, via London, Sept. 7, 4 a. m.—The Austrian legation last night issued the following statement:

"Reports from Russian sources that Lemberg, Galicia, has been taken by the Russians after a desperate fight for possession of the city are untrue. In reality, Lemberg, which was not fortified, was abandoned to the Russian troops without fighting for tactical and humane reasons."

Gen. von Auffenberg, in a statement received at the legation, says he is following up his successes at Zamosc and that Gen. Dank continues his attack in the direction of Lublin.

The legation also contradicts a dispatch of last Saturday, according to which the Czech regiments had mutinied, claiming that at the present time there are no Czech troops in Vienna, whose garrisons are of Slavic origin from Bosnia and Croatia.

It also contradicts a report claiming that the Servians had completely routed the Fourth, Eighth, Ninth and Thirteenth army corps. It is pointed out at the legation that these troops occupy a totally different position than that assigned them in the report.

Paris, Sept. 7, 11 a. m.—A German officer was arrested today near Corbeil, on the River Seine, eighteen south-southeast of Paris, wearing the uniform of the French military automobile corps.

TRAWLERS IN HERO ROLES

Rescue Nearly 300 People When Steamer Hits Mine.

Most Victims Are Russians Going Home From America.

Grimsby, Eng., Sept. 7, via London.—Nearly 300 persons rescued from the Wilson liner Runo by trawlers when the steamship sank in the North sea, a victim of a contact mine, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, were landed at Grimsby and Hull on Sunday. The prompt work of four trawlers, the Silanion, Strethon, Cameo and Prince Victor, saved the lives of nearly all those on board.

Wilson line officials say that all the crew and all but twenty-seven of the passengers are safe in this port. The Silanion picked up 128 survivors—practically all she could hold. The Cameo saved nearly 100 and the other two trawlers 70.

Mostly American Russians.

POPE BENEDICT XV.

Rome, Sept. 7.—The coronation of Pope Benedict XV took place yesterday in the Sistine chapel. The ceremony was imposing in its solemnity. The Sistine chapel was used for the occasion in order to avoid pomp during the war. The entire pontifical court, members of the Roman aristocracy and the family of the pontiff were present.

The full title of the new pope, in addition to Benedict XV, will be Pope Bishop of Rome and Successor of St. Peter, Supreme Pontiff of the Universal Church, Patriarch of the West, Primate of Italy, Archbishop and Metropolitan of the Roman Province, Sovereign of the Temporal Dominion of the Holy Roman Church.

HAVE SEEN NO WANTON ACTS

Americans Deny Germans Have Been Guilty of Cruelty.

Have Not Found a Single Unprovoked Attack on Citizens.

New York, Sept. 7.—The Associated Press has received by wireless from Berlin a message which follows. (It was sent via Aix La Chappelle to Berlin for transmission. The authors, all of whom are well known American newspaper men, were originally assigned to Brussels, and when that city was taken they were returned to Aix La Chappelle, from which city they had been endeavoring to reach London, but without success. The telegram was partly mutilated by interference and certain words are missing, but the text here given is clearly that intended by the authors):

"In spirit we unite in rendering (sic) German atrocities groundless, as far as we are able to. After spending two weeks with and accompanying the troops upward of 100 miles, we are unable to report a single instance unprovoked. We are also unable to confirm rumors of mistreatment of prisoners or of noncombatants with the German columns. This is true of Louvain, Brussells, Luneville and Nancy, while in Prussian hands. We visited Chateau Solde, Sambo and Beaumont without substantiating a single wanton brutality. Numerous investigated rumors proved groundless. Everywhere we have seen Germans paying for purchases and respecting property rights, as well as according civilians courtesies.

"As regards the Battle of Blass (probably Barse), a suburb of Namur we found Belgian women and children moving comfortably about. The day after the Germans had captured the town of Merbes Chateau, we found one citizen killed, but were unable to confirm lack of provocation. Refugees with stories of atrocities were unable to supply direct evidence. Belgians discounted stories of cruelties.

"The discipline of the German soldiers is excellent, as we observed. To the truth of these statements, we pledge our professional and personal word.

LABOR HOSTS HOLD PICNIC

Thousands Defy Weather Man and Go to Fairmont Park.

McEwen Gives Address; Big Athletic Program Is Staged.

Despite lowering clouds and a chilly atmosphere, several thousand of the labor hosts of Duluth gathered at Fairmont park today for the annual Labor day picnic.

If the weather man favors the labor hosts by holding back the rain forecasted all of the events of the program will be staged as scheduled. All the stores and chief places of business were closed all day.

The absence of a parade was marked today, but the picnic proved as good an attraction. A big athletic program will take place this afternoon and there will be dancing at the pavilion both this afternoon and evening.

William E. McEwen, postmaster of Duluth and past secretary of the Minnesota Federation of Labor, will give the chief address at 3 p. m. His topic will be "Trade Unionism." The Third Regiment band will give a concert program at 4 o'clock. The program follows:

Seventy-five yard dash for boys, under 16 years of age—First prize, one union made pair of shoes, value $3.50; donated by the Columbia Clothing company. Second prize, one ham, donated by Swift & Co.

LABOR SITUATION IN ENGLAND EXCELLENT

So Says John Burns Who Sees No Acute Distress.

London, Sept. 7.—John Burns, the labor leader and until recently president of the board of trade in the British cabinet, who was at the Charing Cross and Victoria railway stations last night superintending the disposal of Belgian refugees, took a few minutes to converse with newspapermen. He said the labor situation in England was now excellent, and that the number of unemployed was below the peace average. There was no acute distress, he said, and no need as yet to call on the Prince of Wales relief fund.

Among the Americans who arrived last night from Flushing was Dr. Alexander Green of the University of Illinois.

EIGHT DIE IN STABLE FIRES

One Youth Is Dying and One Missing at Lynxville, Wis.

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 7.—Seven men, railway construction employes, were burned to death in a fire in a hay barn just outside the city today. The men were on their way back to their camp from the city and are supposed to have stopped in the barn to sleep with the result that the building was set afire by their matches.

Coroner Herman Langstadt and Dr. Robert E. Flynn, county physician, recovered seven bodies, burned to a crisp and unrecognizable. It is possible that more bodies may still be in the ruins.

The authorities are conducting an inquest today. An attempt will be made to ascertain the names of the victims by checking up the lists of the several railway construction crews in the neighborhood.

Fire at Lynxville.

Lynxville, Wis., Sept. 7.—In a livery stable fire here today Roland Keely, aged 19, of Lynxville, was burned to death; Robert Brewer, aged 20, of Lynxville, was fatally burned and is now lying at a hospital in La Crosse, and John Kirwin, a telegraph operator, is missing.

Three head of cattle were burned, with all the carriages and other accoutrements in the place.

Keely and Brewer were employed by the livery stable.

RAIN FLOODS KANSAS TOWN

Makes 200 Families Homeless—City Hall Floors Covered.

Deputy Constable Huck Uckleson Is Hero of Rosedale.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 7.—Two hundred families were driven from their homes, a dozen houses were swept away and there were many narrow escapes from death early today when Turkey Creek, a local drainage stream, at flood tide because of all night rains, ran out of its banks and inundated a large residence section and the main business district of Rosedale, Kan., a suburb.

At 9 o'clock this morning three feet of water stood in the Rosedale city hall, while scores of stricken families were being cared for by neighbors or in public buildings. In other sections of the business district the water reached a depth of six feet.

Violent Electrical Storm.

In the violent electrical and rain storm which caused the stream to rise a number of houses were struck by lightning.

Huck Uckleson, a deputy constable of Rosedale, sounded the alarm that awoke a score of citizens of Rosedale and sent them scurrying to their homes just in time to escape the whirling torrent of flood.

Uckleson, who lives near the creek, was awakened by the storm at 2:15 o'clock this morning. As the lightning flashed he saw the stream rising. Rushing from his home he found Agnes Bunn, 9 years old, struggling in the water back of her home. He plunged into the stream and brought the half-drowned child to safety.

Saved Lives of Scores.

Uckleson then started on his mission of warning. To every house in the neighborhood he ran, pounding on doors and shouting to the sleepers within to dress and run for their lives. Today scores of Rosedale inhabitants ascribe their escape from death to Huck Uckleson's presence of mind.

STEAMER AVOIDS GERMAN WARSHIPS

Man Is Kept at Masthead Day and Night During Voyage.

New York, Sept. 7.—With a huge cargo basket wrapped in burlap made fast to the foremast as a makeshift crow's nest, where a man was kept day and night on the lookout for German war vessels, the steamship Camoens, from Brazil, with ten Americans abroad, arrived in port today. The Camoens was thirty-six hours late, due to detours from her course to avoid hostile war vessels. The American passengers on board had been employed on Brazilian railroads.

The Norwegian steamship Bergensfjord arrived this morning from Bergen with 1,109 passengers.

No trans-Atlantic vessels were due to leave port today.

KAISER WITH CROWN PRINCE AT THE FRONT

French Position Advantageous Enough to Offset Lesser Numbers.

Paralyzing Blow to Allies Believed to Be German Object.

French Embassy at Washington Informed of Positions Sept. 5.

Paris, Sept. 7, 3:30 p. m.—A general action is proceeding today to the east of Paris from Nanteuil-le-Haudouin to Verdun, according to an official communication given out this afternoon.

Nanteuil-le-Haudouin is twenty-five miles northeast of the city of Paris and ten miles southeast of Senlis. The distance from Nanteuil-le-Haudouin to Verdun is roughly 120 miles.

The text of the official notice is as follows:

"A general action has started on the line through Nanteuil-le-Haudouin, Meaux, Sezanne and Vitry-le-Francois and extending to Verdun.

"Thanks to the vigorous action of our troops, strongly supported by the British, the Germans started retiring.

"The Germans had advanced Saturday and Sunday into the region between Coulommiers and La Ferte-Gaucher.

Advantage of Position.

London, Sept. 7.—The correspondent of the Telegraph describes the battle now being fought on the French center from Rethel to Verdun which he says is in an extremely difficult country.

"The French have strong forces concentrated there," he says, "and the opposing forces are fighting upon almost equal terms. Such advantage in numbers as may rest with the Germans is offset by the French position of defense.

"Emperor William has joined the crown prince's army, and this is the emperor's fifth appearance in the actual theater of operations.

"The armies of the duke of Wurtemburg and Crown Prince Frederick William have long been operating to gain a foothold on French soil. They have now crossed the Meuse and have come to grips with ten French army corps."

May be Decisive.

The belief is growing that a great, decisive battle is being fought at Verdun, the strong fortress of France on the Meuse near the French frontier.

If the fourth German army, marching southward, cuts off the retreat of the French eastern armies which recently have been holding the Germans in check between Toul, a fortified town

ANOTHER BRITISH CRUISER BLOWN UP

Pathfinder Is Destroyed By Mine in the North Sea.

London, Sept. 7.—The light cruiser Pathfinder of the British navy has been blown up by a mine in the North Sea. The loss of life is not definitely known. The paymaster, Sydney W. Finch, was killed and the commander, Capt. Francis M. Leake, was wounded. Six junior officers and two petty officers are missing.

The Pathfinder is the second British cruiser blown up by mines in the North sea. She was of 2,409 tons and carried a complement of 268 men. She was commissioned at Portsmouth in October, 1913, and was attached to the Eighth flotilla.

THE SPIRIT OF 1914.

WAR NEWS IN BRIEFEST FORM

A news dispatch from Berlin says that a battle is being fought on the French center from Rethel to Verdun with the opposing forces on almost even terms.

Reports from other sources, while failing to reveal the purpose of the German strategy in removing a great force to the southeast of Paris, indicate a determination to deal the allies a crushing blow before the complete investment of the French capital is attempted. German pressure on the left wing of the allies has been withdrawn and apparently the main strength of the invaders has been thrown against the enemy's center and right.

It is officially announced in Paris that a general engagement is being fought east of that city today and that the Germans have begun to retire at that point.

Official reports from Petrograd say the Russians are gradually closing in on the strong fortress of Przemyl, fifty miles west of Lemberg and that this last remaining stronghold of the Austrians in Galicia will soon surrender or be taken by assault.

It is stated officially at Antwerp that the Belgians have repulsed a German attack against that city.

HOLIDAYS ARE ENDED

More Than 14,000 Children Will Return to School Tuesday.

Two New Buildings Will Care for Increased Attendance.

In view of the fact that today is the last until Thanksgiving when school boys and girls will be utterly free from the cares attending on the turmoil of acquiring an education, and the day happens to be a general holiday, they are making the most of it.

More than 14,000 children will begin or resume, as the case may be, the process of slaking any thirst for knowledge that may be harboring in their beings and mentalities, and what mothers think about with a sigh of relief, several hundred teachers view with consternation and apprehension.

Two more schools than were in service last year will help out the feeling of over-crowding which was making itself evident last year, and a correspondingly increased corps of teachers will be employed in the work. One of the new schools is the R. E. Denfeld Industrial high school at West Duluth, which is said to be one of the most modern schools in the state, with an equipment second to none. It is named in honor of the man who has been city superintendent of schools for more than a quarter of a century, and who still is actively in the harness, guiding the work of education and reorganizing the district from time to time to make crowded conditions more agreeable. The other school is the Muncer, which is located at Twelfth avenue east and Eleventh street. Its erection was necessitated by the rapidly growing population of the hillside, which has grown enormously since the street railway lines were extended up to Ninth street a few years ago.

It is expected that most of the teaching staff will be on hand tomorrow at the opening of school to begin their work promptly, but it was announced at the school board meeting last Friday night that there would be some absentees among the teachers for a few days. The European situation has delayed some, and family matters have kept others back; but for the most part there will be a complement of teachers ready to begin.

Archangel, and her passengers were mostly Russians from America who were returning to Russia with their women and children. The boat hit the mine in mid-afternoon, Saturday, during fine weather. The explosion was terrific and a large portion of the ship was shattered, while several passengers were injured and one was killed.

It was extremely fortunate that the little fleet of four trawlers, homeward bound with their holds full of fish, chanced to be passing almost within distance of the Runo at that moment. The trawlers, regardless of the consequences to themselves, in view of the possibility that there were other mines in the neighborhood, pushed through the wreckage and picked up sailors and passengers who were hanging to sticks and rafts. These were people who in the first panic had jumped overboard or had been blown into the sea. Others were gathered from the decks of the fast sinking ship.

Highest Praise for Trawlers.

The work of the trawlers is declared by the Runo's crew to have been one of the finest episodes of the kind in the history of the sea. The trawler Silanion was the first on the scene. The Runo's people were forward and the Silanion had difficulty in getting near on account of the peculiar upward tilt given the ship.

As the passengers generally understood little English, the orders to them were not understood, and this accounts partially for the panic and for the failure to get off more lifeboats. One of the stewards who landed here said he rushed into the steerage section after the explosion and saw that it was wrecked and splintered. He noticed that some of the passengers were badly wounded.

After the efforts to launch the Runo's lifeboats had failed, the crew of the Silanion threw out all their lifelines, picking up women and children first as fast as possible.

Work of the Strethon.

The Strethon arrived on the scene immediately afterward and saved thirty-two persons who were clinging to wreckage in the sea. The mate of the Strethon fastened a rope around his waist and was lowered alongside the ship to the water level, where he was able to pick up many of the injured.

When the Prince Victor came up her crew went overboard, some in boats and some swimming. The chief engineer dived overboard and saved a woman and child. One of the rescued women gave birth to a child a few minutes after being saved.

Most of the passengers suffered somewhat from shock and exposure, but restoratives and warm food were given them under direction of the Runo's surgeon on the trawlers.

Before reaching here most of the victims were transferred to the passenger steamer Solway, which brought them into the royal yacht basin here, where they were met by Mayor Tate, the town clerk and the Wilson line's local manager, who constituted themselves a committee to look after the welfare of those injured, the sick and the destitute. Later it was decided to send all the refugees to Hull on the Solway.

Scene Was Distressing.

The scene on the Solway as she docked was distressing. Wives who had lost husbands, or mothers who had lost their children sobbed without restraint. Most of the Russians still were in a panic, and when they learned that the boat was about to take them up the river to Hull many protested, fiercely refusing to leave solid land again.

WOMAN'S BEAUTY NO SECRET

It all lies in the care she bestows upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread ills peculiar to her sex. The flashing eye, the elastic step and the clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. The distressed expression, lassitude, headaches and mental depression are only the tell tale symptoms. Women so troubled should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that simple remedy made from roots and herbs and restore their health to a normal condition.

GENERAL BATTLE IS BEING FOUGHT EAST OF PARIS

fourteen west of Nancy, and Epinal, also strongly fortified and near the Alsace frontier, it might repeat the coup which in 1870 drove Gen. Charles Denis Sauter Bourbaki and his army of 150,000 men into Switzerland.

Two Possibilities.

Hopeful critics are speculating on the possibility that the German swing around to the south may mean an effort on the part of the invaders to make sure of their retreat through the Meuse district, but more likely it is a scheme to strike such a paralyzing blow to the French army as to render the investment of Paris a safe operation.

The southerly movement of the Germans may effect a junction of the crown prince's army and the army of Bavaria, which has been held on the defensive in Lorraine. Thus the Germans would advance from the east and north in a vast, enveloping movement, destined to crush the allies' right wing by sheer weight of numbers, just as their left was pushed back during the last fortnight.

Paris Alone Worthless.

These preliminary movements, if showing nothing else, at least prove that the Germans realize that the siege of Paris, even its occupation, is quite worthless from a strategic standpoint while the allies are free in the field.

Corroboration of the above mentioned theory is continued in a dispatch from Berlin which describes a battle in a difficult country between Verdun and Rethel as the deciding conflict as far as France is concerned. This dispatch states that the opposing forces are almost equally divided, but that the French have the advantage, fighting from a defensive position of their own choosing.

Kaiser on Frontier.

Another significant factor is the general understanding that Emperor William is inspecting the field of operation in this neighborhood. Reports disagree as to his exact whereabouts, but all agree that he is in the vicinity of the Franco-German border. The conflict in this region must have decisive results. The capture of the great French fortresses would be a terrible blow to France, while the repulse of the German army would give the French a chance to assume the offensive, a course needed on account of its moral effect in the western theater of war.

Mines Serious Menace.

Mines in the North sea are becoming such a menace that it may be closed to navigation during the night time. The admiralty notice gives the right to put out the coast lights at any time, which would make it difficult for German mine layers to continue their work.

Positions on Sept. 5.

Washington, Sept. 7.—A dispatch received today at the French embassy from Bordeaux says:

"On the fifth of September the north and south movement of the German armies has continued. Coulommiers and Epernay are the basis of the first German army. This army was attacked by us at Saint Souppletes, on the right bank of the River Ourcq. Senlis has been evacuated by us. On the road Montmirail-to-Chalons the second army has sent its advance guard. As for the third and fourth, the heads of their column are on the road from Chalons to Bussy.

"The line of the fifth army has reached the road from Possesse, Triancourt and Thiancourt, moving through the Argonne. Our Twentieth corps was fighting at Gerbeviller against the Sixth German army."

ITALIAN SOCIALISTS FOR NEUTRALITY

See Gains for Italy in Victory of Triple Entente.

Paris, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the Havas agency from Rome says that members of the Italian Socialist Reform party met in Rome last night and adopted resolutions approving the declaration of Italian neutrality in the present war.

The meeting recorded its opinion that the victory of the Triple Entente—Great Britain, France and Russia—would not only aid universal disarmament, but at the same time open the way to an exchange of national opinions, and help the proletariat both socially and economically. It declared also that the victory of the entente powers would assure Italy's predominance over Austro-Hungary in Balkan matters.

GERMANS DROWN AT CUTTING OF DYKES

Casualties in Fighting Near Termonde Put at 5,000.

London, Sept. 7, 12:14 a. m.—Telegraphing from Ostend, a correspondent of Reuter's Telegram company says the German casualties in the fighting around Termonde, sixteen miles east of Ghent, on Friday and Saturday are estimated at 5,000 men. A number of German soldiers were drowned when the dykes around Termonde were cut, and several German guns were lost in the flood.

Continuing the correspondent says the Germans advanced Sunday in a northerly direction from Brussels, between Ghent and Antwerp. Today all telegraphic and railroad communication between these towns is interrupted.

Several hotels in Ostend are closed for fear of the arrival of the German invaders. An engagement occurred Sunday at Cordegem, south of Ghent. Belgian cyclists and gendarmes had a sharp engagement with the enemy which resulted in the Belgians retiring before a superior force. A Belgian major was killed.

COMPANIONS OF THE CROWN PRINCE FALL

Squadron of Death's Head Hussars Cut to Pieces.

London, Sept. 7.—A Petrograd dispatch to the Daily Mail, dated Sunday, says that the Bourse Gazette reports that a squadron of Death's Head Hussars, of which the crown prince was commander during his stay at Danzig, was defeated and completely cut up near Rococzin, in Poland. Count Stolberg, the commander of the squadron, and all the other officers were among the fallen.

The sale of spiritous liquors has been prohibited for the duration of the war, according to a Petrograd dispatch to the Reuter Telegram company.

BRITON HALTED BY CRUISER LEIPZIG

Steamer's Wireless Is Removed and German Cook Taken.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 7.—The British freighter Cetriana, which arrived here early today, reported that she had been halted in Mexican waters by the German cruiser Leipzig, her wireless outfit removed and her German cook transferred aboard the Leipzig. Her captain would give no further particulars.

TWO MEN WIN HONOR FOR THEIR REGIMENT.

Bordeaux, Sept. 7.—An official announcement says that in a recent combat two soldiers of the 137th infantry, Broussard and Turcot, captured the flag of the twenty-eighth regiment of German infantry, whose colonel was made prisoner. As a recompense President Poincare has signed a decree conferring the cross of the Legion of Honor on the flag of the 137th regiment.

SEVERAL PRIZES ARE AT HONGKONG

American Ship, Suspected of Contraband Trade, Among Them.

Shanghai, Sept. 7.—Hongkong reports the arrival there of a number of prizes, including the American steamer Hanamet and the German steamers Paklat, Frisia and Rajaburi.

The prize crew of the Paklat held the German engineers at work for three days at the point of revolvers, and frustrated an attempt to disable the engines.

The American steamer Hanamet is 2,703 tons burden and is owned by W. Katz of Shanghai. The Paklat and the Rajaburi are owned by the North German Loyd, the former being of 1,227 tons burden and the Rajaburi 1,189 tons. The Frisia is a ship of 3,150 tons. Both the Hanamet and the Frisia have previously been reported as having been seized. The Hanamet is suspected of carrying contraband. Her owner, W. Katz, has appealed to the American consul at Shanghai for indemnification.

BRITISH CRUISER IS REPORTED ASHORE

Stranded "Probably as Result of Fight," Says Berlin.

Washington, Sept. 7.—A Berlin wireless to the German embassy says: "British cruiser Warrior stranded, probably as result of fight with cruiser Goeben, while escaping from the Bosphorus."

The dispatch contains nothing to amplify or explain.

BROOKLYN BOY GOES ALONE IN WAR ZONE

Says Most Americans Are Out of Budapest--Zolty at London.

London, Sept. 7, 12:37 p. m.—Alfred Scillitan of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 15, arrived in London today from Budapest, traveling alone. He has been visiting his grandparents in the Hungarian capital, where he worked as a volunteer office boy for the American relief committee organized in Budapest by the American consul. He said that everything was quiet in Budapest; that prices had not advanced, and that virtually all Americans had left that city.

Samuel Zolty, a singer of New York, came into London today direct from Vienna. He reported that about 20,000 Servian and Russian prisoners of war were at present engaged in building earthworks for the defense of Vienna.

REFUGEES REACHING LONDON DESTITUTE

Continent Will Not Be Clear of Americans for Days.

London, Sept. 7. — Among the 2,000 Americans who crowded the rooms of the American relief committee when it opened this morning were 160 who came over from Havre on the American cruiser Tennessee. The remainedr were chiefly from Flushing, Ostend and Rotterdam, and were largely Americanized Germans, who are virtually without money and who must be assisted back to the United States by the committee.

Refugees from Germany say there is still a large number of American citizens in Germany who are unable to get out because of the limited train facilities. There are only two trains a day from Berlin to Rotterdam, each carrying 200 passengers; consequently Americans are filtering out of the German capital very slowly. Other refugees report that Rotterdam still is crowded and that many Americans are waiting in Holland for opportunity to get to England.

A large proportion of the fugitives who are applying to the committee for relief are absolutely penniless. The crowd this morning was so great that the committee merely gave applicants enough money to buy something to eat, and issued cards which will be presented later in the day to the finance committee for further help.

Herbert C. Hooyer, chairman of the committee, does not believe that the continent will be free of American refugees for thirty days yet.

SAYS STEFANSSON IS MAROONED ON ICE

Missionary Claims Explorer Is in No Immediate Danger.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 7.—Vilhjalmar Stefansson, the Canadian explorer, is marooned on the ice off Herschell island, according to Rev. W. H. Fry, a missionary who has been among the Eskimos and who arrived here today from Kittigagjvit. Stefansson is in no immediate danger.

Dr. Fry based his assertion upon a letter he received from an Eskimo on June 8, the day he started south. The Eskimo wrote that he knew Stefansson had left Herschell island and had gone out on the ice with two of his men, Anderson (not Dr. Anderson, his lieutenant) and Storkinson. The ice broke up suddenly, the water opened up a few days later and the explorer and his companions were unable to get off. The Eskimo said he had been told by native whalers who had helped Stefansson on the ice, that the party had ammunition and food sufficient to last all winter.

The last definite word of Stefansson was brought to Nome, Alaska, on Sept. 1, by a schooner from Point Barrow. The captain of the schooner reported that after making an attempt to cross the ice, Stefansson and two companions had returned to Martin Point, east of the mouth of the Barter river, on April 16. The crew of Stefansson's ship, Karluk, which was crushed in the ice north of Herschell island, is believed to be marooned on Wrangell island. There are twenty-two men in this party. The United States revenue cutter Bear sailed for Wrangell island on Sept. 5, in an attempt to rescue them.

Holiday in New York.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

DULUTH TEAM CINCHES THE NORTHERN LEAGUE PENNANT

Duluth cinched the 1914 championship of the Northern league by winning this morning's game with Virginia. Although another game is to be played this afternoon, the victory gives the Dooks clear title to the flag.

The game was a close one throughout and was hard fought by both nines, Duluth finally landing the long end of the score. The Darbyites played stellar ball, while Blancke, who was on the mound for the new champions, never worked more smoothly. He pitched one of the best games of the year against the Ore Diggers. Faeth pitched for the range team.

Despite the extremely cold weather a crowd of nearly 750 enthusiastic fans attended the game. A large crowd is expected for the final game this afternoon.

The score:	R.	H.	E
Virginia .....000000000—0	5	2
Duluth .....00011000—2	6	1

Batteries—Virginia, Faeth and Agnew; Duluth, Blancke and Sweeley.

ATTENDANCE SHOWS GAIN

President Burmeister Says This Is Best Season in League's History.

Says Game Forfeited to Winnipeg Must Stand—Scores Flood.

President Burmeister of the Northern league is in Duluth today to attend the last games of the season.

"This is the most successful year that the Northern league has ever had," said Mr. Burmeister. "It only goes to show that the people will support the sport if a good article of ball is put up. Scouts from the various big leagues have told me this summer that the game in the Northern league is above its class. The Western league is no better than the Northern league when it comes to putting up good baseball, according to these scouts, and they ought to know, because they make all the leagues every year.

"The team at Fort William has had better attendance this year, its first venture in the Northern league, than both Minneapolis and St. Paul put together when they were in. The attendance in Duluth this year is 8,000 more than it was last year without counting the two games today."

In speaking of the recent forfeiture of the game to Winnipeg by Tim Flood, umpire, Mr. Burmeister said that it grieved him to think he had a man on his umpiring staff that showed such little judgment in a crisis. He said the decision of the umpire would have to stand, according to the rules of the league, but that Flood would not be umpiring any more games in this neck of the woods.

MIDDLE STATES REGATTA

Eastern Rowing Clubs Entered and Much Interest Is Shown.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 7.—Leading oarsmen from New York, Philadelphia, Washington and other nearby cities will compete in the Middle States regatta on the Patapsco river here today. PROCTOR WINS FROM FITWELLS

By defeating the Fitwell baseball team by a score of 5 to 2 the Proctor ball club claims the Head of the Lakes diamond championship for semi-professional baseball teams for this year. Incidentally the Proctor team also won a side bet of $100.

A record-breaking crowd turned out to watch the game in spite of cold weather. The rivalry between the two organizations as well as the stakes played for added to the interest in the outcome.

Proctor started by making two tallies in the first inning. Two more were added in the fifth inning, after the Fitwells had tied the score by putting one score over the pan in the second inning and another in the fourth. The final score was made by the locals in the eighth. Eight errors made by the Fitwells against three made by the locals assisted the Proctorites in winning. Pitcher Olson of the Proctor team allowed but four hits while he struck out six men. Delbern of the Fitwells was hit six times but struck out eight men.

WHERE WAR HITS HOME

Letter From German Woman Tells of Fears for Dear Ones.

The heroic devotion and staunch patriotism of Germany's womanhood to the cause for which the fatherland is fighting is evidenced in a letter which Mrs. H. W. Gelier of 1527 London road has received from a sister in the Old Country. The letter was written from Osnabruck under date of Aug. 15. It furnishes a glimpse into the lives of those Germans who did not go to the front and tells of the anxiety occasioned by the present European crisis.

A portion of the letter has been translated by Mrs. Geller as follows:

"In these times of trial and temptation, we all have little to do and much time to spare. I feel the necessity to write you, dear sister, a few lines. Under separate cover I am sending you our local newspaper up to date, which will give you the information about the happenings in the Fatherland.

Attacked on All Sides.

"Above all, I want you and your friends over there to know in what tricky and underhanded way we have been attacked from all sides. All Germany stands united in order to defend her best and most sacred. From the beginning of the war there will certainly be a great amount of sorrow and distress, but let us hope that this terrible world-war may not last too long and bring soon to our Fatherland a just victory.

"There is hardly a family that has been spared, where one man at least has been called to the front. Our beloved brother had to enlist a week ago. However he is still in the local barracks, but may expect to be sent momentarily to the border. May God protect him and let him return in health to us.

Relatives at Front.

"Our brother-in-law, Louis, has already been in the battlefield for a week. Felix, and my dear George daily expect to be called. You see, my dear sister, we find ourselves in a terrible predicament. It is especially unpleasant and inconvenient that the local telephone for private use is almost prohibited. The traveling facilities by rail are likewise very poor, as everything is needed for military purposes. Business is almost at a standstill. Every reasonable human being only purchases the bare necessities of life.

"Who can tell how all this will end? May kind fate protect us and favor us."

WHEN FRIENDSHIP DID NOT COUNT

Although France and Russia are allies in the titanic European war now in progress, three Russians were captured in a flank movement on their stronghold made by Special Officer Brouillette in the Northern Pacific yards late Saturday evening.

Officer Brouillette is a special employe of the Northern Pacific railroad. He is also of French birth and a native of fair France. But the fact that his country and Russia are allied had nothing whatever to do with his duties, nor did he waver last Saturday evening.

While making the rounds in the yards, Officer Brouillette claims he saw three men about to get into a boxcar. He followed them and after executing a flank movement, which was entirely unnoticed by the larger forces, the officer caused their arrest on a charge of trespassing on private property. The men are: Joe Sciborek, 19; John Gazovick, 21, and Andrew Jasik, 22. They are all Russians.

In police court this moring the three men declared that they are not guilty of the charge. Judge Windom set their trial for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and they are each being held in default of $15 bail.

CLOQUET BOY IS VERY SUDDENLY STRICKEN

Cloquet, Minn., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Mahoney, Jr., aged 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mahoney, died suddenly at his home Saturday afternoon.

His mother was attending a club meeting and John was at the matinee. When he arrived home he complained to his sister, Helen, aged 12, of not feeling well and she told him to lie down, which he did. When the mother arrived home he was in a very serious condition. A doctor was sent for but the little fellow passed away before he came. The doctor's verdict was heart failure.

Mr. Mahoney and the oldest son were in Canada at the time of his death and arrived home Sunday morning.

Besides his mother and father he is survived by two sisters and two brothers. He was an exceptionally bright youngster.

SALUTE FLAGS AT NOON SATURDAY

Washington, Sept. 7.—American flags on government buildings, army posts, navy yards, revenue cutters and other government property will be saluted at noon on Sept. 12, in memory of the writing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by Francis Scott Key. President Wilson sent a request to this effect to heads of departments, having been asked to do so by the management of the Star Spangled celebration in Baltimore.

AFTER all, the purpose of a soap is to cleanse. Of two soaps equally agreeable to use the one that does the more delightful cleansing is the better for you.

There is no soap more agreeable than Ivory. Its sweet, natural odor is not surpassed by any perfume.

There is no soap the equal of Ivory in producing that glowing cleanliness which feels as good as it looks. It makes a copious, bubbling, pure white lather that enters every pore. It rinses easily, leaving the skin entirely free from soap and all foreign matter.

The skin dries soft and smooth without a suggestion of the greasy gloss left by poorly made soaps.

Last, but not least, Ivory is so mild and pure that even the children find Ivory Soap bathing a pleasure rather than a task.

OFFICIAL STATEMENTS OF THE WARRING POWERS

London.

Washington, Sept. 7.—The British situation after the first month of war is set forth in a cablegram received yesterday by the British embassy from the London foreign office:

"During the first month of war the command of the sea is left unchallenged in the hands of Great Britain and her allies. The German and Austrain fleets remain in their harbors under sheriff of their mines and batteries. Four German cruisers, one auxiliary cruiser, two destroyers and a submarine and an Austrian cruiser have been sunk. A German dreadnought and cruiser have fled without fighting and have taken refuge in the Dardanellas. The loss to the British navy has been one light cruiser only.

"As a consequence of this naval supremacy, our 300,000 troops have been able to cross the sea in different parts of the world without the loss of a man. The British expeditionary force has been carried to France, colonial expeditions have been sent to attack the colonies of Germany, and the French troops, under cover of the combined Anglo-French Mediterranean fleets, have been escorted from Algeria to France.

Development of Resources.

"The resources of the empire, under the cover of the British fleet, will be fully developed, and the armies in Europe will be reinforced by those of Australia, Canada and Africa without ceasing. German merchant marine has disappeared from the ocean, while the (passage apparently omitted here).

"In every part of the outlaying seas, in China, the Pacific and the Atlantic, the German ships have avoided action with British cruisers, preferring to make ineffectual attacks upon unarmed merchant vessels to encountering men-of-war. Although the German cruisers are still at large, their depredations have been small and they have been unable to remain in any part where serious attack could be made on British commerce."

Corrects Statement.

London, Sept. 7.—The foreign office has issued a statement as follows: "Conclusive evidence, produced by the Agence Havas, has entirely satisfied the foreign office that the statement occurring in a published report forwarded by his majesty's ambassador at Berlin, that the Agence Havas had agreed in future to publish news concerning Germany only if supplied through the Wolff Telegraph bureau, is not correct. Such an agreement appears to have been intended by the German organization, but is not one which the Agence Havas ever contemplated.

"It is with great satisfaction that the foreign office has been able to give publicity to this correction."

Petrograd.

Petrograd, Sept. 7., via of London—"Desperate fighting continuous along the front from Lublin to Kholm where the Tenth Austrian army corps made an attempt to break through the Russian line," says an official statement issued here last night. "The Austrians were heavily repulsed and 5,000 were made prisoners. The Russians secured various documents in which the Austrian generals made appeals for help from Germany.

"In Galicia thirty locomotives and an enormous amount of rolling stock were captured. The Russians entered the railway station at Lemberg and found it crowded with trains loaded with ammunition, dynamite, benzine and medical stores. The Russians captured the station so suddenly that three motor cars on the point of leaving, fell into their hands. In the neighborhood of Svalen, a German acroplane was brought down and the aviator captured. At Vlatsoak, a German armored train coming from Alexandrovo attempted to shell the town, but was beaten off."

By the General Staff.

The Russian general staff issued the following official communication:

"Along the whole of the Austrian line the Russian troops on Sept. 4 succeeded with an offense movement. The Austrian center suffered most from the Russian attack. In the region west of Krasnystaw, the Austrian Forty-fifth regiment of infantry, which had been completely surrounded, was forced to a man to surrender, together with its commanding officer and forty-four officers—in all 1,600 men. The German division which was marching to help the Austrians was attacked on the left bank of the Vistula river. Russian troops have occupied Stryj river region.

"The Russian cavalry is already among the passes of the Carpathian mountains. On the east Prussian front we have had nothing but slight skirmishes, which are without significance."

Another official communication, issued under date of Sept. 4 says:

"The Russians have commenced a general offensive movement between the Vistula and Bug rivers. The Austrians did not expect a vigorous offensive, and Lemberg had to resist it.

"The Russians estimate that they seized a year's provisions.

"The Galician prisoners at Lemberg were set at liberty."

Berlin.

Berlin, Sept. 6, via London, Sept. 7.—The general staff today issued the following:

"Emperor William yesterday attended the attacks on the fortifications at Nancy.

"Two of the Maubeuge forts have fallen and the fire of the artillery is now directed against the town, which is burning in different places.

"The armies of Gens. von Kluck and von Buelow, north of the Belgian Meuse, completely surpassed the French troops, which were inactive Aug. 17. The cavalry of this wing, commanded by Gen. von Marnitz, has excellently veiled the movements of the army."

"Allies in Retreat."

London, Sept. 7.—The following German official statement was received last night by Marconi wireless telegraph:

"The German army administration reports that in the west the allied troops are in retreat between Paris and Verdun and that the German troops are pursuing them. Paris is empty and the only scene of animation there is around the railroad stations, which are filled with thousands of refugees. The London newspapers do not consider that Paris will defend itself to the utmost.

"In the eastern theater of war, the Austrian attack on Lublin continues and the armies commanded by Gens. Dank and Auffenberg still are engaged in dispersing the enemy so as to obtain the fullest advantage for their glorious victories at Krasnik and Zamosc.

"Their victories, which were achieved after three days of bitter fhting, resulted in the flight of the enemy. The Russian advance on Lemberg has been brought to a halt.

"Further important developments are imminent. The First Polish legion, under Austrian command, has been formed at Cracow. The emperor has appointed Gen. von Vaczynski to command this force. Warsaw is being prepared for defense by the Russians.

"It is reported that fear of the German fleet has caused great alarm in English seaport towns. In Hartlesool torpedo nets are set in front of the docks every evening. Elsewhere around the coasts the nervousness occasioned by the German mines is said to be indescribable.

"The enrollment of recruits for the British army is proceeding slowly. From one town of 700,000 inhabitants not more than 100 men reported themselves, the majority being tramps. The nation has not been permitted to learn the real situation at the seat of war."

Paris.

Paris, Sept. 7.—The following official communication was issued last night: "The allies armies have again come into contact on our left wing under good conditions with the right wing of the enemy on the banks of Grand Morin.

"Fighting continued on the center and right in Lorrain and the Vosges. The situation remains unchanged.

"Around Paris, the engagement begun by the allied army and the front of the advance guard of the German right has extended. We have advanced to the Ourche river.

"The situation of the allied army appears good as a whole.

"Maubeuge continues its heroic resistance."

An official communication issued Sunday afternoon says:

"The advance lines for the defense of Paris came in contact yesterday with the right wing of the Germans, who appeared in a covering movement in strong force on our right, advancing toward the southeast. A short engagement resulted to the advantage of the allies."

The police surprised three individuals who were exchanging signals from the banks of the Seine to the heights of Bellevue (an eastern quarter of Paris). They found in a vacant house in Bellevue a man who was formerly an interpreter in a Paris hotel. In his pocket was an order for safe conduct issued to him by the German staff in Belgium. The two other spies who were operating with this man escaped.

The latest reports of the killed include Lieut. Andre du Bief, son of the former minister of war, Fernand du Bief. Paul Langeron, an aviator, and Lieut. Larchey, son of Gen. Larchey, also were killed.

BELGIAN REFUGEES REACHING LONDON

London, Sept. 7.—Eight hundred Belgian refugees, chiefly women and children and a few crippled men, arrived in London last night on special trains from Folkestone. The English relief committee met the refugees, with nurses to care for the children and sick. Thousands of English gathered at the Charing Cross station and cheered the homeless Belgians as they were led through the crowds to conveyances provided to carry them to temporary quarters.

Most of the refugees were peasants from the farming sections ravaged by the war. The women were of all ages. They carried their clothing tied in tablecloths, sheets and aprons. Few of them had trunks or baggage. Many of them had no hats and some of them not even a change of clothing.

Churches for Shelter.

The inrush of Belgians and French has been so great that the London churches have been thrown open to shelter them until better quarters can be provided. Scores of volunteer nurses are caring for exhausted women, many of whom have lost husbands and sons in the war. It has been necessary to take many of the refugees direct from the trains to hospitals. Few Americans were among the crowds arriving from Folkestone last night.

The American cruiser Tennessee is expected at Southampton today with 800 Americans from Havre.

BRITISH CASUALTIES SO FAR TOTAL 15,000

London, Sept. 9.—It is officially announced that the British casualties during the war thus far have been 15,000.

An official list of British casualties was issued last night. This was the third list made public and completes the casualties up to Sept. 1. It shows:

Killed, 9 officers, 33 men; wounded, 27 officers, 127 men; missing, 49 officers, 4,555 men.

The latest casualty list issued by the British war office comprises 4,796 men. The two previous lists accounted for 10,355 men killed, wounded and missing, making a total of 15,151.

ROUMANIA WILL FOLLOW ITALY.

Washington, Sept. 7.—German and Austrian consular officers have been ordered by British authorities to leave Egypt at once.

Roumania has announced officially that if she abandons her position of neutrality it will be to follow the course taken by Italy.

Great Britain has informed the United States that she would look with favor on sending of American warships to Turkish ports to care for Christians in case there was a Mohammedan uprising against them.

JAP AVIATORS DROP BOMBS ON TSING TAU.

Tokio, Sept. 7.—The Japanese naval commander reports that two aeroplanes reconnoitered Tsing Tau Saturday and dropped bombs on the wireless station. One of the aeroplanes received fifteen shots in its wings, but both returned safely.

Looking through a powerful microscope you find the skin a marvelous network of tiny blood vessels, glands, ducts, and cells in all of which the active principle of S. S. BUSY DAY AT HIBBING FAIR

Duluth Boosters Return From Enjoyable Trip to County Exhibition.

Aviator Lost in Clouds—Fine Showing of Live Stock.

Somewhat fatigued after a strenuous day of parading and handshaking, 150 Duluth Boosters returned in their special train early Sunday morning from Hibbing, where they attended the Duluth day celebration of the St. Louis county fair. The special train left Hibbing Saturday evening at 10 o'clock via the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway and reached Duluth about 1 o'clock yesterday.

Duluth was well represented at the fair Saturday not only by those who made the trip on the Boosters' special but by many other Duluthians who made the trip to the county fair grounds in automobiles.

The Third Regiment band headed by Frank X. Gravel, famous as a parade leader on Bocster trips, and Col. H. V. Eva, secretary of the Commercial club, marched through the principal streets of Hibbing followed by the Boosters who were decked out in white caps and each with a Duluth pennant. After a parade through the business district the Boosters went to the fair grounds, where they were joined by many other visitors from the Zenith City.

Aviation Stunts.

The feature of the afternoon exhibition at the fair Saturday was the flight of De Lloyd Thompson, a Chicago aviator, who loops the loop and flys upside down and does other dare devil stunts in the air. Just to do something different Saturday Aviator Thompson lost himself in the clouds and disappeared from the view of the 5,000 people who were watching his aerial acrobatics. In alighting, a mild sensation was furnished owing to the fact that the machine struck a small fence and turned the plane up on its end breaking off one of its wheels. The aviator escaped unharmed.

Race Program.

The race program provided by the fair management proved to be quite a drawing card for many of the visitors. Others spent the afternoon viewing the various exhibits on display in the main building. The booths were attractively arranged and the various articles on exhibition showed careful selection. The livestock and poultry houses also proved to be attractive to many Duluth visitors.

Saturday evening, the Duluth delegation joined the automobile and industrial parade which was put on in the business section of the town by the Hibbing lodge of Elks. The principal streets were decorated with colored lights and two bands participated.

County officials were well represented at the fair Saturday, many of them joining the crowd of Duluth boosters. Among the officials who were in Hibbing for the day were: Odin Halden, county auditor; J. O. Walker, deputy county auditor; George H. Vivian, county treasurer; Joseph Nelson, deputy county treasurer; A. E. Dyer, county surveyor; Charles Calligan, register of deeds; S. W. Gilpin, judge of probate; J. P. Johnson, clerk of the district court and Mason M. Forbes, assistant county attorney. Among the county commissioners who attended were Neil McInnis of Eveleth, chairman of the county board, Charles Kauppi of West Duluth; Walter Swanstrom, Duluth; Alex Fraser of Duluth and R. S. O'Neil of Chisholm.

In addition to the county officials themselves the Duluth delegation also included a large number of clerks and employes in the various county offices. The Zenith Telephone company also sent a good sized delegation of boosters from its office and other firms and business houses of the city had their representatives in the Boosters' special.

NINE NEUTRAL SHIPS DESTROYED.

Washington, Sept. 7.—Nine neutral merchant ships have been destroyed by German mines, according to advices to the British embassy here. The message says: "The following neutral vessels are known by the admiralty to have been destroyed by German mines, in most cases with loss of life among the crews: Five Danish, two Dutch, one Norwegian, one Swedish."

MUST TAKE $1,200 OR NEW TRIAL

Court Says Jury's Verdict for $2,000 Was Too High.

Elizabeth Kludinski, whose husband was killed by a Great Northern train in the Superior yards, where he was employed as a section hand Jan. 14, 1913, must within the next ten days file a written consent to having a $2,000 verdict she received at the hands of a district court jury last May reduced to $1,200, or Judge Cant will grant the motion of the company for a new trial. An order to this effect was filed by the court Saturday afternoon after arguments had been heard on an alternative motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or for a new trial. The widow sued for $10,000.

SENTENCES TWO TO STATE'S PRISON

Sold Liquor to Indians; One Is Placed on Parole.

Fred Meyers and Matt Longayo, each charged with the crime of selling liquor to an Indian, pleaded guilty to informations prepared by H. S. Lord, county attorney for Carlton county, before Judge Ensign in district court Saturday afternoon. Both were sentenced to the penitentiary, but in Longayo's case the sentence was suspended and the prisoner was placed on parole.

Meyers, a familiar character about Cloquet, is an old offender, and is said to have caused the authorities of Carlton county considerable trouble by furnishing liquor to Indians of a nearby reservation. In Longayo's case, the court learned that the defendant had a wife and five children dependent upon him for support and leniency was extended.

LITTLE WILLIE'S GUESS.

Philadelphia Telegraph: Congressman Finly H. Gray of Indiana said in the lobby of a Washington hotel the other night that you can't lose the kids when it comes to making a good guess even if they don't hit the mark. In substantiation of the statement he told this story:

Some time ago the teacher in a public school was giving a talk on classic mythology. Little Willie was not very attentive, and when it came to the questioning part of the game he was lost in the wilderness.

"Willie," said the teacher, closing the book and looking impressively at the youngster, "can you tell me who Cyclops was?"

"Yes, ma'am," was the prompt answer of Willie, "he was the feller what wrote the 'cyclopaedia."

CAPTAIN OF KING'S GUARD

Harold Sherwood Spencer in Suite of Prince William of Wied.

Duluthian's Nephew Has Had Brief But Picturesque Career.

While the events of the big war have been attracting chief attention in the European news, there has been an occasional item about Prince William of Weid, the man who was sent to Albania by the great powers of Europe when that territory was made an independent state as a result of the Balkan war. To those Duluth and Superior people who are acquainted with Harold Sherwood Spencer, the news about Prince William will take on a personal interest, for Mr. Spencer was a "captain of the King's guard" for Prince William, and was with that ruler when, about the middle of last week, he made a hasty though dignified exit from Albania, as a result of the Moslem rebellion which has been in progress almost ever since he assumed the rulership there.

Last Saturday's cable news said that the prince was in Italy with his suite, and it is believed that Mr. Spencer still is with him, as his relations with the prince have been very personal.

Mr. Spencer, though only 23 years old, has had an exceedingly active career. He was born in Superior, Wis., the son of a sister of W. C. Sherwood of Duluth. He went West with his parents while still a boy, and was but a youngster when his mother's death occurred in Arizona. On arriving at the proper age, young Spencer became a student at the naval academy in Annapolis, and expected to finish his course there and enter the navy. Ill health interfered, however, and he went to Colorado, where he lived for a few years, meanwhile breaking into the newspaper game to such good purpose that when the war in Tripoli occurred a few years ago he was made correspondent for the New York Herald. Meanwhile he found time to prepare for publication a number of original verses, which were produced in book form at the close of the war, under the title, "The Flood of Youth." The verses received some exceedingly flattering comment in English magazines.

At the close of his services as war correspondent, Mr. Spencer remained in Europe, still sending matter to his paper, until last winter, when he was made private secretary to United States Ambassador Thomas Nelson Page at Rome. Meanwhile he had become acquainted with the conditions in Albania, and when Prince William went there as ruler, he gave Spencer the position of Capt. of the King's guard.

How long the young man will remain with the prince, and whether he shares the prince's expressed hope to return later to Albania in more peaceful times, his friends here do not know. Prince William, in his farewell message to the Albanian people, spoke of this hope, and also said that he planned to "spend some months in the Occident." It is possible that his captain of the guard has so filled the royal head with stories of America that the ruler has decided to pay a visit to this country. Perhaps his informer has been able to convince him that it would be worth while to see Duluth while on such a trip.

Mr. Spencer has frequently visited his relatives in this city, and has a considerable circle of acquaintances here and in Superior, though he has not made his home in either place for many years.

THIS WEEK'S WEATHER

Washington, Sept. 7.—Weather indications for the week, the weather bureau says, are that with the exception of unsettled weather Monday in the Middle Atlantic and New England states, the weather will be generally fair with seasonable temperatures during the next several days over practically all parts of the country. The next disturbance of importance to cross the country will appear in the Far West Monday and Tuesday and move eastward over the Middle West Wednesday or Thursday and the Eastern states about Friday; this disturbance will be attended by local showers and thunder storms and be followed by considerably cooler weather.

LOOK OUT FOR CROWN GALL ON RASPBERRIES AND BLACKBERRIES

The Minnesota inspection service has found a large amount of crown gall on raspberries and, to esome extent, on blackberries in the nurseries of the state. Many nurserymen are aware of the dangerous nature of this disease and are doing all they can, apparently to eradicate it from among the canes. It frequently kills raspberries; consequently anyone receiving canes with gall-like swellings on roots or stems, from a nursery, should refuse to accept or pay for same.

As far back as February, 1908, the entomologist issued an illustrated circular describing this disease. These circulars were sent to all nurserymen.

Old raspberry plants, if affected, look unhealthy, frequently with scanty leaves or leaves dropping or yellowing. When such plants are pulled, in this latitude, galls are almost invariably found upon them. It stands to reason that young plants growing in the immediate vicinity are almost sure to be affected, either showing galls upon the roots when pulled, or developing them after being planted.

VOICES FRIENDSHIP OF SPAIN AND FRANCE.

Bordeaux, Sept. 7.—Lieut.-Gen. Marquis de Vallierra, the new Spanish ambassador to France, presented his credentials to President Poincare and made a short address, in the course of which he said:

"The traditional relations that bind our two nations are strengthened still more by the common mission they are raising in Northern Africa, which is profoundly appreciated by the Spanish people, who wish ardently that the noble French nation may continue, in the bosom of beneficent peace, its progressive development. May it please heaven that Spain may contribute to accelerate the happy moment."

In reply, President Poincare, after thanking the ambassador and referring to his sentiments of friendship for King Alfonso, said:

"France did not want war. It did all that was possible to avoid it, and now its duty is to pursue it with its allies to victory and to the ends of justice."

PEACE SERVICE.

Rev. J. W. Hoffman Speaks to W. C. T. U. Members.

That the declaration of war between nations should be submitted to the popular vote of the people, the rank and file who have to stand the brunt of the battles through untold suffering and the loss of life, instead of allowing congress to decide, was the meat of an address given yesterday afternoon by Dr. John W. Hoffman at a special peace service held by the Women's Christian Temperance union at the First Methodist church. He advocated taking the power of declaring war from congress.

The speaker contended that if the people had the power in the past of declaring war there would not have been one-tenth of the wars that now are history. Many of the wars were, he said, the result of hot-headedness on the part of diplomats.

He also said that liquor has been responsible for speeches which resulted in the declaration of the Civil war. He said that diplomats cannot be relied on to use their diplomacy nor have such a keen conscience that they will avoid violence after having partaken of drink.

Watson Moore, superintendent of the Sunday school of the First Methodist church, also spoke and agreed heartily with Dr. Hoffman that questions of war should be submitted to a popular vote. Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor of the Swedish Mission church; Mrs. Alfred Jaques, Mrs. Alice Warren, Mrs. Ella Robinson, president of the central W. C. T. U. of Duluth and Mrs. Joseph Cochran, district president, were among the speakers.

AT THE LYCEUM.

Baldwin Players Present "Thelma" Staged in Elaborate Manner.

"Thelma," an interesting dramatic production, will hold the attention of Duluthians during the first and last of the week at the Lyceum, the scenic masterpiece being presented by the Baldwin Players. Almost the entire cast of the stock organization is utilized in the presentation of this, the seventeenth week's run of the popular aggregation's Duluth appearance. Backed by Manager Baldwin's best effort at staging, the Baldwin Players exhibited their abilities to pleased audiences afternoon and evening Sunday in the initial performances of the piece, and, allowing for the middle-week break in the engagement, a successful run seems inevitable.

Homer Barton, leading man of the local company, scored again, and this time in a role unusual to that unusual actor—as Sir Philip Errington. Vaughn Morgan, as George Lorimer, came, perhaps, next, and James Nelson and Joseph De Stefani in dual parts, followed closely in the esteem of the patrons of the Lyceum.

Lola May, entrancing, elusive, was phisically, mentally, and artistically equivalent to the title role. Little Vernie Barrett, faithful made of the Norwegian princess, achieved her nook of appreciation, and Maud Melville, as is usual with that capable actress, played the actress, Violet Vere, with reality and an artist's touch. Helen Keers, doubling as Lady Winsleigh and Lovisa, was pleasing.

Taken altogether, the play is extremely well staged and well acted.

It seems that statements of excellence regarding the work of the Baldwin Players have become superfluous; a mere matter of staging, adequate preparation time, and the company "makes good" in any class of entertainment. Thus Thelma, new in theme and action, becomes again, as in previous productions by the Baldwins, composite perfection.

"Thelma" essentially is melodramatic and as such recommends itself to the lover of situations and climaxes. Scenically it is superb if so staged, and Manager Baldwin apparently has not wasted an opportunity to make the setting fit the orginal intention.

The story of Thelma is that of a beautiful and high-bred Norwegian girl, convent-raised, and returned to her Northland home. Gracious, she bestows upon a cripple the kindly affection she felt for his condition, and befalls in love with her. He is insanely jealous of her and when a yanug Englishman comes awooing, the cripple schemes for the destruction of the Englishman. From the edge of a chasm below a waterfall, the cripple tries to put to death the man who has won the heart of Thelma, but the Englishman's friend shoots the knife held by the cripple from his hand, and the cripple destroys himself by leaping into the whirlpool of the falls.

The Englishman marries Thelma. Surrounded by luxury, happy in the love of her husband, Thelma lives in peace until her "friend," one of the English aristocracy, herself in love with Thelma's husband, conspires to wreck Thelma's home. An actress whom Thelma's husband is endeavoring to persuade to return to her husband, is used by Thelma's perfidious woman friend, and by imputation and by letters that contain apparent confirmation of Thelma's husband's duplicity, the young wife is driven from her home. She returns to Norway, where her father, one of the original Vikings, after being cursed and then stabbed by a woman that loved him before his marriage to Thelma's mother, goes to sea to die as the Vikings did of old, on board their ship with flames surrounding him at the last. Thelma's husband follows her to Norway, where a reconciliation occurs and she returns to her English home, safe in the affection of her husband's love.

Monday, for three days, "Omar, The Tentmaker," with Guy Bates Post, will intervene at the Lyceum. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Baldwin Players again will be seen in Sunday's bill, "Thelma."

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Satire and Chamber Music Feature the New Vaudeville Bill.

Satire and chamber music are rather rarely found on a vaudeville bill, but they are the rather unusual features of this week's offering at the Orpheum theater. After two weeks of rather light bills, the Orpheum comes into its own this week with a program of vaudeville that is marked by real cleverness, good taste and exceptional ability.

A little novelty at the very opening of the bill puts the audience in good humor. C. W. Andrews, the player of the stringed bass instrument, sang a bass solo yesterday following the regular overture. It is a popular ballad of his own composition, "On a Lonely Isle," and the audience demanded an encore before the curtain was permitted to go up.

The satire is furnished by Miss Gertrude Coghlan and the chamber music by Theodore Bendix. Miss Coghlan's playlet is one of the five produced at the Princess theater in New York last winter by Holbrook Blinn. It is called "Food," and is a satire on the high cost of living. The action is supposed to take place in the year 1962, when an egg is worth untold wealth, and to kill a hen is punishable with death. Miss Coghlan is a clever enough actress to play satire seriously. No attempt is made to burlesque the clever little playlet, and she goes through it as she would an emotional role. J. H. Gilmour supports her intelligently as the husband who can't afford to satisfy his wife's ruinous taste for eggs. John Osgood, as the officer in the food guard, is also eminently satisfactory in his white and gold uniform. It is a wholly pleasing novelty in the playlet line, and handled skilfully as it is, is good for many a laugh.

The ensemble work of Theodore Bendix and his little band of musicians is delightful. Orpheum audiences do not often have the opoprtunity to hear such music, and the reception they were given yesterday proves that vaudeville audiences do like good chamber music, at least as an occasional break in the steady flow of ragtime. Mr. Bendix shows good judgment in his program making. He has avoided heavier numbers, and has chosen those with pronounced melody or rhythm. The cello solo Leo Sachs uses a dainty "Chanson Napolitaine," and for the violin solo Arthur Lichstein plays "Dance Espagnole" by Rehfeld. The closing ensemble is a medley of Irish airs, including "The Low Backed Car" and "The Cruiskeen Lawn." An encore was demanded yesterday and they played a setting of "The Little Gray Home in the West," the song that was introduced by Alma Gluck last winter in her concert tour. On the whole it is a dignified and musicianly offering and it got the appreciation it deserved yesterday.

Swor and Mack, blackface comedians, got a "hand" yesterday on their entrance that McIntyre and Heath might have envied, and they are worthy successors of these two famous comedians. They are a never failing, sure fire hit with a vaudeville audience. The eccentric dance and the pantomime poker game of the large, loosely hung member of the team, whichever he is, would awaken the most thoroughly "handcuffed" audience in vaudeville.

Eunice Burnham and Charles Irwin are back with a greatly improved act. Miss Burnham is a plump (she admits it herself), genial, wholesome sort of person, with an engaging smile and manner, and her partner is a clever young Englishman who knows how to tell dialect stories and sing dialect songs, and who gives about the funniest bit as an intoxicated Scotsman that has been seen here since Harry Lauder made his whirlwind tour.

The other three acts are good average vaudeville turns. Grace Mack and John Ellis sing and dance acceptably. Adair and Adair have a lively comedy bar act as an opener, and the Alco Trio close with first-class acrobatic turn, the feature of which is the work of the young woman.

The new Travel Weekly lived up to its advance notices. It is a most interesting motion picture feature. The first set of views includes scenes in China, Spain, Egypt and Japan. They are certainly more instructive and promise to be more popular than the news pictures shown previously.

CLASSY BILL AT GRAND.

Capacity Audiences Welcome Best Bill Up to Date.

A bill of rare entertaining quality opened a four-day engagement at the New Grand theater yesterday and played to capacity houses. Manager Ed. R. Salter has succeeded in improving his bill each week since the theater opened and both the vaudeville and pictures are the best that can be obtained at popular prices.

Headlining the bill this week is the Elks' Trio, consisting of Miss Amanda Norton Gray and two young men. Miss Gray is a Kentucky girl and might be justly termed "the sweet Southern singer." She possesses a charming personality and a voice of rare power and sweetness. She scored a big hit in a feature number entitled "Invitation," written for her by Robert Brown, a well-known newspaper man of Louisville. She is ably assisted by her male partners, both of whom have excellent voices and appearance. All of their selections were heartily received.

Bruce and Calvert, German dialecticians, made a hit with their string of jokes and comedy songs. In "The Artist and the Tramp," the Sidonians present a novel form of entertainment that is exceedingly pleasing. The young woman is an able artist and while she is sketching and drawing the "tramp" goes through a series of comedy "stunts" that keep the audience in constant laughter.

The Three Cyclonians present a bicycle act that goes through with the rapidity and accurateness seldom seen on the vaudeville stage.

The photoplays were exceptionally good. Manager Salter has shown excellent judgment in his selection of films. They are furnished by the licensed companies and for that reason are not duplicated in Duluth.

"The White Mouse," a Selig in two parts, featured the picture program yesterday. This film tells on the screen a story of the North woods, full of rarely beautiful scenes and a gripping heart story. George Ade, the famous "slang-fable" genius, is at his best in "The Difference Between Learning and Learning How," a corking good comedy film which closes with the epigram "Any man with plenty of coin can become a leader of thought."

The present bill will be continued until Thursday with continuous performances from noon untill 11 p. m.

"Omar the Tentmaker."

Direct from a triumphant twenty-five weeks' engagement in New York, Guy Bates Post, will inaugurate a three days' engagement at the Lyceum, beginning today with a matinee in Richard Walton Tully's sumptuous Persian love-play, "Omar, the Tentmaker." The entire original cast and spectacular scenic equipment will be brought intact.

Mr. Tully has based the action of his play upon the life, times and Rubaiyat of the genial Persian poet and mystic of the eleventh century, Omar Khayyam. During the course of the action Omar speaks nearly all of the best known quatrians. Yet the play contains no shred of literary pedantism. On the contrary it is swift moving and compact with thrilling realism.

Briefly, the play recounts the wonderful love, life and picturesque wanderings of one of the most romantic figures in the world's history. Omar Khayyam, the great Persian poet, mystic and epicurean of the Eleventh century shares in immortal kinship the spirit of Dante, the Italian, and Francois Villon, the first poet of France. How Omar wooed the beautiful Shireen in the glowing flower-garden at sunset, how he remained faithful to her through stressful years, how he sought and found and lost and found again his happiness, how he sang of the grape and love and joy in eternal quatrains, how he defied bigotry, suffered unspeakable tortures, delved into the basic riddles of human existence have all been skillfully co-mingled in the most entrancing romance of modern times.

"Omar, the Tentmaker" reproducing the flamboyant, picturesque life of Old Persia, is the most perfect example of luxurious stage adornment visible in the theatres of the English speaking world. So massive is the scenic investiture that only the largest stages in America can accommodate the six huge setting, the pictorial beauty of which is unsurpassable.

OBSERVATIONS

—By PEGGY PEABODY—

Employers Are Quite Often at Fault.

There are two sides to every question, even to the one in which the boss accuses all of his employes of watching the clock too closely and of dropping whatever instruments their work requires just as the day laborer does his shovel on the stroke of 12. The plain, unvarnished fact is that the heads of businesses are not always what they should be.

It often happens, and with what seems increasing frequency, that a young man who has been baited with promises to exert himself to the utmost has come to the point where there isn't anything ahead of him in the employ of this particular man. Sometimes the realization is very bitter and the circumstances very unfair, not to say dishonest. Under such disappointment and disillusionment some young men who gave promise, rapidly deteriorate into the type who work with one eye on the clock and lips always framed in protest of their employer and his ways.

There is but one thing to do when the earnest young man, giving his best to his employer, comes to the realization that he isn't being dealt with fairly, that he isn't appreciated or that he has attained the height of his prospects. Let him get out and seek pastures anew. Let him not stick in fear and trembling that he cannot make himself worth his own estimation of what his services should be worth in another position. He can usually, if he is a worker and honest with himself.

It is one of the hardest things in the world to convince young men of this. All but a few succumb in one way and another to the hardships and injustices encountered in business life. Those who do survive too often only repeat their unfortunate training when it comes their turn to deal with a subordinate or dependent.

My advice to the boss who has grown rich through the hard work of others, is, never make the mistake of limiting an honest, earnest, capable man's prospects. And to the young man I would say, never stay where they are unfair or where the end is in sight. Find a place where your efforts will be appreciated, as the honest employer always appreciates efforts that fill his coffers. Or make them pay your price because you are worth it.

DEMOCRATIC SPEAKERS TO TAKE STUMP FOR HAMMOND

Will Start Campaign Soon, As Hammond Cannot Leave His Duties in Congress---How Lee, When Speaker of the House, Packed Committees Against Reform Legislation---Sam Fullerton Expects to Be Fire Marshal if Lee Wins in November.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the Democratic state central committee is disappointed at the action of Congressman Winfield S. Hammond, party nominee for governor, in refusing to come to Minnesota to take part in the campaign until the present critical period in national affairs is safely passed, yet the members feel that the congressman's unselfish devotion to duty will add greatly to his strength throughout the state. In order that the people may get some straight from the shoulder Democratic talks between Sept. 14 and the time Mr. Hammond arrives, the committee has decided to send a number of prominent speakers into the field. Among them are Charles M. Andrist, nominee for lieutentant governor; A. L. Sorter, Jr., Minneapolis, chairman of the committee and reputed to be one of the best campaigners in Minnesota; State Senator S. D. Works, treasurer of the committee; Nell Cronin, Minneapolis, nominee for attorney general and an aggressive young Democrat, and Moses Winthrop, also of Minneapolis. These men will reach as many points as possible and aside from speaking for the ticket will report on the Hammond sentiment in the districts they visit.

Reports of Friction Exaggerated.

W. A. Hardenbergh has resigned as chairman of the Ramsey county Democratic committee and a meeting will be held about Sept. 15 to pick his successor. Mr. Hardenbergh was elected chairman at the first meeting of the committee held on Aug. 28. This was after the members had turned down the slate prepared by the state committee which contemplated the election of James Nowell as chairman. Mr. Hardenbergh, however, was not at the meeting and has informed Secretary W. C. Stieger that because of business duties he cannot serve. He also says he is living at White Bear Lake and would be unable to get in at nights to attend the necessary conferences during the campaign.

There have been reports of friction among the Ramsey Democrats but these have been greatly exaggerated. The overthrow of the so-called slate at the first meeting was a result of a friendly contest between two rival factions and both sides took the affair good naturedly. There is a similar situation in Hennepin county where there is an apparent split in the committee. The Republicans have been busy circulating the report that the disagreement is serious, but this has had but little effect as those on both sides of the Minneapolis controversy had buried the hatchet and are preparing to work hard for the success of Hammond.

When Lee Was Speaker.

Antiquarians searching through the files of the St. Paul and Duluth newspapers of twenty-one years ago when William E. Lee, now Republican candidate for governor, was speaker of the house, have come upon some interesting reading. It really seems strange what a difference just a few years make in the attitude of some men on public questions. Now Mr. Lee alleges he is reformer. While these papers do not reveal what Mr. Lee thought of himself then, yet they tell what apparently some other people thought of him.

This from the Duluth Herald, Jan. 7, 1893:

"The machine scored another triumph at St. Paul by the election of William E. Lee to the speakership of the house. It likewise obtained control of the senate and elected its slate there by making a deal for offices with several alliance senators. Mr. Greer (Allan J. Greer of Goodhue county, candidate for speaker against Lee) made a hard fight against the machine, but he had neither the money nor the influence to stand up against it. He made his protest, however, by refusing to go into the caucus controlled by the machine, and he continued the hopeless fight until the decisive vote in the house."

It seems strange to hear that Mr. Lee was the machine choice. Recently he has been parading as independent of machine politics and won his nomination by attacking the Eberhart organization as a machine.

The St. Paul Globe under date of Jan. 11, 1893, has this interesting comment:

"Speaker William E. Lee and Lieutenant Governor David M. Clough pulled together nicely yesterday and the pair have the satisfaction of knowing that they slighted the Capitol City, defrauded the minority in each house and as far as they were able so packed the leading committees as to make it certain that no reform legislation can be put through at this session. Neither Speaker Lee nor Lieutenant Governor Clough appear to have any idea of the rights of minorities."

Should Mr. Lee be charged now with trying to hinder reform legislation he probably would make an indignant denial. But the reformer of 1914 perhaps is not the William E. Lee of 1893, or, again, perhaps the Globe was hostile anyway and misinterpreted Mr. Lee's motives.

Will Keep Open House.

The Republican and Democratic state committees will keep open house in St. Paul this week, the former at the Merchants hotel and the latter at the Saint Paul. The Republican committee opened its state headquarters here on Sept. 1 with J. Albert Johnson of Red Wing in charge. Chairman Gunnar B. Bjornson has promised to spend most of his time at the Merchants, and the Minneapolis offices in the Dyckman hotel will be run by Secretary W. O. Clure, who will direct the sending out of literature and the clerical work from that point. Many politicians from all over the state are expected in St. Paul this week and a large number of conferences are planned. Of course the big attraction is the first meeting of the Democratic state committee since its appointment. This will take place on Wednesday, Sept. 9, at the Saint Paul. Luncheon will be served the guests and this will be followed by a business meeting. About 200 are expected and the meeting promises to rival in enthusiasm that held by the Republicans at Minneapolis on Aug. 19. Plans for the campaign are to be made and the state nominees will be heard briefly. Mr. Hammond has written a letter to be read to the delegates which promises to be the most interesting feature. Chairman A. L. Sorter will preside.

* * *

A Quiet Campaign.

The last week has been particularly quiet politically, the war absorbing so much attention that the candidates have difficulty in getting people to give them even a brief hearing. The prediction is now freely made that this campaign will be the quietest in the history of the state. Absolutely no enthusiasm has been aroused so far, and this, too, despite the fact that Mr. Lee is engaged in an energetic gumshoe tour of the commonwealth, in which he is paying particular attention to Second district points where Mr. Hammond is conceded to be strong. He will open his speechmaking at Marshall on Sept. 14, but although strenuous efforts have been made to advertise this event there has been little response.

Fullerton as a Prophet.

Samuel F. Fullerton, deputy state fire marshal, former executive agent of the game and fish commission and one of the old time politicians, has been touring Northern Minnesota recently in the interests of Mr. Lee. He frankly predicts the election of the Long Prairie man and says that he will be surprised if the majority of his candidate is less than 20,000.

* * *

Fullerton Would Be Fire Marshal.

During the primary campaign Mr. Lee's chief newspaper supporter in Minneapolis came out with a bitter attack on the conduct of the fire marshal's office under Charles E. Keller, an Eberhart appointee and a brother of former Mayor Herbert P. Keller of St. Paul. The financial records of the department were ransacked for alleged incriminating evidence and the inference was drawn that the deputies were travelling about at the expense of the state with the sole purpose of boosting Governor Eberhart. It now seems strange that Mr. Fullerton, who is drawing a salary from the state is permitted by the new Republican organization to spend his time campaigning for Mr. Lee. Some politicians have wondered whether Mr. Lee knows this, and go so far as to say that if he was informed he surely would be compelled to ask Mr. Fullerton to desist, in view of the expose of the Minneapolis paper before the primaries. It is pointed out that the attitude of the Lee followers then and now is not at all consistent. Mr. Fullerton is perhaps as well known as any man in Minnesota and it is generally understood that he is looking for the appointment of fire marshal should the Republicans win on Nov. 3.

* * *

The Keller Machine.

The attitude of the Keller machine in St. Paul remains a mystery. When Mayor Keller decided not to run again, he wished his support onto Alderman Leavitt Corning, who was a poor third in the race for the nomination at the March primaries. Since then there has been little effort to stir up the old machine, although just before the state primaries it made a show of strength by getting out and working for Governor Eberhart. The governor carried the county two to one over Mr. Lee, but whether this was due to Lee's weakness or the Keller support is not evident. It is understood that Chairman Gunnar B. Bjornson of the Republican committee has recently had several conferences with Mr. Corning and the former mayor, and that an arrangement has been made to get the support of what is left of the old organization.

* * *

No Keller Man on Committee.

When the Republicans organized their county committee last week, however, they were very careful not to hav any of the Keller men actively identified with it. A. H. Lindeke, a wealthy wholesaler and member of the firm of Lindeke, Warner & Sons, was appointed chairman, and C. Harold Richter secretary. Mr. Lindeke has been a life-long fgriend of Mr. Lee and has taken a deep personal interest in his campaign. Two years ago Mr. Richter was prominently identified with the Progressive cause, but when that party started on the down grade he flopped back to the Republican organization and got in on the ground floor. He is an artist by profession and a leading amateur politician of the Hugh T. Halbert type. The committee proposes to open headquarters and make an active fight locally for Mr. Lee.

* * *

Preus and Rines.

The Preus-Rines contest for the Republican nomination for state auditor is rapidly fading away. No votes were counted last week and Mr. Rines went to his home at Mora on Thursday, saying he would be back early this week to designate the counties where the recount was to be continued. Insurance Commissioner Preus went to Chicago on the same day. He expects to return Tuesday, but will leave again Thursday for Ashville, N. C., to attend the annual convention of insurance commissioners, according to his present plans. His interests in the recount will be looked after by Clyde R. White of Minneapolis. So far Mr. Rhines has failed to gain enough votes to materially reduce the Preus lead. By his own figures his gain has not been over 300 at the outside and nearly half the votes in the state have been counted. He must do much better to enable him to cut down the Preus lead of 1,957 to a minority, and those familiar with the situation say that he is now inclined to give up the fight. It is known that the Lee followers have for a long time urged him to desist, fearing that it would alienate many of the Eberhart following if he kept up. Mr. Rines, however, has been obdurate and persists in asserting that he will win. This condition indicates that Preus has made friends with the Lee following and that his desertion of the Eberhart crowd is perhaps permanent.

WILSON WILL STAY ON JOB

President Has Decided to Make No Campaign Tours.

Asks Congressmen to Remain Until Work Is Finished.

Washington, Sept. 7.—President Wilson announces that he will not make a speaking tour during the coming campaign. He declares his intention of "staying on the job because of the unlooked-for international situation."

The president made his intentions known in a letter to Representative Doremus of Michigan, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, who had written him asking whether he would make a speaking campaign this fall. The correspondence was made public at the White House.

"America is greater than any party," the president wrote. "America cannot properly be served by any man who for a moment measures his interest against her advantage. The time has come for great things.

Days Big for Destiny.

"These are days big for destiny for the United States as for the other nations of the world. A little wisdom, a little courage, a little self-forgetful devotion may, under God, turn that destiny this way or that. Great hearts, great natures will respond. Even little men will rejoice to be stimulated and guided and set an heroic example. Parties will fare well enough without nursing if the men who make them forget themselves to serve a cause and set a great people forward on the path of liberty and peace."

Despite his determination to make no speeches, Mr. Wilson will "take occasion, as opportunity offers, to state and perhaps restate to the country in the clearest and most convincing terms I can command, the things which the Democratic party has attempted to do."

No Need of Long Session.

The president asked that congressmen "remain to do their work of necessary and pressing service and bring it to a successful conclusion. He said, however, that he saw nothing to keep congress in session after the emergency work was finished.

The president had been asked to speak in Iowa, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Maine and other states. He had previously told those who asked him that he would make no promises until he saw what the general situation was.

STAR BUTTER PRODUCER

Jean Du Luth Cow Makes 800 Pounds During Year.

After losing the state honors two years ago, a cow owned by the Jean du Luth farm has again won the honors in production of butter. This time it is the Starlight's Contrast, 4-year-old Guernsey.

Starlight's Contrast will close her year's work, making over 800 pounds of commercial butter, this record being even 100 pounds better than that established three years ago by Starlight Fern, another Guernsey of the Jean du Luth farm. Two years ago the state honors went to a Guernsey owned by Dr. Mayo of Rochester, while last year the championship was won by Belle Hutchinson, owned by A. C. Loring of St. Paul.

It was announced today that Starlight's Contrast will be placed on exhibition at the third annual industrial exposition at the Curling club next week.

POWERS OF THE STATE BOARDS

Efficiency Commission's Plan Endeavors to Systematize the Scheme—Does Not Suggest New Powers.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frequent mention is found in the efficiency commission's plan of boards that make regulations which have the force of law.

The efficiency commission did not invest these powers. It found them lying round loose. It does not suggest new powers. It does try to sort out and put in the best place those it finds.

Chief among them are the powers of the railroad and warehouse commission to regulate rates and service. Universally that power has been referred by congress and the state legislatures to boards. It was found impracticable to handle the problem in its details by the legislatures. It is not the sort of duty one would confide to an executive officer. The board or commission is the universally adopted answer.

The Best Agency.

The board of health has the power to make regulations which have the force of law. The livestock sanitary commission has powers to handle these details. The board is the best agency to say how these powers may be exercised.

The game and fish commission has authority to forbid the sale of fish under certain circumstances, purely a legislative power. It seems to have authority to forbid hunting in any designated territory—certainly not a power to be given to a single officer.

The highway commission has authority to distribute public money among counties—what can be more purely a legislative function than making appropriations.

How It May Be Systematized.

In practice the scheme has been pretty well worked out—broad policies to be determined by the legislature, a representative body; details to be worked out by permanent boards wherever private interests are affected. So there has gradually grown up a system of boards with sub-legislative authority. Or rather it has grown up without system. The efficiency commission is trying to show how it may be systematized.

There are found in the same way quasi-judicial powers which it has been found more convenient to refer to boards than to the courts. The railroad and warehouse commission in its findings furnishes again the chief example of this grant of authority. But on close inspection it is found that similar authority is given somewhere to nearly every branch of the government. It has been done because it is the most convenient way of handling certain classes of problems.

Offers No Opinion.

It has been suggested that such duties should be performed by judges alone. Perhaps that would be better. The efficiency commission has not attempted to offer an opinion on that point. It simply takes these duties as it finds them, as the legislature has in the past provided for them, and recommends an arrangement of them which it believes is more orderly than the present.

One of the great faults now is that the same body often has executive, quasi-judicial and sub-legislative powers. The efficiency commission draws lines as distinctly as possible, so that—as the inspired writer of the Sauk Center Herald puts it—the executive officers shall exec, the judges judge and the legislature legislate.

FIRE STARTS FROM DEFECTIVE WIRING

Blaze Causes $200 Damage at Ashtabula Flats Sunday.

Defective wiring in the basement of the Ashtabula flats, Fifth avenue east and Third street, caused a blaze that damaged the building and its contents to the extent of about $200 yesterday afternoon. This is the second fire in that structure during the year.

Most of the damage was done in the rear rooms of the flat occupied by Jens Flaaten and the basement underneath his apartment. The fire several months ago also damaged Mr. Flaaten's flat.

A still alarm was first sent out when the blaze was discovered about 4:30 o'clock, but additional apparatus was later sent for.

SUCCUMBS AFTER A LONG ILLNESS.

Mrs. Bradley Thorp, 62 years old, died yesterday morning at her home, 230 East Fourth street, after an illness of a year. She came to Duluth about four years ago and last summer was taken ill. About two weeks ago her condition became serious.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. E. A. Darrow, and a niece, Mrs. C. C. Jones, both of Duluth.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Crawford undertaking rooms, with interment at the Forest Hill cemetery.

OCEAN OVER MANDAN.

Discoveries Indicate North Dakota Town Was Under Sea Once.

Mandan, N. D., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—That Mandan was once the bottom of a great sea or ocean, was again proven when T. W. Stanton discovered marine fossils embedded in the bluffs along Heart river. These are regarded as incontestible proofs of the old claim that a sea once rolled over this region. Stanton is paleontologist of the United States geological survey, and four members of the survey are now located at Almont in the western part of the county making a survey of western Morton. This work was started last year when the eastern part of the county was covered.

FARGO, N. D., IS OBSERVING LABOR DAY.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was an appropriate observance of Labor day in Fargo, with a parade, speeches and a big program of athletic contests this afternoon. The union organizations, barring the open shop by a number of contractors in the building trades, are in excellent condition.

THE WAR FROM DAY TO DAY.

The first two days of the second month of actual fighting developed no decisive results, so far as can be learned from the meager intelligence that comes from the far-flung battle lines.

One thing seems clear: that Germany plans no assault on Paris until it can dispose of the allied armies. It would require most of the German force to take Paris; and no such strength can be applied to the task so long as there are French and English armies loose in France. And despite the precipitous falling back of the French left from the frontier close to Paris, there are just as many allied armies in the field today as there were when the war began.

What shape the campaign in France is taking can only be conjectured. There seems good ground for a theory that the Germans are trying to penetrate the French line to cut off the force that is facing Germany along the line from Toul to Epinal, and that the force thus engaged has been met near Verdun by a French host that according to Berlin is about equal in numbers to the assailing party.

On the allied left the Germans continue to disregard Paris, pushing south and west against the French line which now seems to range from Paris to Verdun. Roughly, the defense now seems to form an acute angle running from Paris to Verdun and thence to Epinal, with the vertex at Verdun.

From the East the news is still more meager and is, moreover, far less reliable. The only certainty that can be deduced from the conflicting reports that come is that no decisive results have been achieved there. It should be remembered, in connection with this conflict in the East, that Russia can mobilize but slowly, and that at the opening of the war experts figured that Russia could not gather her full force much before the first of October. The point of attack that has attracted most notice, that by way of Koenigsberg, seems largely a feint, designed to keep German soldiers busy and to show Russia's intentions. The points to watch in the East, so far as the Russian invasion is concerned, lie between Posen and Thorn and on the line from Koenigshutte to Breslau and Berlin through Southeastern Germany.

The signing by France, England and Russia of a solemn agreement that neither shall make peace without the others, and that when the terms of peace are considered neither shall urge any point not previously agreed upon by all three, adds strength to the belief that present German successes simply increase the probability of a long war, and that the struggle will be far from ended if the Germans take Paris.

Five of the highest type of American newspaper men, including such well known men as John T. McCutcheon and Irwin S. Cobb, sign a statement coming from Aix-la-Chapelle via Berlin that they have been unable to find verification for the many charges of German brutality and cruelty. The character of the statement and the disinterestedness of its signers make it impressive and convincing; and this will be good news to those who have found it hard to believe that Germans, men like the German neighbors all about us, could have been guilty of such atrocities.

Now is the psychological moment for dad to remember how he liked to go to school when he was a boy.

WHAT IS A PROGRESSIVE?

Frederick M. Davenport is the man who was selected by the party committee to be the Bull Moose candidate for governor of New York. As the committee did as it was bidden, so doubtless the party will do as it is bidden in the primaries; and Mr. Davenport will be the Bull Moose leader in the fall election.

In his speech before the committee Mr. Davenport, according to the press reports, "with the utmost frankness and with telling emphasis went back on some of Col. Roosevelt's pet theories, such as the initiative and referendum, the recall and the recall of judiciary decisions in their extreme form."

Here is a man who is against the initiative and referendum; yet he is the candidate of a party that makes the initiative and referendum one of its shibboleths.

He is also against the recall; yet he is the candidate of a party that makes the recall another of its shibboleths.

He is against the recall of judicial decisions; yet he is the candidate of a party to whom the recall of judicial decisions, having come from the mouth of the Progressive of all Progressives, has the sanctity of an utterance from Mount Sinai.

Truly, the politics of these days is too utterly intricate for any amateur to hope to follow—particularly politics as it is brewed by the Head Brewmaster of the Bull Moose party.

Ah there, pennant!

THE WILSON-BRYAN PEACE PLAN.

Thanks to the war in Europe, the senate has ratified eighteen of the twenty-one peace conventions arranged by Secretary Bryan—action that was not expected before the winter session.

While most of the countries with which these treaties have been completed are relatively unimportant, the plan itself is of the highest importance; and it is to be hoped that similar arrangements will speedily be made between this country and every one of the great powers.

"The main purpose of these treaties," said the senate committee on foreign relations in its report, "is to give time for nations engaged in international controversies to reflect and to afford opportunity for subsidence of passion before hostilities shall begin; before the passions of war shall have inflamed a nation an opportunity is given for the influences of peace and reason to prevail. It is believed that the existence of such treaties as these will be most potential in preventing the precipitation of sudden wars such as now exist in Europe."

While the treaties are not all identical in language, they are identical in effect. Here is the language of Article 1 of the convention between the Netherlands and the United States:

> The high contracting parties agree that ALL DISPUTES between them, OF EVERY NATURE WHATEVER, to the settlement of which previous arbitration treaties or agreements do not apply in their terms or are not applied in fact, shall, when diplomatic methods of adjustment have failed, be referred for investigation and report to a permanent international commission; and they agree not to declare war or begin hostilities during such investigation and before the report is submitted.

Article 2 provides that the international commission shall be composed of five members, to be appointed as follows: one from each country by its government; one by each government from some third country; and the fifth by common agreement between the two governments, it being understood that he shall not be a citizen of either country.

The third article requires the commission to report within a year from the date of the beginning of the inquiry, unless the time is extended by mutual consent.

The report will have no binding effect. If the disagreeing nations choose to do so, they can still go to war after the report is in, no matter what its character.

But the commission, bringing an independent and unbiased viewpoint to bear upon the controversy, will bring the actual facts to light. Time for calm consideration of the issues and for a crystalization of public opinion will be given; and this is of the highest importance. Many a war has been precipitated by the hot passions of the moment that never would have afflicted the world if a year of calm thought had been compulsory, as it is between the nations which adopt these treaties.

Roosevelt talked peace and thought war.

Taft talked peace and tried to do something toward it.

The Wilson administration is actually achieving far-reaching steps toward the abolition of war.

An Eastern publishing house is advertising "The Complete Story of the Great European War." There's a fine chance for the news bureaus to scoop themselves.

ONE WAY TO STOP WAR.

In olden days, armies drawn up face to face used often to send out champions to fight for the honor of each army.

It was a proud thing to be chosen as the champion of your army, and to be sent out to take up the gage of battle thrown down by the champion of the enemy.

The device the Kansas City Star proposes as a means of stopping war—or at least minimizing its horrors—reminds us of that picturesque old practice.

Says the Star:

> Some day when the world is wiser the people will prevent war by a very simple expedient. They will merely decree that the men who declare war—the kings and emperors and councils—shall do the fighting. They will set out a couple of hundred of these belligerent gentlemen in an open field, with a couple of hundred of other belligerent gentlemen on the other side. They will arm them with rifles and revolvers and sabers and bombs and tell them to go to it.
>
> And then there will be no war! For if the men who decide on war had to do the actual fighting, the armies would disband tomorrow.

There is no possible doubt about that.

It is wickedly and foolishly wasteful to have the nations striving to see which can expose the most of its priceless humanity to the perils of battle.

The issue could be fought out as well, and the decision made as clearly, if armies of a couple of hundred faced each other as it can when armies of millions are involved.

The enormous saving in armaments would be a blessing to the world.

And most assuredly this excellent practice, which should appeal to the patriotic people of every land, would greatly moderate the enthusiasm for war among the political leaders of the nations.

Also there are people who seem to regard labor as a capital crime.

In spite of the progress it has made, it is evident that the mailed hand was not forwarded by parcel post.

Nobody has risen up to horrify us with the statement that the war is about to raise the price of radium.

LABOR DAY IN THIS COUNTRY.

Now, if ever, should prayers of thanksgiving be the suitable celebration of Labor Day.

In this land labor has problems, to be sure. Though treated more justly than labor ever has been in all the history of the world, labor still has some measure of its full meed of justice yet to be gained.

But discontent can hardly survive a comparison between the situation of labor here and abroad.

Labor here is employed, busy, prosperous.

Labor abroad is stagnant, idle, feeling the pinch of want.

Labor abroad is harnessed in the trappings of militarism, its hands stained with human blood, the blood of its brothers in God; or lies festering in the trenches, with the family at home grouped in sorrow 'round the vacant place at the table that never shall be filled again.

All Europe is an armed camp. The brawn and sinew of Europe is withdrawn from the paths of peaceful, constructive activities and ranked in the awful paths of war. The wheels of the mills stand idle. The busy loom is still. The plow stands forlornly neglected in the furrow. Wages have ceased, and the pitiful pay of the warrior, drawn from the earnings of the poor, fails miserably to fill the place of the pay envelope.

The position of labor in this land is not yet ideal.

But compared with the position of labor in war-fevered Europe it is heavenly.

The mothers, wives and sweethearts of American labor may contrast their lot with the lot of the wives, sweethearts and mothers of battle-plagued Europe, and on bended knee today give thanks to God.

Man never feels the blessing of water until his parched throat cries out in pain for it.

Man never knows the blessing of bread until starvation teaches him the lesson of it.

And man never knows the blessing of peace until the scourge of war blazons upon his heart the realization of the glory of peace.

Labor day in America is a scene of peace and plenty and prosperity.

Labor day in Europe is a scene of desolation and death and woe.

Every gathering of men today in this land should drop to its knees and send up to the throne on high a prayer of thanksgiving for peace.

An Unintended Warning

Editorial in the Indianapolis News.

In his speech at Portland, Me., Mr. Roosevelt, in discussing repeal of the toll exemption clause and the proposed treaty with Colombia, said:

> I was president seven and a half years, and never had to ask any foreign government for help. When I wanted to be sure our country could have peace with every one, I sent the navy around the world. During the last two years we have had a middling clear idea of what treaties on paper mean when there's nothing to back 'em up. I like a treaty, but I want something behind it.

One cannot read those words without a profound sense of thankfulness that the man who spoke them is not today in the White House. They reek with the taint of that militarism that has brought Europe to its present distressful condition. The only idea of peace that Roosevelt has is that which results from our supposed ability to "lick all creation." It would be a great time now to send "the navy around the world," would it not? Long before this, had he been president, we should have had an army in Mexico. Not being willing to "ask any foreign government for 'help,'" he would have spurned the A. B. C. mediation had it been offered—as it would not have been—and thus we should never have had that splendid spirit of fellowship that now binds together the nations of this hemisphere. Roosevelt would have stood like a stone wall in defense of the coastwise monopoly, and so would have chilled the friendship of every commercial nation of the world.

Surely we can all see in the light of the words quoted above, that he belongs to the cowboy era of politics, from which we have, under Mr. Wilson's wise, patriotic and statesmanlike leadership, emerged forever. Providence, it has been said, seems to take special care of children, Americans and drunken men. It is certainly providential that Woodrow Wilson, and not Theodore Roosevelt, is president of the United States at the present time. The portrait that he draws of himself should and will serve as a warning. "As," very truthfully says the New York World, "the country contemplates the results of Rooseveltism in Europe, there is little enthusiasm left for the real article at home." The people of the United States have been greatly sobered by the awful war in Europe. They realize as perhaps they never did before how complete is the dependence, even in free countries, of the happiness and welfare of the people on the wisdom of those in high place. And they are in no mood—never will be again—to take chances.

Mr. Roosevelt further said that during the last two years "we have had a middling clear idea of what treaties on paper mean when there's nothing to back 'em up." But we learned the lesson long before that, namely while Roosevelt was president. Colombia had nothing with which to back up her treaty with us, and so Roosevelt tore it in two. And he says that if he had been president during the last year he would have violated the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. The country, which is today in very truth a world power, and, what is more important, is conducting itself as a world power should, is done with Roughriderism. Roosevelt himself, without at all meaning to do so, displayed the danger signal at Portland. The people will heed it.

"The Centuries Sob With Ceaseless Horror of War"

From Walter Rauschenbusch's "Prayers of the Social Awakening": Oh, Lord, since the first blood of ground that drank it, this earth of Thine has been defiled with the blood of man shed by his brother's hand, and the centuries sob with the ceaseless horror of war. Ever the pride of kings and the covetousness of the strong have driven peaceful nations to slaughter. Ever the songs of the past and the pomp of armies have been used to inflame the passions of the people. Our spirit cries out to Thee in revolt against it, and we know that our righteous anger is answered by Thy holy wrath.

Break Thou the spell of the enchantments that make the nations drunk with the lust of battle and draw them on as willing tools of death. Grant us a quiet and steadfast mind when our own nation clamors for vengeance or aggression. Strengthen our sense of justice and our regard for the equal worth of other peoples and races. Grant to the rulers of nations faith in the possibility of peace through justice, and grant to the common people a new and stern enthusiasm for the cause of peace. Bless our soldiers and sailors for their swift obedience and their willingness to answer to the call of duty, but inspire them none the less with a hatred of war, and may they never for love of private glory or advancement provoke its coming. May our young men still rejoice to die for their country with the valor of their fathers, but teach our age nobler methods of matching our strength and more effective ways of giving our life for the flag.

O thou strong Father of all nations, draw all thy great family together with an increasing sense of our common blood and destiny, that peace may come on earth at last, and Thy sun may shed its light rejoicing on a holy brotherhood of peoples.

One of the Heroes of Peace.

Detroit Free Press: On the Norwegian frontier the other day there was dedicated in the presence of 10,000 persons a Swedish-Norwegian monument of peace. Strange happening when almost within hearing cannon were roaring, musketry volleying, men dying in agonies, nations wrestling in fratricidal hate. Yet not so strange after all, but in wonderfully striking contrast.

Only a few years ago Norway seceded from union with Sweden. King Oscar of the Bernadotte dynasty, a man of gentle soul, patron of religion and art and peace, sat on the throne. It was in his power to launch the army of Sweden against the Norsemen, numerically inferior. With a word of command he might have drenched two countries in blood and tears. There was not wanting those who counseled the shedding of blood, the arbitrament of brute force, the rending of families, the wrecking of homes, the heaping of miseries on women and children. For these are the meanings of war.

But the gentle old man kept the peace. Norway became a separate kingdom in 1905. Haakon VII was elected ruler of Norway. In 1907 Oscar I died and Gustaf V became monarch of Sweden. No word of war or hate has divided the two countries. They separated on political lines. They parted in peace. They have kept the peace. And now they have erected a peace monument to commemorate the peaceful parting made possible by the heroism of Oscar I. For it took genuine heroism to face the division of his kingdoms, the humiliation of dethronement by half of his subjects, and to resist the entreaties of men to whom force and bloodshed are standards of right.

The man who could thus keep the peace deserves to be held in grateful remembrance by the entire world.

It's the Sentiment

Tudor Jenks in Judge.

"Now," she said, "this is a new record of which I am particularly fond, and I want you to tell me what you think of it. The tune is not bad, but that is not what I care about. It's the sentiment—the exquisite fitness of the words to the melody. Listen."

So saying, she wound up the phonograph and touched the starting lever.

Here is the sentiment, as I gathered it from the instrument—right off the griddle, so to speak. The phonograph:

Er-te-er-er-When ther silveer moon so-o bright
Sheds her-r waw-waw-er-waw mystic lit-light,
Then, oh, the-en, er-waw-ker lo-ow,
Through um-kwee-bah lo-ore her so-ot
An' der waw-kaw-um-tur she-en,
With its ah-ah unce so-o gre-en,
As er bridling um-kum-leo
Carn its um-tah in e rtree-ee,
Through the unker-inging ni-ight
In its ess-er-ressing fil-light,
Does ah woo-er-umming dre-eam,
Awaw-esker, oo love se-eem!
Ah-h-um see-em!
Lika dre-eam, er-lika dream!

She stopped the music machine and turned to me with her eyes just chockful of soulfulness.

"Did you ever," she asked me, "hear anything so full of a—a sense of mystery, of the weird unknown?"

I was glad that I could answer with direct truthfulness that I certainly never did.

"So difficult to put into words!" she suggested dreamily.

"To me it seems impossible," I admitted.

Meanwhile she was changing the record and rewinding the spring, and she certainly was a picture as she did it.

"This one," she announced, as she turned it loose, "is just a funny piece of darky talk. But they certainly have caught the real flair, the actual nuance of their psychology."

I put my ears at their most receptive angle, with spinnakers out.

Here is what came out of the box:

Er-er-er-er-er-er-Whan der doozy bam is umming on the flippy lippy an.
Den we da arkles um-um-bizzing wiz zee ol-e-um banan!
Fer der plekanimny's eeping er der farsome, fearsome man.
Pickin' quick, uz-zee-wazzy, on der onterootin banjo.
Oh, Ah love ter hear der umpty dum by the flowin' blowin' anjo!
Oh ha, dem funny days!—oh ha, dem sunny days!
Hidin', bidin', ridin', tidin',
Taka sassy —ole cawassy —aint 'it classy—
Down-n-n-n-n in Jaw-jar!

"That is the real thing, isn't it?" she asked.

"It's certainly amazing to me," was my comment. "One can almost see the hoe cakes patting juba, while the kunjar man puts on the cane brakes!" Then, seeing that she was trying to see the meaning of my remark, I hastened to withdraw it from circulation by the issue of a new one: "It sure does collar the capricorns—to a finish!"

"Yes? The next," she said, "is a Portuguese serenade, sung by the celebrated tenor, Joaa Manuelito y de Nascimento. I hope you won't mind its being in a foreign language. But, after all, the words don't matter so much, do they?"

"Oh, I think I can get the idea quite as well in Portuguese!"

And I did.

Watch and You'll See a Circus.

Madison State Journal: Caught napping by the suddenness of Wilson's move for government-owned ships of peace, the organs of privilege are just beginning to tumble to what it means.

Already they are in a chorus to head it off.

They are quite willing, apparently, that Uncle Sam should own and run the ships of war. After the armor plate and ship-building trusts get through, there is very little profit in them.

But for Uncle Sam to think of owning and running ships of peaceful service is horrible, horrible.

Deprive private greed of this miraculously fine chance to squeeze the home folks and at the same time exploit the foreigners? They fairly froth at the thought. Watch for a few days and see the fits they will throw.

Yet if Uncle Sam can be trusted to carry letters and packages on land, why not bales and barrels at sea?

It is a mighty fine way to keep the food hogs down.

Wilson's Mexican Policy Wins.

Madison State Journal: What do you think now about Wilson's "watchful waiting" policy for Mexico?

Was he not wise?

Suppose he had let the blood and thunder bunch rush into sending our army in, would we not be in a pretty pickle today?

Things have to come to pass as he said they would. Huerta has gone. We were forced into Vera Cruz by a war hungry admiral and lives were lost that had not been in Wilson's plan; but we went no further, and the loss was small compared with what a real invasion would have involved.

The Constitutionalists have won, but the Mexican capital has not been pillaged, nor is the "gringo" as hated as he was. Europe's flare-up finds us free. And, though Mexico may give us trouble yet, it can hardly be as bad as we should have had to face had those of us who scolded Wilson forced our nation into the hornets' nest.

We owe a lot to Wilson's cool, canny, Scotch Presbyterian head.

What if he had been a "big stick" swinging war lord?

Wilson Escapes.

I met a scowling fellow,
With face a billous yellow,
Whose spirit was a concentrated grouch.
The sweetest of his labors
Was swearing at his neighbors
And kicking sister's lap-dog off a couch.
Said I, "Your air's so grim it
Is certainly the limit;
Oh, tell me what this bitterness is for!"
And, with no further parley,
He made the answer snarly,
"I can't blame Woodrow Wilson for the war!

"For days and days and dayses
I've used my hottest phrases
To scarify that person down in Wash.;
With fire from the equator
I've branded him a traitor;
Beside me, Jeremiah was a josh!
I said his occupation
Was ruining the Nation,
A practice which I very much abhor.
But though I holler "Treason!"
I cannot find a reason
For blaming Woodrow Wilson for the war!

"I blamed him for the weather—
It didn't matter whether
The day was stormy, medium or bright.
I blamed him when a Giant
Became a creature pliant
And when the price of food went out of sight.
I blamed him for divorces,
For crooked running horses;
I blamed him for the Irish row, begor!
But now, a victim picking,
I give myself a kicking—
I can't blame Woodrow Wilson for the war!"

Lee and County Option

State Press on His Recent Political Gymnastics.

Surprised at Lee's Flop.

Winnebago Press-News: At a meeting of the Republican state central committee, held in St. Paul, William E. Lee in a speech dodged the county option issue. It was supposed Mr. Lee would come out squarely for county option, and his failure to do so was a surprise. Before the primaries county option was his big plank, and in every speech he featured the county being the unit. Evidently the Republican candidate for governor has seen a great light.

Adopting View He Condemned.

Belle Plaine Herald: Is Candidate Lee trying to dodge on the county option issue? This is the question asked by some of those who heard his remarks at the get-together dinner. County option was the cornerstone of Lee's primary campaign, but at the dinner last week he touched the subject lightly, saying that "the management or suppression of the liquor question is a governmental question and that the people should have a right to vote on it as they please, by precincts, counties or state." This remark left his hearers in doubt as to his views. Some of them contended that the stand he took was not far from that taken by Eberhart in his last two campaigns, which Lee so severely criticized; that people should have the kind of option they want.

'Bout Faced As You Were.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: W. E. Lee pulled down his headliner of county option, taking the very same position that no governor can do more—or less—than ratify the will of the people in that matter. Since then the uproar from those who supported him on the sole ground of his county option declarations has led him to make another change, to the effect that his county option views have not changed.

But it is a poor principle on which to elect a governor, for or against. No governor this state has ever had would have refused to sign a county option law. The legislature must make the law, not the governor. The legislators are the men responsible to the people for the county option situation, not the governor.

Sidetracks County Option.

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: Candidate Lee has sidetracked county option. He may get back to indorsing it again before election day rolls around, but just now he cannot see his way clear to give the proposition his support. Before the primaries he was strongly for county option and received the indorsement of such men as Ole Sageng because of the stand he was taking. We wonder if he thinks he can win the election by assuming the very attitude that defeated Eberhart in the primaries?

Empties His Wagon.

Bagley Herald: By the noise he is making, we believe Billy Lee is running an empty wagon. During the primary, Billy was loaded up with county option, but since his nomination he appears to have unloaded it all. At the meeting of the state Republican committee the other day, Billy gave them to understand (that is judging by the words he used) he was willing to let the people in the different localities to decide this question themselves. That is practically what the law is now—local option. In other words, Billy believes if the majority of the voters in a given locality want it wet, he is willing they should load up to the brim. And if a majority in another locality want it dry then he is willing that they should have a dose of the dry murrain. Billy evidently wants to hold both sides, and the only way he can do it, he thinks, is to straddle the fence. His county option load was all right for the primary, but now it appears, he has shoveled out over half of it, in preparing for the general election.

Rather Jumbled Up.

Gilbert Herald: W. E. Lee's reiteration of his stand on county option supplement by a statement made by Chairman G. B. Bjornson to the effect that not only will "Bill" advocate it on the stump but reccomend it in his message, if elected, has started the hammers going. Some of his committeemen have advanced the opinion that Bjornson was a little too hasty with his supplemental stuff and they want the candidate to put the lid on him. The committee and Mr. Lee's backers are hardly a unit on the county option issue and its use in a positive way is not to the liking of a lot of them.

How Long Will He Stick?

Le Sueur News: William Lee is for county option again. Don't know how long he will stick this time, nor do we care.

A minister in England tells a story to the effect that he was traveling by train one day when a common-looking little man entered. His trousers were tied at the knee with a bit of string, and he carried in his hand a sack, evidently containing tools of some kind. A lady, who was also in the coach, began to talk to him, and among other things asked him what his work was. "I'm breakin' stones," he said, and added that he could make 5 shillings a day at it. This amount of wages surprised the minister and he said: "How do you manage to do it?" "Can you tell 'ow Mr. Gladstone used to make his great speeches?" returned the man by way of reply. The minister and the lady gave it up. Then the countryman said: "I guess 't was because he 'ad the gift fer it, and I've got the gift fer breakin' stones."

In these words of the plain countryman we have the touch of an artist in that he portrayed the real and the true. A valuable lesson can be learned from his declaration. "God's gi'en all a gift, an' we all should use it."

Her Mistake.

Philadelphia Record: "What are you studying now?" asked Mrs. Cumrox.

"We have taken up the subject of molecules," answered her son.

"I hope you will be very attentive and practice constantly," said the mother. "I tried to get your father to wear one, but he could not keep it in his eye."

Twenty Years Ago

From The Herald of this date, 1894.

•••The refugees from the fire at Sandstone have been brought from Superior to Duluth. There were 1,150 people here already, and this makes 1,300 that Duluth has cared for—a pretty good record for a city of this size. Many of the refugees are leaving the city, returning to their homes to begin the work of reconstruction. The total collections of the relief committee in Duluth now foot up about $10,000.

•••M. Daniels of West Duluth has sold his property on Fifty-sixth avenue west to Manuel Richard and will remove from the city.

•••Besides his subscription of $5,000 cash to the relief fund, President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern road has given 5,000 acres of good agricultural lands for the Hinckley survivors. The lands are valued at $8 per acre, or $40,000 in the aggregate, and will be given to these people for homes.

•••A. E. Prudden and family, who for the past six years have been living on the Pacific coast, have returned to Duluth.

•••Peter Moreau, a lad of 13 years, had his right arm injured while playing in the Northern Pacific yards yesterday. He was taken to a hospital and the arm was amputated just below the shoulder.

•••Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Volk arrived yesterday on the steamer India from the East, where they have been since their wedding.

•••Alexander MacRae has returned from a five weeks' visit in Canada.

•••The Duluth murder mystery is solved, so far as the identity of the woman killed on Park Point on Aug. 21 is concerned. She was Lena Olson, a domestic, who met a man named A. A. Austin at a Minneapolis employment office and was enticed to Duluth by him under promise of marriage. She had saved $450 and had part of it with her.

A Prayer for Peace.

The bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, Dr. David H. Greer, has published the following prayer for use in the churches of his diocese during the war:

> O God, Who hast made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, and Who in Thy Holy Word hast taught us that One is Our Father, even God, and that all we are brethren: We pray Thee in this dark hour of international strife that Thou wilt open the eyes of the people, and those who in Thy Name are entrusted with the authority of governance, to see and understand their right and true relation to Thee, and through Thee to one another. Teach them by Thy Spirit that hatred and violence are not strength, but weakness; that the true safeguarding of a nation is not to be found in weapons of war, but in those eternal principles which make for righteousness and truth and brotherhood and peace. Give to those who shall suffer in the war which is raging now the consolation of Thy grace. Heal the sick; comfort the wounded; minister to the dying, and bind up the broken heart. Bring, we pray Thee, to a speedy end this international strife; and hasten the time when peace shall dwell together in unity and love, and war shall be no more. We ask it in the Name of Our Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

Do You Know the Feeling?

Robert M. Gay in the Atlantic: There are times when I grow tired of Socialism and industrialism and syndicalism and Bergonism and Nietzscheism and feminism; times when I do not want to be a reformer or an uplifter or even a public-spirited citizen; when "I do not hunger for a well-stored mind" and am tired of books and of talking about them and of urging others to read them. With much bandying about these become unreal; one is filled with doubt about them, about their very existence, at least about their importance. It is in such moods that one longs for the kitten or puppy, the lilac leaf buds, the bean seedling, the chrysalis, the frog.

The Real Baedeker.

Popular Magazine: An Englishman tells this incident of a trip he took to Russia. With him in his compartment on the train was an exceedingly well-informed German, and the two grew very friendly. Each was a stranger to the other.

They had talked for four hours over a wide range of topics when the Englishman asked the German if he happened to have a Baedeker with him.

It was too much for the warm-hearted Teuton. Bursting with a sudden and overwhelming enthusiasm, he beat his breast with both hands, exclaiming: "Gott in himmel, I am it!"

It was none other than Karl Baedeker himself.

WORLD IS REAPING WHAT IT SOWED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I meet people—good people, so classed at least—everywhere, who cry out against the world war that is now in progress and shudder at the barbarities that accompany it. But why should you be horror-stricken, my good friends, at the event? Teach a child barbarity and you must expect that he will give expression to the knowledge he has acquired from you. Teach him competitive industrial warfare and militarism and sooner or later he will practice what he has learned.

For some centuries you have carefully nurtured the reptile "war" in the bosom of what you please to call "advanced civilization." You, the capitalists of the world, the good folks, the pleasant and prosperous ones, entered the competitive strife for the world's markets; you then seized upon the governments of the various nations in which you live to back you in your competition for trade and you armed the worker in the shop and the peasant in the field that you had first exploited, and trained them as butchers for your retainers.

You crushed and tried to destroy all who questioned the righteousness of your methods. You sneered at wisdom and hushed the voices of the prophets among you who sought to teach you the truth. Yes, you stoned them, as of old, and ground them into the earth and buried them with dishonor and left their graves unmarked.

The handwriting of the Almighty was upon the wall but you saw it not, all because you must have profits and privileges and plunder.

And you have gotten the profits and privileges and plunder and they are yours. You ordered forts and arsenals and armories to be built to protect the loot of your capitalism and the working forces of the world built them for you at your behest and you taxed them to pay for the building. You sought for markets, for world markets, in order that you might sell in them the wares the workers had made for you but could not buy from your storehouses because of their poverty.

But the train had become too great—the world competition between you too fierce and venomous. Your system of social robbery has attained its height; it is breaking down, it must be bolstered up. The war tools having been made they must be used.

Ambition and avarice, twin commanders of your system, have given the word of command and the contending nations moved by you, allowed to act by you—a part of you—rushed to implore the blessing of God, a false god you had created in the minds of men, and then in obedience to the commands of your leaders unlimbered their engines of destruction upon each other, upon the innocent, the virtuous, the helpless. What, you are not satisfied? Does not your own creation please you? Are you discontented with your own handiwork?

Can it be that those dead prophets you stoned into their graves were right and you were wrong? Can it be that the real God of the universe is about to take toll at your gate, too?

Can it be that capitalism, that temple you erected and in which you have these many years worshipped, is collapsing and the sham civilization you reared within it is about to be engulfed in the ruins? It looks so, does it not? Yes, it is so.

You thought you were building something that would stand forever—that would outlast the ages. You built merely a shell.

Your christianity, your civilization, was but a counterfeit of the real teaching of the great Master. You left out the one essential, the co-operative life based upon the real brotherhood of mankind.

You trod each other down in the competitive struggle which you called "the life of trade" and the most cunning and brutal of you survived. Your embittered minds and methods now exhibit themselves on the battlefields of what is to be the world war. You forgot that the Master you falsely worship said, "Behold I show unto you a more excellent way." You also forgot that He said, "He that takes the sword shall perish by the sword." Your time has nearly come. The day that the world shall reckon with you is at hand. But first all you have worked for and toward, the legitimate fruitage of your system must be harvested and the reapers are now in the field. Do not think for a moment that you, Americans, can escape the harvest. The reaping is to be here as well as there in the near future. You cannot escape the world-embracing penalty of your crumbling system of social organization.

It might not be too late yet to save this continent from the war of dissolution if you would understand, but you will not understand.

You are already engaged in grabbing profits from the necessities of your neighbors and consequently you, too, must be engulfed.

And yet you act and talk as if you were not satisfied. Strange!

ARJUNA.

Duluth, Sept. 5.

THE FULL POEM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The following is the poem asked for in Thursday night's paper:

V. C. IRVINE.

Duluth, Sept. 5.

"The Lips That Touch Liquor Shall Never Touch Mine."

You are coming to woo me, but not as of yore
When I hastened to welcome your ring at the door;
For I trusted that he who stood waiting me then
Was the brightest and truest, the noblest of men.
Your lips on my own, when they printed "farewell"
Had never been soiled by the "beverage of hell";
But they come to me now with the bacchanal sign,
And the lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine.

I think of that night in the garden alone,
When in whispers you told me your heart was my own;
That your love in the future should faithfully be
Unshared by another, kept only for me.
Oh, sweet to my soul is the memory still,
Of the lips that met mine when they murmured, "I will."
But now to their pressure no more they incline,
For the lips that touched liquor shall never touch mine.

O, John! How it crushed me, when first in your face
The pen of the "rum fiend" had written "disgrace"
And turned me in silence and tears from that breath,
All poisoned and foul from the chalice of death.
It scattered the hopes I had treasured to last,
It darkened the future and clouded the past,
It shattered my idol and ruined my shrine,
For the lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine.

I loved you, oh, dearer than language can tell,
And you saw it, you proved, you knew it too well!
But the man of my love was far other than he
Who now from the "tap room" comes reeling to me.
In manhood and honor so noble and right,
His heart was so true, and his genius so bright,
And his soul was unstained, unpolluted by wine;
But the lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine.

You promised reform, but I trusted in vain,
Your pledge was but made to be broken again;
And the lover so false to his promises now,
Will not as a husband be true to his vow.
The word must be spoken that bids you depart,
Tho' the effort to speak it will shatter my heart;
Tho' in silence, with blighted affection I pine,
Yet the lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine.

If one spark, in your bosom, of virtue remain,
Go fan it with prayer till it kindles again;
Resolved with "God helping" in future to be
From wine and its follies unshackled and free!
And when you have conquered this foe of your soul,
In manhood and honor beyond its control,
This heart will again beat responsive to thine,
And the lips free from liquor be welcome to mine.

WANTS TO KNOW THE CANDIDATES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you kindly publish in the Open Court column the names of all who are candidates for the Minnesota state legislature this fall, all who are candidates for congress from this state? Thanking you, I remain, yours truly,

THE REAL MEANING.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been considerably interested in the discussion in the Open Court regarding the phrase, "Cead Mille Failthe."

I knew the correct meaning all the time, but being a modest man, I held my peace. My father, who was a Connemara man, has often explained to me that it was a German phrase imported from Hesse Swelbach, Bavaria, into Ireland by Col. Brian Boru and means "A thousand frankfurters."

Yours. THOMAS F. YOUNG.

INDIANS AND THEIR ALLOWANCES

To the Editor of The Herald:

When do the Indians at Grand Marais get their allowances from the government? ANXIOUS.

Duluth, Sept. 5.

The government agent is at Ashland and he makes two trips each year to the Grand Marais reservation for the purpose of giving the Indians their money. Anxious could obtain more information by writing to the Indian agent at Ashland.—The Editor.

HURRAH! HERE IT IS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Here you are:

I'm jealous, I own, of the poisonous wine,
For the lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine.
And I care not how tender his love song may be,
If he's wed to tobacco he shall never wed me.

HAROLD AMUNDSEN.

HERE IT IS AGAIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am somewhat interested by the different comments in the Open Court as to the meaning of the inscription, "Caed Miele Failtha." The proper spelling is "Ceud Mile Failti" and its meaning is a hundred thousand greetings or salutes. My Scotch friend will find the word "failti" over sixty times in the Gaelic Bible, and either the word salute or the word greeting as the English translation in the English Bible, while the word welcome doesn't appear once in the Bible. Yours truly,

C. F. MacMILLAN.

AWAKENING NEW INTEREST IN BIBLE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

One of the immediate results of the Bible Chautauqua tent services, now being conducted by Evangelist Stemple White, is that many people in Duluth have awakened to the fact that there are truths and things in the Bible that they little dreamed of, and that the Word of God is little known, little read and little preached.

The evangelist is reading the truth right out of the Bible in such a simple, plain way that a child can at once grasp it, in all its beauty. Of especial interest are the Bible prophecies, and those symbols in Daniel and the Revelation he illustrates and explains by the Scriptures themselves, and in every instance history says "Amen" to the Bible, because Bible prophecy is but history in advance. The Bible is certainly becoming a new book to many as a result of the Bible Chautauqua tent series now in progress. Give us more prophecy, Mr. White, relative to what God has foretold of the great nations and the war situation.

PEACH STONES AND THEIR USES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I don't know whether the same thing holds true in your house, but at my place of living it is canning time, and peaches are the most recent victims. Result, a pile of peach pits that it seems shameful to let go to waste, but I don't know what to do with them. Is there any use that you know of for such a commodity?

J. T. BISSELL.

Duluth, Sept. 7.

The following recently appeared in the Hanford Sentinel, published at Hanford, Kings county, Cal.:

"A pile of 400 tons of peach pits is stacked on the ground west of the California Fruit Canners' association packing house, and several hundred more tons will be shipped in. Within a few days Los Angeles parties with the necessary machinery will arrive and this immense pile of pits will be cracked, the meats be shipped to Germany, where they will enter into the manufacture of prussic acid and other products, including the processing of the meats to be used in commerce as bitter almonds. The shells will be sold as fuel."

This may not solve your personal problem, but you ask if there is any use for peach pits. The above shows one use to which they are put.—The Editor.

HEALTH TALKS

William Brady, M.D.

Simple Facts About Catarrh

WHAT causes catarrh? The causes are too numerous to mention. But anyway, catarrh is not a disease, only a symptom. The primary significance of the word catarrh is "a flow." As commonly employed the word means an acute or chronic inflammation of a mucous membrane—the lining of any part of the body that communicates with the outer air.

Nasal catarrh is the usual condition. It is symptomatic of some local or general disease. For instance, adenoids and enlarged tonsils cause nasal catarrh. Thickened turbinated bones in the nose cause catarrh. Foreign bodies in the nose cause one-sided catarrh. Tuberculosis, heart disease and kidney disease are often accompanied with chronic nasal catarrh.

Over-eating, excessive clothing, defective ventilation of living rooms or bedrooms, alcoholism and insufficient exercise are predisposing factors of nasal catarrh. Fatigue is rather a factor of acute catarrh—coryza—"cold" in the head.

Practical Physiology.

The nasal passage runs straight backward when the head is held erect, not upward as many imagine. When you use an atomizer, therefore, do not direct the spray toward the roof of the nose, but direct it straight back. And always have the solution warm.

Normally the turbinate, or spongy bones in the nose serve to keep the air suitably moistened, to remove dust and bacteria, and to warm it before it enters the lungs. When chronically inflamed these bodies become thickened and obstruct the nasal passages. Sometimes they require surgical removal. But remember, they are not "growths," but simply inflamed tissue.

Some Necessary Don'ts.

Don't snuff things into the nose. This is dangerous and rarely helps your catarrh. Don't use strong salt water; it irritates and aggravates the trouble. No more than a teaspoonful of salt to the pint of boiled and cooled water should be used. This is about as salty as the tears and no more irritating.

Don't spray strong antiseptics in the nose without a doctor's orders. You may do more harm than good. In chronic catarrh simply alkaline or salt solutions are about as effective as anything for cleansing the nostrils of mucous.

A simple diet which regulates the bowels, wide open bedroom windows, avoidance of coddling, especially about the throat, outdoor exercise and frequent bathing to keep the skin active, will aid in the cure of any case of catarrh.

Question and Answers.

P. T. W. writes: I am a shoe dealer occupied almost wholly at my desk. I am 44 years old, five feet eight inches tall and weight 190 pounds. I have much stomach trouble and belch a great deal of gas. BOXED APPLES WILL BE CHEAP

Fruit Growers of Northwest Make Capital Out of Calamity.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 7.—The finest boxed apples from the fruit districts of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana will be cheap this year. This is the decision of the growers themselves and is announced in the face of the sharp upward tendency of prices for almost all other food products due to the European war.

Westerners claim they can take a tumble and land on their feet more quickly and gracefully than any other people in the world, and they have set out to prove it. Throughout the United States generally the apple crop is considerably larger than last year, and the safety valve which European export markets provided has been cut off. Instead of regarding as a calamity what is under the circumstance an over-production, these growers propose to utilize it to their own future advantage by inducing a "boxed apple habit" among consumers.

Over 8,000 Northwestern growers are now banded together in one marketing organization and have just promulgated prices for their highest grade of apples which are lower than the average prices received for their third and poorest grade last year. They have determined to put their "extra fancy" Northwestern boxed apples, "the kind you can eat in the dark," in direct competition with the barreled apples of the East and Middle West.

THROW THE BRITISH FLAG OVERBOARD

Americans at Baltimore Take Advantage of Captain's Kindness.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 7.—A number of men late yesterday went aboard the British vessel Marmion, lying at the Broadway dock here, while the officers and crew were in the cabins, and threw overboard the British flag. It was recovered later. Previously they had demanded that an American flag be raised, and had been told by the ship's officers that none was on board.

Capt. J. W. Clarke said he would report the occurrence to the British consul, although he did not think the act indicated in any way the sentiment of the populace.

The Marmion had been "dressed" in honor of the "Star Spangled Banner" centennial, and the captain had given orders that visitors to the pier should be permitted to board the vessel.

MOLINEAUX HELD FOR QUEER ACTION.

New York, Sept. 7.—Roland B. Molineaux, who was acquitted in 1902 of the murder of Mrs. Katherine L. Adams after two sensational trials, is detained by the police of Babylon, L. I. Molineaux, who had been undergoing treatment for a nervous breakdown, dashed down the street, it is charged, clad in a bath robe and trousers, and knocked down several pedestrians, including two women. He was finally overpowered.

MAYORS WILL HOLD SAFETY CONGRESS

New York, Sept. 7.—A Safety Congress of Mayors has been called to meet in New York City on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 14 and 15, for the purpose of laying plans and discussing regulations for safety and sanitation in all of the large municipalities of the United States.

The two days on which the mayors will meet are also designated as National Safety days and it is planned that they will be fittingly observed in all cities where there are safety organizations and where safety has been carried on. The Safety Congress of Mayors will be held in connection with the second International Exposition on Safety and Sanitation, which takes place in New York city, Dec. 12-19, under the auspices of the American Museum of Safety. The American Museum of Safety has sent out special invitations to the mayors of all cities with a population of over 25,000, urging them to attend the congress together with the officials of their various municipal departments which have to do with public health, safety and welfare. Assurance has already reached the offices of the museum of safety that the most progressive cities will be represented and a large and enthusiastic gathering is certain.

Weighed in the Balance

In ancient days the ruler of a vast empire having governed his domains most disastrously was called to account, weighed in the balance and found wanting. He had disregarded the laws of God and man. "Drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die" was his slogan. No thought for the future. No concern for the "rainy day." But, even now, in this 20th century, many people are doing just what that poor old king did—forgetting all about the "rainy day." When you order "just" coal, ordinary coal, you certainly have overlooked the comfort and happiness of your home folks. Ordinary, inefficient coal has no business around your house, when Pittsburgh's Pittston, the guaranteed hard coal, is just itching to get on the job. Let Pittsburgh's Pittston show you what fuel economy and fuel comfort is. There'll be no "rainy day" when Pittsburgh's Pittston is on guard at your house. Order today and you'll NOT be weighed and found wanting (by your wife) and, further, you'll get Pittsburgh's unequaled service—prompt, sure, satisfactory. Remember it costs no more. MAKING CHANGE ON STREET CARS

CONDUCTORS REQUIRED TO BE ACCOMMODATING WHEN POSSIBLE

We desire to respectfully call the attention of our patrons to the necessity of providing themselves with change before boarding cars.

Conductors are required to be prepared to furnish change up to the amount of $2.

Some persons appear to have the idea that the offering of any piece of "good money" on a street car is "legal tender" and that upon making such tender they have the right to be carried whether the conductor is able to make change for it or not. This idea is erroneous, as the courts have held that the tender of a $5 bill in payment of a 5-cent fare upon a street car is unreasonable and therefore not a legal tender. It will therefore be seen that a person who gets aboard a street car with nothing less than a $5 bill is in the same position as if he had no money at all, so far as paying his fare is concerned, and that in such cases it is not as unreasonable as it may at first appear for the conductor to politely ask him to step off the car, procure change and take the next car.

INSTRUCTIONS TO CONDUCTORS

But while conductors are not required to furnish change for any sum in excess of $2, they are instructed by the company to do so as an accommodation to passengers when possible. A conductor is required to have $10 in change when first starting out, and it can easily be seen that the changing of $5 bills from two passengers would exhaust this supply. If he accepted two such bills he would be compelled to stop the car and seek change himself while all his passengers waited.

MISTAKES IN CHANGE

When a conductor takes a piece of money from you from which you expect change, and passes on without returning change or audibly calling out the denomination of the money, you should not rely upon his having correctly read it and upon his returning your chance to you later, but should call him back at once.

In order to prevent mistakes in change, misunderstandings and short change complaints, our conductors have been instructed to call out audibly the moment they receive a piece of money from a passenger, the denomination of the coin or bill, the number of fares which they understand are to be taken from it, and the change to be given in return, and to at once count out the change audibly as they hand it to the passenger. Co-operation of our patrons in insisting upon our conductors observing this rule will be greatly appreciated and will greatly assist us in preventing mistakes regarding change.

STATEMENT BY MERRITT

Commissioner Replies to the Answer of Edison Company.

Declares Bonus Offered to the Company Was Unwarranted.

Answering the statement of President A. W. Hartman that the Duluth-Edison company is compelled to reject the city's offer of $1,101,940.54 for its plant and business because the price is wholly inadequate, Commissioner Leonidas Merritt, head of the division of public utilities, has issued a lengthy reply defending the city's position.

Commissioner Merritt declares that there isn't a shadow of a doubt but what the recent appraisal of the property has shown that the physical value is about $908,000. Of this sum he states that several hundred thousand dollars represents apparatus which would be entirely useless to the city and which would be sold for junk if the city acquired the plant. He says that the city can furnish better service with more modern equipment than that now used by the company for less than $600,000.

Referring to the company's assertion that the city's offer is but a fraction of the value of the outstanding securities, including bonds, preferred and common stock aggregating $2,782,000, and that its acceptance would wipe out the stock investment, Commissioner Merritt states that "under present day methods of financing and quoting watered securities, it does not necessarily follow that the original investors have lost anything when their stock is wiped out. Sometimes it means a slice from a pretty good sized melon, and I have no doubt that if the city's offer had been accepted, that if the stockholders had any real equity in the plant, they would receive their share of the melon."

He adds:

"If the owners of the bonds and stock of the present company have spent $2,782,000 in cash for the plant what became of this money and who was it that reaped such enormous profit? It may be possible that the holders of these securities have not heretofore been cognizant of the real value of the plant. If this is true the city has rendered them a service in making the present valuation, the results of which have been furnished to the security holders free of cost. It does not seem to me fair, just and equitable in any way that the present customers, the citizens of Duluth should contribute interest and sinking fund and profits on a paper investment three to four times its actual value to the city.

Sees Lower Rates.

"Personally, I am very glad indeed that the company has turned this offer down, as the result will be that the citizens will eventually receive their service at very much lessened rates, regardless of the fact as to whether the Duluth-Edison stays in business in competition with the city's plant or not. Undoubtedly the company has already reimbursed itself from the earnings of the plant for all its losses on account of inadequacy or obsolescence or for the duplication of portions of its system caused by the consolidation of its plants in its early history. However, if this were not true, there is no earthly reason why the city should pay for something at the present time which does not exist. If I have a structure which has become old and dilapidated so that it has to be torn down and replaced with a new structure, it would be foolish for me to try to sell the property at a price including all of the structures that had ever been erected upon it. If I had not received adequate compensation or returns for the first structure that was demolished it is my own fault, and I would have no right to try to collect its value from subsequent owners who have had no use or benefits from it in any sense."

Estimates Are Fair.

Commissioner Merritt denies that the city's engineers adopted methods in fixing prices which would bring the lowest valuation. He says that they were instructed to be fair and to give the company the benefit of any doubt and that in using the reproduction method they acted in accordance with the best usage and practice of valuation engineers the world over.

He declares that the $200,000 allowed for "going value" represents no property value whatever but has been thrown in by the city as a bonus to the company, showing that the city is willing to pay this amount over and above the real value of the plant for the purpose of not only being fair but to eliminate competition. He points out that in considering "going values" it must be remembered that the company's business has been developed at the expense of its customers, who have borne that cost as well as all other expenses, whether legitimate construction, expense, campaign expense or legal expense. He says that in a municipally-owned plant much of this expense would be eliminated. He adds that although the customers have paid this expense once the commissioners are willing to allow $200,000 as a second payment, defined as "going value."

Earning Capacity Figured.

He states, however, that where people expect to be fair, consideration is given to what the property will earn as well as to what has been paid for it. He asserts that this has been a factor with the engineers in their report, but that it cannot be a controlling consideration, especially where the amount offered is far in excess of its real value and where the earnings are based upon exorbitant rates for the service offered. The commissioner takes exception to the company's statement relative to the service furnished and the low rates. He states that to his personal knowledge the regulation and voltage is not as close as it might be in some of the outlying districts and that as far as his information goes there is no municipal electric light plant in the country but what is operating at a less rate than that previously charged by the company for the service.

In concluding Commissioner Merritt says:

"It is childish for the company to assume or to try to impress upon the customers and taxpayers of the city that the purchase of the plant at an inadequate consideration would hit the city's growth and discourage investors. When we consider the present competitive methods of doing business under the principle ordinarily followed of paying only what you are obliged to, and that those that are considering investment in this city would be discouraged thereby, it does not seem reasonable to suppose that honest investors would be discouraged thereby. Possibly such investors as have invested in the Duluth-Edison plant might be.

Offer Is Liberal.

"As occasion arises the people will be informed through the newspapers of the different aspects in the matter of this valuation, if they so desire, and I am sure that the judgment will be that the offer made was not only based upon a fair estimate made by the engineers, but was largely in excess of what honest business policy would dictate should be paid for the plant. This fact has been evidenced, to my mind, recently by some opposition that developed against the purchase of the plant on the grounds that the price offered was excessive. I find a great many of the citizens of Duluth are unable to understand or realize that any reason whatever exists for the $200,000 bonus added to the physical valuation and included in the offer to the Duluth-Edison company."

COMPARES LABOR'S WAR TO EUROPE'S

Pastor Sees Consumers in the Position of the Belgians.

Rev. Milton Fish, pastor of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, compared the war between capital and labor with that of the battle between the Teutons and allies, the general public being the Belgians, in his sermon on "Two Workers Compared" last night. He said that as long as capital and labor were arranged against each other, just so long would war between them be inevitable.

The pastor scored some of the tactics used by both, but said that some of the acts of the workingmen were to be excused because the world was not to expect the patience of Job of a hungry man looking for a job nor forgiveness from those near the bread line. He said some employes were to be praised for their eagerness to help labor conditions and their generosity toward laborers.

"Capital and labor are symbols of all achievements of our industrial world," he said. "Somewhat inaccurately these terms are used for two classes of wealth producers. Capitalists and manufacturers organize for mutual economy, intercourse and protection. Labor organizes with immense advantages to the crafts.

"But sin is in the world. That which is meant to be good is prevented. Capital and labor organize against each other in mutual distrust. Between these two camps hostility is the chronic state of feeling. War is the inevitable issue that is seen again and again.

"As between the allies and the Teutons so between capital and labor, wholesale condemnations and recriminations are passed. The would-be neutral public suffers impoverishment and compares its lot with that of Belgium."

WILL HOLD BAZAR FOR BUILDING FUND.

The Orpheus Singing society made preliminary plans last evening for holding its annual bazar at the Woodmen hall, Twenty-first avenue west and First street, during the week of Oct. 12. The bazar will be different from other affairs of that kind held in former years.

The committee is headed by William A. Anderson, musical director of the society. The other members are: Henning Orrfalt, secretary; Daniel Myhrman, David Nelson, Linus Olson, A. B. Welander and A. J. Sundquist.

The money raised will go to the fund for the proposed Orpheus clubhouse, which it is planned, will be built next spring on the society's two lots on the northeast corner of Twenty-sixth avenue west and Third street. The plans have been prepared and when sufficient money is on hand, construction work will proceed.

The building will have a frontage of fifty feet on Third street and will be 140 feet deep. It will have three floors. The basement, which will be on a level with Twenty-sixth avenue west, will be arranged for the main auditorium and clubrooms. Under it will be a subbasement for the engine rooms. OVERRULES DEMURRER.

Judge Fesler in district court Saturday afternoon overruled a demurrer which was interposed by the Higgins company and others to the complaint filed by Mrs. Elizabeth Higgins, who has started an action in which she is seeking the dissolution of the Higgins company and the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the assets.

The Higgins company is a holding corporation for the assets of the estate of Frank W. Higgins, former governor of New York, in which plaintiff, a daughter-in-law, owns a two-ninths interest. COUNTERFEITERS' OUTFIT AND THE MEN HELD ON SUSPICION OF OWNING IT

COMPLETE EQUIPMENT FOR MAKING COUNTERFEIT MONEY FOUND IN CAVE ABOVE CENTRAL PARK.

Still denying their guilt, Peter and Matt Niukkonen, the two brothers arrested Friday on a charge of counterfeiting, asked for an examination when arraigned before Capt. Thomas H. Pressnell, United States commissioner for the Duluth district, this morning. The date of the hearing has not yet been set, but will be held some time this week.

The two brothers were brought before Commissioner Pressnell by Frank Sommer, agent of the United States treasury department, who came here Saturday afternoon from St. Paul to take charge of the Federal prisoners. Egbert S. Oakley, assistant government attorney, made out the complaint and appeared against them at the hearing.

Commissioner Pressnell will decide at the hearing this week whether the two brothers will have to appear before the January grand jury of the Federal court, or whether the charges against them are groundless. Should they be convicted they will face a maximum penalty of five years in the Federal prison.

The two brothers were arrested Friday afternoon by Sergeant Hunter of the West end station after which the police found a complete outfit for making counterfeit money in a cave just above Central park. The brothers deny their guilt and claim no knowledge of the outfit in the cave.

MAN MOLDS OWN DESTINY

Dr. Hovis Says We Are Not Victims of Circumstance.

Illustrates Sermon By Allen's Book "As a Man Thinketh."

That man is not entirely a victim of circumstances but is very largely the molder of circumstances, was the idea expressed yesterday morning by Dr. William Forney Hovis, pastor of the Endion M. E. church, in his sermon on "The Divinity That Shapes Our Ends." Dr. Hovis illustrated his discourse by the novel of James Allen, "As a Man Thinketh." The sermon in part follows:

"Right thinking is essential to physical health. There are times when a change of diet is not so important as a change of thought. The body is a very delicate and plastic instrument which responds readily to the action of the processes of the mind. One's thoughts sooner or later leave their imprint on his face. A sour countenance is not an accident; it is a result. A close observer of facial expression can name the thought-habits back of it. Beautiful thoughts invest the features with the charm and grace of sweetness.

"One of the most prevalent defects in human activity is desultory thinking. Emerson once said that it was the hardest thing in the world to get men to think. If I might venture to amend his statement, I would say that harder than to get men to think is to get them to think in a straight line.

Thinking Measure's Worth.

"One's thinking is the measure of his worth—it is the measure of his value among his fellows; it is the criterion of his virtue with his God. His sense of obligation resides within his mind. The responsibility of his actions is charged against his will. One has no religion outside his moods of mind; what he is, is determined by his thinking.

"The importance of right habits of thinking cannot be overvalued. They have to do with health, happiness and prosperity; with character, achievement and peace. They set the bounds of desirable personality and promise heaven after death. They produce calmness, prudence and self-control. They give one poise and balance. They increase reverence and spiritual strength. God is the supreme Intelligence, and man is likest God in the capacity of a thinker. Your character is determined by the uses to which you put your mind. You are neither more nor less than what you think within yourself.

"Hamlet seems to contradict himself, when, after having said to Rosencrans and Guildenstern 'There's nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so,' he says to his friend Horatio:

"'There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will.'

Allen's Point of View.

"Differing somewhat from either of these Shakespearian statements, James Allen, in his little book, 'As a Man Thinketh,' undertakes to elucidate the aphorism, 'As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he,' and contends that it is true of men and women that,

"'They themselves are makers of themselves,' and that the 'divinity that shapes our ends' is in ourselves—in fact, it is one's very self.

"Disraeli had somewhat the same thought in mind when he said, 'Men are not so much the creatures of circumstance, as circumstances are the creatures of men.'

"Life is under the dominion of law and justice. One does not find himself in a given set of circumstances by chance—the soul attracts to itself the things it loves and the things it fears and circumstances are the fruitage of its acts. One does not come to a bad end by the tyranny of fate, neither does one simply happen to be good.

"One cannot directly choose the circumstances of his life, but he can choose his thoughts and thus indirectly, but surely, shape the character of his environment."

How to Look Less Than Your Age

There are three golden rules that every woman who would ward off signs of advancing age, should follow:

1. Cultivate cheerfulness. Those who understand the physiological effect of worrying, know this advice should be taken more seriously than it usually is.

2. Whenever the complexion begins to look worn or withered, use ordinary mercolized wax for a week or two. Apply nightly like cold cream, erasing it mornings with warm water. This gradually absorbs the thin film of surface skin, revealing the fresher and younger skin underneath. An ounce of the wax, obtainable at any drug store, is enough to rejuvenate any complexion.

3. When the tell-tale wrinkles appear, or cheek and chin muscles begin to sag, bathe the face once a day for awhile in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pint of witch hazel. This has a remarkable effect in "firming up" and smoothing out the skin. —Advertisement.

GOSPEL CONTAINS AN ULTIMATUM

Declares Evangelist White in Lecture at Bible Chautauqua Tent.

The Bible Chautauqua tent on West Second street near the Y. M. C. A. was crowded last night by an audience which intently listened to Evangelist Stemple White in his stirring address on the "Seal of God and the Mark of the Beast."

Dealing with prophecy, history and Bible doctrine, and with the use of special colored charts, the blackboard and other illustrations he made the subject very clear to all.

"In these last days," said Mr. White, "while nations are sending their ultimatums to each other just previous to war, God is sending to the whole world, by his remnant, commandment-keeping church, his gospel ultimatum, the last call of mercy to a scoffing world, proud, bold in transgression of the law of God, and steeped in iniquity. That gospel ultimatum is found in Rev. xiv., 9-14, 'If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead or in his hand, the same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God poured out without mixture, into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the lamb.'"

"This is the most solemn warning message that God ever sent to this revolted world, and the winds of strife and trouble have been held in check that the people of God might be sealed in their foreheads. Those who, for any reason whatever, refuse to obey the truth of the Bible as it is in Jesus, but who follow a carnal world in the worship of the beast, image and mark must get drink of the seven last plagues which is yet to be poured out, after probation closes, but before Jesus comes."

Tonight is question-box night at the tent, and tomorrow night's subject will be on the European war, "Is It to Be Armageddon?" Mr. White will deal with this from the standpoint of Bible prophecy, clearly answering in an illustrated manner the question, "Is there to be a one-man power in Europe any more?"

EUROPEAN WAR PASTOR'S TOPIC

Dr. Gebauer Says It Is War of Races for Supremacy.

Dr. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, preached yesterday morning on the causes of the European war. The subject of the sermon was "Occasions and Causes of the Great Conflict."

Dr. Gebauer ridiculed the idea that the war was brought on by any one ruler or any one event. "This war," he said, "is a war of peoples and races in strong competition for supremacy and domination of the world." The situation, he said, had been summed up aptly by Prof. Harry Bushnell Hart of Harvard university as follows:

"'It is not an explanation to say that this king or that emperor or the other presiednt or the prime minister wants the war. Sovereigns nowadays are at their strongest only train dispatchers, who can order a switch thrown in one or another direction. No monarch can go against the spirit of his people. Every country included is united in what is considered a natural war. It is not a war of dynasties or statesmen or military leaders. It is not a war of revenge for Archduke Franz Ferdinand. Questions of trade and markets play a large part in the drama. This is a war of peoples and not of interests.'"

With the French, Dr. Gebauer said there is a strong spirit of revenge which that nation feels toward Germany for taking Alsace and Lorraine forty-four years ago. Every French boy, he declared, is taught that these provinces belong to France and will eventually be taken back at any cost.

Great Britain's motive, he said, was that of maintaining her commercial supremacy.

Germany, he said, fears that Russia will gradualy move down upon her and engulf her. Russia is not simply a nation, btu a continent with vast resources. Germany, he declared, is fighting for her existence and the fate of Germany is tied up with that of Austria.

Despite the terrible conditions brought on by the war, Dr. Gebauer said that he thought the kingdom of Christ was coming. The placing of the Christian ideal above the national ideal, he said, was most needed.

WORLD OWES NOBODY LIVING

But Government Owes Citizens Right to Work, Says Pastor.

"The law of life is industry and the world owes no one a living, but so long as the government regards as expedient the supervision over private ownership, so long must the government guarantee to all men an opportunity to work."

Such was the sentiment expressed by Rev. John W. Hoffman, pastor of the First Methodist church in a Labor day sermon Sunday. Rev. Mr. Hoffman spoke on "The Carpenter."

"The tragedy of the thing," said the pastor, "is that millions are willing to build our railroads, run our engines and mine our ore but comparatively few hold the right of employment. Under present organization the right of employment is based not on physical, mental or moral rights of humanity but upon the ambitions of a few.

"This must not be construed to mean that society must guarantee to every man a living. Christ inculcated the idea that the supreme motive of life must not be personal gain but the advancement of the welfare of society as a whole—in short, service should be the incentive of all our commercial and political life."

WHY GOOD BLOOD IS RED

Why are we continually being told that good blood must be bright red? What has color to do with the quality?

Just this. The oxygen in the air is the great supporter of animal life. One business of the blood is to take oxygen from the air (which it meets in the lungs) and deliver it to the tissues of the body. When the blood, filled with life-sustaining oxygen, is sent out by the heart it is bright red. When it returns, filled with impurities, and deprived of its oxygen, it is dark.

From this it is clear that there are two prime requisites of health, pure air and bright red blood—the pure air to furnish the oxygen, the rich blood to carry it where it is needed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make the blood rich and red because they increase its power to carry oxygen, actually making it so much more able to carry increased life and strength to every organ of the body. Try these tonic pills and note the increased color in cheeks and lips; see how your nerves become steadier, your appetite better, your digestion stronger, your step quicker, your troubles lighter.

"Building Up the Blood" is a handy little book to have. It is free on request from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

SPORTING COMMENT

DARBY and his German Uhlans demolished the outlying fortifications yesterday, and it looks now as if Paris were ours without a struggle.

General O'Brien has fought a gallant fight and won. He was a little slow in mobilizing in the spring. The commissariat gave signs of weakening and falling down along about the eighth of July, but when General Darby began his steady advance pennantwards, the commissariat showed sudden and rapid improvement, as the fan army came to their leader's support. From then on it has been a steady, continuous advance. We silenced Fort William early in the game, and Suprior gave up without a whisper. Then Grand Forks was overrun by our victorious troops, Winona succumbed, Fargo-Moorhead offered little resistance, Virginia paid tribute and only Winnipeg was left between us and the goal. Cunningham and his heavy siege guns turned the trick, and there is nothing left now but to take possession of Pennantville.

One victory in today's skirmishing will turn the trick, whatever the enemy's tactics may be, and tonight peace will be declared with the honors resting on our banners.

Following the occupation of Pennantville today, the Ducal army will be disbanded, and our brave soldiers will be permitted to return to their winter occupations, whether it be teaching the young idea about the new map of Europe, selling silks over the counter, or lightning rods to the farmers.

It was a large day Saturday. Darby's share of the loot was two hundred and fifty iron dollars, which ought to keep coal in the base burner for a few weeks this coming winter. Younger and more ambitious men will find the honor of winning the pennant, and the chance of going into faster company, sufficient reward for a season's fighting, but in the sere and slippered age the clink of the dollars in the bottom of the sugar jar has a comforting sound that is better than fame. Here's hoping Darby may always have one or two to rattle.

WHO will break under the drive to the wire in the National league? She's a grand old race, and it looks like a test of gameness. McGraw's ragged nerves are beginning to show in his complaints. The New York leader sets up the howl that all the other teams are against him. Like the German forces he's fighting the field. That's the way he slants it. What would Muggsy have them all do? Kiss him? Does he think this National league race is a little afternoon tea party? His career in the National has not been mapped out with the idea of making friends. His eyes have been constantly fixed on the pennants, and he has had few scruples about methods in the past. His theory of the game is to win. But when your team hits the rough spots, and the other fellows seem to show a desire to slip the banana skin under your tottering soles, it does seem as if it took the joy out of life. We have met six fans in Duluth who want McGraw to win again this year. They used to live in New York.

POLICEMEN'S NO. 2 TEAM GETS CHESTY

The defi of the No. 2 baseball team of the police department, which was organized Saturday by Sergeant Butchart and which won its first game yesterday afternoon against a Pike Lake team, was accepted this morning by Patrolman Oscar Olson, captain of the regular nine. The date of the game will be decided upon later, Capt. Olson said.

Patrolmen Dunham and Root, batteries for the No. 1 team, who played with the No. 2 nine yesterday and who, it was thought, had jumped to the outlaw organization, are again back with the regulars and will play in the game for the honors of the police department. Capt. Olson said this morning that he had merely loaned his battery to the No. 2 team, but that, in the event of a game between the two teams, his men will play with him.

Sergeant Butchart organized the No. 2 team Saturday to play against the Pike Lake team yesterday, and following the unexpected victory over the latter by the score of 5 to 3, the defi against the regular team was issued. The new organization is confident of being able to defeat the regulars and a real exciting game is expected. Capt. Olson has left the time and place with Sergeant Butchart and his cohorts.

The game yesterday between the No. 2 team and the Pike Lake nine was played at Pike Lake. The line-up of the officers was as follows:

Dunham, catcher; Root, pitcher; Detective Toewe, first base; Honnold, second base; Harwood, third base; Boland, shortstop; P. Barber, left field; Kreager, center field, and Ecker, right field. The Pike Lake players were: Brown, Peecor, Daniels, Lindberg, Peterson, Oleman, Koljeski, Nicholson and Rosseter.

GUNS ARE POPPING.

Many Nimrods Open Hunting Season in North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—With several thousand shooters in the field today, direct assaults and flank movements of all kinds are being made on the prairie chickens, grouse and wild ducks. Last year 34,000 licenses were sold. This year it is expected the number will be at least that many, and it is estimated that nearly all of them will be afield today. Many hunting parties started out Saturday to reach favorite locations, and thousands of autos went out yesterday afternoon taking hunters to their vantage points for an early onslaught this morning. Except a strip along the Red River valley, there is a large crop of prairie chickens over the state, and the wild ducks are more numerous than in any former year since statehood.

DOOKS TAKE BOTH GAMES BEFORE IMMENSE CROWD

Virginia Is Unable to Stop Darby's Men in Pennant Fight.

Last Games of the Season Will Decide 1914 Title.

The Dooks yesterday took an extra hitch on the pennant chances when they won both games of the double-header with Virginia. The score in the first game was 5 to 2 and in the second 5 to 1.

One game today will bring the pennat to Athletic park. If Duluth wins one of the contests the flag is ours, no matter what Winnipeg does.

About 3,000 fans saw the game yesterday and it is safe to say that the baseball fever in this city today is at its height. The Dooks had to fight hard for the first game as Virginia contested it at every stage. Cunningham was in great shape and the way the team supported him was great. In the sixth inning there was a little hitting that won the game. Up until that frame Duluth had not had a hit as Furchner was pitching an excellent game.

Brackett Starts Rally.

Brackett was the first man up in the sixth. He walloped out a two-base hit to center field. Croake beat out an infield hit and took second on a passed ball. Bond flew out but Collins hit safely and scored the two men ahead of him. When Furchner tried to catch him off second, after he had stolen, he threw wild and Collins rambled home. At this stage in the game the crowd went wild with enthusiasm as Virginia had two scores and the Dooks took the lead. In the eighth the Dooks scored two more, which were the final runs of the game.

In the second game Withers had the Virginians at his mercy. In the third inning he started in to win his own game with a hit. Brackett followed him with a walk and Croake singled, scoring Withers. Bond scored Brackett with a hit to right and Croake was thrown out at the plate. Collins cleared the bases with a two-bagger and Ford scored Collins with a single. In the fourth inning O'Brien scored. Virginia scored in the seventh on three singles and an error.

Darby O'Brien and his men showed their appreciation of the ovation given them by the Duluth baseball fans Saturday when they beat Virginia 6 to 4. About 2,500 attended the game. Ezell tightened up at the right time and saved the Dooks from what looked like defeat at one stage in the game. Things looked bad in the first when the bases were filled on two scratch hits and a sacrifice that went safe. A walk forced in a run. In the fourth Virginia scored two more and it looked bad for Darby day. The Dooks tied it in the fifth but in the sixth Virginia went ahead again. In the seventh the Dooks tightened up and got the runs that won the game.

When it came time to present Darby with his little purse and loving cup Harry Bloom and Umpire Elliot pulled off a little frameup on the Dook. He got into an argument with Elliot and the umpire ordered him off the field. He called a big harness cop to enforce his orders and Darby was marched up before the grand stand. Mayor Prince made the presentation of the purse, which amounted to $250, given by Harry Bloom. Darby gracefully accepted the kale and a beautiful loving cup.

In the field meet George Cunningham won the fungo hitting contest and the 100-yard dash. Ezell won the long throw and Collins won the base running prize.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

LA FOLLETTE IS FOR KAREL

That Is Political Gossip Current Among Milwaukee Politicians.

Private Secretary John Hannan Said to Have Given Such Advice.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 7.—Piqued over the defeat of Tom Morris, his candidate for governor in the late primaries, Senator R. M. La Follette is reported to favor the candidacy of John C. Karel, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, in preference to Emanuel L. Phillips, the regularly nominated Republican candidate, according to current political gossip.

It is said that before returning to Washington, Col. John Hannan, the senator's secretary, conferred with intimate La Follette men here and passed the word that the only hope of the Progressives of the La Follette type lay in the chance of the election of Judge Karel; that then in two years the La Follette men would come out like a Sheridan twenty miles away and undertake the saving of the Republican party in the state.

No Independent Ticket.

It is believed that there will be no independent La Follette ticket either for governor or for senator. Mr. La Follette, it is said, realizes the hopelessness of such a course, recognizing that it would mean a worse humiliation than he and his followers received from the candidacy of A. H. Dahl. An independent candidate would be hampered from the beginning, because of the irregularity of his name on the ballot, and the further fact that an independent is often regarded by many voters as a sorehead.

NIMROD, AGED 88, GETS HUNTING LICENSE.

Waupaca, Wis., Sept. 7.—W. C. Eastmann is probably the oldest hunter in the county, if not in the state. He was given License No. 157,781. Mr. Eastman is an inmate in the Wisconsin Veterans' home. He is 88 years old.

FIRST POLITICAL SPEECHES ARE MADE

North Dakota Democrats and Bull Moosers Open Campaigns.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The political campaign was officially opened in North Dakota today by the Democrats and the Bull Moosers.

W. T. Purcell and F. O. Hellstrom, candidates for the senate and the governorship on the Democratic ticket, began their campaign with addresses in Fargo, and during the rest of the week, with the local candidates, will cover every town in Cass county, for which an automobile tour has been arranged.

The Bull Moosers also started with H. H. Aaker, candidate for governor, and Johnson of Dennybrook, from here, and Silver Serumgaard of Devils Lake and D. H. Carroll of Minot, who seek the senatorship and the attorney generalship, out from the northern part of the state. These four, with other speakers, will cover the entire state before election.

LOSES HIS LIFE WHILE DIGGING WELL.

Bremen, N. D., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Going down into a well after a dynamite charge had been set off and before the gas had risen, proved fatal to John W. Johnson of Illinois. He was working with a well drilling crew when a stone was struck by the drill. The dynamite was set off and he went down to remove the pieces of stone and was overcome by gas. The first man who endeavored to rescue him failed, but another was successful. Johnson was still alive when brought to the surface, but died a short time afterwards.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS UNHURT IN RUNAWAY

Thrown From Conveyance Near Lidgerwood, N. D., Escaping Injury.

Lidgerwood, N. D., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A thrilling ride was experienced by two small daughters of John Kuehn, who came to town for some goods, accompanied by the children, when his team ran away as he was preparing to start home. The little girls were alone in the wagon. At the Great Northern crossing one was thrown out and severely shaken up. The other fell back of the seat into the wagon box and remained there safely till the wagon was overturned four miles from the town. When rescuers arrived on the scene they found the child underneath the wagon box sound asleep, and the only evidence of injury was two or three bruised spots.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Sept. 7.—The track-laying crew of the Northwestern Electric railway has reached Goodridge, which is as far as the road will be built this year. To what extent the road will be extended next year has not been fully decided but it is an assured fact that the mileage will be at least doubled by next fall. The twenty miles that is now laid will not be ready to handle business for a week or ten days, as it must be ballasted, side tracks put in, etc.

PUBLICITY

Sure Cure for Corporate Diseases.

As Necessary as Light and Air in Hospitals.

The startling disclosures of corporate mismanagement in the last ten years have brought about a general feeling that publicity of corporation affairs is both necessary and desirable for the future well-being of all corporations. This publicity may be affected in many ways and should give the public as well as the stockholders such information as will eliminate all possible chance for corruption and mismanagement.

In the past, managers of some corporations have operated their business in a more or less arrogant fashion, persistently refusing to make their acts known to the public or even to their stockholders. In most instances if these operations had been made public at the time, many of the ills from which they are now suffering would not have occurred, and millions of dollars of investment would have been saved.

The effect of corporate mismanagement is greatly magnified, however, when its discovery comes too late by governmental investigation. Generally speaking, if the facts were voluntarily made public, or if they were made known through established methods of publicity, in the regular course of business, the mismanagement of the corporation would never occur or it could be remedied immediately and the bad effect of it would be comparatively small.

And so it is with many houses of business—in the field of commerce and manufacture. They are afraid of publicity—afraid to have their factories examined and to let purchasers verify statements or facts concerning the goods. The only conclusion to be reached in such case is that the manufacturer has something to conceal, which, if discovered, would not bear out his assertions.

Publicity in relation to all business matters is the best cure for their evils, just as light and air kill the germs of disease.

RECORD ATTENDANCE ON CONCLUDING DAY

Last Day of St. Louis County Fair Breaks All Records.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The records for attendance any one day at the St. Louis county fair were broken yesterday when a larger crowd went through the gates than on any two previous days, the total attendance being 7,000, or even more. This closed the fair, which has been very successful. The exhibits especially of farm products were beyond doubt the best ever made here. The judges are getting their reports ready and will announce results in a few days.

A special train from Grand Rapids yesterday brought many visitors. So did a special from the Vermilion range. A parade of the massed bands made a fine showing.

Wiski Wins Free-for-All.

In the races, Peter Wiski took the free-for-all, the best time being 2:21 flat. Zip Bang was second and Ashland Lockheart third. Grace Red copped the 2:22 trot or pace in easy fashion, rounding the oval twice in 2:29. Second money went to Fanny Slope and third to Loretta Lockheart. In the three-quarter mile run, Little Chub won easily in 1:16.

A bull got scared at the bands playing at the grounds during the stock parade and three people were slightly injured before the animal could be tamed.

Aviator Thompson furnished the crowds with further thrillers, being in the air twelve minutes or so and going through all kinds of stunts.

In the hub and hub race, the Oliver team of Virginia won over the Buhl firemen in seventeen seconds.

HIBBING NIMRODS ARE AFTER GAME

One Party to Try Out Device for Walking on Boggy Land.

Hibbing, Minn., Sept. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many Hibbing sportsmen were in the fields and at the lakes when the season for grouse, prairie chickens and ducks opened. Several parties left Sunday for more distant hunting fields and many others are taking advantage of the holiday today to seek game near home.

E. A. Middlemis, Dr. F. W. Bullen, John Kleffman, John Redfern, Herman Kohrt, Dr. Phillip Thomas and Mr. Diedrich left Sunday for Fosston, where they will hunt chickens and ducks and incidentally try out an invention of Mr. Kleffman's which they believe will facilitate hunting and the recovery of game on boggy land. It consists of a pair of bog shoes, which in reality are a pair of small boats that the hunter will wear strapped to his feet. It is said that they will support a man on soft ground and that they can even be used safely on water, as was proved recently by a trial on Kelly lake. The party will take a boat and a complete outfit of decoys, which will be left at the lake for use on other trips later in the season.

Another party, consisting of the following, left Sunday for Badger in quest of prairie chickens: F. A. Holliday, "Dusty" Rhodes, Sam Micka, Gilbert Hepworth, Dr. S. S. Blacklock, H. C. Hanson, W. J. West of this city, J. C. Sebenius of Duluth and Philip Floof of Chisholm.

AFTER DUCKS AND CHICKENS

Duluth Sportsmen Take Advantage of First Hunting of Year.

Duck Flights Not Begun---Dogs Needed for Chicken Shooting.

The first installment of the hunting season opened today, with hundreds of nimrods, including scores of Duluthians, on the jump to get a bag of the feathered prizes.

Guns will be trained principally upon prairie chickens, with ducks a poor second. Turtle dove, snipe, pinnated, white-breasted or short-tailed grouse, woodcock, upland and golden plover may also be legally killed until Nov. 7, when the season closes for all birds named except ducks and other aquatic fowl, which may be shot until Dec. 1.

The outgoing trains Saturday, yesterday and today carried numerous hunting parties fully equipped for the field, of which equipment well-trained dogs of almost human intelligence were a most important factor. For without the keen noses of the dogs to lead them to their quarry the bags would indeed be slim. The prairie chickens are so colored that they harmonize with the landscape and without dogs hunting them would be a game of pot luck. The hunter would be compelled to tramp miles on miles, taking chances of scaring up a covey and getting what he could out of it. With a dog his efforts are confined to watching to see if he comes to a point and then coming up from behind with his gun ready to bark the instant the bird takes wing. A dog will go through a good-sized field in short order and if he finds it barren the hunter continues on to the next likely looking spot.

Few Ducks Yet.

Most of the nimrods in this part of the state are after the chickens for the reason that the duck hunting will not be at its best until the cold weather arrives. When the freeze-up comes and the strong-winged birds can no longer linger in the northern rice beds, the big southward flight will begin. And then the enthusiastic duck hunter will seek his blind on a chosen pass and be the weather as it may, cold, sleety, drizzly or stormy, wait with his gun in his numbed fingers for the mallard or bluebill or whichever variety it may happen to be, to come his way. There also the faithful dog plans a leading role, for many is the bag which would be nearly empty were it not for the ready and willing retriever that is always on the job. At present the only ducks which can be shot are the local ducks, which have been frequenting nearby feeding grounds, but these are not being overlooked. Although the number out after ducks is small by comparison with those after chickens, they make up a very big party.

Some of the Hunters.

Some of the Duluth hunters have gone up the St. Louis river, where many ducks have been spending the summer, and others have gone to Rice lake and other lakes and rivers with rice beds. But the majority have gone to the country about McGregor, where the Northwestern Gun club has a hunting lodge, or to the grounds tributary to Barker, Carlton, Brainerd and other towns along the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern. Among the local sportsmen, in addition to the list published Saturday, who are trying their luck with the feathered tribe today are Otto and Herman Kalkbrenner, John Peterson, Hugo Eisenach, Frank Russell, Alex Schubisky, Ed. Krause, Carl Hassinger, Fred Dryer, Julius Dworschak, Frank Story, John Oakes, Sr., Wolf, Schwartz, Charles Krelwitz, John Woid, M. Monson, Dr. Abbett, Dr. Floyd F. Clark, Oliver Quick, Phil Pastoret, Al Arnson, Phil Budden, Jake Patchkowski and Bob Bartholomew. Many others are out as the county auditor issued seventy-one licenses Saturday and many others have been issued at hardware stores.

The season for partridge, ruffed grouse, quail and pheasant opens Oct. 1 and continues until Dec. 1. The big game season opens Nov. 10 and continues until Dec. 1. Woodsmen say that game of all kinds is plentiful and the hunters are expecting the most successful season of years.

TOURIST CROWD INVADES DULUTH

One of the last as well as one of the largest tourist parties of the season arrived in Duluth this morning on the steamer Tionesta in charge of John F. McCoy of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. Seventy had arranged for the trip, but only forty were on hand when the excursion started at Philadelphia. Many of those who had planned to go are now abroad unable to get to the United States.

The party is making its headquarters at the Spalding hotel and will remain here until after luncheon tomorrow. Mr. McCoy said this morning that the party was making a trip on the Great Lakes and that stops are being made at the principal ports. He agreed that it was "cool in Duluth" and that his straw hat was a little unsuited to the September weather. So far, however, he said that no one had followed out Mayor Prince's edict to do away with straw lids after Sept. 1.

The excursionists plan to take the boulevard drive and see Duluth from one end to the other.

GOOD SAMARITAN CHARGES ROBBERY

R. F. Wilson befriended a stranger Saturday and discovered later that the latter had robbed him of $90. He is the latest Samaritan to fall a victim to the old game.

But Wilson immediately reported his loss to the police and in the evening Arteau Edyvean, 28 years old, was arrested on a charge of grand larceny. He is accused of having stolen the money from Wilson, while the two were looking for work in New Duluth. Edyvean will be arraigned before Judge Windom tomorrow morning.

According to Wilson's story, he met Edyvean in a camp north of Duluth and they both came here Friday. He told the police that Wilson claimed he was out of funds and that he then befriended the latter, loaning him money for food and lodging. On Saturday the two went to New Duluth in search of work and while there, Wilson claims he was robbed.

POLICE ROUSE PRISONERS EARLY

Although today is a holiday, the twenty-three prisoners at police headquarters were compelled to break their slumbers at an unearthly hour, just because the court convened at 8 o'clock, nearly two hours earlier than usual.

At first the prisoners objected, but Jailor Johnson became insistent and the men all filed into the court room, a sad looking group. They were tired and in need of more sleep they declared.

But Judge Windom dealt lightly with the prisoners and gave them all suspended sentences, with three exceptions. These were accused of begging and being drunk more than twice, and they got short terms at the work farm. At 8:30 o'clock the court had finished with the regular grist and Judge Windom adjourned court until tomorrow morning.

TRAINS TO THE FAIR CARRY EXTRA CARS

All railroads running between Duluth and the Twin Cities have been carrying extra passenger equipment since Saturday afternoon, to take care of the crowds going to the Minnesota state fair. The roads are carrying from two to three extra coaches on the day trains and a couple of extra sleepers on the night trains. There are also extra parlor cars on the day runs. Ticket agents report a heavy travel to the fair and the extra equipment will be kept on all week. Friday is expected to be a heavy day as many will go down to the automobile races from here.

John Smith of Cass Lake, the Indian chief who is believed to be the oldest man in the state, went down last night on the Soo line. Smith says he is 127 years old.

J. P. Gehrey, district passenger agent of the Soo, said he offered the old warrior a berth but that the chieftain would not take a chance on one. The old man never uses a bed and he said the regular passenger coach would do him. He is on his way to the state fair with two of his grandsons.

ATTENDS CLAN MEET.

A. G. McKnight Represents Duluth Lodge at Boston.

A. G. McKnight, royal counsellor of the Order of Scottish Clans, left Saturday evening for Boston, where he will attend a meeting of the executive committee of the national organization. The meeting will be held today.

The entire executive committee except Past Chief John Hill of St. Louis, who was caught in Germany at the outbreak of the war, will be present at the big picnic of the United Clans of Boston, which will be held tomorrow. The fact that the royal officers will be present will make the picnic a national event.

The royal officers will be the guests of a prominent New England Scotsman at a banquet this evening. Royal Chief A. G. Findlay, who has visited Duluth several times, will preside.

Many of the members of the order belong to the reserves of Great Britain and have been called to the front. The problem of taking care of their dependents is one that will have to be faced by the clans, and this matter will also receive the attention of the executive council.

Drowned Man Identified.

The body of the man who was drowned Friday at the Northwestern dock No. 3, was identified Saturday afternoon as that of Michael Poultin, a laborer living at Banks and Broadway. His wife who was distracted because of the failure of her husband to come home as usual was induced to go to the morgue to view the body and identified it as that of her husband. The man is believed to have become suddenly ill while returning home from work. He leaves two small children. The funeral was held this morning.

Burglar Sentenced.

Joseph Schmitt, who was arrested early in the week while burglarizing a saloon, pleaded guilty to burglary before Judge Charles Smith of the Superior court Saturday afternoon. He was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary at Waupun. A deputy sheriff left this morning for the penitentiary with the prisoner.

STEEL TRADE MORE ACTIVE

Export Orders Being Received From Great Britain and Australia.

South American Consumers Opening Bank Credits With This Country.

Conditions are steadily improving in the iron and steel trade, according to leading authorities. It is said that American manufacturers are receiving an unprecedented number of inquiries from foreign sources, and that a fair volume of orders is materializing.

The United States Steel corporation with its complete machinery for handling exports, has naturally closed up the bulk of the outside business done, says the Iron Age. No figures are given, but it is said that sales during the last ten days include plates, skelp, structural steel, wire rods, sheets and tin plates, fence wire and wire nails. In one case a plate order for 12,000 tons came from Australia that had been originally placed with a German concern at $7 a ton lower price. Good prices are being realized on this foreign business now that German competition is out of the way. A sale of 1,000 tons of wire nails was made to England at $1.80 Pittsburg, plus extras, and one of 1,000 tons of wire rods at $27, Pittsburg.

Independent steel companies in common with the Steel corporation, are receiving inquiries for prices on export material, and taken on the whole, the steel mills of the country are estimated to be operating on a basis of around 65 per cent of capacity.

Good Business in Sight.

Railroad orders placed during the past week were light, but the companies aver that inquiries are improving and considerable business is in sight in both rails and equipment. The checking up of the grain movement in the Southwest and the tendency on the part of growers to hold their wheat, has, it is said, enabled the railroads to defer the buying of cars that would otherwise have been necessary had the marketing continued as active as it started out in July. Equipment makers are optimistic regarding the future, feeling that the railroads must shortly come into the market for materials and equipment on a larger scale than they have in the last two years.

Speaking of the war and its influences, the head of a large car-making company said: "German, Belgian and English competition will be removed for years to come. After the war railroads all over the world, but especially in Europe, will need new equipment. This country is the only place they will be able to get it, and we will have the trade of practically the whole world. Though business is dull at present, I think we will be booming along on the wings of prosperity next year."

South Americans in Market.

Commenting on the situation, the Wall Street Journal says: "Prices are firm and there are indications that higher quotations will be made before long. With all foreign competition out of the way, not only for the next few months, but possibly for years American manufacturers will be able to get prices on a profitable basis.

"Not only have domestic consumers shown a better buying demand in the last five weeks or so, but foreign buyers are actively in our market for a large total of finished steel. Prices on shipments abroad are now somewhat higher than those ruling for domestic buying and several good orders, taken by European mills before the war started, have been cancelled and given to American makers. Large consumers in South America and Australia have begun to establish bank credits in New York, though they formerly used Europe. According to local steel men, this trade will be a permanent feature of our trade and is the beginning of new fields of export trade."
